two hours and 20 minutes, assessed the previously convicted duo long prison terms.

Wednesday afternoon, the same jury had spent approximately 21 minutes in determining the duo, along with a female, were guilty of the April 28 armed robbery of Lindsey Jewelry in Muleshoe.

Jordan, who had been convicted of robbery by firearm and capital murder in Lubbock County in 1974, was assessed a sentence of 90 years. His partner, R.C. Willard was given a sentence of 50 years.

Willard had a previous conviction of robbery by firearm. He also had burglary convictions. Jordan had other convictions as well.

Sam Medina, a Lubbock attorney representing Willard, asked the jury not to consider Willard as they did Jordan, who had the capital murder conviction. Despite his contention, as well as the contention of Norman Bays, Jordan's court appointed attorney, that no one was injured in the robbery, the jury voted out heavy punishment.

Willard's mother also took the stand in the punishment phase of the trial and pleaded for her son. However, Prosecuting attorney, Jack Young, reminded jurors that although both men had prior convictions, and were allowed to 'lump' their sentences on the prior convictions together, they did not come out of prison and try to take their places in society.

The jury considering the punishment phase went into the chambers to consider then broke for dinner before finally determining the sentences which were returned at 8:55 p.m. Wednesday evening.

Through their attorneys, both men had asked for the same. The 10 day waiting period was approved.

District Attorney Young had admonished the jury, "There is ample evidence crime has become a way of life for both defendants, we have violent crime by violent nature."

According to the charge read to the jury, they could

County Loss Estimate Above 60,000 Acres

On Sunday afternoon, June 1, the sky turned red just before a major wind and sandstorm slammed into the area, leaving major destruction behind. Agriculturists have spent the last two weeks assessing the damage left behind by the storms' fury.

Friday morning, Bailey County Extension Agent Spencer Tanksley, who has been closely checking the aftermath of the June 1 storm commented, "After looking the situation over, and giving plants time to respond, we are sure at this time that we have lost 75 - 80 percent of the dryland cotton during the windstorm on June 1."

"In terms of total loss, I am talking about the areas of Needmore, Circleback, Bula, Enochs and Maple areas. We do still have some dryland cotton in good shape west of FM 1731 to the county line, and some of it is real pretty cotton."

Tanksley said he and Dr. James Supek had visited extensively through the damaged area and found some 60 - 70,000 acres of dryland cotton lost. He added that also destroyed was the northern part of Cochran County and western Lamb County. They estimate the loss of acres of cotton in the three counties at around 150,000 acres.

"Farmers in the disaster area do not have many choices at this time for replanting," said the county agent. "We did receive some very needed moisture Tuesday night which will help the replanting decisions. I got reports that from Stegall to Baileyboro it was one to one and one half inch of rain; Needmore .5 to .7; Circleback, .2 to .3; Bula, one to one and one half inches; Enochs, up to an inch; Maple, half an inch and north of Maple up to an inch."

He continued, "This moisture will allow some farmers to replant with cotton or grain sorghum. Some farmers are expected to take a gamble with cotton, especially those who do not have combines to harvest grain sorghum. Last year, a lot of cotton was planted as late as June 20 and made up to half bale an acre. The fall we have will determine the type of yields their cotton can make."

According to the county agent, "Many farmers had one of the prettiest cotton crops I have ever seen get a start before the storm hit. Now the land is flat, blown in and in a very sandy condition. A slight wind like we had Thursday will cause the land to blow. The farmers who do still have cotton left are busy sand-fighting."

Tanksley added that moving to the northern part of Bailey County, he could see excellent crops in excellent condition. The wind and hot temperature in June have depleted and sapped a great deal of moisture out of the soil and plants, he added. Irrigated cotton got an excellent start, he reminded, with some of the most uniform and even stands which could be seen in the last two years, attributed mainly to very little seedling disease.

"Cotton has responded to the hot, dry and windy conditions," said Tanksley. "I am not saying the wind is beneficial to cotton, however, as some cotton in the irrigated zone did lose spots or ends to the wind."

He continued, "If good, hot weather, with rainfall of one to two inches on two to three week intervals is received, and the good warm temperature continues through the fall, we could still have some average yield reports in the dryland areas. Irrigated land could seed average to better yields, also. If the weather is not cooperative, late planted cotton will be very disappointing."

Agent Tanksley also commented, "We still have some dryland which had not received enough moisture for farmers to plant. Immediately after the wind, some dryland farmers were planting, and right now, we have cotton in every stage, planting, emerging, up two to three days, skippy stands to a good stand on irrigated land."

Right now, according to Tanksley, farmers have some strips and pieces of

Cooperatives Expand Grain Trading

If cooperatives want to expand their share in international grain trading to the point of becoming a significant force in the export market, then they've got to make some changes.

The problem of the low cooperative share of the export trade is one of international dimensions requiring an international solution.

That's the conclusion of a team of research economists with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station following a 20-country study of methods by which producer cooperatives located in market economies might more effectively coordinate their grain trading activities.

Authoring the study were Drs. Ron Knutson, Mike Cook and Tom Sporleder.

The economists explored three alternative means of cooperative coordination in the study to increase their share of international grain marketing:

1. Trade agreements between cooperatives located in different countries.
2. A common international marketing agency which performs trading functions on behalf of cooperatives but does not take title to the grain.
3. A multinational cooperative that takes title to the grain and engages, in all grain trading functions.

Cooperatives in all but one of the countries studied expressed interest in further international cooperative coordination activities, according to the researchers. Each alternative analyzed was found to be organizationally viable in particular situations, but the third one appears to offer the greatest potential.

However, they cautioned that it may be necessary for cooperatives to grow sequentially from trade agreements to a common marketing agency performing specific grain trading functions before an effective multinational cooperative venture can be launched safely. Several cooperatives have, however, already had experience in one or more of these forms of international cooperation.

In the study the economists found that in the eight largest grain importing and exporting countries in 1977-78, cooperatives were involved in only 9 percent of the world grain trade exports and 10 percent of the imports. On the other hand, proprietary grain trading companies were estimated to be involved in 74 percent of the exported grain and 47 percent of that imported. Seventeen percent of the exports and 43 percent of the imports were by governments acting as state traders.

The economists expressed doubt as to whether an individual cooperative or even a group of cooperatives within a country can be expected to substantially penetrate international grain markets. Reasons for this conclusion include high costs, the need to trade grain from more than one country, and the large size and experience of the major proprietary trading companies.

BEE INSURANCE isn't for everybody, of course, but it can provide important protection for beekeepers in the event of unexpected and unpreventable losses of bees due to pesticide poisoning.

However, the federal government's plan to end a longstanding beekeeper indemnity program—the only type of protection available to beekeepers—has the industry up in arms. It could also have an economic impact on consumers, according to Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown.

In testimony submitted recently, Brown said "this program provides the only 'disaster payment' that beekeepers have, and its benefit to both beekeepers and consumers far outweighs its small annual cost. The withdrawal of the beekeeper indemnity program would adversely affect at least 500 Texas commercial beekeepers."

Brown noted that most people think of bees only as producers of honey. "But perhaps more important, honey bees provide vital pollination of 90 major agricultural crops."

LIVING WITH INFLATION
You can really stretch dollars, if you use shopping Sense. This starts with a major step: gather enough information BEFORE you shop, so you can make a wise choice. Before you shop, do three things:

1. Decide what items you need and want.
2. Keep up-to-date. Know what's available and where you can buy the product.
3. Make a shopping list--you're less likely to buy items you don't need.

Once you start shopping, look in several stores. Compare prices, quality and services offered by the different stores. By shopping around and comparing prices and features of a product, you'll also avoid some of the high-pressure sales methods.

Learn to ask questions. Find out all you need to know before you buy. Be sure to find out what the warranty covers, where you can call for service, and what the store's exchange and refund policy is. As a buyer, be aware of advertising appeal. Ads are intended to draw your attention to a product or service and make you want to buy it. Be careful about "bargains", too. A "bargain" is only a real bargain when it meets four criteria: --when you really need or can use the item. --when the price is lower than at other stores. --when the price is lower than usual for the item in that store.

TOPS Has Weekly Meeting

The TOPS Club was called to order on Thursday, June 12 by leader Carlene Stroud. Roll call was by Linda Vinson, with 23 members weighing in.

Minutes were read and approved. Hazel Nowell received a KIW charm. She also received a hair set for six weeks weight loss and material for three weeks weight loss. Janie Patton also received material for three weeks weight loss.

Vicki Garner was best loser for the week. First runner-up was Randy Redwine and second runner-up was Rose Sain.

Ann Vinson gave a pep talk. The topic was "Walking to Lose Weight". It was voted to have a booth at the Civic Center on July 4th.

One new member, Lee Murphy, was welcomed to the club. The meeting was dismissed with the singing of the goodnight song.

Fun's in store for Nancy Hutchins after losing 38 pounds.

Privacy is the rule

Nancy Hutchins knows babies can bring a little something unexpected into your life: extra pounds. Weight that's tough to get rid of when you're busy caring for children—cooking for them, nibbling at the food they don't finish. By the time she'd had two babies, her weight had really become a problem. She was up to 151 pounds, more than her 5'6" frame could handle.

"My husband was too kind to say anything outright," Nancy says, "but he started dropping quiet hints like, 'You don't really need to eat that, do you?'"

Although she realized she had to do something soon, she wasn't sure what. When she heard about Pat Walker's from a friend, she was skeptical.

Could it possibly work for her?

The easy way to exercise

Nancy discovered that Pat Walker's is not a put-on-your-leotard-and-let's-exercise place. Pat Walker's exclusive passive exercise unit, called Symmetricon, requires only that you lie back and let it do the work. As it tones, tightens, and smoothes your body, you have the sensation of a gentle, pleasant workout.

Nancy especially liked the privacy of Pat Walker's. Because you don't work up a sweat, street clothes are perfectly comfortable and suitable. So you don't have to wear a leotard, or reveal your figure flaws to a roomful of other women. From your consultations about sensible eating habits with Pat Walker's professional counselors to your sessions on the passive exercise unit, every aspect of your reducing program is conducted in complete privacy. You're a special and valued patron at Pat Walker's, not a school girl in a gym class.

Results tell the story

Before long, Nancy was a believer. "When I began to notice how big the waistlines in my clothes were getting, I really got excited! I started out a size 14, and now I'm a 7. And let me tell you, I just love buying new clothes. My husband doesn't even complain when I buy another new dress—he likes me so much!"

Now thirty-eight pounds and 52 1/2 inches (total) smaller than she was, Nancy Hutchins is delighted with her new look. You'll like yours, too.

Candlelight Vows Unite Janet Hopper, Elliott

Miss Janet Hopper, Muleshoe and David Scott Elliott of Lazbuddie exchanged vows in a candlelight ceremony May 31, at 7 p.m., in the First United Methodist Church in Muleshoe. Rev. David Hamblin read the double ring vows.

Parents of the couple are Mrs. Betty Hopper and the late Sam E. Hopper, Muleshoe and Hubert Elliott, and the late Maxine Elliott of Lazbuddie.

The bride escorted to the altar by her grandfather, F.W. Hagaman of Amarillo chose a formal length gown of candlelight silk organza over bridal taffeta designed with a Queen Ann neckline and long tapered sleeves. Her entire bodice was overlaid in Alencon lace and re-embroidered in seed pearls. Lace scallops with seed pearls enhanced the wrists of her sleeves. The A-line skirt had appliques of lace and pearls and fell to a scalloped lace hemline and swept into back fullness cascading into a full cathedral train. She wore a matching Alencon lace Camelot coif which held a cathedral veil, extending over her train to complete her ensemble.

She carried the classic cascading bouquet, "Purity" of phalenopsis (butterfly) orchids, stephanotis, valera kalanchoe, and ming fern. Four generations of lace and linen handkerchiefs, (maternal great grandmother, great grandmother, grandmother and Janet) enhanced the bouquet.

In keeping the tradition something new was her dress, something old was the handkerchiefs in the bouquet, something borrowed was a pearl necklace from her mother. She wore pennies minted in the years of their birth in her garter.

At the altar, a grouping of brass candelsticks with cathedral candles set amidst an arrangement of tree ferns with an open Bible, marked for a reading from Ruth, during the ceremony. Spiral candelabra adorned the altar, being flanked with oversized fans of straw in arrangement of valera gladiolas, tree fern and butterflies. Fans with arrangements of valera of silk blossoms, miniature soft beige roses, and miniature gysophyllia and valera bows marked the pews. The center aisle was covered with a white aisle cloth and roped off for the bride and bridal party. Guests were seated from the side aisle. Mrs. R.C. Hazelwood of Midland served as matron of honor. Bride's matrons were Mrs. David Saylor, Farwell and Mrs. Keith Poor of Springdale, Ark. They wore floor length dresses of Auiana nylon in a coral shade. The accoridian pleated skirt was topped by a blouson bodice with shirred cap sleeves and scooped neckline. They carried natural straw fans with silk beige roses, valera apple blossoms and butterflies.

Nikki D'Ann Freeman, niece of the bride of Canyon was flower girl. She wore a floor length dress of silk organza over satin in a coral shade. The scooped neckline of the bodice and candlelight lace. She carried a basket with coral and candlelight ribbon love knots.

Bill Spiller, Waco and Kent Walkup of Amarillo were candlelighters and ushers. Jarrett Edward Freeman, nephew of the bride of Canyon, was ring bearer. He carried the wedding rings on a pillow of candlelight satin.

Best man was Ronald Powell of Lubbock. Groomsmen were Wade Cargile, Lazbuddie and Bart Elliott, nephew of the groom, also of Lazbuddie. The groom and his attendants wore tuxedos of chocolate brown, with dark velvet lapels and ivory pleated shirts. The groom's boutoniere was stephanotis and valera kalanchoe, all of the others wore valera kalanchoe.

Mrs. Gordon Green sang "Walk Hand in Hand" and "The Lord's Prayer". Organist, Mrs. Steve Holcomb, Lubbock, played during the seating of the guests and the traditional processional and recessional wedding songs.

Mrs. Hopper, mother of the bride chose a floor length dress of Quiana nylon in peacock blue, A-line skirt, blouson top, scooped neckline and a butterfly orchid corsage. Mrs. Elliott's dress was a light turquoise, A-line skirt pleated blouse, round neckline and long chiffon sleeves. Her corsage was a butterfly orchid.

A reception followed in the fellowship hall of the church. Sandra Keller, San Antonio, served punch, cake was served by Mrs. Al Lacaze, Ft. Worth and Mrs. Carroll Freeman of Canyon, sisters of the bride.

A three tiered wedding cake trimmed with coral colored kalanchoe and topped with a wedding bell that was used on the cake of the bride's parents, at their wedding and a silver punch service and silver based hurricane lamps with candlelight candles on each side of the bride's bouquet, accented the table. A white lace table cloth with shirred skirt covered the table.

The groom's table was covered with a dark brown table cloth, and featured a brass coffee service, brown candle on wooden base with hurricane globe. A brass tray with gouda and emerald cheese surrounded by individual servings of fresh strawberries, pineapple, and green grapes were served. Crackers in natural baskets, fresh roasted pecans and beige napkins embossed with the letter E accented the table.

After a wedding trip to Puerto Vallarta, Mexico they will be home at Rt. 3, Lazbuddie.

For travelling she chose a beige dress with brown top stitching, brown brimmed straw hat and brown accessories. Her corsage was a butterfly orchid. Out of town wedding guests were from Amarillo, Dallas, Houston, Eastland, Ft. Worth, San Angelo, Earth, Littlefield, Canyon, Midland, Shamrock, Madisonville, Avery, Farwell, Hereford and Oklahoma.

The late model pickup driven by Awtrey overturned, coming to rest on its top after the accident. Debris from the vehicles was strewn across the ditch and several hundred feet along the cornfield.

Investigating officer was DPS Trooper Andy Hernandez of Littlefield.

some from the windstorm Tanksley said the corn is showing excellent response to the first irrigation, which was done approximately 10 days earlier than normal. He said corn has reached the 10-12 leaf stage at this time.

The first cutting of alfalfa has been completed and irrigation has resumed on those fields.

Potatoes have been in excellent condition this spring, said Tanksley, and harvest is estimated in approximately two to three weeks.

Other hand harvested vegetables have been slow to response due to the heat and dry, windy conditions he added. Some stands are weak in the vegetable fields he continued.

Wheat crops are turning golden yellow, reminded the county agent, with harvest expected to begin within about 10 days.

"I would like to caution producers and home owners to be observant for heavy insect infestations this summer," cautioned the county extension agent. "We already have reports from the Clovis area of mites causing economic damage to corn. We should all be aware by now of the grasshopper infestation. Some spraying has already been done in an effort to combat the insect problems." He attributed the heavy infestation to the dry, mild winter, reminding that moisture received has been far below normal for this time of year.

Robbers...

have been assessed life, 15-99 years, and a fine. The minimum sentence felons with a prior conviction could receive was 15 years.

Testimony which began in the early afternoon on Tuesday concluded at noon Wednesday. During the presentation for prosecution witnesses, the three women in the jewelry store at the time of the robbery, Vi Lindsey, owner, Ethel Murray and Joanne Sikes were the first to testify. As the evidence continued to mount against the defendants, the third defendant Janice (Bates) Holmes, was taken to the courtroom several times for identification purposes. More than 55 pieces of evidence were also introduced during the trial.

Defendant Holmes was not tried with the two men. Her attorney had asked for a continuance. Ms. Holmes at presstime, is a surgical patient in West Plains Medical Center, and under 24-hour a day guard. She underwent surgery in the local hospital Friday morning at 8 a.m. and was expected to be hospitalized for approximately six days. Last week, Bailey County Commissioners Court passed an order approving half of the hospital bill and all of the surgical bill for the surgery for the female defendant in the robbery charges.

Wednesday night, both Jordan and Willard were transferred back to Lubbock to wait for the formal sentencing due around June 23. All three were ordered held without bond shortly after their apprehension following the robbery on April 28.

Members of the jury included Boyd Black, Bobby Clark, Frances Minckler, Lula Shanks, Darrell L. Stevens, Elmer R. Davis, Billie Downing, Robert Kindall, Jr., James O. Elder, Verna Owen Farris, Billie P. Farr and Billy Tom St. Clair.

Earlier in the week, before the armed robbery trial got underway, Judge Boone heard several pleas of guilty and assessed probated terms in several cases.

These included Larry Don Vaughn, four counts of theft, eight years probation Richard McDonald, theft, five years probation; Kenneth McDonald, theft, five years probation; Ray Charles Thomas, burglary, five years probation; Johnny Ray Vaughn, theft, three years probation and Consuela Toscano, theft, one year probation.

Safety Steps For Home - Canned Foods

Take a safety step before eating home-canned foods--boil them at least 10 minutes before tasting, a foods and nutrition specialist warns.

Dr. Rose Tindall Postel, on the home economics staff of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, says this step is a "must", even if you home-canned your foods very carefully.

This major safety step is necessary to avoid the unpleasantness and possible danger of food poisoning, among them the often-deadly botulism.

"About two million people in the U.S. suffer the ill effects caused by food-borne bacteria each year," she explains.

"Fortunately, relatively few are exposed to botulism, a deadly foodborne disease, but it can happen," she cautions.

Most botulism poisoning in this country is associated with improperly processed home-canned, low-acid foods -- such as meats and low-acid vegetables, including green beans, corn, spinach or asparagus.

Several warning signs can alert you to possible food spoilage ahead of time, so always do a little "detective work" before you even try the 10 minute boiling step:

--look for cracks in jars, or loose or bulging lids,
--if you notice abnormal odors or spurting liquid when you open the jars, know these are signs of food spoilage.

--always examine and smell canned foods for spoilage, even if you don't notice any of the other signs, and

--remember, even if no signs exist, the threat of food poisoning is still there, including deadly botulism, so be sure to boil all home-canned foods for 10 minutes even before tasting them.

If you do notice any signs of spoilage or off odor, before boiling or dicing it, dispose of the food out of reach of humans, pets or livestock ---- that's the safest way.

It's also wise to know the symptoms of botulism, in case of poisoning.

Symptoms can occur within a few hours -- or as long as six to eight days after a person eats food containing botulism toxin.

Early signs of botulism poisoning may be nausea, blurred vision, vomiting, abdominal cramps and diarrhea.

Other symptoms include fatigue, weakness and dizziness.

These are very general symptoms, so they're not always attributed to food poisoning.

However, eventually the toxin paralyzes muscles, starting with the eyes and face. Then it moves down to the throat, chest, arms and legs.

Once the paralysis moves to the chest and reaches the diaphragm, suffocation occurs.

Of course, the best place to start in preventing botulism poisoning is in proper home-canning methods.

You must use a steam pressure canner to process low-acid vegetables and meats, and the canner must reach at least 10 pounds pressure (240 degrees F.) and hold that pressure for an appropriate time -- depending on the type of food, size of jar and other added ingredients.

No other way is safe, since no other method reaches temperatures that high.

Precious SIGHT

No price is too high to pay to protect the eyesight of ourselves and our children. Good eyesight is an absolute necessity in the earning of our livelihood, in the school work of our children, and in the enjoyment of all of life.

But there is another type of sight which in these times is often neglected - spiritual sight. We and our children need to be established and grounded in the love of God and His commandments, and to rely on Him. We need to meet His requirement of loving our neighbors as ourselves, thus making a better home life, community life and a better world. Psalm 34:8 reads, "O taste and see that the Lord is good; blessed is the man that trusteth in Him." Attend the church of your choice.

Citizens of Bailey County
County Seat,
Muleshoe, Texas

Fellow Citizens:

At election time, most of us go to the polls either misinformed, uninformed or we just plain "don't give a d---". As a result of this attitude, we end up with mediocre officials looking after our interest.
This is one reason this nation is in a heap of trouble today.

In the recent run-off election for sheriff in Bailey County, I noted that the information was available to the citizens and still the majority settled for mediocrity when they had a better choice.

I am regarded by most as an optimistic soul but if this attitude prevails in the upcoming general election,
I foresee bleak days ahead.

Farmers may be leaving 850 million dollars out in the field.
That's the amazing figure some scientists have come up with during a special study on energy alternatives. First, some basics. All oil products come from cellulose materials.
Plants, especially plant stalks, are largely cellulose. There are a lot of stalks left in the field. Testing the fuel efficiency of this farm residue was the industrial giant, General Motors. Their engineers used a mixture of 10 percent cornstalks for boiler fuel and said the results indicated successful applications of as high as 60 percent cornstalks could be used to fire the boilers.
Economic determinations made on the basis of the current value of coal indicate that those stalks particularly high in cellulose content could be worth as much as 20 dollars a ton. Ag officials say the amount of stalks available each year would total as high as 450-million tons.
