OIL NEWS

Allen Drilling Co. of Odessa completed the third Texaco-Jackson well Monday as a dry hole.

They moved their rig Tuesday about three-quarters of a mile west and slightly south and started operations on the Robert Page No. 1 Hugh McAngus project, which will be another 1000-ft. shallow test.

Crown Central Petroleum Co., Abilene, No. 1 R. L. Henderson, a wildcat in the Velrex field, flowed gas and oil on two drillstem tests early this week.

Gas surfaced in 10 minutes and oil in 68 minutes, no gauges on a two-hour test between 6,377-85 ft. Recovery was 120 feet of free oil and 180 feet of very heavily oil-cut mud. Flowing pressure was 0-140 pounds; one-hour initial and final shut-in pressures were 2,610 and 2,600 pounds, respectively.

Gas surfaced in 10 minutes rated at 1,250,000 cubic feet daily, and oil in 65 minutes on a subsequent 1½-hour test between 6,382-85 feet. Reversed and circulated out was 60 barrels of oil. Flowing pressure was 590-690 pounds; one-hour initial shut-in pressure was 2,580 pounds. Final shut-in pressure was unreported.

Cored from 6,524-66 feet, recovery was 17 feet of sand, five feet of shale and 1½ feet of very light shaly sand.

Cored from 6,566-90 feet, recovery was 12 feet of very tight shaly sand and 12 feet of shale.

Coring continued below 6,651 ft. Earlier gas flowed at the maximum rate of 21,000 cubic feet on a test between 6,327-40 feet; and at the rate of 18,000 cubic feet on a test between 6,328-365 feet. Recovery was 20 feet of gas-cut mud.

Post Script

City Secretary Lum Burk explains the reason for water pressure being off and on for a period last week.

Rust pits had developed in the large storage tank and a Dallas repair crew was called in to fix it. The tank was emptied for about half a day.

Property owners on west Warner Avenue apparently are working out an arrangement with the county and road contractors for extending and opening this street on over to the Mertzon highway.

Tons of dirt being excavated on Hwy. 277 are being hauled out and is being used to build up the low ground on West Warner. It is probable that some time in the future it may be calched and black-topped.

After serving as owners and publishers of the Devil's River News at Sonora for the past eight years, Mr. and Mrs. Stanton Bundy have sold out and are going back to running their ranch between Sonora and Junction. The new publisher is taking over the first of this new month of August.

We have always considered the Bundys good neighbors in the newspaper business.

John T. King, 28, former advertising manager of the Hondo Anvil-Herald, is new publisher of the Devil's River News.

When something bad happens it is usually accompanied by something good.

Since this severe drouth set in, I don't have to mow the lawn anymore.

Residents of Glendale are becoming a little concerned since motorists have started using their streets as a detour from Hwy. 277 over to the Mertzon Hwy.

You can swing through Glendale to Lawrence Steen's corner and then take North street on west to Mertzon Hwy., and then into town.

The only trouble is that streets in Glendale are narrow and winding and have more small children to the block than any other place in town. Cars parallel-parked along the curbs makes the route still narrower. Now truckers have discovered this convenient by-pass and there have been instances where some have high-balled their way through these narrow streets a little too fast.

No accidents there as yet, but some careless driving has been reported to the sheriff, and he is taking steps to control the situation.

Just take it slow and easy if you have to go through Glendale. Those streets weren't made for speeding.

J. C. Wells has moved from Route 1, Eldorado, to San Angelo where he is at home at 2461 Dena Drive.

News of the Sick

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Wilson visited Mrs. Wilson's brother, Mr. and Mrs. Jack L. Smith in San Angelo Sunday. Mrs. Wilson reported that her brother's 6-week-old baby girl, Patti Sue, had been very ill with a heart condition but is now responding to treatment and is improving nicely.

Little Regina Haines of Odessa, granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. N. Clark, will undergo ear surgery and a tonsillectomy soon. Plans were made for the operation today but were canceled when she contracted a slight cold.

INTERRUPTION IN TELEPHONE SERVICE

REPAIRS are shown under way at the intersection of the Angelo and Menard highways Monday afternoon after a truck struck a telephone pole. The mishap set off the fire siren, interrupted telephone service over town, and knocked out the San Angelo to Del Rio telephone circuits. Things were back to normal by Tuesday morning.

Lost Pines A Mystery

College Station.—Every plant and animal has a natural habitat and few survive for very long in conditions unfavorable to their growth. This is why the Lost Pines of Central Texas are a mystery to naturalists, says Bill Smith, extension forester at Texas A&M College.

The Lost Pines, located principally in Bastrop, Caldwell, Colorado, and Fayette counties, are isolated 50 to 100 miles west of the main pine area of East Texas, he says. They are growing in areas where the annual rainfall is about 35 inches or nearly five inches less than the minimum moisture required by the pines in East Texas.

One explanation for these "oddballs" of the forest growing in scattered blocks of Austin, is that many centuries ago the area had a higher rainfall which encouraged the pines' spread into Central Texas, says Smith. When the rainfall dropped to its present level, a few of the more drought resistant trees stayed and reseeded themselves, producing the Lost Pine area.

Another idea suggests that these pines grow in soils with great water holding capacity and extended into the Austin area from East Texas. Then, by the clearing of land, the pines were left isolated in the Austin area.

Smith says that the Lost Pines played an important role in the history of Texas. Lumber from this region was used to build the original State Capitol Building and other structures in Austin, San Antonio and throughout the state. The pines are continuing to contribute to Texas, he says. They are being used as foundation stock for drought resistant strains of pine, their raw materials are still used in the state's industries, and thousands annually enjoy recreation among these curious Lost Pines.

FRANK O'BANIONS VACATION IN DENVER

Mr. and Mrs. Frank O'Banion and baby and Mrs. O'Banion's mother and sister, Mrs. Dan Applin and Ruth Applin enjoyed a wonderful trip to the cool mountains of Colorado on their vacation. On the way to Denver they visited relatives at Amarillo and the DuBose family. Making headquarters at Mrs. O'Banion's brother-in-law and sister's home, Lt. and Mrs.

Read Miner in Denver, they made several trips in various directions sight-seeing. While there they attended the First Baptist church in Denver, which is a young church in membership and small, but with an eye to the future, had purchased a large Jewish synagogue to use for their downtown church.

After spending a few days in Cross Plains and last Friday night in San Antonio, they returned home Saturday ready for work again.

ELDORADO LODGE

WHAT BIRD IS THIS?

One of the ugliest and yet most useful creatures of the bird world is the Turkey Vulture, better known as a buzzard. The significance of the Turkey Vulture in nature is a result of his eating habits. Not only does he eat the carcasses of dead animals, but also his digestive system is capable of destroying some of the most lethal bacteria. His system, for example, can kill the bacteria which produce anthrax and hog cholera.

The Turkey Vulture (Cathartes aura) is a member of the family Cathartidae, which consists of six species of which the Turkey Vulture and the Black Vulture can be found here. The Cathartidae are large, black birds which soar high in the air, looking for carrion, the main constituent of their diets. The carrion eating habit is made imperative by the absence of strong talons in the vultures. They are thus unable to kill anything of substantial size. As a matter of fact, vultures usually prefer carrion that is a few days old and has been softened by decay.

The Turkey Vulture, like other vultures, has a bare head. In good light, the head of a mature buzzard shows up a ghastly, death-red. The biological significance of this adaptation is unknown to me, but it does seem somehow symbolic of the Turkey Vulture's place in nature. His relative, the Black Vulture, has a black head, white wing patches, and a shorter tail than the Turkey Vulture. The tail is the best mark for differing between the species. The Turkey Vulture is to be found at almost any place in Schleicher County while the Black Vulture stays very close to the eastern and northern limits. Often they fly together in flocks, in which case the Turkey Vulture usually finds the food and the Black Vulture moves in later to help eat it.

The Turkey Vulture's nest is not built in a tree; in fact, there is no such thing as a Turkey Vulture nest. Instead, the buzzard lays its eggs in a hollow, under a brush pile, or in some other protected place. The two eggs in the clutch are white with dark brown spots. When the young hatch they are little white fluffs and change only gradually as they mature. Finally in their second year they reach th mature black plumage and their bare heads turn deep blood red.

One of the most interesting things about the Turkey Vulture is the way it rides the thermals to the sky. A thermal, in brief, is an upward current of warm air. The buzzard may begin his early morning flight by finding one of these currents near the earth. He then soars upon it in ever-increasing circles until he reaches the top. Often these flights may cover a period of several hours without even one flap of his six-foot wings. His wings are especially modified so that they are held above his body in an open V to produce the best soaring with the least effort.

Remember when you see your next buzzard that he is a very useful and specialized animal. But one word of warning is in order: The Turkey Vulture often swoops up from a roadside and may fly directly toward an oncoming car. For your own safety, it is a good idea to slow down as you approach a Vulture feeding on the highway. He is, after all, a large creature and is quite gangly and slow when he is near the earth. For that reason he can present a danger even though he is an indispensable part of nature's cycle.

'Candidate' Winner
In Suspense Movies

Showing Sunday and Monday nights at the Eagle Drive-In Theatre will be "The Manchurian Candidate" which has to do with Communist brain-washing of American prisoners in Korea, a Red spy apparatus in America, the murder of a good and honorable U. S. senator and his lovely daughter, and, for a while, a plot to shoot down the Warren G. Harding type presidential candidate nominated by the Republicans at Madison Square Garden.

Sen. John Iselin, who alleges there are 57 varieties of Communists in the Defense Department — a number chosen from a Heinz catsup bottle—might as well have been called Sen. Joseph McCarthy.

These elements in the new Eagle picture are calculated to make you feel deeply and to react in emotional violence.

The story, a whodunit fantasy on Communist brainwashing, and the sort of Red-baiting associated with the late Sen. Joe McCarthy, was to be wildly suspenseful, extravagantly amused at Communist espionage, sharply satirical of both our side and theirs.

From all accounts, "The Manchurian Candidate" is a Grade A picture from witty or daringly iconoclastic script to visual suspense. Is it still a frolic or has the turn of world events killed the laughs?

Does the situation retain its far-fetched unreality? With pungent documentary flavor it tells of a squad of Americans captured in Korea by the Chinese Reds and given a dose of brainwashing that will turn them into tools for the Communist capture of the United States. Hypnotism, not so named, and other mystiques of the Orient do the job.

The Americans are patriots at heart, but helpless against the devices. Most dangerous now is Laurence Harvey, who can be ordered to kill or publish the Red propaganda line. His stepfather is a Communist-baiting senator, aspiring to the presidency. His mother, subsequently revealed as a top Red spy, eggs him on which is, in effect, divisive and not patriotic.

Sinatra symbolizes the other victims of the "treatment." His Freudian subconsciousness haunts him with memories of the good life. Eventually he breaks the spell—only in the nick of time.

The picture has its murders, suicides, and repeated views of an intended high victim in Washington through a telescopic gunsight.

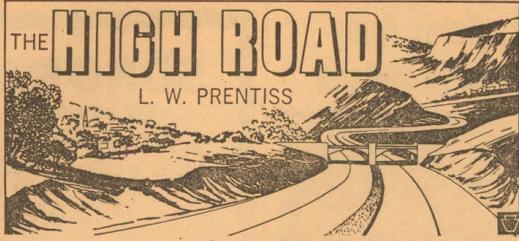

The script is by George Axelrod, a practiced Broadway and Hollywood playwright, and is worthy. His contrivance of suspense as Harvey sights a gun on the candidate is first-class. John Frankenheimer, the director, is also capable and, to his credit, his approach is to work "The Manchurian Candidate" from the traumatic surrealism of its opening scene into reality with a documentary flavor. It is persuasive down to the last epitaph spoken by Harvey.

The expertness of the employment of this material is universally admitted.

The "message" if any is "A plague on both your houses." It projects the fantastic absurdity of the Communist-triggered coup, the clownish figure of the senator, the extreme unlikelihood that the figure of the senator's wife would be head of the Communist apparatus, the slow triumph of the human element over sinister therapy, the ultimate triumph of the right as well as "truth will out" when the plot can't wait any longer.

The Age of Private Transportation

"Get the farmer out of the mud" was the battle cry of the highway program in the 1920's and 1930's. In the early days of the automobile age, a paved road outside the limits of a city or incorporated town was rare enough to be a curiosity.

Today, almost 70 percent of the 3,127,225 miles of rural roads in the United States have some kind of surfacing. A substantial amount of the remaining non-surfaced road mileage is so little traveled that paving is not justified; nevertheless, much remains to be done before we can claim a complete all-weather road system in the United States.

Nowadays, however, "getting the farmer out of the mud" is one among many objectives of the national highway program. The automobile and the truck have become such an integral part of American life that good highway transportation is essential to the success of almost every activity. Industries, schools, churches and shopping centers share the farmer's vital concern with the highway program. Commuters get stuck in urban traffic jams more often than farmers get stuck in the mud.

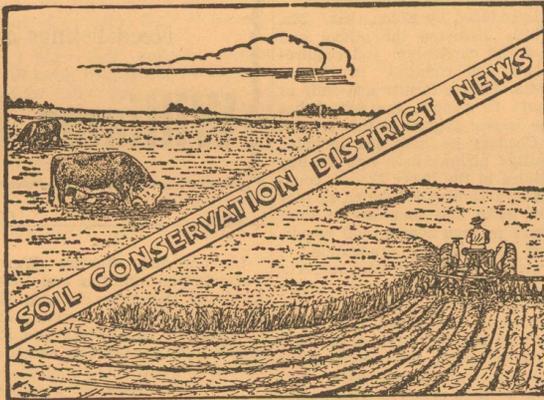

The essentiality of highway transportation to the national economy and the national defense is reflected in the Federal-aid highway program, which has assisted the States in the improvement of their highway networks since 1916.

Federal-aid expenditures for highways, increasing in line with the increase in highway travel, now approximate $3 billion per year, all of which is collected by means of special taxes on highway users, chiefly the 4c-per-gallon Federal tax on gasoline.

These special tax receipts are allocated by Congress to four categories of Federal-aid highway expenditures: (1) aid to the State primary, or trunk-line, highways, (2) aid to farm-to-market roads, (3) aid for the improvement of city arterial streets and expressways and (4) aid in the construction of the 41,000-mile National System of Interstate and Defense Highways, the new system of coast-to-coast interconnected expressways designed to meet our defense needs and to serve as the backbone for our total highway network. The Federal government pays 90% of the construction cost of the Interstate highways and 50% on other Federal-aid highways.

State, local and Federal officials are all working together to coordinate their highway construction activities, recognizing that the roads are economic and social lifelines which are the key to better living for all of us.

Farmers of the Eldorado-Divide S. C. D. will soon know what the yield of their maize will be this year. Some have already started combining and others will begin soon. The overall yield of maize, cotton and hay crops are expected to be better than last year, throughout the entire district.

Crop yields are effected by many factors. One of these important factors is the amount of water that is available for plant use. The amount of rain varies from year to year. The amount received in the best years is not so high that we should waste any of it. First the rain must come to supply the water needs of crops, and then the water must be held on the land for crop use. How much it rains is important but the water that is kept on the land for crop use is more important.

The rain received thus far, has mostly been of low intensity whereby most of the water went into the soil with little runoff. Some areas have received rainfall in the amount and intensity that lots of water would have been lost, had it not been for soil, water and plant conservation practices on the land. Some crops were drowned out in lakes during the May rains, due to unterraced fields above them. Water that was lost from fields above lakes is critically needed now by the crops that is growing on them.

The evidence of terraced and contoured fields yielding more than fields without contouring or terraces has been present since the first of these were applied. This year is no exception. Crops throughout the entire district on terraced and contoured fields are considered to be at least 25% better immediately above the terraces, by district co-operators. Peyton Cain states, "My crops are at least 25% better where the water was held by terraces." Cain has been a cooperator with the Eldorado-Divide S. C. D. since April of 1960. He moved on the place in June, 1961. All terraces that were needed were completed by January 4th of last year. Very little rainfall during 1962 and Peyton did not get a good tryout on his terraces until May of this year. The good rains in May, which totaled 4.7 inches stood lots of water above the terraces. Only 1.2 inches of rain has been received by Cain, since the May rains. Peyton stated, "I need a good rain now to finish this year's crop. If I do get a good 3 to 5 inch rain, I can rest assured that my terraces and contour rows will hold it on the land for crop use."

All the needed soil, water, and plant conservation practices are planned and are being applied as scheduled on Cain's cropland. In addition to the crop residue that will be left by the residue producing crops, Peyton plans to apply cotton burs on some of his land this year.

The number one conservation practice, in most cases, should be to hold all the water where it falls. Next in importance would be to get the water into the soil as soon as possible. This is necessary to prevent damage to crops by water staying on the surface too long. Last, but not least, the soil should be kept in a good condition whereby the water is available for plant use and not lost by evaporation. These conditions can be achieved only by applying and maintaining all the needed soil, water and plant conservation practices to the land.

Whitis Addresses Lions

"Education Is My Business" was theme of a talk given by School Supt. A. M. Whitis at the meeting yesterday of the Lions club.

Introduced by Eldon Calk, Mr. Whitis discussed the school and how the curriculum and requirements had changed in recent years. With a faculty and staff of about 59 people, the school has the largest payroll in this county.

Changes he discussed included putting phonics back into reading classes in the lower grades, counseling incoming Freshmen so they can make maximum use of their years in high school, and requiring 18 units for graduation, of which 16 have to be solid subjects.

Our local school pays faculty members more than schools immediately east of us, Mr. Whitis pointed out, but pay less than oil-rich schools to the west and the schools on the Texas coast.

C. J. Hahn presided. The printed rosters for the 1963-64 year were distributed.

Mrs. D. K. Neal and children of Midland came in last Thursday to visit her mother, Mrs. Ruth Williams and sister, Mrs. Marvin McAngus and family. She and her family and Mrs. Williams and the McGinty girls, Melina and Diana, went to San Antonio Friday where they visited relatives. Returning to Eldorado Saturday afternoon they continued their visit until Tuesday.

Visiting the W. D. Hubbles and the Jimmy HARRIS last Friday were Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Sutherland of Monahan, Mr. and Mrs. B. R. Sutherland of Andrews, Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Bell and family of Odessa. Miss Melissa Sutherland of Monahan spent last week and this week visiting here.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Robinson and family are on vacation this week.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Albert McGinnis over the week end were Mr. and Mrs. Ben Brooks of Tennyson, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Brooks and daughter Beverly and a friend, Lynn Alexander, of Sterling City, and Karen and Cynthia Hamilton of Phoenix, Arizona. Karen and Cynthia remained for the week to visit while the others returned to their homes.

New Flavors Spark Tomato Juice

You can retain the sun-ripened goodness of this year's tomato crop if you will devote a few hours to making and canning fresh tomato juice. It will taste mighty good come winter.

High in vitamins, low in calories, tomato juice can cost you as little as 6 to 12 cents a quart. The cost depends upon the source of the tomatoes.

Tomato juice is an excellent substitute for sweet, bottled drinks for children. Let them play at mixing, making their own choice of seasoning—and they'll learn to love it. Tomato juice is a boon to weight watchers, too, for a cupful adds up to only 50 calories.

Prepare your juice without seasoning, and stow it away. When you plan to use it, take down a jar or two several hours in advance of serving time. That's the time to add the seasoning, or combination of seasonings, your favorite taste tantalizers—dill, garlic, herbs or sautes. Then put into the refrigerator to chill while the seasonings mellow. Be adventurous—try curry, chili powder, mint or sage. It's fun to experiment, and variety, too, adds spice.

Tomato juice is easy to make at home. One bushel (53 lbs.) of sound tomatoes will make 12 to 16 quarts of juice.

The principles are simple—wash, rinse, drain, core and quarter red-ripe tomatoes. Simmer in covered kettle until soft, then put through food mill or sieve to remove seeds and skins. Reheat juice almost to boiling and pour to within one-quarter inch of the top of fruit jars. You may, if you like, add one teaspoon of salt to each quart. Put dome lids on jars, screw bands tight, and process in boiling water bath canner. Pints require 10 minutes, quarts 15 minutes.

CATTLEMEN'S CO-OPERATION URGED TO RECERTIFY COUNTY IN BRUCELLOIS DEAL

By W. G. GODWIN

Mondays and Tuesdays have been assigned this county by Agricultural Research Service, Animal Disease Eradication Division for brucellosis recertification. Additional days can be allotted during August and September should producers turn their request into the county agent's office or members of the county livestock committee.

September 30th has been set for completion of re-certification by the Animal Health Division. Authorization for money to retest for recertification expires Sept. 30.

Upon completion of certifying the county November 14, 1960, there were found 17 "suspect" herds and 15 "reactor" herds.

These herds were cleared by producers as per regulations by the Animal Health Division, Schleicher County becoming a modified certified brucellosis county. All breeding cows will have to be retested in these herds before recertification can be granted. In addition 20% of the cows age 30 months or older will have to be tested in 49 representative herds in the county.

If required testing is not accomplished within the required month the county will be removed from modified certified list and this information distributed nationwide. This means that many $'s will be lost. Cows and heifers moving to market will have to be blood tested unless heifers have been vaccinated. This adds up to time, labor and money spent in getting health certificates for breeding stock moving to and from the county.

The Livestock Committee of the county with the co-operation of Agricultural Research Service has initiated recertification at an early date so there will be no danger of the county losing its certified status—realizing that work and other unforeseen difficulties such as weather conditions could delay recertification by waiting too long to start.

Those producers co-operating with brucellosis testing to recertify the county as of July 30, 1963:

- J. W. Callis
- Mrs. L. L. and Lawrence Dannheim
- C. O. Bruton
- E. V. Gibson
- Thompson & Lawton
- R. D. Johnson
- Russell Sallee
- John Mayo
- Bradley & McCravey
- Frank Bradley
- E. L. Dyer
- Floyd Emmons
- Jackson, Moore & Neill
- Jesus Minor
- B. F. Blaylock

- Gerald Hartgraves
- W. W. Sudduth

- Henry Speck, Jr.
- Mrs. J. F. Oglesby
- Jim O'Harrow
- James R. Duncan
- James Kessler
- Howard Derrick
- S. M. Oglesby & Bob
- Agnes Crosby
- Albert Thigpen

It will take co-operation by recertify the county by producers to keep the county "clean" of brucellosis and the traffic of cattle moving under health regulations and this can be done by:

1. Notify the county agent or committee member when spraying or working cattle so arrangements can be made with the animal research division to take blood samples.

2. Blood samples should be taken from breeding cow 30 months or older, and preferably from cows 3 years and older.

3. Should your herd have had "suspect" or reactors prior to November 14, 1960 (modified certified count) blood samples from all cows will have to be taken.

4. A minimum of 20% is required of cows 30 months and over if not a "suspect or reactor" herd prior to November 14, 1960.

All expense is paid by the animal disease eradication division.

Calfhood vaccination is authorized in those herds tested if accomplished at the time of testing. Should a reactor be found in your herd the sale of feeder calves and delivery is not affected. Reactors are tested 90-120 days after date of detection from blood sample in the laboratory.

I know that producers answer will be in the affirmative supported by action and co-operation in this endeavor and will be looking forward to the goal, Recertification of a Modified Certified Brucellosis County.

On Aircraft Carrier

USS Constellation (fhtnc)—Jose Vasquez, a fireman, USN, son of Sylvestre Vasquez of Eldorado, Texas, is serving aboard the attack aircraft carrier USS Constellation, a Seventh Fleet unit, which recently participated in a joint U.S.-Republic of Korea amphibious exercise dubbed "Operation Flagpole" and conducted near Seoul, Korea.

The training exercise involved 67 ships plus numerous Marine air and ground units of both nations.

It ended June 28 as U. S. and Korean Marines secured their last objectives after four days shore combat amid driving rain.

"Flagpole" is similar to other operations periodically conducted by Seventh Fleet units with armed forces of Far Eastern countries to improve proficiency in amphibious maneuvers. It is aimed also at maintaining close working relationships between allied nations.

It consisted of a mock invasion force gaining limited control of parts of the Republic of Korea and requiring action by American and Korea forces to destroy the enemy and restore governmental control.

The Constellation normally operates out of San Diego, Calif.

Mrs. J. N. Clark of Rotan is visiting her son, Mr. and Mrs. C. N. Clark for a week or two.

RETURNING RECENTLY from Girl Scout Camp at Brownwood were these four local girls: Geannie Newport, Claudia Meador, Peggy Hill, and Marchia Gault. They spent nearly two weeks in the camp.

A United Fund Drive For Eldorado?

The Eldorado Lions club recently brought up the idea of co-sponsoring, with the Schleicher County Chamber of Commerce and other civic clubs and groups, a United Fund Drive in which all charity drives would be combined. Towns and cities which conduct such drives hold them during the month of October, in order to take advantage of national publicity on T-V and in magazines all urging Community Chest support.

The advantages of a united drive are cited as several, the foremost being cutting down on the multiplicity of drives throughout the year.

Here in Eldorado, the late fall has been the time of putting on a combined Boy Scout and Girl Scout fund drive. In January comes the March of Dimes with its Mothers March; February is when the Heart Fund drive is put on; the month of March has been the traditional time for a Red Cross fund drive, although no formal drive for that organization has been put on in this county in some years; April is the month of the Cancer Crusade.

Many of the same canvassers are put to work in all of these drives, and they no doubt would like to work on one all-inclusive drive put on once a year.

October is deemed the best time for a United drive because the time is far enough ahead of Christmas and income tax expenses to put less strain on family budgets. Slogans of recent years have included "A Day's Pay, the American Way" and "Give Once For All."

A few charitable organizations, notably the National Foundation which puts on the March of Dimes drive each January, have resisted participating in combined drives claiming that contributors should have the privilege of deciding which worthy causes they wish to support. Then too, they doubtless raise more money in their own drive than being allocated a portion of a united fund.

When a United Fund drive is conducted in a town, a central committee is set up to determine an overall goal to be raised, and how much of the money thus taken in should be allocated to each of the various causes. They set up the machinery for canvassing the territory, both for special gifts and for smaller contributions.

Today is the first of August. If a United Fund drive is to be conducted in Eldorado in October, the Lions club and Chamber of Commerce will need to get busy at once and set up the necessary central committee to map out details; the month of October is now just two months away.

ELDORADOANS TO PAISANO

Several Eldoradoans are attending the encampment at Paisano near Alpine this week. This is the oldest Baptist encampment in Texas. It was organized many years ago by West Texas cowboys and is still operated in true western atmosphere and spirit. Paisano provides a week of spiritual inspiration and enjoyment for all who attend.

Among those who attend from here are Mr. and Mrs. Fred Watson, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Blaylock, Mr. and Mrs. Weldon Davis, Marilyn and Carolyn Wilson who went with the Blaylocks and Davises; Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Ratliff; and Mr. and Mrs. T. P. Robinson and family.

Y. W. A. GIRLS HONOR SUNDAY SCHOOL CLASS

The Young Woman's Auxiliary of the First Baptist church, consisting of girls from 16 through 18 years old, honored the Mary Martha Sunday school class last Tuesday night at the home of their leader, Mrs. Roy Phelps.

The 14 guests were presented small corsages on arrival and led to the back yard where the lovely salad supper and home made ice cream were served. Mrs. W. N. Ramsey gave the invocation.

After the supper the girls presented a program on city missions. Pat Rogers gave the devotional and the girls gave various parts on the program. Miss Ginger Newby, a guest of Diane Hext, from Ballinger, also gave a part.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

Mrs. Jimmy Harris honored her son with a party on his second birthday last Monday, July 29, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Harris.

The center of attraction was the cake which was shaped like a football field with decorated goal posts at each end; one end being decorated in green and white and the other in red and white. Happy birthday was spelled out between in green letters flanked by two candies.

Guests besides Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Harris and Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Harris were Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Harris, Mrs. R. W. King, Jacky, Arlene, Richard and Gina Harris Shirley and Stella Hubble and Melissa Sutherland of Monahans. Cake Kool Aid and ice cream was served.

MRS. WILLIAMS HONORS GRAND DAUGHTERS

Mrs. Ruth Williams honored her grand daughters with a swimming party followed by a coke party last Thursday afternoon from 3 to 7 p. m. Honored were Melina and Diana McGinty who were visiting here from San Antonio for the week. Other grand daughters were Jo Helen Neal and Lessie Neal of Midland and Lisa McAngus of Eldorado. Others attending were Misses Marilyn and Carolyn Wilson; Martha Sue and Mary Ann Page and a cousin, Molly Martin of Abilene, who was visiting them; Mickey Phelps, Norma Kay Mund, Paula Mace and Judy Davidson.

DOUBLE BIRTHDAYS

Mr. and Mrs. Sam McGinnes had all their children together over the week end to celebrate Mrs. McGinnes' and Elton McGinnes' birthdays which were Saturday and Sunday. The ones from out of town were Mr. and Mrs. Walter Low and three children from Lamesa and Mr. and Mrs. Floyd McGinnes and son of Crosbyton; and a grand daughter, Lynda McGinnes who is spending the summer in Crosbyton.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Faulk and children, Janice and Sherrill, visited Mr. Faulk's step-father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Ratliff, from Sunday until Tuesday. They were en route home after vacationing in Yellowstone National Park. While here they toured the Sonora Caverns.

Jury Duty Provides Valuable Experience

Jury duty is an experience everybody ought to have.

In a criminal case 12 jurors have a duty to do justice as each one sees it, and yet be unanimous. In most trials both sides have much to say, and the evidence is conflicting. The 12 jurors vary in their ability, temperament, character, education, and their experience in the world and in the question at stake.

Yet a jury made up of both sexes, with wide age and educational differences, jobs and origins must all come up with the same verdict. Upon their verdict much depends—the life or liberty of others, and the public good. So it may take them days of talking among themselves, all to agree.

Jury duty calls for insight, common sense, courage, tact, fair-mindedness, patience, (especially toward the jurors who disagree with you), good humor, tolerance, balance, willingness to hear others out and change one's mind, readiness to go over and over the facts to find something to bring agreement. In short, jury duty demands a "decent respect for the opinions" of others.

More and more women share civic duties, especially as jurors.

Time was in Texas when women could not serve on juries. They still cannot in four states.

A jury finds facts. It hears and weighs evidence and then comes to a verdict. It does not make the law—the legislature does; and the judge "charges" or instructs the jury concerning the law applicable to the particular case it is considering.

The judge will tell you not to find the accused guilty until he is proved so under strict rules of evidence. If you have any "reasonable doubt"—not imaginary or far-fetched—acquit the accused.

Civil cases do not demand a moral certainty, merely the "preponderance" of what you regard as reliable and believable evidence.

Mr. and Mrs. James Gregory and children from Streetman, Texas, are visiting the Vernon Rogers family this week. They and the Rogers will leave tomorrow to attend the Rogers family reunion at Portales, New Mexico, Saturday and Sunday. While in New Mexico, Mr. and Mrs. Rogers and son, Donald will visit Mr. Rogers' mother, Mrs. Walter Rogers, at Portales, and Mrs. Rogers' parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Sloan at Lovington, then continue their vacation for about two weeks.

Editorial Comments From Our Neighbors

Regaining of lost population is reported as a slow process at Menard:

Has Menard made a comeback from the drought? Has the town grown since the 1960 census?

Most people will answer yes to both questions, but the best index to growth indicates that getting back the population lost between 1950 and 1960 will be a long, tedious proposition.

During the last three years, for example, Menard has gained an estimated 38 persons—less than .02 of one per cent.

If the town continues to gain population at the same rate, it will be the year 2019 before it regains the population it had in 1950. That is 53 years away.—The Menard News.

Do you read Shakespeare? Whether you do or not, you probably quote him frequently. For example here are a few common expressions which most everyone uses:

"Not so hot." "There's the rub." "Brevity is the soul of wit." "There is a method in his madness." "Into thin air." "Neither rhyme nor reason." "Thereby hangs a tale." "There is something in the wind." "I'll tell the world." "With bated breath." "All that glitters is not gold." "Bag and baggage." "Eaten out of house and home." "Birds of a feather." "It's Greek to me." All of these are from Shakespeare's plays, which proves that the old master of the drama was quite a hand at coining a phrase with a long life. —Ben Oglesby in the Bronte Enterprise.

I tell you there ought to be a law again making those paraffin ice do-dads filled with syrup. The kids buy them, suck the syrup out, and then throw the paraffin down on the sidewalks. The hot (and I do mean hot) sun melts the wax, making a person slide and nearly fall on our downtown sidewalks. Just now going to the Postoffice, I nearly slide, as Dizzy Dean says, on these booby traps two or three times. I sure would hate to fall and break my run-it on a little old piece of paraffin—if I go down, I want it to be over something worthwhile. —Ferne Graycey in the Iran News.

Yeah, and I can remember when it was the custom to chew the paraffin for half a day; it was a cheap substitute for chewing gum.

A proposed atomic test ban, and a move to scrap our restrictions on admission of immigrants, topped the news in Washington last week.

The test ban treaty, which must be ratified by the U. S. Senate to be effective, would commit us, Britain, and the Soviet Union not to set off atmospheric tests. It does not apply to underground testing.

While the objectives are laudable, the value of this agreement must, in the final analysis, depend upon the extent of good faith on the part of the Russians. For they can continue atmospheric tests, without fear of detection, if such tests stay below one kiloton capacity. Our detection techniques simply will not reveal the light weight tests fired in the atmosphere. That is the view of Dr. Edward Teller, the father of the H-bomb and a highly respected authority.

"Such small tests," Teller wrote me recently, "could be decisive in developing missile defense, a field of utmost importance in which the Russians may already have a considerable lead."

Senate debate on ratification will be extensive, and every facet of the problem will be developed. Above everything, we must not lose sight of the fact that the Russians are still communists and are hell-bent on world domination. And up to this time they have never been known to keep faith with an international agreement, unless that course happens to suit their strategy.

President Kennedy proposed last week to scrap our quota system which restricts the admission of immigrants to this country. This system, which has been in effect for more than 40 years, limits the number of new immigrants from European countries and assigns to each country an annual quota based upon the proportionate number of Americans from those various nations, as of 1920.

Minority group pressures have been built up, calling for the scrapping of this quota protection. Certain racial groups from countries entitled to relatively small quotas, want the quota restrictions removed. Only in that way, they figure, can they hope to see more of their own racial group admitted. Hence, taking note of this pressure, and the political mileage involved, Truman, Eisenhower, and now Kennedy have plugged for the scrapping of our time-tested method of admitting new immigrants from Europe. Let's leave it like it is.

Mr. and Mrs. Ira Hudson of Lubbock came by and spent a night with his sister, Mrs. Ed Finnigan recently, en route to their home in Lubbock. Mrs. Finnigan went home with them and spent last week. The Hudsons had been vacationing in Austin and welcoming a new granddaughter.

Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Farris and son Tim vacationed last week at the Corpus State Park in Corpus Christi, traveled to various places in the valley and to Brownsville. They reported dry weather everywhere they visited.

Joe Smiths At Home Following Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Edwin Smith are at home here in Eldorado following their marriage Saturday, July 29, at 8:30 p.m. in the Fundamental Baptist church. The Rev. Johnny Griffith, pastor of the Assembly of God church, officiated at the ceremony.

Before her marriage, the bride was Miss Joyce Louise Massey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Massey of Center Point Texas. She was escorted to the altar by Houston Thigpen, uncle of the groom.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Smith are parents of the groom.

The bride wore a dress of white lace over white satin and carried a white Bible with an arrangement of white carnations and white roses with white ribbon.

Miss Helen Smith, sister of the groom, was the bride's attendant and Roger Thurman served as best man. Mrs. Kenneth Cheek provided the wedding music.

Following the wedding a reception was held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Woodward, Mr. Smith's grandparents. Miss Helen Smith served the wedding cake. Miss Ruth Ann Thigpen served punch and Miss Linda Smith registered the guests.

Tribal Law Is Recognized In Indian Cases

American Indians are the only 100 per cent native Americans. Indian matters come under Federal law and the terms of some 3,600 Indian treaties which are also the law of the land.

Thus long ago Rev. Samuel Worcester refused to take out a license, and to swear allegiance to the State of Georgia. When Georgia jailed him for not taking a loyalty oath, the U. S. Supreme Court freed him: The Court would allow no state to interfere in United States Indian affairs which our treaties governed.

In 1834 Congress set up the Bureau of Indian Affairs to make and carry out rules made under these treaties.

Until the Civil War, the Federal government regarded Indians as wards and dependent nations — foreign nations, yet under U. S. control. In 1871, however, Congress declared that Indian nations were no longer independent. Indians still ran their own affairs for the most part, as illustrated in a case titled "In Re Crow Dog."

In 1883 Crow Dog killed another Sioux for stealing a friend's wife. Crow Dog made amends under tribal law, and the tribe closed his case. Soon afterwards federal officers sought to try him for murder, but the Supreme Court said no; Such cases did come under tribal law and this one had been settled.

Shortly afterward Congress gave Federal courts jurisdiction over most criminal cases on Indian territories. Accordingly, just the other day, the U. S. Supreme Court invalidated the conviction of a California Indian for murder. He must face trial in a Federal court instead.

Indian tribal courts still try some criminal cases; and within the tribes, tribal law still holds. For example, they can tax and license traders on reservations.

Recently, a tribal adoption ceremony was confirmed even though it took place off the reservation. In another case the Federal courts recognized a tribal divorce by mere voluntary separation.

Austin—Texas Legislative Council, research agency for the Legislature, is in the curious position of being asked to take a close look at the ethical standards of its own boss.

Council, meeting in Austin, agreed on a proposed study of conflict of interest questions affecting state officials and employees. Gov. John Connally and Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr suggested the study as a result of investigations into the private business affairs of former Railroad Commissioner W. J. Murray Jr.

A Travis County grand jury found Murray innocent of any violation of criminal laws during his terms of office. Carr observed in a later report that the Murray case raised "a serious question of a conflict of interest" between official duties and private interests.

Carr's report said Murray grossed $1,700,000 during his 16 years on the Commission—most of it from oil and gas ventures. Attorney general recommended "adequate laws" to control "any deviations from (ethical) standards."

Council will be responsible for conducting research and investigation of possible conflict of interest cases among all State officials—including the lawmakers themselves—with a view toward "improving our present code of ethics."

More Republicans?
Another action by the Legislative Council had interesting "two-party" implications.

Rep. Bob Johnson of Dallas was named executive director of the Council, succeeding Read Granberry who died last year. Johnson has resigned his Dallas legislative post to accept the $15,500-a-year assignment—creating still another vacancy in the eight-man Dallas delegation to the House of Representatives.

This leaves only one Democrat. Rep. Ben Atwell, lined up against the six incumbent Republicans.

Dallas Republicans surprised themselves and stunned Democrats last year by winning all the legislative races they entered. Speculation then was that the three remaining Democrats on the Dallas House delegation—Reps. Johnson, Bob Hughes and Atwell—would be in for a rough 1964 general election should Dallas Republicans oppose them, and an even rougher time of it if Barry Goldwater were chosen to head the GOP ticket as presidential nominee.

Hughes recently resigned his legislative post to accept appointment to a judgeship. This caused more speculation about a possible 1964 election sweep by the Dallas Republican organization.

Johnson's resignation has intensified the "Republican sweep" fears.

Cram Course On Annexation
Texas Municipal League will conduct a special one-day "institute" in Austin on August 5. It will be a cram course for Texas municipal officials on the new law limiting city annexations.

William Olson, attorney for the League, will moderate a question-and-answer program, followed by a panel discussion featuring Mayor James McCrocklin of Kingsville, City Manager H. P. Clifton of Abilene, Planning Director William Anderson of Corpus Christi, and Steve Matthews, executive director of the League.

New law takes effect on August 23. But a provision in the Act requires that annexations pending or initiated after March 15 (1963) must meet terms set out in the measure. Furthermore these in-the-works annexations must be completed by November 23 or become null and void.

Rapid Eradicating
Few eradication programs have produced such prompt and effective results as the U. S. Department of Agriculture's screwworm eradication plan.

A year ago scientists and field workers started the "saturation" release of sterilized flies to conquer screwworm population explosion.

Texas Animal Health Commission reported only 28 screwworm cases confirmed in a 5-day period—as opposed to nearly 3,000 cases recorded during a comparable period in 1962.

As further encouragement, the Commission noted that of last week's 28 reported cases, only five were in areas where the program's "controls" were in full effect.

How To Be A Commissioner
Frank Miskell, Texas' first Regulatory Loan Commissioner, is faced with the massive task of creating the agency.

Since state office buildings are filled his first job is finding office space.

Another immediate problem concerns selection of a deputy commissioner. He will assume much of the detailed work involved in establishing a budget and an organizational plan, setting salaries for employees, hiring employees from the third-ranking executive down to the secretarial pools and file clerks, purchasing office equipment and furnishings, and so on.

Miskell still hopes to have the agency set up by August 23. That is the effective date of the new law governing the licensing and practices of lending firms who charge more than 10% interest.

A flood of applications is expected from Texas loan companies seeking licenses and inquiring about specific provisions in the new lending regulations.

Prosperity, Or Whatever It Is
Texas merchants continue to operate at a high level of retail sales volume.

Total retail sales show no dramatic increases. But the level for the first six months of this year is about 2% over the January to June period.

According to the UT Bureau of Business Research, Fort Worth and Austin are in the lead with increases of 6%. Dallas is next with 3% improvement, followed by San Antonio with plus 1%.

Cities recording disappointing half-year sales were El Paso, minus 1%, and Houston, with no change from the 1962 averages.

BAPTIST CIRCLE MEETINGS
Miss Paula Mace, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Mace, taught the first chapter of the new mission study book, a biography of Miss Annie Armstrong by Elizabeth Marshall Evans, to two circles of the WMU of the First Baptist church last Monday afternoon.

The Kuykendall circle met at the home of Mrs. J. H. Mace with 7 members present, while the Van Dusen circle met at Mrs. L. T. Wilson's. After the business session the Van Dusen circle of 8 members and a visitor, Mrs. Ruth Williams, went to the Mace home for the mission study lesson, which Paula graciously taught.

Mrs. Mace served pound cake topped with fresh peaches, and ice cream and tea to the members of both circles and guests, her daughter Paula and Mrs. Williams.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Lynn Doyle came through Eldorado Monday on their way home to Lubbock, after visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Dickson of McCamey and had dinner with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Doyle.

Every time we've ever spoken with United States Senator Ralph W. Yarborough the conversation has almost immediately turned to the Civil War.

The senior senator from Texas is a reader of this column and has been almost since it began nearly three years ago. He is a member of the National Civil War Centennial Commission, an avid Civil War buff and a descendant of two members of the Good-Douglas battery of Civil War fame.

We visited briefly with the senator on Monday night (July 22) following his address to the Bartlett Electric Cooperative at their annual meeting in Bartlett, and, sure enough, the conversation turned almost immediately to the Civil War and to old Wyalucing in particular.

Readers of this column will recall that last year, we enlisted the aid of the senator in trying to save the old building at Tyler from being razed. Senator Yarborough said at that time, "It would be like San Antonio letting someone tear down the Alamo" when the old building was about to be wrecked.

As many will recall, we were not successful in our campaign, but we'll venture that we caused those responsible for tearing it down and those who let it be torn down to stop and think.

But about the senator's Rebel kinsmen—There were three Yarboroughs who served in the Good-Douglas battery, including two kinsmen of the senator. The unit was the only Texas artillery outfit to serve east of the Mississippi River and participated in 25 engagements.

It was organized in 1861 and commanded by Captain J. J. Good of Dallas County and 1st Lt. J. P. Douglas, an attorney from Tyler. About half the men in the battery were from Tyler and the other half from Dallas.

Senator Yarborough, whom J. Frank Dobie calls "probably the best read man Texas ever sent to Washington," was born in Henderson county near Tyler and it perhaps is natural that his interest in what he habitually calls "The War Between the States" should lead him into a study of the unit in which his ancestors served—the Good-Douglas battery.

He has recounted some of the escapades of the battery for both the Houston Civil War Round Table and for the Chicago Civil War Round Table at its meeting earlier this year in Richmond. He has also delved into his family's history in connection with the battery and told us recently that he was keeping a part of this history in Washington and part in Austin in hopes that he can put it all down in good form some day.

The senator has promised to share some findings with this columnist when he finds time from the press of his office to put the information together and we'll pass it along to our readers in this space at that time.

While in Gettysburg for the Centennial of that momentous battle, we picked up two or three paperback books concerning the battle, the battlefield today and the town that we recommend to our readers both because of their value for historical research and as interesting reading and because they are not readily available in this area. They may, however, be ordered from The Bookmart, Gettysburg, Pennsylvania, the publisher and distributor of most of them.

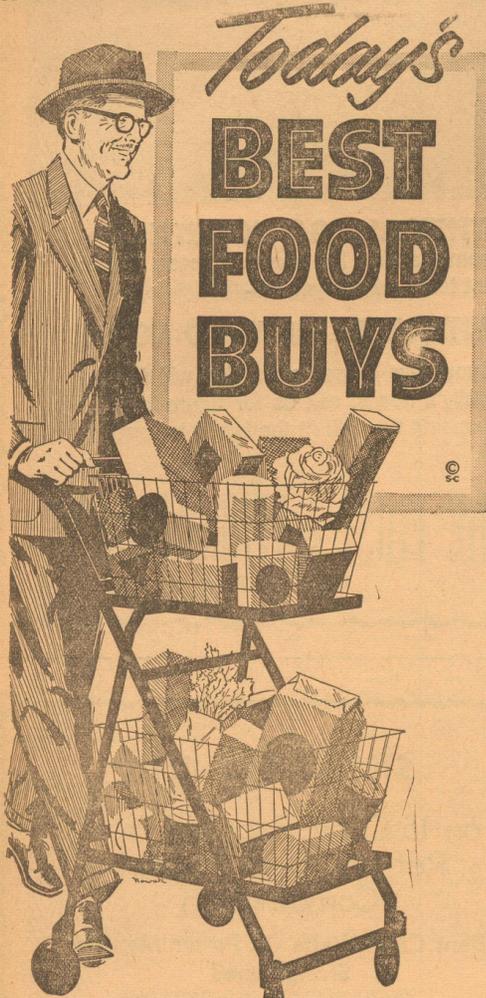

The titles and authors include "Gettysburg, What They Did Here" by L. W. Minnich; "Human Interest Stories of the Three Days' Battles at Gettysburg" by Herbert L. Grimm and Paul L. Roy; and "The Story of Gettysburg in Pictures."
