Eldorado Eagles Trounce San Angelo Juniors 6-0

While the people of Eldorado were celebrating Armistice by closing the doors to their places of business, the Eldorado High School Eagles celebrated the day by a 6-0 victory over the San Angelo Junior High School.

To much Williamson and McGinty was the trouble the entire game as they pounded away at the line and around the ends in great fashion. McGinty was the tough one on the defense, where he was backing up the line and when the Juniors seemed to be ready to start something they would only get mugged up by a hard tackle from the heavy captain. All during the game Williamson stood out from the other team mates in long gains and returning punts and passes. The team is greatly bolstered by the addition of more football players. Cates, playing his first game this year made the score, during the first quarter after Williamson and McGinty had set the pig hide on the eleven yard mark. He went through guard for the score. The try for point was not made. This is the first win for the home team in several games but from now on the team will have the services of several more players and will probably give the opponents some trouble.

Eldorado made nine first downs to the Juniors none. This shows how much the Eagles out classed the boys of San Angelo.

Williamson also made a thirty five yard return of a punt for another score but was called back and Eldorado was penalized twenty five yards for clipping.

MRS. L. T. BARBER ENTERTAINS WITH BRIDGE

Mrs. L. T. Barber entertained the Eldorado Bridge Club Thursday, November, 6 at 1:00 o'clock with a luncheon.

After the arrival of club members and guests luncheon was served to a number of seventeen. Six games at Bridge was played and prizes were awarded Mrs. Van McCormick high club and Mrs. Muller, high guest.

Those present were: Mesdames Joe Williams, Terry Crane, Van McCormick, Tom Henderson, Leonard Baugh, Lewis Ballew, Melvin Crabb, H. T. Finley, Luke Thompson, J. C. Crosby, Jim Hoover, J. W. Lawhon, Sam Roberts, Kenneth Gary, Albert Bailey, Muller, B. B. Brittain.

Hubert Graves was in Eldorado, the first of this week from Bracketville, Texas. He made the Success Office an appreciative visit subscribing for The Success for a year to be sent to him at Bracketville.

Canney Enlarged

The Donna canney, already a large plant, is being enlarged to take care of its increasing business. The time will come in Texas that a canning plant in a fruit and vegetable growing community will be regarded as an essential as a cotton gin is to a cotton section. Farsighted towns are learning that now.

BUILDING

Building operations in the United States go by fits and starts. One year there will be a building boom, the next year a depression. One reason is the difficulty of financing the spread between first mortgage money and the building owner's capital.

Some Chicago builders have a plan whereby the people concerned in the building industry do this financing themselves. Contractors, supply manufacturers, dealers in building material, architects, and labor are to take a part of their pay in junior mortgage certificates, to be paid off in installments. This plan will not reduce wages or profits, but generally adopted will make building operations independent of general financial conditions.

BOULDER

Things are moving in the Hoover Dam project at Boulder Canyon on the Colorado River. Power lines are about to be run to the site, to furnish energy for the handling of the immense masses of stone and concrete which will be required to build the dam. Engineers are being appointed, plans have been made for the town to house the ten thousand workmen who will be employed on the job, bids have been asked for some of the materials which will be first required.

It takes time to carry out a great project like this. Five and one half years is the lowest estimate from the day construction begins until the great dam is finished. It takes a lot of time to prepare to begin work.

That is the difficulty about relying upon public works to relieve a sudden stress of unemployment—it takes so much time to plan them and provide for financing them that by the time the work is ready to begin the period of unemployment may be almost over.

SUGAR

The announcement by the Department of Agriculture that the Federal sugar cane experiment station at Canal Point, Florida, has developed a cane which yields a third more sugar to the acre than any previously known variety, and is at the same time resistant to cane diseases, is of importance to everyone in the United States. We consume several times as much sugar as any other nation in the world. Our sugar producers have had difficulty in competing with foreign sources. The sugar industry in Louisiana was practically wiped out a few years ago, by plant diseases; the Mississippi flood of 1928 almost finished the job. But the introduction of a new type of sugar cane from Java, known as "P. O. J. 213" has rejuvenated the Louisiana sugar industry, which is now producing five times as much sugar as in 1926.

The new cane developed in Florida, called "C. E. 307" yields a ton more sugar to the acre of cane than does "P. O. J. 213" That should mean eventually, both a reduction in cost of sugar to the consumer and better profits to the grower.

FRAUD

A Florida man shipped a carload of oranges to a produce dealer in Virginia. The dealers sent the shipper a check for $250. The Florida man invoked the recently-enacted Federal Produce Agency Law and held the dealer into the Federal court. The proceedings disclosed the fact that the net proceeds of the sale of the oranges was nearer $700 than $250. The court ordered the dealer to pay the shipper an additional $463, with interest, and to pay it before November 4 or go to jail.

It looks as if there is at last a way in which shippers of farm products can get the money due them. State and local laws don't protect them; they operate in favor of the local dealer and against the shipper from other state. The Federal courts are subject to local influences, and the law seems to have teeth in it.

Section Soaked After Several Days of Rain

A drought of only a few days was again broken when rain began falling last Friday morning and continued through Tuesday night.

A few days of sunshine was enjoyed very much by citizens of Schleicher but the sunshine was short lived. But despite the short sunny season the grain was greatly helped and is now up to several inches in height. Grazing facilities will be good on this grain if ever the ground cakes enough underneath for the stock to be placed on it. Some of the reed fields have already had stock grazing but since the last rains they have been taken off.

"QUOTA MAD"

A FAMOUS advertising agent was talking with me about business in these United States.

It is his mission to prepare the advertising for several large manufacturers, and to consult with them on their sales problems. He goes home every night all tired out. He says he doesn't know anybody in business who is getting any real fun out of it. "I'll give you my program for a typical day," he said, "I come down to my office a little before nine, and there is the sales manager of a large company waiting for me. His pockets are full of charts. His company's sales are 20 per cent ahead of last year, but is he satisfied? Not for a minute. He must set the mark for next year 50 per cent ahead.

"Then I go over to the office of a food manufacturer. He has just closed up the best year of his history. And we try to figure out how he can do twice as much again!

"I lunch with the officers of a cement company. If they would get together with their competitors, and agree to curtail production just a little, they could all make more money. The price of their product might have to be raised a trifle, but I don't care, because the sales expense would be that much less. But will they curtail? Never. Every year must show bigger figures. The quotas must go up and up.

"The trouble with this country is

Rain Halts Work On McWhorter Building

Rain that began falling last week end halted the work on the new McWhorter building that was being rapidly completed. L. B. McClary, contractor was rushing the work considerably last week during the sunny weather but was suddenly stopped by rain Friday morning.

R. L. Sample, proprietor of the Sample Dairy, has been informed by the Live Stock Sanitary Commission that his herd of Dairy Cows were free from Tuberculosis. The examinations were made by N. F. ## WRIGHT'S PARAGRAPHS

The man who says Eldorado does not need several miles of hard surfaced roads, has not been out much around the town. Besides, on east and west Highway which is under consideration, several miles on other roads need some rock foundations, as well as some well graded.

Well we are about over November 11, now we must prepare for Thanksgiving, then we can wind up the year celebrating Christmas. By Gum! this year will soon be gone as well as our money.

The man who does not favor good roads with hard surface tops, after all these rains must be nut with the threads running backwards.

Well, if you can have turkey for Thanksgiving, you can at least have a duck. With the 6 weeks rain and a million ducks on our billion dollar lakes, you need not go hungry.

Just a trip pass the George Williams stock farm will convince you that he is a farmer, he sure has a beautiful lot of oats and wheat, ready for winter pasturing, with a fine herd of sheep to feed upon it.

With the splendid rains we have had in due season, prosperity will again return, short feed bills are promised, large crops of small grain is assured, and the brightest future in ages is promised for 1931.

Veterans of World War Buck Bailey's Team Is

Refusing To Close For Armistice Observance

St. Clairsville, O., Nov. 11.—Angered over failure of a grocery store to close in observance of Armistice Day a group of Belmont County World War Veterans today hurled bombs in to the place. Patrons and employees were forced to flee, gasping for air. The proprietor of former soldiers, wearing steel helmets and carrying rifles, was led to the store by C. W. Fowler, commander of the Belmont County American Legion. He did not enter. Nelson McQuillan, a former officer of the Ohio "40 and 8", fun society of the American Legion, was among those who went inside. McQuillan said the veterans considered their right to close the store on Armistice Day just the same as they would protest any attempt to close one to tear down the American flag.

The bursting of the tear gas bombs in the store created more excitement in the city than any event since the news of the signing of the Armistice a dozen years ago.

Operators of the store protested against the attack to Mayor C. D. Bradford, but no charges were filed. The mayor said his proclamation calling for closing of all stores was not mandatory but that he intended asking council to pass an ordinance requiring Armistice Day closing hereafter.

The bombs were taken by the veterans from the Sheriff's office. A deputy sheriff on duty there said he permitted them to enter the ammunition supply room thinking they desired material for a demonstration. They marched straight from the county jail to the store, he said.

After forcing the patrons and employees outside with bomb fumes, a detachment of the men wrecked a fruit display in front of the store. The store was operated by the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company and managed by Thorburn Stewart, a local resident.

C. L. Meador Sr. Schleicher county ranchman was reported in a very critical condition on Wednesday afternoon with pneumonia. Uncle "Dink" has been sick for several days with a severe cold and pneumonia has been the result.

Of course it is all right for the San Angelo Kittens to play the Eldorado Eagles for practice, but if San Angelo really wants to win they had better win out the Old "K" the Kitten never made a first down.

Dead Newson and wife of Kansas City were here the first of the week waiting Dr. E. B. Newson.

SIMMONS TO GIVE

PIANO SCHOLARSHIPS

ABILENS, NOV. 5th. With about 500 high school senior classes in Texas, plans are going forward for the first annual awarding of $16,000 in piano scholarships of $100 each by the John Seaman's Piano Music Foundation, according to Prof. Irl Allison, director.

The winner of the $60 scholarship in Schleicher County will be determined by the record filed on the application instead of through county contests as previously announced. Each county in the state will send a winner through the contest.

Any senior in high school or junior who plans to enter college next year will be eligible. The committee of judges will decide the winners not only by the music record of the student but on the basis of scholastic record as well. The students must also be prepared to pursue a four year college course, taking the B. A. degree in music, or the Bachelor of Music degree.

Students who win the first year scholarships will be given preference over all others during their college years. The finals to determine the $200 scholarship winners will be held at Simmons in the fall as previously announced. Applications can be obtained in person or by mail, after May 10, 1931. They may be obtained by addressing Prof. Allison, County winners will be notified as early as possible after May 10.

According to all sports writers and newspapers, Buck Bailey is having a great deal of fun on the coast this season. The Washington State College team coached by Hollingsberry and Bailey have gone through the season this far without a defeat scored against them. Buck is line coach of this great team that has crushed all opposition, making a total of 22 points against 32 for opponents. To Buck Bailey goes the credit of making this team what it is today. The head coach Hollingsberry is a wonder coach according to sports writers. The line that is generated by Buck Bailey is the leaders in all games. Without a line well coached no backfield in the world could have very much luck against the teams that they have played.

An interesting sidelight on Bailey and away from his coaching ability has been given away by Roger Green, California football expert. The article needs no dressing up. It follows:

One of the greatest athletes the West ever produced was Buck Bailey of Texas. The Blue Star Star played inter collegiate football in his native haunts, and then joined the famous Olympic Club team of San Francisco. There, playing tackle for the Winged O's he helped the "Wonder Team's" five year winning streak and also beat California and Stanford in the same season.

Buck is one of the best liked coaches on the Western slope, easy-going, pleasant manner, and possessed of a keen sense of humor. He is now a riding Babe Hollingsberry at Washington State College.

In connection with Bailey, I recall an incident in 1923 when the one and only Red Grange the "Galloping Ghost of the Gridiron," came to the Pacific Coast on his barn-storming tour as a professional. Buck Bailey turned pro at this time and hired out as tackle with George Wilson's San Francisco Tigers to play against Grange and his mates.

In the Wheaton famous line was George Trafton, formerly of Notre Dame—the same Trafton, incidentally who kayaked Arthur "The Great" "Whattaman" Shires in a Chicago race last winter.

Bailey often came into more or less violent contact with the rival Trafton, who was something of a tough home. Buck, in an easy-going, congenial way, moved Trafton and his matter unceremoniously, and was no small factor in the 17 to 12 victory scored by the San Francisco eleven over Grange's team.

That evening in a Bay City Cafe, Trafton was "popping off" a bit while seated at a table with some of his team mates.

"Wait till I meet up with that mug Bailey again," Trafton boasted. "I'll knock him colder than last year's potatoes. He may be something of a football player, but I'll show him who the best man is."

A few minutes later in came Mr. Buck Bailey, late of Texas. Surrounded by friends, Buck strolled to a table and sat down. The air was tense as Trafton's friends eagerly called his attention to the presence of his enemy. Trafton stood up, he drew up his chest and advanced menacingly toward his antagonist. But something in the quiet, lazy look of the Texan seemed an abrupt shift in the plans of Mr. Trafton.

He threw out his arm, laid it around Buck's shoulders, and opined: "That was sure a great game we had today, Buck, old boy!"

Winning Higher Wages

Some 2,500 longshoremen at Texas ports evidently were not afraid of unemployment, for they went on strike for an increase in wages from 65 to 80 cents an hour at a time when reports were that thousands of other laborers throughout the country could not find work at any price.

Want Senior College

The results of the A & M College do not think Texas has enough institutions of higher education, for they are seeking to have John Tarleton College at Stephenville raised from a junior to a senior college.

DAY OF THE GOLD RUSH IS OVER

Romance of Great Gold Fields Played an Important Part in World Development

By Caleb Johnson

"Gold, Gold, Gold, Gold—Hard to get, and heavy to hold." From the beginning of recorded time, the pursuit of gold has been perhaps the most fascinating occupation known to man.

If the history of gold prospecting were fully written, it would cover the entire history of adventure, discovery, and exploration. It was the pursuit of gold that brought the Spaniard to America and resulted in the settlement of this continent. The lure of gold drew the pioneers over the Rocky Mountains to California. The discovery of gold in Australia and in South Africa laid the foundation for the present control and prosperity of those regions.

The rewards are so great for the fortunate prospector who discovers a gold mine, that every new rumor of such a discovery starts a gold rush, in which thousands and tens of thousands risk everything in the hope of getting, not exactly something for nothing, but great wealth at little cost to themselves. It is a gamble, of course, for every such prospector, but it is a gamble in which those who win are not taking anything away from those who lose.

But the great gold rushes of the past are matters of the dead and buried past, and there is now no likelihood of another great gold strike anywhere in the world. That is the considered opinion of the gold delegation of the League of Nations, which has just completed a world wide survey of the gold situation. Since the year 1915 there has been no increase in the annual production of gold, and the League's experts say that in the next ten years the annual supply of gold will have fallen off by at least 25 per cent.

The known gold fields of the world are becoming exhausted and almost the whole has been combed for new and undiscovered gold fields.

There are a few points which have not yet been thoroughly prospected, but geologists regard the likelihood of finding gold in those places as very remote. There are desert areas in Australia, Central Asia and North-east Africa, and tropical regions at the headwaters of the Amazon and Orinoco rivers in South America which have not yet been thoroughly explored. There are still some gold possibilities in Labrador and Northern Canada, and there is a fair chance that some appreciable gold deposits still remain to be discovered in Montana and Nevada, but there is no likelihood that can be foreseen, at present, of any such enormous gold deposits as those which caused the gold rush to California in 1849, the rush to the Klondike in 1897, the gold rush to the Rand in South Africa, and the other historical gold rushes of the past.

There are gold mines which have been consistent producers for fifty years, and more, and which are still so far from petering out that they can be relied upon, in all probability, to produce millions of gold annually for fifty or more years to come. Perhaps the world's most consistent gold producer is the Homestake Mine at Lead South Dakota, discovered by the late George Hearst, and now owned by his son, William Randolph Hearst. There are mines in California, in Australia, and in South Africa, which produce their hundreds of thousands, or even millions of gold annually, or thought at a constantly rising cost of production. There may be, of course, new Homestake mines discovered, but it takes more than a single mine to start a gold rush, or make any material increase in the world's gold field, covering perhaps hundreds of square miles, as the great gold fields of history have done, would be an important factor in the gold situation.

There are enormous supplies of gold which geologists have discovered, but which are unavailable because chemistry has not yet found a way of separating the gold from the other elements with which it is combined.

There are immense deposits of finely pulverized gold in the sands of the Adirondack Forest Reserve in New York State. The writer once owned a half interest in a gold mine on the shore of the Black River near Lowville, New York. We had 250 acres of sand, which probably 200 feet deep, and we could prove to the satisfaction of anybody that every cubic yard of that sand contained at least $40.00 of gold. We had literally hundreds of millions of dollars in gold right there on our property. But this gold was not only so finely pulverized that it would float on water, but it was also so mixed with finely pulverized iron and other metals that no way could be discovered to separate the gold except at a cost of nearly $50.00 a cubic yard, a net loss of nearly $10.00 per ton. Perhaps chemical science will find a way, some time, of separating this Adirondack gold at a profit. One Boston syndicate has spent several hundred thousand dollars experimenting to that end, and they may hit it in time. If they do there will be another great gold rush into northern New York.

One advantage of gold production over the production of any of the other metals is that there is never any fluctuation in the market price of the product. An ounce of gold is $20.00, and $20.00 is an ounce of gold for gold is money, and money is gold. So that while there is a considerable risk in mining copper, let us say, at a cost of $24.00 a ton, to get a return of $25.00 worth of copper, there is no risk at all in spending $24.00 to extract $25.00 worth of gold. Copper worth today $25.00 may be worth tomorrow only $18.00, but gold worth $25.00 today will be worth $25.00 next year, ten years from now, or one hundred years from now.

Economists are concerned over the gold situation because of the effect of a diminishing gold supply upon money supplies on the prices of commodities. Every important addition to the world supply has resulted in a reduction in the price of all other commodities, because gold is the standard by which the whole civilized world measures prices. But the whole theory of the proper relation of a nation's gold reserve to its currency and credit system has been steadily undergoing a revision, especially since the war, and the probability is that the time will come when gold will be relatively less important in financial and economic affairs than it is today. But that is something for economists and financiers to worry about. The fact remains that the nation having the largest gold reserve has always been the wealthiest and the most independent, and that will continue to be the case probably throughout the lifetime of anybody who reads this.

Right now the two wealthiest countries in the world are the United States of America and France, because they are the two countries which have the largest amount of actual gold in the vaults of their treasuries and banks. In this country we have more than four billion dollars of gold, which is more gold than ever was gathered under one flag in the history of the world, while France has been steadily building up its gold reserve since the war, until today that nation has already half as much as the United States, and in proportion to population is actually wealthier than we are.

Construction Increases

According to F. W. Dodge Corporation new building and engineering construction in Texas for September was over three million dollars more than in August, the total being about thirteen million dollars. Approximately six million of this was for residence. Figures prove anything these show that Texas is going ahead satisfactorily and that the people are spending money liberally for better homes.

Radio's Popularity

Ten years ago the radio was new—a startling novelty. Manufacturers of receiving instruments are now among America's largest advertisers. Prices of sets and terms even attract many buyers even among people who can not afford luxuries. The radio has perhaps become the country's cheapest if not the best form of home education and entertainment.

The announcement that a $7,000,000 corporation will likely be formed at San Antonio to manufacture radio receivers shows the magnitude of the business in the Southwest. Thousands of people who can hardly afford the high price charged for a seat at a football game are getting reports of the game in quiet comfort in their homes and in many cases enjoying this more than they would if they attended the games.

Reducing Railway Fares

The Texas-Pacific Railway has secured permission to reduce its day coach fares between Fort Worth and Big Springs to two cents a mile to meet competition of highway transportation. The railroads are paying a big part of the cost of highway building and maintenance and thus assisting in building up competition that may eventually force them out of business.

Employment Situation

The San Antonio Chamber of Commerce says that it has secured employment for all laborers who really want to work. There is now a big demand for labor in harvesting the vegetable and fruit crops in South and Southwest Texas and the greatest trouble is in getting laborers into the fields. To a large extent the unemployment situation in Texas is a hobo bugaboo.

Helping The Jobless

Captain J. F. Lucey of Fort Worth, wealthy oil man, has been appointed by President Hoover to supervise the Southwestern section of the country in "unemployment relief work." Now that the financial situation seems to be clearing up a bit in the natural order of events, there seems to be a fine opportunity for playing some masterful politics of the "look-what-we-did" kind.

Turkey Trotting Again

The Cuero Record says that Cuero never abandoned its novel "Turkey Trot," which made that town famous almost overnight, but to keep it from getting monotonous decided to make it a triennial event, where upon Brady gobbled up the idea; that Brady, recognizing the ethics of the situation, has now abandoned its venture, and that Cuero is to get back its lost prestige by continuing to trot its turkeys, and to hold a National reputation for turkey growing as well as turkey trotting. Good for Cuero! By the way that enterprising city is to have a modern packing and shipping plant, the contract having been let.

Holding Its Reputation

Announcement is made that the Robstown, Odem, Bishop section, having had plenty of well-distributed rain is going to outdo its former record in the growing and marketing of vegetables, a largely increased acreage having been planted. Early shipments of radishes seem to bear out that claim.

An Empty Bid

The Dallas City Commission has invited Governor Moody to live in Dallas when his term of office expires, but hasn't yet offered to back the invitation with a salary of any kind. Wasn't it the Dallas mayor who wanted Al Smith to have the position of city manager of Dallas at $50,000 a year? Why not make Dan city manager? Likely he might accept a smaller salary.

Fall Potato Crop

The fall crop of potatoes—spuds, if you prefer to call them that—around Eagle Lake is reported exceptionally fine, and the growers are hoping that there may be no frost until they ripen enough for the market which should be soon. Many farmers are learning that potato growing pays better than cotton.

Cotton On Subscription

The Elgin Courier generously offers to accept 30 pounds of clean seed cotton for a year's subscription and let subscribers pay for as many years as they wish at that rate. This is equivalent to allowing about 15 cents a pound for ginned cotton. A good offer, this.

BROKEN

"What do you mean?" He looked at her sadly. "That then there would be only one way in which we could belong to each other, Julie." She did not pretend to misunderstand him, but the hot blood rose to her soft hair and her eyes fell. "Would you care well enough for that—if there was no other way, Julie?" For a moment she was silent, then with a swift little gesture she turned to him, hiding her face against his breast. It was two o'clock before Giles thought of leaving the flat. "Such a scandal!" he teased Julie. "Neither of us would have a shred of reputation left if our best and nearest friends knew how abominably we have been behaving."

Julie made a little grimace. "I haven't any best and dearest friends except Bim—" she answered, and then abruptly: "Giles, what do you think of Sadie?" "Sadie—" He was glad that as her cheek was resting against his shoulder she could not see his face. It seemed an ill omen that at this moment she should speak of his wife. He avoided a deliberate answer.

"What a question! I hardly know what to say," he said lightly. "I only asked because she has spoken about you several times. I think she rather likes you."

"Nonsense!" His voice sounded almost angry and Julie looked up at him in surprise. "Don't you want her to like you? She and I are great friends. I prefer her to any one I have met since—" She stopped with a little shrug of her shoulders.

"Since you and I met on the top of the world," Giles added for her.

It was nearly three in the morning when he left the flat, and the streets were silent and deserted as he walked away through the darkness, pausing for a moment to look back at the lighted window where Julie stood with her face pressed to the pane to catch a last glimpse of him.

Behind him was the sound of other steps, a little slower than his, and yet in some strange way seeming deliberately to be dogging him. Chittenden glanced over his shoulder, irritatingly conscious of being followed.

A taxicab on the lookout for a late fare turned a corner, and Giles halted. At all events it would put an end once and for all to his interested follower. As he slammed up the door he glanced backward along the road the Lombard have followed him? He remembered their last meeting—and a Lombard's detestable insinuations.

The man was passing beneath a street lamp, and in the sudden light his figure seemed strangely familiar, although for the moment Chittenden could not place the resemblance.

The taxicab moved away and then all at once he knew—it was Lombard! That was the resemblance he had seen—Harry Lombard!

For an instant he was conscious of angry premonition; what did it mean?—then he laughed at himself. The idea was preposterous! Why should Chittenden's face grew grim. Supposing Lombard had been waiting outside Julie's flat during the past five hours?

When Chittenden was dressing in the morning his mother ragn through on the phone.

"I only rang up to ask if you will come this afternoon."

NOVEMBER ELEVENTH
November the Eleventh is a National Holiday in honor of the sacred dead of the World War, whose services have glorified the American name and tradition among all the Nations of the earth.

It is really not an occasion for rejoicing but is rather a time for sober reflection on the horrors of the Great War and on the losses to humanity in lives suffering, and property. The further we get away from the War, the more determined we should be to avoid war.

"RUBBER-TIRED EDUCATION"

The father who milked four cows before breakfast and then walked six miles to school now has a soon who rides to school on rubber tires.

There are usually about 12 cars parked around the school building, but sometimes there is only one or two, that is in rainy weather. Of course none of these cars would stick in the mud but the mud sticks to them.

Cars may come and cars may go but it seems that one car may keep on attending the Eldorado High School for ever. This is the picture-sque rolling signboard which belongs to Eli McAngus. It has four wheels, a starter and it runs most of the time. Eli calls it the "Dream Train". We think the reason is because she steams so. This car has compelled her dignified young owner to walk a few times, and how.

Albert Williams has a good model T Ford Roadster, though the engine knocks and all tires have to be pumped up before every trip. This car has never failed to make every trip she was started on.

The Kerr boys sport around in a French style Patheon model T Ford. This car is extremely popular because of the good vision and protection it gives to the driver. There has never been a person to suffocate in their car.

Now Hollis McAngus has a jitney that will deliver any thing at any time, whether it is milk and eggs, football eyes, or the owner himself. It makes no difference to that car. Hollis says his car has a chance to be converted to a snarler-looking bus.

But when you come to cars that have been in a class as long as you haven't seen anything till you have looked over our Math teachers' little Ford. It goes and comes, rain or shine. Miss Bradshaw has never missed or been late to a class as long as she has depended on her little green roadster.

Albert Martin has a faithful old Whippet that comes ruggin-in thru the mud line. "Fulton's First Steamboat." Sometimes "Hack" is late but he gets there just the same.

Now we are getting to family buses so we had better say nothing, or have several proud mothers on us for talking about their car. Of course they are kept clean and shining.

There are also other cars that just drive up to the school building, dump off a bunch of kids and rattle on with a promise to be back when school is out.

WINTER

By Jo Wood

The trees seem to have lost their beauty,
Gone from the flowers their fragrant scent,
An' this morning from my window
I saw flocks of birds heavenward bent.

***
The gray has replaced the blue clouds
The sun shines not so brightly now,
And by my window the whole night thru—
The wind moaned and shook the bare tree boughs.

***
The days are dim and misty—
The nights are dark and long
And on my pane the rain beats
A lonesome, heartbroken song.

***
Ah! At last old man moon comes peeping—
Now he's looking over the shivering trees—
He laughs in the face of the howling wind
The whole world's all he sees.

***
But the wind, the frost, and the rain
are only reminders
That the white snow storms are getting near

An' into my heart steals a joyous song
The season I love—'Tis Winter 'ere!

PROGRESS OF THE HOME ECONOMICS CLASS

The progress of the home economic class is gradually increasing. They are learning how to sew better each day. There are so many students that wanted to take home economics that the class had to be divided into an "A" and "B" section, the A section containing seven members and the B section seventeen.

They first had to learn all parts of the machine and how to thread it. Simple stitches were made on paper without threading the machine in order to learn to sew straight. Then different kinds of seams and how to make them were taken up. Samples of each seam were made to illustrate the explanations.

They have to make three garments in class and at home by the end of the first semester. Those are: underwear, a dress, and a small child's garment are made in class.

For their first underwear garment, they chose pajamas. These have been completed and the girls have started on dresses as the second problem.

Along with the sewing, they have been learning the kinds of weaves, and have made samples of different weaves.

CAMP FIRE HIKE

Thursday afternoon the Camp Fire Girls, accompanied by Misses Meyer, Turner, and Lucille McWhorter, went on a bacon and egg hike. Each girl came provided with an egg, three slices of bacon, a tin-cup and a pocket knife. They kicked about a mile and a half from town. Then the girls divided into groups of two and began building fires. Many of them did not get much farther than just beginning. After they had the fires going they found large flat rocks on which to cook the bacon and eggs. This is done by getting the rock real hot and laying the strips of bacon on it in a square and breaking the egg in the middle.

Much trouble was found here because some of the girls did not let their rock get hot enough and the egg slid off into the fire. In fact, Elnora Andrews and Margaret Williams could not get their rock hot at all so they cooked their eggs on a piece of tin. Miss Meyer was worried about them but it didn't seem to hurt them any. After they had eaten they made cocoa which was stirred with a stick. Now this may not sound so good but it really isn't bad at all. Try it. Then they cleaned the camp ground and started for home. The girls present in the Junior-Senior group were: Marjorie Thornton, Lorene Shoemake, Margaret Williams, Pauline Kent, Grace Ratliff, Evelyn Anderson, Francis Ballew, Dixie Faught, Pauline Rape, Lucile Oglesby, Margaret Bradley. Those present in the Freshmen Sophomore group: Elnora Andrews, Mary Dell McGilvray, Nell Campbell, Margaret Sheen, Sammie Leudecke, Willie Ruth Nicks.

BOZO'S BOOKLET

OR

The Diary of a Freshman

(In which Bozo writes up "Life's darkest Moment" or "When a feller needs a friend.")

My goodness, this is the longest school I ever saw. Why it's been going so long I've even forgotten when it started on its not half over yet. Nothing ever happens up here unless you start it yourself and then you don't get any good out of it. Just the same thing over an over every day. You gotta study constant all the time your in the study hall and you can't even look around or talk once in a while, and the worst part is that you can't look at the other part of the study hall for nothing at all but to make you want to look at em I guess. The old eagle hasn't died yet and he don't even flap his wings once in a while to give us a chance to look up. One of them guys over on the senior row hit me with a mud ball the other day and when I chucked back at him the teacher saw me and I don't stay in every day and the senior don't do nothin'.

ELDORADO EXES

Every week during the nine months of school an article will appear in the "Hi-Divide" on an ex student of the Eldorado High School.

The purpose of this is to boost the Eldorado School and to let you know who these students are and what they are doing now.

The seventh of these articles appears below.

JAMES WALTER RAMSAY

By Clifford Archie

James Walter Ramsay was born in Gonzales, Texas, July 8, 1907 and came to Eldorado in 1911. He was taught at home up through the fourth grade and entered the Eldorado school in 1918, in the fifth grade. Mr. Hearst was the Superintendent and Miss Tennie Richardson was his teacher at that time. At the end of the term, upon the recommendation of his teacher Miss Richardson, he took the examination for sixth grade arithmetic and English, and was promoted to the seventh grade. He went to school here six years, graduating in 1924 with a class of seventeen. Mr. B. J. Bruton was the Superintendent at that time. Walter worked in the Post Office in Eldorado one year and then entered Simmons University at Abilene, Texas, from which he graduated in 1929. He lettered in tennis while at Simmons, and was member of Pi Gamma Mu National Social Science Honor fraternity. He won two "Fellowships" while at Simmons: one at the University of Boulder Colorado, and one at the State A. & M. College of Oklahoma. He accepted the latter, and in September 1929, entered the A. & M. College at Stillwater, Oklahoma.

He is a Graduate Assistant in the Chemistry department, teaching Freshman Chemistry, and at the same time working on his Masters degree, which he hopes to complete next Spring. On account of being a graduate Assistant he is barred from competing in any of the sports, though he says he gets lots of "kick" out of playing tennis with some of the Squad, sometimes winning the game easily. He also plays golf, though having very little time for sports.

Last year Walter was one of three out of the school to be voted into the Phi Lambda Upsilon, National Chemistry Fraternity, and he is Secretary of that organization this year.

RANCHER SAYS HE FEELS TEN YEARS YOUNGER

Money Couldn't Buy The Good Argotane as Done For Me.

Declares Embry

"I have not only gained in weight and strength, but my recovery has surprised everybody who knew about my condition," continued Mr. Embry. "Every thing I ate soured on my stomach and I would have dizzy spells and feel worn out nearly all the time. My stomach was just torn up as all the time and I lost my appetite and hardly ate enough to keep going. I had gas on my stomach so bad sometimes I could hardly get my breath. I would feel all bloated up and would puff like a frog. I had sick headaches and was very nervous and restless. I didn't get any sleep at nights and when morning came I would be so tired I wouldn't feel like going a thing. I tried many different kinds of medicines for my troubles but they gave me no relief and I thought I was going to have to give up trying to get well again. I read in the papers a lot of statements from people who had troubles very much like mine and a friend told me, also, about Argotane helping him, so I decided to try it.

"Well, I took the medicine regularly and faithfully and I must say that I am more than pleased with the results. It certainly did me more good than all the other medicines put together. The gas doesn't form on my stomach hardly at all now and my breathing is now as free and easy as it ever was and I'm not bothered with that swelled up, bloated feeling any more. Argotane certainly did me a world of good and I believe in a world of good and I believe it will help others as much as it has helped me. I certainly do recommend Argotane and I am glad to come out and make this statement. I feel ten years younger and feel better every day. Money couldn't buy the good Argotane has done me and I hope others will profit by this statement and give Argotane a fair trial."

Painful Condition

"When I was just a girl at home," writes Mrs. B. F. Riggan, of Baird, Texas, "I took Cardui for cramping and pains in my side and back, and it helped me at that time."

"After I was married, I found myself in a weak, run-down condition. I suffered a great deal with my back, which was so weak it hurt me to get up or when I would stand on my feet. I fell off in weight."

"A friend of mine, seeing how bad I felt, advised me to take Cardui, which I did. By the time I had taken two bottles, I felt stronger and better than I had in a long time."

THE FAMILY DOCTOR

By John Joseph Gaines, M. D.

VALUE OF PAIN

The best friend a man can possibly have is, the one that warns him always of impending danger; oddly enough, pain is a very great blessing to human kind.

Primarily, it is the apprehension—the dread of suffering, that impels human kind to shun pitfalls that bring disease or death. Yet, for mere pleasure's sake, or in obedience to perverted appetite, fools rush in where angels fear to tread. We abuse the most rare and sacred privileges in the most reckless manner, and whim and cry as we reap the certain penalties for violation of human and divine law.

Early pain is a warning that should never be ignored or taken lightly; for instance, if suddenly taken with more or less vague, but keen, colicky pain in the locality of the gallbladder, which may radiate downward toward the right side—it may pass away quickly leaving you a bit weak—and may return later, a bit more insistent—you may be compelled to cease work. Better notify your physician, the danger of appendicitis being thought of. The pain may be opposite the region of the appendix at first, or, seem to be entirely in the gall-bladder—only to locate within the appendix within 24 hours. NEVER take a harsh purgative under such conditions, without consulting your doctor.

Pain in the head should not be ignored for long. Here, the diseased process is often for the site of the pain. To use commercial "headache

Pain in the left chest, transitory or persistent, should take one to the physician promptly, especially if the complaint is beyond middle age, is overweight or suspects kidney derangement—a thorough examination should be made, no matter how robust the patient may look. The pain may come from a simple affection, or from one of very serious nature.

BROKEN

"Why do you want me to come? You know I'm an unbeliever."

There was a little hesitation before the plaintive voice came again.

"To tell you the truth, I'm just a tiny bit nervous! I've never been mixed up in any thing of the kind before, and I thought with you there—"

"The evil spirits couldn't get you eh?—don't worry—" Giles laughed.

"I meant to come anyway."

"And Giles—in case you're angry at meeting her again after what happened the other night—Miss Farrow is coming! I know I said I wouldn't have her in the house any more, but after all, one must be broad-minded—"

Giles guffawed.

"It takes all sorts to make a world," said mother went on. "So you will be nice and polite to her, won't you, dear?"

"I think I can safely promise you that."

He smiled to himself as he hung up the receiver. It seemed absurd that his mother should have thought it necessary to ask him to be polite to Julie! He had hardly finished dressing when a message came to say that Lom had been downstairs waiting to see him.

MAIN STREET LOOKS

AT BROADWAY

By Ernest Camp Jr.

NEW YORK.— Night. He calls a taxicab. Directs it to a certain address. A cordial meeting with a friend. "I want you to go out with me and help me fix a radio." Laughter, joking, as they set forth on the errand.

A long, long ride. To the far, desolate end of Barren Island. It is nearly dawn. The cab stops. The "friend" gets out. "Where is this?" he asks, uneasily.

The man inside does not reply—in words. Suddenly he springs out, backing the other man against the radiator. Paralyzed, the taxi driver looks on. It is all just a hideous dream.

"Put On The Spot"

Two guns are drawn. In the dim glare of the headlights the killer raises them, deliberately.

"For God's sake," cries the victim, "give me—"

Eight shots rip through his chest. The body slumps to the ground.

Still white-faced and shaken, the taxi driver told his story to police next day. "God help me," he faltered, "I'll never get that sight out of my mind. So that's putting a man on the spot..."

Then there is the one about the taxi driver who appeared in Traffic Court recently, accused of parking over-time. The arresting policeman intimated that he had parked in front of a speakeasy to solicit trade from helpless drunks.

"I wish you would tell me," the defendant begged of the court "some place I can park in this town that isn't in front of a speakeasy."

Also the one about the man on Fifty-second Street who was molested so much at night by persons in quest of refreshments that he mounted this sign on the front of his dwelling:

"This is NOT a speakeasy."

Police As Bandits

New York's police protect you against outlaws—sometimes. But who is going to protect you from the police?

The proprietor of a small downtown furniture store was pinched for speeding. Appearing in court he paid his fine. A few days later, he was hauled before the bar again—and by the same policeman. This time he paid a stiffer fine.

Soon afterward, the same cop nabbed him again for some minor infraction of the traffic laws. A third fine was paid. As the harrassed motorist was leaving court, the policeman, so the story goes, took him to one side.

"Why don't you get wise to yourself," he said "and let me have that bedroom suite in your window for $150—you know, the $500 suite?"

The man did—and who wouldn't! He hasn't been arrested since.

Practical Farm Relief

A Falfurrias bank is going in for farm relief in a good way by giving 40 packages of arden seed to all farmers, recommended by the farm agent, who will agree to plant late fall gardens in well prepared beds.

Some Cotton There

The Nueces county cotton crop will exceed 150,000 bales this year, as compared with 122,048 last year. Despite the low price of the product and the small profit, if any, to the growers that amount of cotton helps to make business lively at Corpus Christi and other Nueces county towns.
