If the land is poor it must be built up by the proper rotation of crops and by returning the fertility to the soil in the form of manure which has been taken from it in the form of feedstuffs. If the land is rich it should be kept so by the same method. There is nothing that affords better shade than trees, but if one hasn't these, artificial shade must be provided. Hogs day. In all cases the fences should be arranged with an idea of both econemy and convenience in view. The plan will depend to a large de gree upon the size, shape and improvements of the farm as a whole. A good plan is to have a permanent pasture arround which are located fields for the production of feedingstuffs of various kinds. By such an arrangement the hogs may be grazed in one field and then another according to the rotation of the crops.

Have Children During Their Schooldays Acquire the Habit of Visiting Picture Galleries.

A small lassie was conducted by her mother on a tour of the Layton gallery and the established etiquette for art galleries in general was being included as a part of her instruction for the day. Standing before a particularly prosaic-looking canvas, she found it the house completed before long. convenient to divert her mind by utilizing the brass railing as a trapeze-thereby developing the muscles of her back and arms.

"What are you doing?" the fond mother inquired. "Do you think this is a gymnasium? You don't come to an art gallery to swing on a railing. You come to look at the pictures. Stand up there, if you want to come again." The implied threat as a finality was effective so far that there was no question in the onlooker's mind as to the treat the little lady evidently regarded a visit to the gallery. That is the great point-to have children during their schooldays acquire the habit of visiting picture galeries. Then it will be but a matter of time for the development of discriminative appreciation. That and real affection for the truly beautiful will follow log-

Real Truth About Young Man With "Excelsior" Banner, and That Lamb of Mary's.

"Excelsior" is a poem about a young man who walked one winter evening through a village in the Alps. The hotel keeper stood in his door and told him the rooms were all taken, but anyhow the young man for tips. So he went on. He carried a banner reading "Excelsior." The census returns now coming in steadily leave no doubt that the country is growing in population at a rapid rate. The gains in some of the cities are very notable, several of the little places having made remarkable advancement in the last ten years. Public Health

Disease of Dog Menace to Great Degree

By AUSTIN PETERS, Boston

N a consideration of the dog as a menace to the public health there is one disease above all others to be looked upon as particularly dangerous, and that is rabies. Other possible sources of mischief are trivial and insignificant in comparison with this disease peculiar to the dog and dog family, of which he is the principal disseminator. The virus of rabies is conveyed by his saliva into wounds inflicted by his bite, or even into any fresh cut on the face or hands of a person into which the saliva may be introduced by licking.

At times when cases of rabies are rare among dogs there is very little danger to the health of the community from hydrophobia, but every twelve or fifteen years a surplus population of extra susceptible canines accumulates, and then some dog or dogs with rabies start an outbreak which becomes almost epizootic. Under these conditions the dog becomes a menace to the public health to a much greater degree than the misinformed generally realize.

One of these periodical outbreaks of rabies has been taking place in Massachusetts during the past five years, but present indications are that it is about over, as very few cases have been reported > to the cattle bureau during the past months. There was not an authentic case of rabies in Massachusetts from September, 1903, until November, 1904. During the winter of 1904 and 1905 a few cases occurred in various localities, and by the spring of 1905 the outbreak was well under way, attaining its height in 1907, since which time it has gradually lect. declined until the disease has again nearly disappeared.

SYNOPSIS.

Miss Innes, spinster and guardian of Gertrude and Haisey, established summer headquarters at Sunnyside. Amidst numereus difficulties the servants deserted As Miss Innes locked up for the night, she was startled by a dark figure on the veranda. She passed a terrible night, which was filled with unseemly noises. In the morning Miss Innes found a ptrange link cuff button in a clothes hamper. Gertrude and Halsey arrived with Jack Bailey. The house was awakened by a revolver shot. A strange man was found shot to death, in the hall. It proved to be the body of Arnold Armstrong, whose banker father owned the country house. Miss Innes found Halsey's revolver on the lawn. He and Jack Bailey had disappeared. The link cuff button mysteriously disappeared. De-tective Jamieson and the coroner arrived. Gertrude revealed that she was engaged to Jack Balley, with whom she had talked in the billiard room a few mo-ments before the murder. Jamleson told Miss Innes that she was hiding evidence from him. He imprisoned an intruder in an empty room. The prisoner escaped down a laundry chute. It developed that the intruder was probably a woman. Gerthe intruder was probably a woman. Gertrude was suspected, for the intruder left a print of a bare foot. Gertrude returned home with her right ankle sprained. A negro found the other half of what proved to be Jack Bailey's cuff button. Halsey suddenly reappeared. He said he and Bailey had left because they had received a telegram. Gertrude they had received a telegram. Gertrude said that she had given Bailey an unloaded revolver, fearing to give him Halsey's loaded weapon. Cashier Bailey of Paul Armstrong's bank, defunct, was arrested, charged with embezzlement.

"In cash?" "In cash."

"But the man who did it-he would be known?"

"Yes, I tell you both, as sure as I stand here, I believe that Paul Armstrong looted his own bank. I believe he has a million at least, as the result, and that he will never come back. I'm worse than a pauper now. I can't ask Louise to share nothing a year with me, and when I think of this disgrace for her, I'm

CHAPTER XI.

Halsey Makes a Capture.

It was about half-past eight when we left the dining room, and still engrossed with one subject, the failure of the bank and its attendant evils, # Halsey and I went out into the grounds for a stroll. Gertrude followed us shortly. "The light was thickening," to appropriate Shakespeare's description of twilight, and once again the tree-toads and the crickets were making night throb with their tiny life. It was almost oppressively lonely, in spite of its beauty, and I felt a sickening pang of homesickness for my city at nightfor the clatter of horses' feet on cemented paving, for the lights, the voices, the sound of children playing. The country after dark oppresses me. The stars, quite eclipsed in the city by the electric lights, here become insistent, assertive. Whether I want to or not, I find myself looking for the few I know by name, and feeling ridiculously new and small by contrast -always an unpleasant sensation. After Gertrude joined us, we avoided any further mention of the murder. To Halsey, as to me, there was ever present, I am sure, the thought of our conversation of the night before. As we strolled back and forth along the drive, Mr. Jamieson emerged from the shadow of the trees.

I could see that under pretense of examining his injury he was watching her through the mirror.

"Is this one of the servants' blankets, Mrs. Watson?" I asked, holding up its luxurious folds to the light. "Everything else is locked away." she replied. Which was true enough, no doubt. I had rented the house

She drew herself up quickly, as if in protest, but she found nothing to say. She stood smoothing the folds of her dead black dress, her face as white as chalk above it. Then she seemed to make up her mind.

"Very well, Mr. Innes," she said. Perhaps you would better go. I have done all I could."

And then she turned and went up the circular staircase, moving slowly and with a certain dignity. Below, the three of us stared at one another across the intervening white blanket.

"Upon my word," Halsey broke out, this place is a walking nightmare. I have the feeling that we three outsiders who have paid our money for the privilege of staying in this spookfactory, are living on the very top of things. We're on the lid, so to speak. Now and then we get a sight of the things inside, but we are not a part

"Do you suppose," Gertrude asked doubtfully, "that she really meant that blanket for Thomas?"

"Thomas was standing beside that magnolia tree," Halsey replied, when I ran after Mrs. Watson. It's down to this, Aunt Ray. Rosie's basket and Mrs. Watson's blanket can only mean one thing: There is somebody hiding or being hidden in the lodge. It wouldn't surprise me if we hold the key to the whole situation now. Anyhow, I'm going to the lodge to investigate."

Gertrude wanted to go, too, but she looked so shaken that I insisted she should not. I sent for Liddy to help her to bed, and then Halsey and I started for the lodge. The grass was heavy with dew, and, man-like, Halsey chose the shortest way across the lawn. Half way, however, he stopped.

"We'd better go by the drive," he said. "This isn't a lawn; it's a field. Where's the gardener these days?" "There isn't any," I said meekly.

"We have been thankful enough, so far, to have our meals prepared and served and the beds aired. The gardener who belongs here is working at

"Remind me to-morrow to send out a man from town," he said. "I know the very fellow."

I record this scrap of conversation, just as I have tried to put down anything and everything that had a bearing on what followed, because the gardener Halsey sent the next day played an important part in the events of the next few weeks-events that culminated as you know, by stirring the country profoundly. At that time, however, I was busy trying to keep my skirts dry, and paid little or no attention to what seemed then a most trivial remark.

At the lodge everything was quiet. There was a light in the sitting room downstairs, and a faint gleam, as if from a shaded lamp, in one of the upper rooms. Halsey stopped and examined the lodge with calculating

"I don't know, Aunt Ray," he said dubiously; "this is hardly a woman's affair. If there's a scrap of any kind, you hike for the timber." Which was Halsey's solicitous care for me, put into vernacular.

"I'll stay right here," I said, and crossing the small veranda, now shaded and fragrant with honeysuckle, I hammered the knocker on Yesterday the inhabitants of Lewisham were provided with a specimen of that curious phenomenon known as 'globular lightning." THE STATE OF TEXAS: To the Sheriff or any Constable of Lynu County-Greeting:

You are hereby commanded to summon, by making publication of this citation and notice once a week for eight consecutive weeks previous to the return day hereof in some newspaper published in Lynn County, Texas, J. S. Bannister, whose residence is unknown, the unknown heirs of J. S. Bannister, whose names and residences are unknown, aud all other unknown persons, whose namer and residences are unknown, to whom the hereinafter described property belongs, to be and appear before a sitting of the undersigned Special Commissioners, duly and legally appointed and qualified, to be holden at the court room in the court house of Lynn County, Texas in the town of Tahoka, the county seat of said Lynn County, Texas, on the 7th day of November, A. D. 1910, at 10 o'clock a. m., then and there to answer the statement and petition for condemnation of the Pecos & Northern Texas Railway Company filed with the County Judge of Lynn County, Texas, on the 7th day of September A. D. 1910, in a suit wherein said The Pecos & Northern Texas Railway Company is plaintiff and J. S. Bannister, the unknown heirs of J. S. Bannister and all other unknown persons to whom the hereinafter described property belongs, whose names and residences are unknown, are defendants.

The nature of plaintiff's suit is as follows, to wit:

·Plaintiff alleges that: Plaintiff, The Pecos & Northern Texas Railway Company, is a corporation duly incorporated, organized and existing under and by virtue of the laws of the State of Texas for the purpose of locating, constructing, owning, maintaining and operating a railroad through the county of Lynn, in the State of Texas, and through certain other counties in Texas, and that by the terms of its charter it is duly authorized to locate, construct, own. maintain and operate its railroad through said Lynn County and through other counties in the State of Texas, and that it has its principal office in the City of Amarillo in Potter County, Texas.

That said defendant J. S. Bannis-

A Possible Use.

"These ostriches," said the traveler, "are huge, ungainly birds, and once you have despoiled them of their plumes, it seems to me that they would simply be an incumbrance. Why do you keep so many of them about? They are not good to eat; they can't sing; their eggs are not usable, and-"

Here the native interrupted him.

ELL read deeply learned and thoroughly grounded in the hidden knowledge of all kinds of salads and all potherbs whatsoever."-Beaumont

The Making of Salads.

Within the last few years salads have advanced in favor with us, until now they form an important part of many meals. Salads are especially popular during the summer months, when a little or no meat is eaten. For a good salad there must be three things considered-a good dressing. good materials and a judgment in combining ingredients.

In the beginning let us remember that the best green salads are those that have been well chilled before they are put into the salad bowl for mixing. The arrangement and garnishing of a salad is often all that distinguishes a tempting, appetizing and wholesome one from one decidedly the reverse. The vinegar used in salad dressings is an important item. Tarragon vinegar is not used as extensively as formerly, though it is still a favorite with many. Celery allowed to steep in vinegar for a few weeks gives it a flavor well liked. The addition of a few drops of maple sirup to malt vinegar gives a zest to a salad dressing, quite new, and the sweetness imparted is liked by many.

At this season of the year there is a great variety of leafy salads. The different varieties of lettuce, water cress and the tender shoots of nasturtium are all good. Excellent salads can be made of almost any vegetable. Boiled fresh mushrooms make a delightful salad when mixed with a French salad dressing containing a little mustard.

The common chicken salad, when we can afford to have it, seems like a new salad when the white meat is cut in thin slices and cold slaw is substituted instead of celery.

Summer Soups.

Necessity is teaching many people that they can live without flesh foods. If enough thought and judgment is used in the selection and combination of the almost endless variety of cereals, fruits, vegetables and nuts, so easily available for human food, they will find themselves in far better health physically, mentally and morally For we are told that flesh eaters are apt to be savage in disposition.

To aid the housewife in the attempt to serve nutritious soups without the expensive meats the following recipes will perhaps be suggestive:

Egg Soup. Beat three eggs until light, then add half cupful of thick sweet cream and one cupful of milk; pour over this two quarts of boiling water. Set over the fire, and when boiling hot season to taste and pour over broken bread in the tureen and serve.

Mixed Vegetable Soup. Take six potatoes, two small turnips, two carrots, a bunch of celery and a slice of toast. Chop the vegetables all together and simmer in six quarts of water about three hours. Rub through a sleve and season to taste. The toast is cooked with the soup and serves as a binding.

Almond Soup.

Blanch and pound a quarter of a pound of almonds, cook in a pint of fresh milk, put through a sieve, sweeten, add a little salt, reheat, add the juice of an orange and serve.

Lemon Soup. Make a strong, hot lemonade, thicken slightly with cornstarch, cook until | made of egg yolk, a little milk, butter with a piece of preserved ginger or a cherry in each glass. Orange, pineapple, grape and cherry soups are prepared in the same way.

A few drops of German cologne in the water when washing the hair gives it a delicate odor that is quite lasting.

Household Hints. When dampening clothes for ironing use water as hot as can be borne by the hand or use a whisk broom kept for the purpose. The clothes can be froned in a very short time after sprinkling. A point worth remembering in hot weather when it is not always wise to sprinkle them over night.

INDEPENDENCE ON THE FARM

SPLENDID RESULTS FOLLOW FARMING IN THE CANADIAN WEST.

Americans in Canada Not Asked to Forget That They Were Born Americans.

Farm produce today is remunerative, and this helps to make farm life agreeable. Those who are studying the economics of the day tell us that the strength of the nation lies in the cultivation of the soil. Farming is no longer a hand-to-mouth existence. It means independence, often affluence, but certainly independence.

Calling at a farm house, near one of the numerous thriving towns of Alberta, in Western Canada, the writer was given a definition of "independence" that was accepted as quite original. The broad acres of the farmer's land had a crop-and a splendid one, too, by the way-ripening for the reapers' work. The evenness of the crop, covering field after field, attractcedar or hemlock will be found equal ed attention, as did also the neatness to wax. Care should be used in rub of the surroundings, the well-built sub-His broken English-he was a French Canadian-was easily understandable and pleasant to listen to. He had come there from Montreal a year ago, had paid $20 an acre for the 320-acre farm, with the little improvement it Crinkle cloth needs no ironing, and had. He had never farmed before, yet in its preparation. And brains count in farming as well as "braw." Asked how he liked it there, he straightened his broad shoulders, and with hand outstretched towards the waving fields of grain, this young French Canadian, model of symmetrical build, replied: "Be gosh, yes, we like him-the farmin'-well, don't we, Jeannette?" as he smilingly turned to the young wife standing near. She had accompanied him from Montreal to his farwest home, to assist him by her wifely help and companionship, in making a Sift the flour holding the sieve high new home in this new land. "Yes, we de' right, an' de farmer he say de' mean t'ing, be gosh! and tell us go to -well, anyway he tarn mad. Now," and then he waved his hand again towards the fields, "I 'ave no bodder, no cardin' mill, no gris' mill, no cheese factor'. I am now de farmer man an' when me want to, me can say to de like him-the farmin'." And that was | said in part: a good definition of independence.

Throughout a trip of several hunthe thousands on the American side of the line to know that their relacountry that stands up so splendidly under what has been trying conditions in most of the northwestern part of the farming districts of the continent. With the exception of some portions of Southern Alberta, and also a portion of Manitoba and Southern Saskatchewan the grain crops could be described as fair, good and excellent. The same drought that affected North and South Dakota, Montana, Minnesota, Wisconsin and other of the northern central states extended over into a portion of Canada just mentioned. But in these portions the crops for the past four or five years were splendid and the yields good.

The great province of Saskatchewan has suffered less from drought in proportion to her area under cultivation been re-sown to feed. There are 12dividual crops which will run as high as 45 bushels on acres of 500 and 1,000 acres, but there are others which will drop as low as 15. A safe average for winter wheat will be 19 bushels. The sample is exceptionally fine, excepting in a few cases where it has been wrinkled by extreme heat.

The northern section of Alberta has been naturally anxious to impress the world with the fact that it has not suffered from drought, and this is quite true. Wheat crops run from 20 to 30 bushels to an acre, but in a report such as this it is really only possible to deal with the province as a whole and while the estimate may seem very low to the people of Alberta, it is fair to the province throughout.

When the very light rainfall and other eccentricities of the past season are taken into account, it seems nothing short of a miracle that the Canadian West should have produced 102 million bushels of wheat, which is less than 18 million bushels short of the crop of 1909. It is for the West generally a paying crop and perhaps the best advertisement the country has ever had, as it shows that no matter how dry the year, with thorough tillage, good seed and proper methods of conserving the moisture, a crop can always be produced.

As some evidence of the feeling of the farmers, are submitted letters written by farmers but a few days ago, and they offer the best proof that run the number of county shows can be given.

Maidstone, Sask., Aug. 4, '10. I came to Maidstone from Menominee, Wis., four years ago, with my parents and two brothers. We all located homesteads at that time and now have our patents. The soil is a rich black loam as good as I have ever Wheat yielding from 22 to 40 dence as to the quality of the soil, and bushels per acre and oats from 40 to the good judgment that had been used | 80. We are well pleased with the country and do not care to return to our native state. I certainly believe that Saskatchewan is just the place for a hustler to get a start and make himself a home. Wages here for farm labor range from $35 to $45 per month. Lee Dow.

Tofield, Alberta, July 10, 1910. I am a native of Texas, the largest and one of the very best states of the Union. I have been here three years and have not one desire to return to the States to live. There is no place I know of that offers such splendid inducements for capital, brain and for your trip. Take this from one who's on the ground. We enjoy splendid government, laws, school, railway facilities, health, and last, but not least, an ideal climate, and this from

O. L. Pughs. James Normur of Porter, Wisconsin, after visiting Dauphin, Manitoba, says: "I have been in Wisconsin 25 years, coming out from Norway. Never have I seen better land and the crops in East Dauphin are better than I have ever seen, especially the oats. There is more straw and it has heavier heads than ours in Wisconsin. "This is just the kind of land we are looking for. We are all used to mixed farming and the land we have seen is finely adapted to that sort of work. Cattle, hogs, horses and grain will be my products, and for the live stock, prospects could not be better. I have never seen such cattle as are raised here on the wild prairie grasses and the vetch that stands three or four feet high in the groves and on the open prairie.

Sir Wilfred Laurier Talks to Amerlcans.

Sir Wilfred Laurier, Premier of Canada, is now making a tour of Western Canada and in the course of his tour he has visited many of the districts in which Americans have settled. He expresses himself as highly pleased with them. At Craig, Saskatchewan, the American settlers joined with the others in an address oder fellow! you go-! Well, we of welcome. ## STATE FAIR READY FOR OPENIN

New Buildings Are Be Completed, Ground Cleaned and Exhibits Installed

The State Fair Grounds at 0 homa City is the center of much ac ity in preparation for the Fourth nual Exposition which will be September 27 to October 9. Men a teams are at work cleaning up grounds, putting the numerous bal ings in a state of cleanliness, and it ing the finishing touches to the buildings. The new $40,000 Livesto Pavilion will be completed on the for the Livestock Judging and the teresting events of the First Annual Horse Show.

Seventeen counties have made plication for space for collective and cultural exhibits. This is seven more than the number displaying last yes The management is working hard to twenty-five, and each county show ma'e an exhibit.

A large number of fancy hor have been entered for the First A nual Horse Show which will be be in the new Livestock Pavilion night from October 3 to 7. A bookie was recently issued giving detailed i formation concerning the different classes provided for and is being mailed to all who apply for it.

Beginning September 1, the ground and various exhibition buildings wen opened to exhibitors and the saw an hammer brigade is doing full time for the folks who are getting things read for state people to see and talk about for a year to come. Never was the management in position to give state fair visitors more for their money never were the grounds furnished with as many modern conveniences. #### "THE POWER AND THE GLORY"

In one of the great cotton mills of Massachusetts may be found a certain desk to which a secret button is at tached. Whenever a government in spector comes near to see that the state's child labor law is being enforced, this button is pressed and warning is sent to every room in the factory. Immediately, all children under the legal age are scuttled into hiding places prepared for just such emergencies, and the inspector finds the mill within the law. It is not about the mills of Massa chusetts, the state which shouts aloud her superiority in things governmen tal, but the southern cotton mill, which Grace MacGowan Cooke has writted about in her powerful story, "The Power and the Glory," just published by Doubleday, Page & Company. Her heroine is a superb example of updaunted hope and courage, and you see clearly the power and the glory in her splendid struggle and ultimate success.

LITERARY NOTES.

Keene to Retire From Turf.

Antirace legislation is likely to result in the retirement from the turf of James R. Keene, vice-chairman of the Jockey club, who for many years has been one of the largest winners in the country, says a New York disof patch to the Chicago Journal.

Mr. Keene says that he will retain about ten of his yearlings to be raced develop them himself. Plank, Benfor sold next year. The others will be disposed of at public auction.

PROBLEMS MANY YEARS OLD

Children of Today Puzzle Over Them Just as They Did a Thousand Years Ago.

When King Alfred the Great was reigning over England, a thousand years ago, school children pondered over problems in arithmetic much as our boys and girls do now.

Here are two taken word for word from a lesson book of that day:

"The swallow once invited the snail to dinner. He lived just one league (three English miles) from the spot, and the snail traveled at the rate of only one inch a day. How long would it be before he dined?"

"An old man met a child. 'Goodday, my son,' he said. 'May you live as long as you have lived, and as much more, and thrice as much as all this; and if God gives you one year in addition to the others, you will be a century old!' What was that boy's age?"-The Comrade.

P. T. Barnum, the famous circus man, once wrote: "I have had the Cuticura Remedies among the contents of my medicine chest with my shows for the last three seasons, and I can cheerfully certify that they were very effective in every case which called for their use."

Source of Revelation.

Twenty-seven new, crisp $1 bills, says Harper's Weekly, weigh as much as a $20 gold piece. Wouldn't have thought it, and have no means of proving the assertion, but if so it is probably owing in some way to the recent activity of the inspectors of weights and measures.

Opportunity of Suffragist.

Baroness Aletta Korff tells in one of the magazines how the women of Finland came to vote. The fact is that women had to show that they could meet an emergency before the vote came to them. They have not had many opportunities to take the initiative in the world's history and they have not always responded when the opportunity came, but when a crisis, such as that in 1904, when the strike and the revolutionary outbreak in Russia took place at the same time, occurred, they proved they could make peace by doing it. Not until England and the United States find the women helping them to bear some great trouble will they give them the right to vote.

Strong Healthy Women If a woman is strong and healthy in a womanly way, motherhood means to her but little suffering. The trouble lies in the fact that the many women suffer from weakness and disease of the distinctly feminine organism and are unfitted for motherhood. This can be remedied.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription

Cures the weaknesses and disorders of women. It acts directly on the delicate and important organs concerned in motherhood, making them healthy, strong, vigorous, virile and elastic.

"Favorite Prescription" banishes the indispositions of the period of expectancy and makes baby's advent easy and almost painless. It quickens and vitalizes the feminine organs, and insures a healthy and robust baby. Thousands of women have testified to its marvelous merits.

It Makes Weak Women Strong. It Makes Sick Women Well. Honest druggists do not offer substitutes, and urge them upon you as "just as good." Accept no secret nostrum in place of this non-secret remedy. It contains not a drop of alcohol and not a grain of habit-forming or injurious drugs. Is a pure glyceric extract of healing, native American roots.
