Eagles Lose Scrimmage

The 1981 version of the Eldorado Eagles got their first taste of action last Friday as they lost in a scrimmage against the Brady Bulldogs in Brady.

The Eagles did make a good showing as they scored the first touchdown, but the Bulldogs came back and won despite good efforts by the Eagle defense.

The Eagle J.V. also lost to Brady 2-0 after a long hot scrimmage.

Tomorrow the Eagles will face Robert Lee in another practice scrimmage in Eldorado, and then will have their first non-district game against Rankin Reddevils, September 4, also to be played at the Eagle stadium.

Royster Funeral Held Sunday

The Rev. Don Williford, pastor, officiated for the services. Burial was in Eldorado Cemetery under direction of Kerbow Funeral Home.

She was born Aug. 30, 1897 to J. A. and Molly Whitten in Stephens County. She taught school here for 29 years and was a member of the Eastern Star. She moved to Eldorado in 1901 and married D.C. Royster in San Angelo May 28, 1923.

She is survived by a son, Donald Royster of Aztec, N.M.; a brother, Chan Whitten of Brady; two granddaughters, Brenda Davis and Debbie Lee; three great-grandchildren, two nieces and one nephew.

Pallbearers were Buff Whitten, Sam A. Whitten, Hal Whitten, Don Wright, Ford Oglesby and Bob Whitten.

Alcohol Abuse Problem Here

Drug abuse has become a large and troublesome problem all over the world and affects us all, either directly or indirectly. The problem is prevalent in Eldorado, too, but officials here say the biggest problem here is not hard drugs, but alcohol.

County Sheriff Orval Edmiston says that "almost without fail, anytime we have a problem, be it a family disturbance, car accident, assault or anything else, alcohol is definitely involved."

Edmiston added that alcohol usage was one that covered the entire community and is "something we need to be working on and can't give up on. We should never condone it and accept it as such."

In fact, he said the problem was so prevalent in Eldorado he knew of several 14, 15 and 16 year old teenagers with drinking problems.

School counselor Ken Newman agreed and showed a survey taken at EHS to make his point. The survey was made last spring and Newman believes it is very accurate.

As far as other drugs were concerned, a total of 82 said they had never tried marijuana and 30 said they had tried it one or two times in their lives.

Those who use marijuana said it is very easy to get, with only ten saying it was hard for them to get any.

According to Newman's survey, 150 local students revealed they had never used pills to get high, with 22 saying they had taken pills to get high one or two times in their lives, seven saying they had taken them two or three times a year and three saying they took pills once a month.

Seven users said it was very easy to get, four said they were usually easy to get, 16 said they were usually hard to get and five said they were having a hard time getting pills.

Only one student admitted to ever using cocaine and heroin and only six admitted to using angel dust.

Where hard drugs might be hard to obtain here, students revealed in the survey that beer and hard liquor is not. And that probably explains why so many students drink frequently. Eleven high school students in the top four grades said they drank some type of alcoholic beverage nearly every day, 36 said they drank two or three times a week and 57 said they drank once a month.

Students said they almost always drank beer, 20 said they drank hard liquor and 34 said they drank both. Only 22 said they bought it legally, 11 said they bought it themselves illegally, 76 said another student bought it for them and 62 said someone out of school bought it for them.

Seventy-two of the drinkers in the student body said alcohol was always easy to get. 57 said it was usually easy to get, and 28 said it was usually hard to get.

Edmiston said the liquor stores and convenience stores selling liquor should be stricter about checking identification on teenagers, although many teenagers who can buy it legally buy for minors.

He added that not many teenagers know the law. The legal age until Sept. 1 is 18 years, but on that day, the age stipulation will go to 19 years of age. Anyone making alcohol available to a minor (except a parent) can be charged for a class C misdemeanor which carries with it a stiff penalty, he explained, which means that anyone drinking in the presence of a minor can be arrested. "If it is in the reach of the minor, it is available," he said.

Any minor caught drinking can be charged with a class B misdemeanor which is a fineable offense.

The sheriff said his office is becoming stricter about enforcing these laws and has arrested and jailed several minors as well as persons charged with making alcohol available to them.

Liquor stores close at 9 p.m. by law and convenience stores have to stop selling liquor at midnight on weekdays and at 1 p.m. Saturday night. In fact, it is unlawful for anyone to consume alcoholic beverages in any public place or to possess any alcoholic beverage in any public place during prohibitive hours which are from 1:15 a.m. to noon on Sunday and from 12:15 a.m. to 7 p.m. on all other days.

Newman said that there is not a problem of students drinking on campus or using drugs on campus. "At least none of the administration or teachers have ever detected it," he said, adding, "almost all of it is done after school hours."

Newman and Edmiston both believe alcohol is the number one problem in Eldorado; one that will have to be dealt with by the community as a whole.

Commissioners Meet Monday for Brief Meeting

Schleicher County commissioners attended to several small items during their meeting Monday.

The court certified Eldorado Coop Gin as a public weigher. The gin, previously Mikeska Gin, had been a public weigher but had to be certified again since its name changed.

The court also made a payment of $876.36 to pay off a note for the new ambulance. The city also helped pay off the ambulance note.

Commissioners discussed the possibility of building a new building to house fire trucks for both the city and the county. City and county officials will meet Sept. 8 in City Hall to work out an agreement for the project. Barbara Jackson, representing Beta Sigma Phi sorority and Duplicate Bridge Club for the Memorial Building. The club meets each Thursday to play bridge in the Memorial Building and the sorority's annual New Year's Eve dance falls on Thursday this year. Helen Bebee, bridge club director, said the clubs would meet in the Lions Club this year to ease the conflict.

The court adopted a budget prepared by county judge Johnny Griffin. The final budget hearing will be the first week of September for public and court approval. The court will also adopt a budget and tax during that meeting.

READY TO BEGIN SCHOOL--Mrs. Kathy Newman, kindergarten teacher comforts new student Sandra Garcia on her very first day of school. Sandra, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rosario Garcia, wasn't really sure she wanted to begin this big job of going to school, but Mrs. Newman assured her it wasn't really so bad. Sandra was one of a large class of 60 to start kindergarten here this year.

Teach Safety To Children

The following article is a public service by the Schleicher County Leader through the cooperation of T.P. Robinson, county attorney. Its purpose is to make you aware of a prosecutor's role, of your responsibility as a resident of this Schleicher County and how we can work together to alleviate some of society's problems.

September means school and for parents of young children, their child's trek to and from school each day can be a constant source of apprehension.

Parents should teach their children basic, commonsense precautions and work with school officials and the PTA to initiate crime prevention strategies in and around schools.

Give your child a healthy suspicion for "strangers", and a stranger is anyone a child's parents don't know, even if the person knows the child's name or "seems like a friend."

Children should never accept food or an automobile ride from a stranger and should never play around public restrooms.

Teach your children to never open the door to a stranger and never enter a stranger's home. If your child is selling Girl Scout cookies, Easter Seals or Christmas cards door-to-door, make sure he or she is accompanied by at least one friend.

If a stranger bothers your child, he or she should remember the stranger's description, his clothing and the color and license number of his car. Call the police IMMEDIATELY.

Parents of young children might consider organizing "child safety patrols" if child harassment becomes a serious problem. A more aggressive form of the "block parent" idea are children safety patrols, which are composed of parents who walk the streets when school opens and closes each day.

Know the length of time it takes your child to walk home. Also know the safest route to and from school and instruct your children to follow that route. If your children are to arrive home after dark, arrange to meet them.

Know your children's playmates and where they congregate. Visit the school and become acquainted with teachers and school officials. You may learn of delinquent behavior before it becomes a serious problem. Give the school instructions to release your children only to persons you have designated in writing.

Tell your child never to admit being home alone on the phone or to someone at the door. Be sure your babysitter is a responsible person and capable of acting in an emergency.

Children should be encouraged to talk with their parents any time they have a problem, whether the problem is with a stranger, friend, or relative. Remind your children that the police officer is a friend who can be called on any time there is trouble.

First Primitive Baptist Church, Ascot Building

Ascot Building Shown At Open House

Three steel buildings built by Ascot Corporation will be on display during an open house this Saturday. The buildings are the new Quadra building on highway 277, the Primitive Baptist Church on West Avenue and the barn at the Emmons farm south of town.

The open house will be from 9 a.m. until noon and refreshments will be provided.

Ascot, under direction of Larry McCommas of Abilene, has an office on South Main in Eldorado and has sold five of the steel buildings in the past few months.

McCommas says the company can sell steel buildings of any size and shape, do a turn key job or just erect the shell of the building, depending on the needs of the buyer.

The versatility of the buildings will be evident during the open house. The Quadra domed building is being used for a shop and the square building in front is an office.

The Emmons structure has an office and recreation room in front and the back half is used for storage. The Baptist Church building shell was erected by Ascot, but church members are completing the inside themselves.

McCommas says the buildings are very economical, especially for individuals or small groups that have a limited budget to work with.

He will be on hand to explain the versatility of the buildings as well as the construction, price and quality.

Permian Basin Leading In Production

The Permian Basin again leads the way in Texas oil and gas production in 1980.

According to the Texas Mid-Continent Oil and Gas Association of Dallas, eight of the states' top oil and gas producing counties last year are in West Texas.

Yoakum County was the number one oil county while Pecos County was by far the number one gas producer. Yoakum County produced almost 61 million barrels of oil and was followed by Gaines, Ector, Pecos and Hockley counties. Pecos county produced 461 million MCF of natural gas with Crane County second, Ector third, Scurry fourth and Gaines County fifth.

With the cost of oil more than thirty dollars a barrel and gas prices also on the increase, the money going for those products, royalties and salaries took a big jump last year. The oil produced in Yoakum and Gaines Counties sold for more than 1.3 billion dollars in each county. Ector and Pecos County brought 1.1 billion dollars and Hockley County 937 million dollars, Pecos County gas sold for $686 million dollars.

Royalties paid in Pecos County were $224 million dollars, followed by Gaines 170.9 million, Yoakum 170.8 million, Ector 163 million and Hockley with almost 121 million dollars in Royalty payments.

The total value of gas and oil in the eight counties was 9.6 billion dollars. The counties paid 480 million dollars in state taxes, spent 401 million dollars on drilling expenses, employed almost 19 thousand people with a payroll including Midland County of 637 million dollars.

Social Security Adopts New Practice

In 1981 the Social Security Administration has begun a new practice affecting people who receive disability benefits. Each year about a third of those receiving payments based on disability will have their eligibility reviewed to see if they are still disabled according to the law. About three and a half million beneficiaries nationwide receive monthly checks based on disability. Many of these people are likely to find their checks will be stopped if their medical condition has improved enough that they are able to go back to work.

The purpose of the new review procedure is to save money by removing from the rolls people who no longer qualify for disability. In 1980 congress mandated such a review, but the administration is putting it into effect well ahead of the schedule set by congress. Before 1981 very few cases were reviewed after the initial decision was made. When disability checks were stopped it was usually because the beneficiary had returned to work. Now a person will find his checks stopped any time he is able to return to work, even if he has not yet done so. To qualify for payment, in addition to meeting other requirements, a person must have a disability which will keep him or her from doing any substantial work for at least a year. Experience has shown that many people do recover sufficiently to go back to work. Of course, there are many types of disability that are permanent. Disabilities were there is no chance of recovery will not be reinstated.

The decision as to whether a person is disabled is made by an agency of the state in which the applicant lives. This same agency makes the decision when a case is called up for review. In both situations a person whose claim is denied has the right to appeal the decision.

The primary objective of the disability benefit program is to return beneficiaries to gainful employment whenever possible. Vocational rehabilitation services are offered to many people receiving disability. Other incentives such as a trial work period are provided to encourage beneficiaries to return to an active economic life. The periodic medical review is expected to provide the strongest incentive yet for people to return to work as soon as they are able.

Girl Scouts Try New Training Program

The Girl Scouts are going to try something relatively new this year in their training program. They have scheduled Training Extravaganzas in 6 locations throughout the council for the Fall. At these Training Extravaganzas, they will offer Sessions one, two, and three of the leadership series for new leaders and assistant leaders and several sessions for you experienced leaders and assistant leaders, such as songs and games, and meeting makers. Several sessions will be offered in the morning and afternoon, so each participant may choose two sessions to attend (Sessions one and two of the leadership series have been combined, so new leaders can complete their required trainings in one day by taking orientation and troop leader in the morning and age level in the afternoon).

Check below to find the training being offered that is best for you and plan to attend. NOTE: They will no longer offer trainings once a month in San Angelo.

San Angelo-August 29, 9 a.m. - 4 p.m. - St. Paul's Presbyterian Church

High School Seniors Face Big Decisions

The 1981-82 school year is just beginning and juniors and seniors at Eldorado H.S. and other high schools across the country are facing some big decisions.

One of those decisions is what to do after graduation-whether to go on to school, get a job, or try to do both. An important role in students planning will be played by guidance counselors, parents, friends, and the ACT Assessment Program. Designed to provide guidance information for education and career planning, this national program is recommended for use by student applicants at more than 2,700 colleges and universities.

Eldorado H.S. students will have five opportunities during the 1981-82 school year to make use of the program, which consists of four tests and a two part questionnaire. Students complete the questionnaire at home as part of the registration process. The tests are then administered at area test centers on any of five weekend national test dates, explained Ken Newman, HS counselor.

The five 1981-82 national test dates and the corresponding registration deadlines are:

Notes From Nancy

By Nancy Lester

This is the first of a two part question and answer series on pickling cucumbers. It will concern the causes and cures for many problems in pickling.

Can Dill Seed Be Used Rather Than Dill Weed In Making Dill Pickles? Dill seed does not give the pickle a pronounced flavor and may cause an "off" flavor in some pickles.

What Happens If I Use Iodized Salt For Pickling? Iodized salt may darken pickles.

What About Using Non-Iodized, "Non-Caking" Salt? "Non-caking" salt has ingredients which may make pickles cloudy.

What Kind Of containers Should I Use For Pickling? For heating pickling liquids, use utensils of unchipped enamelware, stainless steel, aluminum or glass. Do not use cooper, brass, galvanized or iron utensils; these metals may react with acids or salts and cause undesirable color change in the pickles or form undesirable compounds.

For fermenting or bringing, use a crock or stone jar, unchipped enameled pan, or large glass jar, bowl or casserole. Use a heavy plate or large glass lid, which fits inside the container, to cover vegetables in the brine. Use a weight to hold the cover down and keep vegetables below the surface of the brine. A glass jar filled with water makes a good weight.

What Is Slaked Lime and Why Is It Used? It is a purified lime. Lime bought at lumber yards is not purified and may contain lead. Lime is used to crisp pickles.

What About Using Alum In Crisping Pickles? When "pickles" are selected for processing at the proper stage and handled according to directions, a crispness additive is not needed. If you want to use one to be sure, ask for powdered alum-potassium aluminum sulfate. Caution: Too much will cause a bitter taste and may cause stomach upsets. Can Ice Cream Salt Be Used For Pickling? It should not be used because it is not purified. Does It Matter Whether I Use Soft Or Hard Water For Pickling? Softened water is preferred for pickling. Hardness may cause cloudiness and iron and sulphur in both cause off-colors in pickling.

If A Recipe Calls for Regular (40 Grain) Vinegar And I Have 60 Grain, Will It Make Sour Pickles? Yes. You can add 2 cups of water to 4 cups of 60 grain vinegar to change it to 40 grain vinegar. Then measure according to the recipe. (For 50 grain or 5 percent, add 1 cup water to 4 cups vinegar, then measure for recipe.)

What Kind Of Vinegar Should I Use For Pickling? Use high-grade cider or white vinegar of 4 to 6 percent acidity (40 to 60 grain). 40 grain to 4 percent is standard. Cider vinegar blends well with other flavors, but may darken fruits and vegetables. White vinegar has a sharp flavor and is desirable when light color is important. Do not dilute 40 percent vinegar.

Is There A Substitute for Vinegar? No.

Why Must I Process Pickles? Processing-for 5 or more minutes-has been found necessary because there was so much spoilage. Much of this has been due to bacteria, yeasts and molds which occur in the air and therefore easily contaminate food in transfer from kettle to jar. The reheating, combined with preservatives in pickles, is sufficient to control the organisms.

What Kind Of Salt Should Be Used for Pickling Vegetables? Pure granulated salt (also sold as "pickling" salt) or flaked salt or kosher salt. In most recipes the measure of salt is for granulated salt. When using flaked salt, use 1 1/2 times as much as recipe calls for.

What Do You Do With Sludge? Grow Trees

Modern technology has treated and disposed of sewage waste for so long the skills are taken for granted across the countryside as well as in the cities and towns.

Problem: When the sewage is processed, a mud-like pollutant called "Sludge"-billions of tons of it-is left over.

What's to be done with the stuff?

Although some of the waste has been turned into fertilizers for certain farm crops, this accounts for only part of the total. The question of how to get rid of the huge surplus persists. At the same time, the problem generates a heightened sense of urgency with reports that dumped sewage sometimes pollutes surface streams and underground water.

Solution: Scientists with the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Forest Service wondered whether the sludge could help trees grow faster and bring new life to barren acres. They are giving the idea a try and the results thus far show it works.

"Sewage sludge traditionally has been dumped into rivers, and more recently in landfills, but because of concern over the buildup of pollutants in the earth's water supply, these disposal methods no longer are acceptable," said Jim Evans, USDA research hydrologist.

"As an alternative to dumping sludge at sea or in landfills, we have found that because of the valuable nutrients contained in it, sludge can be extremely useful in getting vegetation to grow in areas with infertile soil or with severe erosion problems," said the hydrologist.

"It appears that sludge not only helps reclaim barren areas; it also increases the growth rate of trees."

Evans said Forest Service research studies in South Carolina and Georgia demonstrate the beneficial potential of sewage sludge. For the past ten years, researchers have fertilized a variety of tree species with the sludge, and most of those species responded with a dramatically faster growth rate.

Charles Berry and Donald Marx of the Forest Service's Southeastern Forest Experiment Station conducted the research on loblolly pine seedlings grown in soil fertilized with sewage sludge.

"On sludge treated plots, the biomass, or the total weight of the seedlings from their roots to their needles, is about 20 times greater than the biomass of seedlings grown without the use of sludge," Evans said.

Today, three years after being planted in the sludge, the seedlings still grow rapidly. This will be especially valuable for energy plantations where trees are grown for firewood and biomass.

"Berry and Marx also have found that by applying a one-half inch layer of sludge, even the most severely eroded or barren areas in their study soon contained enough soil nutrients to support grass and loblolly pine trees." The Forest Service researcher said.

Although sewage sludge is about 95 percent water, Evans said, it does contain many minerals such as zinc, nickel and copper which can harm some crops if applied in heavy concentrations. Also, some sludges contain substances such as cadmium, which, in sufficient amounts, can be harmful to animals that eat the crops.

"Sewage sludge is not recommended for all vegetable and fruit crops, but it is safe to use as a fertilizer for trees and field crops such as corn," he said.

One drawback to using sludge, said Evans, is that if the waste is improperly treated at sewage treatment plants, it can produce an unpleasant odor when applied to fields or forests. "Properly treated sludge, however, produces an earthy, musty odor that most people consider to be inoffensive," said the hydrologist.

Wheeler Is Elected ICA President

Roy Wheeler of Pleasanton was elected to his fourth term as president of the Independent Cattlemen's Association at their convention with the largest recorded attendance in a seven year history.

Wheeler, owner of the Atascosa Livestock Exchange, promised this will be one of the greatest years for ICA.

"We have laid a good foundation to build a bigger and better organization representing the cattle industry," he told the ICA House of Delegates. "But we still have a lot of work to do."

ICA goals for 1981-82 will be to work toward lowering interest rates, change other regulations imposed by the government detrimental to the agriculture industry and increase demand for beef. They plan to promote a dead Brucellosis vaccination program instead of the present test and slaughter regulations required by USDA and go to the polls Nov. 3rd to vote for the constitutional amendment exempting livestock from taxation.

The ICA House of Delegates unanimously passed a resolution announcing ICA's opposition to the 1982 Brucellosis program proposed by USDA. Wheeler said the program is unworkable to the producer and causes unnecessary federal expenses.

Re-elected to serve on the executive board with Wheeler were Dr. C.E. Payne of Bryan, 1st vice president; Bill Whitehead of Sonora, 2nd vice president; H.C. Youmans of Beaumont; secretary; and Joe Conti Jr. of Victoria, treasurer.

Elected to fill positions on the ICA Board of Directors were Mrs. Adele Wilson, Sonora; Bill Poole, Alice; Verlin Callahan, Austin; B.E. Lee, Buffalo; Bert Ricard, Palestine; and Bill Holbein, Hebbronville.

Keynote speakers for Friday, August 7 general sessions were Governor Bill Clements, shopping outlets and new price comparison methods," she said.

Wardell explained the new 25 cent promotion campaign ICA has endorsed and how the money is being used by the Beef Industry Council.

Smith updated the assembly on state property tax legislation in Texas.

Afternoon interest sessions on marketing opportunities in commodity futures, cell grazing systems and prescribed burning on grasslands drew an enthusiastic response from members. A trade show introduced members to many worthwhile products.

Shuman Directs FHA Activities

Charles W. Shuman was sworn in today as Administrator of the Farmers Home Administration (FmHA), the rural credit agency of the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture.

Shuman will direct the loan activities of 8,300 full-time employees from 348 State and District offices and 1,963 County offices in administering $12.2 billion his year in loans and grants to rural families and communities for farming, housing, and community facilities.

Shuman, 46, has operated a cattle and grain farm with two brothers in Sullivan, Illinois, and was a member of the investment brokerage firm of Blunt, Ellis & Loewi of Decatur, Illinois.

He served as Illinois State Director of Farmers Home from 1971-77. During that period, he also served temporarily as director of the agency's national finance office in St. Louis.

Shuman is a graduate of the University of Illinois with a degree in agriculture, and was a delegate to the Illinois constitutional convention of 1970.

He and his wife, Mary, have two daughters: Carol is a sophomore at the University of Illinois, and Linda is a high school student.

Shuman said as administrator he would emphasize supervision and servicing of the agency's loans to existing borrowers.

Seed Treatment

Seed treatment plays an important role in controlling many seed-borne and soil-borne diseases of small grains. The recommended seed protectants will control surface borne smuts, bacterial blights, seed rot, seedling control of loose smut of wheat and barley, and in combination with other fungicides they will provide a broad spectrum

Mrs. Dunagan Receives Degree

Mary Leigh Tisdale Dunagan of Eldorado was among 148 graduates to receive degrees from Sul Ross State University recently during commencement ceremonies in the Main Auditorium.

Ms. Dunagan received her Bachelor of Science degree in sociology. She is married to Danny Dunagan and has two daughters, Danette and Wendy.

of control. Field demonstrations have shown the combination fungicide formulations provide the most effective disease control on small grains.

Seed protectants introduced in the last few years are generally as effective as the mercury compounds. Result demonstrations have shown that seed treating does make a difference that is well worth the cost.

Sure, there are years when conditions are favorable and there will not be any significant difference between treated and untreated seed, but the loss to disease is great enough in those other years that the yield difference in just one such year will cover the cost of seed treatment for many years.

Small grain farmers have a wide variety of seed protectant chemicals to choose from. These include such chemicals as captan, terraclor, phynel mercury, thiram, HCB, Bitavax, maneb, copper compounds and thiabendazole. Vitavax is a systemic seed treatment material and is suggested for use where the loose smut disease of wheat and barley is a problem.

Seed protectant fungicides can be used in several ways. One of the newer techniques is the use of on-farm seed treaters and with on-farm auger treaters. The auger treaters are used as the grain is being moved from the storage bin into trucks or trailers and used to fill the grain drill.

Another on-farm method of treating seed is the "drill box" method. Several of the seed protectant fungicides are dust and are available in drill box formulations that can be applied to the seed in the drill box at planting time.

With the convenience of on-farm seed treaters and the drill box formulation of fungicides, the small grain farmer no longer has an excuse for not treating his seed.

Now unto Him that is able to do exceeding abundantly above all that we ask for or think, according to the power that worketh in us, unto Him be glory in the church by Christ Jesus throughout all ages, world without end. Amen.

But for this life, this little hour,

J. INGELOW

God so loveth us that He would make all things channels to us and messengers of His love. Do for His sake deeds of love, and He will give thee His love. Still thyself, thy own cares, thy own thoughts for Him, and He will speak to thy heart. Ask for Himself, and He will give thee Himself. ### March Production Numbers Released

Sixty-six refineries in Texas processed 130,769,869 barrels of crude oil and hydrocarbon blends during March 1981, according to their reports to the Railroad Commission.

This volume compares with 139,953,877 barrels in the previous March, the Commission's Oil and Gas Division reported in its monthly recapitulation of Texas refinery operations. Inputs of crude oil and blends totaled 122,481,979 barrels in February 1981.

Texas refineries ran 105,153,796 barrels of crude oil in March compared to 113,- 397,716 barrels in March 1980 and 97,799,434 barrels in February 1981.

Products manufactured in March 1981 totaled 130,291,157 barrels, down from 141,075,888 barrels in the same month the previous year, and up from the 122,892,659 barrels in February 1981.

Texas refineries manufactured 9,214,658 barrels of home heating oil in March 1981--an increase of 334,899 barrels from the year-earlier volume. February 1981 output was 12,169,766 barrels.
