Shadid Child Funeral Held Sunday Afternoon

Funeral services were held at the First Presbyterian Church Sunday afternoon for Willa Ann Shadid, aged 2 years, 5 months and 24 days, who died at a Pampa hospital Oct. 25, 1940, following an operation for a ruptured appendix.

Services were conducted by Rev. John W. Myrose, pastor, and burial was made in Hillcrest cemetery.

Palbearers were Arthur Erwin, Ruel Smith, W. W. Boyd and A. B. Christian.

Besides her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Shadid, three sisters, LeWanda, Darlene and Patricia; and one brother, Jerry Bill, survive her.

VISITORS ENTERTAIN AT LIONS LUNCHEON

Ten visitors from the Pampa Lions Club, one guest from Alanreed, and nine children from the grade school attended the Lions Club luncheon Tuesday.

The Pampa delegation was under the leadership of Boss Lion Joe Burrows, who presented the group. Bill Halley played some accordion solos, Arthur Teed, zone chairman and past district governor, made a talk; and Past District Governor H. C. Walker made an inspirational address.

The grade school children, some of whom were in costume, were advertising their Halloween carnival. With Bobby Black as announcer, Glenda Joyce Smith played an accordion solo, Erma Ruth Fulbright played a piano solo, and the school boys' cornet trio played a number.

DRIFTER SELLS ADV.

A short time ago a man came to town and secured entrance to a local pastor's study at the church, while the preacher was out of town, and began phoning McLean business men, ostensibly from a nearby "Bigtown," offering them advertisements in the "Bigtown" paper at a good stiff price. When he found any sales resistance, or any merchant asked if he had the endorsement of the local chamber of commerce advertising committee, he politely hung up.

However, at least one merchant who began to doubt the worth of a proposition that could not be talked over the counter, refused to pay when a lady was sent two or three days later to collect the money.

Another phone call from the man offered to trade it out, and again a woman was sent to try to get payment in the way of trade, but this was also refused.

So far, the man just remains a voice over the telephone from no one knows exactly where.

Table and house decorations, including many beautiful cut flowers, carried out the color scheme.

Open house for friends was held from 2 until 10 p. m. and many beautiful gifts were received.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

By Roger Shaw

Election Day Holds National Spotlight; Tension in Balkan States Increases As Axis Demands Greek Concessions; British Carry Air War to German Soil

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

THE WAR:
Aerial

There were rumors and counter-rumors about the total evacuation of London, in the face of Goering's aerial bombardment. Old people over 65, school children, and active mothers were advised to leave as soon as possible, taking with them all sick or invalided souls.

About half a million children—more than 50 per cent of the school population—were out of town, and 500 expectant mothers were departing weekly for parts unknown. It was not a cheerful picture. The British government still refused to leave, although an emergency parliament house had been prepared in readiness, at Cheltenham, in the extreme west of England. The board of trade already had announced the removal of its business offices records to the Grand hotel, in an unpronounceable spot in central Wales. The spot was, actually, Llandudno. The British board of trade corresponds to the U. S. Chamber of Commerce.

Reports from London, Berlin and Rome indicated that the British air force had launched a major air offensive against the axis powers in reply to the constant bombings of London by the Nazis.

While the RAF had by no means been idle during the preceding weeks, this current drive seemed to take on more force than heretofore. Invasion ports on the French side of the English channel were severely bombed and shipyards at Bremen were reported blasted. Industrial cities of northern Italy came in for their share of the beating, according to the dispatches from British headquarters.

Disease

The worst news of all was this: Spinal meningitis had broken out. This was due to the fact that nearly 3,000,000 people had been sleeping in unsanitary subways, crowded into unhygienic surroundings. Nerves were wearing out, and so was physical resistance, with an average of only four hours' sleep per night. The "cerebro-spinal fever" was blamed on a nose and throat germ, presumably air-borne. There was further danger of typhoid, influenza, a higher insanity rate, and other attendant ills. It will be remembered that epidemic disease is one of the four grim horses of the apocalypse, and perhaps the worst of the grisly team.

The Balks

When it came to the Balkans, there was increased tension. Rumania was further occupied by the German invaders. Bulgaria headed straight for the Axis orbit, while British citizens began to decamp from both Bucharest and Sofia. Jugoslavia, squeezed between Italy, Germany, Hungary, Bulgaria, and Italian Albania, signed a new trade and political pact with Hitler, which tied up the Jugoslavs in the German continental system, at least for the time being. Greece was threatened by the Bulgarians and Italians, and was backed up by Russia and Turkey. Greece and Turkey, along with Egypt and Portugal, were still nominal British allies. The Soviets were moving increasingly to the anti-Hitler viewpoint, for a Germanized Balkans did not appeal to the Kremlin at Moscow. The actual military value of the Red army was under constant discussion. Had it found itself, in the last month of the Finnish war? Was the Red aviation any good? Were there any suitable Red generals left alive after Stalin's purges? These were the moot questions, and even the left-eye monocles of the Prussian general staff were in some doubt about Marshal Voroshilov's warbirds and warboys.

Reported demands upon Greece by the Axis powers included: (1) immediate severance of economic relations with the British, (2) cession of territory to Italy and Bulgaria, (3) use of Greek air bases by the Axis, (4) abdication of King George of Greece, (5) grant of a right of way to Italy for construction of a major military road.

DEFENSE:
Draftees

Thirty thousand draftees were to be put into the army by November 18, and another 800,000 by June 15. There had been a total of 17,000,000 young men that registered, which topped the forecasts. In reference to these young men, War Secretary Stimson declared: "Only God and Hitler know what will happen to the United States." The army, it was stated, plans to train 900,000 annually for the next five years, which is the life-length of the Burke-Wadsworth conscription bill recently passed by congress. The B-W bill provided that an annual 900,000 was to be the maximum number called up per year.

Western

One southwestern Indian was found who claimed to be a member of the German Bund, and didn't want to register. He said he was waiting for Hitler to come and "free" him from the white man, the White House, and the great white father. Some people said that this aborigine was red in more ways than one.

POLITICS:
Wind Up

As the politicians all over the nation were busy winding up their blasts of campaign oratory, American voters were preparing to go to the polls to cast what was expected to be the largest ballot in the nation's history. Major candidates were completing their pleas to the electorate and latest public opinion polls indicated a close presidential race.

On Mr. R.

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt did not try to predict the result of the 1940 campaign, which was coming to a peak. She said she simply didn't know, and implied she could take it or leave it.

Said Mrs. Roosevelt, who is popular even with the foes of her husband: "As far as the polls go, they mean very little to me. They are so often too much one way, or the other. When you've been the wife of a politician long enough, you learn not to express anything one way or the other, but just go along and see what happens . . ."

Duello

Meanwhile, Clare Boothe and Dorothy Thompson disagreed on the election. Miss Boothe wrote "The Women" and other things. She stood firm for Willkie. Miss Thompson, N. Y. Herald Tribune or no N. Y. Herald Tribune, plumped for Roosevelt. Miss Boothe razzed Miss Thompson, and the Herald Tribune held up Miss Thompson's stuff. There was quite a to-do about it all, with Miss Boothe apparently worsting Miss Thompson in this blitzkrieg of hairpins and cat-calls.

Aircraft Award

In recognition of his "contributions to aeronautical development and the production of many types of aircraft of high performance," Glenn L. Martin (above), president of the aircraft company that bears his name, has been awarded the Daniel Guggenheim medal for 1940. Mr. Martin, shown in his Baltimore office with a model of the first airplane he ever built and in which he learned in 1909, is currently working on two new bombing planes, said to be the largest aircraft of their kind in the world.

A. C. L. U.:
'Reforms'

The American Civil Liberties union used to be called radical. It defended Communists, Nazis, Negroes, trade unions and other varied causes, which was certainly an American way of doing things, but its leaders were sometimes accused of leftist tendencies.

Eleven new members were added to the national committee of the A. C. L. U. They were certainly of an orthodox, and even conservative, type. The new members included Mr. Roosevelt's headmaster of aristocratic Groton school, Dr. Endicott Peabody. Also, interventionist Robert Sherwood, the famous playwright. Van Wyck Brooks, the blue-blooded author and critic, was another, and so was Pearl Buck, the "Chinese" novelist. Dean Christian Gauss of conservative Princeton university was on the list, and Dr. Frank Kingdon, director of the citizenship educational service. Also, William Draper Lewis of Philadelphia, director of the American law institute, William Allan Neilson, president emeritus of Smith college for women, Bishop Bromley Oxnam of the Methodist church in Boston, and Professor Sophonisba Breckinridge of the University of Chicago.

NATIONAL:
Socialism

Certain gloomy political scientists were maintaining that the blight of national socialism was spreading round the world to all the major countries: Germany, Italy, England, France, Japan, America, etc. In each country, they declared, it varied its pattern, but the basic essentials were always there.

Sad

They said that national socialism now combined the aggressive militarism of the political right with the aggressive socialism of the political left. This united left and right, and made for some sort of totalitarian state. The Churchill government, for example, unites radical labor (under Ernest Bevin) with the military mentality of Churchill himself. Chamberlain, they claimed, represented the last stand of Victorian middle-class capitalism. The Vargas dictatorship in Brazil, the Franco rule in Spain, and the Konoys regime in Japan—militarized and anti-capitalist—were additional samples.

LEOPOLD:
The Belgic

King Leopold of Belgium was accused last June of grave military treachery in the Flanders campaign. They said he let the British and French troops down by making that initial separate peace. France revoked his legion of honor decoration, and the Leopoldine bust was removed from the Belgium pavilion at the New York World's fair. Then, months later, people began to renovate their opinions about Leopold of the Belgians. The Pétain government of France restored his legion of honor. The marble Leopoldine bust was restored to the World's fair exhibit. Some 700 people were specially invited to the bustial restoration. The pavilion had been open only two weeks when Leo made his peace with the Hitlerians. The weary months since that time have meant seclusion—for the monarch—in a guarded Belgian chateau, where he rules vaguely and in name only, if at all.

SNITE:
Iron Lunged

About the bravest young man in America is Fred Snite Jr. of Chicago. He has lived for four years in an iron lung, and has traveled in it to distant places. He has married happily and now has an heir. Snite wanted to register for the draft, with his customary pluck and grit. They appointed Snite senior as a special registrar, and the father registered the son.

New Silk Jersey Gives Illusion Of Slim, Sculptured Silhouette

of real distinction and charm. Sleek and sleeved dinner gowns of silk jersey made with molded torsos and sculptured drapery in the inimitable A-line manner call forth the plaudits of the fashion world. Romance and loveliness and feminine allure are at their height in a gown of soft gray-tone silk jersey as shown centered in the group. The bodice has a deep V-neck with much drapery coming from the shoulder to give fullness over the bust. The straight-falling generously full skirt slims into lines of infinite grace. Long sleeves accent the new "covered-up" look so definitely high-fashion for dinner gowns this season. The wide figure-flattering, tight draped midriff is enhanced by buckles jeweled with lovely pink moonstones.

Bi-colored silk jersey evening gowns continue to be fashion firsts. These have bodice and apron drapery in one color with midriff and skirt in another, in such dramatic combinations as flame red with black, accessorized with jet jewelry. Black magic also continues in gowns fashioned with sheer silk jersey tops with silk crepe for the skirt or black transparent lace bodices topping heavy black silk jersey skirts—enchanted and slightly wicked.

A "word to the wise" about caring for your silk jersey garments. Because it is a knit fabric, it is best to lay your blouses and dresses out flat in a drawer. And did you know that silk jersey practically never requires pressing as the "live" elasticity of silk reduces wrinkle to a minimum? In case an iron does have to be used, be sure just to place the iron on the spot you wish to press without rubbing back and forth, which would stretch the fabric. Silk jersey cleans beautifully, too, for the inherent characteristics of the fiber means that if the garment is properly cared for, it will not bag or sag or pull at the seams, but will return to its original size and shape. Delightful to wear under winter coats is sleek silken jersey, never too warm, never too cool—just right!

Shows Pompadour

Smart hats for fall and winter are fashioned and worn to show off the new pompadour hair-do. Here are two hats that do just that—play up to the fashionable pompadour coiffures. The one at the top is a youthful version with a big brim that lifts off the face and swoops low to the nape of the neck. The foundation of the hat is black felt with gold, maroon and navy stitching over its entire surface. A trio of quills in gold, red and blue puncture the up-lifted front brim. The black velvet dinner hat below was especially designed for the new pompadour hair-dress which shows off the forehead so becomingly. It promises to become increasingly popular.

Spotted Furs Have Become the Vogue

If you keep seeing "spots before your eyes" don't be alarmed. It is simply fashion making a demonstration of what's what in fur coats and fur trimmings. The tremendous vogue for leopard and ocelot and other of the spotted type pelts is developing almost to an epidemic of spots. When in doubt as to the fur to enhance your new cloth coat, use the spotted kind and you will be fashion correct. The way spotted furs will crowd the grandstand this year is something to marvel at. There will be entire coats of leopard or ocelot. There will be muff and neckpiece sets with matching hats of the spotted fur. There will be more than that, for huge pockets of spotted fur are adorning cloaks.

There's no end in sight of the procession of novelty accessory items that will enliven the fall and winter style picture. You will be seeing spotted fur gloves with belts made of the same material. Hand bags to match are available, and lapel gadgets of "spots." Of course the program includes smart headgear of spotted fur to "make good" a complete ensemble.

New Wool Fabric Dress Has Hand-Knitted Section

Knitted sleeves in a wool fabric dress is big news. Attractive jersey dresses in the very new neutral colors take on sleeves and knitted sections. Details such as large pockets, belts and cuff-and-collar sets are done in yarn accurately color-matched.

Old Gent Didn't Suspect Child Was in Duplicate

A young wife was aboard ship, sailing from New York to Panama, there to join her husband. Just before the ship was to dock, she missed her little twin daughters and set out to hunt them.

"Have you seen my twins?" she asked a crusty old gentleman in a deck chair.

"Twins?" he repeated. "I didn't even know there were any on board."

She was just going to remark that it was odd he hadn't noticed, when she spied a pig-tailed head peering around a corner. "There's one now," she told him.

Pull the Trigger on Lazy Bowels

When constipation brings on acid indigestion, bloating, dizzy spells, gas-coated tongue, sour taste and bad breath, your stomach is probably "crying the blues" because your bowels don't move. It calls for Laxative Senna to pull the trigger on those lazy bowels, combined with good old Syrup Pepsin to make your laxative more agreeable and easier to take. For years many Doctors have used pepsin compounds, as agreeable carriers to make other medicines more palatable when your "taster" feels easily upset. So be sure your laxative contains Syrup Pepsin. Insist on Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Senna, combined with Syrup Pepsin. See how wonderfully its herb Laxative Senna wakes up lazy nerves and muscles in your intestines, to bring welcome relief from constipation. And see how its Syrup Pepsin makes Dr. Caldwell's medicine so smooth and agreeable to a touchy gutlet. Even finicky children love the taste of this pleasant family laxative. Buy Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Senna at your druggist's today. Try one laxative that won't bring on violent distaste, even when you take it after a full meal.

That Nagging Backache

May Warn of Disordered Kidney Action
Modern life with its hurry and worry, irregular habits, improper eating and drinking—its risk of exposure and infection—throws heavy strain on the work of the kidneys. They are apt to become over-taxed and fail to filter excess acid and other impurities from the life-giving blood.
You may suffer nagging backache, headache, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling—feel unusually tired, nervous, all seem out. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are unusual burning, scanty or too frequent urination.
Try Doan's Pills. Doan's help the kidneys to pass off harmful excess body wastes. They have had more than half a century's public approval. Are recommended by grateful users everywhere. Ask your neighbor!

TIGERS WIN OVER PIRATES

The McLean Tigers won their fourth conference game of the season last Friday night by taking the Lefors Pirates 47-14. A thrilling first half left the score 14-14, but the Tigers turned on power to spare in the second half and ran wild through the Lefors team.

The Tigers made the first and third scores of the first half and the Pirates made the second and fourth. Lee, Tiger right half, scored both times for the Tigers, and Braxton, left half, kicked both extra points. A pass, Twigg to Earheart, netted 60 yards and the first Pirate touchdown. Twigg plunged over from the one yard line for their second score. Both extra points were kicked. The Tigers dominated the second half with crack blocking, hard tackling and touchdowns. Lee ran two more touchdowns from midfield early in the third quarter. Cooke, fullback, ran the next score around left end. Back, quarterback, ran 40 yards through the center of the line for the next; and Isom, substitute back, made the last on a 23 yard jaunt around right end. Braxton kicked three more extra points.

This win leaves McLean with four wins and no losses in their conference schedule. In these four games the Tigers have amassed a total of 158 points to their opponents' 21. Lee leads the scoring list with 91 points. Cooke is second with 25, Braxton has 24, Back 12 and Isom 6.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

JESUS DECLARES HIS MISSION

LESSON TEXT—Luke 4:16-30. GOLDEN TEXT—For the Son of man is come to save and to save that which was lost.—Luke 19:10.

Ready for service! It's an exciting and auspicious occasion when the one who has prepared for a life work is ready to set forth on his mission. Joy and sorrow mingle; encouragement and opposition both appear and become his constant companions. Recognizing God and following His Word is of greatest importance on such a day.

The mission upon which Jesus entered on the day of our lesson was important far beyond any service of man, for, while He set out upon an earthly ministry of doing good, He led to the cross where He wrought out deliverance for the captives of Satan. That day found Him back with His own people in the synagogue in His home town.

I. Prophecy Fulfilled (vv. 16-22). It is significant and appropriate that Jesus' declaration of Himself as the fulfillment of Isaiah 61:1, 2 was made in the synagogue on the Sabbath day. He met with the people in the house and at the time set apart for God's worship. He opposed spiritual deadness, the misinterpretation of the truth, the distortion of religious principles; but He was not, as some would have us believe, a religious free lance who despised the established worship of His people.

Having been prepared by the years of silence, and more particularly by the baptism and the temptation in the wilderness, He appeared at the synagogue in Nazareth to declare Himself as the fulfillment of prophecy.

Those who teach that Jesus was only a young Jewish teacher with a new philosophy of life have evidently not read the Scriptures. He knew Himself to be God's Son come into the world to bring the good news of salvation by His own blood to poor, sin-captive, blinded and bruised humanity. He is the Savior!

Look at Isaiah 61:1, 2 and note that Jesus stopped reading before the end of the sentence. "The day of vengeance of our God" will come when Christ returns. This is the day of grace. Sinners are urged to accept God's love now, and thus to escape the terrible day of judgment.

II. Faith Recognized (vv. 23-27).

The Jews gloried in the fact that they were the chosen people of God and insisted it was through the exercises of their formal worship that God's blessing must be received. Now this one whom they erroneously call "Joseph's son" (v. 22) comes to disturb them in their self-satisfaction. Seeing their rising resentment, He declares by striking words and example that the benefits and blessings of God come through faith and not because of any racial relationship.

The glory of Christianity is that its grace and power are to be received by faith and are fully and freely available to the simplest and poorest of men. Race, position, wealth, education, have nothing to do with it. All too often they are a hindrance, although they ought rather to be a help.

Every reader of these notes, regardless of age, education, wealth or any other condition or circumstance of life, stands on an equal footing before God and has a full and unlimited opportunity to take right now, by faith in Christ, all that God has for him—salvation, spiritual strength and usefulness, joy, peace, and all the other blessings of God. Will you do it?

III. Truth Rejected (vv. 28-30).

Like a torch cast into gunpowder, His words set off all the explosive power of narrow bigotry, national pride, jealousy, and they were all "filled with wrath" (v. 28).

They rejected not only the truth of His words, but they rejected Him who is the Truth (John 14:6). Note it carefully—in rejecting or neglecting His Word, you reject and neglect Him.

Observe that until the time had come for Him to be "delivered" (Rom. 4:25) into the hands of wicked men to be crucified they could not touch Him. There is no more majestic scene than that in verse 30 where the Son of God turned at the brow of the hill and, walking through the midst of the crowd, went His way.

What have I to fear at the hands of wicked and gainsaying men as long as I follow this all-powerful Son of God? He that is for us and in us is greater than he (the devil) that is in the world (I John 4:4). We follow the victorious Christ, who quietly but majestically walks through the ranks of His helpless enemies and goes "His way." Will you join us—today?

Be Temperate

Woe to them that rise up early in the morning that they may follow strong drink; that continue until night, till wine inflame them.—Isa. 5:11.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON (Consolidated Features—WNU Service.)

NEW YORK.—In 1933, young Nelson A. Rockefeller was handed a delicate job of commercial and cultural co-ordination, indeed a Rockefeller Well stiff assignment for a beginner in this field. It was to persuade the fiery Diego Rivera to x-out that head of Lenin in his murals at Rockefeller Center. He managed the affair with tact and restraint, undisturbed by the thunder from the left.

Now he has progressed to full-time work in that highly specialized field. He is co-ordinator of commercial and cultural relations between the United States and other Western hemisphere nations. Currently he is in the news as he appoints John Hay Whitney to his staff, to take care of motion picture details of the above co-ordination.

I remember talking to one of his teachers at Lincoln school, New York. She said Nelson was good material for progressive education, as he had a way of getting on with people. He was a good student, too, romping so far ahead of schedule at Dartmouth that they gave him his senior year off. He devoted it to a wanderjahr, in which he went to India and had a long chat with Mahatma Gandhi, and studied photography. Taking up the rich man's burden, he devoted himself mainly to the family real estate, becoming president of Rockefeller Center, which, incidentally, is one of the most successful feats of commercial and cultural co-ordination in the world.

Mr. Rockefeller, born in Bar Harbor, Maine, in 1907, is tall, blonde and reticent, an abstainer from alcohol and tobacco, always deeply in earnest. With his manifold business interests he combines a careful and diligent trusteeship of the Museum of Modern Art. This department can't help but feel a bit doubtful about co-ordinating commerce and the arts—unless there is a John Masefield around to write a poem like "Cargoes."

KING BORIS of Bulgaria is doing the best he can for his little Cinderella kingdom, but things don't look so good. He reviews troops King Boris Would tanks and Rather Be 'Casey Jones of Balkans' smartly, but there is a hint that he is just making himself a lot of unnecessary trouble. As a king, he never did have his heart in his work.

He has a passion for trains and never misses a chance to drive a locomotive. Engines fill his life and his dreams. When his father, Ferdinand, abdicated in 1918, the young man insisted that he be allowed to go to America and be a railroad engineer, but his father forbade it.

Ascetic in appearance, always of seemly behavior, he moved immaculately through Balkan wars, revolutions and internecine dogfights. Ferdinand had apprenticed him to a versatile fighting man in 1912, when he was only 18 years old. He fought dutifully, but seemed always to be listening for the whistle of old 97, coming round the bend.

His wardrobe, one of the best in Europe, runs mainly to pinstripes. He is a nimble dancer, good at all such orthodox sports as boar-hunting and timber-topping, but aroused and eager only when he has his hand on the throttle of a locomotive.

In 1930, he married the Princess Giovanna of Italy. This alliance was regarded, among other dynastic ties, as a stabilizing and safeguarding influence for his kingdom, but now seems of small account. In 1934, internal stress led the king to set up a dictatorship, by a military coup. It didn't help much. About 80 per cent of the exports of Bulgaria continued to go to totalitarian countries, and it came more and more under their thrall. The king flirted with Russia for a while, with no gratifying results. He has been in frequent peril of assassination—and nothing seems to matter much, since they won't let him be a railroad engineer.

IN 1935, he lost his job selling o-burners when the company folded up. Julia, his wife, said, "Now your chance to do some of that singing you were always going to do." So he piped up right away and sang his way right through to the dotted line on a Metropolitan Opera contract. That's the young Arthur Kent one of the ten new singers booked this season at the Met. He began singing in cafes and churches and then got 46 weeks in "I Married an Angel." His repertoire includes Italian, Spanish, French.

Decommissioned Subs Go Back to Duty

These submarines, shown tied up at Charlestown, Mass., said their farewell to arms after the World War armistice in 1918. Now they are getting ready to stage a comeback. These eight, and many others, will be recommissioned and returned to duty with the planned Atlantic fleet. The navy expects to have 36 of these submarines ready for duty by January 1. In addition, it has 104 first-line submarines, and 81 more which are now in the process of building.

Instead of a Campaign Button

Here's a new wrinkle, from Hollywood, designed by Max Factor Jr., for a red-hot political campaign. Starlets Joan Breelay and Muriel Zaler wear their choice for President in the form of an old-fashioned beauty patch, with the initials cut out of court plaster. As a fad it's good until November 6, but not a day longer.

Mass Pilot Training Starts

National Horse Show Opens

Draft Chief

Dr. Clarence D. Dykstra, president of the University of Wisconsin, was unanimously confirmed by the senate as director of selective service.

Spending our way into prosperity is just as feasible as drinking ourselves sober. It just can't be done that way.
 Gossip has always been frowned upon as evil, but nowadays it seems to be a means of entertainment and little attention is paid to it, compared to 30 years ago when a very little gossip could blast a person's reputation.

The Red River county amendment to be voted upon next Tuesday should be defeated, as it violates the principle of equality and would be a blow at economy in financial affairs. The other amendments have some merit.
 It is right and proper to have our preference in the election, but we must forget our differences after election day and pull for America as an undivided people, regardless of who are to be our leaders. This is the only way we can have any influence with the dictator nations, and there is little doubt but that we will do just that thing.

Mr. Willkie seems to be gaining ground every day, but it remains to be seen whether he can beat the third term candidate. It is to be hoped that if Mr. Roosevelt is successful he will live to serve out the full term. The prospect of Mr. Wallace succeeding to the President's place does not look too inviting from this distance.

Elbert Hubbard's advice on how to avoid criticism was to "do nothing, say nothing, be nothing." And the man who follows this advice might be a good man, but it would be negative goodness and worth nothing to others. It is too bad that good men must suffer unjust criticism, but there is no way to avoid it and amount to anything.

Dr. Paul B. Brooks, deputy state health commissioner of New York, in replying to questions on the purity of milk, said: "Assuming a healthy cow to start with, it is quite possible to handle milk so carefully and keep it so clean that, if kept cold, it will keep for days without souring. There was a time before the days of surgical sepsis when surgeons thought that if an operation wound didn't develop pus there was something wrong either with the patient or the operation. Bacteria that causes the milk to sour gets into the milk with dirt of one kind or another." With the increased interest in good milk, the doctor's words are interesting.

In 1917-18, 50,510 American soldiers were killed in action and died of wounds received in the world war, of which 2,023 were Texas soldiers. In 1938-39, 65,000 American citizens were killed in traffic accidents, of which 3,193 were Texans.
 The highways of the nation have become a shambles that is a disgrace to a civilized people. It is evident that many automobile drivers are on the road that should never have been issued a driver's license, and this situation cannot go on forever. Education has some effect, but it is not fast enough. Drastic steps are needed if we are to overcome this condition in time to stop thousands of needless deaths.

State Democrats who howl against scratching the presidential electors (who are not in any way connected with the party pledge), yet foster a write-in campaign against Mr. McDonald, whom they pledged themselves to support in the primary, are hardly consistent to say the least. In fact, bolting the party when you get good and ready has always been a habit with the big fellows. It is only the ordinary voter that has the party pledge held over his head.
 And another thing: scratching the nominee but not voting for anyone else is not living up to the party pledge. If you are pledge conscious, you must of necessity support every one of the nominees, regardless of fitness for the office or personal dislike. Mr. McDonald, who is going to keep his party pledge, is a better Democrat than those who propose a write-in campaign against him.

TO POISON RABBITS

Poison in the form of strychnine placed in apples or carrots will kill the rabbits and has been successfully used in many cases. However, it is dangerous, since dogs and other farm animals may eat the poisoned rabbits. As rabbits are forced to gnaw young trees because of the lack of food, putting out alfalfa hay or even grain will give the pests something to eat and stop the damage.
 There is but one rule of conduct for a man—to do the right thing. The cost may be dear in money, in friends, in influence, in labor or in prolonged and painful sacrifice. But the cost not to do right is far more dear to you to pay in integrity of your manhood, in character, in honor and in truth. TO POISON RABBITS

Poison in the form of strychnine placed in apples or carrots will kill the rabbits and has been successfully used in many cases. However, it is dangerous, since dogs and other farm animals may eat the poisoned rabbits. As rabbits are forced to gnaw young trees because of the lack of food, putting out alfalfa hay or even grain will give the pests something to eat and stop the damage.
 There is but one rule of conduct for a man—to do the right thing. The cost may be dear in money, in friends, in influence, in labor or in prolonged and painful sacrifice. But the cost not to do right is far more dear to you to pay in integrity of your manhood, in character, in honor and in truth. You forfeit your soul's content and for timely gain you barter the infancies.—Knights of St. George.

Hidden Ways

By FREDERIC F. VAN DE WATER

SYNOPSIS

David Mallory, in search of newspaper work in New York, is forced to accept a job as switch-board operator in a swank apartment house, managed by officious Timothy Higgins. There David meets Miss Agatha Paget, a crippled old lady, and her charming niece, Allegra.

"One minute," Miss Agatha commanded. "I should really like to know how you ran across Kenneth Grahame."

Again I heard the elevator bell. "In books, Miss Paget." She marked the broad servility in my voice and the wrinkles about her alert eyes deepened.

"Then what," she asked, "are you doing in a job like this?"

"At present I'm keeping the elevator waiting. Excuse me."

The bell was silent when I reached the outer hall. I took the car down. Eddie Hoyt was back. He frowned as I stepped from the elevator.

"Fella," he said, "when you take that thing up you're supposed to bring it back again. Miss Ferriter had to walk up!"

"Eddie," I said, "I've been ridden plenty."

"Bad as that?" he asked.

"Worse," I told him, "and listen: if that blood-sweating behemoth in the circus suit inspired your crack, ask him from me why he had the car skied for a half-hour while you were out."

"Oh ho," said Eddie.

"Oh ho, what?" I asked. He shrugged.

"Just oh ho. You called at the Sphere again, Dave?"

"I did. This morning. Once the answer was, 'No opening at the minute.' Now it's just, 'No opening.'"

"Tough," he sympathized. "Why don't you ditch it and go home? This ain't your sort of work, Dave."

"You're telling me," I replied. "I'll starve first, Eddie. And that may not be so far off either. Higgins is on the prod."

"Easy," Hoyt muttered and, as the signal buzzed, retired to the switchboard. Higgins, still in his borrowed plumage, came lumbering from the sidewalk. The coils of earlier wrath smoldered in his little eyes, and I felt my own anger revive as he paused before me.

"Mallory," he grumbled, "I want to talk to you."

I thought of my job and of the odd expression on the face of the girl, Allegra, when I had talked back to Miss Agatha and, though common sense muttered unheeded warning, I said: "Shoot."

"My flippancy stung him," he said heavily, "is what you meant by that crack about 'dubbing in brass.'"

"Simple," I told him. "A joke."

I pointed at the gut wrappings of the doorman's coat.

"Brass," I said. "Superintendent masquerading as doorman. Therefore doubling in brass. Begin to get it?"

Higgins looked dubious and then insulted.

"The trouble with you, me lad, is that you think you're too bloody good for your job. I'm—"

From the switchboard's alcove, Hoyt called:

"Hey, Mr. Higgins, Ferriter's line must be on the blink. They've left the receiver off or something."

"I'll tend to that presently," Higgins informed him. "What I want to tell you, Mallory, is—"

"Hey," Hoyt said tensely. "Hear it?"

Above someone screamed and I saw the red fade from Higgins' face. The sound ceased. It broke out again, louder, shriller, as though horror had abolished all self-control. It soared and fell and rose again like a siren gone mad. Higgins crossed himself. Hoyt babbled from the switchboard with the receiver still clamped to his ear:

"It's up in Three B."

CHAPTER II

Higgins' rush thrust me aside. He slammed the door in my face as I reached the elevator. I ran for the stairs and took them three at a time toward the screeching that tore the pious silence of the Morello to tatters. I reached the third floor ahead of the ancient car.

Before the closed door of the Ferriter apartment, Allegra seemed to wrestle with Miss Ferriter. Nearer me, in the hall, someone in a maid's uniform hopped about, making silly sounds, and on the threshold of the Paget flat, a stout, older woman wrung her hands and gaped. I heard Allegra gasp as she tried to control the wrenching body:

"Ione! What is it? Answer me."

A new spasm shook Ione Ferriter. She began again those long-drawn bursts of screaming and over Allegra's shoulder I saw a white face, wide-mouthed, distorted, like a Greek tragic mask.

Hoyt came toiling up the stairs behind me. Higgins blundered from the elevator.

"Hey," he bawled. "What's all this—?"

Another shriek tore through his query. I caught Miss Ferriter's shoulders and shook her. She gasped. I shook her again.

"Stop it," I bade. "Stop it, do you hear? What's the matter?"

Beneath my hands, I felt her twitch and quake but the screaming ceased. She made a feeble gesture toward the door.

"In there," her whisper rasped. "He's—"

Her body gave way. It grew so inertly heavy that Allegra and Hoyt and I had trouble holding it. Over the sagging head, I asked Higgins: "Can you get a key?"

He nodded but still stood, gaping and uncertain, till a competent voice spoke from the Paget doorway.

"Allegra, Bertha, Edward," it ordered. "Pick her up. Lay her on my bed, Allegra. Keep her head down. Annie, take some cognac to Miss Allegra."

Miss Paget sat on her threshold in a wheel chair. She trundled herself into the hall to make way for those who bore the senseless woman and looked from Higgins to me. The elevator bell shrieked frantically and frightened voices called in the air shaft.

"Just what," Miss Paget asked calmly, "was all this about?"

Higgins answered in a husky voice, "Something's wrong in there," and nodded to the reticent door. There was an instant of silence. Then the old lady asked politely:

"What are you waiting for, Timothy? Or perhaps you two men would rather have me look?"

The superintendent fumbled in his uniform with a sickly grin. He looked at me with less dislike than he had shown all day.

"C'm on, Mallory," he ordered, and moved toward the door. He unlocked it but stood aside for me to enter.

The furniture sat in self-conscious, orderly rectitude. There was a trophy of arms above the fireplace—rapier, claymores, sabers and less familiar blades, which shone coldly in the wintry light, and there was a long couch beside the hearth.

"Everything's ok," Higgins said more to himself than to me. "Maybe she's gone daffy; maybe she got bad news or something. She could've been stewed. Let's look around the rest of the place."

"Hold on," I told him.

"What?" he jerked.

"The phone," I said. It stood on a table between the couch and the wall. The receiver hook was empty. Something else was out of place. A fringed lampshade lay on the floor beyond the couch. I peered over the sofa's back into the space beyond and saw the lamp's overturned standard and beside it—

I heard Higgins' low moan. I felt his breath come and go upon my neck. I said:

"He's been killed."

"Who?" Higgins asked in a whisper.

A man lay on his back beside the fallen lamp. His head was tilted so that his black beard pointed upward like a charred stump at the telephone receiver dangling from the table. His hands were drawn up as though he had tried to clutch the lapels of his coat and the left side of his vest was glistening and sodden.

I answered, slowly, for my mouth was sticky.

"I never saw him before."

A low but steady sound came toward us. Higgins held his breath. I tiptoed toward the door as Miss Paget propelled herself into the room. She looked at us with a parental severity.

"Well?" she prompted. In relief we babbled our discovery. I began, but Higgins' heavy speech beat mine down and took command.

"Right over there, Miss Paget," he rattled. "Behind the couch where nobody'd be likely to see him. If you'll roll forward just a little—"

The old lady's calm voice sheared through his babbling. "No doubt," she replied. "May I ask what you intend to do now?"

Higgins stared.

"In such cases," she told him, "it is usually customary to notify the police, I believe."

The superintendent blundered toward the telephone, shrunk back from the presence of the concealed body and, reaching across the couch back, picked up the instrument.

He wacked, impatiently rattling the hook and then, with a grunt, set down the telephone.

"May I ask what you intend to do now?"

"They were surprised"—I grinned at that patrician, puzzled face—"when I spoke to the waiter in Greek."

She started to reply and turned her head sharply as the outer door opened. Higgins and a hard-breathing patrolman entered the room.

"Over beyond the couch he lays," the superintendent informed the policeman with a discoverer's pride. The fear that had been a bond between us was gone now. He stared at me and growled:

"Go downstairs, Mallory. Miss Paget, there'll be nobody left in here now till the Hommycide Squad comes."

Hoyt brought the car down and came to lean against the switchboard with a shaky grin.

"Whew!" he said. "That girl do it?"

I said "No," prompted more by a vestige of chivalry than knowledge. Hoyt glanced over his shoulder at the loiterers in the foyer, and strove to keep the secret that for a few minutes made him their superior. He mumbled:

"He had a black beard, eh? When did he come in? We'd 'a' spotted him, wouldn't we? A guy with a beard, hey? When did he get in? Tell me that."

"I can't," I said. I was shaky and I ached for another cigarette.

"Maybe he came in September and hid till he grew it."

"Aw," said Hoyt and stared toward the front door. The policeman on duty there had admitted a half-dozen men in civilian clothes and then had barred the way to others who strove to follow.

The intruders tramped down the hall toward us, satchel-laden, indifferent and unobtrusive as the first half-dozen men off a suburban train. A man with reddish gray hair like embers and a stubborn freckled face, paused and said to Hoyt:

"Homicide Squad, Mac. Take us up."

Eddie obeyed. Lingering tenants, when I evaded their questions, wandered back to their apartments.

Higgins emerged from his basement apartment. He had doffed Wilson's regalia, evidently on the theory that one uniform at the door was all the house required. He squinted about the foyer and then ambled over to the switchboard. His breath was heavy with the fumes of a recent drink. I envied him.

Alcohol had softened him and something less apparent worried him. He bent confidentially toward me.

"Listen, Mallory," he said with the glibness of rehearsal. "Maybe I was a mite hasty a while ago. We'll let bygones be bygones. Listen: They'll be questionin' all of us. See? There's none of us to be leavin' the buildin' till they're through. You do me a good turn, now. I was upstairs when Miss Paget came in. Sure I was. But I was on the roof, lookin' at the water tank. It's been leakin'. Will ye—"

"May I ask what you intend to do now?"

Strange Facts

Superfine Lines Wind the Musician Seatless Temples

The finest ruled lines in the world are Nobert's lines, made by diamond points on the glass plates used to test the power of microscopes. Some of the plates have more than 225,000 of these hairlines within the space of one inch.

The Fountain of Tears in Bakhchisarai, Russia, is one of the world's most romantic memorials. Erected by a Tatar ruler to express his grief at the death of his Polish princess, it has shed a single drop of water once a minute for more than 300 years.

Fingal's cave on Staffa, one of the Hebrides islands off Scotland, is believed to be the only cavern in the world in which one may hear natural musical sounds. It was this "music," produced by the wind playing around the prism-shaped pillars, that inspired Mendelssohn to write his famous overture, Fingal's Cave.

More than half of the people in the world worship in temples that have no seats and that prohibit the wearing of shoes within their doors.—Collier's.

THE PUBLIC nature of advertising benefits everyone it touches. It benefits the public by describing exactly the products that are offered. It benefits employees, because the advertiser must be more fair and just than the employer who has no obligation to the public. These benefits of advertising are quite apart from the obvious benefits which advertising confers—the lower prices, the higher quality, the better service that go with advertised goods and firms.

It was the flower handle of the spot lid that suggested this mat. I had been thinking of making a hot dish out of firmly woven strips of cotton cloth. SPLIT

The Democratic party is split. The Republican party is split. Labor is split. Farm organizations are split. Europe and Asia are split. Our trousers are split. Everything is split except our wood. We are so disgusted about it all we have a notion to split an infinitive. —Carl Brown in Atchison Globe.

As a Jeffersonian Democrat consistently adhering to the principles upon which that party was built, I cannot conscientiously support any President for a third term. If our constitutional democracy is to survive we must have more patriotism and less machine politics.—Representative Harry B. Coffey.

RODENTS EAT YOUNG TREES UNLESS GUARDED

With the coming of frost and cold weather, fruit growers and farmers who have young trees planted this fall are warned to use precautions in protecting them against rabbits and other small rodents.

Protection should be furnished young trees until they are at least three to four inches in diameter.

Mesh wire has proven to be the best protective method. Washes and pastes have been recommended, but none have proved successful.

It is suggested that either hardware cloth with three meshes to an inch, chicken wire with one-inch mesh, or screen wire be placed around the trees for protection. This method seems expensive in the beginning, but it is really economical in the long run. Once the wire is placed around the tree, it will last long enough for the tree to grow to a size when protection is no longer needed.

Box rabbit traps set around in the orchard also will assist in protecting the orchard by ridding the particular area of rabbits.

Small mesh wire has proven to be highly satisfactory, because it not only protects the trees from rabbits but from other rodents such as mice and rats.

Men are peculiar, just as women have long suspected. For instance, a man who hadn't kissed his wife in five years, recently shot a man who did.—SoCaSan Piper.

One mistake a lot of graduates make is trying to college their way through work.

HIDDEN WAYS

By F. F. VAN DE WATER

FOR THE lover of good detective fiction—the collector of chills, creeps and clues—here is the prize mystery of the season. A guttural voice was David Mallory's only major working clue to a carefully planned murder. Undaunted, David worked with Miss Agatha Paget, an amazingly keen old lady, and together they spun their amazing solution to one of New York's most cunningly contrived crimes. A surprise ending brings a breathless thriller to a dramatic close. You'll thrill to every chapter of Frederick Van de Water's great new story.

WHITE X

Motorists have been chalking up the gaepost of a Louisiana service station with big white X's this past summer, and it doesn't take the next fellow long to find out why. The showers are free. The only catch is that weary tourists and truck drivers find it difficult to think up reasons why the car shouldn't be washed, or the oil changed, just to prolong their refreshing stay. Meanwhile, sales are jumping.

Lately, farmers who don't have showers at home, have taken to dropping in—and that gives the boys a chance to get a crack at rural patronage.

Joe, the sailor, had broken with his girl. After ignoring several letters, requesting the return of her photograph, he received one threatening to complain to the captain. Deciding to silence her for the time, he borrowed all the pictures of girls available on the ship, sending them to her in a large bundle with the following note: "Pick yours out! I've forgotten what you look like!"

Who Pays for Good Printing?

NOBODY! Good printing, like good advertising, pays for itself—pays in many ways not immediately apparent, perhaps, but certain, nevertheless.

Really good stationery, for instance, is unequaled as a creator of profitable prestige—an asset to every business.
