Woman's Club Prepares Endorsement of Mrs. Walker for Federation Job

A successful bake sale under sponsorship of the Eldorado Woman's Club, was held Saturday in Eldorado to help finance cost of sending a delegate to the general convention of the Federation of Woman's Clubs at Denver.

The club is joining with other clubs in Texas to promote the candidacy of Mrs. J. W. Walker of Plainview for second vice president of the General Federation.

The following is a copy of a letter of endorsement which the Eldorado Club has mailed to campaign headquarters, to show that Mrs. Walker's home town is backing her candidacy:

"The Woman's Club of Eldorado, Texas, takes great pride and pleasure in endorsing Mrs. J. W. Walker of Plainview as a candidate for 2nd Vice President of G. F. W. C. Mrs. Walker, or Lucille Hill, as we know her, was reared in our little city, and her mother is a charter member of this organization.

"Mrs. Walker's qualifications might well be termed outstanding for she has brought credit and distinction to her home town, her college, her church and state through years of service, giving freely and fully of her versatile talents in a variety of activities at local, district and national levels.

"Through years of unselfish service she has demonstrated exceptional ability. She is able, intelligent, efficient, a fluent speaker, an inspired and challenging leader, a woman of culture and high educational attainments. As an outstanding citizen, representing the highest standards of clubwomen, she has served extensively in cultural programs for church, civic, political and governmental affairs in every branch of the Federation. She has taken part in two major G. F. W. C. conventions, has edited The Club Woman for four years, served on the state board in five positions, worked in A. A. U. W., with Texas colleges and universities, was a member of Delta Kappa Gamma, and attended sessions of the U. N. These are a few of her outstanding achievements. With all these varied interests she still finds time for church work and is choir director, as well as a homemaker.

"We feel confident that she will be a credit to the ideals and high moral standards of the G. F. W. C.'s executive family.

"Very sincerely—The Woman's Club of Eldorado, Texas."

Quentin Dunn To Serve Church At Seagraves; Gives Up Work Here

Quentin Dunn, minister of the Rock Church of Christ, has given up his work here to accept an invitation to become minister of the Church of Christ at Seagraves, and he and his family will leave Eldorado May 25.

The town of Seagraves is located about 70 miles southwest of Lubbock.

Minister Dunn arrived here nearly two years ago to serve the Eldorado church, moving here from Brenham. His children Lanet and Sylvia Ann, ages ten and eight, will complete the school term, and the family will then move their household goods to their new home.

Supply ministers will probably fill the pulpit for a time through the early summer, it is understood.

Next Week Proclaimed Soil Conservation Week

The week of May 10 through May 16 has been proclaimed by Governor Allan Shivers as Soil Conservation District Week and Sunday, May 16 has been designated by the Farm and Ranch Magazine as Soil Stewardship Sunday. Over the years as interest in conservation has increased May has become the month when soil and water conservation is recognized as fast becoming a part of our everyday life. It is at this time that outstanding conservation farmers and ranchers are recognized.

Eldorado Divide Soil Conservation District cooperators have started putting many soil conservation practices into effect following the recent rains.

Mrs. Ruth Finnegan, Weldon Davis, D. C. O. Wilson, Pat Martin, Josh Ewing, and H. Mittel are giving part of their rangeland a complete deferment. This practice will really give their drought stricken range grasses a chance to grow a good seed crop and reach a full production of forage. A complete deferment of a pasture is the most beneficial practice that can be used and will return its cost in future profits, many times over.

Curtis Stockton, Henry Moore, Ben Hext, Truett Stanford, Perry Mittel, Will Isaacs, and Gerald Hartgraves have finished planting blue panic grass. The 70 acres planted by Mr. Stockton has already come up and he reports a good stand. This grass is a great forage producer. It greens up rapidly in the spring and being a perennial grass comes up from its root stocks each year. This is just the grass that a farmer-stockman needs for his diverted cotton acreage. It gives him supplemental grassland for his stock and should he decide to rotate his fields it will prove to be an excellent soil conditioning crop.

Several of the grasses planted by Truett Stanford with the range pitting plow have started to come up. This practice is used to break up crusty surface soils and hold the rainfall in the pits until it soaks in.

Technicians assisting the district accompanied the 4-H Club land judging team on field tour. The different types of soils in the district were examined and the use and proper treatment of each were discussed. This group showed a great deal of interest in this work.

District cooperators who have pitted rangeland, or plan to do some pitting include Howard Derrick, Truett Stanford, Weldon W. Davis, John Bledsoe, Milton Morales, and Ben Hext.

In conclusion he states "I will appreciate the support and influence of the people in my precinct."

With no further apparent interest in local politics since the rush in January, the last few days before the Monday deadline suddenly saw a number of new aspirants entering the races in the Democratic Primary here. The names of three new candidates for County Commissioner and one for County Democratic chairman were revealed when closing time came Monday night.

In precinct 3, incumbent Carrol White will have for an opponent, Robert H. Martin. In precinct 2, there is now a three-cornered race, with Walter C. Statements from the new candidates appear in other places on this page.

Three officers will enter the campaign without opposition. J. Patton Enochs will be unopposed as county and district clerk, Mrs. Mabel Parker will have no opposition as county treasurer, and there is no opponent for T. P. Robinson Jr., county attorney. Also the precinct job of Justice of Peace, will go to Payne Robinson as usual, without opposition. All other incumbents have opponents.

Democratic County Chairman Edwin Jackson has engaged the services of Ralph Fowler as clerk during the campaign. On Tuesday morning Fowler submitted the following list of 1954 candidates:

State Candidate Here Last Week

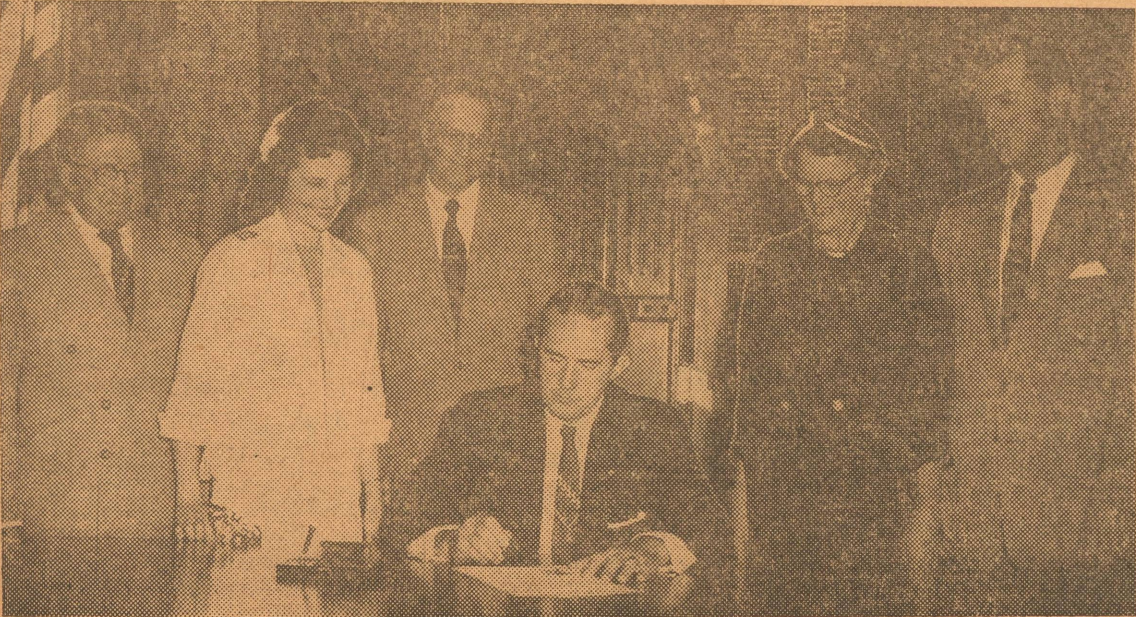

C. T. Johnson, 43 year old Democratic candidate for Lt. Governor visited our city during the past week. Johnson is receiving statewide attention staging a one-man war against Southwestern Bell telephone rates. In order to reduce the rates, he proposes a state telephone commission to regulate the rates. He reports that 45 states out of 48 operate such a commission satisfactorily.

He also advocates $190 monthly pension to eligible citizens at 65, pointing out that Texas ranks 44th nationally with its present low $34 monthly pension. Johnson also reports that he favors a state wide water conservation program as a dire necessity, and $1,000 bonus to all veterans.

This is his first political race.

Here Are The "Keys" To Range Recovery

College Station. — Supplemental pastures and continued feeding are major "keys" to the recovery of low producing, drought ravaged grasslands.

Livestock raisers in areas of recent rains can put their moisture to work two ways, says A. H. Walker, extension range specialist. Under favorable moisture conditions, supplemental pastures of rapid growing grasses like Sudan will furnish abundant grazing. And, while livestock are on the supplemental grazing, permanent ranges are idle, allowing them to recover at the fastest possible date.

Range plants must have top growth before they can put down roots, Walker says. When it rains plants may grow quickly, but unless livestock are held off and grasses given a chance to re-establish their root systems, they may be worse off than before.

Just which pasture should be rested first? The one in best condition, Walker replies, since these make more progress toward recovery in less time. Poorest grass lands, which will take two to five years to recover, should be rested later.

Many producers may be tempted to jump back and "grab a quick buck," but the specialist advises these raisers to "breed back rather than buy back into the livestock business."

County agents have a handy bulletin on the subject, C-320, Range Management Versus Drought, which contains helpful information on range care during and after drought.

Shearing is under way on the Sam McGinnis place.

Recipe of the Week

Blackberry or Dewberry Jelly

Select a mixture of slightly underripe and ripe berries. Prepare a small quantity at a time (6 quarts is a good amount). Wash quickly and carefully in a colander. Drain. Remove the caps.

To extract the juice use the proportion of one pound of the prepared berries to ¼ cup water to firm fruit; add no water to soft fruit. Put the fruit and water (if used) in a broad flat-bottom pan. Bring to a boil. Boil 5 to 10 minutes. Stir to prevent scorching.

Pour hot cooked fruit into a jelly bag made of cotton flannel or 2 or 3 thicknesses of cheese cloth. Let the juice drip in a bowl. When the dripping has almost ceased, press the jelly bag to obtain all the juice. Restraining the juice through a fresh, wet bag. Do not press bag. Test the juice for pectin by adding 2 tablespoons cool fruit juice to 1 tablespoon sugar then adding 1 tablespoon epsom salts and stirring until dissolved. Let it stand for 5 minutes. If a solid mass of jelly is formed the juice is rich in pectin and is good for jelly.

To prepare the jelly use 4 cups blackberry or dewberry juice and 3 to 4 cups of sugar. Heat the fruit juice and sugar quickly to boiling using a large flat-bottom pan that permits rapid evaporation. Stir only until the sugar is dissolved. Boil rapidly until jelly stage is reached. To test for jelly stage dip a large spoon in the boiling syrup and lift the spoon so that the syrup runs off the side. When the syrup no longer runs off the spoon in a steady stream but separates into two distinct lines of drops which "sheet" together, stop the cooking. Pour into hot sterilized jelly glasses, seal with paraffin, label and store.

Pecan Nut Casebearer Begins Laying Of Eggs

College Station. — Pecan nut casebearers have begun to lay their eggs in the Gulf Coast area, entomologists report. This means the insects soon will be busy in other pecan producing areas.

Visible with the unaided eye, the eggs are bluish-white, are deposited on the tips of small pecans and hatch in five to seven days. The young larva feeds on the buds adjacent to the nuts and then in four or five days returns to the nut cluster, entering the tiny pecan through a small hole at the base of the nut.

Correct timing and proper applications are "musts" if adequate kills are to be obtained. To be effective, insecticides must cover the tiny nuts and terminal buds at the time or soon after the eggs hatch.

A spray of three pounds of 50 percent DDT in 100 gallons of water is the Texas Agricultural Extension Service's control recommendation. Another treatment calls for two pounds of 15 percent wettable parathion in 100 gallons of water. These applications also control pecan leaf casebearers.

County agricultural agents can supply additional information on the control of the insect.
