Schleicher County RC&D Council Held Strategic Planning Seminar

On Thursday, March 24th, the Schleicher County Resource Conservation and Development Council held a Strategic Planning Seminar. This event was sponsored by the First National Bank of Eldorado and the Angelo State University Small Business Development Center.

The meal, prepared by Charlotte Steele of Bluebonnet Catering, was served in the Fellowship Hall of the First Presbyterian Church. Jo Ed Hill welcomed the forty-eight guests and speakers, after which the invocation was given by Dr. Lee Brewer, Pastor of the First Baptist Church of Eldorado. During the meal, Ronnie Mittel gave the Chamber of Commerce Report and David Hill reported on the results of the Economic Development Survey that was held in the fall. After the meal, the meeting moved to the Corral Room of the Memorial Building.

The seminar was led by David Hill, Chairman of the S.C. RC&D Council, who introduced the guests and their program. Guest speakers included: Carrol Green, District Conservationist and Local RC&D Advisor, S.C.S., who spoke on RC&D "It's Purpose"; Ray Lewis Ballew, Schleicher County Appraisal District, who spoke on the Schleicher County Tax Base; Jackie Napier spoke on Main Street Beautification; Hawley Wolfe, Vice Chairman RC&D spoke on Tourism/Woolen Mill/Grant Writing; Isabella McCutcheon spoke on Heritage Preservation; Jo Ann Sproul, Director, Way-Off Broadway Players, spoke on Way-Off Broadway Theatre; Glenn Nix spoke on the Schleicher County Independent School District; William Edmiston, President Schleicher County Hospital Board, spoke on Schleicher County Medical Center "Hospital & Health;" David Doran, President Schleicher County Emergency Medical Service, spoke on the Emergency Medical System; Richard Harris, Sheriff, spoke on Law Enforcement; John Nikolauk, Mayor for Eldorado, spoke on City Infrastructure; Hyman D. Sauer, Exec. Vice President of the First National Bank of Eldorado, spoke on Banking, Community Reinvestment and the Local Economy and Bob Melton, Community Development Specialist, Texas Department of Commerce, spoke on the State Commerce Department Funding.

Harlan Bruha, Angelo State University Small Business Development Center Director, presented a brief Strategic Planning Retreat. Due to a shortage of time, the retreat was continued on Tuesday, March 29th. The purpose of this miniaturized retreat was to come with an environmental analysis of Schleicher County, identify the strengths and weaknesses of Schleicher County, create a mission statement for Schleicher County and to recognize Short-Term and Long Range Goals and to prioritize these goals to organize actions on them.

The results of the Strategic Planning Retreat will be comprised into a booklet by the Angelo State University Small Business Development Center and will be available to the public sometime in April.

The Schleicher County Resource Conservation and Development Council meets the first Monday of each month at 6:00 p.m. in the First National Bank. The annual membership dues are $25.00.

If you are interested in joining the RC&D Council, or would like more information, you may contact David Hill, Chairman; Hawley Wolfe, Vice-Chairman; or Barbara Jackson, Secretary.

Donations Needed For Creation Of New Flowerbed

Plans are quickly coming together for another beautiful park for Eldorado. The "Y" between the Sonora and Big Lake Highways (in front of the old Halbert Filling Station) will be the newest and most beautiful park yet.

Bob Halbert donated the first $250 and truck time to help get things underway. Niblett Oilfield Services is going to remove the dirt and replace it with new dirt for planting. Ronnie Sauer has volunteered to install a sprinkler system and the City of Eldorado will furnish the water.

Volunteers and donations are needed to help make this a reality. Right now we need about six or so people to help get the lot ready and about that many more to help plant. We also need donations of perennials and any extra gardening tools (rakes, hoes, gloves, etc.).

A "Welcome To Eldorado" sign is hoped to be placed in the lot to welcome visitors to our town. If you would like to help paint and put up this sign, please let us know.

Help is also needed for Spring planting in existing flowerbeds around town and to help clear out the grass and weeds in these flowerbeds.

If you would like to make a donation of money, time, flowers, etc., please call The Success at 853-3125, or you may call Doug Yates or Cathy Niblett. Your help will be greatly appreciated, not only by the citizens of Eldorado, but by everyone who passes through here!

Editor's Journal

TOP OF THE DIVIDE by Thomas Giovannitti

Have a Happy Easter! I'll leave the sermons to the professionals. Me, I have always enjoyed this whole week of religious services. Growing up, the theater alone in Holy Week was enough to make the most hardened heart thaw.

From Holy Thursday evening services through Good Friday noon to three o'clock quite time. I don't know how it was for you but where I grew up businesses closed from noon until three on Good Friday. There was no commerce more important than honoring the crucifixion.

At about one in the afternoon we would gather at the church for the Good Friday services. This day there would be no Mass, no celebration, but a symbolic, reverent, sacred, solemn, rehearsing of the Passion. The Passion, from one of the synoptic Gospels would be read dramatically with the priest reading all of the words of Jesus, other persons reading other individual parts, a narrator, and the people responding where the crowd chanted or yelled. We, the altar boys, would yell with the crowd. It felt eerie to yell, "Crucify Him! Crucify Him!". Having learned in Sunday school that it was my sins that put Jesus on the cross, saying those words out loud made my belief in my own culpability more impressive. How could I have acted so badly that such a horrible end would have to be endured by Jesus? Yet in the end from that very cross He says, "Forgive them for they know not what they do." I always felt I was included in that group. It has given me great comfort to think that God will not condemn us for what we do in ignorance. Let's hope so!

When the narrator read the part about Jesus giving up his spirit we all knelt in silence. The priest would distribute communion and it would be time to move the remaining hosts to a Place outside the main sanctuary, to another room, into a kind of golden tomb called a catafalque where members of the congregation would keep watch until Saturday night. The procession to this altar of repose was very solemn. Many altar boys carrying candles on poles followed by the thurible (a metal pot on a chain with burning incense) and then the priest all draped in black with four men of the parish carrying a black canopy lead the procession with one more altar boy swinging a wooden "clacker" (No bells were allowed) lead the people who followed behind. We sang a song called, I think, the "Dies Irae," which are the first two Latin words of the song, meaning day of sorrow. It is a mournful tune which even if we didn't understand the words left everyone feeling the weight of the loss of Jesus much as the apostles must have felt.

The whole next day, Saturday, was the only day there was no service in our church because the vigil did not start until Midnight, that is the first moment of Easter Sunday. The Easter Vigil still holds enormous mystery for me. The vigil when entered into in faith brings the Resurrection to life.

Freelance Philosophy

The sister of a friend of mine was driving in Dallas last month when a drunk driver drove a car into hers. This young woman was severely injured. She was in intensive care for 14 days and has undergone 5 major surgeries. The driver of the other car suffered only minor injuries.

Someone asked me, "How can people do terrible things to other people? Where is the justice?"

I heard several people say, "What goes around comes around."

There may be truth to this old axiom, "What goes around comes around" and yet-- sometimes when people do bad things, other people have to pay the price.

I worried about this for several weeks. I worried about the inequity. I worried about the injustice. I worried about the unfairness.

Then I stopped worrying and started remembering. I remembered that this is Easter week.

Two thousand years ago there was a man named Jesus. He didn't do anything wrong. People that he didn't even know killed him. People that he trusted betrayed him. He didn't fight back. He didn't get even. He didn't even say, "What goes around comes around." He just taught us to remember. He taught us to forgive. And He taught us that it's not over until it's over.

Until the next time,

May God Bless

EHS Tennis Results

by Staci Helmers

The Eldorado Varsity tennis team attended the Crane Invitational tennis tournament for the second year in a row this past weekend. Once again the Eagles met up with some stiff competition, playing mainly against 3A schools. The Varsity girls brought home the first place team trophy after a strong finish in both girls singles and girls doubles.

Jennifer Cheatham lost her first match in the girls singles division then went on to win three straight matches to capture consolation honors. Team-mates Shanna Edmiston and Kim Williams won second place in the girls doubles division after losing a close match in the third set to District rival Ozona.

Sophomore singles player, Bryan Gray, encountered some stiff competition in his division. Bryan split sets in three of his four matches, including the championship match, before going on to capture first place in boys singles.

This weekend, April 1st and 2nd, the tennis team will be traveling to Mason to compete in the Mason Invitational which is always a strong tournament. This will be the last practice meet before District, which will be in Ozona this year on April 9th and 10th.

Schleicher County Library Book Review

by Ann Lauffer

I have long been a fan of Stephen King. Some of his early books I devoured at one sitting. Later, I must confess, we rather lost touch with each other and so it was with a little trepidation that I began to read Needful Things and, once again, I was hooked.

Needful Things is early Stephen King at his best, a masterful suspense thriller drawing ever so tautly to the climax. This is a story so close to real life, that if you believe even the slightest in the supernatural, it could be true.

The setting is again Castle Rock, Maine. The characters are like small town people anywhere except that these are New England small town people, curious about a stranger but not able to admit it. Therefore, when Leland Gaunt opens a new shop, all have to amble by and casually look in the window, just to look.

Imagine the excitement when one discovers that their very own hearts desire, the thing they have always wanted the very most in the whole wide world, is for sale in that very window, and so cheap. Of course, there is the "hidden price," that makes it not quite so cheap. But all one has to do is play a practical joke on a neighbor, no one will ever know you did it. But something goes wrong and joke builds on joke with ever widening consequences, like a pebble tossed into a pool of water, until your hearts desire finally becomes the most expensive thing you ever bought. The price is your very own soul.

This is a plain and simple tale, a morality play if you will, of good versus evil and right versus wrong, of God versus the devil. The knight in shining armor is Sheriff Alan Pangborn, a man who is able to see past his own desires to the very core of events. He pits his own soul for the souls of Castle Rock, may every town be blessed with at least one like him.

Polly Chalmers is the damsel in distress, sweet and innocent, will her love for the sheriff be strong enough to save them both? Leland Gaunt, proprietor of the shop "Needful Things" is the devil himself, banking his victory on human nature, that anything can be bought and sold. These are the pivotal characters upon which this book is anchored.

There are many excellent supporting characters who weave in and out adding depth and flavor to this fine tale. It particularly liked the opening and closing soliloquies of this book, a novel idea, it only sets the stage in the beginning but ties up everything in the end.

Through it all runs these two themes, people see what they want to see, and, the devils voice is sweet.

This book can be found in the Schleicher County Library.
