SCOTCH THESE RACKETS!

Publishers throughout the counare being urged to warn their readers of the rackets springing up within the last few months, chiefly aimed at the families of servicemen. First and foremost do not sign anything nor give money to anyone you do not personally know. Some of the "gyp" plans are summed up briefly in the few paragraphs below:

Most vicious of the wartime rackets is the photo game. A solicitor calls after scanning casualty lists and tells the sorrowing parents that he wants to give them a free enlargement of their son, just reported killed in action. He takes the one photo they love, and shortly returns with a fine enlargement, in a swanky looking frame. Sure, he will give the enlargement so it will advertise his work among friends of the family. BUT-you pay $15 for the frame. You can buy a better frame for 98 cents in almost any local store.

Next is the COD racket. Again a sorrowing family is the goat. Some slicker returns, COD, a badly rusted pin, insignia or maybe fountain pen, which he claims the soldier entrusted to him. His expenses of $5—the COD fee—will just square accounts. Another "catchy" one is to send some cheap article COD with the accompanying letter stating the soldier had ordered it just before he was killed in action.

The clipping bureau racket is another. They subscribe to our paper, let's say, then clip out any item concerning your son. They write you that they have an important news item of your son, for which 75 cents is asked. You finally get it-just what you read in your home paper weeks before.

surance rackets. A suave gent flashes a policy, which he says the dead soldier had just taken out. All the family has to do is to pay $50 or maybe $250, to bring premiums up to date, then they will collect the $1,000 face value of the policy. You pay the premiums asked for, and then you wait, and wait. Many are still waiting.

One woman took her soldier son's allotments to buy a business. She then found the lease ran out in 60 days and that the building had been rented to another party.

Beware the program and memorial booklet rackets. You subscribe -in advance-for a handsome souvenir booklet showing all the community's men and women in the service. That's all you get-the receipt for the $2.50 or $5 you pay, for the book is never printed.

Seeing Eye dogs are sometimes used as bait-but the federal government permits no solicitation for their purchase and generously buys these dogs, trains them, and turns them over to the blind for a fee of $1.

Vacuum cleaners or washers, too, are brought into the picture. Some slick talker asks to examine your appliance-claims he's direct from the factory. He finds a "valuable" part about worn out, and will take it to his shop and put it in A-1 condition for $3. He does-but keeps right on going to the next town, where he sells it for all he can get. You never see it again.

Then add on those "games" you know of yourself-encyclopedias, yarns, hearing aids, auto gadgets to increase mileage, etc.

On top of all this, the government again emphasizes the caution in cashing government checks for strangers. Allotment checks are stolen and fake letters made up to make it appear the credentials are O. K. Beware. Also endorse the checks you receive and deposit or ash them promptly. Never allow em to remain in the home long, nether you endorse them or not.

Your local merchants usually have anything these outsiders may offer, and you get what you pay for .- Mountain View (Calif.) Register-Leader.

PARRENT-SKORNICKI WEDDING RITES READ AT SHEETWATER

Miss Lou Ella Parrent and Corporal George Michael Skornicki were married Saturday, June 23 at 8 p. m. in a double ring ceremony at the Catholic parsonage in Sweetwater with Rev. Joseph Balleran officiating.

Maid of honor was Miss Mary Jane Haggard, who wore a pink eyelet embroidery dress with blue accessories. Her corsage was of white gladiolas and pink carna-

Best man was Pfc. Richard Spettel of Avenger Field, Sweetwater. Other attendants were Mrs. Thomas Murray and Cpl. Louis Zicardic.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Parrent of this place. She wore a light blue twopiece shantung dress with white insertions and white accessories. Her corsage was of pink carnations centered with a white rose.

Mrs. Skornicki is a 1941 graduate of the Eldorado High School and a graduate both of operations and managerial classes of Western Union Training School at Springfield, Mo. She was for some time manager of the Eastland, Texas, office and for the past eight months has been assigned to Sweetwater, Texas, as a book-

The groom is the son of Mrs. Frances Skornicki, 3204 Schley Ave., Bronx, New York City. He is a graduate of Christopher Columbus High School Bronx, New York. Before entering the service he was an employee of a New York City beverage company, and is at present assigned to Avenger Field.

The couple are now at home at 704 East Third St., Sweetwater.
