WASHINGTON (AP)—President Hoover, in a sudden dramatic announcement at the White House Wednesday, proposed principles reducing world armaments calculated to save ten to fifteen billions of dollars in the next ten years. He proposed the abolition of tanks, chemical warfare, large mobile guns and suggested a reduction of one-third strength in all land armies above "police component." His proposal would prohibit bombardment from the air, bring a reduction of the treaty number of tonnage battle ships, and reduce the number of submarines one-third. He proposed cutting aircraft carriers one-fourth, cruisers one-fourth and that no nation have more than thirty-five thousand submarines.

Fort Worth Man Draws Top Slot On Howard County Party Ballot; 125 Names To Appear On Ticket

Local candidates can be thankful that they are not making their races in Dallas county. In Dallas county those filing for county clerk, sheriff, or tax collector must pay $500 to the county democratic chairman. However, the three offices mentioned pay $10,000 upward per annum. The least amount a candidate can file in that county for is $35. That figure tabulates with the highest in this county. County clerk, sheriff, and tax collector candidates will only have to pay $35 each here. Local offices, however, are not nearly so remunerative. The least one can file for office here is one dollar, paid by the county surveyor, Grover Cunningham, county democratic chairman.

The Weather

Table with weather forecasts for various regions: Big Spring and Vicinity, West Texas, East Texas, New Mexico, and Unsettled weather prevails over the entire country.

Percentage of decrease in South-west carloadings is less than the forecast of 12 per cent for the entire United States for the second quarter of 1932, as announced by the Southwest Shippers' Advisory Board. Decrease of 7.8 per cent in all car loadings, but 10 per cent increase each in grain, flour and meal and cotton carlots, 20 per cent in cottonseed and products, and 5 per cent in citrus, other fresh fruits, fresh vegetables and salt shipments is forecast by the Board. Folks who cling to the belief that oil and other mineral resources of this section are but temporary flashes that raise booms and then let things drop for keeps might take notice of the United States Geological Survey's findings of late with reference to potash resources of the Permian Basin of West Texas and New Mexico. Twenty-three test wells drilled by the government or under its supervision have indicated a latent supply of potash for fertilizer sufficient to supply the country for many, many years. As proof of the field, the Geological Survey points out that the United States Potash company of New Mexico in the first year of its operations ending in March shipped 45,000 tons of potash to numerous plants in the East, where it was used by different fertilizer mixing companies. Potash deposits in the Big Basin are equal or superior to those of Germany and Alsace, which heretofore have been the principal sources for the world. Many of our people continue to consider the crude petroleum resources of West Texas as having been practically all discovered and that but a few years will elapse before the fields of today are abandoned. This feeling now and then prompts residents of areas in which oil is discovered to adopt the slogan "get it while you can and plenty of it" when dealing with the oil industry. Just as we consider cotton the basic money crop of farmers hereabouts, we should consider oil the second important money crop from which flows a steady income not only for producing companies, pipe lines, refiners but for many land owners, lease owners, royalty owners.

2-1 Judges' Decision Awarding Championship To Sharkey Causes Sharp Disagreement At Ringside

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, New York—Jack Sharkey's victory over Max Schmeling for the world heavyweight title Tuesday night aroused more fuss in the working press section than took place during all 15 rounds inside the ropes. A poll of newspaper opinion showed a big majority convinced Schmeling should have received the decision and kept his title. Twenty-three out of 25 writers in an Associated Press roundup, showed a consensus of eight rounds for Schmeling, six for Sharkey and one even. The disagreement with the official verdict was the sharpest in any title fight in years. By ALAN GOULD Associated Press Sports Editor MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, New York—Although finishing in retreat, with one eye closed, under a barrage of punishing blows, Jack Sharkey, the Boston sailor, was awarded the heavyweight championship of the world Tuesday night on points after a colorless 15-round battle with the defending titleholder, Max Schmeling of Germany. Sharkey reached the goal of his long quest for the championship with the aid of a 2 to 1 decision that found little favor with a majority of ringside experts. The American received the votes of Referee "Gunboat" Smith and Judge George Kelley, while the other judge Charles F. Mathison, cast his ballot in favor of Schmeling. Tension the Aggressor Sharkey waged a counter-fight almost from start to finish, scoring consistently with lefts to the head and body, but he did not land one really damaging punch. Schmeling, on the other hand, was the aggressor all the way, frequently out-boxed, but faster, shifter and much stronger at the finish. Whereas the German had only a pair of cut lips to show for the battle, as he kept on top of Sharkey throughout the last three rounds the American was tired and floundering. He fought the last four rounds with a left eye tightly closed from Schmeling's break right hand.

Where Economy Is Needed

THE federal government has balanced its budget. But before you start to cheer, you might remember that the country contains 48 state governments and several thousand city and county governments, each of which has a budget of its own; and all but a very few of them could do with a whole lot more in the way of economy than they have ever had yet.

Furthermore, it is the money spent by the governments that bears most heavily on the average citizen. If federal taxes go up, the citizen of modest means may have to pay out $25 in taxes annually instead of $10; but his city, state and county governments will take from him—if he is a property owner—anywhere from $100 to $500 a year; and if he wants relief from the "burden of taxation" that he hears so much about he ought to remember just what part of the burden it is that is the heaviest.

In the main, city and state indebtedness has gone skyrocketing in the past decade. In 1920 the states alone owed nearly two and one-half billions. City debts in most cases have shot up even faster. There is, though, one comfort. It has been proved that honest and determined executives can cut down state and city budgets—if they want to. Virginia, for instance, had a deficit of $1,300,000 two years ago. Today it has a surplus of more than $2,500,000. Georgia recently cut down its state departments from 102 to 17—with vast savings. Maine made one agency do the work of 45. North Carolina followed a similar path and saved its taxpayers $12,000,000.

In addition, such cities as Milwaukee and Cincinnati have shown how municipal expenses can be slashed if the men at the top really try.

In many small cities, where it is more difficult to make any great reduction in actual dollars and cents expenditures have been slashed. Our own local government has set a fine example in this respect. Those things are worth remembering. Balancing the federal budget is not enough. The states and cities have got to start economizing too.

'Dizzy' Shows Giants Gate Shuts Giants Out Until Ninth Inning—Cubs Slap Phillies

NEW YORK—Jerome Herman "Dizzy" Dean, nailed another plank in his "more pay" platform Tuesday by shutting out the Giants up to the ninth inning, giving them only six hits and striking out eight as the St. Louis Cardinals defeated New York 5-1.

The Giants broke their string of 23 scoreless innings when Mel Ott doubled and Frank Hogan singled.

PHILADELPHIA—The Chicago Cubs pounded three Phillie pitchers for 14 hits to win 12-3 Tuesday. Moore and Hartnett had homers for the Cubs and Chuck Klein hit his 19th circuit clutch of the season.

BOSTON—The Cincinnati Reds made 16 hits off Ed Brandt and Bruce Cunningham to win 9-3 Tuesday.

BROOKLYN—The power and timeliness of Brooklyn's hitting behind Freddy Heimach gave the Dodgers a 9-12 decision over Pittsburgh Tuesday and sent them into a tie with the Pirates for third place.

Heimach pitched shutout ball after the first inning and sent his team ahead in the second with the longest homer of the season at Ebbets field. He later singled home another run.

CHICAGO SOX Beat Athletics
Uhle Wins With Pinch Hit—Wild Throw Beats Senators

CHICAGO—The same Philadelphia Athletics who batted off 26 hits yesterday got just six off Milton Gaston Tuesday and the Chicago White Sox defeated the American league champions, 3-1, to even up the series.

Gaston not only held the socking A's to a half dozen hits, but his double in the eighth inning drove in Charlie Berry, his battery mate, with what proved to be the winning run.

DETROIT—George Uhle, Detroit's pinch-hitting pitcher, slammed out a triple in the ninth inning Tuesday to spoil the afternoon for young Johnny Michael, Boston southpaw, and give the Tigers a 3-2 victory. It was the second in a row over the Red Sox.

ST. LOUIS—Chad Kimey's wild throw in the ninth gave the New York Yankees three runs and an 11-3 victory over the Browns Tuesday. Lou Gehrig clouted his 15th home run and Goose Goslin hit one with loaded bases in the seventh.

CLEVELAND—The third-place Washington Senators got revenge on Jack Russell Tuesday for six victories he had won over them as a member of the Boston Red Sox.

Cochet Loses In Tennis Go

French Ace Defeated In Four Sets By Britisher

WIMBLEDON, Eng.—The phalanx of American tennis players moved forward on Wimbledon courts with only one casualty but the mighty Henri Cochet, ace of French players, was unable to shake the jinx that has followed him on the famous center court.

Cochet fell in the second round before the flashy playing of the English Davis cup player, Ian G. Collings, 6-2, 6-6, 6-6, 6-3.

Ellsworth Vines and Helen Wills Moody led the advance of the Americans, marked only by the defeat of Mrs. Lawrence Harper, California veteran.

Frank Shields, Johnny Van Ryn and Wilmer Allison one day off the ship, won their first round matches while Sidney B. Wood, the defending champion and Gregory Mangin joined Vines in the third round.

Mrs. Moody, romping thru her match with Franca M. R. Courquerque of Holland with the loss of only two games at 6-1, 6-1, went into the second round together with Helen Jacobs, No. 2 ranking American woman's player, who eliminated Miss Southwell of England by the same score.

Mrs. Harper's fine game at the net was not sufficient to stop Kathleen Stammers, the best of Britain's young tennis generation, the English girl winning 6-6, 6-1, 7-5. Although Vines made almost as many errors as in his first round match, he defeated H. S. Burrows, 6-1, 6-2, 6-3.

Shields, Van Ryn and Allison were wild, due to lack of practice, but managed to pull through. Van Ryn had the hardest task, being carried to four sets by C. H. Kingsley, Great Britain's fifth ranking player before winning 7-2, 7-2, 2-6, 6-6. Allison was forced to give sets by G. E. Tucker, winning 6-3, 4-6, 6-1, 3-6, 6-2. Shields defeated Perre Grandguillet of Egypt, 6-1, 6-2, 6-3.

WASHINGTON—Discovery of a strange men who "chewed cud" was announced by a Smithsonian Institute expedition just back from Texas.

The vanished Americans, who lived in caves of the mountains of southwest Texas previously were unknown to science. They form another link in the chain of human history in North America that scientists gradually are forging.

The "cuds" these people chewed were leaves of variety of cactus, said Frank M. Setzler, leader of the expedition. They chewed the leaves until all the juice was extracted, as modern Americans chew gum. He found a large accumulation of discarded half-chewed "cuds" with human bones and utensils.

The ancient cave-men apparently lived before the days of the white explorers, but their exact date is uncertain. There are some indications they are related to the old "basket maker" people who lived in the southwest, 2,000 years ago, and who are next to the oldest known inhabitants of North America.

The "cud-chewers" used cactus fibers for baskets, sandals, ropes, and deer, bear, rabbit, birds and the meat of the "corn cob" cactus along with their cactus juice. They were civilized enough to make arrows.

For some strange reason, the cud-chewers had the habit of burying one small child, never more than two years old, in the center of each cave in which they lived. Setzler found such a child—buried in each of the seven caves he explored. No adult skeletons were found.

The cud-chewer civilization extended over a region from El Paso east to the Pecos river and from the Rio Grande north to the neighborhood of Alpine, Tex., and possibly further, said Setzler.

LEAP YEAR BRIDE

by GUYTON L. BROOKMAN

BEGIN HERE TODAY
CHERRY BROWN, pretty 19-year-old daughter of wealthy parents, falls in love with DAN PHILLIPS, newspaper reporter. She quarrels with her father about Dan, leaves home and, taking advantage of Leap Year, asks Dan to marry her.

They are married and for the first time Cherry finds out what it means to lack money. Her struggles with housework are discouraging. DIXIE SHANNON, movie critic of the News, is friendly with Cherry. She meets handsome MAX PEARSON, who also works for the News. One morning several weeks after her marriage Cherry receives a letter in the morning mail. Cherry did not need to look at the signature of the letter. She had recognized her mother's handwriting.

Something slipped from her fingers and dropped to the floor as she opened the envelope. A narrow, folded strip of pale blue paper, Cherry picked it up, unfolded it and read: "Pay is the order of Cash—$500."

A check from the First National Bank for $500! Oh, what would Dan say? Five hundred dollars would pay all their bills and leave a balance with which to start a savings account. It would buy the new suit Dan really needed. Five hundred dollars—why it was a fortune!

Cherry turned to the letter. "My dear Cherry," her mother had written. "I have been a long time since I've heard from you and I have been so worried about you. I can not endure the thought that you may be in want, perhaps actually suffering. The enclosed check is to buy anything at all that you may need. Consider it a wedding present if you wish—although I certainly never thought my daughter would be married without either of her parents present and by a justice of the peace." Cherry darling, the last month has been a terrific strain on me. I can only wait and pray that some time this year I could know you are well and not in need. Day and night I think about you. May God keep you—Your Loving Mother.

Thoughtfully Cherry studied the check. Five hundred dollars seemed like a lot of money now. Two months before it would have been only the price of a few dresses. How had her mother managed to send such a sum? Cherry knew her father scrutinized household accounts and paid all the bills. It must have required scheming and Mrs. Dixon was not the sort to scheme.

"Poor Mother!" Cherry said to herself. "I'll write to her and send the letter to Sarah. I don't want her thinking Dan and I are poverty-stricken, going around in rags."

All at once the figures on the check stared back at her accusingly. Five hundred dollars—FIVE HUNDRED DOLLARS!

"You can't take it!" a small voice in the back of her brain was whispering. "You aren't starving or cold or helpless and you can't add a cent to your mother or anyone else's."

Cherry sank to the davenport. There were all the things which that money could do for her and Dan. It could hardly have come at a more opportune time—the rent to be paid, Dan's new suit, the money he had borrowed.

"Take it!" a second voice, equally far away, seemed to argue. "Accept it as a wedding present. You wouldn't even have to tell Dan—"

"Ah! There it was!" She had known all along what was holding her back from accepting the money. She had known Dan would never agree to take money from her parents. Dan was proud and bitter still over things her father had said on the only occasion when the two had met. This $500 was really her father's money though it was her mother who sent it.

"You can't do it," the first voice argued. "It's your loyalty to Dan that's at stake. You can't do the one thing you know he wouldn't want you to."

Well, there was no use sitting there staring at the check. The breakfast dishes were to be washed and the laundry sent. Cherry had a full day's work ahead. She got to her feet, folded the check and slipped it back into the envelope. Then she placed it in the top drawer of the big chest. She would draw it out when she had time.

The dishes were washed, stacked on the shelf that served as a kitchen table. Cherry dried a pair of soiled socks and began to dry the dish rag.

After the dishes were washed and put away she began energetically to clean the living room. She was just thinking of getting that room clean when the one important thing in the world to her at that time came knocking. Cherry worked it was the check of which she was thinking. Those two persistent voices, the one arguing that she should keep it, the other that she should send it back, continued their duel.

She first laid with the living room. She collected the laundry and put it out for the dryer. Just before 1 o'clock when she was about to sit down to a frugal lunch Cherry went to the chest and got out her mother's letter.

She took paper and pen and ink and sat down at the table. Five minutes later she folded the check inside the note she had written and sealed them both in an envelope. She addressed it to Mrs. Sarah O'Fallon and finished it with a kiss.

"There!" the girl sighed aloud. "It's settled."

She was so eager to have the whole thing off her mind that without waiting to eat, she slipped on her hat and coat and walked to the corner post box.

Another week and it would be June. The sky was deep sapphire today, the clouds like downy, thin summered back from window panes and the white pavement. Cherry walked slowly, enjoying the fresh air.

She had dropped the letter into the box and started back up the street when a noisy police ambulance passed. A minute later Cherry caught her breath. The ambulance had halted in front of her home.

The girl walked faster. The ambulance was backed to the door now. Two men entered the house and a woman came out the door.

"Cherry began to run. 'What is it?' she asked the man in the driver's seat. 'What's happened?'"

"Don't know, m'am. Emergency call."

A group of youngsters, attracted by the noise of the ambulance, formed an inquisitive semicircle on the sidewalk. Cherry rushed up the steps. The woman by the door was another tenant whom she had seen but never before spoken to.

"What's happened?" the girl asked.

"It's Miss Jamieson," the other told her. "She has that little room on the top floor. Took some kind of poison."

"Oh, how horrible!"

"It'll be a mercy if she doesn't live," Cherry's informant continued somberly. "She's been out of work. Her husband paid her rent for three weeks. That's why the janitor happened to go upstairs and knock at her door. Believe me, I know what it's like to be out of work with no friends."

The door opened and the two women stepped aside. Two men bearing a stretcher came out. There was a figure on the stretcher, entirely covered except for the pale face with its frame of dark hair. The eyes were closed but the face was contorted as though from pain.

Instinctively Cherry drew back. The crowd of watchers on the sidewalk had increased. Cherry wanted to tell them to go away. That poor girl—surely in her suffering she was entitled to privacy! They were taking her to a hospital. They were to save her life. Would she live? If the doctors succeeded would she be grateful to them?

"It's so terrible," Cherry said brokenly. "Let's go home."

The other woman followed her. Mr. Bergman the janitor, stood in the entryway and, discussing what had happened. Cherry went back to the second floor.

Dinner was ready, waiting to be put on the table when Dan arrived at 6 o'clock. Cherry heard him whistling in the hall and ran to open the door.

"Hello, darling!" she began, but the words died on her lips. Dan Phillips entered, his face alight with excitement. "Hello, Cherry. Wait till you see what I've got for you!" he exclaimed.

Affiliation Status Of Schools With Shortened Terms; Lower Pay For Teachers Will Be Discussed

By RAYMOND BROOKS
AUSTIN—Whether Texas high schools that cut teachers' pay and shorten their terms will be allowed to keep their affiliation will be threshed out and settled at a meeting here Friday and Saturday of the Texas classification committee on high schools.

Members of the committee are: State Supt. Shaver, E. J. Mathews, Charles E. Friley, Walker King, A. W. Evans, C. E. Evans, C. Nichols, R. G. Eger, B. B. Cobb, R. A. Burgess, L. V. Stockard, V. E. Rogers, L. A. Woods, F. M. Black and J. M. Hodges.

Concerts for the dining hall were secured, tents pitched and erected, diving boards erected, and a dam constructed to hold the Nueces river in its present channel. Preparatory work had been completed when the camp officially opened with 120 boys and 16 officers present.

Activities of the boys are so arranged that every minute is utilized, and which, James complains, "means that all officials hardly find time to sleep."
During the first week an indoor baseball schedule was arranged by the camp athletic director. Two teams from Big Spring, two Sweetwater squads, one from Wink, and one from Midland were entered.

Dr. Dillard, in his report to the Rotary Club, declared that Troop One had taken premier honors in camp inspection daily. He believed it not improbable that the troop take permanent possession of the camp trophy awarded for seven consecutive wins.

Henry Webb's Court Finds Rabbit Roping Harmless In Formal Opinion

ODESSA — Jackrabbit roping received court approval as a humane cowboy sport today when Judge Henry E. Webb granted a permanent injunction restraining the Ector county sheriff's office from interfering with it.

"This court recently witnessed a contest that old hens and antiquated rustlers known as members of the humane societies so bitterly opposed as being cruel and inhumane. I would say it was the most harmless sport I ever witnessed," Judge Webb declared at the hearing.

Judge Frees Prohi Agents Self Defense Plea Upheld; Instructed Acquittal Ordered

WASHINGTON, UP — Prohibition Director Woodcock said Monday L. C. Smith and N. D. Heaton, Dallas prohibition agents acquitted Monday of charges of killing a storekeeper, would not be reinstated. The men had been suspended. Woodcock said they had not asked reinstatement. He believed they would be undesirable as members of the enforcement staff, he said.

DALLAS—The murder trial of Prohibition agents L. C. Smith and N. D. Heaton ended abruptly Tuesday when Federal Judge William H. Atwell instructed that they be acquitted of legal responsibility for the slaying of F. M. McGlothlin at his country store near Irving the night of April 18.

In rendering his decision on a defense motion asking for the instructed acquittal, Judge Atwell upheld the self-defense plea of the dry agents, declaring that an officer has as much right as a private citizen to protect his own life. On motion of District Attorney William McCraw, Judge Atwell also dismissed all other charges pending against the agents and Buddie Hoard, a dry informer, in connection with the case.

As to the question of whether McGlothlin and his wife believed Smith and Heaton to be federal officers, the court held that if a citizen is skeptical, the officers' word must be accepted.

"The disbelief of a citizen can not rob an officer of his official character," Judge Atwell said. "This is purely a case of self-defense. These men were driven to protect themselves by the show of firearms by three people who were in the McGlothlin store."

Atwell's instructed verdict was given over the protest of District Attorney McCraw, who contended that the jury should have been permitted to decide the case.

McGlothlin was killed and his wife was wounded in the hand at their store in a disturbance which resulted when the dry agents attempted to arrest a suspected bootlegger there.

Judge Atwell declared that the testimony of Mrs. McGlothlin, principal witness for the state, "almost acquits both defendants on the ground of self-defense."
He said the testimony disclosed that Mrs. McGlothlin interfered with the agents in their efforts to make a legal arrest, and that this interference provoked the difficulty.

In their testimony the agents claimed that they did not fire until their lives had been endangered. Heaton said he shot a pistol out of Mrs. McGlothlin's hand after she aimed it at his head.
Smith said McGlothlin fired at him once with a shotgun and was aiming to shoot again when he killed the storekeeper. He claimed it was necessary to shoot McGlothlin to save his own life.

GIRL SCOUT NOTICE

Troop No. 3 of the Girl Scouts will meet Thursday morning at the City Federation Club house on the Court House grounds for an important meeting.

A Mr. Frank Etter, teacher of mathematics in Big Spring High School and at present principal of the summer term, now comes forward with a challenge to any and all roque players to enter a tournament he and such noteworthy colleagues as J. B. Collins and others, are staging June 30, July 1, and July 2 on their roque court at 3008 Johnson Street.

Mr. Etter especially requested that this writer accept his challenge, but since we haven't a nose-guard or shoulder pads we must decline. Roque, in spite of all such cracks, is a great game. It is a combination of billiards and croquet. It requires a cool head, steady nerves, and strong muscles. It is a sport rapidly growing in popularity, and no doubt Mr. Etter's challenge will not go unheeded.

The only fans we know of at present are Mr. and Mrs. Berry Williams, Bill Wooster, and Mrs. Lamar Smith.

The Mexican Tigers took the Coahuila entry into camp 9 to 2 yesterday afternoon. Eight errors by the Reids and Walkers contributed to the defeat.

Beryl Cramer is perhaps the busiest baseball performer in this neck of woods. The hard-hitting outfielder and pitcher is ready at any time to play a game, and divides his services impartially between Coahuila and Forsan. Sunday against the city all-stars he contributed three hits in as many trips to the plate.

Juan Garcia, according to indirect reports, is topping the Tigers in hitting with an average of over 400.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Good will return Tuesday night from Camp Mystic, near Kerrville, where they have gone to place their daughter, Modesta, in a summer camp.

Production Of Crude Goes Up

18,337 Barrels More Than For Preceding Week Reported

TULSA, Okla. (UP)—Crude petroleum production in the United States increased last week in virtually every field except California, the Oil & Gas Journal reported.

The increase, a daily average of 18,337 barrels to a total daily average flow of 2,192,421 barrels, however, was expected to be wiped out by curtailment this week attendant to the abnormal refined market condition.

As gasoline prices advanced from 1 to 1.1 cents a gallon Tuesday to cover the new federal gasoline tax, refiners found the market somewhat demoralized. Jobbers had stocked up heavily on gasoline to avoid payment of the tax. As a result refiners planned 10-day shutdowns to stabilize the market.

Texas production increased 8,910 barrels to 866,549 with East Texas up 615 barrels to 331,044.
