ALL NUMBER CALLING SET FOR McLEAN

All Number Calling (ANC) will be inaugurated in McLean at 12:01 a.m. July 7 when each telephone number in the exchange is converted from two letters and five numerals to seven numerals.

The change to ANC means that the prefix GR 9 will be changed to 779.

"This will represent a dialing change," pointed out George Newberry, manager for Southwestern Bell Telephone Company. "However, the last four digits of each telephone number will remain unchanged."

For example, GR 9-2121 will become 779-2121.

The number change is necessary to pave the way for future telephone improvements in McLean," Newberry said.

The conversion to ANC means that McLean will join most other telephone exchanges across the U.S. in the new nationwide numbering plan. About 75 per cent of the telephones in the U.S. already have been converted.

"If telephone companies did not change to this numbering system, they soon would run out of suitable prefixes to use," Newberry added.

Directories containing all the new McLean numbers will be delivered in conjunction with the conversion.

They Also Learn . . .

A dog in a 4-H household is expected to shape up, walk right and obey its master. According to hundreds of young 4-H dog fanciers throughout the state, the canine member of the family does just that.

Not without considerable effort, though, on the part of both dog and owner. The latter is enrolled in the national 4-H Dog Care and Training program sponsored by Ralston Purina Company. He or she is between 9 and 19 years of age, and has accepted complete responsibility for the animal.

If there is not a family pet available, the 4-H'er has the thrill of choosing his own dog. A lot of fun and satisfaction go along with this project, to say nothing of the love and trust that grows between dog and master. Learning about canine health, disposition, daily care and training are other factors.

Why a dog project in 4-H? So boys and girls can learn to understand animals, say 4-H leaders, particularly those who do not live on farms.

With an estimated 65,000 youngsters from coast to coast participating in the 1968 dog care program, there is bound to be a host of healthy and lovable pets added to the U.S. dog population. The 4-H'ers are recognized for good results with their dogs. They can compete for county, state, sectional and national awards provided annually by Ralston Purina. The Cooperative Extension Service names the award winners.

Parents interested in enrolling their children in 4-H, or who would like to volunteer as a leader in the Dog Club, should contact the County Extension office.

HEMISFAIR CAN BE ENJOYED ON A LIMITED BUDGET

A limited budget is no handicap to HemisFair visitors. In fact, a family of four can have the time of their lives on a $10 bill at the World's Fair.

This budgeted tour includes admission for mother, dad and two youngsters, chicken dinners for the parents and hamburgers for the kids and a host of memorable attractions.

Food prices on the grounds have drawn raves from early visitors to the international exposition, and the multitude of free attractions have surprised many veteran world's fairgoers.

Each of the 100 restaurants and food stop-overs on the 92.6 acre grounds has posted its prices on the outside, and the sensible costs have proved an enticement to bring customers inside.

Hot dogs are 35 cents, hamburgers are 45 cents and a chicken dinner complete with french fries can be enjoyed for 97 cents.

The $10 visit to the six-month World's Fair can include each of these free attractions:

The Flying Indians of Mexico, performing their 400-year-old ritual by climbing to the top of a rope around their waists. This electrifying show is performed four times daily at the Pepsi-Cola/Frito-Lay Pavilion.

The famous Marty and Sid Krofft Puppets performing in an already smash hit marionette show at the Coca Cola Pavilion.

A combination film and live actor magic show featuring magician Mark Wilson at the Bell Pavilion and a tour of the telephone exhibit featuring picture telephones, computer age guessers and a kiddyland with telephone conversations with famous cartoon characters.

The Mercury Water Ski Show on the Fiesta Lagoon where boats pull skiers at high speeds over ramps, around corners and through difficult maneuvers.

These are all free. And, there is much more for the budget-minded traveler.

EVERY JOURNEY . . .

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

The caravan has travelled through the desert many days . . . and the men are glad to see the tall palms of the oasis in the distance. Here they will refresh themselves beside the cool spring before resting on their way.

Every journey is made easier if it is broken by intervals of restoration and renewal. Even life itself can be a weary road if it does not contain times and places where we can pause to gather new strength. Where can men and women regain the equilibrium and peace of mind that they need so badly?

Fortunately, we too have an oasis . . . the Church. The teachings of Jesus offer deep wells of comfort for the spirit, and springs of joy to revitalizing life that lacks goal or purpose.

THE STRIPPERS ARE RUNNING!

"The strippers are running!" The excited voice on the other end of the phone belonged to Al Ristori, one of the East's most devoted striped bass anglers. Around Pleasant Bay, Cape Cod, it has become something of a tradition that Al captures one of the largest strippers every season. Last year he outdid himself, hauling in a 61-pounder, the third largest striped bass ever landed in the area.

Now Al is inviting me to join him in this year's first outing. The striped bass is unquestionably the most popular gamefish anywhere from the Gulf Coast to Maine and, being anadromous, flourishes in fresh and brackish waters, preferring bays, deltas and rivers. On the West coast, strippers have a substantial following, particularly in the San Francisco Bay area. In several Southeast states, it exists as a landlocked form, and offers interesting freshwater fishing opportunities.

It was a clear, crisp early June morning along the rocky coast of Cape Cod. A brisk ocean breeze blew in with the rising tide, bringing with it a chilly reminder of the long winter past. Al and I each have our favorite tackle combinations so I was a little surprised to see that we had similar surfcasting rigs: the powerful Mitchell 402 spinning reel with fast retrieve, and Conolon 2554 rod — a 10-foot, medium action beauty. We were using 20-pound test Bonnyl monofilament and two and one-half ounce Egon lures. Egons are designed for long, easy casting and are shiny, provocative attractions for salt-water fighters.

It's difficult to figure the strippers feeding patterns during their migrations. They are most erratic, and seem preoccupied with their travels.

About an hour of working the surf did nothing more than take the kinks out of our casting techniques. The tide was in, the sea reasonably calm, and bait-fish seemed abundant. But no stripped bass.

Squinting into the morning sun, I noticed a flock of graceful, busy terns sweeping the water perhaps a half-mile from shore. These handsome birds have proved to be accurate guides to where the fish are, and I have seldom been disappointed following their lead.

We took to our 12-foot aluminum boat which is usually found on top of Al's car. He considers it as essential to his travels as a spare tire.

As we approached the area being worked by the terns, we could see the water boiling with active strippers of four to 10 pounds. And every so often, a lunker of 20 pounds would roll over on the surface just daring us to come and get him.

Here's where Al and I parted company on tackle. I was ready with a Mitchell 410 spinning reel loaded with 10-pound test Bonnyl, and Conolon 2506 light action rod. I stayed with the Egon, employing the one ounce version. Al went with the popular Ambassador 5000C baitcasting reel, Conolon 2529 rod, 15-pound Bonnyl, and a white lead-head jig.

We knew we had to fish fast. At most we had a half-hour before the fish would sound. Strippers, often choosy about the lures they will strike, went for everything we threw at them. We reeled in fish after fish — no hunkers, but plenty of five and six pounders. Then suddenly, they were gone. The bubbling Atlantic was now still, lapping peacefully against our boat. The terns resumed their watchful perch along the shore.

Disabled Widows May Be Eligible For Benefits At 50

Many widows may now be able to get social security benefits as early as age 50, according to Travis C. Briggs of the Amarillo social security office. A recent change in the law allows widows, 50 or older, who are unable to work because of a severe disability, and whose husband worked long enough under social security, to receive reduced monthly benefits.

This new change also applies to women who were divorced from their husbands at the time of his death, but had been married to him at least 20 years and were still being supported by him when he died.

Under the new law, a widow may be considered disabled, if she has an impairment so severe that it would ordinarily prevent her from working.

To be eligible a widow must be at least 50 years of age and have a severe disability that started either before her husband's death or with seven years after his death. An exception is made if she received benefits as a widow with children. In this case, disability may begin at any time up to seven years after her payments as a widow ended.

Briggs urges all widows who think they might be eligible to get in touch with the Amarillo social security office.

FEDERAL CROP INSURANCE

More than $900 million in farm crop production investments are protected by Federal Crop Insurance this year. This is the highest amount of protection in the 30 year history of the insurance program, reports the USDA. In 1967 an estimated 83,000 farmers across the nation shared in Federal Crop Insurance payments, totaling more than $54.5 million.

If your youngster plans his first job this summer, he should apply for a social security card now! At the beginning of each summer, social security offices are flooded with applications and last minute rush causes delay, reminds Extension specialists. Some employers won't hire a youngster until he has acquired a social security card.

Recently I visited with J. T. Trew about Australia. His son and daughter-in-law are now living there. Trew has been receiving a newspaper from that area and his son has sent news reels and photographs back from there.

At the present time his son has a contract with an extremely large ranch in northern Australia to remove the scrub or non-desirable bulls. These bulls are rather large and apparently very wild. They capture them by running into them with specially equipped jeeps. After they knock these bulls down they jump out and hog tie them and load them in a trailer with a crane.

They take them to a corral and later haul them off by truck some 150 to 200 miles to market. Most of these bulls find their way to the U. S. as imported meat. Trew says these bulls are worth from $70 to $90 each delivered to the packing house.

There has been a very extensive program sponsored by the Australian government to encourage U. S. citizens to migrate to their country. No doubt the capital the Americans can bring with them can help anything.

Trew mentioned the equipment could be purchased in that country. One fairly new corporation is now in the process of placing 100 thousand acres in farmland. He said they planted dryland milo and it was making 3000 pounds per acre.

Trew's son is presently studying the country and plans to invest in an outfit when he has settled on an area that would offer the best opportunity.

Recently I was visiting with another person that was familiar with Australia. He said Australia was today what America was 100 years ago. Vast acreage can be leased for thirty five cents a section from the government. Leasing is far better than owning at this rate.

I would say that film that Trew has would make a good program for any local organization.

Cotton Crop

We have had much better than average weather for getting our cotton up and off to a good start. The last few days of warm weather has been just what we needed. Cool temperatures later than normal this spring didn't help much.

We haven't seen Bryan McPherson lately but we understand he was in town recently and was bragging about how pretty his cotton was. It is rumored that he is in competition with the McLean Cotton King - Dewey Pennington for the first bale of cotton this fall.

"TEXAS" TO OPEN SATURDAY

"Texas," the action packed saga of pioneer days in the Panhandle, is scheduled for opening in Palo Duro Canyon State Park, 12 miles east of Canyon in Randall and Armstrong counties, June 29 (Saturday), and will run through Sept. 2.

The play, written by Paul Green, the Pulitzer Prize-winning author who also scripted "The Lost Colony" and the "Stephen Foster Story," has a cast of 50 singers, dancers, and actors.

"Texas" has received critical acclaim from such publications as the New York Times, Oakland (Calif.) Tribune, and Redbook. Since it opened in 1966, some 125,587 persons have seen the play.

Johnny Buck, coordinator of park planning for the Department, says the larger crowds coming to see the play have necessitated the building of a new ticket booth. Constructed on the same lines of the Indian Pueblo-type architecture of the other buildings, the booth replaces the concession-booth arrangement used previously.

Staged against a 600-foot backdrop of rocks and cliffs, the musical drama pays tribute to "the brave men and women who had the courage to settle a hard and bitter land, once called uninhabitable, and make it prosper."

Shows begin at 8:55 p.m. nightly except Tuesdays. Tickets may be obtained at the new booth or by writing to Pioneer Amphitheater, P. O. Box 268, Canyon, Texas, 79015.

Mail requests must be accompanied by a check or money order and a stamped, self-addressed return envelope.

After that family picnic is over be sure and wash the inside of your cooler to prevent unpleasant odors. However, don't dunk an insulated cooler, or cause rust in steel models, explain Extension home management specialist. Store the cooler in a dry place with the lid partly open so it can air out.

When doing your family's laundry you may or may not get a washing advantage by underloading your machine, but you're very likely to lose cleaning power if you overload.

LET'S TALK ABOUT FATS — PART 1

Historically, the phrase "living off the fat of the land" has meant good times, periods of affluence, if you will. With such connotations, there has been a tendency to regard fat as something one might do without, if necessary.

The phrase "fat of the land" is, of course, symbolic of far more than just the fat in food. Still, in olden times it probably meant just that — for early civilizations were fortunate indeed when they gained tasty food and sufficient shelter.

Thus, nowadays we can easily believe that leanness is a virtue and associated with fitness while its opposite, fatness, is deplored. Couple with this the current questions about whether food fats might have something to do with heart disease and you have a situation in which some people wonder whether fats are worth it all.

Are fats really good for us? Do they belong regularly in our meals? The answer is "yes" and here are reasons why:

Concentrated Source of Energy
Fats make our meals taste better and more satisfying. They are our most concentrated dietary source of energy. They carry more calories in small bulk than other food fractions — nine calories per gram as compared with the four calories per gram offered by proteins and carbohydrates.

This higher calorie content causes some people to believe fats specifically are fattening. Well, if you add too much regularly to otherwise sufficient meals, you no doubt will gain weight. This would also be true with any food. But used in proper proportion with other nutrients, fats are not in themselves fattening.

Fats have, in fact, a tendency to be digested more slowly than other food components — thus helping weight watchers in particular to feel satisfied from one meal to the next. This so-called "satiety" value as well as vital nutrition that fats offer is one of the main reasons fats belong in both weight control diets and nutritionally adequate meals for all the family.

Don't Sell Them Short
Fat promotes efficiency in the body's utilization of both protein and carbohydrate. Fat also brings to the body fat soluble vitamins. Some fats are important sources of vitamins A, D, E, and K. Most of all, however, fats provide various amounts of fatty acids. Some of these fatty acids are essential in our diets because the body cannot make them from other food components. We must then receive them in our food already formed. So don't sell fats short!

Meantime, in a context other than food, let's remember that fat helps to fill out the contours of a nice figure and then, as a friend of mine has said, spoils everything if allowed to overdo it. But fat deposited in the body can also pad the joints, help the body retain heat, and constitute a reserve supply of energy. . . . Next week I'll have more to say on fats.

A cup of fresh milk contains skim milk contains about 160 calories. A cup of calories.

LOOKIN' BACK

by Vera Featherston Back

Last Sunday was a very rewarding day for those who attended the Alanreed-McLean Historical Society. Those who knew the Hindmans came away with the conviction that in them were two of the most wonderful characters McLean has ever privileged to call citizens. It was like getting religion all over again to listen and feel the response to the two papers written by Ma Hindman and read by Loretta Barker and Fern Boyd. It was a privilege one will never forget to know the real inside of that wonderful woman.

Visitors present whom we must mention were: Rob Roy Hindman, grandson of the original Hindmans and his wife, Winne and Mabel Faulkner who last lived in McLean forty-nine years ago. Winnie's name is now Steele and Mabel's is Wilmore. Mrs. Dot Hindman from Shamrock was also present and helped us much with the stories of these great people.

Below are some roll-calls that we did not have time for Sunday:

The first Hindman Hotel was in a half-dugout near where the Marie Foundation Factory is now. The second was on the corner of Main and Railroad Street where Kate's Cafe was for so long.

Fred O'Dell made the brick right here in McLean of which the present Hindman Hotel was made. In 1910 an add in the McLean News read: "Hindman Hotel rates $2.00 per day." This meant room and board.

In October, 1914, the O'Dell Hotel opened (the present Hindman Hotel). It had leather upholstered chairs in the lobby, oak tables in the dining room. There was also a lunch counter, and the kitchen had the first steel range ever brought to McLean. The building had 16 bedrooms, each furnished with a heavy brass bed. There were electric lights and steam heat, hot and cold water, with the ladies' bath upstairs and one for the men downstairs.

In September, 1916, Dick Gardenshire bought the hotel. In February, Dr. W. L. Webb of Montoya, New Mexico purchased it from Gardenshire. When did

Investing Is a Woman's World Too

Women occupy a broader role in the home today than they did even a generation ago. The "hand that rocks the cradle" frequently manages the family budget, pays the bills, negotiates the loan at the neighborhood bank and looks after countless other details once considered out of her bailiwick.

It is a symptom of the times—a womanly sophistication born of necessity and the pressures of a rapidly changing world.

In areas once inhabited by men alone, women have been increasing their numbers to impressive levels. Investment is a case in point. Out of 24 million shareholders in the country today, about half are women. And out of four million mutual fund shareholders, 1.5 million are women.

According to a survey conducted by the Investment Company Institute, some 34 per cent of the women who own mutual fund shares today are housewives, 17.4 per cent are retired, 14.5 per cent are in secretarial and kindred positions, and 12.5 per cent are teachers.

By and large, women are not followers of economic trends; they have the "savings instinct" but most find little pleasure in poring over complicated charts and forecasts, and for that reason may hesitate to invest. But investing in a mutual fund can satisfy a woman's rational urge to put money aside, yet not confuse her with mountains of statistics. The mutual fund idea is a simple one. It provides people with similar investment goals a way to pool their money in an effort to achieve these goals. By combining their dollars they are able to engage professional investment managers at a cost which is divided among all shareholders. Their money is then invested in selected and diversified securities so that even one mutual fund share would represent a proportionate interest in many different companies.

Thus, the individual receives precisely the same management, the same diversification and the same opportunity for growth and income whether he has invested $100 or $1,000,000 in his fund.

the Hindman's acquire this hotel?

A woman with four small children - the oldest not more than 10 years old - got off the west-bound train in the early days. She went to the Hindman Hotel and told Dad Hindman that she had no money. He gave her a room. Ma went up to see about her and found the children almost naked for clothing. Ma put on her bonnet and went to the drygoods store where she bought material and put every woman in the hotel and some of the townswomen to making clothes for the children. The woman, whose husband had died after a two-year spell of illness, was on her way to El Paso but was put off the train here because she had no money to pay her fare the rest of the way. Kit Cooper, Charlie Carpenter, and Scott Johnston raised enough money to buy their tickets on to El Paso where she had relatives.

Duncan Graham, relative of Alfred Rowe and born in England, married Mattie Hindman, C. C. (Kit) Cooper, local cattleman, married Leona Hindman. The largest funeral procession ever observed in McLean was that of the Kit Cooper funeral in January, 1915.

Mrs. Leona Hindman Cooper was the first McLean woman to hold an elective office. She was elected Public Weigher in 1918.

Bob, the old parrot of the J.

R. Hindmans died Wednesday morning at 6:30 (we forgot the date). The McLean News reported the demise and said cause of death was a mystery unless it was for lack of breath.

Jack Hindman was elected constable of this precinct in 1910.

In the fall of 1913, J. R. Hindman built sidewalks on two sides of his hotel - on Main Street and on the south side of the building on Railroad Street.

J. R. Hindman was treasurer of the first Commercial Club, a civic organization, with a $50.00 membership fee, organized in 1910.

In May, 1913, Woody Hindman developed small pox. He was moved from the hotel to the Heald home. When Woody was gone from the hotel, Dad Hindman fumigated every room with burning sulphur, disinfected all the bedding, and destroyed all open food.

In March, 1927, a building permit was issued to J. R. Hindman for a 14-room addition to the present Hindman Hotel, making a total of 32 rooms, with hot and cold water piped into each room. Many of them had private baths. Sealy mattresses were to be placed on every bed. The cost of all this improvement was $9,000.

When the American Legion sponsored its first rodeo in September, 1921, they netted $100. Wood Hindman won first in goat roping. His time was 19 1/2 seconds. Kid McCoy was second with a time of 23 seconds.

On May 21, 1926, J. R. Hindman, Mayor of McLean, died suddenly while driving his car on the highway west of Alanreed. "Dad" Hindman was one of a fishing party hurrying home to outrun an approaching storm. In the car with him was Scott Johnston. They had just met the night train and Dad had remarked that the train was late, then fell over the steering wheel. Scott stopped the car. Mr. Hindman was 65 years, 3 months, and 1 day old at the time of his death. He had served on the school board, and was at one time, County Commissioner. He was a Mason. His funeral was held at the Methodist Church. The Masons took charge of his body after the services and he was buried in the Hillcrest Cemetery. All business houses in town were closed for the funeral.

When packing your cooler for a picnic put bottled and canned drinks in the ice where they'll keep coldest. Pack perishable foods such as deviled eggs, hamburger and tuna or chicken salad just over the ice, advise Extension foods specialists. Then pack your less perishable foods, such as steaks and hot dogs, on top. If you follow this procedure for packing, your cooler should keep your food in satisfactory condition, with a minimum of ice throughout a summer day.
