

On The DIVIDE

The days are warm and everything seems like spring has truly arrived. Unless a norther has hit before this reading. The past week has been pleasant and warm. We have even ventured out several times without a coat, taking caution not to venture too far, in the event a norther swept down from the plans.

Guess the Texas bluebonnets will be coming out pretty soon now. Some sections are already reporting peach blooms and other signs of spring. Up here on the divide, the season is naturally later, but we too have many signs of spring. The most prominent is the familiar Spring Fever.

Oil is frequently referred to "black gold", and it is all of that. As, for example one local citizen was recently about to secure a job through a governmental organization, in a nearby city, one of our readers tells us, and after much red tape and correspondence, officials of the organization finally reached the decision that inasmuch as Eldorado is now in the midst of an oil boom, the job seeker no doubt should secure a profitable job in the home county.

Santa Fe President Died At Chicago Home Wednesday

Samuel T. Blodsoe, President of the Santa Fe System Lines, died at his residence, 209 Lake Shore Drive, Chicago, Ill. at 5:05 a. m. Wednesday. He had been in bed with arthritis of the spine since the first of the year and the immediate cause of death was a sudden internal hemorrhage.

Funeral services will be held at St. James Episcopal Church, Huron street and North Wabash Avenue, Chicago, at 2:00 p. m. Friday.

In July 1912 Mr. Blodsoe was appointed general attorney of the Santa Fe at Oklahoma City retaining however his partnership with the firm of Cottingham and Blodsoe. Mr. Smith states that the purpose of building this attractive home was not to build a house that will exactly suit everybody but to erect a house that will embody the finest and newest features of modern construction.

Survey Of Gas Users In City Now Underway

A survey of potential natural gas users in Eldorado was being taken this week by F. A. Hornaday, Jr., representative of the Rio Gas and Power Company of San Antonio in an effort to determine the advisability of installing a natural gas distribution system here.

"The response of Eldorado citizens has been good," Mr. Hornaday stated Thursday evening, "but lack of our ability to contact some citizens has hampered the work some." Up to Thursday noon a total of 75 citizens had signed agreements to take the gas. The representative will be here through Friday of this week completing the survey.

"Those that were unable to contact this week, are urged to get in touch with Robert Page," Mr. Hornaday, advised in order that as many as possible may be secured that will agree to use the gas when placed in Eldorado. The company is seeking 200 local users.

It is hoped that a definite decision will have been reached in about three weeks pertaining to the feasibility of a natural gas system for Eldorado, according to the representative.

After completing his work, here today, Mr. Hornaday will leave for Ozona where he will conduct a similar survey of that city. Gas from the Cooper-Page field, nine miles southeast of here is planned to be used to furnish fuel to Eldorado as well as Ozona.

A fire of unknown origin destroyed approximately 16,000 bundles of feed valued at $500 last Friday afternoon on the Ovid Wade farm, four miles west of here. The feed was not covered by insurance, according to Jack Wade, owner.

Earlier in the week, the wind damaged the roof of the Wade home to such an extent that a new roof was necessary.

Boy Scouts Preparing For Camporee

A Boy Scout Camporee will be held at Ozona on Friday and Saturday March 31 and April 1. The local troop of Scouts began training on Monday night for the coming events. Troops will be graded for their camping ability their general morale, and their skill in competitions. The Eldorado Scouts believe they can give a good account of themselves.

The character of the local troop expires this month, and all Scouts must be registered. The committee in charge of the troop will meet on Friday night to discuss present financial problems of the work, and to arrange better organization.

WEST TEXAS RANCH TALK

SUNSHINE MATTHEWS Sheep and Goat Raisers Assn.

Announcements have been made in a number of state wool publications of a rise in the price of wool bags because of an increase in the jute market. A check of a number of Texas warehouses fails to reveal a jump in prices here. C. B. Wardlaw, president of the Texas Sheep & Goat Raisers' Association and head of the producers Wool & Mohair Co. at Del Rio, said that he felt sure that most of Texas' warehouses had their orders in early enough to save their customers the step-up in price.

Ranchmen of Mason County, according to the county agent, Frank Newsom, and Walker White, wool and mohair warehouseman and ranchman, are fast realizing the wisdom of and the profit in bringing lambs into that section for wintering. An increasing number of ranchmen through that section are buying lambs in the fall, they say, and Newsom estimates that 85 per

Water Works And Sewerage Completed

The Eldorado municipal water and sewerage system was completed this week and workmen on the job moved out Wednesday. The system has not been officially received by the city council, awaiting approval of tests on the pumping unit.

After the system has been taken over by the city, construction of individual connections will be started. This work will require approximately a month to complete before the system will be in full working order. The new well is now being used, the pumping equipment having been connected last week to make final tests.

Construction of the water and sewerage system has been underway in Eldorado for the past four months. The system is modern and adequate to care for the city's needs. It reaches into almost every part of town and is one of the greatest steps forward taken by the city in recent years.

Second Annual Volley Ball Tournament Slated Here Saturday

Marvin McAngus Kills 7 Foot Bald Eagle

A bald eagle measuring seven feet from wing to wing was shot with a 30-30 by Marvin McAngus on his ranch last Thursday.

The eagle was one of a number that have been killing and eating lambs on the various ranches in the community. Ranchers have banded together and are hiring an expert who uses an aeroplane in killing the eagles. It was reported that 25 eagles were killed in one day.

One of these eagles, found by Tom Smith, was given to the high school and is being mounted by Robert and Richard Bruton, seniors. The eagle was killed on the Horace Linthicum ranch, 20 miles west of here and measured 7 and 1-2 feet.

In 1933 the football squad was given an eagle when Eldorado defeated the Ozona squad. This was the second to become the property of the school, another having been given to the school several years before.

Robert Bruton has as his hobby the mounting of birds. Although he holds a diploma as a taxidermist he does not intend to follow that line of work after graduating from high school.

One and a half years of this time were spent in service in the U. S., three years in China, and one year in Panama with another year assigned in this same section.

Admission will be 10 cents for the morning games and 10 cents for afternoon games or 20 cents for the entire day.

THINKING MACHINES

For his work in developing an amazing group of mathematical "thinking machines" Dr. Vannevar Bush, new head of Carnegie Institute of Technology, was recently given a cash award of $2,500 by the Research Corporation of New York, a non-profit organization devoted to the advancement of science and invention.

So important is the work of Dr. Bush and his associates considered that a special grant of $45,000 toward its continuance has just been made by the Carnegie Corporation. The machines already developed are capable of solving mathematical problems of the most complicated character in a few minutes, which by former methods of computation would require many months.

One of these machines is known as the "differential analyzer," originally built for the solution of problems in electric power transmission, but which has been found adaptable to almost every branch of science and engineering.

Another is called the "cinematograph," described as being "designed for solving integral equations, evaluating Fourier series, determining correlation coefficients," and other problems understood only by master mathematicians.

These new machines are said to be among the most marvellous ever devised by the mind of man. Dr. Bush, their inventor, who will be 49 years old in March, is a former professor of electric power transmission, and dean of engineering at Boston Tech.

BIRTHDAY OF CONGRESS

For several years the country has been celebrating the 150th anniversaries of notable events connected with the founding of the United States as an independent nation, and March 4 marks the 150th "birthday" of Congress under the Constitution.

The event will be observed by a joint session of Senate and House, with such suitable exercises as may be arranged, including addresses by the President and others.

HE HAS SUCH TAKING WAYS

to get it printed on minority report, which appears unlikely. The battle ended one of the most hotly contested lobbying efforts seen in Austin in recent years. The rail road lobby recruited about 50 active workers, besides the three house members who are railroad employes, and divided the house membership up so that each lobbyist had to check only three House members. They worked night and day, and won, despite a vigorous effort by truckers, Rio Grande valley grapefruit and vegetable interests, and other farmer and shipping interests throughout the State. Those voting for the Leonard bill included Monkholse, of Uvalde; Allison of Lebelland; Burkett of Cisco; Burney of Evant; Gilmer of Rock-springs, Goodman of Midland, Howington of Commanche; Mays of Atlanta; Mohrman of Gonzales and Leonard of McAllen. Against it were Rhodes of Hearne; Fuchs of Brenham; Hamilton of Hills-boro, Harper of Jefferson; McAl-ister of Fort Worth; Reader of San Antonio; Reed of Dallas; Robinson of Galveston; Stoll of Taylor; Turner of Cameron and Wood of Marshall. Reed and Wood are railroad employes.

Fair Trades Bill Reported
The fair trades practice act, sponsored by a group of independent drug stores, which forbids "loss leader" sales and fires minimum prices at which merchandise may be sold, came out of subcommittees of both house and Senate, sitting jointly, with overwhelmingly favorable reports. It has passed twice in the House before, but was killed in the Senate. This time, endorsed by all the leading candidates for Governor and many legislative candidates in last July's elections, it seems certain of enactment.

Nobody's Business

By Julian C. Capers

AUSTIN.—All eyes in Austin this weekend were turned upon subcommittees of the House revenue and constitutional amendments committees, which were scheduled to report to the two committees jointly some kind of a revenue bill early in the week. The committees have ended weeks of hearings upon a variety of assorted tar bills, including transactions tax, sales tax, gross receipts tax, net income tax, gross income tax, natural resources tax, "use" tax, and various combinations of all these taxes.

Best opinion here was that whatever taxing action is taken by the House will be in the form on a constitutional amendment. The liberal pensions program promulgated by Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel, together with other social security needs, calls for an additional expenditure by the State of somewhere between $30,000,000 and $50,000,000 annually, depending upon just how liberal a pension policy is finally adopted. This legislature apparently is wholly unwilling to take the responsibility, on its own motion, of laying such a terrific financial burden upon the already heavily loaded tax-payers of the State. Whether

While March 4, 1789, was the date set for the assembly of the first Congress, in New York City, the new body was unable to begin its work on that date, because the difficulties of travel did not permit a sufficient number of the members to arrive on time. In fact, the two houses were not fully organized until April 6, and President Washington was not inaugurated until April 30.

At the time the first Congress met, only 11 states were represented, as North Carolina and Rhode Island had not yet ratified the Constitution. They were brought into line when the new Congress treated them as foreign countries and levied import duties against their goods.

North Carolina ratified on November 21, 1789, by a vote of 194 to 77. Rhode Island held out until May 28, 1790, and then ratified by the close vote of 34 to 32. There had been bitter opposition to the Constitution in Massachusetts, Virginia and New York, but ratification carried by close votes in each during 1788.

When it began its new national life, the population of the United States was slightly less than four million—almost exactly the same as the present population of Cook county, Illinois.

Yet the First Congress had problems no less difficult, and in some respects far more difficult, than those which confront the Seventy-sixth.

the solons are willing to pass the responsibility on to the people, by submitting a constitutional amendment levying the tax, remains to be seen. At any rate, few here believe that any taxes will be inflicted unless the people do say so, directly at the ballot box.

Hope Voters Wake Up

Conservatives in the Legislature hope that the Legislature hope that wide discussion of taxes which has resulted from the long hearings may have aroused the people to a knowledge that they cannot have several hundred thousand people living off the State without digging down into their own pockets to pay the bill. They hope the "pensions for everybody" sentiment, aroused by demagogues and nurtured by professional pension agitators for profit, involves only a minority of the voting population of Texas, and that, confronted with the serious business of levying thirty to fifty millions of new taxes upon their own backs, the same citizenship may outvote the gimmercrats, reject the tax program, and thereby declare for a sensible social security program of taking care of the actually needy only. With such a mandate directly from the people, the legislature could solve the state's financial problem in 30 days, without crippling business, industry, or other taxpaying groups.

Whiskey Bill Dead

Attorney General Gerald Mann virtually wrote the death warrant for the bill to legalize sale of liquor by the drink, when he handed down an opinion, in response to a House committee request, holding that such traffic is in direct violation of the constitutional provision forbidding open saloons. The best constitutional lawyers in Austin have held this view all along. They hold a similar view on the constitutionality of the bills to legalize race horse gambling under a "local option" scheme. They say there is no authority in the Texas constitution for local option on anything except sales of beer and liquor.

Truck Bill Loses

To E. B. Hamilton, second-term legislator from Hillsboro, fell the role of casting the decisive vote in one of the most spectacular battles of the present session. A member of the House highways and motor traffic committee, Hamilton voted against a favorable report of the bills by Homer Leonard, to raise the 7,000-pound truck load limit, after the other 20 committeemen had divided, 10 to 10. Thus the bill failed of a favorable report, 11 to 10, and its only chance now in the House is

$2.78 Total Cost Of Brooder Made By Jess Thompson

A chick brooder four feet long, three feet wide and one foot tall and a sun porch six feet by three feet has been made by Jess Thompson at a cost of $2.78. The brooder and sunporch each have a floor of hardware cloth which is raised approximately two inches above the other flooring. This makes it more sanitary for the chicks. The brooder is heated by means of two 40 watt bulbs which are placed in tin cans to keep the chickens away from the heat.

The brooder sits inside the garage and an opening is cut in the side of the wall which allows the chicks to run on the sun porch, on the outside of the garage. A sun porch is helpful in brooding chicks in that the chicks do not have to be handled so much.

What To Plant In Your Spring Garden

Beets—Detroit Dard Red is a variety that is a good sort to grow. Plant in loose soil. Thin plants to a three to four inch spacing when four inches high.

Cabbage—Chaleston Wakefield variety, a pointed type requiring 75 days from time of setting to edible heads. Copenhagen Market variety a round headed variety of high quality requiring 70 days to mature. Cabbage abounds in soil heavily fertilized with rotted Space plants 10 to 12 inches apart in the row.

Carrots—Nantes variety, a carrot of deep orange color and high quality. Danvers Half Long Variety, quality not quite so good as Nantes but exceptionally hardy. Plant in loose soil covering 1-2 inch deep. Seventy days from seeding to harvest.

Corn—Honey June variety. For early roasting ears and for canning this variety should be used.

Lettuce—Las Angeles variety (also known as New York and Wonderful) may be planted in the open garden this month. Thin the plants to a spacing of 6 to 10 inches in the row during period of early growth. "Salad lettuce" may be harvested this way. Thinning must be done before crowding takes place if good heads are to be grown.

Mustard—Tendergreen variety. Plant 25 to 50 feet in row space now and replant every three or four weeks in order to have a new tender supply available at all times.

Onions—White Bermuda (also known as Crystal Wax) Set out 50 to 100 small plants now. They will make tender green onions in a few weeks. Those that mature will be sweet and good for salads, etc. This variety is poor in keeping qualities. For use in late summer and fall and winter plant the Sweet Spanish variety. Not quite so mild in flavor, but less will go further. They keep well under farm conditions.

English Peas—Bountiful variety, a smooth seeded quick maturing sort that will make peas in 60 to 70 days. Little Marvel variety, a wrinkled variety of exceptional table and yielding qualities. Thomas Laxton variety, a noncommercial variety for canning and market. Large pods filled with seven or eight medium sized cream peas. Peas should be planted following heavy applications of rotted manure. You can't make the soil too rich for them.

Emmett Pfluger of Eden is planning on show lambs for the 1940 spring shows. He has eight lambs from the Bullard ewe, "Majestic," out of five registered ewes. Pfluger has around 75 registered ewes, but is counting more heavily on his Bullard lambs for show purposes.

Luke Pacco, publisher of the American Sheep Breeder, had a golden Rambouillet ram statuette on display at San Angelo during the fat stock show. The ram, insured for $10,000, is the property of the Flexible Shaft Co. of Chicago, and was made in Scotland better than half a century ago.

Dick Knight of Sterling City has sold two doubles of yearling ewes out of the wool for June 1 delivery at $5 a head.

Forty-three hundred yearling ewes were sold at Stanton out of the wool, with a five per cent cut, for May 15 delivery at $5 to a Wyoming buyer.

Joe Galverly of Garden City has sold two doubles of yearling ewes out of the wool for June 1 delivery at $5.

Concern has been expressed by C. B. Wardlam, president of the Texas Sheep & Goat Raisers' Association, Del Rio, that ranchmen might "jump the gun" on almost certain better prices on their wool and mohair for 1939. Considering foreign markets and conditions in the east, he believes that wool will sell considerably nearer 30 cents than the early contracts of 20 cents a pound. Mohair, he declares, is in a strong position and should sell from 40 cents for the grown hair to 60 cents for the kid.

Reports rolling in from the country where goats have been sheared point to a 1939 mohair clip from one to one and a half million pounds short. Goatmen say their animals are shearing from a half to a pound per head lighter than usual. This, they say, is due to the extremely dry weather and poor condition of the range.

Whitehead & Wardlaw and L. J. and L. B. Wardlaw of Del Rio completed their shearing recently and found their mohair clip much lighter than the average.

Ollie Cox of Sweetwater will furnish the rodeo stock for the Abilene rodeo during the fat stock show there on March 24 and 25. He will have around 100 head of rodeo stock at the show.

Capt. R. G. (Red) Hawkins of Company C, Texas Rangers, headquartered at San Angelo, whose company is handling livestock theft cases for the Texas Sheep & Goat Raisers' Association, is urging West Texas ranchmen to report losses as promptly as possible. Complaints may be made to him at San Angelo or to the association's office at Del Rio. He has Earle McWilliams and Levi Duncan at San Angelo, Pete Crawford at Marfa, and John Reese and Lester Stewart at Comanche, with state cars available for prompt action on these cases. Serving the association in the same capacity in the Hebberville sector is Capt. Bill McMurray's five Rangers.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Strube and two daughters of Wail visited Mr. and Mrs. Wiley Ratliff last Sunday.

THE AWFUL PRICE YOU PAY FOR BEING NERVOUS

Quivering nerves can make you old and haggard looking, cranky and hard to live with—can keep you awake nights and rob you of good health, good times and jobs.

What you may need is a particularly good woman's tonic—and could you ask for anything whose benefits are better proved than famous Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound? Let its wholesome herbs and roots help Nature build up more physical resistance and thus help calm your shrieking nerves, give more energy and make life worth living again. More than a million women have reported benefit—why not let Pinkham's Compound help YOU, too, to go "smiling thru" trying times like it has other grateful women for the past 3 generations? ONE THING And THEN ANOTHER By Fred Gipson

CORPUS CHRISTI—I like to think I'm a broad-minded sort of a man. But some things are against my very nature and back woods upbringing. And when I come in contact with them, I can't help but getting just a little red under the collar. One of these things is lap dogs. Now I'm as strong as a man as ever switched a hound pup's tail for running rabbits. I believe in dogs. I've fought for them when somebody started kicking them around. I've fought with them, when they tied into a bobcat or old he-coon that was bigger than they could handle. I've watched them die, cut to pieces by wild range hogs and cried like a kid when I had to ride off and leave them dead—and wasn't ashamed. But those were dogs a man respected, just like he respects a few men he knows, that a man admired for their dauntless courage and level-headedness in tight spots, loved because of their un-falling love for him.

They weren't little old fuzzy, bench-legged pests that know nothing but smelling up a man's house and tearing up ever shoe and sock left on the floor and grabbing and gnawing the ankles of every innocent caller so unfortunate to put his foot inside the home door.

I ran into one of these little old pesky lap dogs just the other night. I met a pretty girl and got romantic minded and went to call on her. And what should meet me at the door but a little old pan-faced pekinese, who gave me the same sort of reception my old hound dogs used to give a prowling coon or a chicken-thieving for. And right then, for the first time in years, I wanted to kick a dog.

Well, the girl came down, after keeping me waiting the proper length of time, the dog baying incessantly. But she scarcely gave me a glance. Instead, she grabbed up that bundle of annoyance and began cuddling him in her arms, while she explained in the most revolting type of baby talk that "Snookums Sweetums mustn't act a bad boy now, else he won't get any supper."

Then she wasted the next couple of wooing hours complaining about what a lot of trouble dear little 'Snookums Sweetums' was to her, what with the way he insisted in pulling down all her clothes out of the closet and chewing up her hose and otherwise making himself obnoxious.

And during that time, I learned also that "snookums Sweetums," bless his little soul, ate right at the table with her, in his own special chair and sometimes she had the awfullest time imaginable getting him to drink his milk. And he must always have a special sort of bread that she ordered from the baker, just for him, because ordinary bread was so likely to give him indigestion.

And it wasn't long before my mind was way off all thoughts of romance and parlor lounge wooing. I was thinking of those old hound dogs I used to keep at home.

Once in awhile, just for the hell of the thing, one of them might take a notion to prowl into the house and maybe lick up a bowl of butter or swipe a panful of cornbread. And you had to go right away and give him a quiting if you expected to get anything out of him for the next week. Because he'd keep remembering that he had one coming and would worry about it so that you couldn't even get him to catch a frying chicken for dinner.

But just as quick as you laid the lash on him for a minute or two, he was happy again and ready to go bring in the milk calves for you, chase the hogs out of the corn field or run a fox trail all night.

Those dogs knew they didn't belong in the house. And they respected a man who kept them out. They slept in the barn or under a doorstep or wherever was handy. And they were thankful for a mess of corn meal mush or a batch of clabber milk. And they took their bread, brown or white or black, downing any and all of it with the same eager relish and if the pork or venison was short for too long a period of time, they didn't hesitate to take a young rabbit's trail and kill their own meat.

They weren't parasites. They didn't want to be. They stayed with a man because they liked a master that liked to follow the chase as well as they did. They were his companions.

But, on the other hand, had some same gone and tied a pink ribbon around the neck of one of them and cuddled him in her lap and talked baby talk into his long floppy ears, most likely he'd have started gnawing people's ankles, too, before long. And a man couldn't much blame him.

Which leads me to believe that maybe after all I don't despise lap dogs so much as I do people who make lap dogs out of them. Anyhow, which ever way it is, when I see some fur-draped dame slithering down the street on the end of a chain behind a nasty-tempered pooch, I just naturally see red and I can't seem to help it.

No self-respecting dog would ever be caught on a chain if he could help it. And it looks like people ought to have as much self-respect as dogs.

That Plaintiff further alleges that Defendants hold and claim their interest, if any they have, as heirs and by descent from Mrs. Eva Bramblett, Deceased wife of Coll Bramblett, who died November 1916, intestate; that the said executory contract of sale from S. ELECTRICAL PROGRESS

In spite of special handicaps, in addition to the veneral low level of business during most of the year, the electrical industry as a whole made considerable progress during 1938. For while the industry's net income dropped sharply, it improved and extended its service to the public.

Electric service was brought to approximately 600,000 new customers, of which about 168,000 were on the farms of the country. Generating capacity was increased by a million kilowatts, and almost $500,000,000 was spent for construction. At the same time the cost of household electricity was further reduced to the lowest figure on record.

Bean Roberson and his brother of Mineral Wells, sold 2,500 head of comin yearling steers and full aged yearlings to Burton Mitchell of Marfa at 9 cents a pound for immediate delivery. The cattle are at Palo Pinto.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Neill have moved into the Ballew home in the Glendale addition.

You Must Decide WHAT PRICE HUMAN LIFE...

TRUCKING interests demand legislative authority to increase the existing truck load limit on Texas highways, arrogantly ignoring the fact that highway hazards to life and limb grow greater year by year.

On the highways of Texas in 1937, the last year for which authentic figures are available, 670 persons... men, women and children... lost their lives in accidents in which trucks were involved... and 3,360 others were injured... many of them permanently disabled.

In the past six years... 1932 to 1937, inclusive... the number of persons killed annually in truck accidents increased from 241 to 670... and those injured from 887 to 3,360. These indisputable figures... taken from actual accounts of truck accidents published in Texas newspapers... show that in the six-year period 2,936 persons lost their lives and 15,183 were injured in truck crashes on the highways of our state. The number... is greater than the population of Odessa, Gatesville, Lampasas, La Grange, and... exceeds the population of Sherman, Marshall, Corsicana or Paris, all ranking business centers of the state.

Analysis of official records of accidents in which trucks were involved reveals a further vital fact... that the heaviest and largest trucks, as a class, operating over Texas highways in 1937, showed a death rate of four and one-half times that of all trucks, large and small, and almost seven times that for all motor vehicles, including trucks.

The combination of weight and size of motor vehicles is thus definitely proved to be the controlling factor in fatal highway accidents... the heavier the vehicle... the harder it hits... the more surely it kills or cripples.

The statutes now in effect have governed truck operations on Texas highways since 1931 and the ever-growing toll of truck accidents, injuries and deaths, reflects only the increasing ingenuity of the operators of overloaded trucks in evading or openly defying the laws created to control them in the interest of public safety. Large trucks use your highways only by your permission expressed through your legislature.

Texas citizens and taxpayers have built and maintained Texas highways. They are definitely entitled to the safe use of them and not to be driven from them by those who seek to operate upon them for selfish gain.

Daughter Born To Mr. and Mrs. Jeffrey

Mr. and Mrs. Bethel Jeffrey are parents of a baby daughter born March 1 at their home. The baby has been named Lenda Pearl and weighed seven pounds and 10 ounces at birth.

Mrs. Williams Enlarges Hatchery

Mrs. George Williams has just completed a new building in which she has installed her baby chick hatchery. The hatchery is modern in every day and is as sanitary as one can be made. She has a 6000 egg capacity taking out 800 chicks twice a week. She plans to sell only AAA chicks from bred to lay blood-tested or rhodes island reds, barred rocks, buff orphingtons and white leghorn.

The buff orphingtons are from her own flock of 200 U. S. approved buff orphingtons. These flocks have been blood-tested for pullorum disease. She is glad to help you and your chick problem as she studied poultry for several years and wants Schleicher County to come to the front in poultry business. She hints to poultry raisers that proper temperature is most essential in raising baby chicks and that a cheap chicks never pay and warns against buying chicks from the too large commercial hatcheries where the sorting method is used to select your chicks and that there is forever the danger of getting premises infected with poultry diseases so common in other states and in the Southern and Eastern part of our own state. These diseases have been shipped in through infected chicks that were infected some time from parent's stock. She invites you to come out any time to talk poultry with her and look over her new hatchery and chick home.

METHODIST CHURCH

word shall not return unto me void." Isa 55:11

The work of the Holy Spirit is continuous and unending, Enos Mills in his Spell of the Rockies, tells that there are six hundred kinds of trees in North America and each of these equips its seeds in a peculiar way to take advantage of the wind, gravity, water and bird; by this method they were carried to different sections of the country, soon to become mighty in shade and beauty. Even so, every christian carries unconsciously the seeds of life, when he is alive to Christ: Silent influences are the greatest in the world The sunlight is silent: "Ye are the light of the world." said Christ: The word, which is the seed, under such light slowly but surely, burst forth not full fruition in this life and the life to come:

Vegetable Film To Show At Lone Star Theatre

There is a real drama in the feeding of the city multitudes which not even the vegetable grower, his relatives, or friends in the small towns appreciate. Plant diseases play the role of the villain in handicapping the grower in his efforts to produce high-quality vegetables.

Authorities estimate that some three hundred disease organisms are commonly carried on farm and truck crop seeds. It is infested with a score or more disease organisms that cause seed decay, seedling blight, or dampingoff and many other plant and fruit diseases. Such bacteria and fungi commonly occur on the seed and infest the soil.

These diseases villains leave their identifications as clearly imprinted on the vegetable plants or fruit as does the criminal leave his finger prints. Clear, concise descriptions of the appearance of many important vegetable diseases and the actual photograph of the 'big shots' of the plant world are given in the educational film FEEDING THE MULTITUDE.

An amazing feature of the film is the actual growing of disease protected and unprotected plants before your eyes. Several weeks of slow growth are crowded into a few fast seconds. The plants are attacked by a disease and killed. In another scene the disease actually surrounds and smothers a seed to death.

See how the growers combat these plant gangsters! His methods are interesting. That they are effective is proved by the high-quality vegetables which enter the American market.

Don't Miss It! See it at The Lone Star Theatre, Wednesday or Thursday.
