Dear Editor,

One of the things we must do if we have any hopes of securing the Olympic Games is to stage major sporting events in town to show we are capable. I'd like to announce one such preparatory event to be held next winter at the same time as the Iditarod to show we are in tune with events around the world. I wanted to announce it now so local drivers could be training their teams. Wheras their race features dogsleds racing across frozen snow and ice, our race will feature goats pulling their drivers 3K through town on wheeled devices. Teams may consist of any number of goats desired and the only rule for the sled/wagon/cart/ etc. is that it be non-motorized. Prizes will be awarded for the fastest, most comical, best costumed and most ingenuous rig. For more details on the ELDOTAROD, contact me at 853-2434.
