NYE IMPRESSES NEED FOR GOVERNMENTAL INVESTIGATION

OUTGROWTH OF SELLING CHARGES

Says America Guilty Same Offenses As Soviet

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27. (P)—Investigation of activities by the American board of trade and chambers of commerce in foreign markets was urged today by Senator Nye, republican of North Dakota, who charged conspiracy existed to discredit the new farm board.

NOTED EXPERT WILL LECTURE HERE 3 TIMES

Three addresses will be made in Midland this week by a nationally known merchandising expert. Alfonso Johnson comes to Midland from Dallas under auspices of the Midland chamber of commerce to address the Lions club luncheon Wednesday and the Rotary luncheon Thursday.

The well known authority will speak Wednesday night at 8 o'clock in the ball room of Hotel Scharbauer to all employers and employees of Midland who wish to attend. The address is made possible by the Dallas chamber of commerce which defrays Johnson's expenses.

Dry goods stores, groceries, auto dealers, garages, drug stores, hardware and furniture stores, and every other line of business are invited to have its employees as well as store manager at the open meeting Wednesday night.

The Mineral Wells Index has the following to say about Johnson: Better merchandising—the adoption of latter-day methods of policies taking up the slack in business management by the correction of slipshod habits and outworn notions—these are powerful helps in the improvement of business in times of either depression or prosperity. It is with such conviction that the chamber of commerce and the Retail Merchants association have jointly espoused a meeting of merchants and salespeople held at the chamber of commerce headquarters August 25.

Wife of Naval Hero Stopped for Visit

Mrs. E. F. Burkett, wife of the former Lieutenant Eugene F. Burkett of the U. S. Navy, aeronautics branch, who lost his life while mapping the Alaskan coast last year, stopped in Midland for a few hours last night to visit Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Hill. She was en route from Washington to California where she will spend the winter.

Man Here Arrested as a Member of Alleged Gang Of Murderers of Officer

A mechanic who had been going under the name of Melton was arrested by federal agents at a Midland garage Friday evening and charged with being McClelland Schenks, who has been hunted for a year in connection with the murder of Charles L. Stevens, veteran prohibition agent of San Antonio. Conspiracy to violate the liquor laws and to murder is the charge against Schenks.

Cold Brings out Overcoats Here

Cool weather that carried more than a casual suggestion of winter brought out a few top coats in Midland Saturday as the temperature fell at 6 o'clock in the morning to 48 degrees.

The temperature began rising, finally reaching a 68-degree point. Rainfall recorded .46 inch, bringing much relief to growing crops, gardens and vegetation near the city. The extent of the rain was limited to a relatively small area, however, indications showed. A fairly good rain fell south as far as the San Antonio ranch.

DALLAS, Sept. 27. (P)—Miami Roberts county, had temperature of 40 degrees last night, being the nearest approach to the weather forecast of "frost in exposed places of the Panhandle" Friday night.

Muleshoe, on the New Mexico line, and Memphis, in the lower Panhandle, registered 42. Other state lows included San Antonio, 58, Dallas 56, Abilene 52, Palestine 54, Houston 60.

DOUBT PARALYSIS TO BE MALADY OF TOLBERT CHILD

Although reported in an El Paso newspaper late yesterday to be quarantined in El Paso for infantile paralysis, Eula Ann Tolbert, aged 5, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Tolbert of Midland, was said by Dr. W. E. Ryan, attending physician here, to have been "running around the house" just before the Tolberts left for consultation with an El Paso specialist Friday night.

Dr. Ryan said that the child had been running temperature for several days and that they had discussed possibility of typhoid fever and had planned to send blood specimens to be tested for infantile paralysis. He expressed the opinion that when the child was taken to a specialist in El Paso she was probably quarantined as a suspect, being an out of town case, because of the fact that rigid restrictions have followed finding of cases there. "I will be very much surprised if the child is declared to have infantile paralysis," he said, adding that she had no form of paralysis on leaving here the day before.

ARC LIGHTS THROW BEAM ON STRONGEST MIDLAND 11 IN HISTORY OF SCHOOL

Austin High No Match for Combination of Powerful Charging of Forward Wall and Speedy Backs

Slashing through the "Pride of El Paso," Austin high school's grid machine, the Purple and Gold Bulldogs of Midland took the intersectional "after supper" game in El Paso Saturday night, 52-18.

Midland backs, slitting the El Paso forward wall to shreds with the fury of their straight driving game and sweeping the ends with a dazzling running attack, came back in the second half, when the score stood 32-18 in favor of the visitors, and scored 20 points while tenaciously keeping their own goal inviolate.

The game goes down as a saga of long Midland runs, crushing Midland line play, of frequent fumbles and loose play by both elevens, of battering plunges and of frenzied noise on the sidelines.

Austin high won the toss and chose to defend the south goal. From the time of White's kick to the Austin 10-yard line, Midland outplayed El Paso. Bulldog backs ripped the line when there was need for it, but the Midland forward wall tore gaping holes for the fast backs most of the time, figuratively giving the backs time to flip coins to determine through which hole to dive.

Austin began fumbling, due, no doubt, to the rushing of the backs by Midland ends and linesmen, who covered Austin ball toters like hornets almost every time the ball was snapped back. Midland was easily outplaying the Pasoans at the end of the first quarter. The score was: Midland 13, El Paso 6.

At the end of the half, Midland had amassed 32 points, but loose play had allowed El Paso to cut loose with three markers through aerial play. Midland didn't seem able to spot the ball as it hurtled through the air, due, likely, to inexperience under the arcs. Midland continued to gain at will and to have little difficulty in outplaying the border city lads. Fumbles were frequent still, and scores were rolled up rapidly. Penalties were frequent.

Austin began substituting during this quarter, in a blind effort to cut down the scoring of the ubiquitous Midland backs. But the afore-said backs refused to be stopped. Following the charging forward wall or skirting the ends, they continued to pile up the score. Midkiff, Parker, Burris and halfman were sharing honors in yardage gained, with every man on the squad playing his man according to coaching instruction.

Pep Squads Colorful At the half both pep squads took the field and dominated the scene. All the color of an ordinary season was there as the contrasted colors of the squads spread out and then merged as letters were formed and the snake dance got away from its boundaries and almost formed concentric circles.

Any description of the third and fourth quarters would be a repetition of the first and second periods, save for the fact that Midland's machine did not do what some of the prophets had forecast—let down because of the high altitude and fail to score while their Austin high opponents got started. Both theories were fallacies, in fact. Austin high (See FOOTBALL page 8)

THE AIR MAIL DECISION

Midland, Sweetwater and Abilene may well congratulate Big Spring upon her good fortune in being designated as the air mail stop and junction of the southern line. Incidentally, this is the second occasion upon which Big Spring has been smiled on by good fortune within recent weeks, the announcement that the Texas and Pacific Northern would build a rail line from that city coming like a thunderbolt from the sky a few weeks ago.

However, Midland and the other cities contending for the mail stop need suffer no remorse. It has been predicted time and again by aviation enthusiasts that air mail will be serving practically all important stops within the next few months.

Records show that Midland has approximately three times the air passenger traffic of any of the intermediate stops between El Paso and Fort Worth. Mail planes will carry passengers and will make all of the stops. Eventually, the decision of the post office department to pick up mail at the local port will be voluntary, it is believed.

Local aeronautics committees, the chamber of commerce, the airport owners and operators, civic leaders and others left no stones unturned in the fight to have Midland made the air mail stop and junction.

The Reporter-Telegram's individual opinion on the decision to make Big Spring the stop that geographical advantages favored that city as a junction point from San Antonio and San Angelo. It was logical that the junction point would be the initial air mail stop and on the east-west route.

Congratulations, Big Spring! And congratulations to Texas, especially West Texas, upon receiving the facilities of air mail from the east, south and west.

UNDAUNTED BY CROP CONDITIONS

The two-day fair held here brought out the fact that farmers of Midland county have not admitted the bad conditions of agriculture we hear so much about. The exhibits themselves showed what Midland county can do. With rains less seasonable than for several years, crops made an excellent showing. The diversity of products seen in the six community exhibits demonstrated that dry weather such as has been experienced this summer does not make a crop failure in this county.

But, the outstanding exhibit or demonstration seen in the two-day fair is the spirit of Midland county farmers. They demonstrated to all who saw the exhibits that farming conditions are not as bad as they are painted, and they showed what can be done through determination and good business.

Midland county farmers are to be congratulated upon the splendid exhibits.

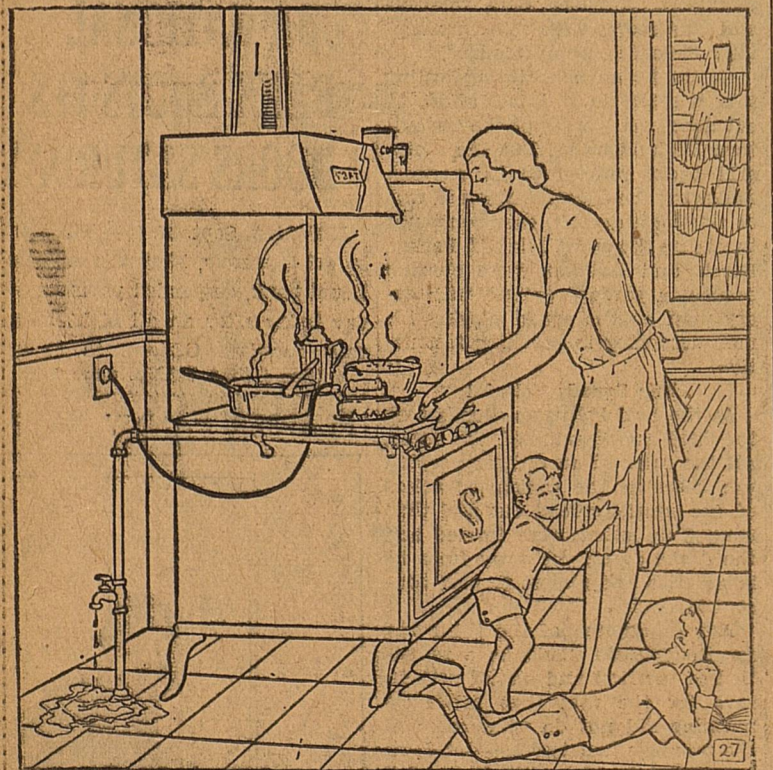

THE SIZE OF THE BOOZE BUSINESS

To get an idea of the extent of the illegal liquor industry, consider briefly the fact that Detroit police the other day raided a huge still which had been doing a business of $1,000,000 a month.

A plant which has a business of that size is doing rather well. This one, evidently, had been in operation for a number of months. All in all, it was the largest ever raided in Detroit.

What makes the thing more impressive is the obvious fact that this still was only one among many in Detroit. Furthermore, a considerable quantity of liquors comes across the Detroit river. Keeping those facts in mind, you can begin to understand why underworld gangs shoot each other to death for control of the booze business. It is a business worth fighting for.

George Washington Bicentennial Commission's Survey Shows Many Stores and Companies, Which Were Doing Business Back in the Famous Patriot's Day, Still Operating

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27.—The George Washington Bicentennial Commission, which is vigorously applying itself to the task of working the country up to a white heat of patriotic emotion by 1932—the 200th anniversary of George's birth—has undertaken an informal compilation of still existing stores, companies or firms which were doing business back in Washington's time.

Apparently there are hundreds of them. Banks, insurance companies, newspapers and drug stores are most numerous among those which the commission has heard about since it sent out a call for information on such institutions.

Already there are a couple of firms which claim to have been established back in the sixteen-eighties or nineties. Philadelphia and Boston, thus far, have offered the largest number of interesting exhibits.

Congressman Sol Bloom of New York, an associate director of the commission, suggests that there be some kind of a meeting or organization of old establishments dating back to the eighteenth century and that their records be preserved and examined for their historical value.

Someone will doubtless propose appropriate tablets for such emporiums as can prove that George Washington himself used to be one of the customers. The commission is especially anxious to learn of places where the Father of His Country bought his razor blades, radio tubes, cracked ice, bromo-seltzers, kodak rolls, ginger ale and other day-to-day necessities.

Store Opened in 1792 One such place is to be found over across the Potomac in Alexandria, Va., where the Alexandria Gazette, born in Washington's time, still flourishes.

One refers to Leadbeater's drug store, whose ancient records show that Washington and members of his family often sent slaves or came themselves to buy claver oil and other remedies. The Washingtons apparently never ate ham sandwiches and drank chocolate malted milk over the counter, however. Leadbeater's didn't serve them and they ate at home, anyway.

Leadbeater's was opened in 1792 by Edward Stabler, who borrowed 500 pounds for the purpose, and is still in possession of his descendants and those of John Leadbeater, who married one of his daughters in 1835. Stabler was an accomplished pill-roller and mixer of liquid concoctions. Having no chain store competition, he made plenty of money at his corner on King and Fairfax streets.

Included in the files of the old drug store is a note from Martha Washington, dated from Mount Vernon in 1802, as follows: "Mrs. Washington desires Mr. Stabler to send by beater a quart bottle of the best castor oil and the bill for it."

Washington Got Credit Apparently Leadbeater's considered the Washington family's credit to be good. George Washington Parke Custis, one of Martha's grandchildren who had been adopted by George, explained as follows in a note dated 1818: "My Dear Sir: Not being able to command cash at this time from the heavy expense of my building, I enclose my note agreeable to promise. I am duly sensible of the politeness and liberality I have always received from you and I have to express my acknowledgement, also for the very excellent articles always received from your house and with perfect esteem for your personal character. I am, Your humble servant, George W. P. Custis."

And Judge Bushrod Washington, who inherited the Mount Vernon estate after the death of his Uncle George and Aunt Martha, wrote in 1820: "Respected Friend: Above is a check for $7.9, amount of your account, which ought much sooner to have been attended to. In future I will thank you to send it to me at least once a year. Respectfully,"

Seven generations of the Washington and Lee families, which became related by marriage, traded at Leadbeater's.

Augustus and Lawrence Washington learned the drug business there and later established themselves in West Virginia.

Lee Traded There General Robert E. Lee himself used to hang around this corner drug store. One day in 1859 he was sitting there when an orderly came with a message from General Winfield Scott ordering him to take command of federal troops at Harper's Ferry and capture John Brown.

Other famous men gathered there in the first half of the last century to wet their whistles. Federal troops dashing back to Washington from the battle of Bull Run stopped there to revive themselves.

Leadbeater's hasn't any orders in George Washington's handwriting, but its proudest boast is that it supplied the first president with his medicine during the last years of his life.

DeArmond Finds Circus a Menace

J. M. DeArmond of Midland finds the recent news story on the refusal of a West Texas town to allow a circus show there on Sunday of sufficient interest to write the following letter, which was published in one of the large state daily papers:

Your editorial in the issue of Sept. 16 with reference to the reported quick action taken by our governor to protect the citizens of one of the West Texas towns against the invasion of the Barnum & Bailey circus on a certain Sunday was read with much interest. I had read a news dispatch to that effect a few days ago with some doubt as to its accuracy.

I did not realize, at the time, just how serious such an invasion might be until I saw an advertisement of this show appearing in a paper showing a most hostile appearing tribe with disc and plate ornaments embedded in their lips, with spears, bows and arrows, and other barbaric weapons of war being displayed in a most cannibalistic manner. Then the idea began to soak in and I can see the possible danger of such an aggregation accompanied by wild beasts as also portrayed in the posters, coming into a town on Sunday, in the wee small hours of the morning, as circuses have a habit of doing, with only the county peace officers for protection. And to think, too, that only a short time ago there was some talk of disbanding the Texas Rangers as an organization that had outlived its need and usefulness.

Now, such a crisis as this should convince us that instead of fewer rangers, we might increase them, for suppose that two different circuses should decide to invade our state on the same Sunday, one coming in at the Panhandle and the other one at Orange and all the rangers should be sent to protect the Panhandle. Just think what might happen to east Texas if we should ever have a governor that didn't show a little partiality to West Texas.

I trust that this news story and your editorial will be given much publicity outside the state, because I feel sure that if the world knows that our laws are being so well enforced that they will flock here in great numbers, and we might get one or two among the number who are not fanatics.

"Consistency, thou art indeed a jewel."

THANKS TO HORSE

WITHEE, Wis.—Even though his horse did kick him in the eye, Carl Gorseger is thankful. While working with the horse recently, Gorseger received a kick in the eye which was so serious that the eye had to be removed. Physicians said after the operation that a cancerous growth had formed on the eyeball and that it would have cost him his life had not the horse's kick made necessary its removal.

The best, he found, are in England.

The Town Quack

Reserves the right to "quack" about everything without taking a stand on anything.

"SAD FISH" NEWEST TOPICS OFR "CROWS"

It appears that Moran and Mack, those sad-voiced press agents of the Early Bird and the Worm, have found a new and engrossing topic for their droll "arguifing" on the screen. This time it is the Sad Fish who comes in for the deliberations of the inimitable blackface comedians who are now appearing at the Ritz Theatre in their latest starring picture, "Anybody's War."

About the time their first picture was being circulated throughout the country, people everywhere were taking their conversation-cues from the two geniuses of blackface. It was a common occurrence to hear discussions of "Catches what worm?" "Well, who cares about that?" "Why bring that up?" "Currently with the release and distribution of 'Anybody's War,' it is highly probable that discussions along the following lines, gleaned from the dialog of the Two Black Crows, will be heard in every home, office, street car, and bus station. "Time and tide waits for no man," some will say. "Who cares about the tide?" others will counter. "It means a lot to a fish." "Well, why not let the fish worry about it then?" "That's just the trouble—a fish can't worry." "Most all fish I ever met looked worried." "In what way?" "Well, for instance, did you ever look a fish square in the eye?" "No." "A blue eyed fish?" "I never did." "Oh, they are so sad." "I don't see anything so sad about a fish. Do they ever cry?" "Incessantly." And so on and on until the fish will become another classic of the animal world just as the early bird has in the past. There will be other topics of discussion from the film, but the weeping fish will probably be the most famous.

There's one consolation in the failure of Midland to be designated as the air mail stop. I would have had difficulty in placing the credit where it was due. Even now I wonder who got in the most work on the job, and in attempting to say, I might have omitted one or two names. There's always some consolation.

After Harry Haight's computation of the attendance at the Lion's barbecue, I would suggest that we make him director of the next census. He knows how to handle attendance figures. He takes four or five guesses and adds them together.

At 6 o'clock Saturday morning, a few Midland people were still undecided about whether or not to make the El Paso trip. Fortunately, by that time, the decision was made for them automatically.

Arkansas Ruple gave an interesting discourse on saddles, early day cowpunchers and horse subjects in general before an interested audience Saturday morning, using Spence Jewell's prize saddle as an object for demonstration. The lecture was enjoyed by all.

LIONS CLUB PICNIC BEST OFFERED BY BEASTS SINCE IDEA OF ANNUAL AFFAIR STARTED; BIG CROWD THERE

By Harry L. Haight

When Donald Huttt pulls off a barbecue men barbecue history is made. Once a year Don does that little stunt for the Lions club and each one is better than the year before. His party at Cloverdale Friday night practically depopulated Midland, the night watchman and the telephone girl in the Scharbauer being all there were left to run the city. The first ladle of son-of-a-gun slipped over the edge of the kettle at 6 p. m. The line of Lions and their guests formed to the north and extended back into the prairie about a section and 320 acres. The Lions' excellent orchestra was fed first, then it played march music in order to keep the crowd in step and facilitate service. Homer Rowe with a load of chuck marched three times around the reservoir before the orchestra changed to a two-step. Charles Yonge with a young lady was roped and brought back at the outskirts of Stanton. Leslie Boone made a good speech, thanking Don for the big feed but two other dominos in the crowd didn't seem to think most of it. We don't like to snitch but one was a Baptist and the other a Presbyterian; Barney "Google" Grafe, "Dinty" Moore and "Hefty" Harry Haight were on the entertainment committee but as they didn't do anything the crowd had a rattling good time. Rotarian Dee McCormick carted Lion Martin of Pecos down to the park. Despite the superiority of each club over the other they still seem to be friendly. That shows what a big hunk of grub will do. Lion Tamer Eddie Lee scooped up a quartette consisting of Bobbie Buick Seruggs, Mortemus Barrow Seymour, Dry Goods Philippus and H. Livingston-ington Haight. Such singing has never been heard before in Midland county. Right after they began to sing about a hundred of the folks remembered that it was about their bed time and started for home. The rumor that this quartette was invited to sing elsewhere could not be confirmed. Lee, as a finale, whipped the balance of the crowd into a chorus of really good singing and when you catch such celebrities as Marvin Ulmer and Charley Klaspproth bursting into song you can be certain that the barbecue was sittin' pritty under their belts. Marian Peters counted 187 persons there, Boone counted 196, Seymour 201 and Harry McClintic 211, which added together makes 795, or else we don't know nothin' 'bout figures. Good fodder makes all men kin and Donald's party spread more good fellowship over the landscape than all the peace conferences put together.

Proposed Law Would Unhang Hung Juries

AUSTIN, Sept. 27. (AP)—A move to speed up jury verdicts and prevent hung criminal juries will be made when the 42nd legislature convenes next January. For the past several years, county and city officials have expressed dissatisfaction with the present jury verdict system in which one member can hang the jury since it requires a unanimous verdict for conviction. The bill to remedy this situation will be produced by F. C. Weinert of Travis county who will propose that a conviction may be had where 10 members of the jury concur in the verdict. Weinert stated he believed the law could be changed by the legislature without the necessity of a constitutional amendment.

Valley City Will Fete Pres. Rubio

BROWNSVILLE, Sept. 27. (AP)—The lower Rio Grande valley is preparing an elaborate entertainment program for what will be the first visit of a Mexican president to the American side of the Rio Grande in 50 years, when President Ortiz Rubio crosses the international bridge here October 8 or 9 to visit in Brownsville. The ever increasing business connections between the two countries are considered the main reason for President Rubio's decision to obtain permission to suspend the part of Mexico's constitution prohibiting presidents from leaving the country during tenure of office, and visit the valley.

Houston Police To Use Radio

HOUSTON, Texas, Sept. 27. (AP)—The use of radio to combat crime in Houston is being considered by Mayor Walter E. Monteith. He hopes to be able to provide for it in the next city budget. "All the major Eastern cities are employing radio in fighting crime," he said. "Criminals have turned to modern methods." Under his plan a short-wave radio broadcasting station would be installed at the central police station, and any robbery, murder or similar crime would be broadcast immediately to sub-stations and to the police cruising automobiles, equipped with special receiving sets tuned in constantly on the station. All fire stations and the homes of high officials in the police department would be similarly equipped and the firemen, in emergencies, would be delegated to join searches. Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Leidecker of Dallas visited their cousin, Lyn Leidecker, in Midland last week. Call for appointments with Miss Lois Brunson at Gladys Beauty Shoppe on Fridays and Saturdays. Phone 360. 173-32

Teletype Corp Is Told, Says Hunter

The American Telephone and Telegraph company has completed negotiations for the purchase of the Teletype corporation by an exchange of 150,000 shares of the common stock of the two corporations, share for share, according to word received today by R. J. Hunter, acting district manager of the Southwest Bell Telephone company. The purchase will be effective October 1.

Teletype corporation's principal office and factory is in Chicago and it is engaged in the manufacture of printing teletype equipment of all kinds. For years the Bell system has been the company's largest customer. A survey of the Bell system's future needs for this type of apparatus indicates that it will continue to require a major portion of teletypes production. A maximum of progress and economy will be realized through the complete coordination of research, development and manufacture as a result of the purchase. The Teletype corporation will be operated as a subsidiary of the Western Electric company.

More Pay for Women Urged

AUSTIN, Sept. 27. (AP).—An increase in the pay of women workers in Texas was recommended in the biennial report of Charles McKemy, state labor commissioner, to Governor Dan Moody in which McKemy states that more than half of the women and girls employed are working for wages which could not provide them with the necessities of existence. In his report, McKemy urged the passage of a minimum wage law for women workers and for minors of both sexes. It is known that the recommendation of the labor commissioner will have the support of state labor leaders in the next legislature.

To Bridge Texas Side of River

AUSTIN, Sept. 27. (UP).—Long delayed orders for the Texas end of the Gainesville-Marietta highway bridge over the Red river were issued by State Highway Engineer C. B. Gilchrist, supposedly on instructions from state highway commissioners after a conference with Oklahoma officials. Oklahoma's part of the bridge is already under construction. Texas delayed work orders on reports that Texas and Oklahoma commissioners could not agree on time for opening the bridge.

IMMUNE

BERWICK, Pa.—Mary Keener, 15, had some doubt about getting back to school this year. She had been vaccinated 19 times, received a temporary certificate admitting her to school, and when the vaccinations failed to "take". Dr. Campbell recently visited her to vaccinate the girl for the twentieth time. When this vaccination failed to take, he issued her a permanent school certificate.

ENSILING AND GRINDING PAY

Six lots of beef calves were carried through the past winter on roughage rations, and a seventh lot few full feed of shelled corn and alfalfa hay as a check, at the Nebraska College of Agriculture. The highest daily gain was made on a full feed of silage and a pound per day of cotton seed cake for each calf. Average daily increase on the lot of 14 cattle was 1.86 pounds per head over a period of 135 days. This was only 3 pounds per day less than the gain on full feed of corn and alfalfa, while the feed cost per hundred pounds gain was 84 cents less, or $7.33.

Ground corn fodder with one pound per head each day of cotton seed cake resulted in the lowest cost gain—$6.57, with a weight increase of 1.37 pounds per day. Next in cost was a lot of calves wintered on ground fodder and a limited amount of alfalfa. Highest cost gain was made on full feed of corn and alfalfa—the check lot.

At the same time the foregoing facts were being brought to light, the Fort Hays Branch of the Kansas Station was developing some interesting results regarding best methods of feeding grain sorghum fodder.

In a two year test, four lots of yearling cattle were fed one pound of cotton cake per head each day, along with the roughage of kafir in the following forms: Whole fodder, fodder cut into small lengths with a silage cutter, ground fodder, and kafir silage.

When returns per acre were considered silage gave the greatest gain, ground kafir fodder was next; while simply cutting or chopping resulted in only a slight increase over feeding whole. This indicated that ensiling or grinding would be profitable.

Galveston Contractor Soon Relieved of Rheumatism And Kidney Trouble—Eager In Praise.

MR. JOE GONZALEZ

"Rheumatism and kidney trouble kept me in constant misery for two years," said Mr. Joe Gonzalez, 90 Eighteenth Street, Galveston. "The rheumatism centered in my arms and legs and the pains in my arms and hands were frightful. I could not close my hands at times, and my hips and lower limbs were in such condition that I could not walk. My kidneys were terribly weak and frequent bladder actions robbed me of sleep at night. I always had a dull pain across the small of my back."

"A friend suggested this new medicine and I only wish that I had taken Konjola sooner. The results have been wonderful and I feel like a new person. The pains in my shoulders and arms have disappeared and I can walk about without discomfort. I get about as formerly did and my kidneys are again in normal condition. A BORN HILL CLIMBER

Oldsmobile owners who drive regularly in the mountains say that Oldsmobile is a born hill climber. That it does its work so easily and quietly. That very little gear-shifting is required. That its running temperature is little affected by the hardest grades. Such a recommendation is of real importance—whether you ever drive through the mountains or not. For it means just so much reserve power—so much added dependability for everyday travel. You will appreciate this when you drive an Oldsmobile.

Prizes Awarded Friday for Club Entries at County Fair

Women's Club Booths Attractive at County Fair; Prizes Awarded Among Fifteen Various Classes of Articles

The ascendancy of the agrarian woman of today has become pronounced throughout the entire country, particularly in the West.

That the woman of the Southwest, particularly in this belt are in the upward scale, was shown conclusively Friday when farm women of Midland county took awards in 15 classes, ranging from farm and garden produce to home art displays.

The qualities of the exhibits were as unusual as the number of them. Since farm women of Midland county have become organized under the direction of Miss Genavieve Derryberry, home demonstration agent, there has been a marked change in methods and realization. With the evolution of farming from the present to a future state, indication points to an even greater participation of woman. And with her continued participation, stability of the farming industry is suggested. A trip through the produce and art booths gives conclusive evidence of this.

this temptation!

With the first cool whiff of Fall weather, many well-intending folk begin to economize on ice. This is false economy of the most treacherous sort. First, because ice is needed more than ever during the changing seasons to keep refrigerators at a safe, even temperature. Second, because outside weather is the most inconsistent and unreliable refrigerant ever known. Third, because the negligible cost of ice is nothing compared to the health and well-being of you and your family. To obtain the many advantages of ice refrigeration, use ice freely the whole year 'round. Don't take a chance for the sake of a few cents.

MIDLAND BACK FROM SAN ANGELO WITH POLO CUP AND PRIZES

Midland Football Game With Stanton Is on Card for Friday, Oct. 3

FASTEST POLO GAME OF SEASON GOES TO MIDLAND 5-3; JOWELLS WIN WITH ROPE AND AT EXHIBIT OF SHOW STOCK

Midland's malleeters and show stock fanciers returned Friday afternoon from San Angelo with what looked like a 24-inch silver cup awarded them for taking the polo series with Texon and with several prizes presented for adeptness with the rope and for show stock exhibited.

Midland took the Friday polo game 5-3 and received the beautiful West Texas exposition cup. They had taken the second game of the series Thursday, 10-3, after losing the first, on Tuesday, 6-1.

Spence Jowell took a $250 saddle as first prize in the calf roping contest for men more than 55 years old. He roped his calf in :31, edging out eight other contestants by a narrow fraction. A ninth competitor had to throw twice, his first leap missing.

Myrl Jowell lost first place in the calf roping Friday by a scant fifth of a second, and took second place. He also took third money in calf roping Thursday.

Spence Jowell and son won second prize money in the mare and colt class, with the four-year-old mare Apronette and the filly colt, King's Apron.

In the bending contests for polo ponies, Myrl Jowell, mounted on Red Bird, took second place. He tied for third place on Marigold, but lost in the ride-off, when his arm struck one of the posts. Both the bending horses are crack polo animals.

The Friday polo game was the fastest of the three games played. Every play was strictly contested and riding was harder than ever seen between Midland and Texon. The field was rough and dusty and play was often concealed from the vision of the big crowd on the sidelines.

To begin with, Texon had showed unusual strength in taking the first game and the Midland players adopted a wild bit of riding and

Frogs Depend on "Blond Blizzard"

Critics who have seen Cy Leland, the "Flying Frog" of Texas Christian university, in action this season say he is the same speedy, shifty backfield man he was last year. Others point out that Cy has yet to go up against real competition this year, and that his reputation for 1930 is yet to be made. One thing is certain—he is a marked man in the Southwest Conference this year, and if he does deliver for his team he will be one of the great players of all time. Coach Francis Schmitt is using Leland at quarter this year.

STANTON BEDECKED COLORFULLY FOR THE OCCASION

"Midland is the invited guest of Stanton when the Bulldogs and Buffaloes play their first conference game next Friday," a message from Superintendent C. L. Sone of Stanton, said.

The two teams clash on Stanton field. Great preparation has been made by Stanton for the event. The town will turn out in a body to see if the Stanton grid machine can repeat its win of last year over the fast Barry machine.

Coch Rufus Hyde, newly acquired mentor from Simmons university, has whipped together a strongly welded unit, Stanton reports say.

That the club lost last week to Snyder by a 28-2 score is to be attributed to the heavier line of the Snydermen. G. R. Shelbourne Jr., sports write on The Stanton Reporter writes:

A definite threat is found in Epley's passes to Pollock, Metcalf and Kelley's tackling, the strong Stanton line and the plunging of Henson and Wilson.

Midland, district champions, has not been rated through play this season, having played only one game, and that with El Paso after supper last night. But this balwick is strongly convinced that the Canines are more powerful this year than last and that they will overwhelm the Stanton opposition.

It will be remembered that, when Midland lost to Stanton last season, the Barrymen were green and light, and have developed system in play.

A large delegation is expected to accompany the team and rooting section to the game.

ROADSTER THAT WAS LEFT NEAR BAIRD WRIGHT'S

BAIRD, Sept. 27. (UP).—A sport roadster believed to be the property of Nyal Wright, charged as an accomplice in an alleged extortion plot getting $75,000 from R. W. Morrison, San Antonio capitalist, was held by the sheriff today.

Two officers waited at a tourist camp for eight days, waiting for return of the owner. The car was left two weeks ago by a man who said he would return for it in 10 days. He left in a sedan with a woman, saying he was going to Mexico.

Wright is charged with J. D. Conner and T. B. Edmondson with the extortion plot.

ing field. He was business manager of the Japan Advertising in Tokio, the largest American daily in the Far East, and for nearly five years was business editor for the Dallas News.

Johnson served two terms as president of the Dallas Advertising League and was the first dean of the Advertising Institute in Dallas.

As director of the trade extension division of the Dallas chamber of commerce, he is now serving the retailers of the Southwest in all questions concerning store layouts, turnovers, merchandising and personnel.

In a capacity somewhat similar to this work, for the Dallas wholesale merchants, Johnson served the government as U. S. trade commissioner to Japan.

Johnson has no sure-cures and no cure-alls for business ills but he preaches business fundamentals, advising quick turn-over with a cleaning out of dead stock. He advocates going away with all places in a store where merchandise can be hidden away. "Out of sight is out of mind."

He also believes that sales can be increased by better informed sales people. "Too little attention is given by the average merchant to the person who must sell the goods to the customer," he says.

BIG LIQUOR HAUL

While no details were learned, it was understood Friday evening that a large liquor raid had been made in Midland Friday by prohibition agents from El Paso in conjunction with Midland county officers.

The federal men left Midland soon after the raid, it was learned.

Football--

school scarcely had a chance to score during these periods, and the Midland backs pounded out three touchdowns and made two of the extra points.

The game ended with a 52-18 Midland win and a sideline that was speechless in the direct ratio of the number of Paso fans to those from Midland.

A great jubilee gathering was held immediately after the game, with Midland making enough noise to warrant calling out the constabulary (or whatever name El Paso accepts as being synonymous). The special train that bore the delegation to Paso will start for Midland this afternoon, and the parades that are held in towns intermediate will make similar parades in the past look like a march of supernumerary clergymen in comparison.

The Midland squad looked good. That is one way of saying it. If you have difficulty in accepting the rating ask the man who knows—any El Pasoan.

Two thousand yelling grid enthusiasts were out in their great coats, trying to keep their backs to the cool wind that was blowing out of the north and, at the same time, keeping their eyes glued on the purple and gold tide that rolled up and down the field under the powerful glare from the Kleigs.

Each time the ball was snapped back and a Midland back rushed towards a hypothetical enemy in the warming up that preceded the game, cheering burst from the packed amphitheatre and the cheering section from Midland echoed it in stirring songs and the inevitable scholastic yell.

With the field sharply defined in the night, the spectacle was as colorful as a modern "Field of the Cloth of Gold," with moleskin and cleated warriors taking the place of knights and the indistinct side line crowds stretching away into blurred relief against the hill surmounted by the classic El Paso high school building—nearly enough like the cliffs of Calais.

But no one was thinking of knights and their ladies, or of anything so old-fashioned as the earlier century joust. The Austin High Panthers came running on the field. They had a sort of wiry grace that offered contrast to the bulkier Midland eleven, and a great ovation was given the Coblenz machine. A lusty, sustained roar went up that was strangely suggestive of a great inter-sectional classic, and both teams began going through preparatory tactics with an energy that spoke of a real combat to follow.

From the very first, it was apparent that the Austin squad knew its arc lights; the Lutherans began flipping short, sizzling passes from the backs to the ends in practice. Midland was content to tip nothing off, simply warming up with infinite patience, running brush and sweep plays, and taking an occasional place kick from formation.

Speculation on the sidelines resolved itself into idle remarks regarding size and speed against brawn and experience that was handicapped by never having played under the reflectors and in the rarified air from off the Rio Grande.

But the whistle blew for the conference of officials and captains—and necks stretched out of top coats and the bedlam of the cheering sections swelled to a frenzy. The game that resulted in Midland running a special train to Paso and of the border city becoming a collective host to the cattle country delegation was about to begin!
