About Our Town Midland is the best town we know anything about. It is growing more rapidly and more substantially, perhaps, than any town in Texas today.

Street Markers and House Numbers The wall in the Telegram office is a plat of Midland today, its streets and avenues.

Local Real Estate Transactions Local real estate transactions are coming so fast it is difficult to keep up with them.

By Sept. 30 the corn belt will know how successful the government's $10,000,000 corn borer control campaign has been.

Tiny electric lights are mounted on the shafts of the newest surgeon's instruments in Europe.

Frank Haag and members of the city council have done the limited funds at their disposal.

less than permanent markers should be considered. And in calling attention to this urgent need of a growing town—one that is drawing favorable comment from newcomers—the Telegram believes it voices the sentiment of every business concern in this town that makes delivery a part of its service when it says that something should be done—and that immediately.

Marking the streets (then calling on the home owners to place permanent house numbers) will call for an expenditure of several thousand dollars. It is true, but this is one of our needs today, and the first cost will be the last cost.

The Telegram is hoping the city authorities and Chamber of Commerce will give this matter earnest consideration at their next gathering, and that some financing plan to insure permanent street markers can be worked out.

Sportsmanship The Spudders decisively defeated the Pelicans. Aristocratic New Orleans was forced to bow to energetic Wichita Falls.

Now that the shouting has died away somewhat, let us reflect on the fact that sportsmanship still lives. Both teams would have profited by extending the series an extra game or two.

The temptation in such a situation is very great and those who do not succumb are the more to be commended. But the crux of the matter is the fact sportsmanship still exists. It gives a very decided jolt to our earnest reformers who go about trying to tell us that there is graft in all sports.

Honesty still lives. Local real estate transactions are coming so fast it is difficult to keep up with them. And the deals are not all on "paper."

By Sept. 30 the corn belt will know how successful the government's $10,000,000 corn borer control campaign has been. A field survey of results is being made in the infester areas.

Tiny electric lights are mounted on the shafts of the newest surgeon's instruments in Europe. While the surgeon is performing the operation, the lamp directs a tiny circle of light into the wound.

Frank Haag and members of the city council have done the limited funds at their disposal. They could do even things if the town's fit would permit.

It costs money to erect permanent street markers, and nothing

COLOR STYLES IN STREET CARS

SOME CARS NAMED AFTER LOCAL COLLEGES, OTHERS FOR PEOPLE

(Associated Press) FORT WORTH, Sept. 29.—Color styles in street cars are the vogue this fall season. Brilliant and varied hues have been found by street car companies to give a cheerful and optimistic viewpoint to both patrons and employees, and as a consequence in most of the large cities of the state a bit of color may now be seen dashing along the electric rails.

In addition to paint, the companies also have added names to their trolleys. In some cities certain cars are named after a local college, and in others after prominent people. At Waco a car is named for Baylor university, and a similar system has been followed here for Texas Christian university.

These new ideas of Texas railway companies will be taken to the annual convention of the American Electric Railway association in Cleveland, October 17. One of the world's most extensive exhibits of trolley cars and equipment will be on display at the convention.

The Northern Texas Traction Company of Fort Worth has been a pioneer in modernizing equipment, and many of the ideas started by this company will be on display at Cleveland.

A. F. Townsend, manager of the company, cites the interurban line between Fort Worth and Dallas as an example of what modern equipment will do. The Crinson Limited trains running between these two cities, said Mr. Townsend, have been able to maintain their own against motor bus competition only because of their attractive appearance, and their

"Ben-Hur" Contains Big Combat Scenes

Sea Battle Between Two Fleets and Chariot Race With Twelve Teams Participating Are Among Picture's High Spots

The dash and elan of the American attack in pictures never found more appropriate use than in the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer spectacle of "Ben-Hur," coming soon to the Palace Theatre, Midland, on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of next week. A sea fight, the equivalent of a Roman naval war, is visualized in fifteen minutes packed with thrills. Just a few of the incidents: Evolutions of two fleets of triremes aggregating 100 vessels. Chaining of the doomed slaves to the Roman flagship, poignantly contrasted with the escape of the unshackled Ben-Hur. Ramming and boarding of the Roman vessels. Onslaught of the pirate Golthar and his men, bearing aloft on their pikes the heads of slaughtered Romans. The Romans' stout defense by Greek fire, ballistics, javelins, spears, pikes, and ultimately the very pins and blocks of the ship. The firing of the flagship, the fate of the doomed oarsmen, the leaps of hundreds of badly seared fighters into the sea, the rescue of the commander-in-chief by the sole slave that escaped, the parade of the Romans after their general victory, the thrilling salutation to the returned commander Arrius whose orders won the action though his individual ship went down.

DIAMOND AND GRIT

Coach Shifflett and his Midland High school Bulldogs will journey to Colorado tomorrow afternoon, where they will engage the first Colorado eleven in the first game of the season for Midland.

This will be the second game of the season for Colorado, they having lost their first game last week to the fast going Ranger team. However, this defeat is no reflection on the ability of the Coloradoans, as Ranger has one of the strongest teams in West Texas, if not the entire state.

As many Midland fans as can possibly do so should accompany the team to Colorado and lend their assistance toward bringing back a victory.

The local eleven will go into the game the underdogs, but it will not be surprising to see them upset the old dope bucket and avenge the defeat administered them last year.

The tightest race in the National League in years is just about all over but the shouting. With only three more games to be played, the Pittsburgh Pirates have a two game lead over the second place St. Louis Cardinals, and a three game advantage over the third place New York Giants. The Pirates will have to lose all their remaining games and St. Louis win all three games. Such is hardly likely to happen. The best that the Giants could hope for would be a tie. A victory today by the Pirates would practically cinch the gonfalon and put them in the World's series with the New York Yankees.

Such a series between the Yanks and Pittsburgh will be interesting indeed. Murderers Row is likely to go up against some real opposition on the Pirates pitching staff. And, too, the Yankees haven't the only club that can lambast that old horsehide as the Waner boys, Traynor and Barnhart, et al, are no slouches with the willow themselves.

A very enthusiastic meeting of teachers and officers of the First Baptist church was held last night at the church.

Plans were formulated to follow up the census reports and enlist all of the new members possible. The census cards have been returned to the respective churches and are very helpful to church workers in looking up and enrolling newcomers in their preferred church.

Methodist Workers Check Cards

Various people interested in continuing the work of the census workers met at the Methodist church last night to check over the cards turned over to the Methodist church.

About 200 Methodists in Midland have not placed their membership in the church, although almost one hundred have done so. There are about 400 who are members of no church, but who signed Methodist preference.

These people will be approached and if possible lined up with the Methodist church. The officers of the church are very anxious to give them a place in the church's life.

TODAY'S RECIPE

Pie Crust

3 1-2 cupful flour
1 cupful shortening
1 teaspoonful salt
1 teaspoonful baking powder
3-4 cupful milk
Very much better results can be obtained in making pie crust if the shortening and milk are mixed together and thoroughly softened with the hand before they are added to the flour, salt and baking powder. Do not work the crust in mixing; shake it together and sprinkle the water between the shortening and flour, so that they will hold together. Roll it into a sheet.

SEPTEMBER 29

"Groucho" Marx, one of the popular brothers—was born on October 2, and is therefore under the rule of Libra, with Venus ruling over his destiny. His gift of humor and success as a comedian is shown in his horoscope by the positions of Mars and Mercury and by the prominent position of Uranus, the planet of originality.

Those born between September 24 and October 23 are of the nature of Air. They look at most things from the mental or intellectual point of view rather than the practical. Extremists, of course, may be found among those born under any one of the twelve signs of the zodiac, but, as a general rule, the Librans are neither extremists nor specialists.

They do become very enthused for a time and may take up a hobby and ride it to death, but, in general, they like to take things rather calmly and to avoid prejudice in their judgment. They have a great deal of intuition and perception and are guided very much by this. No matter what happens, the higher types of those born about this time seem able to realize the justice of all things and try to make the best of their circumstances.

One of their chief faults is lack of initiative. They do not always make a great enough effort to better themselves and incline to depend too much on others. They have to be prodded along either by circumstances or by some one interested enough to make them do justice to their own abilities. If you are a Libran, ask yourself this question: Am I making the most of my talents and opportunities? You are master of your fate. No one else can live your life for you and somewhere there is a little niche that no one else can fill so well as you can. It is your business to find that place.

One evening I attended a dance with a friend. I had on a pair of pumps that were rather large. While dancing the Charleston I kicked off one of my shoes. ABOUT TOWN

Leon Goodman will not leave Midland in spite of the fact that he has sold his holdings here. Mr. Goodman told the Telegram man he would "keep doing what he had been doing" for Midland. There is a real booster. And C. A. and H. L. McClintic are the same type. They immediately re-invested here after selling considerable property for a cash consideration.

"No vags allowed in this town," said the voice who turned out to be the city marshal.

The Midland men beat a hasty retreat down the street, shrinking in shape with each step.

Local Exhibit Draws Crowds at Tulsa Fair

TULSA, Sept. 29.—Thousands of people are daily viewing the only town exhibit in the International Petroleum Exposition, that of Midland, Texas. The exhibit from Midland has attracted unusual attention, especially from Tulsa oil men, because Paul T. Vickers, secretary of the Midland Chamber of Commerce, who is in charge of the booth, frankly states Midland is out to imitate Tulsa.

The Midland booth contains one mammoth sign reading, "Midland, the Tulsa of Southwest Texas." Another sign reads, "History shows every big oil play leaves one big city—Midland is it!" Other signs, pictures, maps and literature complete the exhibit, which has received wide publicity in Tulsa. The Midland booth is being used as headquarters for Texas oil men visiting the exposition.

SERMON-LECTURE IS WELL RECEIVED

REV. R. O. WILSON TALKS ON "GOD'S MASTERPIECE" SUNDAY

Sunday services at the First Church of Christ, Rev. R. O. Wilson, minister, were well attended, and marked interest was manifest both morning and evening.

The morning sermon was on "The Spiritual Pyramid," II Peter 1:1-12. The evening sermon lecture on the theme of "God's Masterpiece," was received with appreciation, if one is to judge by the expressions of those passing out at the close of the service.

Rev. Wilson said, in part: "Man is God's masterpiece. Man is the image of God, intellectually, morally and volitionally."

"It was necessary, in order that God might communicate His will to the earth, that he have a creature with like intelligence to whom he might reveal himself. Man is great only as he appropriates that which God has provided for him. One flower is more beautiful than another because it appropriates the beauty and fragrance with which it is surrounded. One bird sings more beautiful than another because he applies the music of the air. So one man is greater as he makes proper use of God's blessings."

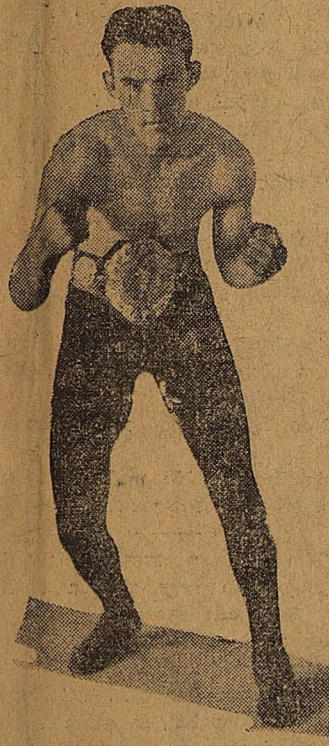

"God could not reveal Himself to the sun, moon, stars. He could not make himself known to the mountain, river nor the sea. It is true the heavens declare the glory of God, but the heavens can not be impressed with that glory. "Young man, your first duty is toward your afterself. So live that your afterself—the man you ought to be—may in his time be possible. Far away in the years he is waiting his turn. His body, his soul, his brain are in your boyish hands. He can not help himself.

"What will you leave for him? Will it be a brain unspotted, by lust or dissipation; a mind trained to think and act; a nervous system true as a dial in its response to truth around about you?"

"Will you let him come, taking your place, gaining through your experience, happy in your friendships, hallowed through your joys building on them his own? Or will you fling away decreeing wanton-like, that the man you might be shall never be? Young men this is your problem, one vastly more important than any other. "Measure man by quantitative standard, and he becomes the most insignificant creature in the universe. Compared to the sun he is nothing. But when you measure him by the qualitative standard he outweighs the universe of force and matter. The sun cannot tell anything about me, but I can know the sun's changes for years in the future.

"Tunney and Dempsey represent brute force, physical power. McAdoo and Coolidge represent intellectual and spiritual light and strength. Which will you copy after? "Next Sunday evening we will look into the physical man, as to his values. Come."
