

Commissioners Okay Part of Suggestions For New Adams Road

The Commissioners Court accepted part of the jury of view recommendations for the route of a proposed new road in the Adams community and rejected part of their findings, at the Commissioners' meeting Monday.

The recommended route starts from a gate at the west line of survey 37, and leads south, crossing the Rudd road. The position measuring 2 1/4 miles north of the Rudd road was accepted, as it was laid out through the Dr. Womack and Otto Williams places, to the Rudd road. This is on a school bus and mail route.

The rejected portion as laid out by the jury of view led one mile west on Mrs. M. Reynolds' place, and on south through the Luke Robinson and Hinyard estate ranches.

The commissioners dismissed the jury of view and are making plans to start work on the 2 1/4 mile stretch as soon as equipment is available.

Quite a number of Rudd residents appeared before the court to present their cases.

The Case Ranch show string which now numbers nine, is now in Dallas for the State Fair, and is under the care of Herdsman Burrell E. Reynolds.

W. G. Godwin Returns From Convention

W. G. Godwin, Schleicher county agent, was one of the 66 agents from the United States chosen for special honor at the national agents' meeting at Denver last week. The national award was presented on October 4 in recognition of outstanding work done by the 66 agents, seven of whom were from Texas.

Before attending the national convention Godwin attended the 18-county district camp at Lake Buchanan.

Godwin states that he thoroughly enjoyed the many outstanding programs which he attended, and especially the speech made by Harvey Firestone, Jr., on the price of freedom. Various businesses served the meals for the group.

On his return home, Mr. Godwin visited Mr. and Mrs. Elton Ellis, former Eldoradoans, at Roswell, and also did some sightseeing. He arrived home Friday.

PTA Carnival To Raise Funds For School Band

Committees have been appointed and plans are under way this week for a county-wide carnival, sponsored by the Eldorado PTA, to be held at the community center Saturday, October 29. The purpose of the carnival is to raise funds for the PTA project for this year, the school band.

During the afternoon a turkey shoot and hen shoot will be held. The carnival will officially open about dark with a parade, which will start at the city limits and march down the main street to the community center. The high school band will march and will furnish parade music for the occasion.

At the community center there will be booths of all kinds, including a country store, several food booths, bingo, and others. Table games will include 42, bridge, canasta, and dominoes. A feature of the evening will be a race to catch a greased pig.

Mrs. Carl Stevens is general chairman for the event. Each grade and high school class of the local school will be responsible for a booth. Each will turn over the money they make to the PTA, with the exception of the junior and senior classes who will use their profits for the junior-senior banquet and senior trip.

All parents, teachers, school students, and other friends of the school are urged to come to the carnival and lend their support to the PTA. The money made will be used for the school band, for new musical instruments and other equipment.

Ginning Levels Off At Peak of Season

The two Schleicher county gins are still running 24-hour schedule, the Mikeska gin reporting a total of 1489 bales at 8:30 this morning, and Moore's gin about 1225.

Because of the fact that San Angelo cotton was later and the local gins were sometimes a day's run behind in their ginnings, some growers have driven with their loads to the Tom Green gins. It is estimated that about 1000 bales of Schleicher cotton have been ginned there. It is expected that those will also be crowded, with Tom Green cotton now opening rapidly, and most of the remaining crop will be ginned locally.

It is thought that nearly 40% of the Schleicher cotton has been gathered.

Of the 269 farm and ranch units in this county, 190 have some cotton this year.

What Is Stubble-Mulch Farming?

Mulches of leaves, straw, and other organic material have long been used around orchard plants and with some truck crops. These have usually been heavy mulches, often several inches deep.

The Chinese have used pebble mulches on some of their dry-land soil for many years. These pebbles allow the water to pass down through the mulch and trickle into the soil. The pebbles reduce evaporation by shading the soil. They also reduce the amount of soil carried away by water or wind erosion. Paper mulches have been used extensively in Hawaii to reduce erosion, runoff, and evaporation on pineapple land.

When the American Pioneer removed the forest cover or broke the prairie sod, he began to lose his soil by erosion. Many of the men who removed the original protective cover lived to see the soil so badly eroded that their land had to be taken out of cultivation and replanted to grass.

Most of the farming in this country is done under a system of clean tillage. This has caused the organic matter in the soil to be low by not turning back stubble of plants or whole plants. This has been a big factor in lowering the organic matter and water holding capacity of the soil.

But there is another method of tillage that many farmers are now using. This is "subsurface tillage." Instead of burying the dead residue of the previous crop, subsurface tillage leaves it on top of the soil. The crop residue made up of the stubble plus other parts of the previous crop forms a mulch that protects the land from wind erosion, water runoff, and water evaporation.

Using a mulch you get more moisture into the ground. When you cover the soil with some kind of crop residue, such as small grain stubble and straw, corn or sorghum stalks, litter from other crops, or even dead weeds, you keep the raindrops from striking the ground and from puddling the surface. You thus enable the soil to retain its high capacity to absorb water. In regions of low rainfall it is important to store moisture in soil for use of the next crop.

Experiments have shown that you must do the following things to store a large part of the rainfall in the soil: (1) reduce loss of water by runoff, especially during heavy rains (2) reduce evaporation losses (3) keep weeds from using the soil moisture.

Growing plants form effective protection for the soil against erosion to the extent that they cover the ground surface. Little erosion will take place on stubble land until it has been worked and some or all of the surface is bare. When you break stalks down on the land they will form a protective cover for the soil. But if you pasture them heavily they lose much of their protective power. You will find that other crop residues and even weeds can be used to protect the soil.

Wind erosion is much less on soil covered with vegetation or crop residue than on bare soil. The residue greatly reduces the velocity of the wind and also prevents the wind from striking the ground directly, and therefore keeps it from picking up much soil.

The amount of residue to be turned back to the soil will range from less than one ton to more than three tons per acre. Recommended amount of crop residue to be turned back to the soil is 1500 pounds per acre.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton Doyle of Roby visited during the week end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Will Doyle.

FIRE
WEEK
Let's Eliminate
Fire
Hazards!

Nothing Impossible To Local Fire Boys

"Is it possible to run a stream of water clear through a bale of cotton?" Most local citizens would answer "Of course not" — but this feat was accomplished last Wednesday by the Eldorado Volunteer Fire Department when the Mikeska gin caught on fire.

At that time the fire department was called out to extinguish a blaze which had caught in the hopper, high in the top of the gin. Standard procedure for any type of gin fire is to allow the blazing cotton to continue through the ginning process. The firemen allowed the burning cotton to be baled so they could use it for experimental purposes.

If a cotton bale catches on fire, it is usually considered almost impossible to extinguish. Some bales require over a month to burn.

The fire department, however, had studied cotton fires at training school at A&M this summer, and were prepared to handle the fire efficiently.

Using a combination of "wet water" and high pressure with a fog gun or nozzle, the fire boys produced a stream of water which penetrated completely through the burning cotton bale and came out the other side, extinguishing the fire quickly.

The firemen state that they hardly believed it themselves when they saw water going clear through the bale.

When asked for a non-technical explanation, the boys replied that the "wet water" has an ingredient added which enables it to penetrate the cotton more quickly and more thoroughly. They use one box of Tide, the washing powder, to 250 gallons of water.

High pressure of about 450 pounds is used, although the local equipment can build up pressure of 800 pounds. Pressure of around 200 pounds is used for ordinary fires.

The wet water is propelled at high pressure through the fog gun on the end of the hose — this, then, is the simple-sounding combination which can (and does) shoot water through a cotton bale.

Firemen stand by when there is a blaze in the hopper, but if the fire does not spread they allow the cotton to continue through the ginning process. Wednesday the burning cotton was baled for experimental purposes, but Friday night when a similar fire occurred the burning cotton was removed before the actual baling took place.

Appreciative Crowd Attends Lion Banquet Honoring Faculty

One of the largest ladies' night crowds in the history of Eldorado Lionism assembled in the Community Building banquet hall Tuesday night to hear Prof. R. E. Jackson of TSCW, Denton, and partake of steak and chicken dinner. Plates were served to 144 Lions and their ladies, faculty members, and other visitors.

Toastmaster for the evening was Ray Tisdale. Song leaders were C. F. Jones and Lucille Farmer, with Mary Lee Gunstead as accompanist. Music was rendered by the Eldorado Quartet — Nolen McDonald, C. F. Jones, Mrs. Gus Love and Ervin Mund — and Miss Farmer directed a singsong. The arrangements committee was Rev. Roy Shilling, Ernest Hill, Don McCormick and Lum Davis.

Prof. Jackson was in fine form, weaving a choice line of stories around the friendship theme.

A number of out-of-town visitors from Sonora and Christoval were present, also Bob Brooks of Denton, Prof. Jackson's pilot, who as a child was one of the principals in the Bob and Nancy readers.

Contracts Let For School Building

Construction, electrical, and plumbing contracts were awarded to three San Angelo firms for Schleicher county's new school plant in Eldorado, at a meeting of the school board Friday afternoon.

Von Frelick received the general contract at $298,400, Westbrook Electric Co. the electrical at $18,983.50 and the Bollinger Plumbing Co. the contract for heating, ventilation and plumbing at $54,424.

The school board authorized building of the plant according to the plans set up, though they had prepared a number of substitute plans to be used if there was not sufficient money for the original plan. All of the alternates except one were for less expensive facilities and it was not necessary to adopt any of these. One, a new band hall, which was an alternate at a higher figure, was cut out of the plan, and the Scout building will probably be renovated for use as a band hall.

School authorities, who have put in months of study on the building plans and the types of materials and construction employed, are jubilant over the fact that they will be able to use ceramic tile up to wainscoting heights in all corridors throughout the entire plant, and in the vicinity of classroom and office light switches.

At the Friday night meeting a brick matching the grade school brick was chosen for exterior finish on the new building and additions. This will give uniformity to the exterior appearance, and is less expensive than some finishing materials.

All walls will be plastered and tinted, and will be fireproofed throughout. Acoustical ceilings will be installed, and in the auditorium a new "inverted shingle" type of ceiling — the newest thing in this line — will be used.

The new high school will be entirely on one floor. It will contain eight conventional classrooms, combination library and study hall, a 90 x 58 foot auditorium with dressing rooms and stage, a home economics department composed of large kitchen large sewing room, living room-dinette, and fitting rooms, a two-room commercial department, a shop section, a science section containing two rooms with storage facilities and office, superintendent's and principal's office, combination clinic room and teachers' lounge, modern rest rooms, book rooms, janitor's quarters, boiler room, and large cafeteria and kitchen to serve the entire school.

The main addition to the grammar school will provide six modern new classrooms for younger elementary pupils; each of these classrooms will have its own restrooms, a sink with splash board, and individual lockers. This addition will be at the east end of the elementary school.

Between the addition and the main building there will be a group of offices and also a book room, clinic room and storage facilities.

The present grade school will be completely renovated for use of the upper elementary grades. The rest rooms will be renovated and new equipment installed. Corridors will be floored with asphalt tile and walls finished to match the new addition.

The gymnasium will be renovated and the floor raised. New locker rooms, showers and dressing rooms will be built at either end of the gym. The gymnasium will be used by the entire school.

There will be a new entrance to the gym at the front of the elementary school in the form of a ramp, slightly elevated.

A covered passage from the west end of the elementary school will lead to the cafeteria.

The present old high school building will be torn down at the close of the school year, dismantling of this structure having been included in the construction contract.

The remaining amount of the $475,000 bond issue voted this summer by Schleicher county will be used for purchase of equipment. As much of the equipment throughout the school will be replaced with new, this will be a project requiring much attention this year, and the school board authorized Supt. C. A. Reynolds Friday night to start investigating along this line.

The construction company expect to start hauling materials to location within the coming week, and probably the following week will start excavating for the new high school building. They plan to start soon afterward on grade school excavations also, and to have the concrete foundations ready before long.

They expect to have the project in full swing in six weeks, barring unforeseen delays.

Company representatives state that they will employ as many local men as possible on the job throughout the year, but they will probably send time keepers, cost accountants, superintendent and his assistant and masonry superintendent and possibly others. J. D. Beeman will be general superintendent.

Cement is plentiful, and the company has enough steel on hand to furnish material for the project.

The contractors received construction contracts for the Eldorado school, the educational building for the San Angelo Presbyterian church, a large hotel at Borger, and a school at Roscoe within the past ten days.

Contract on the Eldorado school calls for 300 calendar days to complete the work.

Menard Beats Eagles 7-6 Friday Night

In Hard-Fought Game

A record crowd of Schleicher county fans witnessed a heart-breaking game last Friday night when the Eagles lost to Menard by a 7-6 score. That the two teams were evenly matched is shown by the statistics, each team making twelve first downs.

During the first half of the game neither team scored. In the third quarter, Bobby Galbreath caught a pass from E. H. Nixon and ran about fifty yards for a touchdown. The kick was no good. In the third quarter, Menard also scored and made the extra winning point. Sammie Whitten was hurt early in the game, a rib being torn. He has not yet returned to school and will not be able to play for awhile.

No Game Friday Night

There will be no game Friday night for the Eldorado Eagles, who have an "open" date on their schedule this week. The next game will be played next Friday night, Oct. 21, when the traditional rivals, Sonora and Eldorado, meet in Sonora for the annual game.

Games played in district 6-B Friday night will be Junction and Iraan in Junction, and Menard and Ozona in Menard.

Junior Football Team Will Play Menard Here Tonight at 7:30

The junior football team will play its first home game of the season tonight, Thursday, on the local field beginning at 7:30. Admission will be 30c and 15c. Eldorado's opponents will be Menard, whom they beat last Thursday night in a close game, 6-0.

Probable starting lineup will be: RE Lynn Griffin; RT Mickey McCown; RG Jimmy Doyle; C Jerry Pennington; LG Billy Gene Edmiston; LT Jerry Donaldson or Tommy Griffin; LE Ramero Minor; Q Billy Jack Etheridge; FB Jack Stanford; RHB Jerry Perry and LHB James Kidwell.

Last week before the Menard game James Kidwell and Jimmy Doyle were elected co-captains for the current season. The junior pep squad and the junior band, who do not attend out-of-town games, will be on hand tonight to support the team. They will perform a marching formation at the half.

Juniors Beat Menard
The Eldorado junior football team won their second victory of the season when they won over Menard last Thursday night 6-0. The game was played on the Menard field.

In the middle of the first quarter, little 95-pound Jerry Perry scored on an off-tackle play. The touchdown was set up after a recovered Menard fumble and some fine running by James Kidwell. A pass from Kidwell to Lynn Griffin for the extra point fell incomplete.

This ended the scoring for the evening, but as the game ended, Menard was down on the Eldorado goal line.

Rev. B. O. Wood, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church US of San Angelo, officiated.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a wedding gown of white chantilly lace over white satin, fashioned with a fitted bodice, Peter Pan collar, and leg-of-mutton sleeves. The full skirt extended to form a chapel train. Her veil was of illusion, and she carried a bouquet of gardenias and gladioli surrounding a corsage of orchids.

Miss Kay Sims of Paint Rock attended the bride as maid of honor, and Miss Francalene Boone of Woodsboro was bridesmaid. They carried bouquets of pink camellias and wore identical gowns of pink slipper satin trimmed with matching lace.

Vows were repeated at the altar, before a screen background of greenery. Candelabra, baskets of pink and cream gladioli, and palms completed the decoration.

Immediately after the ceremony a reception was held in the Indian Room of the Hotel Cactus. For traveling, the bride wore a royal blue suit with matching hat, an ermine scarf, and other accessories of coffee brown. Her corsage was of orchids.

The bride is a graduate of Texas Christian University. The bridegroom, a graduate of the Eldorado high school, graduated last year from Southern Methodist University.

Keep Eldorado Safe

Smoke means fire; and in many cases fire means disaster. In America, every minute of the day and night a home is burning. Sixty per cent of the country's fires occur in homes like yours. These startling facts emphasize the importance of fire prevention. This year Fire Prevention Week is October 9-15. During this time pledge yourself to continuously guard against the dangers that cause fires...at home and at work! Then by all means don't stop there. Continue to practice fire prevention 365 days out of every year. Fires don't just start. . . they are always the result of someone's carelessness. Don't let it be yours!

Rivers of grass...

"Rivers of grass" flow across this country. Millions of cattle and lambs have spent the spring and summer turning grass into meat. Now they are ready for round-up and shipment. So in October they move to the markets—in a great flood of livestock. Many go direct from the range to meat-packing plants. Others go to the feed lots to be grain-finished. But, either way, these meat animals are mostly grass—which folks cannot eat—converted into appetizing, nourishing meat for people. They are adding greatly to the health and wealth of the nation. Without this "livestock economy," in which you and we are engaged, 779,000,000 acres of our United States would produce little food for human use.

Whether you ship your cattle and lambs early or late—whether it's to Chicago, Ft. Worth, Denver or any of scores of other markets—you'll find buyers there to bid for them. With many others, Swift & Company helps provide the year-round daily market which is as essential to your business as it is to ours.

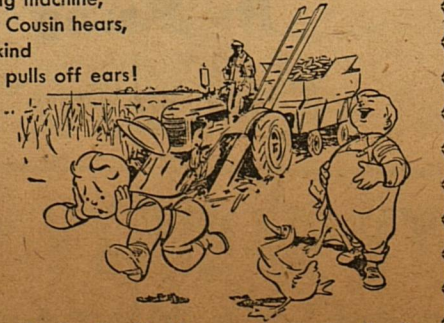

Your grass, turned into meat, is a vital raw material of all meat-packing operations. There is keen competition for it. Every meat packer and commercial slaughterer (and there are more than 18,000 of them in the United States) must have a regular supply of meat animals. Each buyer knows the high bid gets the animals. He knows also that his own price range is set by supply and demand. He sees your steers and lambs as so many pounds of meat and by-products. The price you are offered for your livestock is governed by what the meat packer can get for the meat and the by-products.

Soda Bill Sez...

The communist believes no man should be rich; the capitalist believes no man should be poor.

OUR CITY COUSIN

That big machine, City Cousin hears, is the kind that pulls off ears!

Your Markets for Meat

In the early days of our country, livestock was produced close to the point where it was eaten. But as the population grew, those conditions changed. Today two thirds of the people live east of the Mississippi, while two thirds of the livestock is produced west of that river. To bridge that gap of more than 1,000 miles is no small job. Millions of head of livestock must be processed and the meat distributed to where it is wanted. The facilities of nationwide meat packers provide you with markets for your meat animals; move the meat to cities and towns where it is in demand.

Swift & Company, and other nationwide meat packers, sell meat to retailers wherever there are people who want to buy it... no matter how far that may be from your farm or ranch. We bring you the benefit of national, rather than local, demand. This means that, in selling your livestock, you choose between the price created by local demand, or the price created by the national demand of millions of meat eaters.

We work hard to encourage people to serve meat oftener—to eat more of it... And we are proud that our nationwide system is one of the most efficient, low-cost food distribution systems in the United States.

Martha Logan's Recipe for SAUSAGE AND CORN BREAD

(Yield: 6 servings)

- | | |
|-------------------------|--------------------------------|
| 1 lb. pork sausage meat | 1 tsp. soda |
| 1 1/2 cups corn meal | 1 cup sour milk |
| 1/2 cup sifted flour | 1 egg |
| 1/2 tsp. salt | 2 tbsp. pork sausage drippings |
| 1 tsp. baking powder | |

Brown pork sausage meat thoroughly in heavy skillet (about 9 inches in diameter). Drain off drippings. Sift together corn meal, flour, salt, baking powder, and soda. Combine egg and milk and heat until well combined. Add 2 tablespoons drippings to milk and egg mixture. Pour liquid into dry ingredients and stir just until mixed. Pour batter over pork sausage in heated skillet. Bake in moderately hot oven (450°F.) until well browned, about 30 to 35 minutes. Serve hot as main luncheon dish.

Quotes of the Month

"We, as ranchers, are not sufficient unto ourselves. In fact, we are only the beginning of the beef line. Of equal importance are the feeder, the processor, the distributor and the consumer. Disregard the rights or welfare of any of these, and sooner or later we suffer."

Sam R. McKelvie
Pres. Sandhills Cattle Ass'n

"He gave it for his opinion that whoever could make two ears of corn, or two blades of grass, to grow upon a spot of ground where only one grew before, would deserve better of mankind, and do more essential service to his country, than the whole race of politicians put together."

Gulliver's Travels (written in 1726)

Supplement that Poor Forage

By Robert D. Rasmussen
New Mexico A. & M. College

Dried-up pastures and winter weather create the same feeding problem for the cattleman. They simply mean that you have lower quality feed and less of it. And you have little choice as to what you can do about it. You can let the cattle eat what they can find. In this case you're likely to take a weight loss on your cows. You'll also take a chance on a weak calf crop. Or you can feed a supplement. If you feed enough of the right kind, your cows and unborn calves will come through in good, healthy condition.

California experiments on deficient range showed the cow herd that got a protein supplement produced a 91% calf crop. Cows on similar range, without a supplement, produced a 61% calf crop. Arizona found that feeding supplement increased the weight of the calves at birth by 10 pounds.

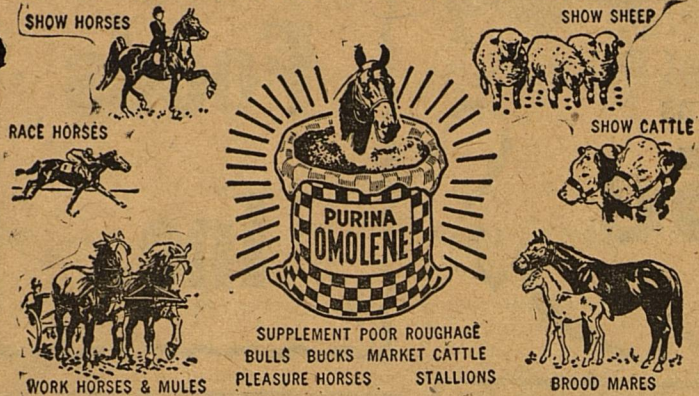

The amount of supplement needed varies. Cows carrying calves, and young stock require more protein than open cows or mature animals. A safe rule to follow is to watch the condition of the stock. Keep them healthy and thrifty.

Research by the New Mexico agricultural experiment station shows that during the winter months range forage is most critically short of phosphorus as well as protein. While some of the cake supplements are high in phosphorus as well as protein, most ranchers over the state are using mineral supplement for year-round use. A mineral supplement containing at least 6% phosphorus should be made available at all times to range cattle. Experiments have shown that year-round use is better and more profitable than seasonal use.

Here's a goal for cattlemen. Use whatever kind and amount of supplement is necessary to keep your cattle healthy and thrifty. (Editor's Note: The principles of animal nutrition discussed above apply in all parts of the country.)

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

But Curly "Knows What The Score Is!"

Was over at Doc Sherman's drug store listening to the World Series on the radio. Curly Lawson wanders in and says: "How about a chocolate malted, Doc?"

"Sorry, Curly," says Doc, "can't make you a malted for a while yet." "What's the idea?" Curly asks. "Well," says Doc, "most of the folks want to hear the game and the mixer makes too much noise." Curly thinks a moment and says, "Okay with me, Doc—I'll take a chocolate soda!"

This shows how tolerant folks can be. Doc showed his respect for how the majority felt; Curly was big enough not to insist on his malted even though he doesn't happen to be fond of baseball.

From where I sit, willingness to respect the other people's feelings is important in a Democracy. If we're tolerant of a person's like for baseball or a glass of temperate beer, we've come a long way on the right road . . . the road to a better America, that is!

Several band students have begun work on solos which they will perform in the spring for the state band contest, according to C. F. Jones, band instructor.

Among them are Lewis Wilson, Sousaphone; Donna Beth McCormick, flute; Jean Kuykendall, clarinet; Bob Townsend, trumpet; Jim Steward, cornet; Bob Steward, trumpet; Jack Steward, clarinet; and Ronnie Mittel, clarinet.

Since there is no Eldorado football game Friday night, the high school band has been practicing this week on close order drills without instruments. In rehearsals they have begun a new quick step march, "Invercargill", a number suitable for performance at the football games.
