Football Physicals Set Today

Physical Examinations for prospective members of this year's Eldorado Eagles High School boys athletic squads will be given today at 12:30 pm in the Bandhall Classroom.

All boys who plan to participate in either football, basketball, track, golf, and/or tennis are urged to attend. Athletes are asked to eat a normal lunch beforehand and sustain from candy or soft drinks until after the physicals.

These physicals are a requirement of the school system and the University Interscholastic League. This service is rendered at this time free of charge; however, those not attending will be asked to attain their own physical at their own expense. Official football practice will start at 8:05 am Monday, August 11.

Delinquent Tax Notices Sent

Delinquent tax notices were recently mailed. If any taxpayer has a question they should contact City Hall. If you feel taxes have been paid, you must provide tax receipts as proof of payment. Although legally cancelled checks are not valid receipts in tax cases, the information will help the assessor locate the payment.

If you feel the amount of taxes you paid was erroneous, apply to your tax office for a refund. You must apply within three years of the date you paid the tax or else you automatically waive the refund.

Refund procedures vary among jurisdictions. Your local tax office should be consulted to determine whether you are entitled to a refund and what steps you need to verify that an error was made.

The federally funded heat relief program sanctioned by the Community Action Council of San Angelo was pleased with the turnout last Monday at City Hall. If you did not get to see the representative from the C.A.C., you may contact Lupe Robledo or Carolyn Mayo at City Hall. Also, the C.A.C. representatives have slated another visit to Eldorado because of the heavy turnout. The C.A.C. representatives will visit on Friday, August 8, from 9 to 3.

Barbara Martinez of Casa Arispe's women's softball team fouls off a pitch in last Saturday's tournament. Funds raised at the tournament were used to benefit 16-year old Andy Bosmans who is currently recovering from brain surgery at John Sealy-Smith Hospital in Galveston.

Cable News Network Added to Service By Television Enterprises

Bill Watkins, General Manager of Television Enterprises announced that Cable News Network will be offered as an additional basic service to Sonora and Eldorado beginning Sept. 1 on Channel 3.

Cable News Network promises to revolutionize the way in which Americans are informed about domestic and global events and issues.

From the moment it was launched, CNN has presented continuous news and possessed an unprecedented capability to "go live" anywhere in the world where major news is breaking at any hour of the day or night.

At its inception, the CNN staff included more than three hundred electronic journalists, executives, and technical persons.

Television Enterprises and other cable television systems representing a total of more than three million subscribing households are committed as of this date to carry CNN.

With 168 consecutive hours each week in which to present news, CNN will possess the unique capability of regularly covering major news stories with more immediacy and completeness than any other broadcast news organization.

On major stories, CNN will be able to provide frequent follow-up pieces, from new angles, throughout the day the week, or for as long as the story is newsworthy; and in the event of a crisis, CNN will be able to provide continuous coverage for as long as it takes to complete the story.

Bringing CNN's unprecedented news coverage to the American public will be a distinguished group of television news professionals, Washington political figures, national columnists, and popular authorities on a wide variety of subjects.

Among those who will report and interpret the news on CNN are former CBS News correspondent Daniel Schorr; former ABC News Vice-President and Washington Bureau Chief George Watson; U.S. Senator Barry Goldwater, and former Congresswoman Bella Abzug.

Other CNN commentators are the political columnists Rowland Evans and Robert Novak; political columnist and author Richard Reeves; financial commentator Dan Dorfman; psychologist Dr. Joyce Brothers; and author and commentator Phyllis Schlafly.

A two-hour news broadcast from 8 to 10 Eastern Time, will be the centerpiece of CNN's 24 hour day.

In addition, there will be a total of 60 minutes each night of business and financial news, including detailed reports and analyses during the day.

There also will be a total of 45 minutes each night of detailed sports coverage, including extensive taped highlights of professional and college games across the country, and reports on special sporting events around the world not usually covered by network sportscasts.

Beyond its hard-news capabilities, CNN will offer a wide variety of special features, human interest stories, celebrity interviews, talk programs, and consumer reports.

CNN is the brainchild of R.E. "Ted" Turner, president of Turner Broadcasting System, Inc. Turner's television station, WTBS, Atlanta, came to national prominence as the Superstation seen on cable systems throughout America with a schedule of sports and entertainment.

The president of CNN is Reese Schonfeld, a 25-year television news veteran who previously was managing director of the Independent Television News Association (ITNA), a news service that supplies a daily ninety-minute package of news to major independent television stations.

With its Peking bureau CNN will be the first American television network to have a permanent news presence in the People's Republic of China.

CNN has also formed an association with UPITN, which has agreed to supplement the reports CNN

DESTRUCTION OF Sodom and Gomorrah
 Abraham came from fifty down to ten souls, and God assured him that if there were ten righteous souls he would not destroy the cities for their sakes, but there were not ten to be found!
 Even after Lot had been warned of the destruction of Sodom, he was still reluctant to leave, and God had to send two angels to take him and his wife and two daughters from the city. Then the Lord rained fire and brimstone upon the cities of Sodom and Gomorrah and overthrew all the inhabitants of the cities of the plains. No doubt there was a great volcanic upheaval of hot lava through the beds of sulfur and bitumen that lie in this area, which would account for the fire and brimstone falling from heaven. This volcanic ash falling on human flesh causes the flesh to change into a chemical salt. Evidently, Lot's wife not only looked back, but went back and was caught in the aftermath of the volcanic upheaval. The cities of Sodom and Gomorrah were not only burned to ashes, but were buried beneath the lava, and sulfur and now lie at the bottom of the Dead Sea.

There is a striking similarity between the days of Noah and the days of Lot so striking that it cannot be mere coincidence. Jesus used these two periods of history to show us the world conditions as they will exist once again just before the return of the Lord. He says in essence, "Watch the signs of the times." When the world conditions described before the flood of Noah and the destruction of Sodom and Gomorrah occur again, then you know that the second coming of Jesus Christ is near, even at the door.

Rehab '80 Sets Livestock Sales

After 21 years, the Cattle men's Round-Up for Cripple Children has seen a few changes, but the objectives remain the same!

When the late Conda H. Wylie donated 20 steers to be sold to defray operational expenses of the West Texas Rehabilitation Center, it was the start of a big annual tradition. Now ranchmen from throughout the South West cut out a few head of livestock every fall and donate to WTRC. As a result, several hundred head are auctioned off with proceeds going to WTRC.

Cowboy movie star Rex Allen will be on the banks of the Concho River in San Angelo Sept. 6 to officially kick off the 1980 Cattlemen's Round-Up for Crippled Children.

Focus will draw to Abilene on Sept. 29 for CRCC cattle sale. CRCC Horse Sale will be Oct. 4 in Abilene and CRCC Livestock Sale in Coleman Oct. 8. CRCC Sheep and Goat Sale will be Oct. 13 in Junction.

"Last year, the cattle men's round-up sales raised $200,000 for the Rehab Centers of Abilene, San Angelo, and Snyder," states Shelley V. Smith, WTRC executive director. "When dollars are converted, the amount provides care for almost 8,000 handicapped people from throughout the Southwest."

No one had any idea what the late Mr. Wylie's idea would spur 21 years ago. He came to Smith with the suggestion that 20 top steers be cur from his Fort Chadbourne ranch near Bronte that autumn of 1960. Other ranchers wanting to donate to WTRC but, broke from a long drought of the 1950's, had to find a way of giving other than money. A few head of cattle they could spare.

The response was deeply gratifying to Smith and other center officials. The gathering of the cattle was almost immediately called the "Cattlemen's Round-Up for Crippled Children."

The unique method of funding the center was copyrighted that first year and is now a vital part of the annual funding for WTRC.

Jim Alexander of Abilene is overall roundup chairman. Jim Franklin of San Angelo is roundup chairman in the Rehab Texas region.

They have selected various county and area chairmen in almost every area of the Southwest.

Smith praised the West

Texas ranching industry for its tremendous help in raising funds for the WTRC through the Cattlemen's Round-Up program.

"Gifts are the bulk of the WTRC income," he added. "The 1980 budget of more than $2.5 million calls for about 75 percent coming from gifts."

WTRC is a private, non-profit diagnostic and treatment facility for the handicapped in the Southwest. With a goal for treating the whole patient rather than just the handicap, services offered include physical therapy, social services, psychology, orthotics, diagnostic services, education, adaptive equipment shops, audiology, medical clinics, genetics counseling and transportation.

Historical Society Meets

The Schleicher County Historical Society met Monday, August 4, at the County Museum. Eight attended the meeting.

The Mark Fary and the J.D. Ernest Markers have been rewritten and accepted. Prints were made of the pictures of the barbecue on the courthouse lawn and the old Parsonage. The negatives are available to have more pictures made. The Charter Members were read by Mrs. Frietag, treasurer. Plans were finalized for the booth to be held on the Courthouse lawn August 17.

Powell Testifies To Finance Committee

Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association, in testimony before the U.S. Senate Finance Committee in Austin, Texas, recently, endorsed amendments to the Windfall Profits Tax that would relieve landowners and other royalty owners of much of the financial burden from that tax.

James Powell, co-chairman of TSCRA's Legislative and Tax Committee, presented testimony for the 14,000 member organization. A rancher and royalty owner from Fort McKavett, Texas, Powell said the manner in which the tax is structured is discriminatory and places an unreasonable burden on small landowners and other small royalty owners. Under the present law, the approximately two million small royalty owners are treated the same-taxed at the same rate-- as the large, multinational oil companies. The law imposes a 30 percent tax on all new oil production.

"Many of these small royalty owners are working ranchers and farmers who depend on modest royalty checks to supplement their depressed farm and ranch income," Powell said. Retired persons on fixed incomes are also being undermined financially, he noted.

TSCRA went on record as strongly supporting Senate Bill 2533, which exempts 1,000 barrel per day of oil production from the tax for both royalty owners and independent oil producers.

Powell was one of about 2,500 interested persons attending the special hearing called by Senator Lloyd Bentsen (D-Tex) and co-chaired by Senator David Boren (D-OK). Both legislators have sponsored bills that would make the Windfall Profits Tax law more equitable to royalty owners.

It Pays to Trade Where You Live

From the Horse's Mouth

By Jerry Swift County Extension Agent

The pecan weevil, one of the most damaging pecan pest, will soon begin laying eggs in developing pecans in Schleicher County according to County Extension Agent Jerry Swift. To prevent pecan weevil damage the female weevils must be controlled before they deposit eggs in the developing pecan. Once the eggs have been deposited control measures will not be effective.

Adults emerge from the soil in late summer usually after rains in early or mid-August and they move into the pecan trees to mate and deposit their eggs. After an egg has been deposited the larva will develop inside the pecan, cut a hole in the shell about 1/8 inch in diameter and emerge from the pecan as a fully grown larva in late October or November. Larvae will tunnel into the soil 4 to 12 inches. Much of the pecan weevil's 2 to 3 year cycle is spent as a larva in the soil. Larvae that enter the soil this fall will emerge in late summer of 1981 with exception of about 10-20 percent which will emerge as adults during late summer of 1981 or 1982.

When pecan weevil infestations are severe this pest can destroy a large portion of the pecan crop. Feeding of adult weevils causes the nuts in the water stage to drop. After the kernel begins to harden the nut is susceptible to egg laying.

Adult weevil populations in the orchard will vary greatly from year to year but in heavily infested orchards pecan weevil populations will probably be present in most years. Frequently certain trees in the orchard are more heavily infested than others. Begin chipping trees in early August to determine need for pecan weevil control. Probably the most often used method of checking weevil populations is jarring limbs to give indication of presence in trees at any given time. To accomplish this place a large sheet under a tree and jar the limbs with a padded pole. Weevils will drop to the ground and remain motionless for a short period of time. Weevil emergence is normally very high after a rain or an irrigation in August or September.

If weevils are found, an insecticide application should be applied as nuts reach the gel stage, that is the transition from the water to the soft dough stage. This can be determined by cutting through and inspecting the developing pecan kernel. Two or three applications of Sevin R may be needed to control pecan weevil infestations. Research has shown, however, that some weevils may emerge as adults as late as early October in which case a greater number of applications would be needed. The key to successful control is the accurate scouting of trees for adult infestation. Repeat application of insecticide at intervals of 10-14 days as needed until shuck splits.

When using any pesticide read and follow directions given on pesticide label. Eye Exams Required By Law

Children entering school for the first time in Texas this year must have their vision checked.

The Sixty-sixth Texas Legislator passed the Children's Vision Screening Act of 1979. The purpose of the Act is to identify children who are in need of a professional eye examination to determine whether they are visually handicapped.

The statute requires that all children enrolling in any public, private, parochial or denominational school for the first time must have an eye examination by a licensed eye specialist or an approved vision screening test. The primary target group includes young children entering kindergarten or first grade, and students transferring into Texas schools from another state.

An advisory committee composed of ophthalmologists, optometrists, and public members concerned with children's visual problems has recommended, initially, that screening consist of tests for visual acuity. Basic recommendations were approved by the Texas Board of Health.

As a part of their pre-school examination, a number of children will have already been visually screened; therefore, visual acuity tests that were used will be acceptable for the first entry into school this year. After Sept. 1, 1980, it will be expected that the basic visual acuity test and referral criteria will be utilized.

Reports from Washington

Through good economic times and bad, Americans have always been able to place their faith in the certain knowledge our agriculture industry would produce this country's food and fiber needs — and those of other countries as well.

It is hard to overstate agriculture's contributions to this country's productivity and its standard of living.

But today's economy is placing continuing strains on agricultural production. The rapidly escalating costs of many items farmers and ranchers must first purchase in order to produce their crops and livestock are taking a serious toll. Combined with high interest rates and limited available capital at banks for lending purposes, these conditions are seriously jeopardizing the future of family-owned farms and ranches.

Costs associated with production have been growing progressively high for years. Interest rates have skyrocketed 256%; taxes and rents 108%; tractors and other needed implements for farming and ranching 161%.

During this last decade, rural land costs have increased more than 180%.

In the time since 1970, the cost of energy for agricultural production has increased by more than $5 billion. Since last year alone, fuel costs have increased 46%.

Cattle raisers dramatize the critical nature of the problems facing agriculture today. Calf prices are down 20 to 30% over last year. Costs of production, however, have gone up more than 30% over last year. If such conditions continue, piling up enormous losses for cattle raisers, production of beef in this country will decline severely. Consumers lose the ability to choose good quality meat at reasonable prices. The Nation loses a vital component to our economic well-being.

There is another element to be considered. Like everyone else, farmers and ranchers are themselves consumers and taxpayers. According to the Department of Agriculture, farmers and ranchers pay a tax bill in excess of $10 billion each year. In addition, USDA estimates that farmers and ranchers spend $98 billion each year for goods and services to produce crops and livestock. This figure includes about $10.8 billion for fuel.

Agriculture is important to this country in another respect.

Year in and year out, agriculture has provided us with a means to offset enormous U.S. trade deficits — particularly those of recent years. In calendar year 1979, for example, our non-agriculture trade deficit totaled some $46.7 billion. During this same time period, our country was able to export $18 billion worth of agricultural goods. These exports reduced this deficit by almost 40% to $28.7 billion. Without this vital contribution to our world trade, it would have been extremely difficult for this country to finance its tremendously large oil import bill, now estimated to be $80 billion in 1980.

Fortunately for this country, however, 1980 agricultural exports are projected to be at record levels. The $37 billion worth of our products expected to be sold on world markets by the end of the year will total nearly half of the world's trade in agricultural commodities.

American agriculture has helped make this country the envy of the world — and the provider for the world's people. But it didn't just happen. We have produced more and provided more because free market principles and stable economic conditions in the past unleashed our productive capacity.

American farmers and ranchers recognize this. It's time Washington did as well.

OES To Honor Masons

The Eldorado Chapter, No. 148, of the Order of the Eastern Star met recently for a regular meeting and a special July patriotic program.

According to a recent radio broadcast sponsored by Columbia-Presbyterian Medical Center and Prudential Insurance Company, one in every eight animal bites can become seriously infected if not treated properly.

Dr. John Conte, Jr., Chief of Infectious Diseases at the University of California's Moffitt Hospital in San Francisco, reports that the highest rate of infections comes with cat bites. "Half of the cat bites became infected and required antibiotic therapy and special care," Conte said of a study recently completed.
