Homecoming Queen To Be Crowned

One of five McLean High School students will be crowned as the 1983 Homecoming Queen in pre-game ceremonies Friday night. This year's candidates are freshman Jem Ann Rice, sophomore Kristie Thompson, juniors Patricia Rodgers and Candi Carpenter, and senior Jana Harris.

Members of the football team nominated the girls last week, and voted for the winner Monday. The girls will be escorted by members of the Tiger squad and the captains of the team will crown this year's queen. The coronation is slated to begin at 7 p.m. at McLean's Duncan Field.

Cubs Steal Victory From Lefors Bandits

McLean's Junior High Cubs rolled over the Bandits from Lefors Thursday in the second clash between the two teams. McLean won the battle 14-6, with Matt Sanderson providing most of the scoring. McLean jumped on the scoreboard in the first quarter when Sanderson raced ten yards for the touchdown. The try for two was unsuccessful. Neither team was able to cross into scoring territory again, and at the end of the first half, McLean led 6-0. Lefors scored mid-way through the third quarter, their try for two was unsuccessful, and the game was tied 6-6. With about a minute gone in the fourth quarter, Sanderson took the ball from the Bandit's 17-yard-line across the goal line. This time the try for two was successful, and McLean won 14-6. The Cubs will meet the Claude Colts tonight (Thursday) here at 6:30.

Rodeo Club Hosting Appreciation Supper

McLean's Tri-State High School Rodeo Club is hosting an "Appreciation Supper" in the High School Ag Building Saturday night. The supper is to begin at 7:30 and those that made donations to the club's rodeo, sponsored buckles, or helped in some way at the rodeo, are invited as guests. Members of the club will be cooking hamburgers and hot dogs for the "come as you are" supper.

Tigers Wreck Pirates Friday

The McLean Tigers enjoyed their most successful night of the year on the gridiron Friday night at Lefors, as they defeated the Pirates in a District 1-A contest 35-0.

The statistics on the game were an accurate reflection of the one-sided score, as the Tigers amassed 21 first downs to 4 for the Pirates. McLean scored in every quarter of the game except the third, and touchdowns were made by Mann and Bohlar on passes from Elson Rice, and rushing touchdowns by Rice, Kevin McDowell and Bill Billingsley. Lance Stovall hit on three extra point kicks, missing one, and Rice passed to Mann for one two-point extra point.

The entire Tiger squad turned in another excellent defensive game limiting Lefors to 57 yards rushing and 12 yards passing, and McAnear, Stubbs, McDowell and Billingsley again turned in outstanding defensive efforts.

Elson Rice was named Class A. player of the week as he rambled off 116 yards rushing and passed for 90 more yards, as well as assisting on seven tackles defensively.

This week will be Homecoming for the McLean squad and they will be hosting the Claude Mustangs in a District game at Duncan Field at 7:30 Friday night.

City Council Minutes

(Editor's Note: Because of limited staff, The McLean News will publish the minutes of all school board and city council meeting in the future.)

The McLean City Council met in regular session October 11 at the City Hall. The meeting was called to order by Mayor George Terry. Those present were city councilmen Lloyd Bybee, Bill Thomas, Jim Barker, June Suggs, and W. A. Bentley; Mayor George Terry; city superintendent Bob Glenn; and city secretary Stella Lee.

Others present were Jim Finkenbinder, Glenn Curry, Thelma Holman, Von Winegeart, Jerry Cook, Dr. and Mrs. Harold Fabian, Mrs. Harlon Pool, and Linda Haynes.

The invocation was given by Jim Barker. The minutes of the September meetings were read and approved upon correction.

A motion was made to sign a contract to lease the hospital building to Futura Health Care of Drumright, Oklahoma. The motion was by W. A. Bentley, second by Lloyd Bybee. The vote was unanimous in favor of the motion.

Jim Finkenbinder, owner of McLean Dairy Queen, met with the council and explained zoning laws about commercial signs.

A motion by Jim Barker, second by June Suggs, was made to not buy the sewer machine. Vote was unanimous.

Council discussed building a dog pound in the city barn where dogs will be held for 72 hours. The council will check further on requirements.

Glenn Curry asked the council about helping the McLean Ambulance service buy a Motorola Base Radio unit. The council will check on the matter further. Motion by Barker, second by Bybee to obtain bids on the radio for the November meeting. Councilman Bill Thomas abstained because of a possible conflict of interest. All other councilmen voted yes.

The council approved improvements to the ambulance building.

Council discussed limiting the number of garbage containers to possibly two 50-gallon drums and charging more for extra containers. No official action was taken.

The ordinance #210 was read for the first time. The ordinance sets the ad valorem tax rate for 1983 at 26.5 cents per $100. The motion was by Bentley, second by Suggs, Bentley, Bybee, and Suggs voted for, Thomas and Barker voted against.

The council discussed the 1983-84 budget, and instructed the city secretary to redo budget per specifications for consideration at the next meeting. The motion was by Thomas, second by Bybee. Unanimous.

The electric bill at the McLean Clinic was discussed. The council agreed not to use any power until arrangements were made with Dr. Fabian.

Guard lights at the back door of the McLean Hospital and the Hospital parking lot were discussed. Motion by Bentley, second by Bybee, vote unanimous to move the light in the parking lot to the east side of the parking area and leave one at back door as it is.

Council asked secretary to prepare checks for bill prior to council meetings. Motion by Thomas, second by Bentley to pay current bills.

The council agreed to let the mayor be the acting manager and direct the workers and employees of the city. Council suggested making lists of work to be done. The secretary was directed to check into ordinances governing city services.

Motion by Thomas, second by Bybee, vote unanimous to adjourn at 10:20 p.m.

The Whittler's Bench

By Sam Haynes

The time has now come for McLean Tiger football and band supporters to come to the front and let their presence be known at a Tiger football game. Coaches down through the years have stated that local crowd support at home games should produce seven to ten points for the home team because of the encouragement and enthusiasm of the home crowd.

I have personally attended quite a number of games in McLean where the home stands and all the space on the sidelines were jammed with yelling, involved spectators, who no doubt gave motivation to our local lads in their attempt to emerge victorious in the ball game.

This Friday night is Homecoming for the local school and they will be playing a team which should by comparative records be a very even match for the Tiger squad. Will this be the game that local fan support will make the difference, and give our boys the spark that will enable them and Coach Riley and his assistants to say "Boy, did you see the way McLean backed our team tonight!"

Don't let this effort fall flat because of your non-attendance at the game with the Claude Mustangs here Friday night at 7:30. Your help is vital and needed, and could be the night the Tigers win their third in a row for the first time in several years....See you at the game Friday night, and I hope we will have to ask someone from another town what was on TV Friday night.

Reports

AMENDMENTS NO. 5 AND 7

AUSTIN — Texas voters will be going to the polls this November 8th to decide the fate of eleven constitutional amendments. Two of them are explained here.

AMENDMENT NO. 5
To accommodate the state's population growth, Texas school districts face an ever-increasing need to expand, rehabilitate, or repair their facilities. School bonds are the primary means school districts use to finance these development projects. The Permanent School Fund, valued at approximately $3.5 billion, is constitutionally dedicated to support the Texas educational system.

Amendment No. 5 would allow the Legislature to save school districts money in their long-term obligation debt financing by using the Permanent School Fund to guarantee bonds issued by the school districts. This savings would be accomplished by reducing the risk to persons who invest in school bonds while raising the credit-worthiness of many districts, thereby reducing costs on the bonds. Supporters of the amendment say the bond guarantee program is virtually risk-free, will save millions of dollars in taxes, but yet would allow school districts to keep up with their rapid enrollment.

Furthermore, supporters say, other methods of providing debt-financing assistance may shift the debt burden from school districts to the state. They say that by using the Permanent School Fund as the bond guarantee, Texas can avoid any negative impact on the general credit rating of the state.

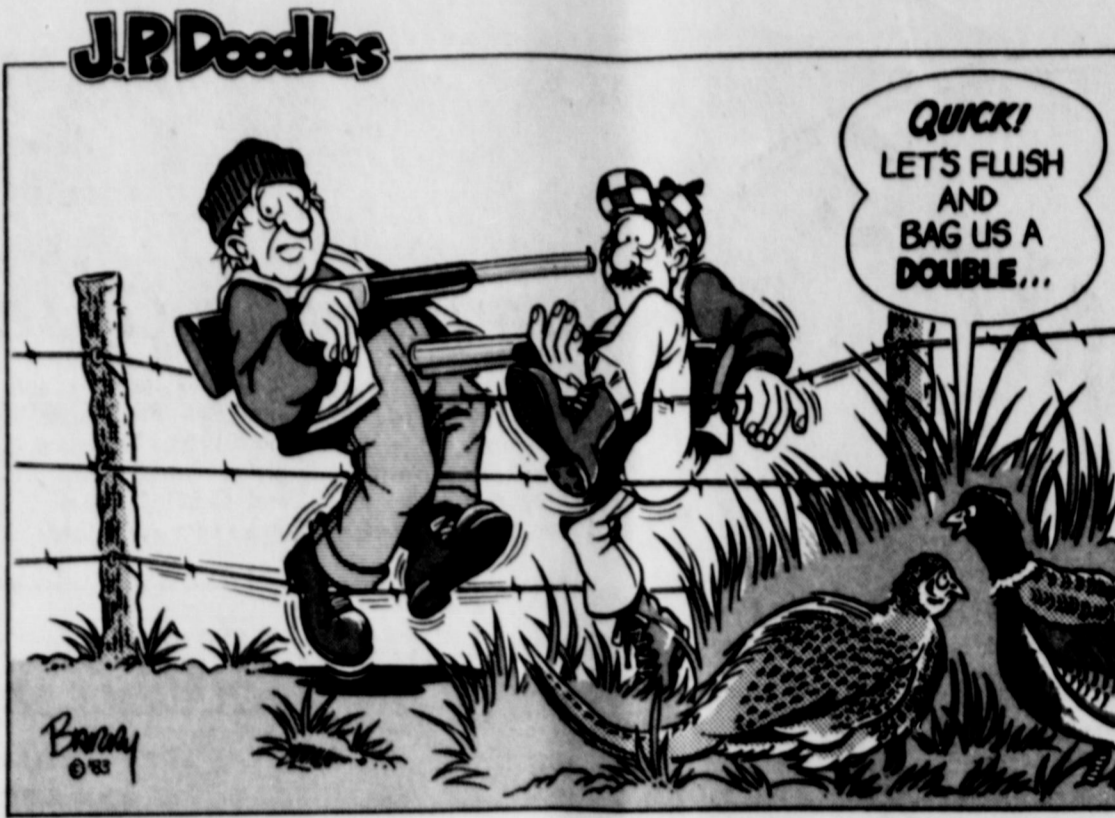

Opponents argue that the real risk of the amendment is allowing the principal of the Permanent School Fund to be spent for this purpose. They argue this proposal opens the door for future and more significant attacks on the multi-billion-dollar fund.

AMENDMENT NO. 7
Over the past 35 years Texas has shown its appreciation to those men and women who serve in the military by providing general obligation bonds to finance the purchase of land by the state, to be resold on favorable credit terms to qualified veterans.

The proposed constitutional amendment No. 7 would authorize $300 million additional for the land program and for the first time, $500 million for a housing assistance program.

The program has been popular and successful and this amendment carries on that program. By adding housing, needs of urban veterans are also met at a time when high interest rates keep many persons from owning homes. Finally, by providing a source of funding for homes, competition among homeowners for sources of financing is reduced.

Those who oppose the amendment say that while veterans are appreciated, there are many other groups who do not have benefits in times of tight state budgeting. They add that the state cannot afford such an expensive program for a dwindling segment of the population. They also add that a housing assistance program would duplicate federal programs and is not greatly needed.

NATIONAL ORGANIZATION PROVIDES FOCUS

Within months after a community crime prevention program was formed in a Midwestern city, burglary was declining. But, six months later, it was again on the rise. Why? Because once the group successfully reduced crime, they had nothing to keep them motivated. Consequently, their interest and efforts dwindled.

Now there is an organization working to eliminate that problem. The Neighborhood Crime Prevention Coordinating Committee (NCPCC), organized in cooperation with the International Association of Chiefs of Police, the National Sheriffs' Association and other organizations, is here to provide recognition, reinforcement, and support for neighborhood crime prevention groups throughout the country.

"There has never been a link between neighborhood crime prevention groups so that ideas could be shared—until now," says Robert A. Hanson, Chairman of the NCPCC. "With a burglary occurring every 10 seconds in the United States, citizen involvement in community crime prevention is too important to let go unnoticed."

"One way the NCPCC is keeping crime prevention on the minds of citizen groups and law enforcement agencies is by providing a free crime prevention packet to interested law enforcement officials and citizens, with information covering everything from home security tips and coding variables to scanner and CB Radio patrols.

"The NCPCC is not a substitute or replacement for any other organization, but instead it is designed as a clearinghouse for exchanging information about successful programs," Hanson says. "We want to promote the concept of citizen participation in crime prevention."

If you have information to share with other crime prevention groups or would merely like to let the NCPCC know of your group's existence, write the Neighborhood Crime Prevention Coordinating Committee, One Illinois Center, Chicago, IL 60601. Information packets are available for 25¢ to cover postage and handling.

Detailed information on neighborhood crime prevention is provided in this 16 page booklet, part of the packet available from the Neighborhood Crime Prevention Coordinating Committee.

Marbles And Old Dad Are Grounded

Last week I was 37 years old and grounded. It began when Old Dad and I grounded Wacko and Mumbles the Obstinant for leaving the house without telling us their destination. The next day we took a couple of hours off to visit a friend and forgot to leave a note. Boy, were we in trouble.

It was Wacko who was more angry. "Where have you been?" he screamed as we walked in the door. "Don't you know that we were worried out of our heads! Don't you realize that when we don't know where you are, we have horrible visions of you having a car wreck, or being kidnapped, or heaven knows what?"

Both Old Dad and I were amused. At last the boys had figured out how parents worry. We condescendingly apologized and started to wander

LOOSE MARBLES

off. "Wait just a minute," Wacko hollered, obviously still simmering. "Don't think you can get with a simple apology. No sirree! We'll have a little discipline around here. There isn't going to be any of this give me another chance stuff. You're grounded."

Haha, we thought "Sure," we said. "That means straight to work and straight home, and to church and back on Sundays," Wacko explained.

"Big deal," said Old Dad. "That's all we do anyway. You think that's punishment?"

"Ahem," countered Wacko. "Let me remind you that this means no golf, no coffee breaks, no movies, no dominoes, no going out for an ice cream cone after dark when you think nobody will see you. It also includes no going to the lake, no bowling, no television, and no Beach Boys records on the stereo."

"No golf?" whimpered Old Dad.

"No golf," answered Wacko.

"No television?"

"No television."

"No Beach Boys records?"

"Not one."

I screamed, "No ice cream cones after dark?"

"Not even a lick."

After we had held our breaths until we turned blue, cried until our faces were red and puffy, and begged enough to humiliate ourselves for the rest of our lives, we finally gave up and bribed our way out of the sentence. As a result, none of the family is grounded, but we all have to sign out at the front door before we can leave.

It's good that we worked things out. I don't know how I could have explained to my friends that I couldn't come out and play.

Operation DIAL-HAY to Provide Drought Relief

AUSTIN—Texas Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower has announced a major new farmer-to-rancher drought assistance program called Operation DIAL-HAY.

Sponsored by the Texas Department of Agriculture, Operation DIAL-HAY is simply a direct marketing program that will connect drought-stricken ranchers who need winter feed with Texas hay farmers willing to sell some of their hay at sharply reduced prices. In addition, TDA is lining up trucking firms that will haul or backhaul the hay to West Texas at the lowest possible rate.

"The state's role in all of this is merely to serve as the telephone operator," Hightower said. "We have installed a special toll-free information service in the Texas Department of Agriculture that you can reach by dialing 1-800-DIAL-HAY (1-800-342-5429). Hay sellers, trucking companies and West Texas ranchers who want to participate can call us at this number and our staff will put them in touch with each other to make a good deal."

"Through DIAL-HAY, ranchers will save at least 15% on the hay purchases that they must make to keep their foundation herds alive through the winter, and some of the offerings that we have from hay farmers will save the ranchers better than 35%. That won't cause them to dance in the streets in West Texas, but at least it is some real help, a cash benefit."

Hightower said.

To participate in the program, hay producers must agree to sell at a maximum price based on protein content of the hay, and the price should be at least 15% below current market levels. TDA staff will assist in purchase and transportation arrangements, but ranchers are responsible for finalizing their own deals. Department inspectors will be available to check hay fields in any fire-ant infested counties to prevent shipment of hay that might transport this pest to West Texas.

out of pure necessity. Since the federal government refuses to implement the administration release federally-held corn to these ranchers and that they take other steps to help. We applaud the Congressional moves that Sen. Lloyd Bentsen and U.S. Rep. Kika de la Garza have made in recent days to force the Administration to release the corn to our ranchers.

"We will not back away from these fights, and neither can we just sit by while rancher after rancher is forced to liquidate herds. Operation DIAL-HAY gives us a handle on the problems—something that Texans can do to help other Texans. I appeal to other farmers and truckers to join with us in the Texas-sized, Texas-spirited program. Call 1-800-DIAL-HAY and get involved with us."

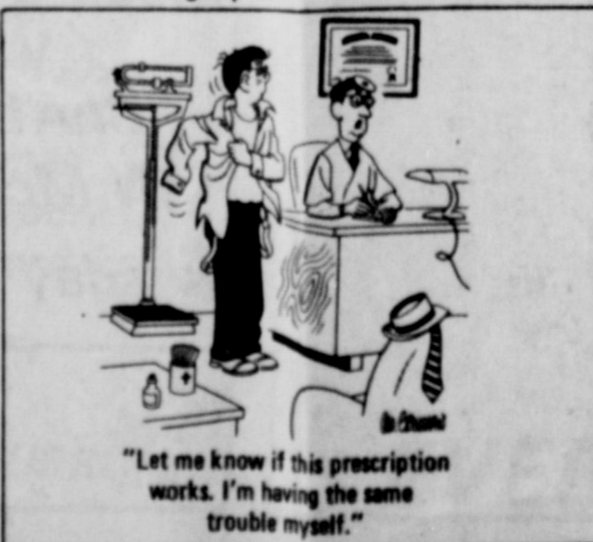

"By no means, however, does this hay delivery effort solve the desperate problems that have come with this historic drought. Gov. Mark White and I will continue to insist that the Reagan drought relief programs that are at its disposal, and since the state of Texas has no such programs on the books, TDA's marketing staff came up with this cooperative approach. Everyone has gotten into the spirit of this effort—farmers, truckers, and even the phone company, which rushed our toll-free lines into place."

Essie Howard offered the opening prayer and Jessie Watson brought the devotional. Bonnie Bidwell led the group in

SMALL HOSPITAL PROVIDING HEALTHCARE

High-tech medical diagnostic equipment is no longer limited only to major metropolitan hospitals.

Rural hospitals which formerly had to send patients hundreds of miles for computed tomography (CT) x-ray examinations, are now installing their own sophisticated scanners.

Because CT scanners can cost upwards of $1 million, it was long thought that a hospital needed a large patient load in order to keep examination costs to the patient in line.

But the increased performance efficiency of the 2-second scanner can eliminate more costly diagnostic procedures and allows diagnosis of conditions not possible with earlier CT equipment.

And, of course, in the process they eliminate the cost and inconvenience of having to ambulance patients long distances to have vital CT scans performed at hospitals that have the equipment.

As a result, CT scanners can now be found in smaller community hospitals, such as the 100-bed Mercy Hospital in Durango, CO, and the 200-bed Springdale Memorial Hospital in Springdale, AK, reports GE, the leading supplier of CT systems.

CT has become a major factor in diagnostic imaging because of its ability to demonstrate very small variations in tissue density—variations so small they have not been visible with standard x-ray imaging techniques.

This means that for the first time the physician can see details such as the optic nerves, white and gray matter differences in the brain, the tiny structures in the inner ear and spine.

The CT scanner also is able to pinpoint the location of tumors, cysts, degenerated tissue and other abnormalities that conventional radiology could only approximate.

Close-to-home health care is aim of smaller hospitals.

With this more precise information, the surgeon can plan the surgery with the least patient danger.

It is for these reasons that CT has been hailed as "the most dramatic advance in diagnostic medicine since the discovery of the x-ray in 1895."

Pick A Pumpkin From Texas

FLOYDADA--When B. A. Robertson began harvesting pumpkins in 1956, he was -- as far as he can recollect -- the first commercial pumpkin farmer in West Texas. Back then, people from all over Floyd County would come to see his fields of gold-orange orbs, standing around as if in wait for the Great Pumpkin. Robertson, 79, started with in half. Place the cut sides down on a 15 x 10 x 1-inch jellyroll pan and bake for 45 minutes or until the meat is fork tender. Cool for 10 minutes, peel, discard the seeds and puree the pulp. Three pounds of fresh pumpkin will yield about three cups of cooked, mashed pulp. Try your fresh pumpkin in

4 beaten eggs

1 C. brown sugar
1/2 C. shortening
2 C. cooked, mashed, fresh pumpkin
1 C. chocolate chips

Preheat oven to 325 degrees
F. Grease 9 x 13 x 2-inch baking pan. Sift together flour, baking powder, baking soda, cinnamon and nutmeg.

WEST TEXAS PUMPKINS are sold in many parts of the state during October. After the jack-o-lantern is carved, pumpkin meat can be set aside for pies and other dishes.

three acres at the request of a Dallas friend who wanted to sell pumpkins at his roadside stands. By the time Robertson retired, he was raising 110 acres and had sold pumpkins as far north as Wichita and as far west as Phoenix.

Other farmers, taking Robertson's lead, also began sowing their fields with pumpkin seeds. Acreage grew until pumpkins became a good business in parts of West Texas -- at least for one month of the year. Though statewide totals are not available, Bailey County, west of Robertson's home in Floydada, is expected to harvest 10-15 million pounds this season. Pumpkins are still raised in Floyd as well as Deaf Smith, Parmer and Lamb counties.

Many of these pumpkins are sold in-state, most to become jack-o-lanterns. Eighty percent of the fresh market pumpkins harvested in the United States are sold at Halloween, and the Texas variety is no exception. The remaining "pie pumpkins," some as small as four or five pounds, are sold for food.

Though any size pumpkin is edible, small ones have sweeter, more finely textured meat and a distinctive flavor that cannot be matched by canned pumpkin. According to Texas Department of Agriculture home economists, the extra effort that it takes to prepare the fresh product will yield worthwhile results. Here is how to do it.

If pumpkins are to be carved, their meat can be removed and set aside for cooking. Place the meat in a large saucepan and cook it in a small amount of water for 25-30 minutes or until it is very tender. Drain the pumpkin, and mash it well or puree it in an electric blender. Pumpkins bought strictly for food can be baked in the oven. Wash the rind well and cut it a recipe that kids are bound to enjoy.

CARD OF THANKS

Thanks to our many friends who were so thoughtful in our time of sorrow. Thanks for the beautiful flowers and memorials to the museum and books in the library and for the good food and every act of love and kindness. "Man strives for glory, honor, fame. That all the world may know his name. Amasses wealth by brains and hand; Becomes a power in the land. But when he nears the end of life, And looks back over the years of strife, He finds that happiness depends On none of these but love of Friends." [Author Unknown] May God be with you and bless each of you. Annie Reeves & Family
