By MRS. VIDA KREKLOW

Now—about that Thanksgiving turkey. It's getting about time to start deciding on a few things, such as how big, when it should be ordered and whether it will be fresh or frozen.

If you do have a Thanksgiving turkey give it your best efforts. And your best efforts may shape up about like this:

Roast Whole Turkey

Start with a ready to cook turkey. If in doubt, ask your grocery man about the particular bird you buy. Salt inside of turkey well. Fill the body and neck cavities loosely with stuffing. Stuffing swells as it cooks, so give it room. Fold neck skin toward back and fasten with skewer or a few stitches. (A skewer is a long metal pin which looks a lot like a thin, elongated nail. I once knew a woman who shopped all the meat markets over town looking for skewers. She figured they were some kind of meat and that she would just cook up a few. This is no joke. I actually knew her and was the one who told her what they were and that she could get them in the housewares division of any store.) Back to the turkey. Tuck legs under band of skin at tail or tie down. To do this wrap a cord around legs and under tail.

This will hold legs close to the body. Fold the wing tips back on the wings. This will help to hold the neck in place. Grease skin of turkey with melted or softened fat. Place turkey, with breast down, on rack in shallow pan. Do not add water. Do not cover. Place in a preheated oven set at proper temperature. Baste with fat from bottom of pan during baking and turn from side to side, then breast up during last baking time. Some like to dip a thin piece of cloth, as cheesecloth, in melted fat and spread it over the top and sides of the turkey. As the cloth dries out in cooking, moisten with fat and juices from the bottom of the pan.

Spiced Hot Tea

2 cups sugar
4 cups water
1 teaspoon each nutmeg, allspice and cinnamon tied loosely in a thin cloth bag.

Boil the above ingredients together for 10 minutes. Remove from heat.

Add: 1/2 cup tea leaves, also tied in thin cloth bag. Let steep or stand for 5 minutes.

Add: 1 cup fresh orange juice, 2/3 cup fresh lemon juice, 3 quarts (12 cups) hot water.

Serve hot. If need be, it may be allowed to cool and then reheated just before serving. Just don't boil it again. Boiling and tea mixture makes it bitter.

Bread Stuffing

1 cup fat
1 cup onion
4 cups chopped celery
9 cups cornbread crumbs
7 cups breadcrumbs
1 tablespoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
2 teaspoons poultry seasoning
1 1/2 to 2 cups broth, milk, or water.

4 eggs raw or hard cooked.
Use two to four day old light bread for bread cubes, or dry out in oven. Cut into cubes. Cook onion and celery in fat over low heat until onion is soft but not brown, stirring occasionally. Meanwhile, blend seasoning with bread cubes, add the onion, celery and fat. Pour liquid and beaten egg (if used raw) gradually over the surface, stirring lightly. Add more seasoning (or leave out any) as may be desired. Will stuff a 14- to 18-pound turkey.

The length of time and temperature involved in the cooking of the turkey is of great importance. The heavier the turkey the longer it will take to cook and the slower the oven must be.

A 5 to 7 pound turkey should be cooked between 2 1/2 and 3 hours at 325 F.

An 8 to 11 pound bird between 3 1/2 to 4 1/2 hours at 300 F.

A 12 to 15 pound bird between 5 and 6 hours at 275 F.

When the drum stick is soft when mashed between thumb and forefinger, the turkey is done. Do not take chances on too short a cooking time. And don't get burned testing for doneness. Use a piece of foil between the drum stick and your fingers.

Mrs. J. Tom Williams was hostess for her home demonstration club, Reynolds, and the Good Neighbor club last Tuesday afternoon and everybody seemed to have a wonderful time. The Good Neighbor group takes in the Bailey Ranch and on down Highway 33 area.

Mrs. Williams made delicious pumpkin chiffon pies and Mrs. Bascom Hartgraves and Mrs. Lawrence Moore made and served the coffee and tea.

The tea was so good I asked Mrs. Hartgraves about it and she told me it was spiced tea and was thoughtful enough to send me the recipe later. This is it:

Spiced Hot Tea
2 cups sugar
4 cups water
1 teaspoon each nutmeg, allspice and cinnamon tied loosely in a thin cloth bag.

Boil the above ingredients together for 10 minutes. Remove from heat.

Add: 1/2 cup tea leaves, also tied in thin cloth bag. Let steep or stand for 5 minutes.

Add: 1 cup fresh orange juice, 2/3 cup fresh lemon juice, 3 quarts (12 cups) hot water.

Serve hot. If need be, it may be allowed to cool and then reheated just before serving. Just don't boil it again. Boiling and tea mixture makes it bitter.

JOINT BIRTHDAY PARTY

Mrs. Pat Martin and Mrs. Savola Bolt assisted with the entertainment.

Mr. and Mrs. Gus Love and family visited his brother on the Mayer ranch between Sonora and Ozona Sunday.

The Board of Supervisors of the Eldorado-Divide Soil Conservation district in their recent monthly meeting approved two soil, water, and plant conservation plans for a total of 1,617 acres.

They also met with Mr. Bud Kerr and discussed his taking over the district equipment and seeing after it for the district.

Mr. Kerr's duties will be to see that the equipment is kept in working order for land owners and operators to use, and collect the rental fee set by the supervisors for use of the equipment. This fee is only to help take care of the maintenance and upkeep of the equipment.

The board also discussed purchasing one of the new types of stalk shredders for land owners of the district to use.

This is your district. What are your wishes? How about letting your desires and wishes be known to your board of supervisors.

Farm-City Week

The week of November 22-28 has been designated as "Farm-City Week." This week could be used to good advantage in getting both rural and urban peoples to become better acquainted with each other and their respective problems.

These two groups are very much dependent on each other. Just what would one group do without the other?

Do the people on the farm or ranch realize and appreciate the problems of labor and management of industry in the cities? How about the city folks: do they understand the work and problems of the farmer or rancher? It seems that as the cities grow larger and the rural population becomes smaller these two groups of people tend to grow farther apart in their understandings and fail to realize just how interdependent they really are.

Even with all our faults and differences let's stop and think about our interdependencies and become better acquainted with each other in order that both groups may prosper and be a happy people.

As this year comes to a close we find farmers taking advantage of pretty weather to finish gathering their crops. What will the total yields be and what will be the profit? The answer to this question depends on several things. First, what did you do last year to help make this year's crop? Did you leave it all up to the weather to make your crop for you? For maximum production we need to work directly with soil, plants, and weather conditions.

It isn't too early right now to begin thinking about some things we might do in order to make a better crop next year. Some land owners and operators have already planted cover crops for soil improvement, soil protection, and increased production. Others are planning on leaving a large amount of grain sorghum stubble on the land for soil protection and increased organic matter.

Cotton burs are being used in some sections to good advantage for soil improvement and adding of organic matter. To be most effective it has been found that the residues or litter should be left on the surface, and planting and tillage methods used that will leave a high percentage of litter on the surface to serve as an effective mulch. To provide an effective surface mulch a minimum of 4 tons of cotton burs or sorghum stubble per acre should be left on the land.

The above are some practices which should be used along with contour farming and terraces on the land. It takes all these practices combined to get maximum production from the rainfall you receive.

Now, what about that grass crop? Did you know that however close you graze your range this year will have a direct bearing on the amount of forage it produces next year? This will be true whether you receive a small amount of moisture or a great deal. To hold runoff to a minimum and cut down on evaporation we need a good cover on our rangeland at all times.

Trial planting and research tells us that our treatment of plants affects their ability to do their job. Eventually, our treatment of the soil also affects the ability of plants to produce.

We need to study the needs of the land. Our damage measuring standards are erosion losses and soil structure deterioration, the effects of which are most often seen in declining crop yields. We have neglected in many cases the vegetative treatment that is needed with mechanical practices to do a lasting job of soil, water and plant conservation. All mechanical practices will fail in the end without a sound vegetative treatment.

A well planned soil, water and plant conservation plan worked out on your farm or ranch would go a long way in helping you produce maximum yields on your place each year. Soil conservation service personnel will be glad to assist you in working out such a plan for your place.

Moisture penetration checks made on the Joe M. Christian place last week were as follows:

- Bare almost level land 10 in. penetration.
- Spare cover almost level land 15 in. penetration.
- Bare sloping land 6 in. penetration.

BUSINESS WOMEN'S CIRCLE

Spencer, gave the lesson for the evening on "Continuity in Commotion" which is a study of the religions and customs practiced in Africa.

Mrs. Thompson served pie and coffee to those present at the close of the study hour.

CONGREGATIONAL METHODIST PASTOR COMING HERE

Three of their older children will remain in Georgia, two of whom are sons who are full time ministers.

The local church members extend an invitation to people of all faiths and churches to join them in their fellowship. They are preparing a parsonage for the newcomers and are in need of more furniture. Anyone having unwanted furniture to donate to this cause are asked to contact Mrs. Earl Parker, 25661 or Mrs. Wiley Hight at 29961.

Visitors in the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. N. McDonald Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Henderson of Sonora.

Mrs. Ben Morriss of Atlanta is the house guest of Mr. and Mrs. Dan McWhorter this week while Mr. Morriss is hunting in Culbertson county. She will also visit Mrs. W. L. McWhorter and others during her stay here.

Arnold Gene Clark is a new employee of the State Highway Department. He started work Monday morning.

Tomasine Jones and Ann Ballew visited in the homes of their parents last week end. They were accompanied by two college friends of Lubbock and the group was joined by another friend from San Antonio during Saturday and Sunday.

COUNTY AGENT'S COLUMN

by Tiny Godwin

Schleicher County Agricultural Agent

Cotton producers of the county and nation will vote December 10 to determine whether or not marketing quotas will be in effect on their 1958 crop.

Marketing quotas operate through acreage allotments. A grower who exceeds cotton acreage allotments on his farm will be subject to a marketing quota penalty of 50% of parity on the farm's excess production.

Detailed information may be secured on the referendum by visiting the ASC office.

The nation's economy seems to suffer with an alarming case of confusion, suspicion and distrust.

This condition is not new say the economic advisors. We have had it before. The disease is functional, not organic, but could become organic if it persists long enough.

Do you suppose the trouble is largely mental? We have the Russian satellites, Asian flu, Middle East tension, desegregation troubles and other trouble that borders on hysteria.

Once more psychology appears to be the joker in the economy's deck of cards. Maybe what we are witnessing is nothing more than human nature in mass action, as the tendency is to swing to extremes.

According to a release from the USDA, trolene, a systemic insecticide for cattle grub control, has been approved by the pure food and drug administration for use ON BEEF CATTLE ONLY.

No information has been received by the county agent's office as to when Trolene will be available for demonstration. It is hoped it will be available for use immediately after heel fly season in the summer months, since the animals have to be treated before grubs appear in their backs.

Trolene is administered orally to cattle in the form of a pill or bolus or as a drench. It is absorbed into the body fluids of an animal and kills grubs before they reach the back.

Cattle grubs cost the ranchers of the U. S. 60 million annually. Loss in Schleicher county has been cut drastically the last 10 years, but still costs many thousands even with a control program in operation by most ranchers.

The results of demonstrations conducted by Texas county agricultural agents with dieldrin and heptachlor for controlling the Texas harvester ant (red ant) have found through experience that both are excellent in killing the colonies. However, for a complete kill heptachlor proved the better of the two by only 2%.

Methyl bromide for controlling the leaf cutting ants proved much more effective.

Time is fast approaching for winter spraying of shade trees, pecans, hedges and fruit trees for the control of scale, blights, and leaf curling diseases.

An oil of emulsion spray is recommended for the control of diseases that harbor in the twigs and barks of the trees. When the tree is in the dormant stage is the only time that oil emulsion spray can be used. One gallon of a 97% oil emulsion spray to 25 gallons of water will make for healthy trees in the spring.

Write every business letter as though it were a telegram and you were to pay for the sending of it.

LIBRARY NEWS

A report from Miss Ruth Baker, librarian, shows the newest guild books now in the county library are "Queen of France," "The Small Woman," "Mr. Audubon's Lucy," "Pillar of Cloud," "Ring Around Her Finger," and "The Moon by Night."

Memorial books placed in the library recently are "Green Light" in memory of Mrs. Mary McNulty given by Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Runge and "The Bible in Pictures" in memory of Betty Ewing Edburg, given by Mr. and Mrs. Carrol White.

Ten volumes of murder mysteries have been donated by Mrs. Ruby Hord. Fifteen children's books have been given by various donors.

In the election the following were elected to serve for the year 1958: Ralph G. Preston, president; Jack Campbell, vice president; Coach Jim Herridge, sec-treas.; Bill Oglesby and Paul Page, team captains.

The various committees will be appointed at a later date and the new staff will be installed in the first meeting in January. The cooks for the first meeting in the year are Joe Edens and John Williams. We are looking forward to a most successful year with our new leaders.

Thanksgiving Day will be a happier, more meaningful day...

for a "thank-you visit" to your church

COMMUNITY-WIDE THANKSGIVING WEDNESDAY NIGHT AT 7:30 AT THE FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

It's a story we all know and love—the first Pilgrim Thanksgiving. The excitement in their little homes must have been pretty much as it is today—the tantalizing smells of roast turkey and pumpkin pie—the bustle and rush of eager children—it must have been a wonderful day!

But before the Pilgrims sat down to their feast they observed the true meaning of Thanksgiving. They all gathered together in their meetinghouse to give thanks for the good they had received, for survival through a long year of hardship, and to pray for the strength and courage to keep their faith in this strange, new land.

This Thanksgiving, why not take your family to your house of worship. A quiet hour of prayer and thanks will make your holiday so much more meaningful.

Wherever you are... whatever your beliefs may be... take time to offer your words of thanks... just as the Pilgrims did more than 300 years ago.

Find the strength for your life...
