

D. A. R. Is Promoting Flag Day June 14th

The El Dorado Chapter, N. S. D. A. R., is sponsoring the observance of Flag Day on June 14. Asking that all who have flags display them on that day, the chapter points out that, 100 years ago, Henry Ward Beecher said, "Our flag carries American ideas, American history and American feelings. Beginning with the colonies and coming down to our time, in its sacred heraldry, in its glorious insignia, it has gathered and stored chiefly this supreme idea—Divine Right of Liberty in Man."

American history continues to be made. We have welcomed two new states into the Union. Alaska, by far the largest of all our states, and colorful Hawaii give us two new stars for the flag that represents liberty all over the world.

The history of our country from its earliest times is woven into the pattern of our flag. Every star and stripe represents a story of bitter struggle and work, of bloodshed, despair and eventual triumph.

Research has revealed that our flag's roots lie deeper than we knew in man's struggle for freedom. They reach down the centuries to one of the most important turning points in world history—the Reformation which involved the whole of Europe.

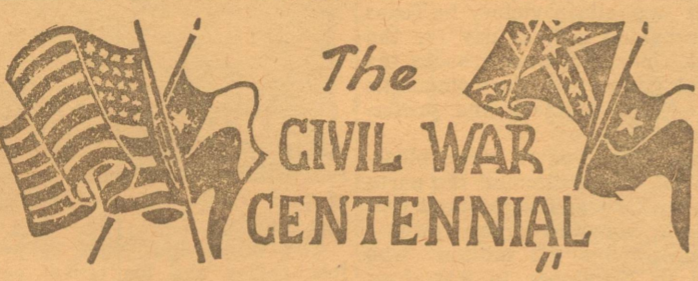

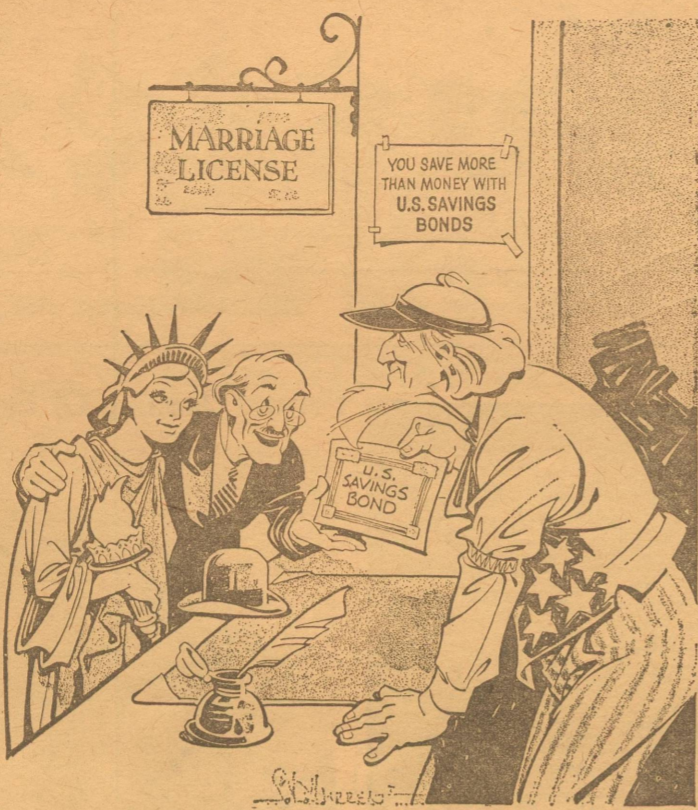

In the 16th century when William of Orange led the Dutch nation, after years of bloodshed, to victory against Spain, his standard, under which the Dutch fought their way to victory and peace was a banner of red stripes on a white field.

During the years of the Reformation this flag symbolized liberty in every land throughout Europe. Many freedom loving people sought and found refuge in the Dutch Republic and later they became the founders of the New England colonies. The leaders of these colonies used the Dutch Republic as their model, and the democratic principle of federation under which they had lived in the Netherlands, furnished the idea of the New England Confederation of four colonies organized in 1647. The first flag used in America was one of four stripes on a white field used by this organization. Through the growth of the colonies in America and the evolution of a standard, we come to 1775 when our flag had acquired 13 red and white stripes and was called in England, "The Rebellious Stripes." This flag had a star, which by 1777 increased to 13 stars in the banner carried by the famous Green Mountain boys, whose victory in Vermont was the cause of the French recognition of the American Revolutionary government. On June 14, 1777, John Adams approved a resolution which decreed that the flag of the 13 United States should "be 13 stripes alternate red and white; that the union be 13 stars, white in a field of blue, representing the new constellation."

Thus came into being the first official flag of stars and stripes to be flown by the American Navy. In our first flag the 13 stars were arranged in a circle.

In 1818 Congress enacted a law specifying our present arrangement and providing that a star be added for each new state—this to be added on July 4, succeeding its admission.

As we salute the new flag of 50 stars, let us remember its evolution, which was neither swift nor simple; and the principles of liberty embodied in the 16th century banner, which still hold true.

Just 100 years this June 3, Union forces won their first victory over Confederates and thus began a chain of events that for awhile seemed to forecast failure for the newly-formed Confederate States of America.

The events of the early months of 1861 had seemed to favor the cause of the Confederacy and Southerners were heartened when the last Union bastion fell under the guns that fired on Fort Sumter in April. That same month saw the secession of Virginia from the Union, the resignation of General Robert E. Lee from the Union Army and the burning of the Harpers Ferry Arsenal and the Norfolk Navy Yard.

But the victory of Union forces on June 3 at Philippi in West Virginia was only the first such loss to be suffered by the Confederacy within a period of three short weeks. The Union commander at Philippi, General George B. McClellan, followed up his initial victory with two others, one at Rich Mountain and another at Carrick's Ford. Though these were only minor skirmishes, the fact that they were won by Union troops made General McClellan's name familiar over all the nation.

General McClellan was a West Point graduate and had a brilliant record in the Mexican War. He had left the Army shortly after the war to become an executive for a railroad. In May of 1861 he was elevated in a single step from a retired captain to the rank of major general in the regular army and given command of the Department of the Ohio which included Ohio, Indiana, and Illinois and later Western Pennsylvania and Virginia.

Great things were expected of him in his new command and the three victories in a few short weeks seemed to justify his appointment over officers with senior rank. To make things look even worse for the Confederacy, England, Spain, Holland and France all declared their neutrality in the American conflict and the hopes of the new nation for recognition abroad were gone in a matter of a few days.

Then on June 11, Union sympathizers in the western portion of Virginia seceded from the mother state and cast their lot with the Union. The territory was later to become West Virginia and would be admitted to the Union in 1863.

An internal dispute and fighting also broke out in Missouri, another border state which Southern leaders hoped would secede from the Union and become a member of the Confederacy, and the Federal forces in that state won another minor skirmish, this one at Booneville, on June 17.

The one bit of good news to brighten the outlook for the Confederacy came from a place called Big Bethel, where on June 10, 1861, seven Union regiments commanded by Major General Benjamin F. Butler, later to be known as "Beast" Butler during his military rule over New Orleans, attacked 1,400 Confederates under the command of General John Bankhead Magruder. When the battle was over, 76 Yankees and eight Confederates were dead. This proved, said the Confederates, that one soldier from the South was worth 10 Yankee fighting men.

But all these skirmishes and untoward events failed to dampen the spirit of the South. These were just preliminaries, they said, leading up to the one big from which the Confederacy would emerge victorious, the cause of the South vindicated and the war over.

The big battle did come—in July of 1861 at a place called Manassas. And the Confederacy did win. But the war was far from over. It would be another four years before the North and South would cease to fight.

IF MAN SHOULD REACH THE MOON

I'm sure you've heard or read about
The satellite in space:
How Russia and the United States
Are in a rocket race.
To hear them talk, it won't be long:
For space they'll conquer soon,
And then what next will man attempt
If he should reach the moon?

If man should ever reach the moon,
There's one thing that is clear:
He'll ruin everything up there,
Just as he has down here!
With sin and crime, with lust and greed,
He's got enough to do—
To clean the mess he's made on earth,
And you know that is true!

The sickness and the want and fear,
The broken hearts and shame,
And hungry millions cry each day,
And men is all to blame:
I think we better set our sights
Above the moon and space,
And let's explore eternity,
While there is time and grace.

It's not the moon we need to reach,
It's God who put it there;
The One who went to Calvary,
A rugged cross to bear:
For sins of men with wicked hearts,
He died one afternoon;
With faith in Him you'll have no fear
If man should reach the moon!

BUCKET SEATS ALONE DO NOT A MONZA MAKE

■ Gee! ■ Little did we know, when we introduced the Corvair Monza last year, that we were starting a Big Thing. We just thought it would be pleasant if you could buy a car that treats you, the driver, like you want to be treated. ■ The bucket seats, of course, are the most obvious evidence of our desire to please you. But they're not the most important thing. No sir. What's really vital is the way a Monza handles—something nobody in the U.S. has yet copied. Or can copy. Because Corvair is the only rear-engined car made in this country, and you know what that means: steering light as thistle-down. (You even park this one more easily, it steers so briskly.) Beautifully balanced braking—the car stays level even under panic braking, which we hope you'll never have to do. Traction and more traction, so you don't become a stick-in-the-mud. The kind of cornering that's sheer joy to experience. ■ You get more: a fully independent suspension that blots out road shocks before they can ruffle you. Clean, crisp styling. Thoroughgoing economy, from purchase price to operating cost. ■ You're not going to be satisfied with bucket seats alone, are you?

The Board of Supervisors of the Eldorado-Divide Soil Conservation District in their regular monthly meeting Friday, June 2, reviewed and discussed the different conservation practices that are applicable to this section of the country.

For rangeland, all supervisors agreed, such practices as brush control, deferred grazing, and proper use must be planned and applied in order to have a high productive range. Everyone agreed that there are other practices which would help improve the range conditions, but the above mentioned are the most important in carrying out a good range conservation program.

As to cropland, everyone agreed that such practices as conservation crop rotation, contour farming, cover crops during the critical time of the year, crop residue utilization, and terraces for water conservation were necessary to keep the cropland in a high productive state.

This district will have been organized and in operation for 20 years on the 23rd day of this month. The same practices are needed to be applied to the land today as were needed 20 years ago. Some few practices have been added but the main practices needed to carry out a good soil, water, and plant conservation program on the land are the ones mentioned above for rangeland and cropland.

Supervisors and SCS technicians assisting the district discussed different reasons why landowners are not applying more conservation practices to the land. If conservation plans represent the intentions of the owners as operators to conserve as much soil and moisture as is possible, in an effort to produce the maximum pounds of beef, lamb, and other food and fiber crops, then why are not more of the practices applied to the land?

If our cities are to grow; attract industry, population and payrolls, greater emphasis must be placed on catching and holding our rain where it falls—one of the nation's richest natural resources.

"Water conservation is everybody's business—the butcher, the baker, the candlestick maker. Land is the great gathering place and storage reservoir for water, but city people have just as much stake in water conservation as the farmer or rancher. The survival of both depends on an abundant supply of fresh water." Excerpt from April issue of Southern Planter.

In conclusion, everyone agreed that the big job for districts was getting more soil, water and plant conservation practices applied to the land.

PROBLEMS IN PERFORMANCE OF YOUR WASHER

Poor results on wash day? No washer can wash clothes well if it is overloaded. Clothes should be loosely loaded so they can move freely through the water. Most manufacturers recommend an 8- to 9-lb. load (dry weight). For more tips on how to turn out the brightest wash in town, come to the Laundry Clinic being conducted by Vida Kreklow, your H. D. agent. It will be held June 12, 13, and 14 at the Memorial Building, beginning at 2:00 p.m. Bring your neighbor!

SUSAN IS EIGHT

Fourteen guests and several mothers were present. Those attending played games and favors were given. Refreshments of punch and cake were served.

Mrs. J. Tom Williams returned Monday from a week's visit at various points. She picked up Bobby at A&M and went on to Grand Prairie and visited there with her sister-in-law, Mrs. Sam Williams, and a niece, Mrs. Will Northam who live there and with another sister, Mrs. John Taylor of Houston and another niece, Mrs. Don Smith of Kansas City, Kansas. She and Bobby went on to Fort Worth and visited with her daughter, Mrs. Owen Brock and took Bobby to Arlington where he enrolled in college for the summer term.

Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Joiner returned Wednesday from vacationing with their children at Kermit and Jal, New Mexico. They also attended the Joiner family reunion in Comanche county.

Austin.—From now until July 10 will be a period of testing how representative democracy works in Texas. The legislature is to reconvene July 10 to make a fresh stab at writing a tax bill to raise some $350,000,000 for the next two years. Gov. Price Daniel has urged Texans to give the legislators and him their views on how the matter should be handled.

Governor Daniel is strongly opposed to the adoption of any sales tax plan designed to raise the major portion of this needed revenue. He used his influence in the regular session to block a move in this direction.

"But," said the governor, "if this is really what a majority of the people want, I don't see how I can go on fighting it."

He believes, however, that a very limited sales tax, which he terms "selective excise taxes," on only more expensive items, with the balance to be raised from gas and pipeline taxes and increased interstate corporation franchise taxes, would be more fair and more acceptable to most Texans.

The only bill which came close to passing the Legislature was one in which the main money-raising feature was a retail sales tax on items costing 25 cents and more, with food, medicine and farm necessities exempted. It also levied increased gas and corporation taxes. Speaker James Turman cast the crucial vote that prevented the bill being sent to the governor.

Actually, the difference between the governor and those voting for the sales tax package is mostly one of degree. Governor Daniel grants the need for some sales (or excise) taxes, but feels that they should be stringently limited. A majority of the legislature cast votes indicating they felt Texas has reached the point where only a broad based tax, such as the sales tax, can raise enough money to meet the state's increasing needs.

Now it is the people's turn to say what they think. If enough speak up, the legislature will have little difficulty in deciding what to do when it reconvenes July 10.

At that late hour, getting broad agreement in the legislature will be more important than passing a bill that suits the governor. Bills passed by only a simple majority cannot become effective until 90 days after the session ends, but bills passed by a two-thirds majority of both houses can take effect immediately. That late in the summer, the legislature will need to get a two-thirds vote for immediate effect so there will be money and authorization to keep the state going after the new fiscal year begins September 1.

And a two-thirds majority is also sufficient to override a governor's veto.

Oil On Troubled Waters

A number of lawmakers laid their "backs up" before the governor made his statewide report to the people after the regular session closed. But the governor's message smoothed some feathers. Many lawmakers expected Daniel to roast the legislature for its failure to take care of money matters during the 140-day session. They had their hot replies all ready for press release. Instead, Governor Daniel adroitly praised the lawmakers as one of the hardest working legislatures he had ever seen. He even singled out for kind words some leaders who had opposed his program. It was those infernal lobbyists who were to blame, said the governor. He described hordes of lobbyists, choking the hallways and bothering the members while they were in session.

Now it's the lobbyists who are riled.

The governor has announced that he will name a new citizen's committee to study the state's fiscal problems and make recommendations before the special session begins.

Grand Gesture

Before adjourning, the Senate gave approval to a $2,000,000,000 general appropriations bill for the two years beginning September 1. But without passage of a money-raising bill to back it up, appropriations had no meaning.

The Senate adopted the appropriations conference committee report—a plan that called for spending $385,500,000 from general revenue, compared to the present $320,000,000 general revenue ap- pleges and the state senior college and university system would be among the main beneficiaries.

The Senate also passed an equally ineffective $810 a year raise for school teachers before adjourning. All was for naught, however, when the tax bill failed to pass.

14 Amendments Proposed

Texas voters can get ready for a bumper crop of 14 proposed constitutional amendments to be on the November ballot in 1962. Some of the amendments are of major importance; some are only local in effect and application. Among them are proposals to:

1. Increase maximum possible yearly payments to the permanently disabled from $1,500,000 to $2,500,000.
2. Allow the state water development board to purchase water storage space in reservoirs constructed by other units of government, such as the federal government.
3. Permit the Veterans Land Board to sell forfeited land to non-veteran buyers to liquidate land the state is stuck with.
4. Authorize the Legislature to provide for "trial de novo" (trial anew) in appeals from decisions of state agencies.
5. Allow the legislature to name successors to officials knocked out by a major catastrophe such as enemy attack.
6. Raise the present $47,000,000 a year ceiling on public welfare payments to $52,000,000.
7. Allow the legislature to set up hospital districts without a special constitutional amendment for each one.
8. Allow the legislature to delegate to local government control of traffic, parking and sanitation on public beaches.

New Power For Probers

Future witnesses before legislative investigating committees can be compelled to tell the truth or face perjury penalties under a measure that passed both houses.

Last year the perjury conviction of former Insurance Commissioner J. Byron Saunders was voided by the courts on grounds that the anti-perjury statute did not cover statements to legislative committees. This bill spells out the right of legislative committees to make investigations and makes it a penal offense (two to ten years) to lie deliberately to such a committee.

Ratliff Is Pro Tem

Sen. David Ratliff of Stamford was elected by his senate colleagues to serve as president pro tempore of the Senate for the interval between the regular session's end and the special session's beginning.

The president of the Senate presides in the absence of the lieutenant governor and its second in line of succession to the governor. He usually serves as "governor for a day" when both the governor and the lieutenant governor are out of the state. Ratliff, a radio station owner, has been in the legislature since 1951, and in the Senate since 1955.

Short Snorts

The Texas Aeronautics Commission, which past legislatures have threatened to abolish, fared much better this year. Bills were passed broadening the Commission's scope of activity and allocating to it a portion of the unclaimed tax refunds on aviation gasoline.

Atty. Gen. Will Wilson has called a meeting June 22 of those interested in working out small loan company regulation. Efforts to pass such a bill this past session bogged down completely.

State Treasurer Jesse James reported the deficit in the state's general revenue fund increased during the past month to $69,641,536. A shortage of $63,000,000 is generally expected for the end of the fiscal year August 31.

The State Supreme Court sheared off some of the privileges of lawyer-legislators to get court cases in which they are involved postponed until after legislative business is complete. It said the law doesn't cover such preliminary activity as taking depositions before the actual trial.

The state penitentiary would be practically emptied, one lawyer predicted, if a plea presently before the Court of Criminal Appeals is granted. The defendant contends that his conviction was illegal because the trial judge had not paid his dues in the State Bar of Texas. State's attorneys answer that the law requiring lawyers to be paid up in the bar as a requisite for participating in court matters had not been passed at the time the trial judge was in arrears.

WATER SAVERS

Are you shopping for a new automatic washer? If water is scarce at your house, or if your water pressure is low, be sure and check these points:

Water required for a complete cycle. The amount of water required for a complete cycle varies from 19 to 42 gallons.

Time or pressure fill. If your water pressure is low and you have a time fill, washing action may start before the machine fills. Be sure the model of your choice has a "positive fill" feature which assures you that regardless of your water pressure, washing action will not start until the proper amount of water is in the machine.

Call Vida Krecklow, your home demonstration agent, for more information on washers.

Jim Steward left Saturday for Killeen for two weeks reserve training at Fort Hood. Mrs. Steward will remain in Eldorado visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Sedberry and other relatives.

COUNTY AGENT'S COLUMN

by Tiny Godwin

Schleicher County Agricultural Agent

Aldrin, hptachlor, toxaphene or malathion may be used to spray fence rows or areas in the pasture to control grasshoppers. If aldrin or heptachlor is used use the minimum of 1/2 to 3/4 pint per acre, provided the concentrate contains at least 2 pounds of the killing agent per gallon. Toxaphene and malathion use one quart provided toxaphene has 6 pounds of the killing agent per gallon and malathion contains 5 pounds to the gallon. Be sure and read the label and use accordingly.

Should you prefer to use a bait, use enough of the emulsion concentrate to give the following active ingredients per 100 pounds of bran: aldrin or heptachlor, 1/2 to 2/3 pint of 2 pound concentrate. Chlordane one pint of 4 pound concentrate or 1/2 pint of 8 pound concentrate per gallon. Wettable powders may be used instead of emulsion concentrate. Use 2-3 ounces of the active ingredient to 100 pounds of bran. Chlordane 1/2 pound, toxaphene 1 pound of the active ingredient.

To prepare the bait, stir an emulsifiable concentrate in 10-12 gallons of water to make 100 pounds of bait. Use 20 pounds per acre. Keep bait where livestock cannot reach. Use all safety precautions in applying these materials.

Casebearers can be successfully controlled if insecticides are applied in the proper manner and the right time. This is the important thing to remember in the control of the casebearer. Single eggs are found on the brown tips of the small pecans. The exact time of egg laying will vary from one season to the next. Also, the time of egg laying will vary from one location to the next in the same year. Consequently, the most effective way to determine spraying time is upon close examination. Eggs hatch in four to five days. A control program depends on three practices:

1. Proper timing of spray application.
2. Adequate coverage with three pounds of 50% wettable powder, five pounds of 40% toxaphene, or 3 pounds of 25% malathion per 100 gallons of water.
3. Proper spray equipment.

John McGregor, George Draper,

David Whitten and Buz McCormick were en route Tuesday to 4-H club round-up to represent District 7 at College Station in grass identification. This team is annually sponsored by the Southwest Texas Electric Co-Op. This is the 12th consecutive year that the local 4-H club has represented district 7. Competition is from 11 other district winning teams. Twenty-eight other contests will be held the same day for 4-H boys and girls, June 6-8.

Those counties not being fortunate enough to have a team are allowed the outstanding 4-H girl and boy to represent the county each year.

Conference: a meeting at which people talk about things they should be doing.

Best kills of mesquite are obtained when soil moisture is good and the growth of mesquite is lush. The translocation of herbicides is rapid at this stage as the mesquite is replenishing the food reserve in the root system.

On original growth mesquite, primarily single stemmed trees with dense foliage should be sprayed with 1/3 to 1/2 pound of 2, 4, 5-T mix in 1/2 gallon of diesel oil and enough water to make four gallons of spray solution per acre. If aerial sprayed, the swaths width should not exceed 60 feet.

The proper time for applications is 6-13 weeks, 40-90 days, after the first green growth appears, or when foliage turns dark green. If rain falls during the spray season, wait until the new growth on the tips of branches has developed fully.

If drought prevails, or trees are in poor foliage due to hail or insect damage—do not spray.

Sympathy: what one woman offers another in exchange for details.

Television: a series of commercials interrupted by a program.

You Are Invited!

to attend a Laundry Clinic next week. This is no formal affair and no RSVP's are required. The whole idea is to catch up on the latest news on the washing front.

This is the plan. Everybody is invited, but in order that the group be kept small enough for individual teaching, the clinic will be open on three afternoons, June 13, 14 and 15. The Reynolds H. D. club and the Good Neighbor club will meet together on June 13 and these clubs are asked to bring guests. Wednesday afternoon will be 4-H club afternoon and everybody's day. Members of the Earn and Learn club may come after 5:00 for an after work demonstration. On Thursday, June 15, the Young Home Makers and the Glendale club will meet together for the last session of the clinic.

Ruth Clampett, a guest Home Economist from West Texas Utilities of Bolling, will demonstrate the washing of an electric blanket using a washing machine from West Texas Utilities Company, Boyer Electric, Eldorado Hardware and Western Auto and other cooperating dealers, will exhibit and demonstrate equipment.

Each afternoon guests will be able to make hardness of water tests. Bring about one cup of water in a pint jar if your water supply does not come from the city water supply. One test for the city supply is sufficient and that has already been made. But if a farm, ranch or individually owned well is the source of the water you use, bring a sample to test. A test is absolutely necessary to find out what kind and how much soap, detergent, conditioner or softener should be used to get best results. Come and bring your questions. You will learn new things and some lucky person will win a door prize every afternoon.

Mrs. Ora Davis has returned from a 10-day visit at Vinita, Tulsa and Oklahoma City.

Mr. and Mrs. Peyton Cain are moving back to Eldorado this week. They are moving to the house they remodeled on their ranch in the Bailey Ranch community. Mr. Cain is a former school principal here and was school superintendent at Alpine for some time, until his retirement a while back. Their daughter Jane is visiting in Eldorado this week with her grandmother, Mrs. J. E. Stack and her aunt, Mrs. Carl Stevens.

Guests in the home of Alma Sauer last week end were her son, Duwain, who is stationed at Fort Ord, California, and Miss Cynthia Baker, of Fort Worth. On Sunday
