The Store That Quality Built

Put away the cigars and carry back our burlap bags and pouches around an empty cigarette package that we have stored and deaden as a decoy—Lucky Connally and Chile Ayres are back in the village looking prosperous, sleek and well-fed. Connally, the Richardson Refinery twirler and outfielder, and Ayres, who made his debut in City League baseball as a member of Spouting Spike Henninger's Golden Refinery crew, and James "Red" Stanton, the tenor, have been places and viewed things. Connally and Stanton have been playing amateur baseball at Roswell, N. M., and admit they created quite a sensation in that beautiful little oasis. Ayres has been down to Fort Worth and probably will return to see the Panthers cap off the podiums to another Texas League championship. Ayres informs that Cosden Refinery will have a basketball team this year. Well he! Henninger is behind that. He wants to get us cooped up in a gymnasium and lock the doors.

The Steers went play the excess after all. Instead they will meet McCamey High School, so it is said, here Saturday afternoon Bill Stevens, and George Brown, the mentors, think perhaps it will be better to take on the lads from up the highway a hundred miles to the west, than take a chance with the big uns that used to play football and now crave to play football. With the first district game only two weeks away, it is a wise move in a wise direction. McCamey this week, Rely next week and Mineral Wells the following Friday.

Imagine an argument between Get - Up - And - Give-Me-A-Place To-Sit-Down Barber, the wrong hander of the Texas and Pacific shops, and Sammy Sain, his cohort and companion at various pig stands over the village. Just as we were preparing to take our afternoon nap, Wednesday, the left handed one called to find out if we had ascertained whether he or Sain had the highest batting average. Instead of tinkering with the internal organs of a disabled 600 steam horse these two eggs were probably sitting on the throttle and arguing about which one was the worst hitter. Evidently Barber works near a telephone. He couldn't walk very far to find out if he had beat out Os, Eckhardt.

Aha, Coach Mayes of the American Eagles has requested fans to stick to their knitting, be it boys or sweaters. He craves to find up wanted to raise some new chaps his biggest in captivity without the men can get a good start today by aid of the cushion couches in using us in getting a pair of foot other words he has locked the gates all shoes out of the postoffice and tossed the key over Al Bad. Some minor rule or other won't ger's Wooten hostelry. Stevens and Brown issued invitations several days ago to fans to remain at their labors and let the Steers get going themselves. Where they practice is followed. In other words, they take now becoming a mystery. We toured the greater part of Howard County Wednesday afternoon in an effort to locate the camp grounds, but to no avail. After using up all have arrived. We also need a pair the gasoline furnished by this office we gave it up as a bad job, and yellow please.

Spud Series Expected To Be Listless

President Refuses To Call Off Final Four Battles

BY GAYLE TALBOT JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

It rained last night in Shreveport and washed the Fort Worth Panthers right into the second half championship of the Tex-Sagamore.

Unde to play them final fray with the Spuds, the Sagamores automatically clinched the right to meet Wichita Falls first half outfit in a playoff for the high crown. They were four and one-half games ahead of the Spuds with only four left to play. A lot to sample arachnids reveal that the Indians could drop four losses at Shreveport and finish a half game to the good.

A surge thought that the final series between the first and second half champs be canceled was voted by President Alvin Glazier. Under the circumstances the two clubs were expected to take it more or less easy the next four afternoons, using reserve batters and saying when seem for the all-important five-game play-off. Not the club has anything to gain by winning except possible the initial effort.

The Spuds are a bit suspicious, however, and name without a sting. Knowing they still had to go through the state, they have been pushing hard. So, in a final meeting of the sagamores of the Tex-Sagamore and the Indians of the Big Four, the Indians were the ones to come off best. Playing the Indians, the Indians two of whom are from Waco, Whittington and Jim Morris, tripled and split by Hamlin and Cooper featured the big frame.

In the six other games of the double San Joaquin in which the Waco Cubs have a 3-0 split the losing series.

Jim Morris, triple and split by Hamlin and Cooper featured the big frame. Stevens and Brown, the 1930 Steer Captain, the pep squad leader and maybe one or two other ones prominent in high school life, will be guests next Wednesday of the Business Men's Luncheon Club. Shine Phillips, who is the professional pell roller of Cunningham and Phillips, and president of the club, has assured the boys he won't speak if they will attend the luncheon. There is only one thing we can do better than Stevens and that is register a pretty high tally on a date of fried chicken. There are two kinds of fried chicken. One is merely fried chicken, the other is the kind of chickens the Methodist women fry for the luncheon club.

Lameza Eleven Has Tough Going Ahead

LAMEZA, Sept. 4—Prospects for a 1930 championship Golden Tornado football eleven were dimmed Monday when the first call for recruits for the team was made by F. T. McCollum, coach.

The line-up of over fifty men showed a considerable amount of green timber, any doubt about his ability to make the weight when he climbs into last year's squad.

Excellent coaching on the part of McCollum into the ring tomorrow night to and his helper, L. E. Gregg, may bid for the welterweight champion ship that night was of far greater importance. It was a turning point in a hot race. That heartbeating loss cracked the Buffs just when they were grasping for the top and started them tumbling down to fourth place. He started the Cats on a rampage that carried them out in front of the field.

As for Thompson, who will defend his title for the first time since he battled it away from Jackie Fields at Detroit, "there's nothing to worry about; it's just a fight, and I've been in a lot of 'em."

This year's schedule has not been completed as yet, McCollum reports, but the games he has matched will prove hard boulders to crack for the inexperienced players.

The team is weak in tackling, guards and the backfield.

Oil Refiners Are Warned To Cut Runs

Course Is Plain Says Lamp; 'Just Watch Records' Its Advice

A warning to the refining branch of the oil industry to curtail operations during the last three months of this year to the level of gasoline demand is sounded in the current issue of the Lamp, official publication of the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey.

"If the individual refiner," it states, "will maintain his stocks at an even level from the end of September on, it is more than likely that the close of the year will come pretty close to seeing a reduction in excess gasoline storage by something like the 500,000 barrels recommended as a minimum by the government's committee on petroleum economics last spring, thus enabling the industry to start 1931 in a considerably healthier statistical condition than it has been in quite a spell."

Decline In September

Each year, consumption of motor fuel begins its normal decline in September, running to the end of the year and into January and February. Naturally, a corresponding reduction in gasoline output is expected. Instead, the refiner has gone on, running his plant at the same rate as during the summer peak period, resulting each year in an increase in stocks during the last two months, December, in fact, comes pretty close to peak figure each year for both refinery output and finished stocks.

During the last 10 years, additions to storage increased gasoline stocks approximately 32,000,000 barrels, but if the additions during that period for the months of November and December are added up they reach a total of 40,000,000 barrels.

Fall of 1926 Good

In November and December, 1926, gasoline stocks increased but 2,000,000 barrels, while the supply and demand figures were fairly close together. The result was that, until the fall of 1928 appeared as a fairly good year. The same was true for the first part of 1928, after additions to storage during the last two months of 1927 were held to approximately 3,000,000 barrels. In 1929, with additions to gasoline storage during November and December of the previous year approximating 6,631,000 barrels, the industry started off the year with supply and demand as far apart as the poles. And instead of improving the situation any, the refiners piled up a further surplus of more than 8,000,000 barrels, adding it to already overloaded storage tanks during November and December.

Refining Capacity of Nation

The refining capacity of the United States, considering the increased yield of gasoline from cracking during the past few years, is more than ample capacity. It is conceivable, however, that the country has not made full use of its fuel, with an acre upon acre, whatsoever.

"Reduced consumption" during the summer months of this year has been rather dramatic, but it is not for the week ended August 18 that show 31,252,000 barrels of gasoline in the industry's hands, far more than it needs.

Course Is Plain

"Right now the course of the refining would seem to be reasonably plain. All he has to do is to watch the records tell gasoline production and the sale of motor fuel fuel on his own books and keep them in balance. There was never any reason why stocks should have been allowed to pile up to the extent they have in nearly every fall season at a time when the consumption has dropped off year after year—and even less today when the excess running of gasoline in 1928 and 1929 has overburdened the industry with a big excess of stored products."

"Nothing can be accomplished, of course, so long as the refining branch of the industry continues to race along right through the fall at the same clip it held during the peak season."

HERE AND THERE

NEW YORK, Sept. 4 (AP)—John J. McGraw, generally given credit for transforming New York from a joke city in the minor leagues to one of the best ball cities in the country, will be at the helm of the Giants for at least five more years.

Metcalf put his name on a contract yesterday and thus quieted all rumors that the man in charge of the Giants since 1903 and stockholder and vice-president of the club, would not be back next year. McGraw's present contract expires at the close of this season, but Charles A. Stoneham, president of the club, and Metcalf reached an agreement six months ago. The signing yesterday was merely a formality.

FORT HANCOCK, N. J.—"Jersey Lightnin'" is the name of an army white mule which has barely escaped death. A firing squad was ready to aim when the condemned came along and asked how come. The firing squad showed an order that "Jersey Lightnin'" be shot. It developed there had been an error; the colonel had ordered the animal shot.

Photostat Copies Of Valuable Documents Boon To Researchers

AUSTIN, Tex., Sept. 3 (UPI)—Invention of the Photostat has proven a boon to the University of Texas and has resulted in the saving of thousands of dollars in valuable manuscripts as well as enabling the free use of documents of great historical value.

Before the invention of the photostat, use of documents for research work was restricted only to professors and students who had spent many years in historical studies.

The manuscripts and documents were much too valuable to permit the ordinary history student to pursue them and their rate of deterioration was very rapid.

Now, however, photostatic copies of the documents are made and these are almost imperishable when subjected to the ordinary wear and tear given around a research library. They may be used without fear by every student with little damage and even if they are destroyed, it is little trouble to replace them from the negative.

The photostat also has enabled the University of Texas to obtain copies of valuable scripts and documents which cannot be purchased from their owners. Many Texan residents have valuable memoirs, diaries and letters which are of great use to the students of Texas history with which they are loaned to part. In cases of this kind, the library simply makes photostatic copies and bides its time until the original is available for the archives.

Recently the university acquired copies of six letters written by Josiah Pancoast concerning Texas in its early days. These letters tell of Pancoast's experiences as a young school teacher, of his enlistment and service in the war with Mexico and of his settlement in Dallas county after the war. The letters are unusual in that they give a large amount of information hitherto unavailable and cover a period in Texas for which historical data was entirely unknown.

Lexie and Hodge Hall left Monday for Conshohocken, where they will attend high school this year.

is relatively scarce, 1845-49. The letters were the property of Mrs. L. J. Thompson of Odessa and were obtained for copying through the efforts of J. Everett Haley, research collector and social science director at the university.

Photostatic copies of the letters of Sam Henderson, written during the Civil War, also have been obtained by the university library. They contain two field orders written by Joseph E. Johnson, as well as letters of Henderson to his relatives and friends. They are the property of Mrs. Elroy Martin of Houston.

The vast variety of sausages of German origin were inspired by an endeavor to match in these delicacies, the texture of beer favored by the particular community—sausage, or wursts, of strong ingredients to match the tart bitter beers of some sections, veal sausage and braunschweiger of liver to suit the lighter drinks of other districts. It has been stated that the true German cook is able to offer a different flavored soup for every day in the year. Schmierkase, or cottage cheese, was also offered as an ideal background to the highly flavored pumpernickel and rye bread, in which the German bakers are supreme.*America's Heritage*America, however, has as a heritage the combined flavoring and seasoning possibilities of the nations of the world. Originally, the English element, which gave the nation its language, predominated and in the seasoning more than any other item, has the American cook lagged behind the other nations.*The native early American dishes perhaps were responsible for this failing to a marked degree, since they did not lend themselves readily to seasoning; neither were the spices, which had originally inspired the discovery of America, so available to the American housewife. The native American dishes such as buckwheat cakes, cornpone, on the cob, clam chowder, possum and beans, and pumpkin pie did not lend themselves readily to the extracts and condiments, which formed the magic of the European cuisines.*It remained for the home economists in their lecture tours across the country, backed by the facilities of the great testing laboratories, to devise recipes and injunctions as to flavoring and seasoning the native, closely guarded, dishes and beware them with careful instructions as to their use, upon the American housewife.*Leona Rusk Ihrig, who will conduct one of the most famous cooking schools in Big Spring for five days, Sept. 26 through Oct. 1, will discuss Mexican flavorings in all lectures.*More and more are Mexican flavoring practices being adopted by the American housewife, declared Leona Rusk Ihrig. "The intriguing seasoning of well prepared chili, tamale, and enchiladas cannot be denied and I shall detail at quite some length with the proper handling of Mexican flavorings in my lecture courses.Mexican Flavorings"More and more are Mexican flavoring practices being adopted by the American housewife, declared Leona Rusk Ihrig. EVERYDAY QUESTIONSAnswered By
Dr. S. Parkes Cadman

Questions from readers are answered daily by the Rev. Dr. S. Parkes Cadman, Radio Minister of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America. Dr. Cadman seeks to answer inquiries that appear to be representative of the trends of thought in the many letters which he receives.

SAN MARINO, TEXAS: "which also," contain the letters e. n. o. k. and Dr. Harris suggests that the translation should be "Enoch went and preached" etc. If this reading is adopted the statement presents unusual merit that our Lord preached His difficulties of interpretation. The Gospel in Hades (the shade, not Hell) sustained by Dr. Maffatt and Dr. Chasfield notes that in the Greek the emanation of the distinguished first words of St. Peter's First Epistle named may seem Epistle, Chapter 3, Verse 10-11 to be too conjectural, in which:

case the reasonable inference of the passage which puzzles so many is that no soul will be finally condemned, either in this world or the next, until that soul has had every possible opportunity to accept or reject the mercy of God. Even the dwelling place of departed souls, some of whom had been disobedient in ages past, was subject to the jurisdiction of Eternal Love.

Rome, N. Y.

A friend got the best of me in a business transaction we had together. Soon there came a time when I saw a chance to secure an advantage at the expense of my friend. I practiced the deception and told a lie. This is a horrible thing to contemplate now. All the joy of living has departed. I have confessed my fault to God many times and have had some comfort from so doing. But the question that worries me is: should I confess all to the person I have wronged? She suspects nothing, and I have done my best to make it up to her in various small ways. The transaction in connection with which my action occurred was a minor one, yet its effects have been major as far as I am concerned.

"An unconfessed misdeed is a splinter which festers in a sensitive soul. Your particular act has assumed dismaying proportions. So get rid of it. Tell the person in question that you added to the wrong she had done you and herself by emulating her bad example. Begin at the beginning and clean up the whole difficulty in one candid statement.

You do not reveal the nature of your offense, but you own that it involved a lie. This stamps it as serious, even though its other associations may appear comparatively trifling. Small birds destroy the big vineyards. Deceit is never trifling. It stains conscience and corrupts manhood. So swallow your humiliation, cut loose from this rankling offense, make reparation for it and leave it to the other party who shares your guilt to do as she decides. She will be wise if she follows your creditable course.

I congratulate you on your moral sense. It is in good working order. I believe that after you have told your story to this friend, emphasizing the suffering it has caused you, she will be human enough to forgive you, since she, too, was caught in the net which enmeshed you.

Youngstown, Ohio.
What are the facts about the famine in China and how prevalent is it?

Five million human beings have already starved to death in China, and in one province alone at least two million more are doomed to the same fate unless food reaches them within the next few months. Our daily press has hinted rather than described this terrible tragedy. Relief workers and missionaries who are aware of its intensity and prevalence have struggled heroically against appalling odds to save these helpless victims of drought and flood.

I shall not repeat their harrowing stories of roads lined with corpses, huge pits overflowing with hastily buried bodies, and countless children crying to famished parents for bread. Grover Clark, associate director of the China International Famine Relief Commission, states that two millions have perished of hunger in the province of Shensi alone. Five successive crop failures account for this tremendous toll. In southeastern Shensi the food supplies of two millions more will be exhausted by the end of this month (April, 1930). Mr. Clark further states that the famine extends to the provinces of Kansu, Suiyuan and Charhar. The whole stricken area covers 540,000 square miles of territory, with an estimated population of thirty million souls.

Operating revenues dropped 13.26 per cent while expenses were lowered only 8.24 per cent, causing a rise in the operating ratio from 76.51 per cent last year to 80.93 per cent this year for the six-month period. The operating revenue expenses were $72,784,833, while the expenditure for freightage accounted for the major portion of the revenue, totaling $82,657,652, a decrease of 12.37 per cent from last year. Decline in the passenger service revenue was even more noticeable, being 16.41 per cent under the first six months of 1929.

Revenue from this item totaled $10,932,267. Mail receipts fell 23.14 per cent to $2,210,583; express revenues dropped 11.13 per cent to $2,733,770 and revenue from other sources declined 16.38 per cent to $3,757,050.

According to the report, the railroads spent $19,907,733 on maintenance of ways and structures; $35,420,035 on transportation; $19,201,227 on maintenance of equipment; $3,308,146 on traffic expenses and $4,942,325 on general expenses.

Railroads Of Texas Suffer Less Earnings

AUSTIN, Sept. 3. (UPI)—Texas railroads suffered a big reduction in their earnings during the first six months of this year, according to a report to the state railroad commission. The operating income of all Texas railroads fell off 51.1-2 per cent, from $14,625,154 the first half of last year to $7,098,433 for the corresponding period this year, the report of the commission showed.

Operating revenues dropped 13.26 per cent while expenses were lowered only 8.24 per cent, causing a rise in the operating ratio from 76.51 per cent last year to 80.93 per cent this year for the six-month period.

BETTER BRAN FLAKES

PEP for flavor—extra bran for health

JUST ONE TASTE! And you'll agree that Kellogg's Pep Bran Flakes are better bran flakes.

You'd never believe that bran flakes could be sun-brown and crisp—so full of flavor. Here's the matchless flavor of PEP.

A tempting treat that's as healthful as a good. The crunchy whole wheat brings quick energy—the extra bran helps to keep you feeling fit. There's just enough added to be mildly laxative.

Have them for lunch today. For breakfast tomorrow. They're great for every one—at a sky mark.

Look for Kellogg's Pep Bran Flakes in the familiar green package at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg Co., Battle Creek.

IMPORTANT—Kellogg's Pep Bran Flakes are mildly bran—no bran—another Kellogg product—is all bran and sugar.

Stanton Opens School Work

STANTON, Sept. 2.—The schools of this place opened today morning with a greater enrollment than ever before. The addition of the six young students, together with a number of new scholars, has thus more than accounted for the largest school day in the history of the town.

Patrons and pupils of the Stanton schools taxed the capacity of the school auditorium Monday morning at the formal opening of the school for the year 1930-31. Superintendent C. L. Sims, J. R. Sims, president of the Board of Education of Hall, who has been connected with the school formally and informally for the past 34 years, and Mrs. A. Houston, president of the local Parent-Teacher Association, presided over the brief talks.

The following members of the faculty were introduced: Mr. Max Fincher, principal high school; Mr. W. C. Glazener, science; Mr. H. H. Hyde, coach and English; Miss M. Lovelace, home economics; Miss Lorraine Luman, history; Miss Louise Davenport, teacher; Miss Barnard, public speaking and expression; Miss Nodder, English and Spanish; Mr. T. M. Rutting, principal grammar school; Mr. Virgil Stephenson, mathematics; Miss J. A. Ferrell, geography; Miss J. E. Priddy, reading; Mrs. J. S. Lamer, primary; Mrs. Edward Lowe, primary; Miss Modena Starling, art; Miss Miss Herron, English; Miss Morgan Hall, utility.

WHAT EDITORS SAY ABOUT TEXAS & PACIFIC NORTHERN

THE T. & P. CARRIES ON

Fort Worth Star-Telegram: The recently announced project of the Texas & Pacific Railway in West Texas, embracing a 232 mile branch line extending from Big Spring northward to Amarillo, with a fork to Vega in Oldham county, west of Amarillo, serves further to call the nation's attention to the fact that West Texas is right now such an arena for railroad activity as has not existed in this country since the early days of feverish railroad expansion.

It is the most convincing of all evidence not only of the present great general development in the region but of the soundness of the corporation as a basis for interests in the region. The history of the Texas & Pacific narrative, built in the new day sites that whatever new areas are opened up will be interested by that road will be well worth the time spent on service. There is intense satisfaction in the growth throughout West Texas with the West Texas & the Texas & Pacific, both of the Texas & Pacific to date and much more so in the future. It has always been the policy of the T. & P. to cooperate fully in the progress of the area with whose development they are associated. In that slogan it has been optimistically continued since plan & day.

West Texas' great growth. There is also great satisfaction in the starting project, so far as with the evidence of the active interest of the Meeks, Van Sweringen and company in the organization and directors of the railroad group of which he is a member. These represent a combination of railroads of railroad organization and management to be compared to no other in the country. The T. & P. plans will be approved, at least in their major features. There is fortunately no question of the financial strength of the corporation as one of the best managed railroads in the country. Nor is there question of the ability of the road to make further contributions to the development of the West, particularly as to the West Texan's ability to have the Van Sweringen which is undertaking the new programmatic contributions by the Texan to the south, a territory which goes, and we have no doubt, the jet. Under the able direction of the T. & P. to the development of the Interstate Commerce Commission, Van Sweringen will be glad to Mr. J. L. Lancaster, the Texas & West Texas.

get more deeply into West Texas.

The chief benefits which the Texas and Pacific plans have to offer the region between Amarillo and Big Spring consists of expediting the movement of the products of this section toward their natural markets to the south and east. Without changing the direction of flow, the Texas & Pacific new line would move freight on a main line to Fort Worth and Dallas, and on to tidewater at New Orleans. Of all the railroads serving the Plains region and competing among themselves for the traffic of that region, only one, the Fort Worth and Denver, now affords, for a narrower section, anything like as direct a haul as the new Texas & Pacific line would afford for a considerably larger region. The Santa Fe, with which the new Texas & Pacific line would come chiefly into competition, through its system of gathering lines centering around Lubbock, Plainview and Amarillo, reverses the traffic direction for a considerable part of its course. The more direct haul of the Texas & Pacific would mean lower shipper's service to the region.

There is, of course, yet to be made the hurdle of approval by the Interstate Commerce Commission before the Texas & Pacific's project can become a reality. However, that Soo's policy, established for this particular region in a conclusive number of recent decisions, is such as to give rise to the belief that the T. & P. plans will be approved, at least in their major features.

In organizations and directors of the railroad group of which he is a member. These represent a combination of railroads of railroad organization and management to be compared to no other in the country. The T. & P. plans will be approved, at least in their major features.

Pacific has earned prestige as one of the best managed railroads in the country. The situation is excellent for further development of the port of Fort Worth and Denver as is glad to have the Van Sweringen which is undertaking the new programmatic contributions by the Texan to the south, a territory which goes, and we have no doubt, the jet. Under the able direction of the T. & P. to the development of the Interstate Commerce Commission, Van Sweringen will be glad to Mr. J. L. Lancaster, the Texas & West Texas.
