Harvest Puts New Life In Business

BUSINESS rose out of half a dozen years of lethargy Saturday in Matador and Roaring Springs and "boomed" at a tempo that was reminiscent of an almost forgotten era. In almost every instance stores were filled to capacity and other places of business experienced more traffic than at any time since pre-drouth days.

Cold Snap Scheduled

COLDER weather is scheduled for this area by the time the Tribune reaches its readers this week. Freezing temperatures have been forecast by the early hours this morning.
The Lubbock Avalanche predicted possible drizzle for today. The mercury had dropped some yesterday afternoon and a stiff north wind indicated lower mercury readings might be expected.
Cotton in some "low places" in the county shows that light frost last week had brought the first definite sign that winter is at hand.

"LAND TURNED TO COTTON" — Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Carpenter are shown in their 2.8 acres cotton patch in the city limits of Roaring Springs. Four bales have been gathered from the small plot which may average more than 2½ bales per acre. Mr. Carpenter said he planted, cultivated and irrigated the cotton according to signs of Zodiac. Pickers are recruited from women and school children in the community. Mrs. Carpenter pulls cotton through the day while her husband operates their blacksmith and welding shop.

Zodiac Signs Used In Planting Cotton

Signs of the Zodiac influenced the planting, cultivation and irrigation of a 2.8 acres cotton patch in Roaring Springs that may average 2½ bales per acre.
J. M. Carpenter, a Roaring Springs blacksmith and welder, planted the cotton May 12. It was watered from a small irrigation well which produces only 60 gallons per minute. Carpenter already has gathered four bales from the land and apparently another two bales are open. Giant green bolls indicate that the total yield may be in excess of 2½ bales per acre.
Inside City Limits
The cotton is about four blocks from the postoffice, inside the city limits of Roaring Springs. No fertilizer was used. The rich soil is in a small valley off Shinnery Draw.
"My neighbors laughed at me," Carpenter said, "but I planted, irrigated and cultivated the cotton according to signs of the Zodiac, and advice in a small book I ordered from a publishing house in Arkansas.
"I started irrigating when I found the first bloom in the patch," Carpenter said, "and I quit irrigating when I found the first open boll."
All the seed, Lankart 57 Improved, is being saved for planting. Of three bales Carpenter has sold, two graded 31-32 and one, 1 inch.
Mr. and Mrs. Carpenter came to Roaring Springs in 1929 and he has operated the blacksmith and welding shop continuously during the period.
One isolated stalk of cotton in the field counted 150 bolls before the crop started to mature.

Editor's Note: Following is the obituary write-up of the late Lee Guthrie, from the Wheeler Times. Mr. Guthrie was a former Matador business man who was highly regarded by all who knew him, here and elsewhere.

Hearts were saddened not only in Wheeler, but over the entire area, as word went out Thursday of the death of Lee Guthrie, 80, who had been in poor health for several months, passing away Thursday, October 29, at the Wheeler Hospital at the age of 57 years, 11 months and 18 days.

Homemaker's Hints

By Ruth Wilson
Home Demonstration Agent

For recreation Tuesday, Oct. 21, the Flomot Home Demonstration Club staged a hula hoop contest. It was enjoyed by all those attending. This would make good entertainment for Halloween parties if you are having trouble finding enough games or recreation for an evening of fun.

A general rule for the use of contrasting color, texture, or pattern in accessories is never to repeat more than three times—generally two is smarter; for example, shoes, bag, and gloves, or shoes, bag, and hat, or bag and hat.

Intensity of the color is important. Don't overdo it. The more brilliant or intense the color, the smaller the area should cover.

Apples may be frozen whole—no peeling or slicing is necessary. Simply wash apples and put them in airtight plastic bags and freeze. To use frozen apples merely run cold water over them before peeling and slicing. Do not thaw before peeling as this causes the apple to turn dark.

Honor Roll Report

Every human is a master over fire. And each human must make the choice between good and evil. He must weigh and consider the results of mishandling his true servant.
Care is an important factor of kindness to fire. Carelessness is foolishness. Precaution is wisdom. Safety is the first thought of service.
Another principal thought rings true: "To have a friend one must be a friend."

Rev. Ray Johnson MHS Guest Speaker

Evangelist Ray Johnson was a guest speaker in M. H. S. last week. He and Rev. L. W. Tucker, pastor of the First Methodist Church, were introduced to the student body by Larry Hoyie, senior class president.

Many of the M. H. S. students enjoyed hearing him preach during the Methodist revival in addition to his speech in M. H. S.

SCHOOL DAZED

If the Brand seems different this week, it is because the Brand was turned over to the associate editors for this issue. Charlotte has earned her needed rest.
This editorial is written to explain to the students of MHS the importance of the election of MHS Student Council president and class representatives tomorrow.
The president and representatives should be of good character and a credit to MHS. They should be able to speak before an audience, because they will represent our school before others and therefore should be an example of what our school is and stands for. Let's choose the best candidates for these important posts.
Homecoming is just around the corner, so single out a date and start saving for her corsage, boys. Let's make this a homecoming to remember — a real gasser.
So long til next week.

COME TO CHURCH SUNDAY

UNLIMITED personal expense allowances plus a 400 per cent increase and year-long legislative sessions are among the costly results that Texans might expect from adoption of the proposed "annual session" amendment to the state Constitution, Senator Dorsey B. Hardeman warned Texans in a recent speech at Dallas.

400% SALARY INCREASE

Senator Hardeman pointed out that the salary compensation provided in the amendment for legislators would rise from today's $546,000 every two years to $2,730,000. "That's more legislative service than is needed," the senator said.
He pointed out that this increase would be added to the $2.5 billion now being spent by the state government biennially. He predicted this spending rate would increase "despite the lip service paid to economy during the campaigns of last summer and the platitudes of reduced budgets set out in press releases."

STAR-TELEGRAM SAYS: "As the amendment was submitted, the voters will get no figures at all on the ballot, just a brief resume of the board idea of the change. The electorate should be fully aware of all the facts before it votes. There is nothing wrong with paying lawmakers $9,750 a year—or $15,000—if that is what the voters approve. It should not be presented as $7,500, however."

vote NO! Vote "Against" Amendment 1

READ what able and respected State Senator Dorsey B. Hardeman, San Angelo, says about proposed Constitutional Amendment No. 1. This proposal will be on the ballot November 4 and would provide ANNUAL SALARIES-ANNUAL SESSIONS for the Texas Legislature.

UNLIMITED EXPENSE ACCOUNTS

Sen. Hardeman called attention to removal of current limits of per diem pay of members — now $25 per day, limited to 120 days every two years. For this there would be substituted $7,500 salary, plus whatever the members chose to vote for themselves as expense allowances!

Voting is a moral obligation of citizenship

QUALIFIED VOTERS who neglect to exercise their privilege become aliens to our form of government because voting is a moral obligation of citizenship. It is a sacred privilege purchased at the price of men's lives.

In the recent Democratic state convention Motley County needed only a few more votes to qualify three instead of two delegates. Each county is allowed a delegate to the state Democratic convention for each 300 votes polled for the Governor candidate in the last general election.

Will we hand a wallet to the Legislature? It is unfortunate that the last legislature forgot about the taxpayer (and voter) when Amendment No. 1 was drafted.

HOMEMAKING CLASSES BUSY WITH PROJECTS

The freshman homemaking class has been studying the seven food groups and the number of servings per day a person should have for a balanced diet.

It is unfair to tell the people of Texas: "We will take your wallet and remove the amount of the contents we require. It is not necessary for you to know in advance how much we will take. We will start with a $7,500 yearly salary each."

The Tribune believes $7,500 per year is a fair salary for a legislator but the amendment places no limit on the amount of expense the legislators may vote for themselves.

Still a Seventh Wonder of the World

THE PYRAMIDS OF GIZA, U.A.R., EGYPT: The only remaining of the Seven Wonders of the World, the Pyramids of Giza, were built some 4500 years ago, as tombs for three Egyptian pharaohs. The Great Pyramid covers 13.1 acres, and was originally 481.4 feet high.

PYRAMIDS AND CASTLES TO EXPLORE

The mystery of pyramids and the impressive grandeur of massive stone castles continue to lure visitors to Egypt and Syria, as they did even before the days of Marco Polo. Egypt has some eighty pyramids which extend from Cairo up the Nile. Syria has twenty-one castles which dot its Mediterranean coastline and its deserts.

A whole day, and more, can be spent exploring a pyramid or a castle, if you are curious and unhurried. Walking around the Great Pyramid at Giza is in itself a thrilling experience, though few tourists take time to do this. The Great Pyramid, built by the Pharaoh Cheops, towers unbelievably high above you, some forty-five and more centuries old, and more impressive than the tallest skyscraper that modern man has built.

As you walk, you can stop to visit the solar boat pits, to see the symmetrical streets of stone tomb-chapels of nobles closely hugging the pyramid of their pharaoh. You can see the entrance of the Tomb of Queen Hetep-heres, mother of Cheops. You can walk down the rock causeway, which once led down to the Nile and along which blocks of granite were transported to build the Great Pyramid.

Inside the Great Pyramid Climbing the Great Pyramid is a thrilling experience if you feel strong and husky. Agile Arab youths are provided to help you. Or you can climb up inside the Great Pyramid and visit the Queen's Chamber and the King's Chamber. To feel yourself within the very heart of one of the world's greatest monuments, and the only remaining Seventh Wonder of the Ancient World, is an awesome experience, and gives you a feeling of detachment.

Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Smallwood spent Monday night and Tuesday visiting here with Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Lee and also in the W. J. Hicks home. They are residing in Muleshoe during the ginning season and Mr. Smallwood is employed at Needmore near there.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Stephens visited in Albuquerque, N. M. from Friday until Sunday with his daughter and family. Mr. and Mrs. B. C. (Doc) Cross and children, Steve, Delores and Tonya, and also in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carter Murphy.

Consumer Survey Reveals Round Steak Most Popular Cut Of Beef On Market

Beef round steak is the most popular cut of meat on the market. Dr. Robert E. Branson discovered during the course of a recent survey of consumer meat buying habits and preferences.

"Beef and veal are the first choice of 69 per cent of housewives interviewed," he reported.

"Given an opportunity to name their first choice of any cut of meat — without regard to price — 23 per cent of the families chose round steak."

Dr. Branson is chairman and professor of the Consumer Economics Section, Department of Agricultural Economics and Sociology, Texas A & M, which devised and conducted the survey of a representative cross section of Houstonians.

J. D. Startwelle, as spokesman for the cattle industry, commented, "Round steak is a good buy and a good choice for 'favorite meal'."

Sartwelle is executive vice president of the Port City Stockyards in Houston. As a leading cattle raiser and packer, he has served the Texas Beef Council as first vice president since its inception.

"Considering the small proportion of bone and fat in round steak, and the correspondingly high proportion of meat, it has been estimated that round might be a better buy than any of the other beef steaks, even if round steak were the highest priced, which of course it isn't," Sartwelle said.

Dr. Branson found that Texans, judging by Houstonians' preferences, like steaks much more than residents of Denver or Phoenix, where similar surveys have been conducted, although the over-all preference for beef was slightly higher in those colder-climate cities.

"Two factors appear to bear on the popularity of round steak," Dr. Branson continued. "First, a considerable proportion of the housewives — 52 per cent — commented that when shopping they looked for two things, lean meat and bright red color, which are perhaps more characteristic of round steak than any other beef cut."

Additionally, more consumers were familiar with round steak and thus had more opportunity to develop a preference for it.

"Foods, perhaps more than any other commodities, necessitate a personal use experience," Dr. Branson said in commenting on the divergence of tastes found in various groups within the survey population sample. Racial background, family income and the educational level of the housewife were listed as factors which influence food choices.

Beef ranked first in 72 per cent of the homes where the housewife had college education,

Dr. Branson found. Nearly four-fifths of the families with yearly incomes of $6,000 or more reported beef as their favorite meat, while only half of the low income group, $3,000 per year or less, took beef as a first choice.

In this respect Dr. Branson's findings corroborated those of other research groups, Sartwelle said. "There are many indications that as the national income rises, the demand for beef increases greatly while the consumption of other meats remains relatively stable."
