EXPERTS OFTEN WRONG

In an essay which took up 25 pages of an Edinburg periodical in the year 1837, a learned scientist of that day gave an elaborate exposition of the "fact" that it would never be possible to build a steamship capable of crossing the Atlantic under its own power.

About the same time other scientists declared Louis Deguerre, one of the inventors of photography, to be a crazy man because he thought he could make pictures with a wooden box.

A few months before the Wright brothers made their first airplane flight in 1903, a member of Congress opposed an appropriation for research into the possibilities of air navigation, declaring that no one but a fool would believe such a thing possible. And some eminent physicists agreed with him.

Scientists also once held that even if a speed of 100 miles an hour could be attained, human beings would be either suffocated or have their very brains addled by traveling at such a velocity.

Instances of similar errors by supposed experts ever since the beginning of recorded history might be cited to show how difficult it is to gain acceptance for a new idea. But progress in the future, as in the past, will probably be made through ignoring those who think they know it all

HEALTH FADS

The subject of how to live long is always of interest, which perhaps accounts for the eagerness of the average mortal to seize upon various methods which are recommended for promoting health and longevity, such as doing daily exercise to radio music and the like.

In spite of all the propaganda on the subject, however, there are many who are skeptical regarding the real benefits of strenuous physical activity. One of these wrote a letter to the Cleveland Press pointing out that Walter Camp, famed athlete and originator of the "daily dozen," died at 65, while he, the writer, had never taken any kind of exercise to speak of and was still in excellent health, although a great-grandfather. He added that "the longest-lived people are the physically lazy but mentally alert."

Commenting on the letter, William Feather, a well known editor, declares that several years ago he adopted a vigorous health program, including vegetarianism cold baths and the daily dozen, with this result:

"Acute indigestion led to the abandonment of vegetarianism on doctor's orders. Another doctor recommended discontinuance of cold baths. The daily dozen are still pursued, but faith in them has been shaken by the untimely death of their inventor."

Still, we may find many who swear by the health fads and feel that their lives have been saved thereby. As the proverb has it, "What is food for some is black poison for others"

TWO STRIKES ON HIM BEFORE HE GOES TO BAT

Nobody's Business

By Julian C. Capers

AUSTIN—Having played every card in his hand in an effort to jam through the House of Representatives, his constitutional amendment for a sales tax, and four times having been defeated, Gov. O'Daniel and the sales tax forces aiding in his fight prepared at the weekend for a fifth and final effort.

The Governor played his hole-card last Friday, when he signed the bill liberalizing the pension rolls. In his Sunday morning broadcasts, he placed the laurel wreath of victory upon his own brow, and celebrated a triumph he seemed to regard as already won.

SENATORS ARE ARROGANT

The strategy this week was designed to put the last ultimate ounce of pressure upon the determined House minority which has opposed the constitutional sales tax. The House had sent its omnibus tax bill to the Senate, where the State affairs committee promptly killed it, after hearing only three of a string of 40 witnesses. Motion to kill was offered by Sen. Will Pace, of Tyler and only three votes—those of Clint Small, Manly Head and Olan Van Zandt—were cast against it. Those voting to kill included Collie, Grapes of Dallas, Martin, Moore, Nelson, Pace, Roberts, Shivers, Stone of Galveston, Stone of Washington, Weinert and Winfield. Van Zandt the blind senator from Grayson county administered the death blow to the bill, when he refused to sign a minority report, which would have enabled it to go to the floor. Immediately afterward, on Pace's motion, the same committee killed the House gross receipts tax bill, which has been pigeonholed in the committee for a month. This cue off all possible methods of raising pension revenue at this session except through a constitutional amendment for a sales tax. The Governor, in his radio talk, referred to it as a "compromise settlement" of the question. Actually, it was the most highhanded and arrogant refusal by nine Senators to accept any compromise that has been seen in the Legislature since the Senate blocked a regular session in refusing to consider the race gambling repeal bill.

FILIBUSTER COSTS MILLION

The costly filibuster in the Senate, which has virtually stymied all important legislation during the dyinb weeks of the million-dollar record-breaking lengthy session, continued last week, and was due for another chapter. Sen. Weaver More of Houston acting in behalf of the Senate majority who are opposed to the price-fixing "fair trades" act, but politically afraid to vote against it, held the floor for two days with a reading of a history of the Texas Press and a list of the 900 newspapers published in the State. He was "debating" the bill sponsored by the Texas Press Association to fix a flat rate for legal publications, and require their publication in newspapers instead of posting them on courthouse doors. The fair trades act lies directly under the newspaper bill on the Senate's House bill calendar. Purpose of the filibustering group is to avoid a vote on the fair trades act by refusing to get to it on the calendar.

PLENTY LIBERAL

Under the liberalized pension law, a couple over 65 might own a 200-acre black land farm, a residence costing $10,000, have a $1,000 life insurance policy each, and a substantial cash balance in the bank. They might further have six brown sons and daughters, single and living in their home, and earning $2400 a year each. But they would still be entitled to a pension, with no questions asked. Such a picture lends credence to the doubts of those who have had experience with the strict interpretation which the Federal Social Security board places upon the "need" requirement, before doling out the Federal cash.

Lambs are easily dressed and convenient to handle on the farm. A carcass that will yield from 25 to 45 pounds is small enough for the average farm or ranch family to use as fresh meat.

Mint is the traditional favorite as a lamb accompaniment, but tart plum jelly is good, too. Horseradish, mixed relish, sliced pineapple, spiced sweet pickled peaches, or pears are desirable.

The number of sheep on Texas farms and ranches is increasing and has already reached 9,400,000. Prospects are that more of the lambs produced in Texas will be fattened in Texas.

Pineapple Canned At Home

"When pineapple may be bought and canned for 1-2 to 1-3 the price we pay for a good grade of canned pineapple it is a good investment," is what Margaret Stewart, County Home Demonstration agent, told a group of women when giving a demonstration on the canning of pineapple in the home of Mrs. E. E. Newlin Monday, June 5th at 2:00 p m. To prepare pineapple for canning cut off the stem and twist out the top, place the pineapple on its side on table and slice crosswise, peel each slice, cut out core and shape slices with a sharp round cutter or cut in pieces of any desired shape. Pineapple may be crushed by a griser food chopper or perhaps by some other commercial food preparation means. Juice or syrup for canning the fruit is best made from cooking the outer trimmings of the meat of the fruit as the best flavor is in the part next to the skin. Add cores and enough water to cover. Simmer until the fruit is clear, then strain the juice through a cloth that has been wrung out in hot water. Make a light syrup using 1-3 cup sugar to 1 cup juice.

To precook fruit cook slices or crushed pieces of fruit in light syrup 8 to 10 minutes or exhaust five minutes in the can or jar after the hot syrup has been added at 150 degrees F. before sealing. Exhaust means to pack fruit cold in containers cover with hot syrup and set containers without lids on in hot water bath with water covering to one inch of the top of containers.

Pineapple contains an extra amount of air in its cells which must be removed before sealing to prevent loss of flavor, discoloration and spoilage. To process seal and process in water bath for 23 minutes for no. 2 cans, 28 minutes for no. 3 cans and pint glass jars, 33 minutes for quart jars. The water of water bath should completely cover the jars and time should be counted when the water begins to boil. A lid should fit tightly over the top. Cool water bath quickly to prevent overheating as this affects the flavor and color.

STIRBLING SELLS FAMOUS HEREFORDS TO ALABAMA BREEDER

Rotan, Texas, May 25—The recent sale of a bull and four cows to new breeders in Alabama is announced by John B. Stribling, nationally known Hereford breeder of Rotan, Texas. All were linebred Anxiety 4th Herefords purchased for foundation animals in the establishment of new herds. M. Stribling reports that the bull and three cows went to Webb Bros., Marion, Alabama, for total of $2,010, and one cow to a neighbor, Gayle Wallace, for $550.

These sales were made by correspondence with C. A. Webb, Jr., and J. C. Webb, forward-looking young owners of extensive plantations in Alabama. They attended Mr. Stribling's auction sale last Feb. in which 97 Herefords averaged $562. Astonished by the quality of the cattle and unprepared for such prices, they failed to make purchases at that time, later writing Mr. Stribling of their needs, which correspondence resulted in the sales mentioned.

Included among Schleicher county ranchmen who have purchased registered livestock from the famous Stribling ranch during recent years are Pat Martin and W. F. Webster.
