Text Of Democratic Platform

CHICAGO—The complete text of the democratic platform approved by the full resolutions committee at its presentation to the convention follows:

In this time of unprecedented economic and social distress the democratic party declares its convictions that the chief causes of this condition were the disastrous policies pursued by our government since the world war of economic isolation; fostering the merger of competitive businesses into monopolies; and encouraging the undesirable expansion and contraction of credit for private profit at the expense of the public.

Abandoned Ideals.
Those who were responsible for these policies have abandoned the ideals on which the war was won, and thrown away the fruits of victory, thus rejecting the greatest opportunity in history to bring peace, prosperity and happiness to our people and to the world.

They have ruined our foreign trade, destroyed the values of our commodities and products, crippled our banking system, robbed millions of our people of their life savings, and thrown millions more out to work, produced widespread poverty and brought the government to a state of financial distress unprecedented in times of peace.

The only hope for improving present conditions, restoring employment, affording permanent relief to the people and bringing the nation back to its former proud position of domestic happiness and of financial, industrial, agricultural and commercial leadership in the world lies in a drastic change in economic and governmental policies.

Covenant with People

Believing that a party platform is a covenant with the people to be faithfully kept by the party when entrusted with power, and that the people are entitled to know in plain words the terms of the contract to which they are asked to subscribe, we hereby declare this to be the platform of the democratic party.

The democratic party solemnly promises by appropriate action to put into effect the principles, policies and reforms herein advocated, and to eradicate the policies, methods and practices herein condemned.

We advocate:
1. An immediate and drastic reduction by governmental expenditures by abolishing useless commissions and offices, consolidating departments and bureaus, and eliminating extravagance, to accomplish a saving of not less than 25 per cent in the cost of federal government; and we call upon the democratic party in the states to make a zealous effort to achieve a proportionate result.

National Credit

2. Maintenance of the national credit by a federal budget annually balanced on the basis of accurate executive estimates within revenue raised by a system of taxation levied on the principle of ability to pay.

3. A sound currency to be preserved at all hazards; and an international monetary conference called on the invitation of our government to consider the rehabilitation of silver and related questions.

4. A competitive tariff for revenue, with a fact finding tariff commission free from executive interference; reciprocal tariff agreements with other nations; and an international economic conference designed to restore international trade and facilitate exchange.

5. Extension of federal credit to the states to provide unemployment relief wherever the diminishing resources of the states make it impossible for them to provide for the need; expansion of the federal program of necessary and useful construction affected with a public interest; such as flood control and waterways, including the St. Lawrence-Great Lake deep waterways; the spread of employment by a substantial reduction in the hours of labor, the encouragement of the shorter week by applying that principle in government service; advance planning of public works.

6. Unemployment and old age insurance, under state laws.

7. For the restoration of agriculture, the nation's basic industry, better financing of farm mortgages through reorganized farm bank agencies at low rates of interest, on an amortization plan, giving preference to credits for the redemption of farms and homes sold under foreclosure; extension and development of the farm co-operative movement, and effective control of crop surpluses so that our farmers may have the full benefit of the domestic market; enactment of every constitutional measure that will aid the farmers to receive for basic farm commodities, prices in excess of cost.

8. A navy and army adequate for national defense, based on a survey of all facts affecting the existing establishments, that the people in time of peace may not be burdened by an expenditure fast approaching a billion dollars annually.

9. Strict and impartial enforcement of the anti-trust laws to prevent monopoly and unfair trade practices and revision thereof for the better protection of labor and the small producer and distributor; the removal of government from all fields of private enterprise, except where necessary to develop public works and natural resources in the common interest, conservation development and use of the nation's water power in the public interest.

Repeal of Pro Law

We favor the repeal of the 18th amendment.

To effect such a repeal, we demand that the congress immediately propose a constitutional amendment to purely representative conventions in the states called to act solely on that purpose.

We urge the enactment of such measures by the several states as will actually promote temperance, effectively prevent the return of the saloon and bring the liquor traffic into the open under complete supervision and control by the states.

In violation of their laws.

Pending repeal, we favor immediate modification of the Volstead act to legalize the manufacture and sale of beer and other beverages of such alcoholic content as is permissible under the constitution and to provide therefrom a proper and needed revenue.

Protection of Investors

10. Protection of the investing public by requiring to be filed with the government and carried in advertisements of all offerings of foreign and domestic stocks and bonds, true information as to bonuses, commissions, principal invested and interests of sellers.

Regulation to the full extent of the federal power of (A)—Holding companies which sell securities in interstate commerce.

(B)—Rates of utility companies operating across state lines.

(C)—Exchanges trading in securities and commodities.

11. Quicker methods of realizing on assets for the relief of depositors of suspended banks and a more rigid supervision of national banks for the protection of depositors and the prevention of the use of their moneys in speculation to the detriment of local credits.

The severance of affiliated securities companies and the divorce of the investment banking from commercial banks; and further restriction of federal reserve banks in permitting the use of federal reserve facilities for speculative purposes.

Justice for Veterans

12. The full measure of justice and generosity for all war veterans who have suffered disability or disease caused by or resulting from actual services in time of war, and for their dependents.

13. A firm foreign policy including peace with all the world and the settlement of international disputes by arbitration; no interference in the international affairs of other nations; the sanctity of treaties; and the maintenance of good faith and of good will in financial obligations; adherence to the world court with the pending reservations; the pact of Paris abolishing war as an instrument of national policy, to be made effective by provisions for consultation and conference in case of threatened violation of treaties; international agreement for reduction of armaments; and co-operation with nations of the western hemisphere to maintain the spirit of the Monroe doctrine.

No Debt Cancellation
We oppose cancellation of the debts owing to the United States by foreign nations.

1. Independence for the Philippines; ultimate statehood for Porto Rico; the employment of American citizens in the operation of the Panama Canal.

15. Simplification of legal procedure and reorganization of the judicial system to make the attainment of justice speedy, certain and at less cost.

16. Continuous publicity of political contributions and expenditures, strengthening of the corrupt practices act, and severe penalties for misappropriation of campaign funds.

We condemn:

1. The improper and excessive use of money in political activities.

2. Paid lobbyists of special interests to influence members of congress and other public servants by personal contact.

3. Action and utterances of high public officials designed to influence stock exchange prices.

4. The open and covert resistance of administrative officials to every effort made by congressional

Baby - of - The - Month Club

Again this month . . . the 'Baby-of-the-Month' Club, sponsored and created by seven progressive Big Spring Business firms, will extend congratulations to the first-born of July in the form of attractive and practical gifts. S. B. Killough, young son of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Killough, was declared the winner of the title of 'Baby-of-the-Month' for June and given the many practical presents offered by members of the club.

The 'baby-of-the-Month' for July will be determined in this way: The first white boy or girl to be born in Big Spring after midnight of June 30, 1932, will be officially decided as the winner of the gifts. The same plan of selection will be used each of the other months of the life of the club.

In order to qualify, the baby's birth certificate, signed by the attending physician, should be brought or sent without delay to The Herald office. The certificate should show the exact date, hour and minute of birth. As soon as the baby-of-the-month for June has been determined its name will be given to The Herald. Watch for the announcement.

LEAD YEAR BRIDE

CHAPTER XXIX

Walter Dixon leaned back in the desk chair. "I had a long talk with Dr. Knowles yesterday," he said slowly. "He says your mother isn't making the progress she should. Think she needs to get away—has a complete change of scene."

Cherry nodded. "She worries too much," she told him. "About the house and the way the servants do things. I've noticed it."

"Dr. Knowles says she should get away," the man went on, "for several months. Says on air would be good for her. There's a little place on the coast of Massachusetts he recommends. Not a resort exactly. Quiet and comfortable."

"I think it's a splendid idea," Cherry said. "When can she go?"

"That depends. Knowles wants her to leave before we have an intense hot spell. Says it might take all the strength she's gained with you."

"You want me to go?"

Dixon nodded. "To keep her company. The nurse will go, too, of course, but your mother needs someone else. She'd rather have you than anyone."

"But Father, it's out of the question. I can't leave."

"Well, I just can't."

"Of course I'll take care of every expense. Clothes. Anything you may need I'll be a splendid vacation. I thought you'd enjoy it."

The girl moved uneasily. "Yes, of course," she said. "But I can't leave Dan."

"You mean you're going to spend the entire summer in that tin box of an apartment? But that's ridiculous. Why should you? Just because he must stay here in the heat is no reason why you should."

"I want to stay," Cherry said slowly. "You don't seem to understand, Father. I love Dan. He needs me here."

Walter Dixon got to his feet. "That has nothing to do with it," he said impatiently. "I should think that for your mother's sake—"

The girl interrupted. "I've done everything I could for Mother," she said. "and you know I've been glad to. But I can't leave Dan. You can get someone else. There are plenty of people. Why don't you try?"

"How can I get away?"

"It might be good for you. You and Mother haven't had a trip together for years. You're the one who should go with her."

"But her father should go too."

"I'd never be able to leave now," she told her. "I have to think of business."

Mrs. Dixon went over and tried to persuade Cherry to come away with her. It was no use. The girl was firm. She also told her mother she had decided against offering the dresses at Madeline's. "What I have will do for the pieces I'm going to wear them," Cherry said. "And I couldn't take the things without letting Dan know about it."

"Then I must say I think you're being down right stubborn!"

Cherry laughed. "Call it that if you want to, but let's not quarrel about it. By the way, that's a lovely dress you're wearing. Did Madeline make that?"

The trip to the Massachusetts resort was not definitely settled upon for several days. Then, with its lawn-like clipped velvet, the breeze rustling through its stately trees, the garden, broad porches and cool shaded rooms.

Cherry sighed and wiped her forehead again. It was going to be even hotter down town.

The car jolted on. The weather was showing its effects on the dispositions of passengers. Men and women pushed by each other impatiently. When they finally reached Twelfth street and Central avenue there was a general scramble to be out first. Cherry hung back purposely and was among the last to leave.

It was a block's walk to the 5-and-10 store. Cherry had been there only a few times. The dozens of counters with their apparently unlimited assortment of articles still amazed her. She became confused and could not find the household department until a young man directed her.

She sought the saucers and moved on to the china counters.

It was 45 minutes later when Cherry finally emerged from the store. Both of her arms were filled with bundles. She was conscious that she must be very careful of the dishes. Her nose and cheeks were glowing, her hat pushed away. The dress that had been fresh when she left home was rumpled and soiled now.

She was tempted to stop in a drug store for a soda but the bundles dissuaded her.

"If I put them down," she told herself, "I'll never be able to manage them again."

She was on her way to the car stop when a clear, high-pitched voice interrupted her. Cherry turned.

"Why, Gretchen, hello!"

"Cherry Dixon? Oh, excuse me—I keep forgetting you're married, Phillips. Isn't it what on earth have you been doing? My dear, I didn't know you! All those packages—"

Cherry's cheeks had been hot before. Now they were flaming.

"Shopping," she said. "Some things I wanted in a hurry and couldn't wait to have delivered. But what are you doing down town on a day like this?"

Gretchen Alden frowned. She was dressed in silk the color of cream. She wore the Her hat and sandals matched exactly. Not a single strand of her lovely golden hair was out of place.

"Frightful, isn't it?" she asked.

Nice Pink And White Party Is Given Club

Mrs. O. M. Waters was hostess to the members of the 1632 Bridge Club for a clever pink and white party Wednesday afternoon.

These colors prevailed in the flowers, which were pink verbena and baby's breath, in the talkies, and in the dessert course, which was pink and white cake served with pale pink ice cream.

Mrs. McGinnis made club high score and received a Rose Marie bobbin dish. To Mrs. Beale was awarded guest high prize, a linen handkerchief.

Mrs. Beale was the only guest. Members were: Miss M. M. Mancill, Carl Merrick, Joe Clere, Cecil Duran, T. B. McGinnis and Cecil West.

Mrs. Guy Tamatt will be the next hostess.

Judge J. O. Woodward, chairman of the Board of Pardon and Parole underwent a serious operation at his home in Austin Wednesday morning. He is now resting easily. His son, Garland Woodward, of this city, was with him.
