

McLean is having two Hallowe'en's this year. Last night the Methodist Youth Fellowship had their "trick or treat" drive on behalf of CROP to send milk to needy children overseas.

The child photographic contest sponsored by The McLean News will be held from 10 a. m. to 5 p. m. Saturday.

Next Tuesday is election day. That is not news to anybody, we're sure. But it is something that can't be stressed too much.

Supt. Melton Urges Support OF AMENDMENT NO. 4

"Support is growing for Constitutional Amendment No. 4, the teacher retirement on the Nov. 6 general election ballot, as the public is given the facts," Freeman Melton, superintendent of McLean schools, said today.

"This effort of Texas teachers to attract and hold good teachers is one of the most unselfish, public-spirited movements ever seen in the interest of good education for Texas children," Melton declared.

Local school teachers, working with their local and state associations and in cooperation with local Parent-Teacher Association groups, have spearheaded the drive for adoption of the amendment.

Amendment No. 4 will improve the teacher retirement system created in 1937, a depression year. The system covers all employees of public schools and state-supported institutions of higher learning.

Increased benefits, Melton feels, will encourage teachers now leaving the classrooms to remain in the teaching profession. Approximately 7,000 experienced teachers are lost each year to the schools. The program would also help attract some of the 3,800 new teachers needed each year to instruct the 100,000 new children who jam Texas classrooms annually.

The new program, as passed by the Texas legislature last year—unanimously in the senate, and with only two dissenting votes in the house—would work like this: A teacher would pay into the retirement fund each year six per cent of his salary (present rate five per cent), and would earn a retirement based upon these deposits.

NEW BOSS

Mr. and Mrs. John Bayless of Borger are the parents of a son, Danny Homer, born Wednesday, October 24. Danny weighed 8 pounds, 12 ounces.

Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Homer Abbott of McLean and Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Bayless of Borger.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Dwyer of Dozier are the parents of a boy born Tuesday morning at 4:30 in the Suderman Clinic. The new arrival weighed 8 pounds, 2 ounces and has been named Larry Franklin.

While it was still a territory, women in Wyoming were given the right to vote.

More than 150 persons from McLean and the Golden Spread were present for the appreciation dinner honoring Calvin Fraser, owner of the brassiere manufacturing plant to be located in McLean, and his associates at the American Legion Hall last night.

Larry Fuller, Southwestern Public Service Company manager in McLean, was master of ceremonies and dinner music was played by Gayle Mullanax and Betty Dickerson.

Dr. Buell T. Wells, pastor of the First Baptist Church, gave the invocation, and food prepared by the ladies of the McLean Methodist Church was served by McLean FFA girls.

The FFA string band presented music and Fuller introduced Mayor Ed Lander, who extended a western welcome to Fraser and his associates and pledged continued cooperation on the part of McLean.

Fuller then introduced out-of-town guests including Mayor Pro-Tem John Hrnciar, Gerald Mayfield, Harry Fry, Fred Wood, Bill Day and Glen Richerson of Shamrock. Representing Lefors were Mr. and Mrs. John Lance and daughter.

Present from Pampa were Mayor Lynn Boyd, Red Wedgeworth, Gordon Lyons and Fred Parker. Harry Gilstrap, Louis Hollingsworth, Burl McClellan, Joe Hudson and Mr. and Mrs. Bob Izzard attended from Amarillo.

Fuller then introduced those seated at the head table, Councilman and Mrs. Amos Page, Councilman and Mrs. Boyd Meador, Mrs. Larry Fuller, and Mrs. Ed Helstedt.

Bob Izzard, news director of KCNC radio and television, welcomed Mr. Fraser and the Sears executives on behalf of the Golden Spread and invited them to grow with the Texas Panhandle.

Ed Helstedt of Chicago, who is in charge of buying all ladies' wearing apparel for Sears, told how Fraser first became interested in locating in McLean. He said that McLean had all the advantages that Mr. Fraser was looking for and that McLean representatives just refused to take NO for an answer when trying to get Fraser to locate his factory here. He added that McLean and the factory would progress slowly but steadily and he believed that to be the best way for all concerned.

Max Stein of Chicago was the next speaker on the floor and he said that Ed Helstedt was the "biggest brassiere customer in the United States," contrary to what some of the ladies in the audience might have thought before. Bob Izzard, earlier in the program, had told about Uncle Billy Dixon and his escapades in the early days in this area. Stein said he must have been Calvin Fraser's grandfather; he didn't know how he could have found this part of the country otherwise.

Mike Mumma, merchandising manager of Sears in Dallas, came next and expressed his appreciation for the wonderful reception and said that he hoped to visit McLean often in the future.

Calvin Fraser, owner of the new factory and the one who has made it possible for McLean to have the factory, told of the excellent cooperation that he has received from the city of McLean. He said that the council and representatives of the town had done more than he would have ever expected anyone to do. He added that he felt truly grateful to McLean for what it had done and that soon he would be doing his part to repay part of that kindness with a business that would bring a welcome payroll to the town.

At the conclusion of the dinner Councilman Meador presented Mr. Fraser, Ed Helstedt, Max Stein and Mike Mumma with Texas style cowboy hats and made them honorary citizens of McLean. Mr. Stein said he could go back to Chicago now and tell them he was a "Brassiere Buying Cowboy."

Amendments
Eight decisions on state policy soon will be squarely up to the voters. In addition to party candidates eight proposed amendments to the state constitution will appear on the general election ballot.

Through a procedural slip-up, a ninth will be considered at a special election on November 13.

Each amendment will be preceded by FOR and once by AGAINST. Voters must mark out the statement they oppose and leave the other clear.

1. Authorizes the legislature to compensate persons fined or imprisoned for crimes they did not commit. PRO: Would make amends for hardships unjustly imposed on the innocent. CON: Might open the door to numerous fraudulent claims.

2. Allows county commissioners to vary allocations of tax money without special elections. PRO: Greater flexibility would make for greater efficiency in county financial management. CON: Commissioners courts would have too much authority.

3. Adds other colleges to the building program financed by the University of Texas Permanent Fund and authorizes investment of the fund in corporate stocks and bonds as well as government bonds. CON: Risk involved in wider investments is not worth the possible return.

4. Increases the benefits of the teacher retirement system. PRO: Would attract more persons to the dwindling profession. CON: Would increase taxpayer obligations by $4,500,000, take a larger nick out of teachers' salaries.

5. Authorizes another $100,000,000 bond issue for veterans land program. PRO: Program has been put in order, and additional money is needed to enable more veterans to participate. CON: Program does not merit public confidence; only about one per cent of Texas veterans have benefited.

6. Provides a different oath of office for elective and appointive officials. PRO: Would clarify present inconsistencies. CON: Charters constitution with minor details.

7. Requires competent medical or psychiatric testimony before

Congressman Rogers Reports—TO THE PEOPLE

The Disaster Feed Program
The disaster feed program instituted by the Department of Agriculture, under authority delegated by the Congress, was intended to provide a protective cushion against the devastation of the drought. With cattle prices going down and feed prices going up, the rancher is caught in an economic vise that could easily squeeze him into bankruptcy. This situation is not a stranger to the cattleman, because it has happened in the past. However, it is unusual for these two economic pressures to be accompanied by a prolonged and tragic drought. In the usual trend of events, the rancher could protect himself by permitting himself to grow out of such economic depression. His grazing land was his loophole by which to avoid bankruptcy from falling prices and rising feed prices. However, the drought plugged up this loophole. The rancher found himself wholly without grazing lands. This simply meant that he had to feed his animals or sell them. The Congress, realizing the seriousness of the situation, authorized the Department of Agriculture to set up and administer the program that would save the ranchers.

However, there has been much complaint about the manner in which this program has been administered. There have been charges that preference has been given to some while others have been discriminated against. Any and all evidence in support of such charges should be documented at once by those familiar with these situations, if they exist, and submitted to the Department of Agriculture with a copy to the members of Congress. The hay and feed program was not intended to be used as a political football. If such practice has been engaged in, those responsible should be made to answer.

The recent complaints that have been coming into my office concern the price increases in feed and roughage since the government program has gone into effect. One man writes me that before the government program started, he could buy hay at $22 per ton. Since the program started, the price has increased to $42 per ton. Cotton hulls that could be purchased at $14 before the program now cost about $24. Grain was increased from $1.70 per cwt to $1.90 per cwt just about the time the program went into effect. Those ranchers who were eligible to participate in the government program were issued certificates which had a value of $7.50 per ton on hay and cotton seed hulls. It is obvious that the increases in price exceeded the amount of help coming from the government. This simply meant that the eligible ranchers were the recipients of the aid. The certificates on grain amounted to $1 per cwt but have been increased to $1.50 per cwt. Some of the ranchers anticipate that the price of grain will be increased accordingly.

◀ SPEAKING OF CARDS ▶

"IF CARDS ARE EDUCATIONAL—THEN HOW COME THEY'RE SO MUCH FUN?"

It is well to point out that the Department of Agriculture undertook to carefully screen all applicants for this relief and issued certificates only to those who were found eligible under the Department's yardstick. Many who were not allowed to participate in this program, by reason of such screening process, complain vigorously that the administration of the program has not only failed to help those who were allowed to participate, but has measurably increased the burden on those who were not allowed to participate. In other words, the nonparticipants were able to buy hay prior to the government program at a price much less than they are now having to pay. Since they are allowed to participate in the government program, the entire amount of the increase must be paid out of their own pockets. It is their contention that everyone should be allowed to participate in this program if they are in a drought stricken area, or else there should be no program at all.

One of the recent letters I received on the subject also points out that at the time the government started in on this program, cattle would bring about $2 per hundred more than they will sell for now.

I can also point out that the tragedy that has befallen the cattleman and has placed him on the verge of bankruptcy does not seem to have had any effect on the price of processed meats or the profits that seem to be made by the packing companies. Washington markets are today selling round steak for $1.15 a pound, veal cutlets for $1.39 a pound, with similar prices on other cuts.

Fido a dog's name, is taken from the Latin fidus, meaning faithful.

Safety Is Stressed
By Rural Carriers

The rural fleet of the Louisiana-Texas postal region won driver safety recognition in the 25th annual National Fleet Safety Contest of the National Safety Council, according to a statement this week by Postmaster Johnnie R. Back.

The postal region's 2,500 drivers placed third in the passenger car division, based on performance from July, 1955, through June, 1956. Announcement of the rankings was made at ceremonies in the LaSalle Hotel in Chicago on October 25.

During the year the rural carriers of the two-state region covered 31,060,814 miles with an accident rate of only .08 accidents per 100,000 miles. Rural carriers of the McLean post office contributed to this outstanding safety record.

Since I have been postmaster at the McLean office, the three carriers have traveled approximately 1,368,000 miles with only one minor accident, Back said.

More than 1800 fleets operating in excess of 229,000 vehicles and traveling 4,867,000 miles, competed in the silver anniversary contest, largest of its kind in the world. The combined average frequency rate of 1.58 accidents per 100,000 vehicle miles was one of the lowest rates achieved in the 25-year history of the contest and mark the fourth consecutive year that the rate has been below two. It represents a 32% reduction as compared to the 1951-1952 contest average.

Tex Says He's No Expert
But He Believes Ike Is

The other night a bunch of us were sitting around in the drug store after the football game, drinking coffee and talking. You know how it is after a game in a small town, especially after the home team loses. Nearly every man in the crowd had a theory as to why we didn't win the game. Most of them, of course, blamed the coach. I couldn't help remembering that before we consolidated the county schools we didn't even have enough boys to make up a football team. And these same football experts who were saying what Rockne or Bud Wilkinson would have done, up until a few years ago they didn't know a football from a watermelon. It is in a small town (and in big ones, too, I understand). I guess there's no real harm done, although sometimes it's pretty rough on the coach.

I guess we have a right, in this free country, to be self-appointed experts in any line we want to pick out. It seems to me that most people choose either football or politics.

Take this presidential election coming up next Tuesday: During the last few weeks I have heard so many different political experts that I nearly get confused sometimes. I have to stop and think that the fellow who is talking probably doesn't know any more about it than I do, and that helps me keep straightened out.

In fact, I guess I have had my mind made up all along. To make no bones about it, I like Ike. He's a man you can always look up to and respect—the kind of man you'd be proud to point out to any person, from any country on the face of the globe, and say: "That's our President!"

About Adlai, now, I'm not so sure. Of course, if he was elected, he would be my President, too, and I would hope he'd do a lot better than most people around here seem to think he would. This is something I don't think we need to worry about, because from all I can hear and read, Ike is going to win it again.

It seems to me that if Adlai ever had a chance around here, he threw it away when he came out with that H-bomb business. Now, the folks in our town don't know much about H-bombs, except that they don't want any personal dealings with them. Our scientific knowledge of H-bombs is about on a par with our football knowledge, I reckon. But we do know one thing: We don't want some misguided, inexperienced fellow fooling around with our national defense. When it comes to trusting what Bulgarin says or what Eisenhower says, I'll take Ike. So will the rest of the country, if I don't miss my guess.

Just before we broke up the other night Doc Brown came into the drug store, and somebody asked him: "Hey, Doc, how's Ike doing?" (Doc's a big Eisenhower man.) Doc said: "Well, it's a busy campaign for the medical profession. Last week Ike went and got his heart examined; and I understand that this week Adlai is going to get his head examined."

Yours truly,
Tex

Since little Johnnie's personal horizon had been greatly extended by several months at kindergarten, his mother decided to inquire concerning his current loyalties.

"Dear," she said, "Who do you love best?"

The youngster pondered the query soberly and then replied: "Well, I love you best, Mommie, and Daddy next best, and my teacher the least. And in between come a lot of dogs."

Cold weather can't be far away and you will want a strong battery to get you started off right during the winter months. Stop in and let us tell you about our batteries. We believe you'll like them best.

EISENHOWER
IS A BETTER DEMOCRAT THAN STEVENSON!

TEXAS DEMOCRATS FOR EISENHOWER

You are a free Texan... You can vote any way you like. Regardless of what you may have heard, it is perfectly legal to split your ticket if you want to, just as it is legal to vote the Democratic ticket straight, or the Republican ticket straight. The purpose of the ballot is to determine what the people want. And if you want to vote for Eisenhower and Nixon—then cast the rest of your ballot for the Democratic nominees—that is your privilege. Don't let anyone tell you otherwise! BY LAW YOUR VOTE MUST BE COUNTED.

FARM INCOME

There is a saying in the rural areas of Texas that "when the stock market spirals higher and higher and farm prices plunge lower and lower, then you know there is a Republican in the White House."

That gauge of White House tenancy is holding true to form today. The nation's farmers have consistently lost one billion dollars in income for each year of the Republican administration, while brokerage houses, stock and bond holders and financial institutions have reaped unparalleled profits.

The economic advisers of President Eisenhower have followed the historic pattern of the Republican party—shift the emphasis of wealth from the basic levels of agriculture and small business to the upper echelons of high finance. This has been accomplished primarily by destroying the stabilizing influences in the farm program and substituting the "hard money" policy of higher interest rates and drastic credit curbs.

This dangerous game of "topsy-turvy" uses federal tax money as a catalyst. A prime example is the U. S. Treasury which has nearly tripled its own interest payment rates to financial institutions from which it borrows money. Thus, Secretary Humphries gives a modern twist to the role of Robin Hood—rob the poor and give to the rich.

The result is that money lender profits are now running at a record-high level of $17.3 billion a year—which is 41% greater than in 1952.

At the other end of the scale, farm income has dropped 20% in the same period from $15.1 billion to a near-record low of $11.1 billion annually, and the trend is still downward.

The policies of the Eisenhower administration should raise some grave doubts in the minds of the voters when a handful of money changers, backed by the government, make $6 billion more a year than 22 1/2 million of our nation's farmers.

Such tactics qualify the Republicans to strike a new 41c coin for use in interest payments to New York banks, mottoed "We Serve the Greedy, not the Needy."

PURCHASING AGENT

The housewife is the purchasing agent in most American homes. So every producer and seller of goods must be vitally concerned with what advertising medium she finds most influential when it comes to making out her shopping list.

The Illinois Consumer Analysis recently conducted 5,000 interviews in 15 Illinois markets in which this question was asked: "What form of advertising do you find most helpful in buying general merchandise?" The answers were: newspapers, 50%; television, 8.5%; magazine, 6.7%; radio, 1.1%.

The newer media serve their purpose and are here to stay—but nothing can supplant or equal the local newspaper in the esteem and interest of the public at large.

There'll Always Be An "Expert"

Drove out to see how they're getting along with the new super-highway that's going to pass through town.

While I was there a fussy little guy—a spectator, like me—came up to the foreman on the job and started making all sorts of suggestions: "Shouldn't it go a little farther left there? ... Why don't you bank the curves more? ... Those ditches are awful close" ... and so, on and on.

The foreman took it as long as he could, then asked politely, "How does she look for length?"
