Spring Clean-Up Week Suggested

Marvin Hall, state fire insurance commissioner, hopes that every Texas housewife will do spring house cleaning. The following advice is given by him to help the housewife prevent fires in

Not interested in the back-breaking drudgery of cleaning woodwork and windows, he was most concerned with the cleaning of floors. "Gasoline was not made to clean floors; it was made to run motor cars," Hall stated. "Many housewives are killed each year from using gasoline for cleaning purposes. A commercial cleaner does the job quicker, easier, and much safer." He also warned against using gasoline for cleaning spots off winter clothes before they are stored away for the summer. He urged housewives to throw away any containers of gasoline en the premises.

"Oily polishing and cleaning rags should be stored carefully in tight metal container when they are not in use. When all the polishing is completed, these rags should be thrown way or again stored in air-tight non-inflammable containers."

If you plan to have your house painted, be careful with paint rags. Paint-smudged rags should be kept in tight metal containers as they, like oily rags, are subject to self-

Give Your Meat Loaves A "New Look"

Are you game for a mix-andmatch session? In other words, a lesson on the variety that can come to meat loaves with the flick of a wrist? Here are eight ways that meat loaves can have the "new

1. Bake the loaf in various shapes; use the traditional loaf pan or mold a loaf on a flat shallow pan; pake in a square pan and cut in squares to serve; bake in a ring mold or angel cake pan, then unmold and fill the center with a creamed mixture; bake in individual loaves-in muffin tins or shaped in small loaves to bake in a flat shallow pan.

2. Make an upside-down meat loaf: before placing the meat loaf mixture in the pan, make a design in the bottom of the pan with pickles, vegetables, etc. When unmolded, the design is on top of the loaf. Use also olive slices, hardcooked eggs, pickles, fruit, etc.

3. Bake a sauce-topped loafs spread the top of the loaf with a flavorful sauce before baking so that a zesty topping results. catsup, mustard, horseradish, beaten jellies or preserves, or any combination that you prefer.

4. Bake a "stuffed" meat loaf: place half of the mixture in the pan, spread with stuffing, then add remaining meat. When sliced, the loaf reveals the stuffing in the most attractive way. Use bread stuffing, hard-cooked eggs, etc.

5. Vary the meats in the loaves: use ground beef, veal, lamb, fresh and smoked pork, and spicily-seasoned sausage, or any combination

6. Use herbs and seasonings with ingenuity to add true delight to meat loaves.

7. Serve the meat loaf with a zesty sauce: melted blue cheese, or American cheese, olive, tomato or brown sauces are only a few of the possibilities.

8. Make the meat loaf a meal-inone by adding vegetables, either grated or whole. Carrots, peas, beans, beets, and corn are suggest-always planning and building for the future of West Texas

WHEN the West Texas Utilities Company built the first highvoltage transmission line in West Texas in 1915—the second in the state-it paved the way for the growth and development of this vast area by making low-cost, dependable electric service available to small and large communities alike. Since the building of the first line, the Company has continually planned and built for the future of West Texas until today it operates more miles of transmission line than any other company in the state.

During 1947, the West Texas Utilities Company constructed 121 miles of additional transmission lines; brought electric service to 6,033 more customers, including 514 rural connections. As a result of careful planning there was no curtailment of the use of electric power. In spite of unprecedented demands and despite shortages of materials and equipment, an abundance of electric power was available for all consumers. In fact, 59,879,000 more kilowatt hours of service were provided in 1947 than in the preceding year.

Also, during 1947, more than $2,800,000.00 in wages were paid to employee citizens of West Texas. During the year $1,873,000.00 were contributed to local, state, and federal governments.

While supplying the present electric requirements, the people of your service company are devoting full energy to planning and building for the future. During the next four years, the Company will spend $18,-000,000.00 enlarging plants and existing facilities and constructing transmission and distribution lines in an all-out effort to bring low-cost electric service to more and more people-in their homes, on their farms and ranches, and in their businesses.

WHY

does the Windstorm and Hail Insurance Policy contain a Deductable clause???

Inasmuch as the windstorm and hail season is approaching I wish to take this means of explaining the above question that is now being freely discussed in order that the public will more fully understand the deductible clause on the windstorm and hail insurance policy.

In the summer of 1946 the Board of Insurance Commissioners in Austin was confronted with a serious problem. Windstorm and hail losses had been so great in the few years prior to that time that many companies were refusing to write the coverage, so for the protection of all companies the Board felt that it must make some drastic change. The windstorm and hail rate had gradually been raised from 27c in 1942 to 42c in 1946. The companies were continuing to lose so much money that the Board felt it necessary to double the 42c rate in order to combat the rising losses. They hesitated to do that because the rate was high at 42c, but something had to be done because the companies had lost $23,000,000 in less than 10 years writing windstorm and hail insurance in Texas. Therefore, the Board of Insurance Commissioners decided on the deductible clause, which was effective Sept. 1, 1946. All policies issued on and after that date contain the deductible clause. Many policies do not contain the clause. That is because they were written before that date and have not expired. When they expire, they will also contain the deductible clause.

The use of the deductible clause has two direct benefits to you as a buyer of insurance: (1) The persons who suffers no loss will have no increase in the cost of his insurance, and (2) the lowering of losses to be paid due to this deductible clause, should ultimately result in a reduction of insurance rates, according to Fire Insurance Commissioner Marvin Hall.

The deductible clause applies only to buildings and applies only to windstorm and hail. The other coverages are not affected.

City property has a $100 deductible clause and country property has a $50 deductible clause. Losses determined this ruling and it happens that the country losses have not run as great as the city losses.

I do not approve of this clause any more than you. It so happened that during the recent storm I suffered two windstorm losses that I must pay myself because neither of them amounted to as much as $50, but even though we do not like the deductible clauses on our policies, we also know that the insurance companies can not continue to lose two and one-half million dollars each year on windstorm and hail business. We can only hope that conditions in the future will justify the removal of the clause. I will be glad to explain further about this question upon your

Washington News Letter

By Cong. O. C. Fisher It may be that one of these days when you go to the polls in the general election you will be permitted to vote directly for your choice for President, and know your vote will actually be counted in the to-

As it is now, you vote for a group of electors, and your vote doesn't count at all unless the group you vote for happens to get a plurality of the popular votes cast. Not only that, if you vote against a particular political group of electors, and those you vote for do not win in your state, then your vote is counted FOR the group you voted against! That is, even if the preailing group receives only 51% o the popular votes in the state, that group nevertheless is credited with all the votes cast in that state.

Ever since 1824, when a deadlock threw the election of the President into the House of Representatives, all students of government have recognized this hiatus in our system of electing the president.

Each state now is allowed the same number of electoral votes that such state has Representatives and Senators in the Congress. Texas, therefore, has 23. And electors are chosen in each state to cast that state's electoral votes for president. Regardless of how close the pop-ular vote may be in a state, the electors receiving a lead actually cast ALL the electoral votes to which that state is entitled. This is called the unit system.

Last week a House sub-commit tee gave approval to a resolution Congressman Ed Gossett of Wichita Falls, which would, if adopted, amend the Constitution and abolish the electoral college but would retain the number of electoral votes in each state as is now

The Gossett resolution, which I endorse, would do the following:

1. The electoral college would be abolished.

2. Each state would continue to have the same number of electoral votes as at present.

3. The President would always be elected by direct vote of the people. 4. The unit state vote would be

5. The electoral votes of each state would be divided between the candidates in exact proportion to their popular votes in that state.

"If my proposal were in effect now," Gossett declared, "the President's Civil Rights message would never have been made because there would be no occasion for candidates to make overtures purely for vote-getting purposes.

He pointed out that under our system now, both major parties make all sorts of promises to Negro voters, left-wing groups, etc. who usually vote in blocs.

dancers—a Eldorado's square motley throng of 100, the women gaily attired in the ruffles and bustles of another day and the IS COMPLETED men in matching garb-will descend upon San Angelo Friday evening for an evening of dancing at the community gym, joining several other clubs there.

Culminating weeks of practice, the Pioneer Club members are out to show the dancers from San Angelo, Robert Lee, Menard and Junction how to "break that ring with a corner swing" as it SHOULD be Instructor Emerson, who has called this group meeting of all of his classes, at the community gym in San Angelo, will open the evening's festivities at 8 o'clock, and the fiddles will be put away in their cases before midnight. Music will be furnished by three pieces of Dub Adams' orchestra.

The Pioneers are proud of their prowess. Organized only a few Texas Star, Sally Goodin, Rip and MRS. FINLEY months ago, they can go through Snort, Take a Peek, Dip and Dive, IS HOSTESS Wring the Dishrag, and many other favorites, without a bobble (at AT BRIDGE least without many).

The caller's little ditties now mean something to the Pioneers. The dancers know just what to do when he instructs them:

Now we'll switch, Now we'll trade, Your pretty gal For my old maid.

The 18-year-olds and the 60ear-olds can give him

Little bit o' heel, Little bit o' toe, Round and round And round we go!

And everyone knows a square is over when he tells them "Take your gal, you know where and I don't

The men's shirts and (or) ties match the women's long dresses. The ladies' costumes run heavily to bustles, peplums, leg-o'-mutton sleeves, and strategically placed ruffles and flounces. That the men outshine the women in their resplendent garb is an unquestioned fact. As "what they wore" is an important part of any sassiety write-up, the following high lights in men's wear should be mentioned: A. G. Taylor wears a baby blue Paisley shirt; Marvin McAngus vest is of blue and white polka dot, with tie of self material; Lewis Whitten's costume features a light-ed necktie; Jess Walston and Ray Hudgens wear shirts of slimmening legislation, gave a report, urging plaid, matching their spouses' plaid all club members to write their all club members to write their terial is yellow and brown with enormous polka dats; J. H. Mace legislators and let them know your attitude on bills that are being diswill wear a fuschia number; Leonard Lloyd will wear red calico (to mention a few).

All dancers will go to San Angelo with the determination to "break that ring with a corner swing and promenade that pretty little taw" without making a single error.

ROAD WORK N.W. OF TOWN

A road project which has required most of the winter for completion is now entirely finishedthe new Reynolds road has received its last load of caliche.

The fact that caliche had to be hauled several miles caused delay in the work. The road runs through a blackland strip, and was almost impassable for motorists in rainy seasons. It completes an all-weather loop which one of the school busses covers.

County equipment is now on the job re-topping the Mertzon road, from the point where the Mertzon highway intersects the Reynolds here and in New York. road, to Eldorado. The work is now underway, and with favorable working conditions may be completed in a few weeks.
