OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 25. (UP).—The three Texas Shannons today attempted to pin guilt in the Urschel kidnaping on Katherine Kelly, a daughter, Mrs. R. G. Boss, first taking the stand.

Katherine married George Kelly three years ago, he then posing as a prosperous business man.

Sam Sayers, Shannon attorney, outlined the case, saying Bates and the Kellys planned the kidnaping, that Bates threatened the Shannons with death if they did not guarantee Urschel.

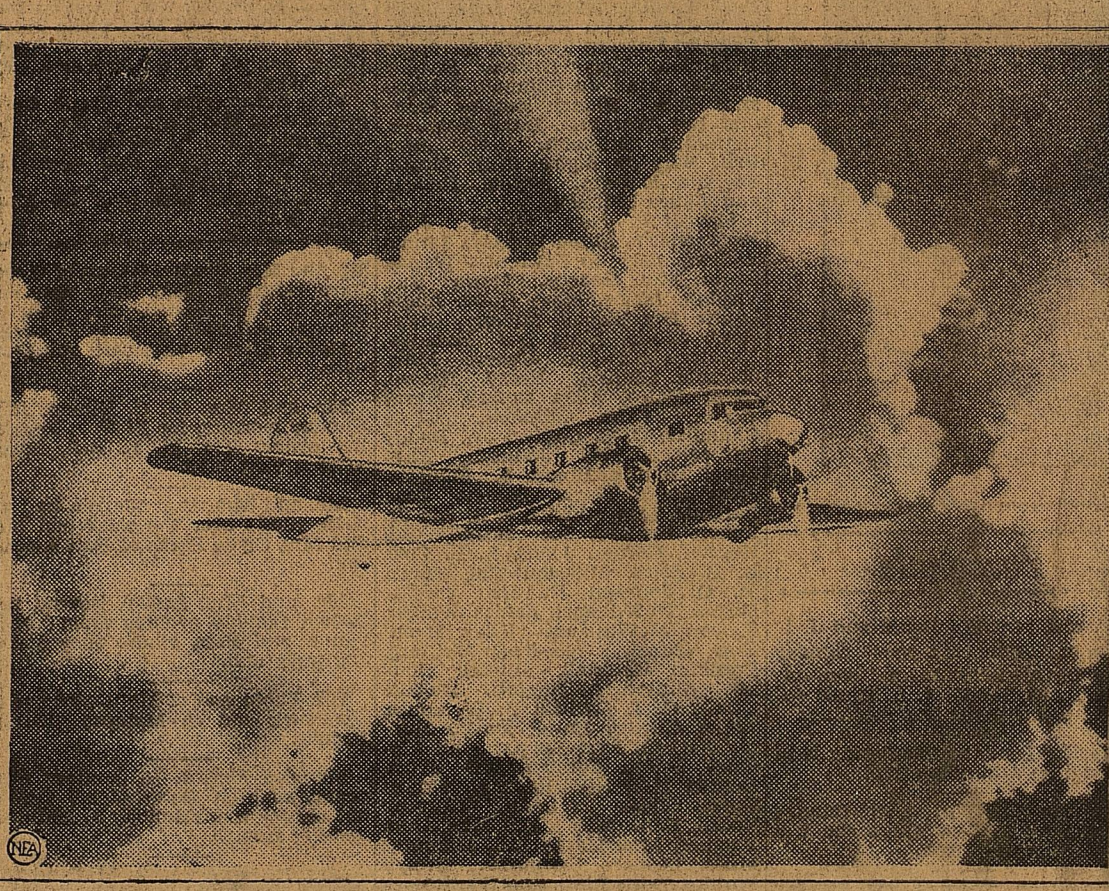

Judge Vaughn excused Peter Valder, alleged St. Paul money changer, leaving Bailey and nine others to face the charges.

By Sesate

AUSTIN, Sept. 25. (UP).—Eleven new topics were submitted to the legislature by the governor today. Several had bills drafted by legislators attached.

The topics were given to the house shortly after a resolution was defeated to adjourn a week from tomorrow. The governor also promised to submit a bill of Rep. Renfro of Fort Worth to regulate distribution of machine guns.

Bills submitted included: cooperation with the NRA by limiting the hours of state employees; appropriation of $50,000 for rodent destruction to prevent typhoid fever; and $7,500 for control of malaria; an amendment to the cigarette tax law continuing payment of two percent of collections for enforcement work which the old law suspended next March; permitting assignment of tax lien by tax collectors to persons who loan money to property owners for tax payment.

ADMINISTRATOR CITED
AS SENATE WITNESS

AUSTIN, Sept. 25. (UP).—Tex. Attorney General, Clegg, called administrator and author reputedly of the statement, "To hell with critics," when he heard of senate investigations of relief, was summoned today to appear before the senate.

"We want to see how much relief funds have been allotted to him and how they have been administered," said Senator Walter Woodward. Lawrence Westbrook testified that the administrator had received $1,500,000 of relief funds necessary from October 1 to March 21 is $1,750,000. A major factor in the calculation, according to Westbrook, is the approaching unemployment of 1,500,000 Texans, with present relief being administered to $50,000 Texans.

Kidnapers

CHICAGO, Sept. 25. (UP).—Police trapped in his luxurious apartment Gus Winkler, north side gangster, and his wife, Gergette, today, and questioned the pair in connection with the shooting of Miles Cunningham, policeman, during the robbery of federal reserve mail pouches.

Winkler was connected with the crime through an automobile wrecked by the bandits. The machine was equipped with police lights, siren and bullet proof glass. It was identified as his automobile.

Kansas City ballistic experts determined that bullets fired from a machine gun during the Chicago holdup were similar to those used in the union station massacre, leading to the conclusion that aides of Harvey Bailey were attempting to raise cash to fight his prosecution.

PETTY THIEVES NUISANCE HERE

Police are hunting for radiator caps and gear shift knob thieves. Last week the petty thieves stole numerous radiator caps from cars parked in front of a theatre. Sunday night they took knobs off gear shift handles. Police are at a loss to know why the thieves are doing this type of stealing, as they are known to have abandoned one pile of caps, apparently having no intention of selling them.

It was pointed out that anyone who knowingly buys the auto parts after they are stolen becomes a party to theft. It is believed boys are responsible for the thefts. In one recent instance they took radiator caps from the cars of out-of-town visitors all over the town.

Such thefts as that mean these visitors may hesitate to return to Midland and spend their money here, it was pointed out. One man who lost the knob from his car, said Sunday night said if the thief could be found, criminal charges with a jail or reformatory sentence would be sought, as he was tired of the practice of letting Midland boys go free when they catch thieves.

Chief of Police Lee Haynes is trying to find guilty persons. He said the missing caps may be recovered at the city hall.

Royalty, Sheiks Take to the Air

LONDON. (UP).—European royalty and eastern sheiks have taken to the air.

More rulers, members of royal families and important government personages have taken long air trips in the past few months than at any other time.

Air-minded royal personages are led by the Prince of Wales who, while not possessing a personal pilot's license, is the owner of a fleet of six planes. His brothers, the Duke of York, the Duke of Gloucester, and Prince George also are enthusiastic aviators, although neither King George, nor Queen Mary ever has flown. A few years ago flights by the Prince of Wales were followed by the British populace with even more concern than were his hunting trips. But in these days the Prince's airplane trips are so numerous that little note is taken of them.

Rumanian Flies

Prince Nicholas of Rumania recently has been flying all over Europe. King Albert of the Belgians is another enthusiastic royal flyer. His son and daughter-in-law, Prince Leopold and Princess Astrid, are equally enthusiastic.

Flying over Northern Africa in a Blériot, King Ferdinand of Bulgaria expressed his amazement at being able to cover in 36 hours a journey which took him 26 days.

King Kirt of Persia of Iraq made his recent trip to Britain by chartering an air liner to carry him and his suite from Baghdad to Cairo.

Arabian Arabian sheiks who are particularly air-minded are the sheik of Sharjah and the sheik of Kuwait. Sharjah is one of the Arabian coast halting points of the Imperial Airways Indian route and the sheik is an ardent believer in flying.

Sheik Paid Visit

The sheik of Kuwait paid a ceremonious visit to the sheik of Sharjah. He did not make the journey mounted on his Arab steed and surrounded by hordes of his followers, armed to the teeth. He made the trip by the regular Indian air-mail plane.

In addition to General Babes whose great flight to the United States with the Italian air armada is still fresh in the mind, there are numerous European statesmen who prefer airplanes. British Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald frequently travels from London to his Scottish home-town of Lossiemouth in a Royal Air Force open cockpit machine.

Both the British and French air ministers recently have availed for pilots' licenses. Pierre Cot, the French air minister declared he would not feel confident to hold his until he seemed to fly. Lord Londonderry, the British air minister, has extended his enthusiasm to his two daughters and has had them trained for their pilots' licenses.

ROSCOE TURNER BREAKS RECORD WEST TO EAST

NEW YORK, Sept. 25. (UP).—Col. Roscoe Turner cracked the transcontinental airplane record from Los Angeles, landing today after a flight of ten hours, five and a half minutes.

Turner already was holder of the east-west crossing record of eleven hours and thirty minutes, established July 1.

"Slipping off" to a good rodeo at Springfield, Mass., after the Chicago world's fair show, Allen Holder of Midland, Tex., was riding the Davis mountains were "making 'em sit up and take notice" in the calf roping on last reports received here.

Holder, riding his big brown Floyd horse, Cap, had a ten second lead in general average, with only two calves to rope. A win would give him a $90 saddle in addition to the purse. He had won day money of two firsts, a second and a third in four days of roping.

Jones, who rides a dun horse owned by Henry Brunson, had won a first, a second and two thirds.

The ropers will go next to Boston and then to the Madison Square Garden show in New York before turning back west for the winter.

100 Report for Longhorn Band

AUSTIN.—At the initial meeting of the Longhorn band at the University of Texas, approximately 100 aspirants signed up for try-outs, according to Bulletin of the band. Despite the constant rehearsals incidental to belonging to the band, membership is always at a premium.

The Longhorn band is one of the most known of university organizations, its orange and white uniforms being familiar not only to students and ex-students of the school but to music lovers and sports admirers all over the state. It represents the university on many occasions, including special all-university programs, rallies, football games, conventions, and other services, both in and out of town. In addition to its services on university programs, the band also presents a number of concerts of its own, and each year makes one or two tours to various sections of the state.

Jim Tuttle and his side Sunday won in the attendance contest of the Men's class of Hotel Scharbauer. Tuttle and his south side workers had 97 and Andrew Northington 25. Northington won the previous Sunday by a margin of 6. These men plus the officers and late arrivals brought the total to 97. The two sides are continuing the contest to Oct. 22, as the losers have to do the work at the Clarence Scharbauer barbeque.

The Sunday following the barbeque all who attend get free Ritz theatre tickets as guests of Mgr. J. Howard Hodge. The winners Sunday were guests of a class officer for coffee in the Scharbauer coffee shop.

Will Sell Fine Horses at Fair

DALLAS.—Several car loads of thoroughbred horses will be brought to the state fair for exhibit and sale purposes. It has been announced here by John W. Carpenter, director who has made arrangements with one of the best known breeders of fine horses in Kentucky to show and sell the horses at the exposition. The horses will occupy race barns and will be paraded from time to time to let everyone see them.

With the return of horse racing in Texas, officials of the fair are of the opinion that many people will be looking for fine breeding stock for horses and that racing would encourage the breeding of fine horses. There is also a growing demand on the part of people who have taken up riding as a hobby to breed and raise their own riding stock.

BRODERICK & CALVERT WELL HEADS DURING NIGHT; WELL IS SHUT DOWN

Four thousand feet of 37.6 gravity oil standing in Broderick & Calvert et al. No. 1 Elliott P. Cowden from one foot of true pay at 4,150 to 4,151 feet Sunday stamped the Ector county wildcat test as one of the brightest prospects for heavy fluid production the Permian basin of West Texas has offered for many months. The well headed last night, 90 barrels flowing into storage and approximately 60 to waste.

The test, performance of which already has stamped it as a producer of undetermined magnitude, is five miles west of the Harrison-Addis pool, 10 miles west of Odessa and about seven miles north and a trifle east of the Penn pool.

Operators spent Saturday night and Sunday pulling eight and a quarter inch casing and in connecting up the well. One 500-barrel tank was set for use Sunday and installation of a separator was completed. A fishing job was underway today for a ball. Two more 500-barrel tanks are being constructed.

Showing Saturday, amounting to 150 feet rising in the hole, was encountered at 4,147 feet, but when the foot of saturated lime was opened from 4,150 to 4,151 feet, fluid started rising at the rate of approximately 200 feet an hour.

There is no sand impregnating the saturated lime and the pay so far drilled is said to be a "pure honey-comb" section.

Broderick & Calvert et al. No. 1 E. P. Cowden is 440 feet north from the center of the south line of section 25, block 44, township 2 south, T. & P. Railway survey.

If a new pool is opened, it probably will be entirely separate from the Harrison-Addis field due to a dry hole drilled between the two spots by Weekley Oil corporation of Fort Worth.

Gray lime was topped in Broderick & Calvert et al. No. 1 E. P. Cowden at 3,877 feet, or minus 844 feet, making it the highest of several tests drilled in the same general area. Location was selected by O. C. Harper, Midland, geologist, who has devoted much time to subsurface analysis of the territory.

Honolulu Oil company, Harper, C. R. Black, drilling contractor of Dallas, and Broderick & Calvert company, the nearby acreage, but the Texas company, Midcontinent Petroleum corporation, Liano Oil company and Shell Petroleum corporation have holdings with a radius of a mile and a half or two miles of the well.

BEND, Ore. (UP).—Skeletons of two deer, their antlers interlocked, were found in the Cascade Mountains near here. The mortal battle between the two great bucks, one with six and one with seven points, is thought to have taken place last fall.

Immediate survivors are two daughters, Mmes. Frank Cowden and George Glass, and a son, O. B. Holt, of Midland; a sister, Mrs. George A. Pemberton of Denver, and a brother, Dewitt Bell of Blocker, Okla.

It was expected that a sister-in-law, Mrs. Kute Holt of Waco, with her son, W. J. Holt, and a daughter, Mrs. Willie B. Wylie, would be here for the funeral services; also Mr. and Mrs. George A. Pemberton and daughter, Miss Fannie, of Denver, and Mrs. M. M. Holt of Carlsbad, N. M.

Other survivors include a sister-in-law, Mrs. O. B. Holt, page 4.

A CHALLENGE TO LABOR AND INDUSTRY

In a time like the present the horizon is fairly cluttered up with signs and portents. None of these is much more significant than the sudden epidemic of strikes—an epidemic that has broken out in the last month or so and that is giving the federal doctors one of the busiest seasons they will ever have.

Whatever else these strikes may mean, they at least prove that industry is no longer stagnant. They didn't put in an appearance during those dull months when we were at the bottom of the depression. They're coming now for a number of reasons, but chiefly because things are picking up. Men don't strike when the plant is closed down for lack of orders.

And the strikes present—to a nation which already has a century supply of problems to settle in a few months—a new problem; one that carries a double-barreled challenge, one barrel for industry and the other for labor.

It is a challenge that must be read in the light of the NRA program. The National Labor Board's ruling, which emphasizes the fact that the law guaranteeing the right of collective bargaining means exactly what it says, is part of the background for these strikes, and it conditions their significance.

First of all, the problem challenges the directors of industry. It is a test of their spirit of fairness, of their willingness to co-operate in the tremendous experiment of the new deal. Labor has gained a great victory in the Industrial Recovery Act; the industrialist who seeks reprisals and wants to "put labor in its place" is piling up trouble, not only for himself but for the entire country.

Secondly, the problem challenges labor itself. It puts upon labor the necessity of developing some broad-gauge statesmen. It calls on labor to take the long view of things, to exercise patience in places where patience comes hard, to get rid of the racketeer and the self-seeker.

Both of these challenges must be met. The present outlook of strikes could, if unchecked, lead to a catastrophic situation. It can, if the leaders of the contending forces meet the test with intelligence and patriotism, be the forerunner of a new era in American industrial history, an era in which both sides can profit as never before.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Criminals in Greenland are punished by the offended party's singing a self-composed song of derision at them in a public place. That's one place where wrongdoers have to face the music.

The opening of the oyster season on September 1 provided employment for 40,000 additional men in that industry. This is one line at least in which things are beginning to open up.

California bakers are clamoring for a standardized weight for doughnuts. Perhaps they want the weight to be prescribed by law with no loopholes.

Another benefit from the Century of Progress exposition in Chicago has been the variety it added to returned vacationists' stories.

And some believe the NRA codes provide that founders should not strike while the iron is hot.

Although General Johnson's "Buy Now" campaign is referred to by the headline writers as a "drive," it seems to have all of the earmarks of a "counter drive."

John Howe, besides being postmaster, is quite a humorist.

He told me this old joke the other day: A visitor in a small Arkansas town saw a big strapping boy, about the size of a high school youth, in the pursuit of an elderly woman. The woman was running down the street frantically and was screaming for help. No one seemed to pay any attention to them.

"Why doesn't someone help that old lady?" the visitor asked.

"That's their own family problem," a bystander said, "that's Aunt Matilda Smith and that's her boy Sam. She's been trying to wean him for going on six months now."

Of course I laughed when John told the joke, even if it was an old one, but imagine how I looked when he started off, saying: "That's the best after-dinner joke I ever heard."

Mexican Labor Costs Surging

DALLAS. (UP)—Word is awaited here by Maury Hughes, chairman of the state recovery program board, from NRA headquarters at Washington regarding his recommendation of suspension of common labor regulations during rehabilitation of the storm-torn Lower Rio Grande valley.

He advised suspension of the 30 cents an hour minimum pay and the maximum eight-hour day after a survey of conditions in the area. Residents declared they were unable to pay $2.40 a day for the previously cheap Mexican labor. When approached to work for less the Mexicans shrugged their shoulders and said, "Me NRA," Hughes' report to national Administrator Hugh S. Johnson related.

Chamber of commerce officials, mayors, contractors and residents whose homes were damaged by the storm signed statements asking suspension of the labor regulations during the emergency period of rebuilding. These were forwarded by Hughes to federal officials.

Rehabilitation work in the area is advancing slowly, pending action of NRA officials at Washington.

OIL ORDERS CONFUSING

AUSTIN (UP).—Reports that federal or state government's might stop "wildcatting" for oil has led many operators to confuse a recent order issued by the state railroad commission.

The order held no permits for drilling under regulations governing well spacing would be issued unless the commission first held a hearing on the application. The Oil and Gas division explained no permits are required except under the spacing rule, and that any well located the regular distance from property lines and other wells may be drilled without a permit.

The only requirement is that a notice of intention to drill be filed with the commission.

The United States Labor Department suggests that if the food budget is limited twenty-five to thirty cents out of every dollar expended should go for milk or its equivalent. SIVALLS RILEY AND SIMPSON LOOM AS THREATS FOR TROPHY

SECOND ROUND PLAY IN COWDEN TROPHY MARKED BY DOWNFALL OF ACE PLAYERS; THIRD ROUND IS ON

Advancing to the third round of the Cowden trophy chase, eight handicap golf matches are slated to be played at country club on or before Friday. The 16 matches of the second round were decided between Thursday and Sunday.

The four fifth round matches will be played on or before Oct. 6, and the final round of 36 holes will be shot two days later. The cup will be presented that afternoon, as well as the medal for the runner-up.

Play in the second round was marked by the downfall of some of the leading golfers of the city. Their handicaps, in several instances, were so low that they could not overcome the top-heavy ones carried by their opponents of sub-ladder position.

Take C. L. Jackson, for instance. He, having a handicap of only 1, had no chance with Pat Riley, who had a 10. Riley has been shooting barely above par, having chalked up several 38s of late. Jackson would have been compelled to shoot far under par to beat the 38 Riley shot on his first round. For 10 holes straight, Riley won, being only two over par through the tenth.

It worked the same way in the match of Gentry Kidd and Bill Simpson. Simpson, carrying a handicap of 11, Kidd only a 3, fired four birdies at Kidd over the first 10 holes and, despite the great play of

Loretta Young Says 'Yes' in Picture but 'No' in Actual Life

Loretta Young, whose latest role in pictures is the feminine lead in the First National production, "She Had to Say Yes," opening Tuesday at the Ritz theatre, probably said "No" as many times in the last twelve months as any single lady in Hollywood.

Loretta is one of filmdom's most popular girls and at least a half a dozen of Hollywood's available hearts have been laid at her feet during the past few months. She has treated all of the owners honestly but lightly. She is not in the mood.

Loretta has an agreement with the First National Studio, not to marry during the term of her contract, but this is not the only reason for her steady refusal to consider matrimony. The more personal reason is that she is not ready to get married. She has not found herself to be in love.

"It does seem a bit strange," she said, "but the same studio which has agreed to say 'no' to my marriage offers, casts me in a picture called 'She Had to Say Yes.'"

Lyle Talbot has the part of Miss Young's leading man in the picture based on original story by Joan Knicker and dealing with the practice of business houses of employing their secretaries as "customers' girls" in order to induce the sale of town buyers to buy. The picture is directed by Rian James and Don Mullaly and the direction by Busby Berkeley and George Amy. Others in the cast include Regis Toomey, Winnie Lightner, Hugh

FOOTBALL SKETCHES

BL. R. C. HANKINS

It's a bit of a shame to set one on a pedestal and then shove the teak wood from under him—but we must substitute a name in the blockading of that Fort Stockton punt Saturday. Elwood McWilliams was the boy who went backstage without an invitation, and started counting the laces on the ball while James was trying to get off a kick. The punt did not materialize, and a Bulldog forward lay down and rested on the oval. The rain made identification of players extremely difficult.

We thought we had unearthed something when we said Stevens was playing his first game, and had seen only three—only to find out that Midland's Jake Parker was playing his first without having seen a single encounter! The boys tell us that the coach, the day before the game how a touchdown is made. On the kickoff, Parker is said to have asked: "What's this all about? What I'm supposed to do?" "Get the runner if you can, or the first man you see if you can't," someone told him. L'Envoiy: He got a man, and played a nice game.

Sunday's copy read: "It is 'improbable' that anyone except Russell Shrader could have whipped a band together from raw material so early in the season." We are sorry the proof read "probable."

At Saturday's game we saw the shortest punts of our reporting years. The ball travelled only a few feet in several instances. The Bulldogs will have to learn kicking or every team in the district will make the going embarrassing. Coach Barry, in trying to achieve low over-the-line rolling punts, has the right theoretical idea—if his men can kick 'em.

The passing game employed by the Bulldogs was prettier than we've seen here this early in the season. Heaves were true to the mark, and receivers showed mid-season ability in snatching them. If the coaches continue to improve their charges in the aerial game a lot of worry among the fans will automatically be retired.

The ends did not look too good in breaking up sweeps, but Coach Barry says he has confidence in their smearing plays in the next game.

As a whole, the town was pretty well satisfied with the showing of the green team. Given a bit of time for team drill, the coaches will be able to show a more mechanical precision in line charging, interference running, blocking and tackling. It remains to be seen whether the club will be able to far graze Wink, Pecos, Stanton, Odessa and Marfa—but it is generally conceded the team will look much better Nov. 11, when Wink is played in the first official game. Two dates, one with Big Lake Oct. 14 and one with Colorado Oct. 20, should season the team and give coaches all the time they need for shaping a championship eleven. And, in Class B, the fans will not be satisfied with anything less.

The sense of shock that fell heavily on the stands during the first quarter was relieved by Kathleen Scruggs. She played a perfect role as a tragedienne when she called out for the stands to rise. "Please!" There was a downward flicker that now "Something terrible is about to happen. The goose hangs high. The goal line portents has failed to work. We're about to be massacred, etc. etc." A wave of laughter rolled over the stand, and everybody surged to their feet. We've an idea that helped more than anyone guesses.

emerged the legislative ruling bodies of the Territory. Judged from standards of Mainland political bodies, the territorial legislature has functioned successfully.

Down in Ala. Park, which is to Honolulu that Trafalgar Square is to London or Times Square to New York, a Democrat named Yamamoto or Kealoha or what they Republicans? mounts a platform bowered in flower leis—election time comes to Hawaii the only barometer in seasons.

He may, or may not, have played a ukelele, a vote-getter more persuasive than a cigar in Pennsylvania. If he didn't play he had a ukelele player or two behind him and into the warm night came chants in Hawaiian, telling the praises of the candidate for the House of Representatives as the natives once sang sagas of their chieftains.

Swaying behind him Hula girls in holokus, as modest as they are colorful—that Mother Hubbard which was one of the least indelible marks left by the missionaries in the South Seas, waved their spell for ballots bearing names as strange to the Anglo-Saxon tongue as yen-shee. The spell is as enchanting.

Clipping from the "What the Picture Did for Me" department, Motion Picture Herald, Sept. 9
SHE HAD TO SAY YES: Loretta Young, Lyle Talbot—This is a dandy little show. I believe twice as many people liked it as enjoyed "Baby Face" or "Ex-Lady." The title is a milestone around its neck, but if you set them in you can charge them when they come out and be able to collect 100 per cent.—Signed—Chas. Lee Hyde, Grand Theatre, Pierre, S. D.
