DIAL SYSTEM COMES LIFE NEXT TUESDAY

new dial system in Schleicher Head officials of the company will be in Eldorado Tuesday to make a last-minute tour of inspection, and at midnight Tuesday night the dial switchover will be made.

The event gives this distinction to the county: Schleicher has the only county-wide dial system in the state.

The event will also be the signal for rejoicing throughout Schleich. er County, for the dials will at last provide satisfactory service to many who have never had phone: or who have had poor service in isolated localities.

About 100 new phones in the business district and elsewhere in the county must still be installed Two crews are on the job this week for that purpose. A total of between 500 and 600 will start using their dials next week.

C. C. McLaughlin and his wife local manager and assistant for nearly 14 years, will continue on the job, the former as manager and he latter as local book keeper. r. McLaughlin's duties will in clude maintaining of equipment and carrying on of outside work Bills will be paid at the local of.

fice as heretofore. Mrs. W. C. Doyle, operator al ou! 17 years, will retire soon from her duties as "hello girl".

The local telephone plant now includes the new dial building, the original rock building which has housed the equipment and mana ger's residential quarters for many years, and an employee's house.

Company officials state that they are doing everything possible to make the transition to the dials with a minimum of inconvenience to their customers.

Installation of the dial system concludes over three years of work with company officials fighting & continual battle over shortages of material and labor. The Lions Club assisted in making the survey here three years ago last spring, and making a start on the project Many months of delay this year have been caused by failure of the company to get delivery on the dial phones, and the last of the necessary equipment in the mair dial room arrived here only a short time ago, with a factory official ir > service. Rocks from Schleicher Co. were sed for construction of the office and residence, and the lines were rebuilt over the county.

> The system outgrew the new switchboard installed after the ce storm, and two years ago a new poard was put in operation. Growth during the past two years has beer so rapid that this board is now too small. The rock building was renovated last year and enlarged, to provide better quarters for the Mc Laughlin family.

The war and post-war years tool their toll of this property, mainten ance being so difficult that rural lines in several areas have been practically discontinued.

Further difficulty has been experienced because of the fact that ines in Rudd, McIntosh, Eldorado-Mertzon, and other neighborhoods are privately owned, though the company owns lines to Reynolds and Bailey Ranch.

Don Hunsaker is now general manager, succeeding John Y. Rust who resigned on August 1.

NEW TROOP OF CUB SCOUTS IS ORGANIZED

Formation of a troop of Cubs and reorganization of Scout leaders, has been under way, under sponsorship of the Lions' Club, and with the assistance of Field Executive J. D. Morris.

Frank Prochaska will be Cub scoutmaster, with R. J. Alexander as assistant. These men have called a meeting of eligible Cubs and are urged to be present.

Because of trouble caused by war injuries, Billy Frank Blaylock has found it necessary to resign as Scoutmaster. Pat Joiner will take his place, with Bob McWhorter Joe Wagley, E. W. Perry, and B. F. Blaylock as assistants.

There is possibility that some of the older Scouts will choose one of the three classes of Scout work offered for their age, and carry on as a separate troop. This has been deemed advisable because of the fact that about 30 are in the regular troop.

The Scout program is sponsored by the local Lions Club.

the Presbyterian Church is starting this week, under supervision of the building committee, Jack Ratliff, Leslie Baker and W. M. Patterson.

The addition will be constructed at an approximate cost of $15,000, most of which has already been raised. It will be located at the rear of the church, back of the pulpit and choir loft.

The plans call for a basement at the rear of the present basement, and at the same level. This floor will contain three classrooms, a rest room, a smaller room, and a hall, and there will be a door opening into the present basement. The second floor will have a similar floor plan, with 3 classrooms, one of which will double for a choir room, a hall, a washroom, and a secretary's room. Rearranging of the pulpit platform will provide an entrance to the addition, and will enable choir members to enter the church from the rear of the choir

The entire interior of the addition will be plastered to match the church interior. The upstairs floor will be wood, probably covered with asphalt tile, and the basement floor will be concrete.

Two outside entrances will provide easy access from street and parsonage. The street entrance will be on a level between the floors, dedicated on Saturday night, Oct. with steps on the inside leading 23. Dedication program will be at to basement and top floor. The en-7:00 p. m., to be followed by a trance on the manse side will be conference football game between by outside stairway to the main floor, and will provide an inconspicuous entrance way for choir members and others.

The addition will measure 30 by 31 feet. The outside finish will be brick veneer to match the church.

When the addition is completed, the workmen will remove the auditorium partition at the present street entrance to the church, and thus provide more room in the church auditorium. The annex will be used mainly for Sunday School classes.

There will be no contractor on he job. The work will be managed by the building committee, who will hire men, buy materials, and supervise construction.

Not Enough Grass To Feed Parasites, Says County Agent

Most ranchers realize that there has not been enough grass in the pastures and on the ranges thi year! There hasn't been enough grass to feed the cattle and sheep, so there isn't enough to feed parasites, too. But lots of ranchers and farmers are feeding them, according to County Agent W. G. Godwin and it is costing them lots of money

He points out that cattle which are free of parasites have a better appearance, are healthier, and are consequently more productive than cattle which have to keep switching flies off, or rubbing against fence posts to scratch off ticks. Cattle lice and four kinds of ticks are the parasites which bother cattle the most in the winter. Cattle are also bothered with cattle grubs. Producers who have cattle grubs are raising their own supply-be cause the heel fly does not operate more than half a mile from the place where he is raised.

Cattle are bothered by lice more n the winter and early spring when the hair is long, so the best time to treat cattle for lice is now in the fall of the year. Both rotenone and DDT are good for the control of lice on cattle. For those tho use rotenone, two treatment wo weeks apart will give good control. The recipe is: 1 pound of % rotenone and 10 pounds of wet table sulfur for each 100 gallons of water. Or one can use 50% wettable DDT powder to each 100 gallons of water, the mixture being 3 1-3 lbs o 100 gallons of water.

Perhaps the rancher or farmer prefers to control cattle lice and grubs in the same spraying or dipoing. In that case, the recipe wil be: 71/2 pounds of 5% rotenone, 10 pounds of wettable sulfur, and 3 1-3 pounds of 50% DDT to 100 gallons of water.
