Boycott Of German Jews On

No Disorder Reported As Shops Close

Paint Splashed Across Windows To Identify Jewish Ones

BERLIN (AP) — Brown-shirted nazis with buckets of paint tramped Berlin's business section Saturday, stopping at each Jewish-run shop and splashing paint across show window signs, identifying the place.

No disorder was reported the end of the afternoon. Few Jews were seen.

The populace seemed to accept the situation in a picnic spirit. The boycott began at 10 a. m. Many Jewish shops remained open at that hour despite the signs on the show windows. Big department stores and Jewish chain stores throughout Germany remained open.

There will be some public political skull splitting if Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Farley do not loosen up on patronage soon. The inside situation here is nearing a sub-rosa revolt. Here are some of the things that have happened and been kept quiet.

A northwestern progressive Democratic senator has informed Postmaster General Farley that Mr. Farley knows what he can do with the patronage of his state that the senator is through.

The governor of a midwestern state was called here March 2 for what was to have been a cabinet post and has been kept sitting since then in the lobby of the Mayflower Hotel twiddling his thumbs.

The Democratic cloakroom of each Congressional House sounds like a madhouse with nearly everyone mad because the appointment of college professors are about the only ones coming from the White House.

Congressmen figure that Louis Howe said the intercollegiate brain trust around Mr. Roosevelt are in charge of patronage. They made the deduction by checking up on the names already announced.

Those recommended by Postmaster General Farley have generally been held back. Those recommended by Howe and the professors have been sent to the senate.

That may not cause many tears out in the country where patronage means nothing. It will make plenty of difference with the whole underlying situation in Government here because patronage is what Washington feeds on.

It may turn out that Mr. Roosevelt is playing a wise game. He knows his Congressmen. It is no secret that he has held appointments up because he wanted to get his program through first.

Names of those most angered at the moment would make interesting reading. They are not being made public for a good reason. It would prejudice Mr. Roosevelt in appointing them later.

So far the only public break has been that of former Governor Arthur Mullen of Nebraska. He turned down a life judge-ship without explanation. The inside on that is he thought he ought to have had something better. His friends thought so too. As Roosevelt floor manager at Chicago he performed an important service. But some of those who have Mr. Roosevelt's ear did not think so highly of him for the New Deal.

These growing family squabbles may give you an idea of what Mr. Roosevelt is up against behind those gold lace White House curtains. He can not please everyone. But he had better please a majority if he wants to avoid trouble.

Add to those cited patronage was the case of: The Oklahoma lawyer who came

Buffalo Trial Scout Jamboree Plans Finished In Meeting Of Executives Here Friday Evening

Annual Outing At City Park Opens At 4 P. M. May 7 With Selection Of Camp Sites; Annual Camp Also Discussed

Four good men are candidates for two places on the board of city commissioners to be filled in the city election of Tuesday.

Whoever happens to serve during the next year on the commission will be confronted with matters that will be difficult to solve. No matter who is selected or how earnestly they try the people of Big Spring are not due to receive sufficient taxation relief in the next two or three years to be felt to any appreciable extent in the rank and file of property owners.

As it is wonderful economies have been made in the past two years. As that great friend of Big Spring, Ollie B. Webb of the Texas and Pacific, said recently, if city officials here had not started retrenching two years ago the people's city treasury would now be $177,000 worse off.

Most every other town in the country would give almost anything to have had such reductions in cost of operating the city governments.

But, in spite of all these retrenchments it was possible to reduce the city tax rate only five per cent per $100 this year. That, indeed, was one of the few instances among towns of this size where lower tax rates were received.

Why, then, can Big Spring not hope for any material reduction in taxes this year or next year?

First, and foremost among reasons for this is that payment of taxes has dwindled here, as in all other towns. Only sixty per cent of taxes levied were paid this year.

Second: property valuations for taxes are going down instead of staying on an even keel. Valuations here shrank almost ten per cent this year. That means that if the tax rate were not lowered income from taxes would automatically be cut 10 per cent if all had been paid. When the budget for the fiscal year now ending was adopted it was on a basis of 10 per cent reduction in valuations. The valuations, however, lacked a little of shrinking 10 per cent, so the remainder of the 10 per cent predicted for the purpose of fixing the budget, was given back to the taxpayers in the form of a cut of five cents per $100 in the tax rate.

Third: Figuring sixty per cent

Four In Race For Places On Commission

T. J. A. Robinson Withdraws; Two Places On Board To Be Filled

Names of four men, two seeking re-election and two others, will appear on the ballot for the city election here Tuesday at which two members of the board of city commissioners will be chosen.

T. J. A. Robinson, the fifth man who had announced as a candidate, withdrew Saturday and issued a statement urging his friends to support Leo Nall and J. W. Allen.

The incumbents who are standing for re-election are H. Hinman and J. L. Webb.

Terms of the other three commissioners expire next April. All are elected for two-year terms.

Mr. Robinson's statement of withdrawal follows: "To the voters of the city of Big Spring—

"Realizing the present conditions existing in our city and town, and knowing that in the coming election there must be two city commissioners elected by the people to represent them, and believing that J. W. Allen and Leo Nall stand for the same principles of an economic administration that I stand for, I hereby withdraw from the race as City Commissioner and sincerely request that my friends see fit to support Mr. Allen and Mr. Nall in their race for City Commissioners, and hereby give my wholehearted support and sincere cooperation to them and to the principles for which they stand, and wishing them the greatest success in the coming election, pausing, however, at this time, to give my thanks to my many friends and supporters who have seen fit to run me in this race, and asking them to lend their efforts and support to the above candidates at that the interest of all may be preserved and the welfare of our town be safe guarded.

"Again thanking you, I am, "Yours truly, "T. J. A. Robinson.

More than a score scouts of this area attended the executive board meeting here Friday evening to which district committee chairman Lloyd M. O'Neal, deputy regional executive, addressed the men after dinner at the Settles hotel.

Resolutions of respect for two late members of the council official personnel were to be drawn by a committee appointed by the board in memory of W. W. Davis of Sweetwater and C. S. Holmes of Big Spring.

L. J. Greer was elected treasurer to succeed the late Mr. Davis. The board and district committee chairmen voted to follow the same program for the Jamboree this year as was adhered to last year. The affair will be staged on the Frank Pool property immediately east of the city park.

Troops will draw for camp sites beginning at 4 p. m. May 5 and will camp out over night. At the council fire that night different troops will present stunts. The public will be invited to this function.

Up with the bugle on May 6, about 500 scouts will stand in salutes while the flag goes up. They cook their own breakfast and prepare for camp inspection.

After contests during the morning they will be feted to a luncheon tendered by citizens of Big Spring.

A committee was appointed to investigate a date and site for the council camp. Cos were fixed at $5 for the first week, and $4 for the second week a scout is in camp. Transportation will be additional.

Attending the meeting were A. C. Williamson, C. E. Paxton, L. J. Greer, B. H. McLain, Dr. E. W. Prothro, Dr. P. T. Quant of Sweetwater; Jim Green and J. H. Ferguson of Colorado; Lloyd O'Neal of Dallas; Rev. John Thomas of Coahoma; Edmund Nofestino, Walton Morrison, J. R. Phillips, D. Phillips, Jack Cummings, Rev. John C. Thorns, John R. Hutto, Dr. Lee O. Rogers, Dr. M. H. Bennett, Dr. W. B. Hardy, Dr. J. R. Dillard of Big Spring.

This community will be privileged to witness a "Day in an Indian Camp" this afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Municipal Auditorium.

A characteristic musical under the direction of Mrs. Bruce Frazier will be done with an Indian setting and in native costumes. All solo parts will be sung by her students in voice who will be supported by picked members of the high school choral club.

Mrs. Ira Thurman assists in the program as the reader who gives a verbal sketch of the program.

Costuming, painting, and stage setting are all the work of Mrs. Jim Schmidley. Woodland flute calls will be played by F. C. Scott, while Margaret Wade handles the violin obligato.

The program is varied to suit all tastes, opening with ceremonial and primitive songs a touch of the Indian classics, popularized Indian songs, and concludes with excerpts from light opera by the two master composers of Indian music.

Startling Facts Given By Local School Superintendent In Report To State Teachers' Association

City Schools Inspite Of Two Million Cut In Valuations, Reductions In Force And Salaries, May Have To Take Shortened Session

A vivid picture of the local school situation is painted in the report by Superintendent W. C. Blankenship to H. W. Stillwell, Texarkana, president of the Texas State Teachers' Association.

Crammed full of crisp but nonetheless vital facts, the report sets out clearly retrenchments made in the past year to meet the financial emergency. It makes startling revelations.

Valuations for district school taxes were sliced from $10,368,100 in 1931 to $8,469,230 for the 1932-33 session, or a decrease of nearly two million dollars.

Prior to the 1930-31 school year per centage of taxes usually collected ran about ninety-five. For the following year it dropped to seventy-nine, and this year it hit a new low with sixty-two per cent collected.

Under valuations it was estimated that taxable assessments for the next year might be cut by a maximum of twenty-five percent with a probable increase in delinquent taxes of twenty per cent.

The maintenance tax rate has been decreased five per cent within the past two years in order to meet bond requirements, and may be reduced by another ten per cent.

Big Spring Legionnaires Finishing Arrangements For Convent Here This Month Of Sixteenth District

Convention Parade Scheduled For Six P. M. April 15; List Of Speakers Unusually Strong; Scout Drum Corps To Help

With less than two weeks separating them and the 16th district American Legion convention, local legionnaires are fast completing arrangements for entertaining delegates at the gathering here April 15-16.

With the exception of Carl Nesbit, state commander from Minnecola, all speakers contacted have given definite answers. It is possible that Nesbit will attend.

Theo C. Thomas has taken up his duties as acting post commander during the retirement of C. L. Eryant, because of illness.

Registration of delegates will begin at 10 a. m. on the morning of April 15. Early in the afternoon a golf tournament will be staged with trap shooting coming soon afterwards. All day delegates will be guests at time during the

Vealmoor's School Term Is Cut Short

Financial Difficulties Force Shut Down After Six Months

Vealmoor school closed its doors Friday afternoon the victim of financial difficulties.

After six months of school, funds have been exhausted and the school district is in debt for maintenance and lacks funds to properly meet bond and interest payments.

Local tax money for the district would not care for interest on the bonds, let alone aid in maintenance.

Teachers of the school have received only one pay check, however, they will be paid for all six months as soon as state aid and apportionment money is received.

No other schools in the county are reported in danger of closing immediately.

March, After Coming In Like Lamb, Goes Out About Same Way

March, which came in like a lamb, made a very much exit here to small tradition, but not until it exerted its lion-like temper in a last effort to go out like the king of beasts.

Scarcely had the lamb's bleat been heard when the roar of the lion and Big Spring and Howard county witnessed many windy days during the month. Worst was the dust storm of the 11th when it took a day and night, and half another day to settle the dirt.

400 Millions Affected By New Decision

Wants No Veteran To Feel He Is Being Singled Out To Take Cut

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Roosevelt Saturday ordered reductions in veterans allowances totaling approximately four hundred millions of dollars effective July 1.

In a statement the president said "I do not want any veteran to feel he and his comrades are being singled out to make sacrifices," explaining that every government employe is making his contribution to the economy program.

Girl And Boy Performers Hold A Rodeo

Any Lack Of Professional Skill Replaced By Much Fun

These schoolboy and girl cowhands gave a rodeo Saturday to raise funds for the traditional junior-senior banquet got a good share of money and acquired their share of painful bruises besides.

For what they lacked in professional skill, they made up in comely brought on by something that hinted of awkwardness, or better stated, stage fright.

Ruben Creighton took premier honors in the school boy roping contest with a prolonged fifty-six seconds. Tim Martin, 16-year-old man of the show, pushed him to take second place with one minute and nine seconds. They were the only two to catch.

Red Long did himself proud to win in the steer riding contest sticking with his "navvick in first style. John Wayne Brown dug his spurs into his mounts hide and bounced home for second place.

The kid who gave his name as Mexican and then went on to bound all over his steers back was awarded third prize. Of ten that rode, five didn't ride. They mingled with the dusty turf of the field.

H. A. Landers thrilled with an exhibition of bronc busting.

In the girls horse race Modesta Good took across the finish line leading by a very slight margin. Close behind was Betty Fay, Bachelor with Ruby Hughes scarcely a nose to the rear. Mary Lee Hall was a good fourth.

Three Barrymores At Ritz In "Rasputin And The Empress"

Romanoffs' Fall Shown Upon Screen

Ethel Barrymore Joins Her Brothers John and Lionel In Play

Unprecedented spectacle, a dramatic plot which reflects world history, and the most notable theatrical family in the world, lend glamor to "Rasputin and the Empress," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's superfilm, telling the story of the fall of the Romanoffs, and bringing together for the first time on the screen, John, Ethel and Lionel Barrymore.

Author of "Hits" "Filmed from an original story by Charles MacArthur, famous for "The Front Page," "Lulu Belle," "The Sin of Madelon Claudet" and other hits with which his name has been coupled, the huge production was directed by Richard Boleslavsky, war hero, author, director in the Moscow Art Theatre and producer of such stage spectacles as "The Miracle" and "The Vagabond King."

Rasputin, the Mad Monk, is played by Lionel Barrymore, the ill-fated Czarina by Ethel, the Prince Chegodieff by John in the new production, which will play at the Ritz theatre today and Monday, following its successful run at the Astor Theatre in New York City.

The story tells of the strange man, Rasputin, who by curing the little Russian Czar with a deadly ailment, makes the superstitious Czar and Czarina his slaves, rules Russia through them, precipitates a riot of orgy, meddles with politics and finally plunges Russia into the World War. Then, after the death of the revolution, the story tells of the doom of the Romanoff dynasty. Authentic make-up literally reincarnates the original actors in the strange drama, and huge settings, absolutely true to the originals, add further realism.

The spectacular court audience with hundreds of brilliantly garbed attendants, the great cathedral scene and the huge review are among the spectacles, believed to be the most impressive since the advent of the talkies. The dramatic incidents include the hypnotizing of the little prince until he turns like a beast on John Barrymore, the fantastic orgy in Rasputin's apartment, the plot by which Rasputin sends the Czar into the war, the quarrel with the Grand Duke Igor and the ruin of his daughter, the execution of the nihilists, the betrayal of the little Grand Duchess, the sinister vengeance of the nobles on the Mad Monk, the amazing episode of the microscope, the declaration of war, and the romantic interlude between John Barrymore and Diana Wynyard.

M. E. Hair, teacher of languages at Ranger, is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Hair, for the week-end.

Miss Colbert And Fredric March Co-Starred In 'Tonight Is Ours' Playing At Ritz Theater Two Days

Claudette Colbert and Fredric March are co-starred in "Tonight Is Ours," screen adaptation of the romantic play by Noel Coward, which plays at the Ritz Theater Tuesday and Wednesday.

It marks the first appearance of March on the screen since he won the award of the Motion Picture Academy of Arts and Sciences for the best performance of 1932.

The witty but romantic flavor of "Private Lives," a sensational movie success, best-known of Coward's plays, characterizes "Tonight Is Ours." It too is a story of clever, amusing people, outwardly giddy but actually devoted and tender toward each other.

Miss Colbert is cast as a girl who has thrown aside the responsibilities of a kingdom for a fling at Paris, and March as a young wealthy Parisian who insists on taking the fling with her. Together they race gayly through the French capital, fully enjoying the pleasures of the town, but more fully enjoying each other. Their moments alone are moments of tender, deep-flowing passion. A strange trick of the fates almost upsets their lives, but a surprising, dramatic climax sets everything to rights.

Alison Skipworth, veteran stage actress who has scored brilliant success in character roles in "If I Had a Million," "Night After Night," and "Madame Racketeer," heads the supporting cast. Others in featured roles are Arthur Byron and Paul Cavanaugh.

The West Side Baptist W. M. U. met Thursday in a business session followed by a short missionary program on "World Peace."

Those present were: Mmes. G. B. Richbourg, C. O. Murphy, L. E. Jobe, Ida Butler, E. L. Hull, C. B. Franklin, Myrtle Knox, M. G. Clonbrook, Emma Ebers, O. T. Thornion, Mae Robinson, Arrington and Miss Wilrena Richbourg.

Summerville And Pitts In New Comedy

'They Just Had To Get Married' Thursday Feature At Ritz

The cast of "They Just Had To Get Married," hilarious farce comedy which is booked to play at the Ritz Theater on Thursday, includes so many well known comedians, who have been stars in their own right on stage and screen, that it reads like a veritable bluebook of filmdom's comedians.

In the first place, there is Slim Summerville, Universal's premier comedian, who has been starred or several years in features and in riotous two-reelers. Slim has been in pictures since 1913, when he started as an extra in Keystone Comedies. Since that time his long, lanky form and his dry, quaint humor, his hopeless, awkward gestures have established him as one of the best-loved comedians of the screen, and his appearance in "All Quiet on the Western Front" always the signal for anticipatory chuckles on the part of the audience. In addition to the many straight comedy roles which Summerville has portrayed, his work in "All Quiet on the Western Front" stands out as one of the finest performances of any individual player for all time. He is scheduled also to play one of the leading characters in the sequel to "All Quiet," "The Board Back," when Universal produce what Remarque masterpiece.

Then, there is Zasu Pitts, who is justifiably called the screen's greatest comedienne. Miss Pitts is more in demand than any other player right now. She has appeared in thirty-seven pictures thus far this year. Her work, always evoking gales of laughter, seems to have behind it a great amount of studied seriousness, which combined with the fluttering, waving motions of her hands, which never seem able to behave, proves irresistible. Miss Pitts herself scarcely ever smiles in portraying her roles, but she certainly knows how to make millions in her audience not only smile but laugh long and heartily.

In support of Miss Pitts and Slim Summerville is Fifi D'Orsay, the piquant, graceful, big-eyed, black-haired girl who seems French to her finger tips. Miss D'Orsay, though, was born in Montreal of French descent, but the air and manner of the Parisian may well seem almost authentic in her dancing, her gesture and her acting and singing. She came to picture by way of the musical comedy and vaudeville stage, where she was trained by such able comics as the team of Gallagher and Shean. Her first film appearance was with Will Rogers in "They Had To Get Paris" and she appeared in many other films for Fox before being signed for the part of Marie Clifford Heatherley as a pompous ambassador who, off duty, is not quite so dignified. Marie Burke, Jean Adrienne and George Curzon are all excellent in supporting roles.

The direction of Milton Rosmer shows a keen understanding of the subtle turns of humor. He has made "After The Ball," with the sure touch of a master.

'Come On Danger' Packed With Hair-Raising Episodes Of Frontier

Hair-raising feats, hand-to-hand encounters, treacherous pistol wielding and whirlwind riding instigated by a tense theme make for whizz-bang action in "Come On Danger," the first of a series of RKO Radio Tom Keene's starring Westerns coming to the Queen Theatre Friday and Saturday.

The picture relates the hazardous exploits of a Texas Ranger who undertakes to seek out and arrest a girl bandit leader accused of cattle-rustling and murder of his own brother. He finds the girl, but is wounded in the attempt. She nurses him back to recovery, during which time he falls in love with her, making his duty of capture doubly distasteful.

Femme Lead's First Featured Role "Come On Danger" provides the first featured role for Julie Hayden, an RKO contract player, who depicts the bandit leader. Miss Hayden, who made her screen debut in a bit role in "Is My Face Red" with Helen Twelvetrees and Ricardo Cortez, comes from the legitimate stage, and brings her perfect radiance. She enhances every scene of action with Keene, and proves a promising screen luminary. Strangely, she bears a perfect resemblance to Ann Harding, an RKO star, so similar are her facial features, body carriage and other characteristics.

Tom Keene, in the role of the ranger, rides his horse, fires his sixshooter and manipulates his fists for unusual suspense and daring amid the rough and rugged Rockies. He demonstrates a tempo of speed resultant in terrific action, it is said.

Roscoe Ates, in the role of a fellow ranger, achieves a barrage of nonsense, laughs and guffaws in the picture. His stuttering is purported to have captured outbursts of merriment from preview audiences.

Regulation For Exchanges Urged By Texas Senator

WASHINGTON—If the government is going to control the business of the farmer it should also control the exchanges which allow speculation in his products, in the opinion of Senator Tom Connally of Texas, who has announced his intention of introducing amendment providing for this control to the Roosevelt-Wallace farm relief plan when it comes up in the senate soon.

For many years Senator Connally has worked for a federal check on the activities of cotton exchanges, believing that the farmer can be aided by curbing the speculators. He has introduced similar proposals in Congress before, but they never been adopted.

In recent days he has been working on an amendment to the farm relief bill which would allow the Secretary of Agriculture to regulate the cotton speculators in the interest of the cotton grower, and it is expected that he will offer it in the senate shortly.

Mrs. Taylor is now first vice-president of the state and past president of the fifth district. She is past president of the Valley Federation of the City Federation of Brownsville and holds office in three of the most prominent clubs of Brownsville and Valley organizations. She has also served as secretary of the Permanent Headquarters Committee for three years.

General John J. Pershing passed through Big Spring Thursday morning en route from Tucson, Ariz., to the Pershing family home in Lincoln, Nebr. He spent Wednesday night in Midland, where he stayed more than a week some time ago when cold weather interrupted his journey to Arizona to recuperate from an illness. He was accompanied by his sister, Miss May Pershing, Sergeant Robert C. Schaeffer, orderly, in the chauffeur. The general was quoted as saying at Abilene, where he had lunch Thursday, that he was feeling some better since his six-week period spent at Tucson.

Comedy Hit Will Play Two Days At Ritz

'After The Ball' Is Light-Hearted Play On Unusual Features

"After The Ball," the Gaumont picture to be presented by Fix Film at the Queen theatre Wednesday and Thursday, is a triumph of light-hearted comedy. In story, dialogue and cast, it is a piece of as nearly perfect entertainment as has been seen in many a month. It is a sparkling example of humor at its best. It bubbles with fun and wit as it traces the romance of a legation courier with a beautiful woman through international complications and domestic upsets. Its locale is Geneva, with its scintillating plot against the austere background of a naval conference. There is a brilliant legation ball, beautiful settings for light romance and the essential aid of music that is really exhilarating at times and haunting at other times.

"After The Ball" has that rare power of transporting the spectator right into the things he sees and hears on the screen.

As the beautiful favorite of the diplomatic circles, Esther Raletton is superb. Here is a natural beauty and grace, and with the addition of an indomitable charm, she proves a worthy focal point for any man's affections. Basil Rathbone, in the role of the amorous courier, gives a splendid performance with much witty dialogue and humorous incidents of help him. They are in "They Just Had To Get Married."

Roland Young has had a long career in musical comedy, on the Broadway stage and in pictures and is prominent in the cast of "They Just Had To Get Married," as is C. Aubrey Smith, Henry Armetta and James Donnan, all well known, popular comedians.

She enhances every scene of action with Keene, and proves a promising screen luminary. Strangely, she bears a perfect resemblance to Ann Harding, an RKO star, so similar are her facial features, body carriage and other characteristics.

Tom Keene, in the role of the ranger, rides his horse, fires his sixshooter and manipulates his fists for unusual suspense and daring amid the rough and rugged Rockies. He demonstrates a tempo of speed resultant in terrific action, it is said.

Roscoe Ates, in the role of a fellow ranger, achieves a barrage of nonsense, laughs and guffaws in the picture. His stuttering is purported to have captured outbursts of merriment from preview audiences.

Regulation For Exchanges Urged By Texas Senator

WASHINGTON—If the government is going to control the business of the farmer it should also control the exchanges which allow speculation in his products, in the opinion of Senator Tom Connally of Texas, who has announced his intention of introducing amendment providing for this control to the Roosevelt-Wallace farm relief plan when it comes up in the senate soon.

For many years Senator Connally has worked for a federal check on the activities of cotton exchanges, believing that the farmer can be aided by curbing the speculators. He has introduced similar proposals in Congress before, but they never been adopted.

In recent days he has been working on an amendment to the farm relief bill which would allow the Secretary of Agriculture to regulate the cotton speculators in the interest of the cotton grower, and it is expected that he will offer it in the senate shortly.

Candidate For Head Of TFWC Endorsed By Mother Of Local Man

Mrs. R. L. Browning, mother of C. L. Browning of this city, who makes her home in Houston and is very active in club work, has asked the endorsement of Big Spring club women for Mrs. Volney Taylor, of Brownsville, as state president of the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs.

Mrs. Taylor is now first vice-president of the state and past president of the fifth district. She is past president of the Valley Federation of the City Federation of Brownsville and holds office in three of the most prominent clubs of Brownsville and Valley organizations. She has also served as secretary of the Permanent Headquarters Committee for three years.

General Pershing Passes Through City

General John J. Pershing passed through Big Spring Thursday morning en route from Tucson, Ariz., to the Pershing family home in Lincoln, Nebr. He spent Wednesday night in Midland, where he stayed more than a week some time ago when cold weather interrupted his journey to Arizona to recuperate from an illness. He was accompanied by his sister, Miss May Pershing, Sergeant Robert C. Schaeffer, orderly, in the chauffeur. The general was quoted as saying at Abilene, where he had lunch Thursday, that he was feeling some better since his six-week period spent at Tucson.

Alma MacMahon, clever, talented, unusual actress, practically a newcomer to films and yet one of the screen's most popular and promising players, in "Once In A Lifetime," which is coming to the Ritz Theatre on Friday and Saturday has a role with a slightly different twist than any in which she has heretofore appeared. Miss MacMahon, who has always been cast in roles which have a self-sacrificing, frustrated angle to them, as far as the conventional "happy ending" is concerned, for she never seems to "get her man" and never is folded in his arms in a rapturous embrace as the final close-up fades from the screen.

In "Once In A Lifetime," though, Moss Hart and George Kaufman, the playwrights, have given the character which she portrays, May Daniels, the opportunity to win the love of Jerry Hyland, in the accepted movie heroine fashion, and although the romance cannot be described as the idealistic, smoothly-running hero-heroine affair of fiction and the movies, still there is that happy ending for Aline, and it is quite possible that hereafter she may be considered as a straight heroine type. Whether that is true or not, Aline is an actress, first, splendid trouper thoroughly fitted inasmuch through a variety of roles on the legitimate stage for a number of years. Her chair lift to a great extent in her beautiful speaking voice, of a mellow, brant, contralto tone. She has big eyes, light brown hair, unobnoxious and is five feet, eight inches tall with an exquisitely proportioned figure.

Miss MacMahon was born in McKeesport, Pennsylvania. She attended Erasmus High School in Brooklyn, N. Y., and graduated from Barnard College in New York City. While at Barnard, she evinced a great interest in amateur theatricals, taking a prominent part in the college plays. Upon graduation, she decided to make the stage her profession, and her entrance into the theatre world was with the Blaney Yorkville Stock Company in New York to "One Night." She followed with roles in "The Mirage," "Isles and Models," in which she appeared in sketches and bit parts in "Beyond the Horizon," "Her First Affair," "Spread Eagle" and "May Day." Miss MacMahon went to the coast to play the part of May Daniels in the Pacific Coast production of "Once In A Lifetime." From this she was drafted into picture work, her first part being in "Five Star Final." After that, her appearances have included "One Way Passage," "The Mouthpiece," "Life Begins," and the most recent of "Once in a Lifetime."

Little Miss Dorothy Jean, daughter of Colorado, niece of Mrs. E. Fehrenkamp and Miss Grace of this city, is recovering from mastoid operation at the Big Spring Hospital.

Connally Criticizes Reckless Lending Of Government's Money

WASHINGTON—Reckless lending of the government's money was assailed in the senate recently by a powerful speech by Senator Tom Connally of Texas that has evoked strong commendation from leaders of the new administration.

"I am getting tired of trusting people with the government's money to do with as they please," the Texas senator said in citing the actions of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation in lending huge sums to various so-called "liquidating" projects in several sections.

The San Francisco Bay Bridge, costing $63,000,000; the Hudson River Tunnel, $93,000,000; the Mississippi River Bridge, $15,000,000; and the Jones Beach, Long Island, development, $13,000,000, were some of the projects which were cited by the Texas senator as being financed by the R. F. C. despite the fact that private concerns did not look with favor upon the proposed bond issues for them even in the boom years of 1928 and 1929.

Senator Connally's first talk on the subject last week was given in New York, denouncing the wild banking exploitation of the United States in recent years.

Tracing the history of the orgy of lending money in recent prosperous years, Senator Connally characterized the practice as one of the major causes of the depression and he asserted that the situation would not be bettered by passing the debt burden on to the taxpayer.

"I say to the Senate now we are not going to cure the depression by lending more money," Senator Connally declared. "We are not going to cure the financial panic by continuing to pour out money from the Federal Treasury; we cannot maintain values by this theory of pumping credit into industry and business. That was a favorite theme of President Hoover, 'pumping credit,' pumping more credit and money into business. It was upon this theory that the Reconstruction Finance Corporation was founded, and I submit to the calm judgment of the Senate and the country that the R. F. C. has been a disappointment, and, in a large measure, a failure, because it has not accomplished its purpose."

Senator Connally has stated that he is in favor of sound measures to help depositors in both state and national banks. He supported President Roosevelt which enabled most of the sound banks in the country to reopen.

Whittington To Fight On Tuesday Card

Woodie Windham From Cowtown Picked As His Opponent

Clarence "Kid" Whittington, best the local ring has seen, tries his punches on imported talent here Thursday evening in the Big Spring Athletic Club at the Fisher building.

Woodie Windham, Fort Worth pug comes here direct from a battle in Cowtown Tuesday night, works out in the arena Wednesday, and will seek to show the Kid some fighting tricks. Eight rounds of this should make a merry show for fans.

Bert Smith, another battler from the packing house center, will cross gloves with Kid Spencer. Sweetwater slugger, in a six round semi-final. Both fighters are comparatively unknown here but come fortified with smacking reputations.

Matt Irving, another Sweetwater fighter, will box with Louie Baird of Fort Worth in one of the four round preliminary bouts. Ross Abernathy and Pat Inman tangle in the opener and keep it going for four rounds.

Ladies will be admitted free to the exhibition, the management stated. First ticks will be swapped at 8 p. m.

Sikes And Riggs Choices Of Scouts

Charles Ray Sikes was elected scribe and Durwood Riggs troop quartermaster at the regular weekly meeting of troop No. 5 in the First Baptist church Friday evening.

The two barely noted out Jack Dabney and Carlton Nesbourn for the two positions.

Scouts engaged in practice for the jamboree to be held here in May. A unique "jacks" signaling contest was staged, followed by a new knot tying contest, won each time by the Porcupine patrol. Several passed tests.

Those present were Buck Tykes, Dale Smith, Charles R. Sikes, Charles Ray Smith, Durwood Riggs, Ed Tuson, John Stiff, Tony Lee McCoy, Paul Coburn, Jack Dabney, Howard McMahan, Howard Hart, Randall Lavelle, and Cecil Richardson. Visitors were Bobby Dabney, Homer Frost, and William Mann.

Mrs. Harold Lytle Entertains For Mrs. Kelly Burns

Announcement of the marriage of Miss Jamie Barley to Kelly Burns, in Carlsbad, New Mexico, on December the 29th, was made at a party and miscellaneous shower, Friday evening, with Mrs. Harold Lytle entertaining in honor of Mrs. Burns. Five tables of players were guests, and found diversion in bridge. Tables were delightfully appointed for the play, the bridal motif being carried out in the tables, bridge scores, and other accessories, emphasizing a pink and white color theme. At the conclusion of play, when scores were compared, high score honor went to Mrs. Harvey Shackelford. She was favored with a pair of silk hose. Miss Lucille Rix won high in the cut, and was presented with a bride and groom doll for a what-not-shelf.

Preceding the refreshment hour, the hostess presented the beautiful and useful gifts that had been brought by the guests. Mrs. Fletcher Sneed and Miss Lucille Bishop sent gifts but were unable to attend.

A dainty one course luncheon, carrying out the pink and white color scheme was passed to the following guests: Misses Lucille Rix, Imogene Runyan, Margaret Bettie, Maxine Thomas, Lena Kyle, Emma Louise Freeman, Mary Vance Keneaster, Inez Matthews, Theresa Brooks, Mary Alice Wilke, Vera Dehenport, Thelma Fuller, Lorene Read, and Mesdames Harvey Shackelford, Jimmie Zack, Alsworth Moore, Adolphus Swartz, Tommie Jordan, Jr., Delma Ausmus and F. D. Wyatt.

Mr. and Mrs. Burns plan to leave next week for Carlsbad, New Mexico, where they will make their future home.

Easter Birthday Party Celebrated At Home And Park

Little Miss Virginia Terry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Terry, celebrated her eighth birthday Friday with a lovely Easter party at the City Park.

After the children had played many games they were taken on a long hunt to search for hidden eggs. Little Miss Dortha Dee Longmoore was given a prize for finding the golden egg. Favors were Easter baskets and eggs.

After returning from the park to the home of the honoree at 1406 Nolan street, the children looked at the beautiful gifts and were then served lovely refreshments of cream and cake by Misses Flora Belle Williamson and Marjorie Gregory as hostesses.

The following guests attended: Janie Marie Tingle, Wanda Neel, Doris Satterwhite, Nada Ruth Bufington, Dorothea Lee Longmoore, Ethel Maria Williamson, Bett. Fay Collins, Elizabeth Terry, J. H. Smith, Willard Williamson, Bennett Petty, Mae Pyeat, Thomas Lee Watson, Robert Bode, Billy Dunn, Jack Rice, Misses Flora Belle Williamson, Maria Cr. Lory; Mrs. J. C. Terry, Wandell, White sent a gift but could not attend.

Clever Dinner Is Given Cactus Club

A "depression" dinner was the form of entertainment Mr. and Mrs. Allen Hodges selected when they entertained the members of the Cactus Club at the Settles Hotel Friday evening.

The dining table was covered with a red-checked table cloth, and dinner was served family style. The clever menu consisted of fried ham, red beans, baked potatoes, cornbread, green onions, combination salad, apple pie and coffee.

After dinner the guests played bridge and drew used tallies for place assignments. Stubs of penny pencils and the back of blank checks were "depression" accessories.

Mrs. R. E. Lee and her dinner partner, Miss Fern Wells, made the highest scores of the couples and received a 25-pound sack of sugar wrapped in a paper bag. Mr. and Mrs. Pendleton made second high and won a 5-pound sack of sugar wrapped in a newspaper.

Miss Fern Wells was the only visitor. The club members present were: Messrs. and Mrs. W. Pendleton, Morris Burns, Homer Wright, F. C. Gilbert and Mrs. Lee.

Episcopal Men Guests At Dinner At Parish House

The women of St. Mary's Episcopal Church entertained the men of the church with a turkey dinner Friday night at the parish house.

They served all the trimmings with the turkey, dressing, pickled beets, chow-chow, cole slaw, mashed potatoes, creamed peas, gravy, lemon pie and coffee.

C. S. Blomshield acted as informal toastmaster of the evening. The pastor, the Rev. W. H. Martin, gave the invocation. After a toast to the ladies of the Auxiliary, Jack Hodges gave a short history of the church. W. R. Dawes reminisced, relating some of the struggles of the early church, particularly in rebuilding after the cyclone of 1890. Mr. Martin told where the various past ministers were today. The meeting closed with an informal presentation of humorous questions answered by Mr. Martin.

The men present were: Messrs. C. S. Blomshield, E. V. Spence, W. H. Martin, Wayne Martin, Ray Simmons, R. W. Henry, Wayne Rice, R. C. Utley, O. L. Thomas, Jack Hodges, W. R. Dawes, W. Van Gieson, Turner Winn, Louis Biles, Seth H. Parsons, Carlson Hamilton, H. W. Leeper, Wilburn Barcus, E. O. Jones, Walter Vastine, H. S. Faw, W. A. McAllister and H. F. Johnson.

Mid Week Lenten Services

The midweek Lenten services will be held Wednesday night at 8 o'clock.

At St. Mary's Episcopal church the lecture will be on "The Ways and Teachings of the Episcopal church."

At the St. Paul's Lutheran, the topic will be "Christ's Second Trial Before Pontius Pilate."

Visitors are welcome at all services.

44 Names Sent Senate By 'Ma'

AUSTIN, (AP)—Governor Miriam A. Ferguson asked the senate to confirm 44 appointments to state boards and commissions. The senate was not expected to take action before next week.

The governor named R. S. Bowers of Burleson county to the only remaining vacancy on the state board of education. She previously had appointed Larry Mills of Dallas to that place but he declined the nomination.

Fred Horton of Greenville, who served on the prison board during the administration of former Governor Dan Moody, was named by Mrs. Ferguson to serve another term on that board, Morton was a member of the board until two years ago.

Others on Board

Other Ferguson appointees to the prison board were W. R. Dulaney of Houston and W. A. Boyett of Burleson county.

The three new appointees would succeed E. C. Tobey of Freeport, David R. Nelson of Orange and Mrs. Florence Flores of Cleburne.

C. S. Clark of Donna was reappointed for a six-year term on the state board of water engineers. Mrs. Ferguson reappointed E. F. Williams of Austin as state reclamation engineer for an unexpired term ending July 1.

Other appointments included: Board of regents, State Teachers college, Ward Templeman of Navasota, Dr. J. E. Ulmer of Tyler and T. C. Andrews of McKinney.

Board of directors of Texas Tech. Mrs. John A. Haley of Midland, Lee P. Pierson of Amarillo and Mrs. S. W. McHarg of Plainview.

Medical Examiners

Board of medical examiners, Dr. M. E. Daniels of Honey Grove, Dr. J. M. Witt of Waco, Dr. H. C. Morrow of Austin and Dr. Will E. Watt of Austin.

Board of health, Dr. J. S. McCulvey of Temple, Dr. S. A. Woodward of Fort Worth and Henry F. Hein, pharmacist of San Antonio.

Board of pharmacy, Dan Allen of Houston and E. E. Weaver of Fort Worth.

Departmental Bill Passed By House

AUSTIN, (AP)—The house passed finally the departmental appropriation bill Friday.

Maximum salaries to be allowed members of the railroad commission were reduced from six to four thousand dollars annually. As passed by the house the measure is several hundred thousand dollars under amounts the appropriations committee recommended.

The Upper Hand

Since he took over the reins of office, President Roosevelt has had a singular, almost an extraordinary, public support behind him. His picture is cheered in the movie houses; people on the street speak of him with glowing countenances. At the moment, he is a national hero.

And yet, there are signs that the president is in for trouble. No man who acts as decisively and promptly as he does can escape the penalty. The penalty is the creation of enemies. He necessarily tramples toes. The owners of the trampled toes begin to curse him—first, under their breaths, for fear of public sentiment, then more boldly as others whose toes have been trampled join in the chorus.

It is pretty well understood that the only reason congress has been so prompt in passing the important measures submitted to it by the president is that congress, from long experience, knows that public sentiment is behind the president. The boys have been hearing from folks back home. Just as soon as they decide that the folks back home have lost interest, or gone to sleep again, they will begin to speak out against this or that measure sponsored by the president.

Soon they will feel bold enough to seek retaliation. The president has dealt nobs too gently with recalcitrant members of congress. As soon as they dare, these will have their knives out for him.

There is nothing new in this situation. It has been the price paid by every great president we ever had. Cleveland and Wilson, in particular, were punished for their independence of thought and action, their refusal to conform to what the politicians thought was the proper thing to do.

Mr. Roosevelt knows the political game inside and out. He knows it well enough to strike while the iron is hot. No grass is growing under his feet. He is getting his program enacted into law while congress is wholesomely afraid of the folks back home, and in awe of the man in the White House. He knows that as soon as congress and the politicians in general get their nerve back—in other words, as they dare—trouble will descend upon him.

It may be that Mr. Roosevelt is strong enough to whip congress and make congress like it. So far he has shown no sign of weakening. There are no chinks visible in his armor. He possesses both physical and moral courage. He has extraordinary energy and endurance. He thinks fast and acts even faster. These are qualities that will carry him far in the perennial struggle between the legislative and executive branches of government.

At present he has the upper hand. While he has it, he will make things hum. If he loses it all bets are off.

As You Like It Club Meets At Home Of The G. B. Cunninghams

Miss Jamie Barley Weds Kelly Burns

Friends of Miss Jamie Barley and Mr. Kelly Burns were taken by surprise recently when they announced their marriage on December 20 at Carlsbad, N. M. They had been very successful in keeping it a secret. The announcement was made previous to their moving to Carlsbad to make their home. They were married at the home of the Methodist minister of that city. Bill Gordon accompanied them.

The bride, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Barley, is a charming girl and a popular member of the younger set. She was born and reared here, and was graduated from the local high school in 1931.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Mack Burns and a promising young man. He came to this city about five years ago with his parents. He attended the first three years of high school here and did his last year's work in Portland, Ark. He has been employed by the highway department since finishing school.

Mr. Burns and Harold Lytle of this city are planning to operate a "pig" sandwich stand in Carlsbad, N. M., and have already gone to that city to complete the business arrangements.

Mrs. Burns and Mrs. Lytle will follow the first of the week and will make their home there. They invite their friends to visit them on their trips to Carlsbad.

The members of the Lucky Thirteen Bridge Club were entertained by Mrs. M. Wentz Friday afternoon at a pretty springtime party. The pastel colors of spring was used in all of the party accessories.

Mrs. Duncan was the winner for club members in the play and received a kitchen set. Mrs. Woodall was high for guests and was favored with a set of silhouettes.

A pretty ice course was passed to the following visitors, Mmes. Morris Burns, Kin Barnett, Cecil Collins, Arthur Woodall and Holley, and the following members: Mmes. Hugh Duncan, O. R. Bollinger, V. W. Latson, A. Schnitzer, Hayes Stripling, John Wotten, George Oldham, G. M. Waters. Mrs. Duncan will be the next hostess.

Drake Home Scene Of Jolly Birthday Party

J. D. Robertson celebrated his tenth birthday with a party Friday, given by his mother, Mrs. H. D. Drake and Mrs. J. A. Drake at the home of the latter at 208 Donley street.

The afternoon was devoted to games, after which ice cream and cake were served to the following guests: Maurice Beale Francis, Francis Drake, Cecil Drake, Elwood, Carlile, Junior Martin, Dauphine, Wanda Don, Elgin, Lois and Harminie Reese and the hostess.

Mrs. George Wilke Is High Scorer For Informal

Mrs. C. W. Cunningham was hostess to the members of the Informal Bridge Club Friday afternoon at her home for a delightfully informal session of bridge.

Mrs. George Wilke was the highest scorer.

There were no visitors. The following members were present: Mmes. J. B. Young, V. Van Gieson, Homer McNew, Steve Ford, George Wilke, J. D. Biles and W. W. Inkman.

Mrs. Ford will be the next hostess.

NEWS OF THE DAY IN PICTURES

KIDNAP VICTIM HOME AGAIN

Peter Meyers, Jr., 15, surrounded by members of his family and for the moment happily engaged in fitting together a jig-saw puzzle, resumed his home life after being held captive eight days by three armed men who kidnaped him from his home in Masury, Ohio. His father said he obtained the boy's release in return for $300 ransom. Peter is seated between his sister, Helen, and his mother. His father is standing. (Associated Press Photo)

DIVING CHAMP AND NEW HUSBAND

Georgia Coleman, Olympic diving champion, and her husband, Roof Gilson, a salesman of Jackson, Mich., are shown at Coral Gables, Fla., shortly before they were secretly married. Georgia met her husband-to-be at the southern resort where she has been giving diving exhibitions. The marriage followed a whirlwind courtship. (Associated Press Photo)

STEINS REGAIN USEFULNESS

These steins, relics of another day, may again become something more than curiosities with the legalization of beer early in April. For many years Charles Jacobs of Milwaukee has collected steins and among the 500 in his possession are many of curious design and strange history. Jacobs (left) and Tony Stockhausen are seated among his treasures. (Associated Press Photo)

Wins Garlic Verdict

Frank Cimino, farmer of Betsel, Cal., won a verdict of $35,500 in a Chicago court after he charged that a cold storage concern caused 21 carloads of his garlic to spoil. He's shown wearing a "wreath" of garlic. (Associated Press Photo)

CURTAIN FOR HOLDOUT ACT

The curtain was rung down on baseball's annual holdout act at St. Petersburg, Fla., when Babe Ruth (who "would quit baseball before he would take a cent less than $60,000") signed a contract with the New York Yankees calling for $52,000 for 1933. Owner Jacob Ruppert, the other side of the argument, is watching the Babe. (Associated Press Photo)

MOVE OVER, GIRLS AND GIVE THE MEN A CHANCE

If this condition is to prevail with the arrival of legalized beer it looks as though dainty high heeled pumps will crowd masculine boots off the polished rail. These fair sexed lifters are only brushing up on their technique. Their foamy beverage is still near-beer and the bar is one of a chain of 25 that one company is erecting at strategic points in New York. (Associated Press Photo)

CHAPTER XXIII

Mr. Hamilton went on without waiting for a reply. He did not seem to notice that he had called Janet by her first name. "I'm leaving the magazine," he said. "It's all happened rather suddenly."

"Why, Mr. Hamilton?"

The man smiled. "Surprise you? Well, it's still something of a surprise to me, too. I'm going with Colman's group. It's well, frankly, quite a promotion. More money and I'll have a chance to try some things we couldn't do here. Chambers has been very decent about it—very considerate. I'm going to Philadelphia. Leaving in just a few days. There are some things I'll have to attend to first."

There was real regret in Janet's voice. She said, "Oh, but I'm sorry, Mr. Hamilton! I mean—of course it's fine for you but we'll miss you so. The office won't be the same without you."

Hamilton's smile was almost boyish. "No? Well, that'll be a good thing. I guess I've been a pretty hard taskmaster. Cross and irritable—"

"Oh, but you haven't! Why, you haven't at all!"

Hamilton nodded. "I have," he said, "but I really didn't mean to. You've spoiled me, Janet. Completely spoiled me. Night after night you've stayed here after your day's work was supposed to be through. You do more work than any secretary I've ever had and you know how to go ahead without asking questions. Maybe you didn't think I've noticed how much overtime you've been putting in the last few months but I have!"

"But I didn't mind," Janet assured him.

"I know you didn't. That's just the point! You've let me impose upon you. Never complained! If you'd only reminded me that you were supposed to stop at five o'clock I'd have let you go then."

Janet was embarrassed. She said, "But I don't see what the magazine will do without you, Mr. Hamilton! Who's going to do your work? Who'll take charge of the advertising department?"

"Haven't all been settled," Hamilton told her, frowning slightly. "I was coming to that. You see, this offer from Colman's came quite unexpectedly. I haven't talked to any one about it except Chambers. He's arranging for me to get away immediately and for a time they'll carry on without naming a new advertising manager."

"Oh!" It didn't answer Janet's problems. She was wondering how all this was going to affect her. Affect her, it assuredly would. How would she get along with her new employer? A stranger, most likely. Hamilton had been demanding but he also had his good points.

He was speaking again. "There's something else," he said, and hesitated. "I don't like to say this, but when my job is ended here I'm afraid yours will be too."

She didn't speak but her eyes widened and she made a quick little gesture with her hand.

"It's not that your work hasn't been appreciated!" Hamilton went on quickly. "I assure you that it has. I've told Chambers you're unusually capable. He knows that anyhow. It's just that things haven't been going so well with the magazine. It's going to pull out all right. I'm sure of it! But for the next year there's no question but that expenses must be reduced. That's why no one is to be named to take my place. Dawson and Hartley will take over the duties. Share them somehow. I'm not sure myself the plan will work but at least they'll make a stab at it. If it fails they'll try something else. But whatever happens the office staff is to be reduced. They'll have to make other cuts too—"

"You're trying to tell me," Janet said slowly, "that I won't have a job?"

Hamilton nodded. "To put it bluntly—yes."

Janet glanced down at the typewriter keys before her. She had used them for over two years. She had sat at this desk, spent the greater part of each day, six days a week, in this plain box-like room with its plaster walls covered with maps and charts, its carpetless floor, its filing cases and rickety bookcase. It had seemed to Janet that, though the rest of her world might rock, this part—the part surrounded by these four office walls—was secure. She had never dreamed that this could happen. Discharged! That was the word for it!

Her eyes raised. Hamilton was watching her. He said kindly, "I've been thinking about you. I don't like to go away and leave you looking for work. Jobs are hard to find these days—"

"I'll find something," Janet assured him. Her voice was flat. "You'll give me a recommendation, I suppose?"

"Gladly! But I think I can do a little better than that. I've been looking around, thinking, trying to find a position that would suit you. One where you could be as useful as you have been here and where this work would be congenial. I think I've found it."

She was listening eagerly but she did not interrupt. Mr. Hamilton didn't like to be interrupted when there was something he wanted to say.

"It's not quite the same kind of work you've been doing," he went on. "But I think you could handle it splendidly. It's with my sister—"

Co-Defendant With Dr. Cook Arrested

PORT WORTH (UP).—Arthur Eckman, co-defendant with Dr. Frederick A. Cook in the explorer's mail fraud trial of 1922, was under $1,000 bond on the same charge.

He was indicted in connection with operations of the Sheppard's Mott Salt Dome development in Matagorda county. Eckman received a seven year sentence in the 1923 case which was reduced by executive clemency, according to Special U. S. Prosecutor Chas. Riley here.

$1,250 Of R.F.C. Funds Received

Two hundred and fifty men were added to the number doing work to receive pay out of the relief funds Thursday after receipt of another one-fourth payment of the $5,000 March allotment to Howard county.

Due to exhaustion of funds, the crews will be greatly reduced Monday when the new registration system is put into effect. Number eligible for work will be cut sharply because new registration requirements by the federal government have disclosed many men had other means of support.

Roosevelt Signs Conservation Bill

WASHINGTON, (UP).—President Roosevelt Friday made his forest conservation-employment program law by signing the bill.

While his aides rushed to make ready for enlisting thousands from cities jobless for the work the President directed the Department of Labor to supervise enrollment of the idle, making it plain that he had in mind selection of men who went to metropolitan centers during boom days.

BANK BURGLARIZED

Pat Murphy, San Angelo will preside over the business session the following day. Such speakers as J. H. Graves, department commander of Arkansas, Col. Bill Eastman of Dallas, George Hughes and Shrimp Murphy, assistant department commanders, E. Pat La Touche, district commander from Houston, George Broome, national committeeman from Amarillo, and V. Earl Earp, past department commander. Church call will follow. After lunch, another business session will be held.

HOME TOWN

(CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1) payment of taxes, and the shrinkage of valuations going on nowadays, tax receipts for the past year amounted to $21,000 less than the amount of the bonded debt and interest upon it had to be paid during the fiscal year. Reasonable estimates of the portion of taxes that will be paid and the shrinkage that may be expected in valuations for the coming year do not offer any prospect that tax receipts will amount to nearly as much as the debt requirements.

Because tax receipts are not sufficient to pay the bonded debt as it falls due, the city has had to draw on the income from the water department and from various fees that are collected to pay the principal and interest on the debt.

So, all operations of the city government must be paid for out of what is left of income from the water and sewer departments with a little from the gas franchise and some small items received for electrical, plumbing, building licenses and fines collected.

It is plain, therefore, that all that can be done is to continue the policy of reduction in operating expenses that has been carried on for the past two years. Savings thus effected will have nothing whatever to do with the debt requirements. That is the reason why, no matter how rigidly economy is practiced—just as it has been practiced in the past—with valuations and tax payments at such a low level very little relief from taxation is in prospect.

Of course, if the budget had not been cut $117,000 in two years the city would not have been able to remain as it is on a cash basis and at the same time retire all debts and pay all interest as they have fallen due.

No matter who the men happen to be from year to year who compose the city commission we are reticent to criticize them so long as we know them to be honest and conscientious, because any man who accepts service on the commission does so at a sacrifice. No matter how hard he tried to conserve the people's money he will be criticized considerably, besides having to make sacrifices of time and effort. Since we have been able as a municipality to maintain one of the finest records for economy and one of the finest reputation for credit in the entire state, the citizenship owes appreciation and expression of confidence in those who have served them faithfully and efficiently.

CONVENTION

The reorganization of county government will be principal problem to be given attention at the conference. A budget-making institute similar to those already held for the local committees will also be conducted for the benefit of the new committees. Invitations are out to the following to appear upon the program: William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor; Vice-President John Nance Garner; Senator Morris Sheppard; Attorney General James V. Alfred; Merie Thorpe, editor of the Nation's Business; Lawrence Westbrook, Texas Director of Federal Relief; Jesse H. Jones, member of the Board of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation; Col. Outlook

Conflicting inner reports are coming on business. You can not tell for sure about it yet. Government experts figure that the economic dog days start in April. Their confidential data indicates the average of industrial production will run slightly more than 60 for the remainder of the year. That is two or three points below what it has been. The truth seems to be that the heavy industries are facing a particularly uncertain future. The lighter ones are beginning to show improvement based on the new confidence. Every Federal Reserve district reported slightly better business prospects the past week.

The whole thing depends on how the government program works out. Beer will put some men to work. Reforestation will help a few more. Muscle Shoals development will make work this year for a small number. The farm bill should improve commodity prices. The railroad bill will life the pall over savings banks and insurance companies. They will not make much of a dent in unemployment but they certainly should stop the process of deflation. That process has gone almost to the limit with 10 to 15 per cent of bank deposits tied up in new closed banks. Half of this frozen purchasing power should be thawed in the next few months.

The public works construction program will get going too late to be of employment use before fall. Other employment prospects are indistinct. There are the cold facts. They are warmed somewhat by the new spirit of the country. That is a factor you can not reduce to stat-

Bumble Bee Trio In Early Bird Revue

The Bumble Bees, a male trio, which came to WFAA and leaped to immediate popularity. Their song rendition is truly original and pleasing to the ear. This fact is confirmed by their immediate adoption by the radio audience of the Southwest. These boys come to the air without a name and asked for one on the Early Bird Program. Their theme song is "Honey" and because of the sweetness of their song, they were given the name "The Bumble Bees." The personnel of the trio is J. F. Scroggins, Harry Hume, and Howell Whitaker.

Preaches Here

J. M. SENTER of San Antonio, assisted by H. O. Johnson of that city, evangelists, are conducting services at 113 Main street, each evening at 7:45 o'clock. The public is invited to attend all services.

Democratic leaders counted senatorial noses early in the week and assured the President there would be no more than 20 votes against his farm bill. The Republicans intended only to put up enough opposition to keep the record straight and then to let the bill go through. Senators Glass and McCadoo have been working offstage on a bill for a federal insurance indemnity of bank deposits. It will not pass this session. The man behind Mr. Roosevelt's actions toward regulating security exchanges was Samuel Untermyer. The New York attorney held several secret conferences here on that subject. He wants the government to force the exchanges to incorporate. The New York Stock Exchange is run like a private club now.

Old-time politicians believe the tremendous popularity of the President can not last. They know well the fickleness of public opinion. A reaction is bound to come sooner or later. They have the fresh example in their minds of how it turned on Mr. Hoover. They agree, however, Mr. Roosevelt will make himself as popular as George Washington if he can bring even a little better times.

What made the congress boys quake in their boots was the cloakroom whisper that Mr. Roosevelt would take to the radio if the senate did not pass his Farm Bill before the end of this week. There is no evidence the White House authorized the rumor. But it did nothing to stop the talk. The result was edifying.

Some of these letters Congressmen are getting from out in the country are so abusive, profane they violate the postal laws. Farley will not prosecute because they all abuse Congress and support Mr. Roosevelt. The federal reserve bulletin out today approves unified banking and says the government has interstate commerce rights over state banks. The article was prepared a year ago by the board for Senator Glass but is only now being made public. Mr. Roosevelt was thoroughly aroused because the railroads would not take advantage of the Bankruptcy Act passed for their benefit. There was nothing more he could do about it. Huey Long is getting modest. Naming the six men who run the country, he did not include himself. They say the next thing Mr. Roosevelt will ask for congress is authority to hang all his college professors in case their schemes do not work.

NEW YORK

Morgan

Councils are divided in the House of Morgan on the proper attitude to take toward the investigation. They have never before been the target in anything more than a sham battle and they don't know how to act. Some favor a conciliatory attitude. Others don't even want to tip the high hat. The first test came with the arrival of the Senate's investigator. They were received with courtesy of a superior sort. Neutrals who know Washington think the high-hat attitude would be ill-advised. The senate is rated as ready to throw brick-lined snowballs. Other bankers say that all the New York banks have followed the Morgan lead in matters of bank policy—consciously or not—for the past 20 years. That is why the banks have given some appearance of acting in unison. Also, because of the influence of New York banks, Morgan practices have spread throughout the country. This was not due to any overt dictatorship by Morgan. It traced rather to the elder Morgan's predominance in 1907 which led other bankers to regard the House as the fount of financial wisdom. In later years especially the ten-

Schedule Of Grid District Is Drawn Up

The annual confab over the district 3 football schedule was argued to a finish in the Settles Hotel Saturday morning. The executive committee adopted a schedule without a representative from Midland being present.

Big Spring has a good schedule, opening at Midland October 21 and closing the season here Thanksgiving day against the Colorado Wolves. The Armistice Day game will see the Stears pitted against the Sweetwater Mustangs at Sweetwater. The committee voted a 50c admission fee for adults and a 25c fee for students, which will apply to all games, including holidays. They also voted to invite press representatives to executive meetings, and to send out eligibility blanks by June 30 to avoid arguments over any player's eligibility. The schedule follows:

SAN ANGELO Oct. 7—Ablene at San Angelo. Oct. 21—Colorado at San Angelo. Oct. 28—Big Spring at Big Spring. Nov. 11—McCamey at San Angelo. Nov. 18—Midland at Midland. Nov. 30—Sweetwater at San Angelo.

BIG SPRING Oct. 21—Midland at Midland. Oct. 28—San Angelo at Big Spring. Nov. 11—Sweetwater at Sweetwater. Nov. 18—McCamey at Big Spring. Nov. 30—Colorado at Big Spring.

MIDLAND Oct. 21—Big Spring at Midland. Nov. 4—Sweetwater at Midland. Nov. 11—Colorado at Colorado. Nov. 18—San Angelo at Midland. Nov. 30—McCamey at McCamey.

COLORADO Oct. 14—Colorado at McCamey. Oct. 21—Colorado at San Angelo. Nov. 11—Midland at Colorado. Nov. 17—Sweetwater at Colorado. Nov. 30—Colorado at Big Spring.

MCCAMEY Oct. 14—Colorado at McCamey. Oct. 28—McCamey at Sweetwater. Nov. 11—McCamey at San Angelo. Nov. 18—McCamey at Big Spring. Nov. 30—Midland at McCamey.

Program Of Road Organization Is Explained Here

C. T. Watson, manager of the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce, Saturday issued the following statement concerning the Texas Good Roads Association, representatives of which are now working here enrolling individual members:

"After going into the merits of the program of the Texas Good Roads Association a group of Big Spring citizens, including myself, have endorsed the program as being constructive and promoting the interest of good roads in Texas. County and regional units of the association are being set up throughout the state. The Howard County unit is now being formed, several individual memberships having been subscribed Saturday.

"If people who own automobiles and use the public roads are not active in promoting and protecting our system of road building in Texas so other interest is likely to do it for them.

"Any one interested in the function of the Texas Good Roads Association can secure literature and information at the Chamber of Commerce offices in the Settles Hotel."

C. Cluck Injured In Mishap Here

Chester Cluck, operator of the Humber filling station at Tenth and Scurry streets, was rendered unconscious and, painfully bruised late Friday evening when an automobile reported to have been driven by A. F. McDaniel of Garden City struck his car at Eighth and Scurry streets. Cluck was carried to Big Spring hospital by passers-by and regained consciousness some time later. He was taken to his home in the Alta Vista apartments Saturday morning. His car was practically demolished. He was driving eastward and had almost crossed Scurry when the other car struck him.

The Strength of Democracy

SANTA MONICA, Calif., March 29.

The triumph of Hitler has reduced still further the domain of popular government in the world, and it is but natural that men should wonder whether it can hope to survive anywhere. Yet this impression that autocracy is sweeping the world is something of an optical illusion. The fact is that thus far at least the old democracies have withstood the impact of war and revolution and deep financial disorder. Wide as is the extension of autocracy today, except in one important country, it is no more widely extended than it was before the war. The exception in Italy, and Italy happens to be the one great power which had most recently achieved its national unity and had had the shortest experience in the conduct of representative government. For this reason it may be said that the Fascist and Communist victories of the last fifteen years have been won only where democracy had not yet been established.

Thus in Russia the dictatorship of Lenin and Stalin was founded on the collapse of czarism. Japan, of course, has never had more than a faint imitation of popular government. The dictatorship of central Europe and of the Balkan peoples who have never known even one generation of political liberty and political responsibility. Hitler has overthrown a republic which was half arranged from the hour of its birth. But the old democracies of Scandinavia, of Switzerland, and of France, of Britain and of the Dominions, and of the United States, are still in being; the peoples which knew democracy in the nineteenth century, the peoples who have lived under the heritage of liberalism, have not fallen into disorder and have not surrendered to dictators.

A wise man once remarked that revolutions do not overthrow governments; governments collapse and revolutions ensue. The history of the last fifteen years offers impressive proof of this generalization. Kerensky did not overthrow the Czar, Kerensky attempted to organize a government on the ruins of the czarist regime. He failed and Lenin organized a government. The German republicans did not overthrow the Hohenzollerns. The Kaiser fled and his government was demoralized. The Weimar system failed to provide a government. In a half dozen inconclusive elections the German people proved to themselves that they had not yet learned to make representative government effective. Only then did Hitler come into power.

The crises of the last few years have revealed the essential differences between the democracies which have a capacity to endure and the democracies which have not had it. The ineffective democracies disintegrate in a storm. Solid democracies are capable of uniting their forces, of concentrating power in an emergency and then of relaxing when the crisis has been surmounted. The first great democracy to demonstrate this capacity was France in 1928. Confronted with what appeared to be an uncontrollable inflation, political power was concentrated in the hands of Poincare, and order was restored. The second democracy to prove its strength was the British. In 1931, confronted with what might easily have become a catastrophe, the British people concentrated authority and mastered the danger. The third democracy to vindicate itself is our own during the last few weeks.

It is entirely misleading to look upon the concentration of national authority which took place in France in 1926, in Great Britain in 1931, and in the United States in 1933, as a permanent democracy which has been sweeping over Asia and over Europe. What has happened in these three nations is the exact opposite of what has happened where there has been a collapse into dictatorship. The French, the British, and ourselves have been able to fortify democracy because popular government was inherently strong. Fascism has been overthrown because democracy where it is inherently weak.

Thus we are entitled to believe that democracy, once it is solidly founded in the traditions of a people, may be the toughest and most enduring of all forms of government. The generation through which we have lived seems to have given substantial proof that while popular government is difficult to establish, and must be learned by living with it, once established it will stand through very foul weather indeed.

NEW VERSUS OLD THEORIES OF CANCER

Perhaps no disease known to man has been the subject of so much speculation, speculation and fear as cancer. Numerous theories as to its cause and dozens of remedies for its cure are offered to a gullible public each year. While there is yet much which we do not know about cancer, research both experimental and clinical, has given us many scientific facts and our knowledge is constantly increasing.

For instance, we know that cancer is not a general disease, nor a blood disease, nor one caused by diet, environment, climate or smoky atmosphere. We know that it is not communicable from one person to another and that it is not a germ disease. We know, without question, that cancer is in reality a group of diseases, varying in their danger to life, their type, their rate of growth, their characteristics, their spread through the body and their resistance and sensitivity to irradiation.

Cancer is first a local growth—a colony of cells which have grown in an unrestrained fashion beyond normal control of the body. Many of these "outlaw growths" can be
