Plans being made for SC Days

The 1988 version of the Eldorado Open Rodeo and Schleicher County Days is set here for Friday and Saturday, August 12 and 13.

The 19th annual rodeo will be held both Friday and Saturday nights and is sponsored by the Schleicher County Rodeo Association.

Candidates for Rodeo Queen are being sought. Girls interested must be 14 years of age as of January 1, 1988 and should contact Kirk Jones at 853-2312. Judging this year will be on appearance and horsemanship--no ticket sales this year.

Parade chairman this year is Bill Clark. People interested in entering should contact him at Clark's Gulf, 853-3734.

Saturday's Schleicher County Days will have something for everyone, young and old alike. From games such as horseshoes and dominoes to food and craft booths. Those interested in a booth should contact Cindy McGinnes at the chamber office 853-3109 from 9:30 a.m. to noon or call Candy Richards at 853-3142.

More detailed information will follow in next week's issue of the Success.

Marijuana netted in raid

ONE ELDORADO MAN ARRESTED

Acting on an informant's tip, Schleicher County Sheriff Ronnie Norris and Deputy Richard Harris, along with members of the Rio Concho Multi-Agency Drug Enforcement Task Force raided a local residence early last Tuesday morning.

Recovered from the Herman Street residence were approximately 12 ounces of marijuana, other narcotic paraphernalia and approximately $660 in cash.

Arrested at the scene and charged with felony possession of marijuana was Felix Chavez, Jr., 21, who occupied the house with his wife.

A television set, reported stolen from Action TV Rentals in San Angelo, was also recovered at the local residence.

Assisting Norris and Harris in the raid were Sgt. John Sparks, Detective Kevin Holloway, and Detective Mickey Jones. The Task Force officers assisted the locals in acquiring Affidavits of Search and arrest warrants for the 2:50 a.m. raid. The Schleicher County Sheriff's Department is a member of the Rio Concho Multi-Agency Drug Enforcement Task Force, which is designed to help local law enforcement agencies in the Concho Valley area combat drug problems in their communities.

Street value of the marijuana recovered was approximately $1000. Chavez is free on $5,000 bond set by Peace Justice Frank 'Pancho' Bradley.

The case will be presented to the next session of the Schleicher County Grand Jury.

Freighters were important

BY RENE CALCOTE

Vermont Ranch began the population of the West Texas area that included Schleicher County. Settlers and cowboys moved into this area and began to build permanent homes. The small town of Verand was established about a quarter of a mile from the main house of Vermont Ranch.

Verand consisted of a stage station, a store, a hotel, a school and several family homes. The town began to progress and the need for better transportation became evident.

In the late 1800s and early 1900s freighting outfits were established to supply the needs of the people in this area.

Several freighting outfits operated the route from San Angelo to Sonora. Most freighters had three wagons and a team of eight horses. Two horses were wheel horses, four were places in the swing, and two were in the lead of the team.

The lead horses were the only ones with reins, and were especially trained to lead the rest of the team in the direction the driver indicated. The wheel horses were trained to hold back if the wagon's brake failed to hold. The untrained horses were placed in the swing. This team pulled three wagons trailed together. The driver rode the left wheel horse, instead of the lead wagon.

The freighter's day was from sun-up to sun-down. They traveled through rough country and followed dangerous roads. Travel continued through bad weather and freighters would be gone weeks at a time. Three and one-half days were usually required for a run from San Angelo to Sonora, but storms would often hold the wagons up for days.

The wagons consisted of oak wheels, axels, and tongues. The wagon bed was made from pine. Wheels had to be greased to avoid coming off. If a tire came off, the wagon had to be jacked up and the tire slipped back on. The wooden wheel had to soak in water until it was swollen enough for the tire to fit snugly.

The cargo of the freight wagons consisted of groceries, salt, stock feed, and barbed wire. In the spring, around shearing time the freight wagons returned to San Angelo loaded with wool.

Stage coaches provided passenger transportation. The stage coach was pulled by four horse

Lamar Smith to visit

Congressman Lamar Smith will visit nine Hill Country and West Texas communities during a tour of official visits and town meetings beginning Friday, July 29 and ending Monday, August 1.

On Sunday afternoon, July 31, the congressman will visit Eldorado Air Force Station, home of the PAVE PAWS radar system that watches for sea-launched or intercontinental ballistic missiles. He will tour the facility with Lieutenant Colonel John S. Paul, Commander of the 8th Missile Warning Squadron.

Smith will again be in Eldorado Monday, for a community meeting at 8 a.m. in the Schleicher County Memorial Building.

"Because I value your opinions on the issues we are now debating in Washington, I hope you will be able to join us at the meeting most convenient to you," Smith said.

"Working together, we can respond to the many challenges that face West Texas, our region and our nation," he said.

"If you have a problem with the federal government or would like to share your views with me on what Congress should be doing, please come so we can talk," the Congressman added.

Booster Club sets first meeting

The Eldorado Eagle Booster Club will hold its first meeting of the 1988-89 season Monday night, August 1 in the Field House at the high school at 8:30 p.m.

The purpose of the meeting is to organize and elect officers for the school year.

"We invite all old members and anyone who is interested in supporting our athletes," a spokesman said.

For more information contact Phil Edmiston at 853-2134 or Dorothy Dacy at 853-3174.

August 3 at 7 p.m. there will be a team meeting in the field house and socks and shoes will be issued for high school athletes only.

Monday, August 8 begins two-a-day workouts in shorts only. These workouts will be at 8 a.m. and 6 p.m. Monday through Thursday. Pads will be issued and contact workouts commence on August 12 at 8 a.m. and 5 p.m.

feature the same schedule of two-a-day workouts as the Eagles prepare to scrimmage Brady here on August 19.

Eldorado's other scrimmage will be with Class A Rocksprings in Rocksprings on August 26. The Angora's are coached by former Eagle stand-out athlete Randy Morrison.

The varsity schedule for the year is as follows: September 2, Eden, there; September 9, Iraan, here; September 16, Sonora, here; September 23, Mason, here; September 30, Junction, there; October 7, Big Lake, here; October 14, Ozona, there; October 21, Forsan, here; October 28, Wall, there; and November 4, Winters, there.

The last five games are District 6-2A contests and homecoming is scheduled for the Eldorado-Big Lake game on October 7.

Included in San Miguel's first mailout to athletes is a description of what it takes to be a champion: "To be a champion, do the things an average guy won't do, the things the failures give in to or won't even attempt."

Scouts attend first ever camp

The Concho Valley Council Boy Scouts of America has completed its first ever Cub Scout Summer Camp at its Camp Sol Mayer, July 7-10. Over 250 cubs and adults participated in this pilot camp.

Campers included scouts youngest youth members, cub scouts in the second, third, fourth and fifth grades.

Carl Cummins, Scout Executive said the move was expected to strengthen the cub scouts' year round thrust, foster a stronger bond between parents and sons, permit better utilization of camping facilities, and support Scouting's emphasis on character development, citizenship training, and physical fitness.

The first camp theme was Indians and Pioneers with Space Adventure selected as the 1989 theme.

Activities included swimming, BB shooting, archery, handicraft, showmanship, nature, games, contests and campfires.

"We plan to offer the young boys a progressive experience," said Cummins. "Camping introduced to the boy in the early years builds toward the traditional advancement and outdoor programs offered to Boy Scouts."

The adventure themes, he added, will be structured so that there would be program variety over a four year period, thus encouraging a youngster to attend each summer during the second, third and fourth grade Cub Scout years as well as fourth and fifth grade Webelos years.

Cub Scouts from San Angelo, Brady, McCamey, Fort Stockton, Sanderson, Rankin, Sonora, Eldorado, Del Rio and Uvalde participated.

The Concho Valley Council which serves youth in 23½ counties in West Texas plans to operate its Cub Scout camp in 1989 at both Camp Fawcett, Barksdale, and Camp Sol Mayer, Ft. McKavett, beginning July 1, 1989.

One local youth attended the camp--Jaime Jenkins of Pack 18. Jaime is the nine-year-old son of Weldon and Mary Jenkins.

Former resident celebrates 100th

When Addie Lewis was born, Grover Cleveland was still serving his first term as President of the United States, Queen Victoria reigned over Great Britain, the ballpoint pen had just been invented and the population of Texas stood at around two million people.

She was born July 22, 1888, and last Friday Mrs. Lewis celebrated her 100th birthday.

Her daughter, Ruby Mounce of Brownfield, says that relatives and friends celebrated Mrs. Lewis' centennial with homemade ice cream and a birthday cake. Mrs. Lewis is a resident of Brownfield Nursing Home.

The former Addie Beatrice Jeter was born in Myrtle Springs (Van Zandt County) to William Henry and Rebecca Adeline Jeter.

Said Mrs. Lewis, "There's no comparison between today and back then. I was born at home; there were no hospitals anywhere close to us. Now, there are hospitals everywhere."

While she was not born in a log cabin, Mrs. Lewis certainly grew up in that Lincolnnesque setting. Mrs. Mounce notes, "When she was 16 years old, the doctor told her father to get the family out of that area, because the malaria was so bad. There was no medicine for it then."

The family moved to Comanche County where Mrs. Lewis encountered a strange, noisy contraption in 1905. "It drove down the street in Comanche. It wasn't called a car then. It was called a horseless carriage; it ran by itself," she recalled. "It scared off all the horses from the (town) square."

It was there in Comanche that she met and married William R. Lewis in 1911. Like her father, Lewis (now deceased), was a farmer. In 1925, the Lewises moved to Eldorado, and from there to Grand Prairie in 1950.

Says Mrs. Mounce, "Up until she was 89, she drove her own car, kept house and she taught Sunday School class for around 70 years."

Health problems, including a series of mini-strokes, began to crop up and after visiting with several of her children Mrs. Lewis came to Brownfield last year. Mrs. Lewis raised seven children (six of whom are still living). They are: Lee Lewis and Frank Lewis of Clyde, Hazel Crump of Austin, Iva Dell Miller of Quitman, Mrs. Muncie, Aletta Kessel of Ruth, Nevada, and the late Rev. Gene Lewis of Missouri.

Her living descendents number 99, including 24 grandchildren, 58 great grandchildren and 11 great great grandchildren.

Mrs. Lewis described her recent years as "nip and tuck", however, Mrs. Mounce stressed a factor in her mother's longevity--faith.

Mrs. Mounce remarked, "She was always a farmer's wife, and her greatest interest was in studying God's Word every day. The Lord has blessed her with a long life."

She was married to Gratton Edmiston, one of Eldorado's early settlers. They were married 54 years. He preceded her in death in 1972.

-top of the divide-

BY THOMAS GIOVANNITTI

Have you ever wondered why a wife can find things around the house and the husband can't seem to find anything? Now that may not be the case in every household but it usually is in my home.

I know it is even a little exasperating for Maxine that I usually have to ask her where "this or that" is. Listen, I usually look for a little while, mainly because it bothers me that I cannot find things. These things are never where I distinctly remember having left them. Now how they move from where I left them is still a mystery to me.

I don't have this trouble at the office but that is because I keep everything on top of my desk, thus making it findable if I keep looking. The things at work are more or less of the same genus aiding in their location. The things I can't find at home may run the gamut from pencils to potato peelers.

I have taken to enlisting the help of my small children to avoid the inevitable request to Maxine to tell me where the missing item is located. Don't get me wrong, she is very patient with me, usually, but it is that look of disdain for my own hapless attempts to locate these things that I do not want to see that makes me continue to search, so long sometimes that she will ask me "What are you looking for?"

Now there are times when even she can't find the missing item but those are rare occasions and since I am usually the person who last saw the thing I can't really blame her when she can't find it. Luckily most of the mislaid items have little economic value so their replacement doesn't set us back too much.

It is the principle of the thing that gets me. I mean why should I be the one who misplaces most things? It is even worse when one of the kids loses something because I feel a little ashamed scolding them when I suffer from the same failing. Of course, I don't feel bad enough not to admonish them for their carelessness.

I have learned a few tricks about finding things and I have actually begun to improve in finding mislaid items myself. For one thing, I have learned to distrust that little voice within me that assures me that I put it in the dresser or the desk. Inevitably, the missing object is never in that place, of which I was sure was its last resting place.

I do not know why my mind tries that trick but it does try it nearly every time. I have also learned that it does not hurt me to look in the same place more than once, since some things are really clever at hiding themselves among things I am not looking for. Lastly, of course, I ask my wife where the thing is.

teams, which were changed every ten or twelve miles. Stage coaches made trips daily through Schleicher County. The trip took several hours.

The horse drawn vehicles were replaced by motor vehicles in about 1910. The freight wagons and stage coaches soon vanished in this west Texas country.

-letters to the editor-

Dear Editor:

I'm sorry to hear that there are no qualified roofers in Eldorado any more. Or at least that's the impression one gets after the recent school board action in which all local roofing estimates were disregarded and a higher bid from an out of town roofer was accepted.

I really think that our county and other governmental agencies should use local suppliers in preference to out of town sources whenever possible.

In the case in question, two of the bidders have done work for me and I have seen the quality of the work that one of the other bidders has done. Any of these Eldorado contractors could have done a competent and workman-like job.

More to the point, they would have done the job for less and much of the tax money thus spent would have stayed here.

Sincerely,
Dale F. Lipsett

Preacher graduates

Elder Autry Duane McCarty, Pastor of Eldorado Primitive Baptist Church, recently returned home with "Snuggles"; graduates of the Leader Dog School, Rochester, Michigan.

Elder McCarty trained at the Leader Dog School for four weeks learning to travel confidently with "Snuggles". Daily intensive training sessions in the classroom and four hour practice periods conducted in Rochester, Birmingham, and Royal Oak, Michigan, prepared Autry and his Leader Dog to work together. Their practice included trips to various department stores and many other places of interest, all under the supervision of an instructor.

Graduates must know where they are going and direct the Leader Dog to the destination with commands. A dog does not read traffic lights, but crosses the street upon command from the master, who must study the pattern of traffic. The dog will proceed when it is safe. The public is asked not to interfere while the dog is working. If it is apparent the individual is having difficulty, a person nearby may simply ask, "May I help you?" A few months of "seasoning" will eliminate problems and distractions.

There is no charge for Leader Dog training, though the cost per team is approximately $7,500. This non-profit organization is supported entirely by contributions from Lions Clubs, various publicly supported agencies, and private sources.

Anyone wishing information about the Leader Dog program is invited to contact a member of the local Lions Club or write to Leader Dog for the Blind, Rochester, Michigan 48063.

Youth of the world need you

Hundreds of bright-eyed, well-educated students throughout the world are looking forward to living in the United States for the upcoming school year. There's only one problem—finding families here who will "adopt" the students as one of their own for nine months.

Host homes are urgently needed so that students can be suitably matched with families and schools before their August arrival. It takes several weeks to organize the match and to orient students and host families.

It is the hope of Youth Exchange Service (YES), the nonprofit organization which arranges the cultural exchanges, that world peace will be enhanced through its efforts. Since 1974, YES has brought more than 6,500 students together with host families throughout the nation.

YES students are 15 to 18 years old, communicate well in English, are screened for good moral and ethical behavior, and have medical/accident insurance. Students receive an allowance from their parents for spending money during their stay.

Students are expected to act as a part of their family, integrating into their lifestyle and sharing as much of each other's culture as possible. In addition to being an emotionally satisfying experience, hosting students has a tax deductible benefit of $50 per month.

Interested families may call YES at 800-848-2121. "In a World of Differences, Make a World of Difference." Please say Yes to YES today.

Program set

The Special Supplemental Food Program for Women, Infants and Children (WIC) is designed to improve the health of financially eligible pregnant, breast-feeding and postpartum women, infants and preschool children at nutritional risk. WIC services will be offered in Schleicher County for the first time beginning August 1, 1988.

The Texas WIC income guidelines are 185 percent of poverty. All women, infants and preschool children are encouraged to come by Eldorado Satellite Clinic at the Memorial Building in Eldorado for an appointment.

All WIC applicants are screened for their height and weight and all applicants over six months old are given a finger stick test for anemia. The Public Health Nurse will evaluate the results of the physical assessment and determine the applicant's nutritional eligibility.

While attending a monthly nutrition education class to learn the relationship between health and good nutrition.
