Stronger Together Than Apart: Eldorado Ministerial Alliance

by Hawley Wolfe

On Tuesday, October 1st, at 1 P.M., several ministers of Eldorado will be meeting together over coffee at the Jones Manse of the First Presbyterian Church. What is the ELDORADO MINISTERIAL ALLIANCE and what significance does it have? There are as many answers as there are people, so I can only offer up some of my own thoughts and feelings. I choose to be involved in

ELDORADO MINISTERIAL ALLIANCE for the following reasons, among others. I believe in ELDORADO MINISTERIAL ALLIANCE because I believe Christians of all denominations, traditions, and doctrinal beliefs can and should work together for the common good of the community. My wife, Anne, and I once had the great privilege of touring the Holy Land, including the Garden Tomb where according to tradition Christ was buried and resurrected. While there, we heard the story of another group of American Christians who actually went off into a separate corner of the Garden so not to share the Lord's Table with the "others". It amazes me that Christians would travel 10,000 miles to walk where Jesus walked yet be unable in that situation to honor our common unity in Christ for a few minutes. As a minister I feel it is important to work with my colleagues in ministry to set an example of cooperation. I don't believe I can with integrity expect anyone else to work cooperatively with those of other religious backgrounds if I am not willing to do so myself. I believe in the ELDORADO MINISTERIAL ALLIANCE because we are able to do some things better together than we can apart. The benevolent work of our ELDORADO MINISTERIAL ALLIANCE fund is a perfect example. By pooling our monies we are able to help stranded travelers and local families and individuals in need more effectively than we could trying to do it separately. In some cases the ELDORADO MINISTERIAL ALLIANCE may be able to help those who do not have a church of their own to which to turn for assistance.

ALLIANCE?" I would suggest several things: first, encourage your Pastor to attend and be active in the ELDORADO MINISTERIAL ALLIANCE (the next meeting is Tuesday, Oct. 1, 1:00 p.m.); second, plan to attend the annual Thanksgiving service to be held Sunday, Nov. 24th, 7 P.M. in the Memorial Building; third, consider making a direct contribution to the ELDORADO MINISTERIAL ALLIANCE fund to help the needy of our community; fourth, talk to your Pastor or another member of the ELDORADO MINISTERIAL ALLIANCE about what you think could be done by the ELDORADO MINISTERIAL ALLIANCE to make our community a better place. We are committed to listening!!!!

I believe in ELDORADO MINISTERIAL ALLIANCE because I enjoy the camaraderie and fellowship of like-minded individuals. We share common joys and frustrations, encouraging one another in our work. Sharing helpful ideas and information about programs that have worked well in our individual churches and past experiences. We laugh and joke a great deal, and generally have a good time together. You may be asking "What can I do to support the ELDORADO MINISTERIAL

"We did not play well, but we still won!" These were the words of Head Coach Doug Kuhlman after Friday night's football game between the Eldorado Eagles and the Irion County Yellow Jackets. According to Kuhlman, failure to execute offensive fundamentals was the main culprit for the poor showing. Our passing game did improve with Cy Griffin and Reyes Lozano connecting 4 times for 60 yards. The games only score was made by Lozano on a 5 yard touchdown reception. Eldorado defense held Irion County to only 23 rushing yards and 69 passing yards. Each team had five fumbles with the Eagles losing three and the Yellow Jackets losing two. The Eagles will open District play against the McCamey Badgers in McCamey Friday night. The Badgers have a record of 1 and 2. According to Coach Kuhlman, the Eagles should have a good chance against McCamey.

In J.V. action, the younger Eagles swamped Sterling City 26-12. This game was played in Sterling City this past Saturday. Several Eagles got into the scoring action. Travis Whitten scored two touchdowns. Farley Dakan scored one touchdown. Mada Gower scored a touchdown. Landon Neal scored a two point conversion. According to Coach Paul Michalewicz, the defense deserves high praise. For much of the game, the defense shut down Sterling City's offense. Big plays were all that allowed Sterling City scores. The J.V. record now stands at 2-1. The J.V. Eagles will play here Thursday night against McCamey at 6:30. In Junior High action, the 7th graders lost 32-0 against Grape Creek. The 8th graders won against Grape Creek 20-0. Junior High teams play Thursday night in McCamey starting with the seventh grade at 5:00.

"E" Day - Saturday, September 28th

by Mary Barton Robinson
Eldorado Needs You!
"E" Day is almost here! This Saturday, September 28th, plan to join with other concerned volunteers to get our community ship-shape. Be Prepared! - with mowers, non-electric trimmers, hoes, rakes, brooms, dust pans, etc., and meet at the courthouse lawn at 9:00 a.m. for registration and assignments. Be There and Help Keep Eldorado Beautiful! A complimentary lunch will be held from 12-1 p.m. in the Memorial Building for all volunteers.

PTA Update

To promote school spirit in Eldorado, the PTA is selling T-shirts with an Eagle design on the front. These are green in color and cost $5.00 each. Orders are being taken at the elementary, middle, and high schools. The Parent Teacher Association exists to help parents and teachers become involved together in the educational activities of the children and youth of our community. The money earned from fund-raisers, including this T-shirt sale, is used for activities in the schools. Several exciting ideas for helping the school were discussed at the first meeting on September 19th. The next meeting of the PTA will be held on October 7th at 6:30 p.m. in the school multi-purpose room. More information will be included in next week's "Success." In the mean time - do not forget to order your T-shirt!

"Nightline"

Eldorado Middle School teachers continue to provide homework assistance for middle school students. For five consecutive weeks these teachers have been leaving their families at night to help prepare students for the upcoming Texas Assessment of Academics Skills Test. The middle school staff feels it is important to give each student every advantage to perform well. This test will be given October 8, 9, and 10. These help sessions are held as many as four nights a week from 6:00-7:30. Student attendance has been very good, and both the students and the teachers are excited about the program.

As the teachers receive no pay for their service, the PTA prepared casseroles this week as a token of their appreciation for the extra effort these teachers have given. Teachers participating in the program are: Kay Creek, Lois Dean, Staci Dunlap, Nell Edmiston, Kara Garlitz, Julie Griffin, Christy Meador, Glenda Nix, Jill Preston, Betty Robinson, Martha Spinks, Jerrilyn Ward, Marcy Willis, Pansie Jay, and Debbie Joy. Please take the time to express your "thanks" to these teachers for the contribution they are making to this community.

Lions Club Conducting Broom And Mop Sale

The Eldorado Lions Club will be conducting their annual Broom and Mop Sale on Wednesday, October 2nd. Your purchase of these quality Blind Made products will create jobs for the Blind and Multihandicapped workers in the Lighthouses for the Blind. In addition, you will be supporting the Lions worthwhile community projects while receiving a quality useful cleaning aid. So, extend a helping hand to our Lions, so that they may, in turn, extend a helping hand to the Blind and our community. Thank you for your support. Proceeds from this sale will be used for local Lions service activities, such as free glass for the vision-impaired.

Eldorado Pastor Teaching Course in San Angelo

by Hawley Wolfe
The Rev. Chris Graham, D. Min., pastor of First Baptist Church of Eldorado, is instructor for a special thirteen-week course in San Angelo at the Baptist Associational Office. The class currently has seven students enrolled, two of them ordained clergy.

Held on Tuesday nights, the course is a seminary extension course sponsored by the six Southern Baptist seminaries in the U.S., and is entitled "Understanding the Bible". The invitation to teach such a seminary extension course is only extended to a very few clergy or scholars. Congratulations, Chris!

Windbreak Tree Sale

The Eldorado Divide Soil and Water Conservation District is sponsoring a windbreak tree sale. If properly designed and maintained, windbreaks can protect life and property for 40 years or more. Windbreaks help reduce soil erosion and damage to crops, provide shelter for livestock and supply food and improve habitat for wildlife. They also help decrease heating costs in winter and cooling costs in the summer for home and buildings. Evergreens Afghan Pine, Afghan Pine (bullet), Arizona Cypress, Arizona Cypress (bullet), Austrian Pine, Ponderosa Pine, and Red Cedar. All evergreens are in 28 cu. in. felt paper containers. Bullet size evergreens are in 10 cu. in. felt paper containers. Hardwoods American Plum, Catalpa, Cottonwood cuttings, Desert willow, Green Ash, Honeylocust, Little Walnut, Osage Orange, Pecan, Red Oak, Russian Olive, Sandcherry and Skunkbush Sumac. Wildlife Packets are available for Quail, Pheasant, Deer, Turkey and Squirrel. Orders are being taken now and the supply of trees is limited. Call 853-2720 or 853-2983.

TOP OF THE DIVIDE

by Thomas Giovannitti

Well, I received a letter from someone, who did not sign their name, but who claims that she has had great success with the new fangled prebaited mouse traps. The author of this letter did mention that she was a young newlywed. I assume she supplied this information because it was important to her and, I guess, to show that maybe an old fellow like me ought not to be so worried about new things. It seems her new family took the same dim view toward these fake cheese baited traps and, it sounds from the letter, made a night of teasing her.

I hope my article wasn't the cause of the hazing of this new bride. She did get her reward since, according to her, all ten traps had caught a mouse, as her new father-in-law can attest since he got the job of emptying the traps.

Well, good for you, whoever your are, and I must admit that even my skepticism has been turned around to admiration for the inventors of the artificial cheese. It did not appear to me that any mouse worth his whiskers would be fooled, but most of my new traps also produced captured mice. I guess technology triumphs! What a world we live in, first freeze dried food that no one can smell and now plastic that smells like something every hungry mouse wants to eat.

I take it all back, maybe someone did build a better mouse trap after all! I am sure that your new family now has much more admiration for your courage in the face of the mice invasion. Don't be too hard on them though, like me, they probably just have trouble accepting new ideas.

TED YOCHAM

Ted Yocham, 60, of Eldorado, died Friday evening, September 20, 1991 at Shannon Medical Center in San Angelo.

Graveside services were held Tuesday in Eldorado, directed by Kerbow Funeral Home.

Our Sympathy

He was born August 27, 1931 in Clayton, New Mexico. He had been a resident of Eldorado since 1961. He was an Army Veteran, stationed in Germany during the Korean War. He retired from Enron after 29 years of service and was a member of the First Baptist Church.

Ted was married to Claudyne Chandler on December 31, 1953 in Carlsbad, New Mexico.

He is survived by his wife Claudyne, of Eldorado; two sons and daughters-in-law, David and wife, Pam of De Quincy, La., and Danny and wife, Kim of Sonora; a daughter, Decanna Baker of Eldorado; two sisters, Christine Day of Rankin, and JoVeta

Hayes and her husband Kenneth of Water Valley; five grandsons, Donny (J.R.), and Douglas Yocham of Sonora, Dustin Yocham of De Quincy, La, Chase (Spider) and Shane (Boss) Baker of Eldorado; three granddaughters, Linda, Melissa and Michelle Yocham of De Quincy, La.; several aunts, uncles, nieces, nephews, and a host of friends.

PHILIP DALE SWATZELL, SR.

Philip Dale Swatzell, Sr., 67, died Friday, September 20, 1991, at the Schleicher County Medical Center.

Services were held at 2 p.m. Monday, September 23, at First Baptist Church in Eldorado with burial in Eldorado Cemetery, directed by Kerbow Funeral Home.

"Big Phil" was born January 26, 1924, in Pittsburg, Kansas. The eldest of four boys born to Jere and Idalia Swatzell, he was married to Coleen Stevens of Bailey Ranch, Eldorado. He was a 1945 graduate of Texas A&M University with a degree in civil engineering. He served with the SeaBees during World War II.

He and one of his brothers, Jack, were partners in construction for about 30 years. After raising five children, most of the time in Canyon, Texas, he had returned to Eldorado with Coleen to retire.

He will be sorely missed by both family and friends.

Known as "Papaw" to the grandchildren, he was their favorite. His great sense of humor and quiet strength will never be forgotten.

Survivors include his wife, Coleen of Eldorado; a son, Phil Jr. of Chicago, Ill.; four daughters, Sally McWilliams and Carla Gaylor, both of Dallas, and Gayle Wood and Lisa Chartier, both of Fort Worth; three brothers, Jack Swatzell of Canyon, Monte Swatzell of Cleburne and Lynn Swatzell of San Antonio; and 10 very special grandchildren.

County Agents Report

Jerry Swift - Schleicher County Extension Agent

EXPECTED RECORD COTTON CROP SHOULD BE IN DEMAND, ECONOMIST SAYS

Although still dependent on the weather, the 1991 Texas cotton crop is expected to produce a record harvest -- and to sell well on world markets hungry for cotton.

"Over the last few months, domestic demand has held up extremely well, and it looks like the world market will do likewise," said Dr. Carl Anderson, a cotton-marketing economist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service at Texas A&M University.

"That's good news, because we're looking at a fairly large crop. This is a payoff for long years of research to improve Texas cotton quality."

Improved harvesting and milling techniques have made it easier to provide a higher-quality cotton in the state, he said. For instance, milling can now remove more stalks, stems and leaves from harvested cotton without harming quality, and washing and dyeing techniques have improved the color of Texas cotton.

According to monthly U.S. Department of Agriculture estimates released Sept. 12, total Texas production would equal some 6.2 million bales -- slightly more than the record 6.04 million bales harvested in 1949.

However, there is at least one major difference between those two years. In 1949, that production came from a total planting of 11.5 million acres, compared to 6.5 million acres in 1991, Anderson said.

"That's a pretty big increase in average yield per acre, and you've got to have that because the cost of production has increased so much," Anderson said.

At last report, some 6 million acres of those planted would be harvested in Texas, he said. Much of the lost acreage was in the Lubbock area of the Southern High Plains, where sand, hail and dry weather early in the season set crops back, he said.

The coastal region, Brazos River bottoms and the

Laugh and Live

True patience means waiting without worrying.

The year was 1987. A retired Army Sergeant shot and killed a woman outside a church in Rochester, N.Y. He thought that the woman was his ex-wife. He told the police, "I'm sorry about the other woman. I meant to kill my wife, but I forgot my glasses."

In 1988, near Proctor, West Virginia, a man killed a 14 year old girl when he mistook her for a groundhog.

In La Crosse, Wisconsin, a man killed his friend while hunting. He told the police, "I mistook him for a squirrel."

In Africa, in 1987 Tumago Wonde was working in her garden. A driver for a logging company mistook her for an evil spirit and hit her in the head several times with a piece of iron. Tumago lived.

These things actually happened. Guess it really is true what people say--- NOBODY'S PERFECT. People make mistakes.

I suppose that when we recognize that everybody has imperfections, we might learn to be a bit more tolerant. Even if we think that they are evil spirits, we still might not bash in their heads.

Till The Next Time...

MAY GOD BLESS!

Local Historical Sites Setting For Vivian Vaughan's Latest Novel

Caves painted with ancient pictographs along the Concho River and treasure related to the Lost Bowie Mine are the basis for the setting and plot of Menard author Vivian Vaughan's latest Western Romance.

Set in 1878 in a place the author calls Summer Valley (the name Indians gave to the valley of the San Saba River), AUTUMN SURRENDER is the story of how a widow faces threats to both her ranch and her life after her husband mysteriously disappears, then turns up murdered. Aided only by a gunslinging brother-in-law, Ellie Jarrett is thwarted in her efforts to hold onto her land by the county's biggest rancher and his debauched son, as well as by a no-account gambler, who for sinister reasons of his own wants to run Ellie off her property.

AUTUMN SURRENDER is the first book in a new series of Western Romances by this author who is a native of Menard County, Texas. Reminiscent of Louis L'Amour's Sackett family, Vaughan's Jarretts include brothers, sisters, cousins, and friends who make brief appearances here, with the promise of future stories of their own. Each of these books will feature settings the reader can visit, either in person or vicariously through additional reading.

Vivian (Jane) Vaughan will appear at the Grand Opening of the new H.E.B. store in San Angelo on October 3, 1991 to meet readers, greet friends, and sign copies of her books.

AUTUMN SURRENDER by Vivian Vaughan/432 page/$4.50 Zebra Books/ ISBN: 0-8217-3533-0/ Available wherever paperbacks are sold beginning mid-September, 1991.

Presbyterian Church Confirmation Class Being Held

A Confirmation-communicants class of young people (sixth grade and up) is meeting on Sunday afternoons at 4:00 p.m. at the First Presbyterian Church. The purpose of the class is to prepare the youth for full adult membership in the church.

One of the assignments of the class was to hear Dr. Andy Edington when he preached here September 15, and to prepare a short "news report" on Dr. Edington's prison ministry in Huntsville.

Below are excerpts from their articles by class-members Amanda Ballew and Summer Finley.

Every month Dr. Andy Edington goes to the state prison in Huntsville and spreads the Word of God to death row. Some of you are probably wondering why he goes there.

Well, Andy Edington goes there because some good friends told him he should go and teach the Bible stories. Another reason is that he likes taking the Word of God everywhere.

His first visit only 18 depressed criminals showed up with their heads hanging down not looking at Andy. "I can't remember your numbers," he said, to break the ice. "I want to know your first names." One by one each man shared his name with Dr. Edington. Each month the number of men increased. The prisoners felt loved by God and happily came and listened to the funny man. The prisoners all received bibles and formed a men's choir. The men now had something to live for and wouldn't ever forget it.

County Agents Report

area just south of Waco have had exceptionally good crops, he said. "Out here in the Brazos bottoms, they can push that to 4 bales an acre," he noted.

Total U.S. production should equal between 17.6 and 18 million bales, with much of that variance depending on insect and weather-plagued crops in the western half of Texas, Anderson said.

Weather must be hot and dry enough to be considered ideal for that area to make a good crop, he said.

Total U.S. use -- including both milling and exports -- is expected to be close to 16.0 million bales, he said.

Texas, with approximately 35 percent of the U.S. crop, produces more cotton than any other state. The United States is the second-largest producer of cotton in the world, behind only China.

However, China has suffered severe flooding problems this year and is not allowing outsiders to view its crop, so it remains a wild card in the world market, Anderson said.

In the 1990-91 year through Aug. 1 used to determine world cotton statistics, the U.S. produced an estimated 15.5 million bales, while China produced 20.7 million bales. The Soviet Union produced 12 million.

Anderson said total world production, according to the International Cotton Advisory Committee, was expected to be 92 million bales for the 1991-1992 season. World consumption was expected to be 89 million in that same period, increasing by some 2.5 million bales over the previous year.

Anderson said consumption had been expected to remain steady during the current season, but instead followed the pattern of the previous 10 years. Consumption has increased steadily by some 2 million bales per year since then, he said.

Spot market prices for both the eastern and western halves of Texas -- the regions used for averaging cotton prices -- averaged just over 68 cents in July and slightly more than 71 cents for the year from Aug. 1, 1990 to July 31, Anderson said.

Although averages since July 31 have not yet been determined, the markets have dropped slightly since then, he added.

Strong world demand and potential weather damage, including that from a very wet year in the Mississippi Delta, have kept futures market prices in the mid-60-cent range, Anderson said.

Supply Outlook Good For Texas-Grown Christmas Trees

Texas Christmas tree growers are busy shaping and manicuring their trees this month, anticipating a good harvest enhanced by plentiful rains this year.

The estimated value of the 1991 Texas Christmas tree harvest should equal the $8 million crop of last year, said Jim Chandler, forester for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. "This is an economic impact of at least $17 million."

Chandler said the Texas Christmas Tree Growers Association estimates that more than 400,000 Texas-grown Christmas trees will be marketed this year, about the same as last year.

"Weather conditions have been good throughout the state during most of this growing season," said Jim Everett of San Antonio, president of the state growers association. "Adequate rainfall means that the trees should be of good quality, having both excellent color and size."

The association lists 144 farms in 76 Texas counties that plan to market trees this year. Most farms will begin sales near the Thanksgiving holidays.

The association's annual marketing survey shows that about 63 percent of the growers will market their trees by the choose-and cut method this year, an increase of 12 percentage points over last year. Approximately 32 percent will wholesale trees (down 10 percentage points from last year) and 5 percent will market trees through grower-operated retail lots.

"Choose-and-cut marketing gives the producer top dollar for his product," Everett said, commenting on the shift toward farms that encourage shoppers to drive out and cut their own trees. "We have numerous members located near large population areas and a ready market for choose-and-cut trees."

The growers association was formed in the late 1970s and has grown to more than 425 members.

"Producers are striving each year to offer the public a better product than the year before," Chandler said. "The Virginia pine is the primary species grown in the eastern part of the state while the Afghan pine is adapted to the drier areas."

A copy of the tree growers' marketing brochure that lists locations of all participating Christmas tree farms will be available from local county extension offices throughout the state in late September.

Health News

by Dr. Rico J. Forlano

Cataracts is a major problem that many people face as they get older. They can be caused by sunlight, X-Rays, heat from infrared radiation, and air pollution. Diabetes, trauma, and some medications can also cause cataracts. Patients with cataracts are usually over 60, and will experience painless blurred vision, progressive over months, to years.

Research suggests that certain nutrients may be helpful in preventing cataracts. Carotene, a pigment contained in yellow and orange vegetables, protects the eye from damaging effects of oxygen. Other antioxidants, including vitamins C and E, may prevent oxidative damage to the lens. Sources of carotene include: carrots, sweet potatoes, cooked spinach, apricots, winter squash, and cantaloupe. Vitamin C can be found in broccoli, bell peppers, tomatoes, and citrus fruit; Vitamin E is found in vegetable oil and wheat germ.

Your Chiropractic Physician can help you if you would like to know more about preventing diseases through proper nutrition.

Great Recipes from Around the World

CHULETAS DE CERDO EN BARBACOA

- 2 lbs. pork chops
- orange juice to cover
- 1 tsp. paprika
- 2 tsp. salt
- 1/4 tsp. pepper

PREPARATION

Marinate chops of approximately equal size for 24 hours in a mixture of orange juice, paprika, salt and pepper. (Depending on taste, you may wish to add more seasoning.)

Wrap chops individually in aluminum foil and cook in steam for 30 minutes. (Banana leaves are used at the Hotel Nikko, where they are easily available.)

PRESENTATION

Serve in the wrapping tamale style to hold the marinade. Garnish with pieces of fried banana and pineapple.

WORKING CLEARANCE

Maintaining the proper clearance from a high-voltage electric line is not just a good safety practice, it's the law.* In Texas, any contractor, corporation or individual not affiliated with the utility must follow these guidelines:

No person will perform any activity within six feet of overhead lines.

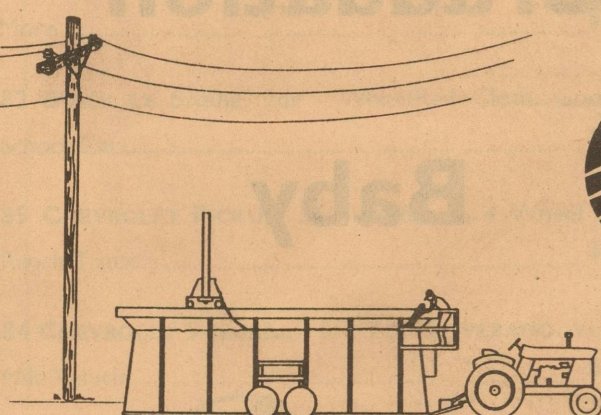

No person will operate or use any tool, equipment, machinery or material where it is possible that these devices will come within six feet of overhead lines.

No person will operate any equipment, such as derricks, cranes, power shovels, hayloaders, pile drivers, hoisting equipment or similar devices, within ten feet of overhead lines.

When work must be performed within these clearances, the organization or individual responsible must contact the utility and make arrangements to ensure safe clearances.

Violations of these provisions of the law can result in fines, confinement in jail or liability to the utility for damages and all liability incurred.

Help Your Heart

American Heart Association

Dealing with the realities of stroke is a difficult challenge faced by the nearly 350,000 stroke survivors and their families and friends each year. Most people are ready to face the physical changes associated with stroke, but not the behavioral, emotional and intellectual changes. While it isn't always easy, with patience and understanding you can help a friend or relative cope with a new way of life.

It's important to understand that strokes affect the brain. A stroke occurs when blood flow to a part of the brain is hampered. When that happens, that part of the brain is permanently damaged.

When someone suffers a stroke, the physical damage usually ranges from minor to severe paralysis on the side of the body opposite to the side of the brain damaged. When the victim suffers left-brain damage, the physical disability will be on the right side of the body. This is called "right hemiplegia." The opposite damage is called "left hemiplegia."

But damage from a stroke is more than physical. It is likely that someone who has had a stroke also will experience behavior changes.

Right hemiplegics (left-brain damage) often have trouble with speech and language. They tend to be cautious, anxious and disorganized when trying new tasks. Keep these suggestions in mind:

- Don't underestimate a patient's ability to learn and communicate even if they can't talk.
- If someone can't talk, try other forms of communication. Pantomime and demonstration are often useful.
- Don't overestimate how well someone understands speech.
- Don't shout. Keep messages simple and brief.
- Don't use special voices — like those you use when you talk to babies.
- Divide tasks into simple steps.
- Give lots of feedback and indicate progress often.

Left hemiplegics (right-brain damage) tend to have difficulties with self-care activities. They also suffer from spatial-perceptual deficits, or the ability to judge distance, size, position, rate of movement, form and how parts relate to wholes. Left hemiplegics also tend to oversell their abilities. They may be impulsive or careless. When working with people with significant spatial-perceptual deficits, remember:

- Don't overestimate their abilities. Spatial-perceptual deficits are easy to miss.
- Use verbal cues if they have trouble with demonstration.

- Break tasks into small steps and give lots of feedback.
- Watch to see what they can safely do rather than taking their word for it.
- Minimize clutter around them.
- Avoid rapid movements around them.
- Highlight visual reference points.

Stroke victims often have short retention spans and have difficulty generalizing the new things they have learned from one setting to another. They can also suffer varying degrees of sight or hearing loss.

Not all stroke patients are alike. They act differently depending upon what part of the brain was injured, the severity and type of injury, how recently the stroke occurred and their previous personality and behavior.

Nearly 500,000 Americans suffer from a stroke each year. Almost 150,000 of them die, making it the third leading killer of Americans. Currently in the United States more than 2 million stroke victims are living.

Chicken Fajitas

Put a little Southwestern zest into your summertime meals. Fajitas make a delicious dish that's fun for the whole family.

|---------------------------------------|---|
| 1 clove garlic, finely minced | 1/2 tsp. freshly ground black pepper, or to taste |
| 1 tbsp. "acceptable" vegetable oil | 1 1/4 lbs. boneless chicken breasts, skinned, all visible fat removed |
| 1 1/2 tbsp. fresh lemon or lime juice | 1 large onion |
| 3 tbsp. Worcestershire sauce | 1 large green pepper |
| | 2 tsp. "acceptable" vegetable oil |
| | 8 corn tortillas |

Preheat broiler. To make marinade, combine garlic, oil, lemon or lime juice, Worcestershire sauce and pepper in a bowl. Cut chicken lengthwise into thin 3/8-inch strips. Add to marinade, toss to coat evenly and let chicken marinate in refrigerator 10 to 20 minutes, turning at least once.

Slice the onion and pepper into thin 1/8-inch strips. In a non-stick skillet, heat 2 tsp. oil over medium-high heat. Add onion and pepper slices and sauté, stirring constantly, about 5 minutes, or until onion is slightly brown.

Wrap tortillas in foil and place on lower shelf of oven. Heat thoroughly. Line broiler pan with foil. Place chicken on the foil and broil about 3 inches from heat for 4 minutes.

To serve, place 3 cooked chicken strips on each tortilla, top with onions, peppers and assorted garnishes as desired. Roll tortilla around chicken strips and eat with fingers. Serves 4; 2 Fajitas per serving.

* Corn, soybean, safflower, sunflower, canola or olive oils.

Recognizing Suicidal Tendencies

Teachers sometimes go beyond the ABC's -- they are often the first to recognize suicidal tendencies in their students.

Suicide is the third leading cause of death in young adults, averaging 5,000 each year in the United States, and is becoming more common in young children, said an assistant professor of psychiatry at Baylor College of Medicine in Houston.

"Statistics from the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services show that approximately 12,000 young children are hospitalized each year for intentionally injuring themselves," said Dr. Letha Cole.

Children express their emotions in several ways. Joy, sorrow, anger or depression can be seen through their art, music, and the way they play. Parents and teachers should pay particular attention to these activities.

"Children and teenagers unknowingly tell us what they are feeling through their schoolwork," Cole said.

"Children who draw pictures of death or who write about it in a paper may be asking for help."

Parents and teachers should be aware of other warning signs of suicidal behavior such as:

- * Prolonged periods of sadness or loneliness
- * Withdrawing from family and friends
- * Sowing no interest in activities
- * Episodes of anger or irritability for more than one week

* Low self-esteem

* Unwillingness to cooperate

* Risky behaviors that could result in physical injury

Not all children exhibiting these signs will commit suicide, but they should be taken seriously, Cole added.

THE LIGHT YEARS

by Elizabeth Jane Howard

If a child has made previous suicide attempts, has a plan to commit suicide or has a preoccupation with death, Cole advises that a child psychiatrist be contacted immediately.

Many times, troubled students will confide in teachers who can assist them in getting the help they need. Cole recommends that school personnel establish and maintain contacts with local mental health professionals.

School personnel can also help families follow through with recommended treatment and help the child adjust to the classroom. They can play a key role in maintaining the child's educational progress.

"Parents and teachers should not assume that a child in trouble is just going through a phase," Cole said. "Know the warning signs, take immediate action and, most importantly, support the child through the healing process."

Social Security Thanks Funeral Directors

Calling their work "a vital public service to families", Social Security Commissioner Gwendolyn S. King praised the nation's funeral directors for providing information to families about potential Social Security benefits.

In a letter sent to over 21,000 funeral directors, Commissioner King thanked them for their many years of cooperation in reporting deaths to Social Security and giving survivors benefits information to families. At the same time, Social Security introduced a new form that funeral directors should use to report deaths to Social Security. Attached to the form is a new survivors benefits fact sheet that the funeral director can give to the family of the deceased. It explains in simple terms who can get benefits and how to apply for them.

The fact sheet notes that survivors benefits can be paid at age 60 to widows and widowers and to divorced widows and widowers if the couple had been married at least 10 years. Children under 18 can get survivors benefits if the deceased parent worked and paid Social Security taxes.

For more information about Social Security survivors benefits, call the San Angelo Social Security Office at 949-4608. The office is located at 2214 Sherwood Way.

Stamp And Coin Show Set

The Concho Valley Stamp Club will host a Stamp and Coin Show September 28th and 29th, 1991 at the Days Inn in San Angelo. Hours are 10:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m. on Saturday and 10:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. on Sunday. Days Inn is located at 333 Rio Concho Drive. There is no admission charge.

There will be nine stamp and coin dealers to buy, sell, and trade stamps and coins. The show is primarily for stamp collectors, but the Club wants the public to have an opportunity to be involved with coins too. There will be some non-competitive displays showing the various interests of stamp collecting.

The public is invited to come and visit with the dealers and Club members to learn more about Philatelic (stamp collecting) activities. The Concho Valley Stamp Club meets twice monthly at 7:00 p.m. The second Tuesday is at the San Angelo Main Post Office and the fourth Thursday at the San Angelo National Bank. Visitors are always welcome.

The programs are varied to help the newest collector as well as those who have enjoyed years of collecting. Regardless of what your interests are you can enjoy it through philately. Stamp collecting can be as specialized or as broad as you want to make it. You can study postal cancellations, mail from certain eras of time, or it can be topical such as cars, horses, birds, or chessmen on stamps. Come visit us.

Texas Lions Center Explores New Horizons

The Texas Lions Center, located near Kerrville, Texas, is accepting reservations for the Fall 1991 sessions of its new educational and recreational retreat for anyone 55 or older. Registration forms for New Horizons in the Hill Country may be obtained by calling (512) 896-8500.

Four sessions will be offered this fall. Session dates are September 17 - 20, October 8 - 11, October 22 - 25, and November 5 - 8.

"We are pleased with the way the program has taken off," says Nolan Underwood, Public Relations. "People are even making reservations for family members as gifts. New Horizons is meeting a demand from active senior citizens for challenging educational and recreational activities. It is a great opportunity for them to learn new skills and make new friends."

Instructors who are experts in their field will provide information in such areas as health care and insurance, financial management, Medicare and Medicaid, genealogy, frontier times, wildlife of the Hill Country, stress management, video photography, arts and crafts, and other activities.

Many opportunities are available for relaxation as well. Games such as dominos, horseshoes, Ping-pong, "42" and tennis will be offered at all times. Participants may walk along the nature trail, fish, or watch television any time they wish.

The Texas Lions Center operates as a nonprofit organization. All proceeds from New Horizons in the Hill Country go to operate a free summer camp for children who are blind, deaf, diabetic, or orthopedically impaired.

For more information contact Kyle Terry, New Horizons Coordinator, Texas Lions Center, P.O. Box 247, Kerrville, TX 78029-0247, (512) 896-8500.

2nd Annual Sonrisas Ride-A-Thon To Be Held

The 2nd Annual Sonrisas Ride-A-Thon will be held on Saturday, October 12, 1991.

Sonrisas is a volunteer group that provides therapeutic horseback riding for the physically and mentally handicapped patients from the Concho Valley area. It is very rewarding for these kids and adults to master riding a horse. It is also very therapeutic for people who are paralyzed or physically handicapped.

The Young Riders of Eldorado will be participating in the Ride-A-Thon again this year. Last year the Young Riders received a Texas Flag from the Capital for earning the most contributions. This year, they hope to accomplish more.

Anyone interested in riding on the trail ride, or making a pledge, please contact Mary Leggett at 853-3093. All children adults are welcomed to ride.

A Touch Of History

1934 Senior Class

1934 Junior Class

by Rene Calcote

District 17-B high school football recorded Eldorado as a strong team in 1934. The team won five games, all by shut-out scores, having run up 109 points to none for their opponents. The fighting ensemble of Eldorado football players out played the Rock Springs gridiron only to loose by a heart-breaking affair by the score of 7-0.

Team members for this team were: Frank Bradley, Richard Jones, Cecil Moore, Louis Kerr, Jack Hext, Jack

Coaches were: Dave Williams and Billy Cooper.

Yell Leaders were: Margaret Powers and Imogene Evans.

The school colors were: Black and Gold.

Immunization Rules Aimed At Better Disease Prevention

TDH urges parents to ensure that their children's immunization records comply with those rules. Physicians and local health departments can supply detailed information about the requirements. Low-cost or free back-to-school immunizations are offered throughout the year in many Texas communities.

One of the newest immunization rule changes eases restrictions against persons other than a child's parents who seek vaccinations for children in their care. Now, parents and legal guardians may formally delegate authority for signing immunization consent forms to other adults, such as a child's grandparent.

Other recent rule changes include a mandatory-second dose of measles vaccine for all Texas school children by age 12. Also, children who are younger than 5 must be vaccinated against Haemophilus influenza type b (Hib disease), a common cause of meningitis in children, and pertussis (whooping cough).

Wes Hodgson, epidemiology coordinator for the TDH Immunization Division, said, "The continuing measles outbreaks which began in 1988 underscore the tragic results of incomplete vaccinations. In recent years, some parents failed to protect their children against vaccine-preventable diseases, while some school and day care operators failed to keep adequate records so that inadequately immunized children went unnoticed. The result has been a growing number of insufficiency immunized child'en and young adults--all of whom are now vulnerable to infection."

Hodgson said that state law requires all children entering Texas schools or day care to show proof of immunizations at certain ages against polio, tetanus, measles, rubella (German or three-day measles), mumps and diphtheria. Younger children must also give proof of immunity to whooping cough and Hib disease.

"The law allows for some exceptions to these requirements," Hodgson added, "but each case must be considered individually."

He stressed that since a child's age and medical history are factors in which vaccines and "boosters" the child needs, parents should consult their family physicians about the required immunizations for each child.

Hodgson said that, beginning in 1992, college students enrolled in health related courses, and medical or dental schools will be required to have certain immunizations against rubella, mumps, measles, tetanus, diphtheria and hepatitis B. Veterinary students will need current vaccinations against rabies.

Eldorado Spotlight

LEE ANN LAMB
Lee Ann Lamb is in our spotlight this week. Lee Ann is the daughter of W.R. "Buster" and Ginny Lamb. Lee Ann is a Junior at Eldorado High School. She has been the Eagle Mascot for the past two years. This past summer, she recieved a trophy, two ribbons and the spirit stick at A.S.U.'s Mascot Camp. Lee Ann loves tennis, basketball, water skiing and playing the trumpet, but not all at one time.
