COLORADO RANCHER SUICIDES

G. R. CONRAD 46, IS FOUND KILLS SELF

Body, Gun Nearby, Discovered in Hotel

COLORADO, Texas, July 12 (AP)—George R. Conrad, 46, Fort Worth and Colorado ranchman, was found dead in a hotel room here today. His body was on the floor in a pool of blood and a bullet wound in the head. A revolver was found near.

Indications were the shot was fired while Conrad was sitting on his bed. The body was face down.

Justice of the Peace Kirk Taylor rendered a verdict of suicide.

Persons in the hotel recalled they heard a shot early last night.

The Salvation Army, which is organizing a Life-Saving Guard, carried 11 girls, the first members of the group, for a picnic at City Park, Friday evening.

Girls wishing to join the Guard are invited to be at army headquarters Wednesday, 7 p. m. The picnic is 2 1/2 West Third street.

The party went to the park in a truck donated for the purpose by the Cleere Smith Lumber company. Other firms and individuals donating food and other necessities for a picnic were Helye Selby, Holm Poku, Clarence Saunders, Dr. Pepper and J. E. Kuykendall.

Girls 11 to 18 years of age are eligible to enter the Life-Saving Guard.

Texas U. Athlete's Body Discovered

AUSTIN, Tex., July 12 (AP)—A verdict of accidental drowning was returned here this afternoon by Justice Frank Tannehill in the death of John Henry, 22, star track athlete of the University of Texas, whose partially decomposed body was taken from the Colorado river this morning.

Henry was the son of Judge Stanhope Henry of Navasota, a member of the state board of pardons and paroles. He had been missing from his home Thursday evening. Members of the family stated they believed he had gone to San Antonio or San Marcos for a visit.

Justice Tannehill stated there was no evidence of foul play and nothing to indicate the youth had committed suicide.

The family physician told investigating officials the youth had been ill for several days before he left on the trip.

Mrs. Henry, who was recovering from a nervous breakdown, was reported to be in a grave condition tonight as a result of a relapse suffered when she was informed of her son's death.

Memorial To Curt Members Is Planned

AUSTIN, July 12 (AP)—A proposal to erect a memorial on the grounds of the state capitol in honor of the supreme court of Texas was laid before the state board of control and Governor Dan Moody today by Edward C. Meeks of Dallas, representing the state bar association, sponsor of the project.

The monument, which would surpass anything on the grounds in size, would be built at a cost of approximately $40,000. The monument would be 35 feet long by 25 wide, and would consist of a bronze or marble statue of a woman, depicting justice, against a background of stone. Names of Justices Lipscomb, Wheeler and Hemphill, the first three judges of the court, would be engraved on the front of the stone, and on the sides would be the names of all supreme court and criminal court of appeals justices.

The bar association will pay the cost. Contract for the construction already has been awarded. Today's hearing was to obtain the state's permission for erection of the memorial.

4-H CLUB BOYS AND GIRLS AT PICNIC

Recently more than 150 Howard county boys and girls gathered at City Park here for their annual picnic and rally, inaugurating another year of projects and achievements. These youngsters are learning a lot of practical things about farming, poultry and livestock raising. The picnic was under direction of J. V. Bush, county farm agent; Mrs. Lucille Allgood, county home demonstration agent; and Mrs. M. R. Showalter, county health nurse.

Injunction Suit To Prevent Closing of Goliad Street On Completion of Benton Viaduct Filed In Court Here

The legality of an agreement alleged to exist between the city of Big Spring and the Texas and Pacific Railway, whereby Goliad Street would be closed, was attacked in a suit filed in district court Friday afternoon, styled Farmers Gin and Supply Co., et al, vs J. B. Pickle et al.

Plaintiffs in the case are Farmers Gin and Supply Co., E. D. Dumas, 204 Goliad St., Joe B. Hill, 207 N. Goliad St., W. C. Hanks, 201 North Goliad Street, L. F. Keisling, 107 N. Goliad Street, Susie Z. Shumake, 111 North Goliad St., G. L. Bell, 209 N. Goliad St., C. C. Nance, 208 N. Johnson St., C. J. Slater, 211 E. N. Second St., Mrs. Cora Ridd, 201 Northeast Third St., Mrs. F. M. Franklin, 108 North Johnson St., Mrs. W. A. Bynum, 108 North Nolan St., Mrs. M. W. Harwell, 210 North Johnson St., D. K. Ollis, 204 North Johnson Street, Loyd Oglesby, 204 North Johnson Street, J. D.

Rodgers, 204 North Johnson St., F. O. Fuller, 204 North Johnson St., W. L. Mason, 203 N. Nolan St., C. Simmons, 110 N. Nolan St., and C. O. Burger, 207 N. Nolan St.

According to the petition, J. B. Pickle, W. W. Inkman, W. A. Gilmore, city commissioners, E. A. Long, chief of Police, Verner R. Smitham, city manager, the City of Big Spring, and the Texas and Pacific Railway Co. are made defendants.

The plaintiffs in the suit, which is an outgrowth of the Benton Street viaduct agreement between officials of the city and the railway, alleged closing of the street would lower the valuation of their properties in that section of the city.

The possession of the residents of that section of "a vested interest" in the right of way is employed to show "irreparable damages" would be suffered if the street is closed.

The Farmers Gin and Supply Company, located adjacent to North Goliad Street, alleges the value of its property would be greatly depreciated and the income of the

ORDINANCE IS ATTACKED AT MASS MEETING

The controversy which has been current since the recently appointed City Sanitation Inspector started checking dairies preparatory to enforcing the milk ordinance, reached a climax Saturday afternoon when several hundred Howard County men met in a "protest" session in the district court room.

Every seat in the room was taken and a number of the farmers and dairymen were standing.

The meeting, according to W. B. Sneed, who was elected chairman, was called for the purpose of reaching an understanding as to what portions of the milk ordinance would be enforced.

Probably the high point of the session came when City Manager V. R. Smitham refused twice to come before the body and discuss the ordinance. Sheriff Jess Slaughter was sent for him the first time and reported he declined to come.

Bob Cook, member of the City Commission, asked Smitham the second time, and reported he again had declined.

According to Sheriff Slaughter the City Manager agreed to discuss the ordinance with a committee appointed by the body.

At the conclusion of the meeting a committee composed of C. B. Edwards, J. A. Bishop, Earl E. Phillips, Virgil Phillips and Walter Robinson, was named to meet with the city commission at the next session.

Cook was the only member of the commission present at the session. He told the farmers that nothing had been done in regard to enforcement, that the commissioners were just now acquainting themselves with the ordinance, and that a revised sanitary ordinance would probably be adopted at the next session.

"Who hired this sanitary inspector?" someone in the crowd asked Cook.

"I don't know," Cook replied, "but he was hired to do sanitation work here, and there is no intention to hurt the farmer."

Clyde E. Thomas, local attorney, was called upon and declared his opinion the controversy could have been avoided.

"I presume," he declared, "the commission had good motives, but I think they pulled a 'bonehead' in carrying out their motives. We want your milk and we want your butter, and we want anything else you have for sale."

J. A. Kinard spoke twice before the meeting. In his opening talk he told the farmers to be sure they demanded papers showing the inspector's authority and qualifications to give cows a tuberculosis test. In his second he declared "the squabble is not necessary."

Lubbock Choice of West Texas Press

ARILENE, Texas, July 12 (AP)—Lubbock, today won the next convention of the West Texas Press Association and W. S. Cooper of the Standard of Colorado was elected president in the closing session of the fifth annual meeting.

Lubbock won over Cleo and Mineral Wells, Stamford, withdrawing in favor of Lubbock.

Charles A. Gay, managing editor of the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal, was named vice-president. George F. Smith of Snyder was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

RESIGNATION OF CITY ATTY. IS SUBMITTED

After several times agreeing, following tendering his resignation, to serve longer, James T. Brooks, city attorney, yesterday submitted to the city manager his resignation from that office and released the letter of resignation to the press.

Upon several occasions, the most recent having been Tuesday, June 24, Mr. Brooks has submitted his resignation. The Herald, although one of its reporters has been in attendance upon commission sessions as a regular assignment, has until now concurred in a request of the city commission that the resignation not be published until the commission could obtain a successor to Mr. Brooks. Meanwhile Mr. Brooks has served.

The letter of Saturday follows: Mr. V. R. Smitham, City Manager, City of Big Spring, Texas. Dear Mr. Smitham: I am again requesting you to accept my resignation as your city attorney and ask that this be done at once.

You will recall that in February I told you I desired to be relieved of this work and you requested me to wait until after the May term of district court. I yielded to your request and in May tried one of the suits that the City desired tried before I resigned, and you know we were successful in winning the verdict and I doubt very much if the other cases will ever be tried.

Other matters pending have been disposed of—the bonds have been approved and sold and your right-of-way for your sewer line has been obtained, and there is nothing pending now but that any one else that you might appoint can handle as well as I.

On June 24, 1930, I again requested you to relieve me of this work and handed you my written resignation, which you now have. The salary in this office is not commensurate with the amount of work a city attorney is requested to do. The work often times is very unpleasant and I find it interferes with my private practice, and I request that you appoint my successor at once so that I will be relieved of my duties on July 15th, 1930.

Big Spring is my home and I want to help build a better city. We have made wonderful progress in the past and are going to make wonderful progress in the future if we will all pull together.

Thanking you and the commissioners for the many courtesies shown me and assuring you that any time I can be of service to you it shall be my pleasure to serve you, I am Very truly yours, JAMES T. BROOKS.

Seven Candidates Say They're "In Run-Off"

STERLING'S CAMPAIGN IS TARGET

Claims of 'Vest Pocket' Votes Made By All

By The Associated Press
Seven perspiring and tired candidates for governor Saturday and Saturday night concluded a week of every day campaigning, each assertedly confident that if he did not already have enough votes "in his vest pocket" to get into the runoff he would have by the time he had spoken two more weeks.

Most of the active aspirants to the Governor's seat were anxious to venture the opinion not only that they would qualify for the second primary but that they would lead the ticket. One candidate believed that he would get 285,000 votes, another asserted he would lead by 75,000 votes, and 150,000 votes, approximately one fifth of the expected total, was considered a conservative prediction.

Majority of the personalities indulged in during the past week concerned Ross Sterling, chairman of the Highway Commission, but the other candidates had no reason to feel badly slighted.

Sterling started speaking late, and for a time the other candidates were content to attack the state bond issue, which he has championed. However, this was changed within the last few days.

Several contestants said they saw in Sterling's candidacy "an attempt to buy the governor's office." Earle B. Mayfield, former United States Senator, professed to see the "hand of the Standard Oil" behind the Houston man. Thomas B. Love said Sterling's supporters were using his connections with the highway department as a means of getting votes although he (Love) was sure the road commissioner did not approve of such tactics.

Attack Manager
Sterling's state campaign manager, William Strauss, of Houston, was assailed on the one hand as a wet and on the other as a representative of the big bond buyers.

Jim Ferguson, speaking for his wife, Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson charged that the Houston man was a former member of the Ku Klux Klan.

Sterling, in West Texas, had his hands full arguing with Barry Miller, who was in the same section, concerning the State Highway Department revenues, but he did reply that the other candidates had turned to "mud slinging, the last resort of beaten politicians," after they had found that their efforts against his road financing plan were of no avail.

Sterling was not the only candidate who had his name handled in an unfriendly fashion. Love charged that Jim Young and Clint Small and their supporters were spending more money than the law allowed. He and Young continued their crossfire of personalities.

Small argued that Young pleaded for harmony in one breath and in the next berated Love. Sterling referred to the West Texas senator (Small) who urged the "adjournment of politics" and a "business administration," but had voted to disfranchise those who supported and voted for Herbert Hoover.

At Fort Worth
Mayfield and Sterling were at Fort Worth Saturday night. Sterling's public speech was broadcast by station WBAP and Mayfield spoke to the radio audience over station KTAT. Mayfield came from Waxahachie where he had spoken in the afternoon and Sterling talked at Albany in the morning and at Breckenridge in the afternoon.

Miller stressed the need for better educational facilities in two addresses at Denton Saturday afternoon and Saturday night. He was a guest of the College of Industrial Arts there at luncheon.

HOME TOWN TALK

By Beddy

REAL election weather is here and how.

Seems as though the hot weather is stimulating a lot of us into action; witness the meeting held at the courthouse Saturday reportedly for the purpose of protesting the milk ordinance, which, we are informed, the city commission considers is far from its permanent form.

We predict that this milk fuss will be settled before long to the satisfaction of all parties. A few may never be satisfied, some of us are like that. But it will work itself out all right.

SPEAKING of election. Two weeks from last night our big election party will be in progress. Tell all your friends of Howard and neighboring counties that the returns on all important state races and on county and precinct races in Howard and adjoining counties will be announced or posted in front of The Herald office beginning at dark Saturday, July 26.

The Texas Election Bureau's wire, obtained by The Herald for both primaries and the general election, will carry for about eight or nine hours election night, again Sunday afternoon and perhaps Monday, according to how close the races are by Sunday evening.

This wire will carry results in the various counties on the more important races, besides state totals every few minutes on various races. The Texas Election Bureau is operated by the Managing Editor's Association of Texas and has become one of the most efficient organizations of the type in the country. It counts hundreds of thousands of votes within ten hours after the polls close.

Arrangements are being made, of course, to announce results in each of the 15 county boxes on all races, precinct, county, district and state.

L. L. EDWARDS, superintendent of construction on the Settles Hotel building, says the upper floors have been finished with the exception of some finishing touches to the decorations. Rugs may be put on these floors in a few days, he says. The building is being completed even faster than at first expected and will be in readiness in plenty of time for it to be opened September 1.

Various newspapers are now asking editors of other papers to predict how the gubernatorial candidates will rank in their respective counties.

YOUR HUMBLE servant has ranked them as follows for Howard county: Small, Ferguson, Mayfield, Miller, Love, Young, Sterling, (Soapy Moody, Walker, Love, Putnam, also ran).

Small appears to be strongest within the city of Big Spring, Ferguson outside. Mayfield is one of the dark horses and Love will poll some votes from die-hard Hoover Democrats. However, a lot of those who bolted two years ago will not follow Tom's banner this time, we believe.

The Dallas News editorially has sized Tom up pretty well. The News agrees in principle with him in many things but observes that his "eternal contentions" cripples him. That's just about right.

THIS newspaper has given its readers much of the platform of all the leading candidates. It has commented editorially upon those of Small and Sterling more than the others. Small has some good planks and has, we believe, gained more ground since the campaign started than any of the others. He was less known, in the state-wide arena than the others but has enlisted some powerful support. He is a good man.

The Herald is whole-heartedly for the highway financing and tax relief plan of Ross S. Sterling. That makes the paper a Sterling supporter or it does not, just as you

OLD SETTLERS PLAN REUNION HERE JULY 26

Tickets for the annual reunion of the Old Settlers of Howard county at Cottonwood Park July 25 are on sale at Fox, Biles, Cunningham & Phillips No. 1 and Collins Bros. No. 1 drug stores, Gary & Son and by President T. H. Johnson of the Old Settlers' Association.

The charge will be one dollar for the head of a family, admitting members of his immediate family. In other cases, where Old Settlers attend alone the charge will be one dollar. One dollar will be the entire cost.

To be eligible for admission as an Old Settler one must have resided in Howard county 25 years ago or longer, whether he now resides in the county now or not.

All committees are at work in an effort to make the reunion a success. President Johnson said Saturday. It is expected that this will be one of the biggest and best reunions ever held.

There will be singing, speaking and dancing during the day and evening, Mr. Johnson said. This will be for Old Settlers.

Families are asked to bring well-filled baskets. Barbecued beef and mutton, coffee and pickles and bread will be furnished.

600,000 Acres Of University Lands Leased

AUSTIN, July 12 (AP)—Approximately 600,000 acres of free public school land has been advertised for sale September 1 because of failure of title holders to pay interest due November 1, 1928. J. H. Walker, commissioner of the general land office, said today. The land is situated in 148 counties.

Although 600,000 acres have been advertised for sale, only approximately 300,000 acres actually will be sold, land officials said, because of numerous owners will prevent forfeiture and sale by paying the interest.

The land will be resold with the state regaining the mineral rights under a recent decision of the Supreme Court.

New Mail Route Being Sought For County

Chamber of Commerce officials, working with E. H. Fahrtenkamp, postmaster, are endeavoring to obtain additional free rural mail delivery. It was announced Saturday.

Petitions asking for the new service will be circulated and sent to postal authorities.

According to data obtained 161 farm homes and 87 homes just outside the city limits would be served by the new route, bringing the total to 248 additional ones.

The approximate length of the proposed route is 59.8 miles, including 31 miles now served by the Garden City Star Route.

Lomax, Caultle, Lees, Elbow and Edwards communities would be served by the delivery service.

CLUES LACKING IN SEARCH FOR FRANK CAIN, 40

Frank Cain, 40, farmer living six miles north of Big Spring, was still missing Saturday night and nothing had been heard of him since he left home Thursday morning.

Relatives of the man could advance little information as to why he should disappear. According to his father-in-law, W. L. Rogers, the man came to Big Spring Thursday, purchased a bill of groceries, paid a back bill and for the additional foodstuffs, and left. He did not return for the supplies and has not been heard of since.

Cain had been living near Big Spring for eight months. He married a daughter of Mr. Rodgers, and they have been living on a farm on the Gail road. He came here from Old Glory, Texas, north of Abilene. His original home is in Georgia.

Warren Smith, special agent of the Texas and Pacific Railway, has been enlisted by Mr. Rogers to aid in searching for the man.

A check of hospitals and police stations failed to reveal any trace of the missing farmer.

He is described as being five feet, ten inches in height, light complexioned, weighing 170 pounds, of stocky build and his head slightly bald.

At the time of his disappearance he wore black shoes, dark blue trousers, a white shirt and a broad brimmed white hat.

BURGLAR WHO SPECIALIZES IN PANTS ACTIVE

A burglar who specializes in men's trousers was active again Friday night. Four robberies were reported to the sheriff's department.

J. N. Wofford, 419 East Park, reported his trousers were removed from his rooms while he slept.

The screen was removed from a bedroom in the home of E. H. Joyce, 1200 Gregg street, and the trousers belonging to Monte Franks stolen. The trousers contained $5.

A 15-jewel Elgin watch and small change were taken by a robber when he stole the trousers of L. M. Garner, 1501 Johnson street.

A watch was stolen when the robber removed from the house the clothing of Leonard Stewart, 1404 Austin street. A small amount of money also was stolen. The clothing, including trousers, shirt and belt, was found in a vacant lot back of the Stewart home.

Sheriff Slaughter Saturday issued his second warning to Big Spring residents in regard to leaving clothing near windows and not having sufficient locks on screens.

He declared unless the department was notified immediately after the robbery it is almost impossible to find trace of the intruder.

In all of the cases reported recently, the same tactics have been employed. The screen has been either unlocked or removed and the clothing, usually trousers, removed.

He asked residents to notify him or the members of his department at any hour of the night in case the prowler was seen.

LEIGLE PROBE PROGRESSES

CHICAGO, July 12 (AP)—The policeman who chased a blonde gangster from the scene of Jake Lingle's slaying today identified a picture at the detective bureau as that of the man he pursued. The officers' agitated exclamation of "that's the man! That's the man!" led authorities to believe they had learned the identity of either Lingle's actual slayer or a decoy who took part in the plot.

Five men were hurt. They were: James Mattingly, truck driver and Harold Cornell, part owner of the rig, both of Whitesville, Ky., both fathers of Thurman Crowe, farmer, A. Cornell and Fred Cornell, Whitesville.

Body Found Near Dallas Station Is Believed Veterans'

DALLAS, Texas, July 12 (AP)—Human bones and a decayed leather jacket found today in an out-of-the-way place near the Union Terminal may solve the disappearance of three years ago of M. E. Best, 33, Civil War veteran of Elmo, Kansas, officers believe.

Best left his home in November, 1927, to visit Dallas relatives, and had not been heard from since. An old soldier said to have fit Best's description had been seen the terminal the day before his scheduled arrival here, and made inquiries of the travelers' aid they were told.

An effort was being made to find talking canes Best carried when left home.

Earl Carroll Has Done It Again

Producer of "Bath Tub" Fame Again Involved With The Law

NEW YORK, July 12 (AP)—Earl Carroll, Broadway producer, whose testimony concerning his famous bathtub party landed him in federal prison for perjury, found himself involved with the law again today because of another scene presented on his stage.

A squad of policemen yesterday marched through the stage door of the New Amsterdam theatre, advertised by Carroll as "The portal through which pass the most beautiful girls in America," and arrested nine members of the cast of his "Vanities."

Warrants charging them with giving an indecent performance were also issued for Carroll and Louis Lott, treasurer of the theatre, but they could not be found. At the close of the matinee performance the policemen, who had arrived on the scene in shiny sedans served warrants on eight girls and one man, told them to put on their street clothes and "come quietly."

Wax Figure Too Lively
The prisoners included Naomi Ray, comedienne, Faith Bacon, dancer, and Jimmie Savo and six show girls. Savo and the six girls were appearing in a scene entitled, "A Widow at Meris," in which the lone man finds himself among a group of wax figures that come to life. Miss Ray and Miss Bacon had dance numbers in both of which the police charged they were very scantily clad, Miss Bacon wearing only two ostrich feather fans.

Carroll drew attention four years ago by a party on the stage of his theatre in which police charged a young woman bathed in a tub of champagne.

Third Offense
He was charged with perjury after he denied before a federal grand jury that the bathtub incident occurred.

In 1924 he was arrested on a charge of displaying indecent pictures in the lobby of his theatre. He was discharged after spending four days in the toms.

Warrants for the arrest of Carroll, Lott and the nine members of the case were sworn out by police officers who had attended performances of the show.

Those arrested were released in $500 bail and were back in their places for the evening performance from which the show window scene was deleted.

Bobby Jones Wins American Open GALLANT FOX WINS ARLINGTON City All-Stars To Clash Today FORTY FOOT PUTT ENDS GREATEST GOLF BATTLE OF CHAMPIONS CAREER

Total Score of 287, Second Lowest In History Of Tournament; McDonald Smith Two Strokes Behind

By ALAN GOULD Associated Press Sports Editor INTERLACHEN CLUB, MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., July 12 (AP)—The king of all the golfers, flushed with the heat of one of the greatest battles of his career, strode to the home hole today with his throne a shabby, the professional light brigade in hot pursuit and a 40-foot putt over the rolling turf before him.

CORNELL AND PRINCETON WIN

STAMFORD BRIDGE, LONDON, July 12 (AP)—Princeton and Cornell won the annual track and field meet from Oxford and Cambridge this afternoon by a score of seven first places to five. Cornell athletes scored six of the Americans' seven firsts, showing the way in the 100 and 220 yard dashes, shot put, 120 yard hurdles, pole vault and quarter mile, while a Princeton man won the 220 yard low hurdles.

Oxford-Cambridge made a much closer fight of it than last year when the English team was beaten in the United States, nine to three, and with ten of the 12 events completed the home forces had come from behind to even terms.

Smith Second Mac Smith, alone of the star professionals to stand the gaff of the final day after Jones had burned up the course with a record-breaking third round, finished with rounds of 70-75-74 for a total of 289 to clinch second place.

Gallant Knight Loses By Head To Turf Rival

ARLINGTON PARK, CHICAGO, July 12 (AP)—Gallant Fox won the $10,000 Arlington classic by a head from Gallant Knight in 2:03 4-5 today. The distance was a mile and a quarter. Ned O. was third in the field of six.

The thrilling race was witnessed by a crowd estimated at 65,000. The race was a desperate duel between Gallant Fox and Gallant Knight, which raced head and head into the stretch with Ned O trailing them. Earl Sande, riding Gallant Fox, and Herman Schutte, the youngster aboard Gallant Knight, engaged in a desperate whipping finish, with the master rider, Sande shooting Gallant Fox along the rail to victory, while the crowd was in a thunderous uproar at the finish.

The order of finish was the same as it was when this trio hooked up in the Kentucky classic last May. Maya finished fourth to receive a $2,000 slice of the purse. Alcibiades, the Kentucky filly, was fifth and Dark Entry sixth.

The race, at a mile and a quarter, was run in 2:03 4-5, a fifth of a second slower than the track record. Winning his sixth consecutive stake race of the season, Gallant Fox moved into second place among the money winners of the American turf of all time, passing every horse in history with the exception of Zev. The sensational colt owned by William Woodward, New York bank president, added $64,750 to his winnings as a result of his victory. He race had a gross value of $78,750, including the bonus of $10,000 paid to the winner because he previously had won the Preakness, Kentucky Derby and Belmont Stakes. His total winnings to date, including purses won as a two-year-old, aggregate $274,820. In the last sixty days, however, Gallant Fox has won $255,090.

SPUDDERS DEFEAT B'MONT

WICHITA FALLS, Tex., July 12 (AP)—Beaumont's pitching and fielding were ineffective today, and the Spudders found their fifth straight victory easy to attain. Crouch's homer with the bases full in the sixth sealed the verdict. The final count was 16 to 5. The score: Beaumont 100 000 201-5 13 2 Wichita Falls 013 037 028-16 19 0 Burns, Newman and Baker; Steengrafe and Crouch.

BUFFS 5, STEERS 4 DALLAS, Tex., July 12 (AP)—Halving the two-game series here, the Houston Buffs today served the Dallas Steers a 5 to 4 defeat, although the Steers out-hit them 10 to 8. Willingham of the Steers almost made it a one-man defense, clouting a homer in the fifth and another in the ninth, with two men on. Morrow of the Buffs also accounted for a home run. Willingham's scoring clout in the ninth was the longest ball lever knocked over the Steers' fence, ball club officials asserted.

CUBS 9, CATS 6 FORT WORTH, Tex., July 12 (AP)—Waco made it two straight over the Fort Worth Cats by taking Sunday's contest, 9 to 6. The Cubs had the better of the Cats in the loose scoring affair. Leslie Mallon and Ed Brown furnished the high lights of the Panther attack with home runs.

SPORTS 5, TRIBE 7 SHREVEPORT, La., July 12 (AP)—The Sports were presented with a ball game when three passes were presented in the ninth inning by Lucas, a relief hurler for San Antonio to force home the winning runs. The final count was 8 to 7. Tuero who went into the game as relief hurler in the ninth was credited with the victory, giving him his thirteenth victory.

BOONE FACES TOUGH TIME IN LATEST MAJOR CHANCE

BROOKLYN (AP)—Ike Boone, the big slow boy who has stayed in baseball for years by his slugging, had better continue to hit here or he will learn what it is to get the bird from Flatbush fans.

Boone comes to the Robins from the Mission club of the Pacific Coast league, where he was the heaviest slugger. The club needed punch from the left field which neither Harvey Hendricks nor Rube Bressler have been able to supply.

A factor, however, that makes Boones job particularly tough is the impression that got abroad that Robins turned down an opportunity to secure Lefty O'Doul. The report had it that O'Doul was available in exchange for Ray Moss and Clae Dudley, pitchers.

Whether or not the Robins actually could have landed O'Doul, the average fan gets an image of just what that 400 batting power would look like in the Brooklyn lineup. Boone will have to show some power to offset that. He is at another disadvantage in this latest chance in the big leagues.

Left field at Ebbetts field must be really covered or drives hop over a low fence into the right field bleachers for home runs.

Boone was released from the Boston Red Sox for slowness at foot, the same season he lead the club in hitting.

REFINERIES, URBANS MEET

The Cosden-Richardson aggregation will be under the guiding hand of J. C. Moore, the entel mentor of the Richardson gasoline stirrers, while Bruce Nesbitt, former generalissimo of the Laundry, will manage the city clickers.

SO SAYETH THE SAGES

Or Crimes Committed By Scribes

Campbell Must Have His Little Joke The morning's delivery brings two missives from Big Spring, the noisy village 97 miles up the road over there in Howard county. The first item is a legitimate invitation by H. B. Dunagan, Jr., to San Angelo netters to participate in Big Spring's invitation tennis tournament next week. The tournament is to be held July 18, 19 and 20 and Dunagan says special passes are being taken to make the stay of out-of-town players pleasant. Incidentally, cut rates are to be given by the hotels.

It's too ridiculous. However, if some Concho club feels like taking the voyage to Howard county and spanking those ambitious boys it is suggested arrangements be made to play the game on a winner-take-all basis. There is no sense in going over there for small change. The entire "gate" would be small enough as it is. At this writing none of the San Angelo pilots has indicated whether or not he takes the challenge seriously. The item was referred to Ed Riedel, president of the city league, and Ed laughed so uproariously that Gene Lovrie, city manager in the next office, sent a couple of constituents away, closed up his desk and left a note that he would not be back until after Riedel had departed on his daily pilgrimage to the golf course this afternoon. The city manager just can't do business when there is such a disturbance going on in the auditor's sanctum. So vociferously did Ed guffaw that San Haynes, the police chief, came charging up from down stairs, thinking a riot was on. But you couldn't blame, Ed.—Blondy Cross, San Angelo Standard.

O'Quinn Caught The Tigers ran across two in the same inning, J. Valdez singling and Garcia sending a high one to center field, Harris dropping the orbit to allow Valdez to tally. Garcia going home when Harris overthrew the third sack.

The Tigers gleaned two in the fourth when Hernandez singled, R. Cruz singled and Valdez sacrificed to Harris in center, scoring Hernandez. Cruz went home on Pool's scree at third.

Cosden earned one in the fifth when Smith singled and scored on Ayres' sacrifice fly to center field. Lefty Potter drug out the blank at in the fifth and sixth, and Cosden tallied a lone one in the seventh on a single by Potter and a double by O'Quinn, the latter going out when he attempted to stretch his rap into a three fly. The leave was from Kayo in right field to B. Garcia. O'Quinn came yer, banker and outstanding citizen, again had won the National Open golf championship.

There was wild acclaim when word came that Bobby had finished his play with a 75, but the real demonstration broke out in the downtown section when, after it developed that Bobby's score was low.

Soon thereafter, the familiar cry of newboys "Wuxtra! Jones Wins!" rang out in the business section. Saturday afternoon theater-goers and workers rushed to buy and read the details.

Although Atlanta has become accustomed to victories from its golfing ambassador, interest in today's play at Mississippi was worked to fever pitch by extensive plans for a welcoming for Bobby, and by radio broadcasts at 15 minute intervals throughout the day of Jones' progress.

little Joe Valdez. The hardest drive the Abilene youth haughted this year went directly to the center of Little Joe's glove. Incidentally Lopez, the youthful Mexican chunker, went the route for the Tigers while Spouting Spicket was using three pitchers and hoping it would rain another crop. Lopez hurled a nice game and received almost perfect support from his teammates.

sure-enough common sense Big Man who will handle things sensibly and fairly. We'll say that much for him. There is no finer character in state politics today than Ross S. Sterling.

YOU will notice, too, that we pick Mr. Sterling to finish about seventh in Howard county. We state that, but believe that is the way the land lays right now.

At that, we can think of no county whose interests would be better protected by Sterling's election than this one.

Ordinance—

Just exactly what will be done about the ordinance is still problematical. Cook endeavored to explain. He declared the farmers could rest assured the ordinance would in no way interfere with their reselling their products here. He also declared the state ordinance regarding the sale of meat would be enforced. Mr. Cook declared it was not the intention of the city commission to injure the farmer or hinder his trade in any way.

J. M. Williams, sanitation inspector, was not invited before the meeting to explain the ordinance.

The three-dollar permit fee, which originally was in the ordinance, and upon which the original protest was based, was eliminated from the measure at the last meeting of the City Commission.

organization reduced.

As Individuals

The suit was lodged against individuals rather than the municipality because of a recent act of the legislature which prevents an injunction being granted to stay the vacating or closing by the city council of any street or alley in the incorporated town.

According to the petition, James T. Brooks, city attorney, rendered an opinion that the agreement between the city and the Texas and Pacific was valid.

The plaintiffs ask for an injunction against the individuals preventing them from closing the street and giving the strip to the railway company. They also ask an injunction against the Texas and Pacific preventing it from closing the street.

The final plea is that the agreement be declared null and void.

He declared the farmers could rest assured the ordinance would in no way interfere with their reselling their products here. He also declared the state ordinance regarding the sale of meat would be enforced. Mr. Cook declared it was not the intention of the city commission to injure the farmer or hinder his trade in any way.

J. M. Williams, sanitation inspector, was not invited before the meeting to explain the ordinance.

The three-dollar permit fee, which originally was in the ordinance, and upon which the original protest was based, was eliminated from the measure at the last meeting of the City Commission.

organization reduced.

As Individuals

The suit was lodged against individuals rather than the municipality because of a recent act of the legislature which prevents an injunction being granted to stay the vacating or closing by the city council of any street or alley in the incorporated town.

According to the petition, James T. Brooks, city attorney, rendered an opinion that the agreement between the city and the Texas and Pacific was valid.

The plaintiffs ask for an injunction against the individuals preventing them from closing the street and giving the strip to the railway company. They also ask an injunction against the Texas and Pacific preventing it from closing the street.

The final plea is that the agreement be declared null and void.

YOU will notice, too, that we pick Mr. Sterling to finish about seventh in Howard county. We state that, but believe that is the way the land lays right now.

At that, we can think of no county whose interests would be better protected by Sterling's election than this one.

Shipstead and Will Agree Both Sides Are Wrong; Visit With 'Country Doctor' of Rochester Is Related

Well all I know is just what I read in the papers, and what I see as I prowled hither and thither. You know week before last I had a fine week up among our Nordic Brothers in Minneapolis. You know they live and prosper and get along better than any other distinct bunch of folks we have in this Country. They are about the best Farmers we have in this Country, and even they are having a tough time making farms pay, and when they cant do it why its time for the rest to let em foreclose and get a filling station and get out. Dairying is what saves them up there and hard work has something to do with it. For those old Boys really work. They have beautiful Cities, some of the loveliest parks and beautiful lakes, and lots of private homes. The Apartment epidemic hasent hit em yet. And what a rush they are getting to those Lakes for the vacation period. Bands of Boys and Girls from southern states are all coming here to summer Camps.

They say there is ten thousand lakes in the State of Minnesota alone. You know there is three or four different bunches up here. The general impression is that everybody is a Swede, but these Norwegians, and Danes are just as proud of their Native land and will tell you they come from a better country than Sweden. But the great part about it is they all get along fine together. Any rivalry is good natured. That Maverick of the Senate, Senator Shipstead, who is supposed for lack of name to be a farmer-Laborite, he is strong up here. I met him in Washington for the first time a few weeks ago and he said he had been reading some of my junk, and that he thought he and I had about the right idea that both sides were wrong about 90 percent of the time, and thats the side that votes against them, with the side that is maby the less wrong.

Like all Towns they were mighty disappointed in their Census Report. Minneapolis was trying to reach the half million, and they only got about 482,000. St. Paul about a third less.

Plenty Disappointment

You see what causes all this disappointment in these Cities is these Chamber of Commercies. They start yapping about what they have in their Town, and they tell it so long that they get their people believing it, and then when the Government comes along, and the people have to really be there, and NOT just accounted for by a Luncheon Club speaker, why the old Census Boys cant dig em up as easy as the "Speaker of the Day." But what difference does it make what your town is? A growing city is just like fifty Guys starting to climb up a ladder. While you are trying your best to get one rung higher, why the babies at the top like New York and Chicago are skipping rungs by the dozen, so that even if you climb your relative position is the same. When Minneapolis gets a million, Chicago will have fifteen, so whats the answer? But its sure does make a good Chamber of Commerce rally talk.

Well sir I was up there one night and who do you think dropped in on me but Doctor Mayo. The old Country Doctor of Rochester, Minn. Mrs. Mayo was with him and another accomplice from down in Nashville, Tenn. I forget his name, but he is head of the Committee that is raising money for Tennessee to build a combined monument to its 3 Presidents of the United States. Jackson, and Johnson, and I dont know who the other was. Well they want to build one while this present wave of Prosperity is on. They want to get it built before a Democratic Administration gets in and demoralizes the country. This fellow is from Nashville. He had his Daughter with him. He and Charley Mayo are prowling around trying to drum up some trade for his little medical practice out there. They say he has in addition to dosing out calumel and assaifititi to the ailing Norwegians, he has put in a branch line or "Operation" while you wait. Somebody give him a knife, and he and a Brother of his will have your frame into kindling wood before you know it. He has been over in Italy, and it was reported that he was going to slice into Mussolini and cut out his French complex. So that give me a chance to get in my Monologue about Mussolini and the Castor Oil. Well as we were sitting in a Drug Store at the time having a drink, my Castor Oil story naturally reminded him of one. (Thats the worst part about a story, you cant hardly tell one that it dont remind somebody of another one). But this one of his was a good one. Its all right for his wife, (and by the way a lovely, sweet-faced grey-haired young looking Woman) she and the other fellows daughter were there, so dont stop reading this out loud, go ahead.

Castor Oil Yarn

A Woman came into a Drug Store and asked the clerk if there wasnt some way he could fix up Castor Oil so that it would be tasteless and not objectionable to take. He said he could, and while she was sitting at the Soda Counter waiting he asked her if she wouldnt have a cool-refreshing drink of some kind, and he handed her a glass of Sassa-parilla. She drank it, and after waiting a few minutes she noticed that he was not doing anything toward giving her the Castor Oil she had asked for, so she asked him for it. "Why lady you have already taken it." "Already taken it?" she hollered, "why it was sent for me, its for my Sister." He is full of stories, and is a great little fellow. Gosh when you think of what those fellows have done! Thats what you call being a real Benefactor to mankind.

You know to me the greatest thing they have done, and that is the system of changing everyone in proportion to what they can pay. Course some tell a yell out of them like a hoot Owl, and claim that they paid more than so and so, but its the greatest system ever invented. "All Doctors should make enough out of those who are well able to pay, to be able to do all work for the poor free. That is one thing that a poor person should never be expected to pay for is medical attention, and not from an organized Charity, but from our best Doctors. But your Doctor bill should be paid like your Income tax, according to what you have. There is nothing like that keeps poor people poor as much as paying Doctor Bills. It always wipes out their savings, and its that fear of not being sole able to pay is what makes it ten times worse on them. It ought to be a law, not a custom. SOUZA IS HURT

NEW YORK, July 12 (AP)—John Philip Souza, famous band master returning from Europe, slipped on a companionway of the Leviathan as the liner was docking and was knocked semiconscious. Four stitches were taken to lose a gash above his ear.

Attendants aboard the ship rushed to Mr. Souza's aid as he fell and carried him to the ship's hospital. He was quickly revived.

When the surgical measures were completed, Mr. Souza attended to his debarkation as if nothing had happened. He is seventy-six.

BEACHES OF CALIFORNIA AND BEAUTY SPOTS OF OTHER STATES ATTRACT BIG SPRING PEOPLE

Dozens Are visiting Long Beach and Los Angeles—Many Others See Eastern Cities

A Big Spring re-union could be held on the white sands of Long Beach, California, if all of the residents of this city who have made the pilgrimage westward within the last two weeks could be drawn together there at one time.

Literally scores have trekked westward by train and by automobile. Picturesque spots on the trail between here and there have been visited, admired and left behind. The Grand Canyon, the petrified forest, the cliff dweller's deserted palaces—all of the beauty-spots between here and California have afforded stopping places and postal cards for Big Spring vacationists.

The beauties of New Mexico have stopped many in that state. Ruidoso, Clouderot, Santa Fe and El Paso have all had their quota of visitors.

And too, there are many who have "seen Texas first." They concentrated on San Antonio, Dallas, Fort Worth, San Angelo and other metropolitan centers.

Here is a list as full as possible of Big Spring people who have been away, who are away, or who are going away on their vacations.

Mrs. Cornelia Cameron left Friday for Dallas. She will spend six weeks there both on her vacation and as a buyer for J. & W. Fisher's store.

J. L. Webb has joined his wife at Long Beach, California. They will return soon.

Mr. and Mrs. Max Jacobs and two daughters leave today for a motor trip through East Texas. They will be gone a week.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Covert and children are in Los Angeles and will spend their vacation there and in other parts of California.

Miss Merle McClesky is visiting her aunt, Mrs. R. W. Le Mond of Long Beach, California. She was accompanied there by Mrs. McClesky's two sisters, Mrs. Charles Saigling of Plainview and Mrs. John J. Roberts of Dallas.

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Gardner are spending their vacation in Fort Worth and Eureka Springs.

The Stephen Curries of Glascock county are in Chicago on their vacation.

Among Big Spring people who are in California and have been for the past week are: Dr. and Mrs. E. O. Ellington and daughter, Dorothy; Mrs. J. Y. Hobb and children, Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Holmes and daughter, Pauline Melton, R. L. Price, R. C. Sanderson, Mrs. W. A. Earnest, Miss Nell Hatch, Mrs. John Hodges and children, Mrs. G. I. Phillips, Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Robbins, and Miss Nell Davis.

Mrs. R. V. Middleton and son returned recently from Mineral Wells, where they have been visiting.

Mrs. Wilburn Barcus is in Waco visiting her family.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Scherrubbe and three children are spending their vacation in Chicago.

Mrs. Victor Mellinger and children are in New York City for the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Hays and Mrs. Morgan Martin and son, Elmo, and G. C. Choute, are spending a two weeks' vacation in New Mexico.

Mrs. Jack Ellis and Mrs. Charlie Deas are in San Antonio for a few days.

Mrs. John McTier is visiting in Texhoma.

Mrs. Ashley Williams and her two sons are visiting in Hobbs, N. M.

Daily Vacation Bible School Is Very Popular

Children of All Denominations Flock to Presbyterian Church Every Morning—122 Now Enrolled

BY MISS SUELLA STARR, Director of Religious Education, El Paso Presbytery

The Daily Vacation Bible School of the First Presbyterian church is well under way. This is the fourth year this church has sponsored a vacation school and each successive school has given added proof of its value to the community. It is non-sectarian, receiving more than a half of its pupils from churches of other denominations and teaching only those fundamental principles of Christian living which are accepted by all believers.

Table titled 'Enrollment By Denomination' showing counts for various religious groups: Episcopalians (6), Baptists (31), Methodists (27), Christians (9), Presbyterians (41), Catholics (2), Church of Christ (2), No Church Preference (4), Total (122).

The Daily Vacation Bible School is a nation wide, inter-denominational movement, yearly growing in popularity as individual churches, communities and larger sections adopt this method of religious education. It was organized to meet the need for additional time, over the regular Sunday hour, in which to train the youth of our land in Christian conduct, morality and citizenship. The extent to which this is being done is shown by the fact that last year there were more than 75 schools reported as conducted by Presbyterian workers alone in this state. We do not have the figures for other denominations.

Arrangement and Curriculum The splendidly arranged building with its equipment is a great asset to the school this year, contributing to the comfort and convenience, hence to the greater ability for successful work in each department. The school is divided into age groups meeting in their regular class rooms with a pianist and one or more teachers, as the size of the group requires. Each group has its worship period suited to the understanding of children of that age. Each group studies the Bible in the way which suits it best, and each has a separate play time. The book followed by Mrs. Owen the Beginner teacher, is, "Beginners in God's World," by Elizabeth M. E. Shields, one of the foremost authorities for teaching little folks. The Primary group has Mrs. S. L. Baker and Mrs. R. M. Parks as leaders. Their course is "Learning God's Way," by Dudley. Both of these courses consist of incidents and teachings from the Bible applicable to the experience of the little child. These children have made little baskets of construction paper as love gifts for their mothers, book marks and match scratchers for other members of the family, gifts for friends, animal toys for themselves and articles which will add to the attractiveness of their Sunday school rooms.

HERALD STRAW VOTE TO BE LAUNCHED TOMORROW WILL SHOW FEMININE CHOICE HERE

Ballot Boxes May Be Found In Prominent Places In Town—Votes Will Be Received By Mail

Women of Howard county have not made any organized public efforts in behalf of a candidate for governor in the primary elections, two weeks hence.

But, they will vote, that is, they will if they run true to form. It is the purpose of The Herald, in opening the women's straw vote for governor, to determine how much interest they take in politics, as well as to satisfy the natural curiosity of the public to know how the vote may go thereabouts.

No less than eleven candidates are seeking the democratic nominations and four the republican. They are:

James Young of Kaufman, who served ten years in congress, is a son of a pioneer southern family, a splendid attorney and characterized as a "100 per cent party man."

Mrs. M. A. Ferguson of Temple, former governor and wife of a former governor, who is doing most of the speech-making in her behalf.

Earle B. Mayfield of Bosque county, former U. S. senator and a member of that pioneer family in Texas politics—the Mayfields. He was the Ku Klux Klan senatorial candidate six years ago.

Ballot boxes will be placed at the following stores: Figgly Wiggly on Main street, F. E. Gary & Son, Clarence Saunders on Third street, J. E. W. Fisher, Albert Fisher & Co.

Clip the ballot on this page and send it to The Herald office with the name of the candidate you prefer marked plainly.

Barry Miller of Dallas, serving his third term as lieutenant governor, close friend of the late Charlie Culbertson.

Thomas H. Love of Dallas, now a state senator formerly assistant secretary of war in the Wilson administration, an old-timer in the political arena, and leader in Texas of the democrats who bolted the ticket two years ago to vote for Hoover.

Clint Small of Wellington, the only West Texan in the race; now a state senator; running on a platform which appeals to the people to "adjourn politics and develop Texas."

Ross S. Sterling of Houston; chairman of the state highway commission; son of deep East Texas who, without common school advantages, but through natural common sense business ability has become one of the state's wealthiest men.

Paul Loven of Comal county, running on a wet platform.

C. C. (Soapy) Moody of Fort Worth, the laundryman who says he would cleanse the state's affairs as he would the people's clothing for 10, these many years.

C. E. Walker of Tarrant county, who has not campaigned actively.

Frank Putnam of Houston, who has not made an active campaign.

JOAN CRAWFORD FEATURED AT RITZ THEATRE

WESTERN OF FIRST RANK OPENS HERE

The production was directed by Malcolm St. Clair from an original story by Sylvia Thalhger and Frank Butler. Music was contributed by Nacio Herb Brown, Arthur Freed, Clifford Grey and Herbert Rothart.

Information is that the picture is a welcome relief from the time-worn drawing room dramas which have been flourishing on the screen for some time, in the respect that it was filmed almost entirely outdoors and in a section of the country rarely used as a locale for film plots. This was in the San Geronimo mountains, 200 miles north of Los Angeles and 5,000 feet above sea level. It is said that this site was expressly chosen for the magnificent views afforded the camera, the report being that studio scenery except for interiors, was totally discarded for this picture.

An a further bid for realism, it is reported, the company refused the services of its Hollywood extras who would have appeared "green" in the eyes of cattlemen and cowpunchers. Instead the entire force of cowboys on one of the largest ranches was employed as "atmosphere." It is said that St. Clair took advantage of this opportunity to ferret out fifty cowboys who could sing to make up the first cowboy chorus singing their own western ditties, never to be heard on the screen.

An amusing slant on this important change was revealed by the director who stated that while his regular players experienced little difficulty in adjusting themselves to the change from the conveniences of the Culver City studios to the crude comforts of the location quarters—when during the final sequences of the production it was necessary to transport the entire group to the studio sets, the cowboys put up what might be popularly termed "an awful howl." It seems they couldn't sleep well in the confines of hotel bedrooms nor work well in the confines of the sound stages.

That the transition from eastern studios to plots laid in the so-called wide open spaces is not as easy as it may appear on the face of it was further indicated by the difficulties involved in finding horses gentle enough for the feminine members of the company, many of whom had never seen a bucking bronco, much less ride one. In the case of Miss Crawford, it is reported that the star's past equestrian experience served her in good stead in the making of "Montana Moon" so that she found herself as much at home in a saddle as on a Park Avenue settee. The role of the society girl who finds fresh impetus in a life rapidly grown stale, when she falls in love with a cowpuncher, is said to be particularly well suited to Miss Crawford's well known flair for personifying the modern generation.

Ken Maynard In 'Fighting Legion' Queen Feature

Tacking guns and bare-knuckle fights, hair-trigger situations and hair-raising suspense all woven into a real drama of the old west combine to make "The Fighting Legion," Universal-Ken Maynard picture, showing at the Queen theatre Friday and Saturday one of the most genuine and stirring westerns ever produced.

Maynard outdoes himself in this amazing picture, based on a real life chapter in the history of the Texas rangers. He plunges over embankments into rivers, has rough and tumble fights against odds and again displays that horsemanship which stamps him as an outstanding western star. Romantic interest is furnished by beautiful Dorothy Dawn who is delightful as the girl whose love Maynard captures when he cleans up a typical "bad town" of the old west. Excellent, robust comedy is provided by Les Bates, Charles Whittaker and Bill Nestelle, the three singing "Hook brothers" and by Frank Rice as "Cloudy Jones," Maynard's pessimistic pal.

Pictures of the class of "The Fighting Legion" are never things and Maynard seems to possess a peculiar knack of being able to maintain breakneck action throughout a story without allowing the speed to detract from the story itself. The picture has many picturesque scenes that establish it as genuinely western, notably the sand storm with which it opens.

Others supporting Maynard are Harry Todd, Ernest Adams, Stanley Blystone, Jack Fowler, Bob Walker and the ever-courageous "Tarzan," Maynard's champion trick horse.

WILLIAM BOYD PART OF STRONG CAST IN "OFFICER O'BRIEN"

Although Greta Garbo does not appear in "Officer O'Brien," a new dramatic Pathe picture starring William Boyd, there will be many film fans who will believe this noted actress is in the cast.

Appearing in a bit in this picture is Jeraldine Dvorak, whose face Nature fashioned in an almost exact replica of the well known Garbo features. Jeraldine is also almost identical with Garbo in height and weight.

Coming to Hollywood in an attempt to win film fame, Jeraldine found her path hindered by her uncanny resemblance to Garbo. For more than a year all the work she did was as a double and stand-in for the famous star. Recently Miss Dvorak ended this association in a determination to storm the citadel on her own behalf. She has begun via the route of extra and bit work.

Dorothy Sebastian plays the leading feminine role in "Officer O'Brien," which Tay Garnett directed, and which comes to the Ritz theatre Wednesday and Thursday. Others appearing in important characterizations are Russell Gelsoun, Ernest Torrence, Clyde Cook, Arthur Houseman, Paul Hurst, Ralf Harold and Tom Mahoney.

RALEIGH, N. C.—More than 1,000 farm women are expected to attend the sixth annual short course at State College during "Farm and Home Week," July 29 to August 1.

Western Picture Offers Comedy And Romance

While classing essentially as an all-talking melodrama of western life, "Romance of the West," starring Jack Perrin, has a number of laughs interwoven in the action. There are more scenes and situations that may be rated sure-fire mirth provokers in "Romance of the West" in fact, than in many a picture bearing the label of a comedy. The rib ticklers are derived from the action of "Romance of the West" itself too, and are not dragged in, in the form of "bits" or standardized situations to catch the laughs.

"Romance of the West" is due to be shown at the Queen theater Wednesday and Thursday, and is a crackling all-talking western, with a story that holds a succession of thrills and chills.

The cast of players appearing in this production is said to be a notable one. In addition to Perrin and his celebrated steed, "Starlight," the supporting players include Edna Marion, Tom London, Ben Corbett, Henry Roquemore and Edwin August. The talkie was staged under the personal direction of Robert Tansey.

Good progress has also been made in their selections for memorizing. Other interesting plans have been made for these next few days.

Invitation

Much of the success of this first week's work is due to the pupil's cooperation with their teachers and their response to the high standards being held up throughout the school. A hearty invitation is given every girl and boy between the ages of four and fourteen to enroll in this worth while enterprise. There is no tuition fee, and the sessions are only two and a half hours from 8:45 to 11:45 each morning continuing through Friday. A program will be presented Friday evening at 8 o'clock. This will be a review of some of the work accomplished by each department and the hand craft will be on display. All parents and friends of these children and others interested in the cause of education are cordially invited to be present.

The secretary, Miss Leola Moffett, checks the attendance each day and reports the results to the school at the assembly period. The following pupils are enrolled:

POWELL AGAIN INCLUDED ON RITZ PROGRAM

If you're one of the ten million people who found the ultimate in thrills in William Powell's portrayal in "Street of Chance," you've still to experience the greatest of the Powell characterizations. It's for you "Shadow of the Law" is to show at the Ritz theater Friday and Saturday.

"Shadow of the Law" is a new type of picture for Powell. This role gives him none of the sophisticated superiority of the Philo Vance personality, nor yet does it impose a sinister glow. The Powell of "Shadow of the Law" is a quiet-living engineer drawn into a web of circumstances which land him in prison. The story is packed with drama, excitement, unusual and novel scenes, rounded, human characterizations, really great acting and solid entertainment.

Innocent, Powell is convicted of murder, sentenced for life; desperate, he breaks out of prison in a thrilling escape, establishes a new identity, meets romance; fugitive from justice, he cannot declare his love; tracked down, he takes a daring, thrilling chance, proves his innocence, assures his happiness.

That's the story of "Shadow of the Law" in brief. But it doesn't tell anything of the gripping drama the heart-breaking suspense, the heart-throbbing happiness, that's wrapped up in this film. Max Marcin, inspired by John A. Moroso's great novel, "The Quarry," wrote the story, and Luis Gasnier, ace hit-maker, directed it.

'THE LOCKED DOOR' PLAYED BY STRONG CAST AT QUEEN

Barbara Stanwyck, co-featured with Rod LaRoque, William Boyd and Betty Bronson in "The Locked Door," George Fitzmaurice's all talking United Artists production showing at the Queen theatre Monday and Tuesday, began her remarkable professional career six years ago as a dancer.

The noted Broadway star of "The Noose" and "Burlesque," left school quietly one day at noon and returned to her Flatbush, Brooklyn, home a full-fledged dancer in the ballet of the Strand Roof in New York. She could dance and sing uncommonly well with the result that she came to the attention of producers of musical extravaganzas who require versatility above all other things. Her first Broadway show was "Keep Cool," a fast musical operetta; then "Gay Paree," and after that engagement the fulfillment of all her dreams—a season with the Follies.

Despite her astonishing success, Miss Stanwyck was discontented. She wanted her dancing and singing mere stepping stones to something better in the artistic firmament. She wanted to be a great dramatic star, thus sharing ambitions with thousands of other girls seeking honors on the legitimate stage.

Miss Stanwyck says that there was nothing unusual about the way she earned the lead in "The Noose." To use her own words, "I wanted the job, and they gave it to me."

Simple! She was a dancer and singer with no dramatic experience, except those strictly private rehearsals in front of her mirror. But she could not tell the producer that. She just wanted the job and they gave it to her.

Her performance in "The Noose" is one of the truly memorable bits of acting of recent years. Over night she became established as a star of the first importance. The vivid personality she was able to express made that play tremendously successful artistically and financially.

WOMEN In The World

Do women make themselves beautiful for the men or for themselves? Cecil Beaton, writing in the continental edition of the 'Daily Mail' asks this question and answers it by saying that nobody really knows the truth about the matter, but adds that it really is advisable for women to "spruce themselves up even for Englishmen, though they may not be able to specify just what it is that attracts or annoys them."

Women may think, he explains, that the men do not like the blood-red finger-nails and excessive make-up or some other detail of the prevalent fashion, but in spite of this they continue in the practice of these whims. Brightness and attractiveness, he agrees, are the chief assets for a woman, and most men prefer to listen and be amused rather than to worship sheer beauty.

On the other hand, though a woman may be bright and interesting she looks the slightest bit worn, tired or ill, she is laboring under a great disadvantage. All smart men realize that the young man must indulge in the game of pretense which everyone is already playing.

It is impossible, concludes the writer, "in our exaggeratedly lightened life for a young woman to create an effect if she is unadorned. The unadorned beauty is out of harmony in London as the simple peasant who takes to powdering in the fields."

And there is a great deal of good to be gained by the mental effect of being spruced up—you feel at your best, you possess radiance and brilliance, you may even be scintillating and witty under these conditions, you will be self-confident, and there is ever a chance that under these circumstances, you will radiate an aura of glamor against which no man is fully equipped."

Two women waiting on a Los Angeles street corner for a car exchanged remarks about the weather and discovered by mere chance, they were sisters who were last seen each other in their native Hungary, forty-five years ago.

Bill presented in the parliament Cairo, Egypt, would make women appear in short sleeves on the streets liable to imprisonment for "moral" conduct.

Of the forty-one girls of the seneschal of the Van Nuys High school in California are re-headed—one, a brunette and even she is a glint of bronze in her tresses.

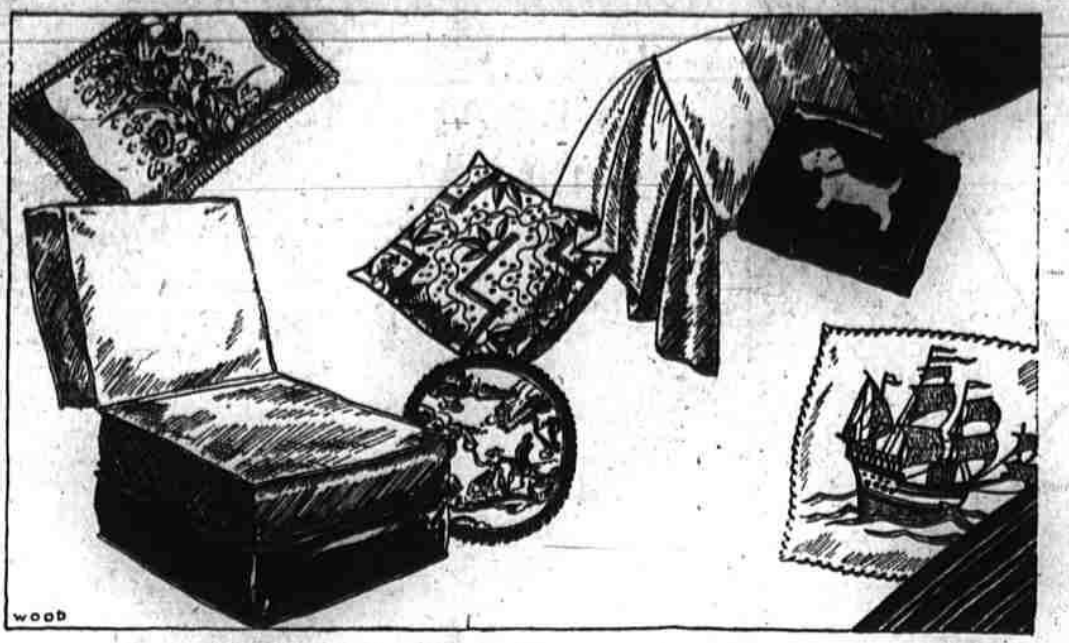

Lubbock Women To Support C. C. Small

LUBBOCK, Texas, July 13.—Reaching an extensive drive to this section for Senator Clint Small, candidate for the democratic nomination as governor of Texas, by a large majority, a gathering of all women interested in the campaign has been called Thursday afternoon at 5 o'clock at the home of Mrs. James H. Gilman, 2401 10th street.

Tale Without A Moral

When she was in the country she always longed for town. She never climbed a mountain that longed to scramble down. She saw a green leaf that she hoped would soon be fall, but she loved a short man that dreamed about a tall. She always in the city she envisioned plain and sea, she thought of open spaces while drinking neighbors' tea. She never she was happy as "she" she thought, "too soon she will be dissolved in weeping of some departed moon."

New Pillows Are Beauty-Covered Comfort

Quaint and varied designs make pillows more decorative nowadays. By MARGERY TAYLOR, Interior Decoration Editor. McCall's Magazine. Written for The Daily Herald. We are re-discovering comfort and the new pillows, for instance, are shamelessly comfortable, even when most decorative. When the "parlor" was the principal room pillows were either not permitted in it at all, or else they were made to fit in with the general ensemble of discomfort. Now there are pillows not only in harmony with the spirit of the room, but also in harmony with the spirit of comfort. For the Early American room, there are prim but congenial little patchwork pillows made from scraps of silk or calico, with neatly boxed corners and crisp ruffles. Applique pillows for such a room have motifs copied from old bedspreads, sampler patterns in cross stitch and other needlework types of design. Quaintness is the proper note and such pillows should be small. Large pillows are appropriate for the atmosphere of the English cottage kind of house. Preferably, they may be of damasks, brocatelles, cretonnes and printed linens. For the boudoir furnished in the French manner, fluffy oval pillows in lace or dainty flower designs wrought in brocade, are correct. Nowhere are pillows more effective than in the modernistic room, the straight line furniture of which needs the softening touch of fabrics. In such rooms, large loose pillows are welcome. Modern indeed are the huge 48-inch pillows which can be slipped on the floor when the crowd begins to outnumber the chairs. And the last word in comfort are the new three-deck pillows which may be piled up for a stool or unfolded for a couch. Of course, colors are important. With figured or striped upholstery, plain colored cushions are set off most effectively—and vice versa.

Tales Of The Old "Six Hoss" Stage Coaches

Comments On the June Issue of "Texas Monthly"

The Jackass Mail And Others Described In Clever Volume

By ONA REAGAN PARSONS "Six Horses" By Captain William Banning and George Hugh Banning (The Century Company). This is a delightful book for a motorist to carry on a vacation. It is a history of the "growth and decline of the stage lines of the west, and is intended to—and does—heighten one's appreciation of cars, paved highways and tourist camps. The Bannings—uncle and nephew—have delved into files of old newspapers and all the available books on the subject and have given us a generous account tinged with the originality of their own opinions, of the great stage tycoons, Birch, Butterfield, Majors and Russell, and Holladay. These were the men who bridged the continent, drawing together the east and the west while Congress debated and postponed the laying of railroad ties. The Early Days The idea of the stage coach's ability to serve a wide range of rough country originated with James E. Birch and Frank E. Stevens in California during the gold rush. California had 3000 miles of stage lines before a single stage crossed her boundary—the mail being carried either in steamers via Cape Horn or across the Salt Lake desert on mule-back. Stages carried gold dust ranging from $25 to hundreds of thousands of dollars strapped, often, in a wooden box thrown among the baggage, with seldom any other escort than the driver and passengers. No wonder Mr. Birch and Mr. Stevens became rich men. No one believed then that a stage coach could negotiate the passes of the high Sierras. One day a driver offered to drive a stage from Placerville (just south of Sacramento) into Utah and to determine from the drive what parts of the road needed grading before establishing a regular line. He carried the directors of the company who were going to put up the money. The road he laid out is today one of the main highways between California and Nevada. The Jackass Mail That ride is an interesting story but it is only the beginning of better stories. Poignant indeed is the account of Birch's death which left John Butterfield undisputed king of the "Jackass Mail," the popular name for the San Antonio and San Diego Mail. This mail route was established as the commencement of a stage line from railroad terminals in the east to the west coast. The southern route was chosen for an experiment, although it was a useless means of communication between the east and the west. Its connection with Texas interest us. Later on the Jackass Mail became part of the Butterfield system extending from Tennessee to California, but all the while it was a dangerous line and difficult to maintain. Drivers and passengers on it never knew what was coming

A Rural Prison Women Felons Are Given New Home

EAST LYME, Conn., July 13 (INS).—From facing the blank walls that stood a few feet from the barred openings of their cells, some thirty women prisoners of the state of Connecticut were suddenly transported, in late June, to a rural spot in the southeastern district of the state where they now look from quarters like college dormitory rooms over a blossoming countryside, backing a lake. The move represents the climax of Connecticut's effort to furnish better quarters for women who have fallen from conflict with the law. The new women's prison is a single new unit added to the state farm for women here, where minor offenders are sent in an effort toward reform. The thirty women were moved by motor bus from the old pile on the edge of the Connecticut river where the state prison has been located for more than a century. Colonial Structure In the group moved were three prisoners who once stood in the shadow of the gallows, whose death sentences were commuted to life imprisonment by the board of pardons. One Beattie Wakefield, whose sentence of death swept the country and brought a deluge of requests for clemency upon Governor Simeon E. Baldwin, had not been outside the prison walls at Wethersfield since the day she was taken there in 1911. She had been convicted of helping kill her husband, and her paramour was hanged for the crime. Outwardly, there are no prison signs about the new quarters for women prisoners which are contained in what from a distance appears to be one of the Colonial type homes that dot the hills along the shore of Long Island sound. Only on the rear of the structure, a long two-story brick building with a wing, are the windows barred, and these can be noted only after a close approach to the building. Inmates Comfortable Every inmate of the new building has a room of her own, with bed, chair, and dresser, and a separate lavatory. The resemblance to a college dormitory is striking. The women will be permitted to decorate the walls of their rooms. Each room has a window sharing in the wide-spread scene to the north among the hills that run down to the Connecticut river. Near the building is the spreading pool of Bride Brook, a historic stream, that, as it nears Long Island Sound, less than a mile away, forms a tidal pool. Connecticut spent about $135,000 on the new building without mitering rooms, a dining room, laundry, kitchen, dining

Shows Little Lack Of Material But Some Of Quality

THE JUNE MONTHLY This is the first number of the Texas Monthly that has come this reviewer's way since the March number for reasons known better to Uncle Sam than anyone else. There seems to be no lack of material for this magazine. Some of it is carefully written and hurriedly put together, as in the story of Judd Mortimer Lewis, but most of it is interesting. The sixth article in the series on Texas highways deals with the new McLennan county proposition for rerouting state highways and putting them on the outskirts of the towns. It is an article worth reading and digesting. The old idea that every tourist must travel down main street has long been discarded by thinking people in favor of the advantages of arranging state highways so they will not conflict with main street traffic and providing access to the business district for tourists who want to stop in town. "Cutting the Suspecter" is a humorous story of a Texas nimrod who went down into old Mexico for his game, and of the adventures that befell him and his wife. Dr. Simmons pays his final testimony to the fiction of Mollie E. M. Davis, an early Texas writer. Mr. Molyneux, the editor, announces that the July issue will contain an article by Marquis James telling how he wrote the biography of Sam Houston which won the Pulitzer prize. It alone will make the July issue worth watching for on the newsstands.

MRS. MESKIMER RETURNS

Mrs. H. S. Meskimer returns today from a six weeks' visit with her children, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Seibert of Fort Worth and Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Meskimer of Dallas.

RETURN FROM TRIP

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Lemmons and daughter, Miss Elva D. Lemmons, Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Smith and son, Dale, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Underwood and son, Horace, have returned from a few days fishing trip at Fort McKavett.

Today I want to tell you about a simple treatment for smoothing out those droopy little lines that will creep in around one's mouth. Of course, the skin first must be thoroughly cleaned. To do this easily and quickly, just spread cleansing cream over your face. Then remove the cream with soft cleansing tissues and pat skin tonic over your face. This banishes all traces of the cream and gently closes the pores again. Next, smooth tissue cream on your face, especially around the nose and mouth. If your skin is usually dry, substitute skin food for the cream. Now, with your

STYLE TALKS

Ahem! Not Without Honor Sour Notes Brimless Hats BY ADA E. LINGO

While the American women sweep the floor with their creations to the surprise of Paris, designers squabble over the correct lengths for lovely ladies' dresses. Although they will never reach the lengths shown below, according to many designers, they should at least reach the middle of the calf.

Knees, however, are rarely seen nowadays among women who have any pretensions to fashion, nor is there any sign that for formal out-of-door occasions this summer's chiffon gowns will catch the wearer unawares and trip her up. Sports women have adopted a length which is really graceful, especially on the golf-courses round Paris, for there both the abbreviated kilt and the six-inches-below-the-knee length are taboo. It is much better, however to be too long than too short, for nothing is more passe than the little illustration below.

The best thing is to use your good judgment. If you are of the bean pole type, don't lengthen your dresses to extreme and if you are fat and short you will look better if you adopt the "calf length cult."

THE COCKLES

It warms the cockles of our usually frigid heart to hear that some of the dear ladies of the town are really taking our little column seriously. For a long time (and we are still rather unconvinced) it looked like the old gag about the "prophet not without honor" save in his own old home town was gonna be true about us. You know people just will say, "My goodness, don't pay any attention to her, I knew her when she was just a harum scarpum little girl with long curls!" G-r-r-r!

This morning a friend (she must have been a friend) told us of the increase among the wearers of white-hats-gloves and-buttonholes with darker outfits since our cries in that direction. But from another section came the voice of one who laughed long and loudly at our missionary work among the gloveless. Take 'em as you will ladies. Ships' Doctor For Crew of 3

Mrs. Lenore Cook (above) is shown at wheel of schooner "Swordfish" (inset) which will take three year on its world cruise.

CHICAGO (AP)—Mrs. Lenore Cook, a bright-eyed young woman only a few years out of the University of Wisconsin, will be ship's doctor to a crew of four men on a three-year cruise of the seven seas. Her husband is one of the crew. Their schooner, a 40-foot two-master, the "Swordfish," will not return to this country until 1933, when Chicago's centennial exposition will be under way. The proposed itinerary includes Bermuda, the Panama Canal, New Zealand, Australia, the Malay archipelago, Suez canal, Greece, Italy, Gibraltar, Spain, France, Brazil, the east coast of the United States, and down the St. Lawrence and through the Great Lakes to Chicago.

Cook and his wife organized the trip to obtain material for books. Mrs. Cook is a painter and her husband, a graduate of Northwestern university's school of journalism, is an amateur photographer. Besides the Cooks, the "Swordfish" crew includes Earl Evans, who played football at Harvard; Paul, his brother, who played at Drake university; and Donald Dickinson, just 21, the radio operator, only a short time out of St. Johns Military academy. Paul Evans will act as the ship's engineer, while Earl will be captain. Mrs. Cook, as ship doctor, will double in brass, as ship cook.

American Women Becoming Famous As "Globe Trotters"

NEW YORK, July 13 (INS).—Englishwomen, long famous as the most casual of globe-trotters, have yielded the title of champion travelers to the women of America. Americans are more on the go than any other nation, according to Mme. Helena Rubinstein, of London, Paris, and New York, a world traveler who has knocked about considerably herself in her capacity of beauty envoy extraordinary to the women of five continents. "Within the next three months, 12,500,000 American women will prove that the sturdy spirit of their pioneer forebears still lives by exchanging comfortable home routine for the uncertainties of tourist camps, shacks in the woods, Pullman cars and excursion steamers," Mme. Rubinstein said in an address here. "The moderate-priced automobile enables the modest-salaried business woman to satisfy her desire 'to go and for to see' and the pleasure-plane spurs the favored daughter of fortune to go places. "More fastidious than the sturdy generations who plodded over the prairies in wagon-trains, or jaunted to the county seat at fair-time, the women of our generation confront a brand-new-beauty problem in the sensitiveness of the skin to changes in atmospheric conditions while traveling. The least variation from routine, travelwise women realize, may cause the skin to peel or otherwise react unfavorably. "But the traveler of today, who carries a beauty-kit stocked with creams and lotions adapted to her individual skin, is infinitely better off than those other women travelers who relied on crude, often home-made, soaps and the local water-supply as complexion aids. It is advisable, when moving from place to place and climate to climate, to have an ample supply of preparations which cleanse, soothe, and protect the skin. Lips that become chapped or dry from buffeting by the wind should be creamed thoroughly each time cream is applied to other parts of the face. The new sun-and-wind-proof balms effectively prevent burning. If rubbed into parts of the body which may be exposed to sun of wind."

From Stewardess To Officer Is Story Of Russian Woman

BY CHARLES A. SMITH International News Service Staff Correspondent LONDON, July 13.—Meet Tatiana Diechenko, the first woman in the Russian mercantile marine to reach the rank of officer. Slight in physique and with her hair Eton-cropped, Tatiana has arrived in the Thames River aboard the freighter Siber, in which she holds the rank of third officer. A woman of about 30, Tatiana wears a man-officer's uniform with the regulation peak cap and knee-boots. She has worked her way up the ladder from the position of stewardess, in which she first went to sea several years ago. These are six other women sailors on board the Siber, "mainly stewardesses, so that Tatiana does not lack feminine company. But she says she prefers to work among the men. "I am ambitious to command a ship and I shall not be satisfied until I do," Tatiana said when interviewed in the middle of paying the crew of 50 in notes and silver. "I have done the round trip from Russia to England more times than I can remember. I take my turn on watch, even in the roughest weather. "A heavy gale is a stern test, whether for a man or a woman, particularly while navigating on the bridge. I like the work, however, and would not think of taking up a shore occupation again."

YELLOWJACKET'S BITE ALMOST PROVES FATAL

BONNEVILLE, Cal.—(INS).—Stung by a yellowjacket which apparently had fed on the venom of a dead rattlesnake, Will Hawkins, Anderson Valley rancher, almost lost his life here. Hawkins was stung on the top of the head by the insect. Almost immediately his head and face began to swell and turn black. His limbs became cold and numb and Hawkins became nauseated. Dr. L. K. Allen, of Ukiah, gave emergency treatment, which is believed saved Hawkins' life. The physician declared that yellowjackets that feed on dead rattlesnakes develop a poisonous sting which is almost as serious as a snake bite.

BOOKS And Bookmakers

Texas writers have left this state for cooler counties in which to spend July and August—and September if royalties have been good lately. One can determine who had the best sellers by gauging their distance away from Texas heat; a check-up on passport offices would reveal the—more successful pen wielders of the past season.

The Century company threw a party recently to celebrate the publication of CASANOVA JONES, with its author, Joseph Anthony, a honor guest.

Colin Clements, who writes detective stories, gives a rule for writing them which should really be enforced among members of the detective authors' union, namely that "there must be a murder; and the murderer must be rational. Having a crazy murdered is cheating."

Shella-Kaye Smith says one advantage of long novels is they are bound to get favorable reviews. Reviewers simply haven't time to read a novel which is twice or three times as long as it should be, and the writer gets the benefit of the doubt.

Here's one writer, then, who must have been given that benefit at times, since she is willing to admit there's that much good in reviewers.

Arnold Bennett's book, How to Live on Twenty-Four Hours a Day, published twenty-four years ago, is still selling 3,000 copies annually. He wrote it in two weeks and was advised not to publish it.

John Drinkwater is writing a life of Carl Laemmle, the movie producer.

Rosamond Lehmann's new novel, A Note in Music, gets its title from Walter Savage Landor: "But the present, like a note in music, is nothing but as it appertains to what is past and what is to come."

Sara Teasdale has called for France for the summer. Her new book, Stars Tonight, takes its title from one of her most exquisite poems.

May Frank, on the Daily Oklahoman, writes the following "Open Letter" to Farrar and Rinehart, who have recently announced that only a certain few of their books will be published in the new $1 edition: Dear Mister Rinehart. And Mister Farrar. You've gone. I'm thinking. A little too far.

And I'm very much fearing That you've sowed the germ Of serious trouble For you and your firm.

You know authors are given To meeting in groups, And often grow into Quite terrible snoops.

And when three are gathered In intrachoor's name Each tries to impress on The others his fame.

And I can imagine The three-dollar class As saving with malice And manners quick brass.

"Yours' is, so they tell me, A one dollar book!" Oh you will be sorry That you undertook.

This tricky caste system When you try to appease Those who come away angry From literary teas. Miss Frank's advice is unusually good, we concur. What's going to be the outcome of the price war, anyway?

face well covered with cream, dip the finger tips in muscle oil. Placing the middle and index fingers of each hand at the corners of your upper lip, gently smooth outward your cheeks and repeat until the skin feels toned and stimulated. As your fingers stroke across those little mouth lines, the rich muscle oil acts like a host of fairy fingers, patting and smoothing your face; and the tissue cream or skin food blends with the natural oils to soften the skin. If your skin is not too oily, take this treatment just before going to bed, and leave the excess cream and oil on your face all night.

The World Does Move

THE LATE Senator "Bob" LaFollette used to remark humorously that most of the "ultra-radical" measures he sponsored at the beginning of his political career were ultimately adopted by the conservatives who continued to look on him as a dangerous theorist.

All of this is called to mind by the fact that the conference of American governors at Salt Lake City the other day devoted a good share of its time to the discussion of old age and unemployment pensions.

A few years ago no one but a group of socialists would have talked of such measures seriously.

Our children, very likely, will be equally hospitable to some of the things that we today look on as revolutionary and dangerous.

OPINIONS OF OTHERS

Lawyerless Courts

A lawyerless court in which defendants will plead their own cases is one of the remedies suggested by an Atlantic, Georgia, grand jury.

The grand jury urged that civil cases involving amounts up to $25 be tried in a court with a salaried judge to hear them, and that plaintiffs be required to put up a cost of $1 before the case would be heard.

While there is considerable question as to whether anyone even in a court of justice of the peace should be prohibited from engaging legal counsel it is possible that the system of the plaintiff only depositing the costs would unconsciously, perhaps, have a subtle influence in making the court incline without mental volition toward the claims of the paying side.

HOW'S YOUR HEALTH

Hereditarily in Hay Fever

Hereditarily plays a prominent role in predisposing the individual to hay fever, and numerous conditions such as asthma.

A recent study revealed that 60 percent of hay fever sufferers were the offspring of parents, one or both of whom suffered from the disease.

Where both parents suffered from either hay fever or asthma, their children, when manifesting hyper-sensitiveness, did so before the tenth year of age.

In cases where only one of the parents suffered, or where there was no parental history of hay fever or asthma, the symptoms usually did not appear until after the tenth year of life.

Family predisposition alone will not bring on either hay fever or asthma. The individual must become sensitive through intimate contact with the provoking agent.

In hay fever, this agent is always some plant pollen, in asthma it may be any of many proteins.

The parent may be sensitive to ragweed and the child to oak pollen. Again, the parent may suffer only hay fever and the child asthma.

A NICE GIRL COMES TO TOWN

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Reversing the usual order of things Hollywoodian, the little shop where movie stars slightly used apparel is sold for charity has held its more or less formal opening after business began.

It was a novel opening for Hollywood, too, in that no arc lights blinded the eyes, and the stars wore no glittering gowns.

It was a tea, in the heat of the afternoon—but as many stars were there as grace many a movie premiere.

Mary Pickford, Dolores del Rio, June Collyer, Mary Brian, Hedda Hopper, Ruth Roland, Mae Murray and Colleen Moore were only a few of those who rewarded the fans clustered outside, pressing dangerously against the plate-glass windows, with glimpses of celebrity by daylight.

Present also were screen notables of another day—Florence Turner, in her time Miss Pickford's chief screen rival, and Ruth Stonehouse, now married and retired.

Freddy chuckled. "Credit to you? Who gave you the chance to get training to be a good dancer? You know I've never stunted you."

"Well, I've paid you back, haven't I?" she demanded. "How about all those jobs I've helped you pull off?"

"Oh, yes, those jobs. What would Master Brynmor think about them? She decided to try another line of argument.

"Come on, Freddy, be a sport," she pleaded. "I've always wanted to go straight, marry into decent society. This is a good chance for me, and I hate to turf it down. Besides, I'm fond of Brynmor. He's a decent kid."

Freddy yawned and stretched his arms. "I've told you what's what, Clary. You either give up all ideas of this wedding, or I'll spill the beans to the handsome bridegroom. He'll be amused to hear of the little trick we turned together at the Emerald Dragon. It's funny, but didn't occur on the very night that you became engaged to him? Quite romantic, I'd say."

With that he left her. She heard him chuckling in the hallway as the maid handed him his coat and hat. But she didn't hear the few words he whispered in the girl's ear.

The last vestige of her self-control snapped as she heard the door close behind him. Her whole frame shook with an intense fury. So Freddy thought he could stop the wedding, did he? Well, for once he had overstepped the mark.

She wasn't going to have her whole life ruined just because of him. She'd outwit him—but how? That needed thought.

Was she to confess everything to Brynmor? Trust to his love to prevent him backing out? That solution she set aside as being too risky.

She never had been wholly convinced of Brynmor's love. At times it flavored too much of infatuation. Besides, there were the objections of his father, Colonel Whitlamore.

No, the danger was too great. Somehow she must contrive so that Brynmor was left in ignorance at least until after the ceremony.

"If only Freddy could be kept out of the way for the next few fore I want home, miss," the girl apologized. Clary didn't comment, but her suspicions were aroused.

Why should there have been muddy footprints in the hall when it hadn't rained that day?

In the light of his approaching marriage, Brynmor had dismissed all worries about Freddy Mason. Instead, his mind was agog with thoughts of the wedding—and the Paris honeymoon with Clary. He had the special license and tickets to Paris in his pocket.

He glanced at the evening paper as he dashed homeward. The headlines read: "Daredevil Tony Still Missing."

That meant continued grief for Mary Lou. At once Brynmor had the impulse to telephone her and extend his sympathy. Surely it would do no harm, and it might cheer her up.

Mary Lou's voice sounded truly grateful when he did call. "Oh, yes, we're still hopeful," she replied to his question. "I'll let you know if we hear anything."

Her sincerity embarrassed Brynmor. "I'm afraid I won't be here for the next few days," he stammered. "You see, I'm being married tomorrow. We're going to Paris for a few days, you know."

He felt tactless in saying it, yet Mary Lou seemed positively enthused. He had to admit that she had been the best kind of a sport about the whole affair.

"She's a topping kid," he pondered as he hung up the receiver. "Wish I hadn't been so mean to her that first night she came to town. But, after all, that's a thing of the past."

Immediately his thoughts swung to the future. Tomorrow at this time he and Clary would be on their way to Paris—and two weeks of excitement.

He dressed rapidly. Clary didn't know of his plans for a honeymoon, and he was eager to break the news to her.

Brynmor had considered his father's objections to the marriage, but they didn't seem so serious now. What could his father say, once he was really married? Colonel Whitlamore always had been reasonable about most things, and Brynmor only hoped he would take a decent attitude when it came to accepting Clary as a daughter-in-law.

He hailed a cab and urged the driver to make all possible speed toward Clary's flat. He had walked the distance many times, but tonight it seemed that the cab was inexorably slow. Congested traffic at several corners made it even worse.

Finally Brynmor stepped out, his face flushed with the excitement of anticipation. He ran up the walk, and started to ascend the stairs to Clary's door. A sound behind him made him look back.

As he did so he felt the grip of a hand on his arm, and the figure of a man stood beside him in the dimly lighted stairway.

"Hello, Whitlamore. Just going up to see Clary, were you? I think I'll come along, too."

Brynmor recognized the voice immediately, and with a sharp sense of annoyance. Who else except Freddy Mason spoke with such a sneer? What was he doing here tonight, of all times? Thoroughly disgruntled by the fellow's interruption, he turned to face Mason directly.

"What's the big idea, Mason?" he demanded in irate tones. "I'm sick of seeing you whenever I come to see Clary. What's your game in trailing me like this, anyway? I'm taking Clary out to dinner tonight, and I want no interference from you or anyone else."

It was the first time Brynmor had unloosed his steadily growing wrath against Mason, and he was rather surprised at his own outburst. He half expected Mason to retort with blows, but Freddy only grinned.

"Calm yourself, lad," he replied. "I won't be bothering you much longer. If we never see each other again, we're going to see Clary together this time. Understand?"

Brynmor decided it was best to say nothing, and they mounted the stairs to Clary's door.

SHORT JACKET
OUR favorite authority, Mrs.
Holland Little of the Womans Home Companion
quotes the following from her Paris correspondent in her last style letter:

Short jackets seem to be necessary adjuncts to almost all the sports dresses here at Le Touquet. Sometimes they match in color and material like the one described above.
Or they contrast like Patous' red crepe de Chine jacket over a pure white frock, or a navy woolen double-breasted type over a white shantung dress.
Another style is a white jacket lined with a vivid color such as yellow worn over a white frock with a yellow belt. As to length, each individual figure is suited with a jacket line that stops anywhere between the hips and the fingertips.

MAYBE SHE DOESN'T

We saw a luffly looking young woman on the corner of Bliss Drug Store the other day.
She was smartly dressed in white—white crepe dress, cut after the newest and most sophisticated trend—white the Gods of Fashion)—WHITE

but (and here we weep to tell)

WHAT THEY SAY
ABOUT NEW HATS

New hat styles will have to be accepted with reservations by many women.
There are two definitely new lines. First, the hat cut so far back as to show a generous portion of the front hair—almost to the center of the top of the head—with the wide brim rolled up in front and sometimes in back, as well, and draped irregularly.

Needless to say, these hats should be worn only by women with regular features, for they throw the face into high relief.
The second tendency is the symmetrical line, much easier to wear. Crowns are cut up and brims are rolled up high at one side and they descend very low at the other.

Often the left eye, eyebrow, section of the forehead and ear are entirely exposed, while the right eye is shadowed by the descending brim or drapery, which may hide the whole right side of the face.

Velvet is the leading material. Felts are returning, but they usually show mixed surfaces, chine, spotted or shaded.
Felt is often combined with velvet. Feather or fur trimmings are new.

Leading colors are black, the new monk and wine browns and red in rich brown and wine tones.

Since Medieval times, when the Difficulties

Indians, weather conditions, everything, in fact, seemed to conspire against the traveler on the Jackass Mail. But the Overland Mill Co., the northern route later established, suffered the same way.

There is such a wealth of interesting material that it is hard for a reviewer to select the most interesting incidents. One wonders how the authors felt about the same thing. There are Horace Greeley's famous trip with Hank Monk and Mark Twain's experience. There is Mr. Demas Barnes' journey when the driver was shot by the Indians and he had to drive the six horses into California.

A chapter is devoted to the Pony Express where Buffalo Bill made his debut into the spotlight.

There is much about Holladay who picked up the reins from Butterfield and was unable to handle the Indians. There are several chapters on the Indian raids.

Among them are stories of the bravery of the drivers, dying at their seat of duty, their last words being commands to the horses or advice to the inexperienced passengers who had to take their places at the reins.

Bravery Common

People were brave in those days.
Ladies in crinoline skirts and mothers with families of small children did not hesitate to make the trans-continental trip in the stage coaches. But the coaches, we are given to understand, were more comfortable than we think,

and well adapted to rough roads.

It is a book crammed with humor, with information, with sentimental drivel occasionally, with human interest stories that have the additional glamour of being true. One can't imagine a Westerner reading it without having thrills playing tattoo up and down his spinal column.

hall, and recreation room. Within the building reside the overseers, both men and women, who are established in quarters that are located with a strategic intent, giving oversight of the corridors, and providing quick access to any portion of the structure in case of emergency.

Advantage Of Home Down-hill, and hidden from the new building, are cottages and executive buildings of the state farm for women. The only connection between the two divisions lies in the fact that Miss Elizabeth Munger, matron of the farm, is in charge of the new institution. Miss Munger is working along reform lines.

For Connecticut intends to reform as well as to punish the women who offend against the laws of the state. Those who have charge of penal institutions in Connecticut believe the new plant will have a tendency to help the women change their lives. At least, the executives say, the inmates of the new institution never had such a place in which to live, nor have they ever had such advantages as now they are given.

ty of foodstuffs which sustain the inner man. The other has improved the purity and potency of the cosmetics which nourish the outer woman.

"Food-chemistry and cosmetic-chemistry are both supplementary to researches in biochemistry," said Mme. Rubenstein, who received her preliminary training in the medical schools of Vienna.

"We have only to consider the horrible hocus-pokus which passed for science as recently as the time of the Renaissance to appreciate the contribution of the modern cosmetic-chemist to the well-being of womankind.

"Acting on the advice of the best cosmetic authorities of her day, this lady was in the habit of rubbing her noble countenance, for such a period as would take the reciting of three crudos, with crumbs of stale bread, moistened in a turbid liquid compound of the milk of a red goat and of an ass, distilled with white anise, asparagus and white lilies, a treatment guaranteed to remove swartheness and pimples in five weeks' time.

"For the removal of cheek-moles, the young duchess used an unguent of snakes' fat, plovers' blood, and powdered lizards, fried in a skillet. Her favorite tooth-powder was made of white coral and seed pearls, ground in a mortar.

"Poor duchess!"

NEW LAWS SAFEGUARD
YOUNG ENGLISH GIRLS

LONDON.—(INS)—New legislation just passed will safeguard young English dancing girls from perils of bogus foreign tours, which have proved, in the past, a dangerous trap for many innocent young women.

It is now illegal for any chorus girl under eighteen to accept a foreign engagement except with her parents' consent and under license from a high police magistrate.

Hitherto it has been possible for disreputable theatrical managers to persuade these girls to go abroad for "musical" and "theatrical" engagements which have turned out to be neither musical nor theatrical.

BUTTONS-ON-BRIMS
TRANSFORM BERETS

PARIS (AP)—Sport berets of the same material as sport dresses with detachable brims that button on are a variation of midsummer millinery.
When the brim is worn without the button, it forms the usual head-evenly spaced buttons.
