Dan Sebesta Cubmaster

DAN SEBESTA

A called meeting of the management committee and den mothers of Cub Scout Pack 18 was held in the recreation hall of the First Presbyterian church at 7:00 p.m., Friday, Jan. 20, for the purpose of making plans for the Blue and Gold Banquet in February, and to attempt to obtain commiteemen volunteers to accept certain duties of Pack management for the coming year.

Cubmaster Dan Sebesta has obtained the help of Jimmy West, a local rancher, known by all as an advancement and training man; John Murr, management committee chairman; Morris Whitten, outings, picnics, etc.; Fred Watson, assistant Cubmaster; and C. E. Jergins, public relations.

Mr. West expressed the attitude that makes the Cub Pack go when he said, "Show me what needs to be done, and I'll do it." A Cub Scout Pack is an asset to any community for a number of reasons, most important of which is, boys are tomorrow's men, and small boys are important too.

Special mention is made of den mothers present, without whom a Cub Pack is impossible. These ladies, with very little help in the past, by their own initiative, ingenuity, and probably above all, durability, have kept this Cub Pack alive and going. These are Mmes L. G. Schooley, Clem Calk, Rose Doyle, Loyce Parker, Lois Wilson, Hazel Jergins, Orland Harris, Paul Page, Bill Meador, Tucker Clark, Elton McGinnes, and Wilson Page.

The annual Cub Scout Blue and Gold banquet will be held at the Memorial Building at 6:30 p.m., Feb. 9. All parents of all Cubs are urged to attend and make this banquet one the boys will be proud of.

Bobby Haynes, James Hight, Dwain Dempsey, Gary Smith, Cliff Schooley, David Nixon, Kenny Phelps, John D. Meador, Mickey Clark, Quinton Darnell, Kenneth W. Doyle, Roy DuBose, Donald Hosley, Jimmy Mercer, David Parker, Allen Sallee, Larry Davis, Robert Orena, Harvey Martinez; Jimmy Robledo, Buddy Calk, Roy M. Hawkins, Stanford Love, Jimmy McGinnes, Clay Meador, Hyman Sauer, Eric Smith, Ross Whitten, Mark Bowen, Darrel Mason, Michael G. Calcote, Jimmy Martin, Robert P. Rutledge, Paul Page, Robert W. Page, Danny R. Boyer, David Blakeway;

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Keeney and family from San Angelo visited Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Keeney over the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Cheek spent the week end in Uvalde visiting relatives.

First Of The Eagles

A keen-eyed youth from Rockville Center, Long Island, stepped ahead of his 400,000 broomer Scouts in 1912, and became the first to earn the Eagle Award. He was Arthur R. Eldred—forerunner of thousands to achieve Scouting's highest rank.

The Eagle badge looked different then, but requirements called for 21 merit badges, the same as today. Young Eldred was determined to be first, and his days were filled with Scoutcraft activities.

Having earned the necessary badges, he was reviewed by a local committee and by a triumvirate of the movement's distinguished leaders—Chief Scout Executive James E. West, Chief Scout Ernest Thompson Seton, and National Scout Commissioner Daniel Carter Beard.

A congratulatory letter from Dr. West became one of the new Eagle's most prized possessions:

August 21, 1912

My dear Arthur:

It gives me great pleasure on behalf of the Court of Honor of the National Council of the Boy Scouts of America to formally notify you that you have been awarded the honor of being the first Eagle Scout of the Boy Scouts of America. The Eagle Scout badge itself, will be presented at a later date.

Congratulating you on behalf of the officers of the Scout movement in this country and wishing you continued success and progress in your Scout efforts, I am,

Very sincerely yours,
James E. West
Chief Scout Executive

Although Arthur Eldred already had a permanent place in Scouting's history, fate gave him an opportunity to prove himself worthy of the singular respect that is accorded Eagle Scouts.

Only several weeks after earning his Eagle, Arthur and a friend, Merrit Coulter, were enjoying an outing at Orange Lake, New York. Arthur heroically proved the value of Scout training by teaming with Merrit to rescue a young Scout who was drowning. Chief Scout Seton presented bronze Honor Medals to Arthur and Merrit at an impressive ceremony.

Arthur Eldred carried his Scouting spirit into manhood. After moving to New Jersey, he became a member of the Camden County Council Executive Board maintaining an active interest in Scouting until his death in 1952. One of his most rewarding experiences occurred in 1944, when he and his wife participated in their son Willard's Eagle ceremony.

Mrs. Arthur Eldred has preserved the letter from the Chief Scout Executive, the Eagle badge the letter mentions, and the merit badge sash. The first Eagle badge didn't reach its recipient until September, 1912, because it was the first one to be manufactured.

Eagle Scout son Willard, now a New York attorney, has a family of three daughters and a three-month-old son, Willard Gibbs, who is destined to carry on the family Scouting tradition. —from Scouting magazine.

Four Silver Beavers Were Awarded Recently

Four outstanding men were honored at the Annual Council Banquet on Jan. 13, 1961, when they were presented the Silver Beaver Award, which is the highest honor that can be given to leaders in the Concho Valley Council.

The four distinguished leaders are: Edwin S. Mayer, of San Angelo; J. Olen Ham of Uvalde; Roy Bell of Rankin; and Truett McClung of San Angelo. Collectively these four men represent more than 90 years of service to boyhood through the program of the Boy Scouts of America.

Because of their personal efforts tens of thousands of boys have had a rich Scouting experience and many thousands of adults have benefitted in their personal lives because of the dedication of these four outstanding Scouters.

Sam H. Walk of Del Rio, past Council President and chairman of the Silver Beaver committee, presented the awards at the Jan. 13 banquet.

Henry Moore and Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Hartgraves attended the Fat Stock Show at Fort Worth this week.

Jean Schwieng and Sue Greenhill of Sonora were guests of Mrs. Joab Campbell and Miss John Alexander Thursday. They were here between semesters at the U.

that has stalled the movement of a horde of non-essential measures, and is credited with saving American taxpayers billions of dollars. It has been a thorn in the side of the free spenders and the radical-liberals.

But the Rules Committee is not all-powerful, as its critics contend. Any bill can be brought up for a vote if a majority of the members of the House ask for it, regardless of the Rules Committee.

Faced with a flood of spending proposals this year, the need for caution and sifting, such as only an effective Rules Committee can apply, is more pressing than ever. Another battle of the budget will soon be shaping up. The budget submitted to Congress by outgoing President Eisenhower anticipated a balanced budget for the next fiscal year, beginning next July 1, and a $1.4 billion surplus.

But the radical-liberals have amassed an ambitious program of welfare state and spending measures that could do havoc to the budget and push the Treasury back to deficit spending, with more money to be borrowed to pay current bills.

That would mean more inflation, lower purchasing power of the dollar, and more fiscal headaches for the future. In these times we can ill afford the luxury of deficit spending and a $300 billion public debt. Let us tighten up our belts and apply the brakes.

Mrs. Lee McAfee of Dimmitt visited during the past week in the home of her daughter, Mrs. Charley Warnock.

Eldorado Success

Austin.—A proposal that would take the monkey off the backs of the legislators who campaigned on a no-sales-tax, no-income-tax platform has been made by one of the State Capitol correspondents.

It is the feeling of many persons in Austin as well as over the state that the public is ready for a definite, long-time tax program, whether it be a sales tax, an income tax or the Governor's proposed payroll tax.

They are convinced that the state has to take some drastic financial steps. And they are ready to foot the bill. Many legislators realize this fact.

Trouble is that a goodly number of them campaigned on a no-sales-tax, no-income-tax platform. Many legislators felt at the time that such was a popular campaign theme; that the public did not want either type of tax; that their resentment to either would be bitter.

It is the opinion of a number of the legislators that the people are far ahead of the lawmakers in this type of thinking; that they understand the problem better than the legislature realize; and that they are willing to face the facts.

But the legislators as a whole are hesitant. They are not sure the people are ready. They are fearful that they will get all the blame.

Richard Morehead of the Austin bureau of the Dallas News suggests that legislators feel the public pulse by ordering a referendum on the April 4 ballot. Voters will be going to the polls anyway to vote for a new U. S. Senator.

Morehead's proposed referendum would point out the state's need for at least $100 million a year in new revenue. Each voter would be asked to check which of the three tax proposals he preferred... a payroll tax to be paid equally by employer and employee, a general sales tax, or an income tax.

Such a referendum would give the voters a voice in the tax program... an opportunity to express their own preference in the matter. And at the same time it would lift the problem off the shoulders of the legislature.

As Morehead points out, there are other ways to raise money, but informed people generally agree that some variation or combination of the three methods outlined herein is going to be passed by the legislature. And by April 4 the voters will have heard many sides of all proposals.

Other Tax Plans Advocated
Lawmakers have proposed numerous methods for raising additional tax money.

Rep. W. W. Glass of Jacksonville suggests a constitutional amendment authorizing a 1% levy on the gross income of all businesses. He estimated it would bring in $100 million a year.

A 10% tax on the gross receipts of trading stamp firms was suggested by Rep. Henry A. Fletcher of Luling.

A graduated levy on gross income at the wholesale level and on income from personal services—for an estimated $300 million yearly—was put forward by Rep. Lloyd Guffey of El Campo.

Rep. Marshall O. Bell of San Antonio took the opposite approach by proposing a constitutional amendment that would prohibit either a state income or payroll tax.

Raciest suggestion came from Rep. V. E. (Red) Berry of San Antonio who, as he promised in his campaign, introduced a bill to legalize horse racing and parimutuel betting and to levy a tax on the track proceeds. (Legalized racing was voted out of Texas about 25 years ago.)

As bills dropped into the hopper, State Treasurer Jesse James announced that the general revenue fund deficit has risen to $95,381,122.

Savings Sought
Legislature is also considering proposals aimed at cutting expenses.

Texas Research League, reporting on a study made at the request of the Legislature, made 19 recommendations for reducing the cost of collecting taxes.

Rep. Dick Cory of Victoria has proposed a bill that would set up a commission to study the agencies of state government with a view to eliminating duplication and bringing about maximum economy and efficiency. It has been dubbed the "Little Hoover Commission."

Loan Controls Urged
Drive to enact loan company regulations got new push when the State Supreme Court made final its ruling that the "certificate plan" for loans is not legal.

Under this plan a borrower had to buy an investment certificate from the loan firm and pay for the certificate as well as pay off the loan.

Atty. Gen. Will Wilson said it is urgent that the Legislature set up a guide by which loan companies can operate legitimately. Several lawmakers have announced plans to sponsor such bills. One would allow for total charges (interest plus other charges of 3% per month on the unpaid balance of the loan.

Fashion Highlights: Patterned and colored shirts are being shown in a much wider and more attractive variety than in many years, advises the American Institute of Men's and Boys' Wear. They make good fashion-sense—blending well with suits and ties for more colorful ensembles and giving a man an appearance of "individualism" as opposed to the uniformity of a steady diet of white shirts.

Spots Out: To avoid a "ring," after using a cleaning fluid, work from the edges of the spot toward the center.

Trends: With new clothing trimmer, men shouldn't stuff their pockets as they did in the looser, fuller clothes. Fancy foulard handkerchiefs for the upper breast pocket are being seen more and more. Bulky Windsor knots are fading in popularity. The smaller knots go best with today's streamlined clothes.

The jewelry you wear reflects a bit of your own taste and personality. Even inexpensive jewelry can add just the right accent to your costume, if it is carefully chosen.

Proper choice means that certain styles and textures are best for different occasions. And when more than one piece of jewelry is worn, the pieces should be related in texture and type, but not necessarily "matched sets."

"Accessories Around the Clock," a colorful bulletin written by the extension clothing specialists, gives suggestions for choosing jewelry for street, travel or business costumes, as well as for dress and party wear.

A Healthy Skin requires a Healthy Diet. Teen-agers with weight or complexion problems should take special note of the foods required for healthy bodies, according to extension foods and nutrition specialists of the A&M College of Texas. This applies for adults too.

If you have weight or skin problems, why not check your diet "Food for Fitness," a colorful leaflet available from your county home demonstration agent's office, gives an easy-to-follow plan for balancing your daily food needs.

Two Out of Three Americans Eat Too Little Breakfast. How about you? Extension foods and nutrition specialists say breakfast should supply about one-third of the total daily food needs. Studies show that a protein-rich breakfast can stave off fatigue hours longer than a breakfast with little protein. Eggs are a good source of protein and can be prepared in many different ways. Give your body the proper fuel to start the day right.

Do You Bruise Easily? A vitamin C deficiency might be responsible. Oranges, grapefruit and other citrus fruits are rich in vitamin C important to good health of the blood vessels. Eat some vitamin C rich foods every day.

Choose "Loaded Calories." Control your weight and stay healthy by choosing foods with "loaded" calories. Every food contains some calories, the fuel needed to keep us moving. But some foods contain so many nutrients—vitamins, minerals and proteins—that every calorie is virtually "loaded."

Calories in eat, eggs, vegetables, fruits, milk and whole grain or enriched cereals are loaded with important nutrients. That's why they are so important—even in reducing diets, according to extension foods and nutrition specialists of the A&M College of Texas.

Foods that contain a lot of fat and/or sugar have less of the nutrients, but are high in calories. Excess calories can pile on pounds while your body is starving for some of the needed vitamins, minerals and proteins.

Learn to choose "loaded" calories. It can mean better health—an improved morale and appearance.

Family members may enjoy rating their eating habits. "Are You a Good Eater," provides an easy check list. It lists the foods needed daily and describes some of the most common symptoms for food deficiencies.

All the fanfare accompanying the recent kick-off of the Centennial observance of the Civil War has set hundreds of communities to planning pageants and special events to mark their part in the great conflict.

One Texas city which didn't even exist at the beginning of the Civil War is planning a dual celebration to mark the centennial of its founding and the 100th anniversary of the baptism of fire for Hood's Texas Brigade.

The city of Bryan, county seat of Brazos county, was laid out in 1855 with the expectation that a railroad, then on its way through Texas, would arrive within a few years and the town would grow with the railroad.

As it turned out, the Civil War interrupted the railroad construction in it terminated at Millican a few miles south of Bryan. Bryan didn't actually become a town until 1862; thus the centennial celebration planned for late 1962.

This isn't Bryan's only connection with the Civil War, however, for after the war many of the reunions of survivors of Hood's Texas Brigade were held in the city.

Perhaps the most noteworthy reunion of the old soldiers was that held in 1924 when General Hood's widow, her son John Bell Hood, Jr., and grandson, John Bell Hood III, attended and Hood Jr. addressed the assembled veterans.

Reunions were held periodically in Bryan from about 1882 until 1934. That 1934 reunion was the last because so many of the veterans had died or were so ill they couldn't attend. The meetings were always held in the auditorium of the library and a stone on the front of the Carnegie Library is inscribed "Hood's Texas Brigade—Bryan our last headquarters and this building our last home."

Hood's Texas Brigade was made up of two regiments of soldiers raised all over east Texas and in the area around Bryan. After the war many of the veterans returned to their homes in this area which accounts for the fact that Bryan was chosen as the site for their reunions.

After arriving in Virginia, the two Texas regiments were thrown together with units from Arkansas, Georgia and South Carolina and had their baptism of fire at the battle of Gaine's Mill in 1862. Here they saved the day for the Confederates and won high praise from General Robert E. Lee, commander of the Army of Northern Virginia. A few days later at Malvern Hill they added to their quickly-growing reputation.

The Brigade was also present at Gettysburg, where General Hood lost an arm, and at Chickamauga where the general lost a leg. Hood was later promoted to the command of a Confederate Corps and later still to command of an entire army, but the Brigade continued to carry his name on through the battle of Petersburg and to Appomattox.

General John Bell Hood was perhaps Texas' best-known soldier. Although a native of Kentucky, he had served as a lieutenant in the regular army in Texas before the Civil War. He once declared "Just prior to the war I was determined to resign and make my home in Texas for life. I entered the Confederate service from Texas." This statement and his association with the Texas Brigade account for Texas' claim to Hood as a Texan.

General Hood was well-liked by his men and had little of the soldierly appearance that West Point often gave its graduates. John Haskell, a Confederate officer who knew Hood well and who wrote "The Haskell Memoirs" recently published by G. P. Putnam's Sons, said of him "he soon made his mark and later would have been named by three-fourths of the Confederate Army as the finest commander in the army."

General Hood moved to Louisiana after the war where he married and became the father of 11 children.

Editorial Comments From Our Neighbors

President John F. Kennedy, in sending a message to Krushchev to the effect that the United States is ready to join in a peace effort, unquestionably is doing what he must do.
 But it is to be hoped that he will keep in mind with whom he is dealing. It is to be hoped he will remember Mr. Krushchev is the author of such statements as "Communism will bury you," and "Your grandchildren will grow up under communism."
 Ready to negotiate for peace we must certainly be. But with the awareness that peace on Soviet terms may mean enslavement of the world, perhaps Mr. Kennedy will keep in mind his own statement: "He who rides the back of the tiger ends up inside." —Menard News.

Season Shows $3,113 Profit
 The Brady schools' athletic department finished the football season with a net profit of $3,113.69, a report by Supt. C. A. Reynolds shows.
 That, of course, doesn't compare with the $9,000 to $10,000 profit in the Bulldogs' "playoff years," but Reynolds said receipts for the regular season still were better than last year. —Brady Standard.

ANN BALLEW BRIDE OF SHERWOOD BARKER IN PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH RITES FRIDAY

Miss Elizabeth Ann Ballew became the bride of Sherwood Barker Friday evening, January 27, in The First Presbyterian church of Eldorado, with the Rev. Daniel R. Sebesta, pastor, officiating.
 Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Ballew of Eldorado, and Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Barker, Jr., of Angleton, Texas.
 Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a traditional princess gown of white peau de soie with moulded bodice, bell shaped skirt, portrait neckline and short sleeves. Unpressed pleats fell from a bustled back and extended into a wide chapel-length train. Her veil of tulle, was held in place by an iridescent and pearl tiara. She carried a colonial bouquet of a white glamelia surrounded by gaily carnations.
 For something "old and borrowed" the bride wore a "Scotch Pebble" brooch that had belonged to her great-great grandmother and now belongs to a great aunt, Mrs. R. L. Pearce of Fife, Texas; the something "new and blue" was a garter given to her by Mrs. C. L. Wheeler of San Angelo.
 Organist was Miss Judy Sue Hext, who played traditional wedding music preceding and during the ceremony.
 Candles were lighted by Ray L. Ballew, brother of the bride.
 Mrs. Ray Jacoby of Junction was matron of honor, and bridesmaids were Mrs. D. A. Oliphant of LaMarque, twin sister of the groom; and Miss Jeanie Mund. All wore identical dresses of red velvet fashioned with a round neck and short sleeves. They wore matching headpieces of red net. Flower girl was Elizabeth Kay Bradley of Casper, Wyoming, cousin of the bride.
 The bridegroom's brother, Charles R. Barker, of Conroe, Texas, was best man; groomsmen were Robert Sims of Angleton, and Earl Barnett, and ushers were Sammy McCleney of Clute, Texas, and Russell S. Beach.
 A reception followed the nuptial rites and was held in the church parlor, where Miss May Runge of Christoval registered the wedding guests. Serving during the reception, at the table beautifully decorated by Mrs. Sam Oglesby and Mrs. Bill Oglesby, were Mrs. Charles R. Barker of Conroe and Miss Dottie Jean Harrison of Grassland. Women of the Presbyterian church assisted at the reception.
 Following a short wedding trip the couple are at home here in Eldorado in a Crosby apartment. Mr. Barker is a coach and teacher in the local schools.
 Mrs. Barker is a graduate of Eldorado schools and attended Texas Technological College. Mr. Barker is a graduate of Angleton High School and Stephen F. Austin College at Nacogdoches.
 Mr. and Mrs. Jene W. Moore and Miss May Runge were hosts in the Moores' ranch home for a dinner party on January 21, honoring the couple.
 Women of the First Presbyterian church were hostesses at a bridal tea honoring Miss Ballew in the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Page, on January 21.

"Say Gal—
Who did

Company?"

PEOPLE do—Big Boy—thousands of people... farmers, housewives, engineers, doctors, lawyers, secretaries, storekeepers and business men... all kinds of people.

They own the electric company because they invest money in it, and thus help it grow and serve you better.

This kind of ownership made this electric company an investor-owned company. We are not owned by the city nor by the state, nor by any government agency. We are owned by people—many of them are our customers and employees.

We think this is the best kind of ownership in America.
