Cemetery Vandalism Reported In County

What kind of person would tear up grave markers or break tombstones?

Vandalism has been reported recently in East Mound Cemetery and seems to be on the increase.

The Matador Tribune has been authorized to announce that anyone caught vandalizing anything on the cemetery property will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law.

Anyone having information concerning this vandalism is urged to call the Motley County Sheriff's Office.

Residents are also asked to report suspicious vehicles in the cemetery area, especially at night.

University To Honor Karen Elliott House

The University of California at Los Angeles will honor three outstanding journalists, including Karen Elliott House, at an awards dinner, Nov. 16 at the Beverly Hills Hilton Hotel in Los Angeles.

The two other recipients will be Ted Koppel, anchor man of ABC-TV's Nightline show and Ted Turner, owner of Cable News Network, a new 24-hour news network that is competing with the three big networks - ABC, CBS, and NBC.

Mrs. House, chief diplomatic correspondent of the Wall Street Journal, will receive the University's journalism excellence award for her coverage of the Middle East, particularly her two stories in April about King Hussein of Jordan and his dilemma over whether to join the mid-east peace plan proposed by President Reagan.

William Safire, who writes for the New York Times, and whose columns appear in a number of other newspapers, including the Dallas Morning News, in a release dated April 20 wrote: During his recent courtship by President Reagan, King Hussein of Jordan granted more than 20 interviews to Karen Elliott House, correspondent of the Wall Street Journal. Her Pulitzer-worthy articles give a running diary of the king's thoughts as he was impounded by the Americans.

Turner is being honored for his pioneering work on cable television and Koppel for pioneering late-night news shows. Nightline began when the hostages were taken in Iran, as a half-hour nightly show and is now an hour show.

FHA To Sell Products

The Motley County FHA will be selling Stanley Products through Nov. 17, 1983. If you can be of service to you, contact any FHA member or Syd Pipkin at 347-2453.

This is our money making project that helps send our FHA girls to District and State Meetings. Thank you for your support.

airing 11:30 p.m. to 12:30 a.m.

The award is given annually by the University to recognize outstanding journalism. Past recipients include Washington Post publisher, Katherine Graham, former CBS anchorman Walter Cronkite, ABC-TV's David Brinkley, and others.

Last year Mrs. House won the National Press Club's Edwin M. Hood award for excellence in diplomatic reporting for a 5-part series on Saudi Arabia that ran in the Journal. In 1979, she won the Edward Weintal award for excellence in diplomatic reporting from the Georgetown University School of Foreign Affairs.

While winning awards and receiving recognition have been pleasing rewards for her efforts, the work has been strenuous, and the younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Elliott admits that a desk job will relieve the tensions of carry-on bags and misplaced luggage containing necessary clothes and other necessities for a diplomatic dinner during an overseas assignment.

After five years as chief diplomatic correspondent at the Journal's Washington bureau, Mrs. House is assuming an office in New York as deputy foreign editor of the Journal. In this job, she will manage foreign correspondents, edit their copy and also will continue to do some writing.

Matadors Lose 26-6 To Aspermont Hornets

A strong first half by Aspermont Hornets helped the Hornets post a 26-6 win over Motley County in Matador last Friday night.

The Matadors tabulated their only points in the fourth quarter when quarterback Richard Potts ran in from one yard out.

"We played hard against Aspermont, but they still outplayed us," Coach Danny Williams said. "We had trouble blocking them on offense and we could not stop their running game on defense."

Williams praised Potts for "a real good job of running the option play" for the Matadors. He also said Richard and Rodney Doran each had an interception. The coach also pointed out that Darrell Moore blocked a Hornet extra point attempt.

A 6-yard touchdown run by Hornet Glover Miller opened the scoring in the first quarter. In the second stanza, Miller scored two TD's, with runs of 15 and 7 yards.

The Matadors, now at 2-7 in season play, rushed the ball 176 yards, to the Hornets 242 yards.

The Matadors will travel to Knox City for the final game of the year Friday night. MC fans are urged to attend and support the Matadors.

Marjoria Harper

Former Resident Named Outstanding Citizen

Mrs. J. M. Harper of Mt. Pleasant, Iowa, the former Marjoria Moore of Matador, recently was named Outstanding Citizen of 1983 at the annual Chamber of Commerce banquet there.

A daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Moore, Mrs. Harper is a 1937 graduate of Matador High School, but has lived in Mt. Pleasant a number of years. She is a sister of local residents, Mrs. Olive Russell and Mrs. John Hamilton.

Following is an excerpt from the Mt. Pleasant Daily News, by the editor and publisher, Bill Epperheimer, reporting the event:

Her given name is Marjoria, but she prefers the more informal Marge. The informality carries over to her speech, which sports strong vestiges of a down-home Texas drawl.

It also carries over to her activities in Mt. Pleasant. She speaks her mind without pretense in public meetings, and those who work with and serve with her on various boards are nudged and sometimes prodded.

Her goal is always the same -- do something to improve the community. It's a style which has produced results.

Thursday night (Oct. 20), Marge Harper was honored for her accomplishments by being named Outstanding Citizen of 1983 at the annual Chamber of Commerce banquet.

In her acceptance speech, she gave credit to others rather than herself -- and nudged a little, too, by urging more people to become involved in helping improve Mt. Pleasant.

Mrs. Harper is the 11th person to receive the Outstanding Citizen award, which dates back to 1972. The award was presented with a detailed account of her activities which led to her selection.

She served for six years on the Mt. Pleasant Community School District Board of directors, and was president of the board for one year.

She was appointed to the Planning and Zoning Commission in 1974 and has served as its chairman since 1978. She is president of the Area Betterment Council and in that capacity has been involved in a number of projects, including spearheading Mt. Pleasant's participation in the annual Iowa Community Betterment Contest.

She also was instrumental in the project which resulted in the design of the city flag, and most recently in a county-wide effort in cooperation with law enforcement authorities to fingerprint young children.

She also has been active in women's groups, Old Threshers, and Quester organizations.

President Reagan On Bible Week

In designating November 20-27 as National Bible Week, President Ronald Reagan issued the following message:

The 1983 National Bible Week observance is especially important because it culminates the Year of the Bible, a nationwide celebration of the importance of the Bible in the lives of the American people.

This great land was founded on the principles espoused in the Holy Bible, and our people live by its teachings today. From the time of our earliest and most humble origins, the Bible has played a vital role in our lives, providing comfort and guiding our pathways. It has served as a constant inspiration to our citizens and a source of strength to our leaders. President Jackson called the Bible "the rock on which our Republic rests." Though the problems we face today are different and in many respects more complex than those which confronted the Founding Fathers, we continue to need the spirit, faith and wisdom which the Bible provides. These attributes are an essential part of America's greatness. Only by forging a foundation of spiritual resolve can we claim the blessings and promises of God. As President Calvin Coolidge wrote, "If American democracy is to remain the greatest hope of humanity, it must continue abundantly in the faith of the Bible."

As we observe this National Bible Week, let us pledge ourselves always to be mindful of the generous Heavenly Father from whom all blessings flow. Let us continue to work diligently to preserve our heritage of freedom and to pray that someday it may be enjoyed by all the peoples of the planet Earth.

Ranchers Continue Fight With Brush

By Kevin L. Wright

Undesirable brush on rangeland is a major conservation problem in the Upper Pease Soil and Water Conservation District. Brush uses valuable moisture needed for grass production. The encroachment of brush deteriorates range condition and makes herd management difficult.

Last year over 20,000 acres of rangeland in the District were treated with some type of brush control. Brush control methods used were mechanical, chemical, prescribed burns, and a combination of the three. Mechanical control included chaining, discing, root plowing and roller chopping.

Chemical control included the use of 2,4,5-T, Glaskan and the Grazon chemicals. Prescribed burning is another tool used in conjunction with mechanical and chemical brush control. Prescribed burning removes dead litter and suppresses regrowth of major brush species.

Regardless of what type of brush control is used, deferment is needed following the

Life In Appalachia Described For Club

The book is fiction, but its contents are so realistic one can fairly see the events unfold through the pen of Lee Smith, author of "Oral History," which was reviewed for El Progreso Club by Mrs. W. N. Pipkin, at the club's regular Oct. 27 meeting. Locale of the history is the Appalachian mountain range in North Carolina and (or) Tennessee. The author doesn't reveal exactly which.

The club meeting was held at the Summit Savings Community Room, with Mrs. Robert Darsey as hostess. Business was conducted by the president, Mrs. John Hamilton. A Federation Report was made by Mrs. Harold Campbell, who, with Mrs. Robert Dickson attended a Santa Rosa District fall board meeting and workshop, Oct. 15 in Iowa Park.

Mrs. Dickson, Poet Laureate for Santa Rosa District, had been requested to compose a poem on Federation Clubwomen, which she read and for which was applauded at that meeting.

Mrs. W. D. Lipscomb, program leader, read the yearbook quotation: "Education is the shortest distance between savagery and civilization" by R. B. Cousins, and presented Mrs. Pipkin, a member of the club, for her review.

As an introduction, Mrs. Pipkin read, a poem, "Appalachian Woman -- Old Before My Time," and Mrs. Frank Pohl played several short Appalachian folk songs on her Casio keyboard, using a string ensemble setting. These included Joys of Quebec, Flopeared Mule, Maggie In the Wood, La Toque Bleu, Come Up the Back Stairs, and Ralph Page Jig.

Oral History covers Appalachia tragedy and earthy human splendor in folklore tales through several generations of "Hoot and Holler" residents as related by old Granny Younger, to Jennifer, of the youngest generation who comes to the holler to do some taping for an oral history project.

"I been here a long time," says Granny Younger. "I know what I know. I know more'n I want to tell you and more'n you want to know."

The story winds down through the generations as each voice in turn takes up the tale, and Jennifer hears much more than she wants to know.

Mrs. Smith teaches at North Carolina State University in Raleigh and is the author of four previous novels and a collection of short stories called "Cakewalk."

Mrs. Darsey served coffee and cake from a refreshment table festive with autumn and Halloween decorations. Present, in addition to those mentioned were, Mesdames Joe Campbell, Una Simpson, O. W. Overstreet, Douglas Meador, E. A. Day, Furman Vinson, Ted Elliott, Phil Green and R. E. Campbell Jr., Miss Mary Keith and Miss Rachel Patton.

2 million miles later

After putting up more than 2 million miles of line, America's 1,000 rural electric systems are going strong, providing reliable electric service to more than 25 million people across the countryside.

It's as much of a challenge today as it was when that first mile of line was energized nearly 50 years ago. We still have fewer than five families per mile of line on the average nationwide. We still must invest a lot per consumer to provide electric service across some of the most difficult, remote terrain in the country. Our average gross annual revenue is still the lowest in the utility industry, less than 10 percent of what the power companies collect per mile of line.

And, the demand for electric service continues to grow in rural America, as nearly a million people each year move into areas served by the rural electric network, as business and industry find new homes in the countryside.

We're on the job—2 million miles later—doing our best for the people we serve—our consumer-members.

Winterize your home for lower electric bills.

Follow Reddy's tips this winter to help you save money on your electric bills:

CALL YOUR HEATING SERVICE SPECIALIST NOW.
Have your heating unit checked NOW by a qualified specialist to put it into top operating condition. Not only will you minimize the possibility of a costly and uncomfortable breakdown in the middle of winter, you also will help to keep down home operating costs. Have it serviced early, before your serviceman or dealer has a waiting list.

SET YOUR THERMOSTAT AT 68 DEGREES OR LOWER.
Leave your thermostat at 68 degrees or lower in the winter during the daytime, and turn it down a few degrees when you retire at night.

ADD TO THE INSULATION IN YOUR CEILING AND WALLS.
Insulation comes in rolls, loose fill or batts. The "Resistance-value", or "R-value", indicates the ability of a material to keep heat from passing through it. The higher the "R-value", the more heat the insulation will keep inside in winter and outside in summer. Values up to R-30 in the ceiling and R-16 in the walls are recommended in these areas.

KEEP CAULKING AND WEATHERSTRIPPING IN GOOD SHAPE.
Sealing of cracks around doors, windows, pipes and wiring should be done to help you save on both heating and cooling costs. Polyurethane or similar caulking, plus felt or foam rubber products, come in easy-to-install form at most hardware stores and will help to draft-proof your home.

Instant Household Hints

By Catherine Hendersor

If we had a crisis here of some kind, like a jet wall of rain or a storm and we had drinking water in the ice box, oatmeal, wheat, or barley cereal in jars and a few beans, it would be nice. I haven't heard that we can't have a disaster.

1. If you will melt paraffin and line your flower pot or container before putting the flower in, your pot will last longer.

2. If a human being should bite you and break the skin, go to a doctor immediately. A human bite is more dangerous than a dog bite. You will probably catch any disease this person might have.

3. Some people are talking about the youngsters maturing sooner than they used to. The reason is good food; the light does it. They sit under a good warm light all day. One hundred years ago they sat with wet shoes on all day, and no lights, just the sunshine. Chewed tobacco and dipped snuff.

4. "How many people know their best earthly friend?" Your friend is the earthworm. While you are sleeping, he is cultivating your land, and eats all little minute germs and parasites that would be harmful to us. Not many people would be here without the earthworm. Then we put our friend on a fishhook.

Social Security News

Many people in the local area who are approaching retirement have recently become aware of the "notch" problem. The so-called notch

The so-called notch came about because of the 1977 Social Security amendments. The effect of the notch is that a person who reached 65 before 1982 receives higher Social Security benefits than a person who reaches 65 after 1981 even though both persons had identical lifetime earnings.

Before the 1977 law, benefits were increasing both as the cost of living increased and covered wages increased. This was the unintended effect of making cost-of-living benefit increases automatic and was causing severe financial problems for Social Security.

The 1977 law provided that before a person reached 62, benefit rates would only go up as covered earnings rose. After 62 a person would get the benefit of cost-of-living increases.

The result is that a person who became 65 in 1981 had his or her benefit rate figured under the old law and a person who became 65 in 1982 and later had his or her benefit figured under the new law and received less.

One reason benefit rates are different under the two systems is that under the old system, earnings were counted at their actual value. Because maximum covered earnings had been increasing rapidly in recent years—from $17,700 in 1978 to $29,700 in 1981—these earnings had a big impact on benefit rates.

Under the new system, however, actual earnings for years before a person reached 61 are adjusted for increases in average earnings over the years. As a result, recent years of higher earnings do not have as great an impact on benefit rates.

To help people who were approaching retirement at the time the 1977 law was passed, a transitional period was given. During the transition, a modified version of the old law could be used.

The transitional method provided higher benefits for a few years and applied to workers who reached 62 after 1978 and before 1984. Now, however, the new method results in higher benefits for almost everyone.

Hance Is Critical Of '84 Cotton Program

U.S. Rept. Kent Hance (D-Texas) has criticized Secretary of Agriculture John Block's plan requiring a 25 percent acreage reduction program for 1984's upland cotton crop, saying the plan encourages over-production and could be a burden on the 1984 budget.
 "Although Secretary Block said we have made progress in bringing cotton supplies into line with demand, Hance noted, "his latest plan will attract only limited participation from cotton farmers."
 "Farmers believe that higher prices for their crops are on the way," Hance added, "and the Agriculture Department's announced cotton program will encourage farmers to plant row to row and fence to fence. If they do that, we will be faced with a surplus carryover and lower prices, and any benefits of the Payment-In-Kind (PIK) program will be lost."

Hance said the USDA needs to provide an incentive for American farmers to participate in a set-aside program.
 "If the farmers do not participate in large numbers," Hance added, "it is quite possible that a deficiency payment of 26 cents a pound will be made to all farmers in the program. The impact on the federal budget would be staggering."

Hance pointed out that a plan calling for a

Treat Your Thanksgiving Guests To... VEGETABLES FRANCAISE

Iceberg lettuce is usually a salad staple, but in "Vegetables Francaise" this year-round produce combines with peas, onions and delicate seasonings to create a dish with continental flair.
 Using a combination boiling-steaming method, all the vegetables are cooked in the same pan, making clean-up a snap. Small white onions are boiled in a covered saucepan. After about five minutes, a steamer basket with frozen peas is added to the pan. The water continues cooking the onions, while the steam cooks the peas. When the vegetables are barely tender, shredded iceberg lettuce is layered over the peas and steamed ever so slightly. The lettuce retains its crispness yet acquires a new, distinctive taste. Melted butter seasoned with nutmeg and tarragon is drizzled over all the vegetables once they are arranged in a serving dish, creating a gourmet's delight.
 Although easy enough for every day, "Vegetable Francaise" is an excellent holiday side dish. Its delicate flavor complements all aspects of a traditional turkey dinner. With the short preparation and clean up time, it is a dish every one, especially the cook, is sure to enjoy.

- VEGETABLES FRANCAISE
 1 medium head iceberg lettuce
 2 cups water
 Salt
 1 pound small white boiling onions
 1 package (10-ounce) frozen green peas
 1/2 cup butter melted
 1/2 teaspoon margarine
 1/2 teaspoon tarragon, crumbled
 1/8 teaspoon nutmeg
 Core, rinse and thoroughly drain lettuce; chill in disposable plastic bag or plastic crispier. Heat water with 1 teaspoon salt to boiling in a 2 1/2-quart saucepan. Add onions, and cook, covered, 10 to 15 minutes depending on size of onions, until almost tender. Place steamer basket in saucepan over onions, add peas to basket. Cover and steam until tender-crisp. Meanwhile shred lettuce coarsely to measure 6 cups. Add to steamer basket and steam 2 to 3 minutes until heated through. Mound lettuce in center of serving dish. Arrange peas and drained onions around lettuce. Mix butter with tarragon and nutmeg; drizzle over vegetables. Makes 6 servings.
