HAPPY GRAZING — These two horses seem to enjoy a lazy day of grazing during some of the cool, beautiful weather in Schleicher County recently. Grazing was especially good for them since recent rainfall helped the grass grow green and plentiful. The horses, like people, might better enjoy it now before Mother Nature turns calm, cool days into cold windy ones.

Just Talking

By NELL EDMISTON

We all think we're a little haywire some of the time, but here's something that really is haywire. It's called Haywire, the Universal Fix-It Kit.

Now I don't have one of these, but we did get a story about it and I thought I'd tell you about it, just for fun.

Along the same line as a pet rock, haywire is supposed to be a "novelty item with a distinctive country flavor," say its promoters. Supposedly, it is designed for "those of you who won't let a bad situation get you down."

It comes nestled in its own bed of hay and with an owners guide, which gives information on the care and feeding of Haywire. It sounds like it would be easy to care for — it uses dust particles for food and needs only an occasional oiling to keep it from squeaking when it breathes. The guide also tells you how to understand Haywire and how to teach it to do household chores.

Supposedly, it "is a good companion who will listen to problems with out offering advice and will never annoy neighbors."

I guess that may be alright, especially if it can do windows, and not complain when you burn its supper. But somehow I seem to think that anything that squeaks when it breathes might really and truly be haywire.

Here's something else we got in the mail you might think about. It is a list of projected prices in the years 1987 and 2001. IF the price trend for the last five years continues. This study was published in the Chicago Daily News.

According to the study, a car that sold for $3,000 in 1973 and for $5,000 in 1977 would sell for $105,000 in 2001. Higher priced cars that sold for $12,000 last year will be selling for $55,320 in 1987 and for $471,240 in 2001. Of course by then, they'll have all kinds of things in them besides the traditional AM/FM radios, stereos, tape players, and CB radios. By then they might have rollaway beds under the back seat and a portable kitchen tucked under the arm rest.

Average homes cost Americans $34,500 in 1973 and $54,000 in 1977. In 1987, they will cost $191,160 and in 2001, they might cost $1,134,000. Sunday newspapers might cost "only" $70.92 in the year 2001 as compared to $4.38 in 1987, $.60 in 1977 and $.30 in 1973.

A trip to the grocery store may be the cause for cardiac arrest in 2001 if this trend continues. A bar of soap would cost $61.12; a tube of toothpaste could cost $62.80, a rump roast for supper would cost $1.98 a pound, ground beef would cost $7.54 a pound, one pound of coffee would cost $39,642 and a small jar of jelly for your morning toast would cost $113.98.

It might just be, and I have thought this for a long time, that the only way that we can fight inflation is to go back to the good old days. It might just be that in the year 2001, we'll have a cow, a dozen chickens, a couple of pigs and a very large garden in our back yard. All of that, of course entails a lot of work and time, but it beats the heck out of trying to decide whether to break a $100 bill on either a bar of soap or a tube of toothpaste.

We may also go back to the horse and buggy days, literally. We might have to get all these antique buggies out of the antique shops and museums and put them to good use.

Of course, this is only a possibility and we all kind of feel that inflation will come to a halt. At least the politicians and economists say it will. If not, be ready to plant you a big garden and buy a horse and a cow.

Nelson Wolff To Visit Eldorado Tuesday

Nelson Wolff, candidate for U.S. Congress, will be honored at a coffee Tuesday morning. It will be at 7:30 a.m. in the Eldorado Restaurant.

According to a campaign spokeswoman, Lindsey Riggs, Wolff has made a three part plan for cutting taxes and controlling inflation. He is recommending that the next session of Congress act on a three year tax cut plan and then control federal spending in order that a balanced budget be reached by fiscal year 1982.

The first part of the plan calls for a $104 billion tax cut phased in over three years, with two-thirds of the cut targeted for individual tax payers. The remaining one-third of the cut would be designed to promote growth through increased private investment.

The second part calls for a savings over three years of $53 billion dollars in federal budget by cutting waste, inefficiency and fraud and by reducing the number of federal regulations. He believes these goals can be reached by implementing such measures as sunset legislation, a special fraud investigation task force within the justice department and greater congressional authority over spending programs.

The third part of the plan calls for a constitutional amendment requiring Congress to balance the budget except in the case of national emergencies. With the implementation of the tax cut and the savings in the federal budget, a balanced budget would be implemented by 1982, said Miss Riggs.

Wolff said his plan was made after studying a number of economic projections and proposals including Congressional budget offices, five year budget projections and the U.S. Chamber of Commerce plan for cutting taxes.

"Unlike other tax cut proposals, my proposal is an overall comprehensive plan that leads to a balanced budget by 1982. My proposal reduces the tax burden from 22 percent of the gross national product to 19.5 percent of the GNP."

Council Appoints Temporary Secretary

Sybil Blair was appointed temporary city secretary for Eldorado during a meeting of the City Council Tuesday night.

Mrs. Blair has been working for the city six years. She has been bookkeeper, utility clerk and helped the city secretary with city taxes.

The appointment came after the death of city secretary Phil Olson last week.

In other business, the council agreed to fence city property on Hill, Pecan, Poplar and Field Streets.

They also agreed to repair the ceiling in the fire station.

An insurance representative from Blue Cross and Blue Shield met with the council to renew the city's insurance policy. The renewal will feature additional coverage for city employees.

SWCD Members To Elect Zone V Director

An election for a director to serve Zone V on the Eldorado-Divide Soil and Water Conservation District Board will be Oct 12 on the Walter Pope Ranch on the old Fort McKavett-Sonora caliche road, announced Voy Lee Butts, chairman of the board.

The election will be held after a noon barbecue. A short tour of the Pope ranch will follow the election. Anyone planning to attend should contact either Jerry Swift at 853-2610 or Freddie Williams at 853-2720.

To be eligible to vote in a soil and water conservation district director's election, a person must own agricultural land within the subdivision where the election is being held. The person must also live in a county all or any part of which is in the district and the voter must be 21 years old.

A candidate for the office of a soil and water conservation district director must own land in the zone he represents, be 21 years old and be actively engaged in farming or ranching. He must also live in a county all or part of which is in the district.

Zone V of the district includes an area from a line beginning at Eldorado and including all of Schleicher County east of Highway 277 except an area southeast of Eldorado between the road and the Cooper Gas Field Road.

Current members of the board of directors of the Eldorado-Divide SWCD are Voy Lee Butts of Christoval, chairman; Steve Williams of Eldorado, vice chairman; De Lux of Eldorado, secretary; Walter Pope of Sonora and Herman Allen of Christoval.

Purpose of the SWCD is to promote sound soil and water conservation programs on farm and ranch lands within the district and to serve as a voice for farmers and ranchers on conservation matters and other issues affecting private property rights of landowners.

The district board of directors coordinates the conservation efforts of various local, state and federal agencies and other organizations and has authority to enter into working agreements with these agencies and private concerns to carry out its purposes.

All conservation programs managed by the district are of a voluntary nature to the landowner or operator.

Effect Of DPS Absence Felt In Schleicher County

The absence of Department of Public Safety patrolmen in this county is having an effect which can already be seen.

In the first place, all the responsibility of investigating traffic accidents and fires falls on the shoulders of the sheriff's department. County Sheriff Orval Edmiston says the department had its hands full before now and will be short of manpower to handle all traffic violations.

"We will handle what we can and let the rest go," he said emphatically. "We can do only so much." He said the department, which consists of himself and two deputies, would handle traffic accidents, except in the case of major wrecks. In that case, a patrolman from Sonora or San Angelo would be contacted.

The two DPS patrolmen stationed here filed up to 30 traffic tickets each Monday with Justice of the Peace Frank "Pancho" Bradley. Bradley had previously stated because of this large number of tickets, it was virtually impossible for him to process all the cases. However, since the absence of the patrolmen, only a handful of tickets have been filed, thus slowing his business considerably.

Another repercussion is a loss of revenue to the county. In 1977, there were 744 traffic tickets filed last year in JP court, which brought the county $18,932 in revenue. With the loss of revenue, the county will have to cut expenses in another department. The county is without DPS patrolmen since officer Newell Lucas transferred to the license division in Big Spring, and officer Dale Cavaness resigned.

There is little hope at the present that another patrolman will be stationed here. Sargeant Eddie Boyd of the DPS office in San Angelo said the department "just did not have anyone to send" to Eldorado at the present time and did not know if and when there would be anyone to station here.

Meanwhile, speeders aren't worried about "smokies." However, it seems that a rash of accidents is happening. County deputies have been kept busy investigating several minor accidents and apparently there is no end in sight.

October Utility Bills Show Local Sales Tax

State Comptroller Bob Bullock Friday said Texas homeowners and renters should not be alarmed if their October gas and electricity bills continue to carry the state and local sales tax.

"Under the law, the utility companies will continue adding the tax on their October bills if their billing cycle begins before October 1, Bullock said.

The Texas Legislature voted in special session earlier this year to repeal the four percent state sales tax on residential gas and electric bills effective October 1.

In addition, some 125 cities have also eliminated the local-option, one percent city sales tax on those bills effective the same time.

Under the law, the repeal of the sales tax actually is effective with the start of the utility companies billing period on or after October 1.

This means, Bullock explained, that a customer whose billing period is October 3 through November 3 will get advantage of the tax break as of October 3.

A customer whose billing cycle is September 25 through October 25 will continue to pay the sales tax through October 25, he said.

Bullock said that homeowners and renters needn't jump on their utility companies about the sales tax on the October bills.

"They are only following the law," Bullock said.

He said elimination of the state sales tax on gas and electric bills will save homeowners and renters $150 million a year.

White Enjoys Job As Football Official

It's easy being a football official. All you have to do is walk on the field and you're ready to get a bird's eye view of a good game. Right? Wrong! There's a lot more to it than what meets the average spectator's eye, says Buddy White, a veteran of 12 seasons as a football official.

He says the first thing an official has to do each year before the season is pass a physical examination and a test put out by the Southwest Officials Football Association. They have to make at least a 70 score on the test. Second of all, officials have to be in shape before the season because they usually end up running almost as much as the players. "I try to jog to get my legs in shape," White says.

Officials are also required to attend at least 80 percent of the association's weekly meetings.

When game night gets here, there are still other things officials have to do before the game begins. "We usually discuss certain circumstances and situations on the way to the game," White says, "and try to read up on the rule book once a week." Upon arrival, officials have to check the chain, check players equipment, see that the field is marked off correctly, test the ball for the correct amount of pressure and make sure there is a second ball available. This means they have to be at the game one hour before kickoff.

During the game, officials have to keep on their toes to be able to see all the players. "We try to keep the players in a box," he explained, "with the four of us around the play."

This can cause some problems, he noted, as sometimes officials get distracted by action somewhere else and miss a penalty right in front of them.

"Officials have to be unbiased when calling games and call it how they see it," says White, although he says there are some offenses that are hard to see. For instance, if an official sees only the end of a block, it could easily look like a clip.

"The hardest penalty to call is a pass interference," he says even though he is "very familiar with pass interference" after playing defensive back in college.

"If you're not sure of the penalty, it is best to keep your flag in your pocket," he noted.

The most aggravating part of being an official, he says is fans who complain about calls he has made or coaches who refuse to believe their players were in the wrong. "Some of the fans don't know the rules," he believes, "The officials know the new rules and the rules are not the way they were when the fans played ball in high school. They have changed so much."

White enjoys all aspects of officiating, but says he would rather be a wing man, than an umpire or referee.

He apparently likes officiating junior high games, even though the players have little experience. "I help them a little bit and answer any questions they have," he says, adding that he doesn't try to coach them. Grinning, he says, "But I want to help them so bad."

The Western Auto dealer says he couldn't officiate "if I didn't like it." With a meeting on Monday night, junior high and junior varsity games on Thursday night and varsity games on Friday night he puts in about 24 hours a week into the job.

"And if I was in it for the money, I'd have to do something else," he added quickly. Uniforms cost about $80 each. Officials have to pay for them plus their physicals. They are paid on the average of $31 per varsity game, which barely pays for travel and meal expense as they cannot officiate in their home town. Payments for junior high are much less.

White officiates for about 20 different teams and is assigned his destination by an association secretary in San Angelo.

His family helps him with his job, as his wife always keeps his uniforms clean and packed, ready to go. His daughters, Mary Kay and Missy keep up his morale with a few teases here and there. He says the three women in his household don't seem to mind the long hours he spends away from home because they know he enjoys it.

Even though there is a lot of preparation, hard work and little pay, White still loves the job. "I just enjoy being associated with football," he insisted.

Nursing Home News

We have another beautiful morning this second day of October. Since there had been so many cloudy, dark, dreary looking days recently the sunshine really looked good just a few days ago when the clouds cleared away. There is no doubt but that there is a good season in the ground as we are gradually moving into winter. I imagine that the clay subsoil that is down deep in the ground here is very wet and when we receive enough rain to get the soil wet that deep we can do without rain for some time. We had a birthday party in the dining room here late Saturday afternoon. It was in honor of Lester Garrett who is a resident here. A string orchestra composed of four men, all of whom live in San Angelo, came out and presented a concert. Some of the music dates way back that were favorites years ago — like "Over The Waves" etc. We all enjoyed the music very much and appreciated them coming out to entertain us. The Hospital Auxiliary ladies served home made cookies and delicious punch and we thank them. One of the musicians was evidently reared in San Angelo as he said he and some other boys in San Angelo used to come out to Eldorado occasionally and visit with Eldorado boys when he was fourteen to sixteen years old. He remembered the names of quite a number of them and some of them still live here and some have died. He said this happened in the 40's. Their names were Eddie Everidge, Bill Martin, Nelson McGee and Roy Adams. Roy Adams has been out here with a group of musicians several times before since I have been living in the nursing home. Yours truly had a very queer, bad experience here in the nursing home last Friday morning. A man whom I had never seen before came into the nursing home and asked at the desk where he could find Mrs. Brooks. He had seen me as I was going from our hall out into the lobby as he was entering our hall and yet he didn't recognize me. He told me that he was the one who had sold me an insurance policy which is the oldest policy I have and that was quite a number of years ago. He didn't look like he was more than thirty years old now. He mentioned the names of the other insurance policies that I have too and he would have been too young at that time to be selling insurance when I took out that first one which I still have. He said his company had sent him to talk to me because I am in arrears with a policy and they don't want me to lose it.

By that time my mind was getting so mixed up and fuzzy that I couldn't think straight and he was talking a blue streak. Finally I asked him how much I owed and he said three hundred and thirty eight dollars. I told him I didn't understand because insurance companies always send due notices when it is near the time for the premium payment to be made and I hadn't received a notice. My mind kept feeling more fuzzy so I seemed to be willing to do what he said. I didn't even ask him what policy it is. I got my check book and signed my name at the place for the signature and I can't remember writing the date, or the amount, or the one who the check would be sent to, or what it was for. I always fill out a check first then sign my name, but that proves that he had me practically hypnotized. My brother says that evidently is what happened. While I had the check book open and in my hand he got up from where he was sitting and took the check book out of my hand and went and sat down. I can't remember ever looking to see what he was doing with it. In a few minutes he got up and left. I didn't realize what had happened to me until about one thirty or two o'clock. All of that had taken place between 10:30 and eleven that morning. I immediately called the bank and told the president of the bank what had happened to me. He said they will all watch for the check.

Oh yes, while he had the check book he tore out the check I had signed and two blank checks also, but I didn't know that until after the deputy sheriff came after I had called him and told him what had happened. He came to the home at once. I had written two checks that morning and I showed him the checks that I had written so he saw by the check that was on top of the pad of checks that two checks were missing. The crook tore two more checks out of my check pad besides the one I had signed. I think I will eventually get my money back but it may be a long time. I have written this today for the benefit of any elderly ladies who may read this column this week, so it will be a warning to them to not let some stranger come in your home and sell you something you don't need or collect money from you that you feel in the back of your mind that you don't owe.

Jo Ed Hill thinks that it will come back here someday to the bank in the mail, but of course they won't pay the bank or store that cashed it for the crook in which case they will be the loser instead of me. I will be sorry about that, but it is certainly not my fault. We had quite a few visitors last week — Mrs. Royce Reegan of Atlanta, Georgia, and Mrs. Cashew W. Taylor of Sonora visited the nursing home Sunday and were present for the Hospital Auxiliary birthday party. They enjoyed the string orchestra music. Mr. Reegan is Mrs. Taylor's son-in-law. They visited Lester Garrett, Zeral Holland, Bess Andrews and others.

Dehelia Gardenier's son and daughter-in-law, Granville and Mary Hext, visited her Sunday, also her grandchildren. The pastor of the First Baptist, Gene Stark, conducted the service here in the dining room Sunday afternoon and we enjoyed his sermon and the singing very much. The Primitive Baptist Church will conduct the service next Sunday.

The bingo winners last Wednesday were Fannie Blaylock, 1; Dehelia Gardenier, 2; Bess Andrews, 2; Beulah Harris, 1; Frank Reed, 1; Elva Daniels, 1. Man Is Injured In Wreck

Richard Henry Chappel of San Angelo was slightly injured when the car he was driving hit a fence 13 miles north of Eldorado Sunday. An employee of South Texas Tire Testing Company in San Angelo, he went to sleep and lost control of the vehicle. The car was a 1978 Mercury Cougar. He was taken to Shannon Hospital in San Angelo by an Eldorado ambulance. The accident was investigated by county deputy sheriff Ricky Bishop.

usually get my money back but it may be a long time. I have written this today for the benefit of any elderly ladies who may read this column this week, so it will be a warning to them to not let some stranger come in your home and sell you something you don't need or collect money from you that you feel in the back of your mind that you don't owe.

Jo Ed Hill thinks that it will come back here someday to the bank in the mail, but of course they won't pay the bank or store that cashed it for the crook in which case they will be the loser instead of me. I will be sorry about that, but it is certainly not my fault.

We had quite a few visitors last week — Mrs. Royce Reegan of Atlanta, Georgia, and Mrs. Cashew W. Taylor of Sonora visited the nursing home Sunday and were present for the Hospital Auxiliary birthday party. They enjoyed the string orchestra music. Mr. Reegan is Mrs. Taylor's son-in-law. They visited Lester Garrett, Zeral Holland, Bess Andrews and others.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Proctor of San Angelo visited Mrs. Proctor's mother, Elva Daniels. Christine West had the following guests: Pat, Robert R. Ann and Steve Sykes, Hester Huckaby from Richardson, Lucy Page, Faye Dell Derrick, Nancy Taylor, Pam and Missy White, Fannie O'Harrow, Mary Jo Hill, Jan Mobley, Juanita Buitron, Penny Arispe and Helen Marie Page.

Dehelia Gardenier's son and daughter-in-law, Granville and Mary Hext, visited her Sunday, also her grandchildren.

The pastor of the First Baptist, Gene Stark, conducted the service here in the dining room Sunday afternoon and we enjoyed his sermon and the singing very much. The Primitive Baptist Church will conduct the service next Sunday.

Save Energy and Money At The Very Same Time

Don't spend money to reduce energy consumption this summer - there are many ways to save energy without sacrificing comfort or the pocketbook, says Glenda Moore, a housing and home furnishings specialist.

Miss Moore is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

To accomplish no-cost energy saving, follow these measures:

Clean the air conditioner filter frequently.

Close the fireplace damper tight and seal off the firebox opening.

Turn off the furnace's pilot and gas supply to gas heating systems.

Turn up the thermostat to the highest comfortable setting. Each increase of one degree saves three to five percent of energy used.

Turn off air conditioners when the house is unoccupied at night. Use natural breezes on cooler days.

Keep drapes, shades and blinds closed to keep direct sun out. This can reduce heat gain up to 50 percent.

Turn off the "instant on" feature on television sets.

Other no-cost actions that are worthwhile but difficult to measure are turning off unneeded lights, television and radios, the specialist suggests.

Also, open doors and refrigerator and freezer doors as briefly as possible.

In addition, change the color of home decor such as pillows, lamp shades, pictures, tablecloths, fabric wall covers and window treatments from dark, warm colors to those cool colors such as blue and green, Miss Moore adds.

Barber-Finley Team Wins

Bobby Barber and George Finley of San Angelo were high overall players in Duplicate Bridge Club play last week.

Other winners were Tom Peaslee of Sonora and Billie Porter, second; Mr. and Mrs. W.B. Vaughn of Menard, third; Imogene Edmiston and Clay Porter, fourth; Lorene Capehart and Pat Wilson of San Angelo, fifth and Ebba Ann Barber and Mrs. Pat Coyan of San Angelo, sixth.

Legislative Battle Beginning

AUSTIN—A bitter legislative battle is shaping up over whether Texans should have a direct vote in 1980 on selection of presidential candidates.

The House Elections Committee recommended revival of a Texas presidential preference primary law, which expired by its own terms after single use in 1976.

However, the committee sought to fix the date on which the voting should be held as that of the June runoff primary rather than the May general primary.

That irked Republicans who voted in state convention to hold a presidential primary in May under their own rules.

Democrats are divided on the issue. Many conservatives in the legislature fear the primary would draw conservative voters into the Republican voting boxes to aid presidential candidates like Ronald Reagan, John Connally or George Bush. Cross-overs, they reason, would increase the strength of liberals.

But many liberals have turned against the idea of a presidential primary, preferring the old convention system of naming delegates to national party conventions. Some liberals argue national party rules allow primary states to avoid major proportional representation requirements.

Democratic gubernatorial nominee John Hill has come out firmly for a primary, however, and said he expects the legislature to approve one of some type. The Democratic convention barely mentioned the issue, and tossed it to the state party's executive committee for a study and recommendations.

GOP State Chairman Ray Barnhart called the House committee recommendation "hypocrisy" aimed at misleading the people.

Stamps Changed

Welfare recipients won't have to spend their own money for food stamp program coupons in the future.

The Texas Board of Human Resources meeting in Amarillo voted to end the cash outlay requirement for participation.

If federal guidelines are received on schedule, the cash outlay provision will end December 1.

Recipients will receive fewer stamps than they now receive. They get an allotment of food for a greater value (determined on basis of household size) than they pay for stamps (based on net income). A household of four gets about $182 a month in food stamps. For this amount, the family pays $58 of its own money, making bonus value of the coupons $124. When the purchase requirement is eliminated, the household will receive the $124 in food stamps as bonus coupons, but will not have to pay out the $58.

Human Resources Commissioner Jerome Chapman said the change will provide needy Texans the same amount of food subsidy, while permitting them to retain more of their cash resources for other necessities.

Court Change Urged

A legislative committee has recommended major changes in the city and county court system.

The House Committee on Judicial Affairs recommended a requirement that all municipal court judges be attorneys and that all be elected rather than appointed.

Most municipal court judges are appointed by city councils and commissions.

The committee's interim report also recommended creation of county courts of appeal to help relieve crowded dockets due to appeals from justice of the peace and municipal courts.

Courts Speak

The Court of Criminal Appeals reversed a Dallas heroin conviction and life sentence on grounds the search for evidence was illegal. The court said a passenger in a car cannot be searched on mere suspicion he is drunk and armed.

The same court reversed a 16-year prison sentence for aggravated assault against an Austin man, holding the punishment excessive, and ordering it reduced to the range prescribed by law.

Gossip among jurors about credibility of witnesses may constitute new evidence and grounds for a new trial, the Court of Criminal Appeals concluded in still another case.

Failure of a judge to believe a witness is not sufficient to conclude a defendant guilty, the court said in reversing a Harris County marijuana case.

AG Opinions

Student evaluations of teachers are public information and subject to disclosure, Attorney General John Hill said.

In other recent opinions, Hill concluded:

A county may maintain branches of its law library in various locations within the county and may loan law library materials to other libraries so long as a complete law library is operated in a place at the county seat convenient and accessible to judges as well as litigants.

An advance fee resume service is not a "private employment agency" under the law where there is no direct contact between the service and a prospective employer or his agent.

A state university employee is precluded from taking an unpaid leave of absence during the time for which he was elected to serve in the state legislature.

Kleberg County commissioners may exercise zoning authority over land near Kingsville Naval Air Station if necessary to prevent an airport hazard.

Short Snorts

A new calendar of Texas events for October through March is available from the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation and its tourist bureaus.

Texas pond and lake owners have until November 1 to submit applications for bass, catfish or sunfish from the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

The fourth job matching fair will be held in Amarillo October 14.

A House study committee on migrant labor refused to recommend collective bargaining rights for farm workers.

The House Sam Houston Caucus, its ranks dwindling since the legislative special session, is still planning to push for major rules changes to give individual legislators more authority.

First policies of the Texas Medical Liability Trust, a malpractice coverage firm formed by Texas Medical Association, will be issued by December 1.

Cornell G. Curtis Jr., director of the Insurance Division of the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation, will retire October 31, and will be succeeded by Quinner F. Williams of Lockhart.

An insurance industry study showed repair estimates on a damaged 1977 car from eight body shops in Dallas and seven in Houston ranged from a low of $392 in Dallas to a high of $1,032 in Houston.

Pickup And Hay Burned Sunday

A 1975 Chevrolet pickup belonging to Johnny Mayo was totally destroyed by fire Sunday night. The accident happened when Mayo and his wife were hauling hay in a field. He said apparently the motor overheated and caught the transmission on fire.

Also destroyed was 40 bales of hay and quite a bit of ammunition. A goose-neck trailer behind the pickup was scorched.

The Eldorado fire department responded to the fire but was hampered because of the ammunition explosions.

County deputy Walter Donaldson investigated the accident.

Consumers can "unravel" any confusions about nylon by knowing some basic nylon facts.

Nylon's exceptional strength and elasticity make it useful for a variety of products.

It is often used in blends with wool and other fibers to give a fabric a greater strength and shape-retaining properties.

Other advantages are nylon's ability to stay strong when wet, resist damage by mildew and chemicals and to resist abrasion.

Also, it can be heat-set in permanent pleats, and it washes and dries easily and quickly.

However, nylon can be damaged by exposure to sunlight — and by body oils or perspiration, unless it is laundered frequently.

Nylon fabrics come in many forms — to suit their end uses.

They are generally knitted for use in lingerie, foundation garments, hosiery and blouses. Woven nylon makes raincoats, ski wear, wind-breakers and some dress fabrics.

Qiana is the trade name of a shiny, silky kind of nylon used in dresses and evening wear.

Antron and Bodyfree nylon have static resistant properties, while Crepeset is the trade name for a textured nylon yarn.

Other nylon trade names are Actionwear, Cantreze, Enkasheer, Random-Tone, Source and Zefran.

Nylon care is usually simple. Most items are machine washable and require drying at low temperatures.

Delicate items may need special care or hand laundering.

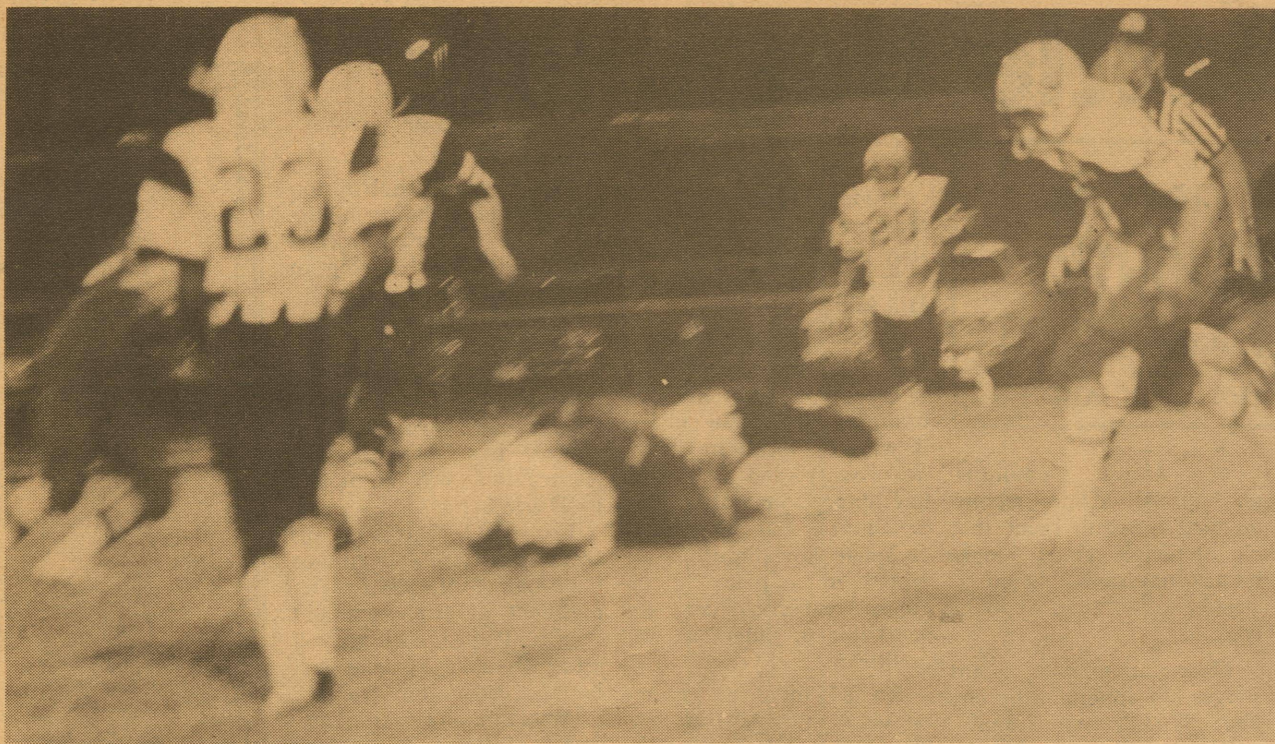

Nylon absorbs color from wash water — and from other fabrics, so always launder nylon fabrics with similar colors.

This is especially important for whites.

Also, white nylons require whitening occasionally with special nylon whiteners or by bleaching.

If nylon items need pressing, use a warm iron.

In all cases, for best results, follow the care label instructions, since special finishes may need special care, too.

GROUND TO THE TURF — The McCamey Badgers found the going rough to move the ball on the ground against the Eldorado Eagles here Friday night, but used the airways at ease to bury the Eagles 24-0. The Eagles are preparing for better fortunes for their upcoming encounter, Robert Lee, here Friday night.

McCamey Buries Eagles, 24-0

The McCamey Badgers used long pin point passes from Quarterback Raul Arana to three fleetfooted receivers to burn the Eldorado Eagles here Friday night, 24-0.

McCamey received the opening kick off and returned it to their 27 yard line. They used seven plays to move it down to the Eagle 41 yard line but turned it over to the Eagle when Randy Morrison dropped on a fumble.

The Eagle offense needed only five yards on the plays before punting to the McCamey 32 yard line.

McCamey began their aerial show in this series scorching the Eagles in a apparent 67 yard TD bomb, but clipping penalty on an eager badger 20 yards behind the ball erased the TD, moving the ball back to the Eagle 33 yard.

Arana used the pass again to Gary Stacy on the very next play to get the 31 yards and the TD back. PAT try failed, but McCamey had a 6-0 lead with 3:44 left in the first quarter.

The Eagles offense was stopped again on their next series by penalties and was forced to punt from their 24 yard line.

The pass happy Badgers struck again on the last play of the first quarter with Arana hitting Billy Ray Terry on a fly pattern for 46 yards and the TD. PAT was no good and the score was 12-0 at end of first quarter play.

With 2:02 left in the first half Arana went to the air again to Billy Garcia for another long TD. The play was covered 41 yards and after PAT failed the Badgers had an 18-0 lead at halftime.

After an error plagued third quarter Arana found Stacy again behind the Eagle secondary for a 36 yard TD pass with 8:28 left in the game. PAT was no good, but the Badgers had racked up a 24-0 win over the Eagles.

The Eagles will take on a highly-tauted Robert Lee team here Friday night at 8:00 for another battle on the gridiron.

Hill Caravan Plans Visit

Attorney General John Hill's campaign for governor will reach Eldorado Oct. 12 as part of a ten day caravan swing through 285 towns in the state.

The caravan will begin in San Angelo and will be lead by Tyrrell Hill, Hill's daughter-in-law, Representative Gonzales Barrientos of Austin and Representative Mel Chavez of Harlingen.

The caravan will visit Alpine, Fort Stockton, Bakersfield, Iraan, Sheffield, Ozona, Sonora and San Angelo on the same day it comes to Eldorado.

The Virginia blue laws enacted in 1619 required men to dress according to their rank.

CF Fund Drive Is Big Success

Citizens of Schleicher County donated a total of $1394.57 for the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation during a recent fund raising drive, according to Mrs. Debbie Joy. Mrs. Joy who served as CF chairman for this county, said other donations are still being turned in to her.

Mrs. Joy said the money will help support Cystic Fibrosis centers throughout the nation which specialize in the diagnosis, treatment and referral of children with the disease and other lung damaging diseases. These centers are designed to do research to find a control or cure for CF which is a leading genetic killer of children.

In the 1700's doctors believed umbrellas could help avoid vertigo, epilepsy and sore eyes.

DETROIT — Cadillac's 1979 model lineup is highlighted by the all-new front wheel drive Eldorado (center). With front wheel drive, independent rear suspension, front wheel disc brakes, electronic level control and electronically fuel injected engine, the 1979 Eldorado offers a combination of standard features available on no other car built in the country. The distinctive, international-size Seville (top) continues its classic, timeless design theme in 1979. As on the Eldorado, a 350 CID (5.7 Litre) electronically fuel injected V-8 engine is standard, with the GM 350 CID (5.7 Litre) V-8 diesel an available option on both cars. The 1979 Fleetwood Brougham, as well as all full size Cadillacs, includes a newly styled, finer textured cross-hatch grille accent band. All 1979 Cadillacs are offered in 21 exterior colors.

Lone Star drama tells how Texas won its independence

BY GORDON M. QUARNSTROM

GALVESTON—The early evening thunderstorm dampened the amphitheater and the hopes of spectators, as well.

But it was a short squall, and at curtain time the sky was filled with a myriad stars.

I say "curtain time", but there really is no curtain at the Mary Moody Northern amphitheater in the Galveston Island State Park.

The stage is set against a natural backdrop of trees and shrubs. And in this setting is presented the drama, "The Lone Star," now in its second season.

The theater is said to be the largest and best-equipped outdoor complex in the nation. A huge set and elaborate lighting make it possible to produce spectacular scenes like the Battle of San Jacinto, with cannon, soldiers and horses moving across the stage.

Colorful musical numbers also highlight the drama which recreates the events that brought freedom from Mexico. The capture of Santa Anna, the Mexican president-general, is a highlight of the production.

The drama will run until Oct. 15, with performances except Mondays. Reserved seats are $5 and $4 for night/adults. General admission is $3 for adults and $2 for children 12 and

If one wants to dine on the theater grounds, a Texas style dinner of barbecued beef, catfish and the trimmings is available at $4.75 for adults and $1.75 for kids.

The theater is named for one of the leading philanthropists of Galveston. Mrs. Northern and other members of her family have made numerous contributions to enhance the art, culture and beauty of this historic and interesting city.

Galveston has miles of beaches, a shrimp fleet, a lengthy promenade along its seawall, the only overseas hotel in the continental U.S., fine seafood restaurants and a charming restored section of the old Galveston.

Try lunch one day in the restored Truehart-Adriance Bldg. The Galveston Junior League has spearheaded its restoration and has a lunchroom with soup, sandwiches and dessert in delightful surroundings.

The league has its headquarters in the 1882 structure, located at 210 Kemper St.

There are other wonderful buildings to visit, too. One is the so-called Bishop's Palace, because it was the home for a time of the spiritual ruler of the area's large Catholic population. Another fine old building one should see is Ashton Villa, restored in time for the 1976 Bicentennial.

The Galveston Chamber of Commerce has full information on the city's attractions, including the tour-train. This is a group of small cars on rubber tires pulled by an engine with an automobile background. The pink and white train takes visitors through the entire city from its home base at the city park a short distance from the overseas hotel of which I wrote a bit back.

That hotel, a civic enterprise, is the Flagship.

Facts from a pro on driving to survive.

Q. When my family and I travel, the car seems to "float" and, at times, it is a bit hard to control, especially on curves. It doesn't do it in town. Is it the type of surfaces on highways?

—W.L., Collierville

A. Since it seems to occur only when you travel, chances are your problem is over-loading. Passenger cars were not built to handle heavy loads such as you might have with a family and their full complement of luggage. If you travel frequently, you might consider having adjustable shock absorbers mounted on your car. Otherwise, a few extra pounds of air in your tires will help steady your car.

Q. My youngest son is about to get his first motorcycle and I would like for him to learn to ride it well before he goes out onto the streets. Where can he get lessons?

—J.H., Arlington

A. Fortunately, in your area, the Euless Police Department conducts beginning motorcycle courses several times a year. The cost is small and the course is pretty comprehensive. Contact the Euless Traffic Safety Officer for more information. In other areas, check with local cycle dealers. They usually know about existing courses offered by the local authorities and motorcycle clubs.

If you have a question on driving, send it to:

AIRLINE DEREGULATION

WASHINGTON—When unnecessary government regulations are stricken from the books and businesses are allowed to operate in the free enterprise atmosphere in which they are intended, dramatic results occur.

Perhaps nowhere is this more apparent than the airline industry, where decreased regulation has spurred more efficient transportation, competition has flourished, and what seems most improbable—profits have peaked while ticket prices have dropped.

Recent action by the House of Representatives, which last week approved a major airline deregulation bill, will further encourage airline fare competition by extending deregulation of the nation's airlines. In fact, carriers could lower their fares as much as 50 percent shortly after enactment of the bill.

Specifically, the legislation reduces the role of the Civil Aeronautics Board and allows airlines more freedom to cut rates and establish new routes—two processes which have been extremely difficult in the past. Although it is true that recent CAB officials have lately done much to deregulate the airline industry, and that we have enjoyed the lower fares which have resulted, legislation is necessary to guarantee that such benefits are not lost by any future change in CAB attitude.

In fact, the airline deregulation bill passed by the House calls for abolition of the CAB by 1983.

What this means in practical terms is that the airline industry will be allowed to operate in a free atmosphere more conducive to increased competition. Normal economic incentives, which have been suppressed by federal regulation, will be restored. And airline prices and services, which today respond primarily to CAB rules, will instead be controlled by the preferences of the traveling public.

Another important development we will see is the enhancement of service to smaller towns and rural areas, and further extension of flights to places formerly unprofitable for airline service. Commuter airlines, one of the fastest growing parts of the airline industry, can also be expected to offer additional flights with the more open market conditions deregulation legislation allows.

One of the most important amendments to the deregulation bill approved by the House has direct bearing on Texas, and eliminates discrimination in the law which hinders Texas air passengers' travel between interstate and intrastate airlines. The provision, which I authored and is known as the "interlining amendment," facilitates handling of tickets and baggage and allows Texas travellers to select freely among inter and intrastate flights on the basis of price and flight time advantages.

A similar provision has already been in effect in California and Florida where joint handling of tickets and baggage among inter and intrastate lines has produced good results, and under the new Texas interlining amendment, inequities in Texas travel can now be remedied.

The entire House-passed deregulation package now proceeds to conference with the Senate, which, in my opinion, has approved an even more effective deregulation package.

Airline deregulation legislation represents the best of the American free enterprise system, which we have seen works best when left unhampered by excess government regulation. Of course, maintenance of high safety standards in the airline industry is always the most important consideration, and certain regulatory precautions will always be necessary in this area.

However, aside from safety, the more regulation we can cut away, the more procedures we can simplify, the more red tape that can be eliminated, the better off we will be in terms of promoting the combination of competition, productivity and service on which our nation has grown and for which our country is known the world over.

It's time for sports and by sports, I don't mean you lamp leaning slinks that like to watch the girls go by. I mean sports that get you all lathered up, even if you don't shave. If you can't participate be a spectator and you will be surprised how much exercise you get stomping the grandstand and screaming, "Kill the Umpire". The old heartbeat definitely goes into second gear. Seriously though, out there in the kingly world of sports is your special sport, just waiting to be captured.

Swimming is one of the best sports for the widest range of people. However, after some of us look in the mirror we eagerly give up the bikini and choose a basic black with a modest skirt for our swim suits. This sport cannot be beat for summer fun.

Baseball appeals to almost everyone to some degree. Our smaller communities go all out for Little League Baseball and get plenty of exercise running up and down the stands shouting 'Go, Johnny, Go.'

Many of our youngsters may be seen at local 'Play Days', riding raunchy colts, yet many of the oldtimers still come in with some of the ribbons. This sport is practiced daily by many even in their days after retirement.

For those that only like to watch, there is always the racers, Wilkie Downs and Ruidosa offer exciting times, calculated to lure you back time after time.

Golf is a sport for all ages. Well known as favorite pastime of presidents, doctors and other professional people who rarely get enough exercise. Many a contract has been consummated on the golf course.

Tennis is now a rival to all other sports as a favorite. If this should be your choice of sports, partners can be easily found in this newly revived field.

Football is here again, and has gotta be everyone's favorite. Doctors offices are busy with the annual physicals for the youngster, and the local teenage hangouts are filled with hope and promise of an extremely good year. New school clothes are primarily in school colors as the entire family gears for the season.

If you haven't tried sports, you are missing something. Excitement, fun, personal association, to say nothing of the benefit to your good health and physical well being, make sports so rewarding. For the ladies who are undecided, get another view in that mirror and while you other sports still cling to your lamp post preparing to whistle at the next sweet thing that passes by, don't be surprised if she whispers in your ear, "Pardon me, sir. Was that a whistle or a wheeze?"

Pensions Available Through IRA Plan

For the first time, it's possible for housewives—and if you withdraw your contributions earlier than age 59 1/2, however, for any reason other than disability, you'll have to pay a penalty tax.

This is done through an Individual Retirement Account. Sometimes called an IRA, this government-authorized program allows individuals to invest for retirement and get tax benefits at the same time. Employees not covered by company retirement plans can contribute to an IRA on behalf of themselves and non-employed spouses. For such an account, the maximum yearly contribution is $1750 or 15 percent of annual earnings, whichever is less.

All contributions to an IRA are deducted on your Federal income tax return, giving immediate savings. You don't have to pay taxes until you withdraw the money, normally after retirement when you'll probably be in a lower tax bracket. Dividends and other earnings won't be taxed either until they too are withdrawn.

A financial adviser, stockbroker, mutual fund representative or insurance agent can help you if you have questions about IRAs. You might also find some answers in the booklet, "Take A Tax Shelter Break," offered free by the Investment Company Institute, Dept. O., 1775 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006.
