The Plainsman Sez: 20 Contestants Enter Miss Hansford Pageant

I'm a-feared tales of volcanic ash from Washington on state's active crater sifting over croplands of the Panhandle high plains are coverin' more ground than the gypsy lava gyp is.

I'm sure not gonna get in the discussion on the merits or demerits of volcanic ash as a super-growin' agent. Super-growers can be a whole new can o' worms! Disputin' the logic of some of 'em can be dangerous as makin' fun of a popular brand of penetratin' oil used on arthritic joints. Feller down in Hale County did that to a neighbor who swore by the stuff and while he was bein' showed how a squirt of it would limber up an elbow, the scoffer got hit right in the mouth by the knuckles on the end of the limbered-up arm!

Nope. I'm more interested in the fact that we got a gen-u-wine active volcano right here in the U.S. of A. Not a lot of folks knew that. Talked to one feller who has been there. This was back in the days when the thing just set there with lava rumblin' and boilin' down in the crater like a bowl of real good jalopena cornbread mixin's. Said he was standin' close to some tork folks who'd been plagued by a loud-mouthed Texan. (Bound to a-been from EAST Texas!) Feller was awful quiet, though it 'pears whilst he looked into that crater.

"Bet you haven't got anything like that back in Texas!"

The braggart was quiet a while yet, then turned to the challenger:

"Nope. But I'll betcha the Spearman fire department could put it out in ten minutes flat!"

"Course talk allus gets around to what caused it to go off. That's a tough 'un without a war to blame it on the guns and bombs." "Member when Lubbocka nd the outh Plains almost washed away durin' World War the Second and folks said all that rain was big guns and the The Bomb?"

Saw a cartoon with two early type men dressed in aminal skins and carryin' spears takin' shelter in a storm. One turned to the other and said: "It's them new-fangled bows and arrows they're usin' in the next valley!"

Which brings to mind the answer ol' Albert Einstein gave to a questoin 'fore he died:

"No, I don't know what World War Three will be fought with but . . . I can tell you for sure, World War Four will be fought with bows and arrows."

Well, I gotta stop this and go check my volcanic ash gauge.

What d' I use?

A corn-cob pipe bowl. What else?

--And still the rains came....

Some 3.50 inches since the first of May and the possibility of more before the Month ends.

However, it will take an additional 1.07 inches just to tie May, 1979.

It was no April Fool joke when that month started with snow moisture -- 1.5 inches of it. On April 3, .52 inch fell then there were 20 days before a trace of moisture fell on the 23.

As if it were a "primer" the skies opened on the 24th and dropped 1.22 inches with more than three-quarters of an inch on the 25th with two more rain days finishing April with a total of 2.94 inches.

There were many days during April and May when leaden skies threatened to drop more rainfall but the cloud systems moved on -- and some of them moved back.

Official weather observers said all the moisture systems were a part of the complex chain of storms that mark the vernal equinox and noted it is difficult to predict with any accuracy rainfall days during this equinox period.

TO BEE OR NOT TO BEE -- And the question of Spearman resident Joy Hansen is "Why my house?" There is no pat answer according to people who claim to know bee-havior. There are rose bushes near the side of the house where the colony, including the queen, has swarmed and there are trees in the yard. Honey bees seldom go for roses. There is an unscientific theory that in a season when pollination is impeded or where a single tree is lonely, the bees take over. However, the oldest-timers say when the queen is along, the colony is seeking a new home.

TRANSFER OF RISK

Risk is defined as the possibility of something unfortunate happening. Sometimes a person who is subject to a risk might ask someone else to take the chance. For example, an individual who is in trouble may ask a friend or relative to put up a bond for him. This is called transfer of risk.

This practice is very old. In Rome at the time of Caesar, there was a man who, upon seeing a burning building, would make the owner a cash offer. If the owner accepted the money, the man who made the offer could save and keep whatever was left of the building after the fire.

Insurance Corner

Long ago, shippers who sent products overseas often borrowed money at high interest rates as part of the trading procedure. If the goods got to the proper destination successfully, the money was paid back... otherwise it wasn't.

Thus, the moneylender assumed the risk. Transfer of risk was involved in both the Roman and shipping transactions. Now, insurance is used to handle these types of situations. However, the present practice of giving personal surety bonds stems directly from ancient forms of transfer of risk.

This information has been brought to you as a public service by John R. Collard, Jr., your one step answer to complete business and personal insurance protection. Life, home, auto, group insurance, and profit-sharing plans. See John R. Collard, Jr., 405 Davis St., Telephone 659-2501.

Golden Spread Center News

Hospital Auxiliary furnished part of the covered-dish dinner at the Golden Spread Center on Tuesday, May 20, at 6:30 p.m. Sixty-six people were served a bounteous feast. Golden Spread Center hostesses were Mathilda Entreklin, Addie Novak, and Willie Wallis.

As usual there were many eager beavers who began to arrive as early as 5:30 p.m. and about five tables of games were in progress before dinner. Joan McClellan of the Panhandle Health Services was there to take everyone's blood pressure.

Throughout the evening fourteen tables of bridge, canasta, dominoes, forty-two, pitch, and skip-bo were in progress.

Golden Spread Center will be closed for the Memorial Day week-end. There will be nothing going on there on Saturday, Sunday, and Monday, May 24-25-26.

There will be an evening of table games on Tuesday, May 27 at 6:30 p.m.

Many hands will make light work if everyone will come and pitch in to clean up the Golden Spread Center on Wednesday and Thursday, May 28-29 and then will help to set up displays for the bazaar on Thursday and Friday, May 29-30, all day.

The annual Golden Spread Center bazaar is Saturday, May 31, from 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. This is the time when all these beautiful arts and crafts that many have been working on for five months will be on sale. All proceeds from the sale will be ploughed back into the Golden Spread Center to help pay the expenses of running the Center.

Golden Spread Center is located at 14 S. Haney and is open Monday through Friday from 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. for everyone fifty-five years of age or older without discrimination as to sex, color, race, ethnic background, national origin, religion, denominational preference, church membership, political party, or handicap.

Faye's Daze

We have had a lot of fun here at the paper this week. The little escorts for the Miss Hansford Pageant have been coming in to get their pictures taken. The children are kindergarten age and under and they are really precious.

Billy wanted one or the other of them to put their hands on the other's shoulder, but didn't have too much luck. Some of the boys refused to get that close to a girl and some of the girl's felt the same way about the boys.

Anyway they are cute as a bug and should add zest to the annual Miss Hansford Pageant come Saturday night.

There are 16 little couples and I understand there are 20 contestants for Miss Hansford County.

There will be lots of activity for Roundup Days, Friday and Saturday, from the different kinds of entertainment, bazaar, sidewalk sales, games, fiddlers, dances, and lots of food booths, including a barbecue at noon. Sounds like a good day not to think about a diet, with all sorts of goodies being planned for sale by local organizations.

My son and his wife were here over the weekend, to attend the Kunselman-Reid wedding and visit.

I met them at the airport Friday night for what was supposed to be a 11 p.m. arrival time, but I found out after I got to the airport that their plane would be two hours late, due to bad weather in Houston, so I had a long wait.

I thoroughly enjoyed their visit, and when I took them back to the airport Sunday, we marveled at how pretty and green everything is after our abundant rains the past few weeks. The pasturelands are as green as the lawns around town.

Speaking of lawns, I think mine has grown about two inches a day this spring, thanks to a good fertilizing by my kind nephew, Danny Womble and the abundant rains.

I have some ground cover in one of my flower beds which is supposed to get about 6 inches tall, well I think it is about two feet tall now, must be Texas ground cover.

My dandelion crop is also thriving.

I see the clean up campaign for Spearman is underway in some spots, but there is lots more that needs to be done if we are to have our little town spurred up for Hansford Roundup Days.

Here are some excerpts from "Grain Producers News".

Sign on the edge of a small town: WARNING, our speed limit is 25 mph with a fine of $5 per mile over the limit. Pick out a speed you can afford!

It wasn't easy to do it, but we now have 10 million laws to enforce the Ten Commandments.

The reason there's still room at the top is that today's kids all want in on the ground floor.
