Roaring Springs Depot And Motley County Railway Company

by Marisue Potts

Roaring Springs Depot

Amidst the carnival-like atmosphere and excitement of booming land speculation, the Quanah, Acme, and Pacific Railroad engine screamed into Roaring Springs on June 19, 1913. The Quanah crew on that first run was Bill Norman, engineer, Mr. Young, conductor, and Bert Estes, the fireman who was pouring on the coals.

The newly constructed brick depot, which was built in a Mission revival architectural style, was the most substantial building in "Rag Town." The temporary tent city was soon replaced with wooden structures and storefronts as the first of 50 businesses, a cotton gin, lumberyard, bank, and church quickly went up.

Samuel Lazarus, promoter and investor, and the Matador Land & Cattle Company, Ltd., had come to terms on the proposed railroad and townsite in December of 1912.

The Scottish syndicate agreed to pay $85,000 to the railroad or about $3,840 for each mile that crossed their property as well as give a three mile right-of-way from the center of the tracks, water privileges, land for depots and sidings, and three townsites.

The land and cattle company and the railway were to share equally in the proceeds from the townsite proceeds. The Matadors agreed to sell 60,000 acres in the southwest portion of their range, valued at $10 an acre, for 600,000 shares of preferred stock and 600,000 shares of common stock. The QA&P received 600,000 shares of common stock.

The peak year in the land boom was in 1917 when 27,500 acres were sold. By 1923 the goal of 60,000 acres under contract was reached. Of the three proposed townsites, Roaring Springs, MacBain, and Russellville, only Roaring Springs was promoted to become a thriving trade center.

Motley County Railway Co.

Making use of several surveys, QA&P railroad officials settled on a course south of Matador that would require the least amount of grading from Quanah (elevation 1,500 feet above sea level) eventually to Floydada on the Staked Plains (elevation 3,300 feet above sea level.) Ascension to the Caprock would be near Wolf Creek Point, closely following the old buffalo hunters wagon trail of the 1880's.

Seeing economic doom because Matador was to be by-passed by the railroad, early in 1913 some twenty citizens petitioned the Matador Land & Cattle Company for aid in building a feeder line to connect their town with the railroad line.

General Secretary Mackay rejected the original proposal since the company was asked to bear the burden of costs, but after the line reached Roaring Springs, the company agreed to give a $10,000 bonus for construction of the eight mile Motley County Railway Co.

Townpeople immediately secured a charter. T.E. Leckie, chairman, and J.C. (Wichita Doc) Burleson, secretary, presided over the first meeting of stockholders in May, 1913. Sixty-eight subscribers were present, and the treasury held $6500. By 1914 the short line was completed.

Tricia Palmer and Rusty Willmon were 1st place winners for the third year in a row in Foods & Nutrition, there were 25 participants this year. Trent Willmon won his first, 1st place, by competing against 23 4-H'ers. Billy Lefevre and Cathy Perryman placed seventh with 15 contestants.

Local 4-H'ers attended State Roundup June 6-9. They were Jennifer Davis, Cathy Perryman, Tricia Palmer, Rusty Willmon, Trent Willmon, and Billy Lefevre. They were accompanied by Dean and Billie Willmon, Pat Palmer, and Linda Perryman. Monday night was spent at the State 4-H Center in Brownwood. Districts 1 and 2 were also there.

first board of directors meeting were officers: A.B. Echols, president and the largest stockholder; I.E. Martin, 1st vice-president; J.D. Morriss, 2nd vice-president; J.N. Gaines, superintendent; J.C. Burleson, secretary; R.P. Moore, treasurer; T.T. Bouldin, attorney. Other directors included Dr. A.C. Traweck, J.E. Russell, and T.E. Leckie.

The secretary was instructed to purchase the corporated seal, stock books, stationery, and supplies. In the by-Laws the capital stock of $100,000 was to be divided into 1,000 shares at $100 each. By 1918 the line was capitalized at $66,000 with the valuation by the Interstate Commerce Commission set at $93,000.

Tom Cudd, an engineer who came to Matador in 1916, built the "Jigger," a creative answer to light, passenger runs. A model T Ford truck rigged to run on the rails, the Jigger ran to Roaring Springs every day, hauling as many as eight or ten standing passengers, while the locomotive ran only when needed.

Running through unfenced cattle country, Locomotive Number "19" had a real practical use for the cow catcher. (Portions of the elevated track can still be seen running south on the TeePee Flat Road.)

A passenger coach entitled "The Matador Route," whisked away young men going into the armed services for World War I.

After World War I, Marvin Patton took the job of conductor, a prestigious title for doing anything from taking fares, to loading cattle or cotton, to taking home the bank's money sacks until they could be delivered the next day. Later in 1925, 1st National Bank president R.P. Moore who shipped cattle on the line started Patton in his banking career.

Bert Estes was hired as engineer for the short-line in 1923. Young Estes began his lifetime of railroad work as a pumper and callboy-watchman on the Fresno. He worked as fireman for four years before earning his railroad engineer's certificate at age 19. Later he worked for the Ft. Worth & Denver and several private lines used in the construction of various dams.

Though the Matador Ranch shipped carload after carload of cattle from MacBain or Russellville to market or to northern grazing grounds, the high cost of shipping vs. the low market prices forced them and other customers to seek other means of transportation. The number of agricultural products shipped by rail decreased. Trucks and roads spelled doom for the railroads.

A notice in the Motley County News of May 7, 1925, advised Motley County Railway stockholders that a meeting was scheduled for the purpose of borrowing $25,000 and mortgage all properties and franchises of railway company to secure the payment of money so borrowed.

On June 11, 1925, an Order of Sale, District Court of Motley County, was posted in the newspaper. For the sum of $21,205.60 and costs of suit, under a Judgment in favor of W.M. Graham, Sheriff Claude Warren did levy on the entire, tracts, right-of-way, depots, station grounds, and all rolling stock, being 8.47 miles long besides sidings, spurs, switches, etc., extending from Matador to Matador Junction.

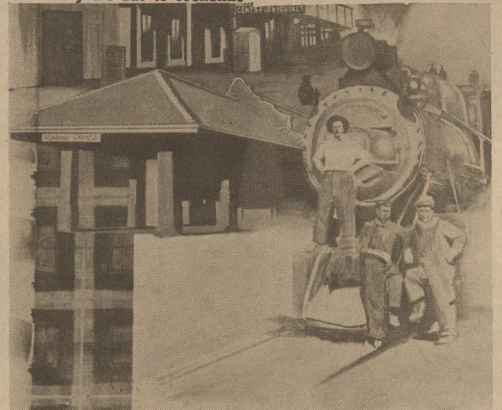

Real estate consisted of nearly 62 acres and numerous Town Lots on approximately 93 blocks. Rolling stock included No. 19 and No. 103 locomotive engines, one passenger coach, two freight cars now out of repair, one Ford Truck and trailer used on said road, all ties and other materials for building road. All was to sell to the highest bidder at public venue for cash.

On July 7, 1925, the Motley County Railway sold to QA&P, the highest bidder at $23,000, with the line starting regular service as soon as a permit could be obtained. In less than a month, the line gave notice that it was filing for an extension from MacBain to Floydada, 27 miles.

That October QA&P officials, San Lazarus, President, Charles H. Summers, General Manager, A.F. Summers, Superintendent, and C.B. Dorchester, director of Quanah, met with citizens to discuss the extension. Lazarus asked the people to join in a petition to the Interstate Commerce Commission to grant this extension. As a result, Matador would receive better train service, the opening of new western markets, and absorption of the Motley County Railway by QA&P. G.E. Hamilton made a motion, with second by C.L. Glenn, that Matador citizens join in this petition. The motion carried.

The Matador Tribune of June 6, 1935 ran a story on the fight the Chamber of Commerce was waging against the abandonment of the QA&P. Chairman Henry Pipkin declared, "We do not intend to give up the road without opposition," and appointed Elmer Stearns, L.C. Harp, and Farris Fish to investigate and recommend action to the Chamber. Among the men who strongly favored retaining the road were F.G. Simpson, Dr. Albert Traweck, Farris Fish, L.C. Harp, W.M. Graham, and R.P. Moore.

Judge G.E. Hamilton, counsellor for the railway, stated that $49,000 was lost in the last five years due to economic Marshall, crew including engineer Tom Cudd; and engineer Bert Estes, all into one scene. From a historical perspective, all are separate with their own unique backgrounds.

Matador City Council Look For Ways To Promote City Growth

The City Council of Matador met Thursday, June 9 at 7:30 a.m. with Mayor Gary Lancaster and Councilmen L.B. Campbell, Doyle Rose, L.J. Barkley, Jr., and Travis Jameson attending. Joe Smith was absent. Also present were City Secretary Nell Berryman and City Water Superintendent, Bill Jameson.

Mayor Lancaster asked for the minutes and bills to be read and approved. The May outstanding bills were paid for approximately $4,116.75.

Berryman had called SPAG to find out when a representative would come to explain the 911 Emergency number and reported they were still in the early stages and planned to come later to explain it to all city and county entities.

Mayor asked Bill for his report. Jameson said they were finished at the conditions and drought. He told the assembly, "Trucks and buses are taking the cream of the business and leaving the railroad the skim milk. Mr. Echols here, who spent $30,000 on the railroad owns and maintains a truck to transport his cattle to markets. The wholesale grocery houses maintain their own trucks for delivery of merchandise. I do not blame the merchant, the cattle raiser, the farmer or business man who takes the easiest, cheapest route...yet that has sapped the life blood of the short-haul railroad."

"When the QA&P owned by the Frisco and now in bankruptcy, purchased the Matador Northern, the road was $25,000 in debt and the equipment had depreciated until it was impossible to use, which caused many thousands of dollars to be spent in repair and replacement. The one and only year the railroad showed a profit was in 1927.

"I don't blame you men for planning to protest but...you must show the Interstate Commerce Commission whereby this road can hope to make money in the future."

A district court hearing of that commission began on November 18, 1935. Railroad officials claimed the branch road, sold as junk, would not bring over $3,500.

Tribune Editor Doug Meador wrote in the November 21, 1935 edition, "With the echo of the 11 o'clock train echoing through the grim district court room...a true representation of Motley county pioneers and interested citizens listened to claims and data which may forever silence the community and surrounding territory of railroad service."

The last train rumbled out of Matador on June 1, 1936. Though residents put up a valiant fight, the Interstate Commerce Commission ruled for abandonment of the short-line.

However, what would have been a disaster for Matador in earlier years was now hailed as a substantial improvement in transportation. With Matador's location at a favorable highway junction, motor trucks and busses offered service to fill the void and an equal if not lower shipping rate.

And yet, don't you miss the whistle?

By 4:30 last Thursday we had enrolled 35 children for the Summer Reading Program. Eight were signed up for the Read-to-Me Club which will continue to meet at 10:30 on the second and fourth Tuesday of each month. Our summer dates will be June 14 and 28, July 12 and 26, August 9 and 23. On August 23rd, we will meet at the Library, and after our program we will go to the Douglas Campbell home for a picnic. The children will receive their certificates for participating in the Read-to-Me Club. This club is for the children from "almost three" to the ones who finished Kindergarten and will be in First Grade next year.

Those who will be in Second Grade next year and on up to the ones who will be in Seventh Grade are invited to meet for a movie, handwork, and to share information on the best book they have read this week on Thursday mornings at 10:30 on June 16, 23, and 30 and July 7 and 14. By that time we may be ready to separate grades 2-3 from grades 4-7 for more specialized activities. You may continue to enroll on any day you are in town, and feel free to bring visiting grandchildren, neices, nephews and cousins along. If they are visiting for only a few days, you can check out books for them on your library card. These TRAILBLAZERS and STARGAZERS are reading away. Ryan Martin was the first to come in and say that Whales, Giants of the Sea was a very good book. Robert Gillespie, who had four stitches from trying to field a ball with his cheek, said SHARK and RAY was a funbook, and Chad told me he had really enjoyed THE LAND UNDER THE SEA.

The Library looked so dull without the wildflower display, but Joan Patton has something ready to replace it. If you have any treasures you would like to share by placing them in the display case, please call Joan at 347-2472.

We do appreciate what Devonne Dillard and Winifred Lee have done to promote the Read-Club. When you are in the Library, feel free to go to the back room and see all the great exploring poster that Mrs. Dillard has done. Name plates for the ones who have read a book from that week's category will be displayed on the appropriate cards designed by Mrs. Lee.

Out of town visitors to the library this week were: Buddy and June Ingram of Dallas; Sibyl Ward of Lubbock, Jessica Long of Dickens; Chris Jackson (Gerald and Cindy) of Luling, Steven McHale of Floydada; James Earl and Vicki Jackson and Jami and Darren Jackson of Davis, OK; Norma Teal Hunt Vashti Cammack Teal, and Forene Rasco of Allen, Texas; Dorothy Wilson of Miami, Texas and Michael, Susan, Justin, and Eric Stapleton of Carmel Valley, CA.

Flomot Baptist Church VBS Commencement

Pierce and Callie Winegar, to ask the council to rectify the water drainage problem created in 1982 by the reworking of 2nd. Street. When it rains alot South and West of town the water floods the yards and homes of these residents.

After a lengthy discussion, the council decided to ask Jamie Johnson, Engineer, to look at this problem and help them solve it.

After Hamilton, Winegar and Pierce left, Long asked the press to leave the room for 5 minutes.

The financial statement, accounts payable and delinquent accounts were received and approved.

A discussion followed on setting new water and sewer tap rates. Until 1986, they were $50.00 total but in the Brown Hudson ordinance, he suggested $250 for water and $350 for sewer. After the council consulted with Paducah, Matador, and Spur they elected to reduce them to $125 for water taps and $75 for sewer tap, this is for new homes or businesses.

Dillard reported that Don Wilson, representing Quail Pipe, had called her to ask the Council to do something about the water pressure dropping two times the past week, this caused Quail Pipe to lose the whole line of pipe in production.

After a discussion it was noted that the electricity had gone off in Roaring Springs twice that week and this could cause the water pressure problem also. Thacker stated the city is sympathetic with Quail Pipe and that they are trying to solve the water problem as fast as they can. Moose asked what the cost of a new well would be. Thacker said at least $48,000. Several alternatives are being looked into by the council.

Anna Wilson reported that Kenny Griggs had called to ask the City if they could get the bees at the Witchers moved from town. He was afraid his son would get stung. The Council said there was no ordinance on this. No action was taken.

A discussion was brought up about the lots behind the town square where people had trailer houses and the pipe yard. This is becoming an eyesore as people came into Roaring Springs. No action was taken.

Wilson reported that Austin had called and that the City had to have an audit before they can receive the $90,000 grant money. Also Mary Baiza, Community resource group of TDA, says the City has to have an audit before they could receive a loan or any other funding. Council discussed this as another expense they can't afford, but can't do without, either.

The Council elected to set an ordinance to charge landowners for cleanup if they did not take care of the property within the city themselves.

Wilson said Mr. and Mrs. Gary Caffey wanted to make a picnic table for the park in memory of Lou's father, Tom Vaughn. The Council agreed.

Wilson reported that June 8 at 8:00 a.m. the lease-purchase contract with the new cafe co-owners, Barbara Marvel and Mitzi Christopher was signed.

Regan reported on a meeting he attended in Lubbock that day on water grants, bonds and loans, etc.

Thacker said he planned to go to Austin June 21 to Commission of Agriculture meeting.

The Council went into closed session at this time.

In closed session the decision was made to give Wilson and Holley their yearly raise.

Home Economically Speaking By Carolyn Smead

CHILDREN AREN'T WATERPROOF

Most parents know to watch a baby in the bathtub. But as children grow, we tend to forget the ever-present hazards of water. And these hazards are even greater in the summer.

The National Safe Kids campaign warns that drowning is the second leading cause of accidental death of children.

By all means, enroll your children in swimming lessons. But remember that lessons don't make your child "drown-proof."

Always watch your child by the pool, at the beach by a lake. Beware of backyard pools and spas in the neighborhood. Your child could wander off and fall in. Never let older children swim in unsupervised areas like quarries, canals or ponds. Older kids are at risk of drowning when they overestimate their ability or underestimate how deep the water is.

Teach your swimmers four key rules:
1) Swim with a buddy, never alone.
2) Don't dive into unknown bodies of water. Jump feet first to avoid hitting your head on a shallow bottom.
3) Don't push or jump on others.
4) Be prepared for an emergency.

Haying & Grazing Approved

Motley County Producers will be glad to know that they have been approved by Washington officials to hay and/or graze their 1988 ACR and CU for pay. These rules will remain in effect through December 31, 1988 and all interested participating producers must come to the ASCS office and sign a register and list their intentions. Criteria which must be followed by those who wish to hay and/or graze their ACR and/or CU for pay can be picked up at the ASCS office.

Mrs. Turner stated she was real pleased with the first day and also that the students seemed excited. They are working with K-8 grades with remediation and placed or promoted students Turner thanked the board and said how much they appreciated this program for the students. After questions and answers from the board and Turner, Campbell stated it was sure good to get good reports like this.

Cummings explained budget amendments. The board elected to pass these and pay bills.

Cummings also reported the asbestos inspection would be this week and they didn't anticipate any asbestos problems in any of the buildings except the old grade school and these should be at a minimum.

The board briefly discussed purchasing housing for teachers. They were all in agreement that they couldn't afford any purchases of property at this time.

Alexander explained 3 options of getting and laying base material for the Phase II of the track field. The board elected to have Alexander secure the best material for the lowest cost possible. The Board was pleased with the fact that Phase I had cost less than they had estimated and if Phase II cost less they could have Phase III finished earlier than they had anticipated.

Jim Cooper and Coach Marks were going to get the fence up this month. Also shown was a rough draft by Dennis Jones, for a new pressbox. The Board elected to get this ready for bids.

Cummings explained they needed to elect to take bids on Bread, Milk, Gasoline, LPG and Property Insurance.

Barton asked about the possibility of attaining the Honors program for this school. Ewing and Cummings explained that would entail hiring more teachers and students signing up for the program by the 7th grade.

Cummings explained that Chelsa Reed was taking John Hightower's place in the special education department. They have openings for 6th grade and Spanish/Math or Spanish/Social Studies.

The board went into closed session.

Also reported was that the County had received a monetary gift for the Motley County Fire Department from the Matador Cattle Company.

Carroll Stark, representative for NTS of Plainview was on the agenda to explain the NTS phone long distance service and how he could save the county approximately $80-$100 a month on long distance calls. A brief discussion followed with no action taken.

Doyle Shannon came to ask the Court what they had decided after the call from J.L. Barnhill, Attorney at Law, about backing the courts earlier decision on opening the road in the Flomot area.

Shannon reminded the court they had backed the agreement signed by Mrs. Elva Reed and Bly Shannon, each giving 15 ft. of land for a road, but the Reeds have still not moved the fence blocking this road. The Court asked Shannon to have Barnhill call the Judge and they would take action.

Meeting adjourned.

trying to come up with ways to look into possibilities for small businesses and/or industries. He had in mind to have a representative of each county and city entity to meet together as a 'think tank' and hopefully pull Motley out of the depressed county list.

L.B. Campbell said that all sounded good and the thing to do was get Kay Howard to look into grants for this purpose. Campbell also stated the reason Quail Pipe located in Roaring Springs was because Matador didn't have a large plot of land with a clear title. Campbell asked if Barkley would be in charge of contacting each entity. Barkley said he would.

Also discussed was doing something to clean up the Harp Apartments building. Council decided to contact the Harp Estate attorney for future action.

Meeting adjourned.

I used to live 6 miles and 37 minutes from work. Now it's an easy 10-minute drive.

Too many people, too many cars. Let's face it, fighting city traffic every day was no way to start the day. Life is just too short for that kind of hassle.

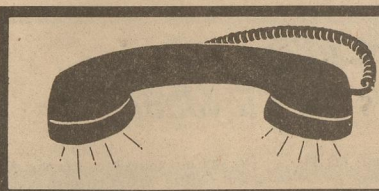

Since we moved to the country, my drive to work is a time to relax . . . notice winter change to spring, or summer to fall. Living in the country gives us the peace and quiet we were looking for.

Country living has another advantage . . . being a member of a rural electric cooperative. Being part-owners means we have a say in how things are run. But best of all is the service we get from the cooperative employees. They have an attitude that just seems to go with folks in the country.

MULLINS FAMILY REUNION
Ninety-three descendants of Will and Mattie Mullins gathered Saturday and Sunday in Roaring Springs at the Old Settlers Pavilion for the Annual family reunion.

Mr. and Mrs. Mullins moved to Dickens County in the Midway Community some 70 years ago from Roxton, Texas. They had five children, one son, Frank and four girls, Ethel, Edith, Maggie and Myrl, who grew up and married in that part of Texas. Their spouses were Gracie Keeling, Hubert Young, Bob Drennon, Lee Haney and Clarence McCave. Ethel Mullins Young is the only surviving offspring. She lives with a daughter near Dallas and was unable to attend.

They eventually moved to Dickens County and their children grew up and attended school at Midway and Patton Springs. The Youngs moved on to Meadow, Texas.

Four generations of three of these families, Mullins', Haney's, and McCave's, gathered the older ones to remember the younger ones to meet and get acquainted with their cousins.

There was a weiner roast and homemade ice cream, music, games and visiting Saturday night. Basket lunch and more visiting Sunday.

Relatives attended from Arlington, Lubbock, Hereford, Levelland, Muleshoe, Plainview, Floydada, Spur, Dickens, Crosbyton, Idalou, Afton and Roaring Springs, with campers, tents, sleeping bags, old pictures and cameras to make new ones, and lots of good food, but most of all to keep the family ties close and the younger ones know their roots.

We will gather the same time and same place in 1989, with same officers and the same desire to keep in touch and "love one another."

The Way It Was

by Emmitt Jenkins

One Saturday I had worked until 3 p.m. I was so tired and hungry. In fact I was completely exhausted. I came to a customer that always spent the day in town. I did not think he would mind if I took out time to eat. He said "you can eat tomorrow, I want a shave." I went ahead and shaved him. I was shocked that he was so inconsiderate.

About fifty percent of our business was women and girls. Short hair was the style. As there were no Beauty Shops at that time, it fell our lot to cut their hair. The most popular hair cut was the "Sea Breeze" which was fanned toward the face, and with bangs. It was shingled in the back. Also there was the straight Bob with bangs and was shingled in the back.

One lady got in the chair, asking how she wanted it cut, she said I want it cut like a man's behind. After finishing I handed her the mirror and after careful scrutiny, she said, "Just what I wanted." And I replied, "Always glad to please!"

In those days a large percent of the men came to the Barber Shop for a shave, which was very exacting and particular work. Sometimes we would shave several men, between haircuts. Most of the men would shave once a week, usually on Saturday. The businessmen wanted a shave more often. The price of a shave was twenty five cents and a haircut was fifty cents. Of course, the Barber preferred the haircut, as we had to hone and strap to sharpen the razor. Sharpening a razor was an art that was very difficult to learn. It was said that I was, "Above the average," but if a Barber got a man who had been working in cement, or if a sandstorm filled his beard with sand, it would turn the edge of the sharpest razor. The next few customers were in for a rough shave, as it would take awhile to bring the edge back into shape.

The best razors were made in Solgen, Germany. During World War II, we could not get them. So we suffered and the customers suffered also, due to inferior American made razors. By that time, the safety razor had taken over most of the shaving.

A man who was hard to shave, was called a squirrel. No disrespect to the man, but we would all dread to shave him. On Saturday night about eleven o'clock, we would get calls from Whiteflat and Flomot, telling us not to close, as the gin hands were coming. They would all want barber work and baths.

The Cowboys and some of the townsmen would come for barber work and baths.

Uncle Jack Carr, a retired Cowboy from the Ranch came for his bath. He would fill the tub to the top with water and then fall in. Water would be running out the door, when he came out.

Another Cowboy from the Ranch, called "Coyote", got into the shower. He turned on the hot water with no attempt to regulate the temperature. We heard him "yelp", but we could not make out what he said, but from the tone it wasn't for Ladies to hear. Fortunately he was not burned too badly, as he was young and agile. After the first "squirt", he wasn't there anymore.

One Saturday night, the Matador Wagon Cowboys came to the Barber Shop. Tightwad Leslie, one of the crew, was literally as "muddy as a hog," but the mud wasn't bothering "Tightwad". He had found a jug that afternoon and he was having one heck of a time. One of the boys told this story:

Carl and Lois Bird came by the wagon to visit. When they were ready to go, the car was stuck in the mud. Tightwad wanted to help. He was going to pull them out with his horse. He backed his horse up to the front of the car and tied the rope to the front axle. He had the full length of the lariat to get up speed. He put the spurs to his horse and took off. He was making time when he hit the end of it.

He probably would have jerked the jitney out, if the saddle girth had not broken. It must have rolled him, pretty good!

One Saturday night we were swamped. It was long toward 9 o'clock. Mitchell Glen was in Henry Pipkins chair, for a shave. Henry laid him back in the chair, lathered him up and put a hot towel on his face. Then he headed for the back door. Mitch lay there awhile. The towel got cold and he began to squirm. As I was working the chair next to Henry's, I was watching. I put another hot towel on his face. Everything was fine until that one got cold. Mitch would peep out from under one side, then peep out from the other side.

I finally realized Henry had abandoned him. Sitting up in the chair, he wiped the lather off his face. Took the towel, waded it up and slammed it against the wall, on the other side of the ship. I flipped the lever so the chair would come up straight. Mitch sat there. "The mad was over."

In a little while Henry came back. He did not say anything. Neither did Mitch. After Mitch had gotten his shave and left, I asked Henry where he went. He had gone to supper.

Johnny Vaughn was as busy as the rest of us. Shining shoes, firing the boiler, fixing the baths, and sweeping the floor. It was amazing how much hair there would be on the floor, especially if some lady with long hair was getting a hair cut for the first time.

Shoe shines were fifteen cents, plus the tips, which were frequent.

After the season was over, Johnny resigned his job, bought a new Model T Roadster and took a vacation. Babe Plumlee took over the job. Some days the shine boy made more money than I did.

The 1920's was called the Roaring 20's. Times were good by those standards. One young man, Cooper Osborn, made a good cotton crop, and bought a new "Black Model T Roadster" Oh! how I envied him.

Every Saturday night there was a Poker or Crap game. Usually at some isolated farm house, a vacant house, or maybe in town, with someone on guard. It seems like all the lawmen had their nose to the ground, trying to find where the game was.

Being busy at that time, I never attended the games, but I would usually hear where it was but kept it to myself.

In the fall of 1925 there was a big poker game going on, upstairs in the old Kansler building, that lasted several days. It must have been a big game, as they came from far and near.

One man by the name of Ike Gill, that I got acquainted with, in Burkburnett, was in the game and went broke. He asked me to loan him twenty-five dollars. I did, which was about all I had. He had the reputation of being as "good as gold," as for paying.

That was the only twenty-five dollars I ever lost in a poker game. I surely didn't know at the time, that I was doing it. Men would come in the shop and I have seen them pitch silver dollars at a crack in the floor. The one closest to the crack, picked up both coins. The silver dollar would be worth twenty-five dollars now.

Some of the men would walk down the street, meet a friend, stop, and match for a quarter. They would laugh and walk away.

It was not customary to willfully buy a drink at the Soda Fountain in the Drug Store. The men would be lined up, matching for drinks. Even if a person was in the street, the coins could be heard, hitting the marble top at the fountain. If you were interested in matching, they would say "Get on the mahogany".

I did not realize it then, but there was a gambling craze in those years.

I know one old boy who won enough money in a poker game, to buy a new Model A Ford.

The next Sunday morning he matched a race with a Model T. He ran the Model A in reverse and the Model T ran in forward gear. They ran a block and the Model A won the race. Most likely the men were betting money on the race.

Remember When

By Annie B. Cloyd
Box 22
Flomot, TX 79234

Hello Folks, this story was told me by Helen Patrick of Turkey, Texas and I know you will like it as well as I did. She tells it like this:

I had the pleasure of sitting in on a conversation between two elderly gentlemen, John B. Barton, age 88, of Flomot and Otho Stubbs, age 81, of Turkey, Texas. It was certainly "Remember When" with them.

The main subject was the big Buffalo hunt that took place in the Hackberry grove just south of Turkey. It was about 1920 when a Mr. Charlie Franc got a wagon ready, now when I say 'ready', I mean he had to build a cage or a crate or something strong enough to hold a buffalo on this wagon. Then he went to the Reservation and got an old Indian Chief and others to help with this buffalo. This crate was so tight around the buffalo that it couldn't move or else it could have torn everything up and got away and there would have been 'no show.'

They got back to Turkey and got ready for the big show - Mr. Charlie charged 25 cents each for folks to watch the "Buffalo Hunt". Now, the old Chief was to kill the buffalo with his bow and arrows but as he was old and 'passed his prime' he just didn't have the strength to pull the bow and the arrows just did stick in the hide. Then his horse shied away and the buffalo was heading for the crowd and Charlie Franc had to shoot it.

The Indian women and kids took over and did the skinning and cleaning and cutting up the meat. They sold it for a $1 a lb. They took some and had a barbecue. Later Charlie Franc had the head mounted and hung it in his den for a long time. Otho Stubbs said his recollection was that Charlie gave the head to the Range Riders of Amarillo after that.

John told about the trip from Flomot to Turkey and fording the rivers as there were no bridges back then. He and his wife were driving in his 1918 Buick 6 and was right behind Doc Traweck Sr. from Matador and he was in his 1918 Franklin.

They all had their lunches and John said Doc Traweck was eating sardines right out of the can and John asked if you couldn't get poisoned eating them like that and the Doc said, "yes, if you leave them in the opened can for a day or so before you can eat them."

They remembered more that happened in 1918-19 about the good crop year that everybody had and the bumper cotton crop that was made. Most folks made a bale and a half an acre. Was the first year that they got .45 cents a lb. The next year was good but only got .03 cents a lb.

John said Old Man Harris at Whiteflat had worlds of cotton and held out for .50 cents and wound up selling for almost nothing and lost his farm "to boot". A man from Floydada took it over.

He said in 1920 he gathered 10 or 15 bales and hauled them to Matador in a wagon and got .03 cents a lb. Got back home and couldn't pay for the picking and sold the whole crop to Mr. Carpenter in Matador for $75.00. The man picked 35 bales and then gave it back to John and he said, "I just gave it to Poppa (Al Barton) and he just turned the cows in on it. Lot of cotton never had a boll picked from it.

The seed had no value at all, he said and we just brought them home and fed the cows and they fired the boiler with the rest.

Otho said, "They used the seed for fuel and I remember how bad they were about smothering down and then catching on again and boy! Would it every blow!"

John still farms in the Flomot area and Otho is a well-known artist and still lives in Turkey. He has a regular museum at his home. He has stuffed animals and reptiles as well as old relics and many arrowheads and much more that would be worth your time to stop and see.

Helen wants to know if there is anyone that has any information on the events or any pictures of the "Buffalo Hunt". She would sure like to hear from you about this, so please contact her at Box 381, Turkey, Texas 79261 or phone 806-423-1061.

Thank you Helen for getting all this down for me and we'll be back next time and "Remember When" again.

WHEN GOD MADE A FATHER

Condensed from Ossining Citizen Register
Erma Bombeck

When the good Lord was creating Fathers he started with a tall frame. And a female angel nearby said, "What kind of Father is that? If you're going to make children so close to the ground, why have you put Father up so high? He won't be able to shoot marbles without kneeling, tuck a child in bed without bending, or even kiss a child without a lot of stooping."

God smiled and said, "Yes, but if I make him child-size, whom would children have to look up to?"

And when God made a Father's hands, they were large and sinewy. The angel shook her head and said, "Large hands can't manage diaper pins, small buttons, rubber bands on pony tails - or even remove splinters caused by baseball bats." And God smiled and said, "I know, but they're large enough to hold everything a small boy empties from his pockets, yet small enough to cup a child's face in."

Then God molded long, slim legs and broad shoulders. "Do you realize you just made a Father without a lap?" the angel clucked. God said, "A Mother needs a lap. A Father needs strong shoulders to pull a sled, balance a boy on a bicycle, or to hold a sleepy head on the way home from the circus."

God was in the middle of creating two of the largest feet anyone had ever seen when the angel could contain herself no longer. "That's not fair. Do you honestly think those large boats are going to dig out of bed early in the morning when the baby cries? Or walk through a small birthday party without crushing at least three of the guests?"

God smiled and said, "They'll work. You'll see. They'll support a small child who wants to ride a horse to Banbury Cross or scare off mice at the summer cabin, or display shoes that will be a challenge to fill."

God worked throughout the night, giving the Father few words, but a firm, authoritative voice; eyes that saw everything, but remained calm and tolerant. Finally, almost as an afterthought, he added - tears. Then he turned to the angel and said, "Now, are you satisfied that he can love as much as a Mother?" And the angel said no more.

This is a special day, set apart, to honor our fathers. Dads, we would feel very grateful if you will bring your families and join us in worship. The Church where everyone is someone and Jesus Christ is Lord.

Social Security Tips

By Terry J. Clements

Most Social Security benefits to dependents or survivors of retired, disabled, or deceased workers end if the person divorces or marries. But benefits to disabled widows and widowers 50-59, and to widows and widowers 60 or older can continue upon remarriage.

The same rule applies to disabled surviving divorced spouses 50-59 and to surviving divorced spouses 60 or older.

Benefits to the child getting checks because he or she is under 18 or 19 if a student, or disabled will generally end if the child marries. Checks to a spouse getting benefits on the record of a retired or disabled worker will end if the marriage ends in divorce unless the spouse is 62 or older and the marriage lasted 10 years or more.

Checks for a widowed mother of father getting benefits because she or he is caring for an entitled child will end if the parent remarries.

There is an exception to these general rules. If an otherwise eligible person receiving benefits as a widow, widower, or adult disabled in childhood marries a person also getting one of these benefits, he or she can continue to get benefits.

Benefits will also continue if a person receiving benefits as a widowed mother or father or adult disabled in childhood marries a person getting benefits as a retired or disabled worker. A retired or disabled worker's benefits are never affected if he or she marries or divorces.

More information about how divorce, marriage, or remarriage affect Social Security benefits can be obtained at any Social Security office.

For more information, or to file a claim call 293-9623.

Beef Referendum Results Viewed As 'Highly Positive'

COLLEGE STATION - National beef checkoff referendum results, announced May 27 by the U.S. Department of Agriculture, were seen as extremely positive by industry, education and research groups involved in the effort.

Nationally, 78.97 percent of the eligible cattle producers, dairy farmers and importers voted to continue funding the U.S. beef research and promotion. Of the 256,505 total ballots cast, 202,408 were affirmative votes, while the remaining 54,097 voters registered negative votes, or 21.03 percent rejected the referendum.

In Texas, 37,945 people voted in the referendum. Affirmative votes were cast by 32,269 persons, or 88 percent. Voting "no" were 5,676 persons, or 12 percent.

Dr. Ernest E. Davis, economist in livestock marketing with the Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service, said it is very critical that this funding be available to cattlemen not only for advertising and promotion but "also for future research and continuing development of genetically-designed cattle to meet consumer and packer carcass and meat demands."

Davis said approval of the referendum will allow funds spent on that research to come from cattlemen rather than private funding.

"This means that cattlemen may own the genetics, instead of a private company," Davis said.

Passage of the referendum will permit long-range information planning that will benefit all segments of the beef industry, said Dr. John R. Beverly, beef cattle project group supervisor for the Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service.

"Broader promotion and information projects can now be planned in this post-referendum period. Besides product development research and promotion, more comprehensive marketing research and educational efforts can be generated that should have a positive impact on all phases of the beef industry," Beverly said.

According to Anne Anderson, executive director of the Texas Beef Industry Council, Austin, strategies to be used to influence consumers will include reaching them through education of physicians, dietitians, nutritionists and children - the consumers of the future.

"The Beef Industry Council will strive to reposition beef as a food that is fashionable, light, healthy, wholesome, versatile, nutritious and good tasting by working with food editors of magazines as well as the broadcast media," Anderson said.

The referendum provides the accountability needed so producers are aware that funding decisions have been made by producers, Anderson said.

The beef check-off program, which began Oct. 1 of 1986 as a result of the 1985 Farm Bill's Beef Promotion and Research Act, required that $1 from every head of cattle sold or imported in the U.S. be put aside for beef promotion and marketing efforts. The program is controlled by a 113-member board of 108 producers and five importers.

Now Local Families Can Take In Europe For A Year

Imagine being able to absorb the culture of a foreign country for a whole year without every having to leave home. That's exactly what the ASSE Student Exchange Program offers local families who want to host an outstanding teenager from abroad.

Having an European or Australian youngster become part of the family for an academic year gives everyone in the house the opportunity to learn more about themselves and the world they live in.

ASSE teenagers are outstanding students from Europe, Australia and all points in-between. They're motivated 15-18 year olds who want to become part of an American household, which means they pitch in on everything from chores to family discussions. They're also enthusiastic about sharing the culture and customs of their own homeland. And although most ASSE kids are fluent in English, they love to help teach their own language to their American family. And what a better way to learn?

Host families also gain a new perspective on their own way of life. Parents and kids alike come to appreciate lots of things they've taken for granted. Like all the TV channels they have to choose from (not to mention MTV) plus all the great things to buy in our consumer wonderland.

The ASSE exchange program only lasts ten months but host families discover the special relationships they build go on forever. "I have a daughter from Finland, a daughter from Germany, and a son from Sweden. Two daughters and a son, plus three whole new families we get to visit when we go overseas." (Guinn Sweet, Weatherford, Texas). "From our one ASSE exchange student we got a whole new family overseas." (Kim Kirby, New Orleans, Louisiana).

And it's reassuring to know that the ASSE Program is affiliated with the most esteemed government education departments in the world: the National Swedish and Finnish Departments of Education, The Canadian Provincial Ministries of Education and the Australian and New Zealand Departments of Education, have approved the ASSE program, and the United States Information Agency has officially designated ASSE as an exchange visitor program. If you want to give your family a foreign accent for a year and even a lifetime, contact ASSE Area coordinator: Ingallil Toles, 415 Highway, Weatherford, TX 76086, Call Collect: 817/599-0686.

Reduce Utility Costs For Summer

COLLEGE STATION - Temperatures are beginning to rise toward their summer peak, and without some energy-saving steps your utility bills will rise right along with them.

"No matter what kind of system you have, carefully set thermostats can hold down utility bills," according to Dr. Peggy Owens, a housing specialist with the Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service.

"Many of us are in the habit of over-cooling our homes. In the winter we set the thermostat at 78 degrees to stay comfortably warm and then in summer put them all the way down to 68 degrees," she said.

"For every degree below 75 degrees that you set your thermostat, your operating cost goes up six to ten percent," said Owens. "So in a 1600 square foot home, setting the thermostat at 76 degrees rather than 72 degrees will save about 25 percent of your energy by cooling the house once you get home, instead of keeping it cool all day," said the specialist. Owens advised turning the air conditioner off entirely when you will be gone for more than 24 hours.

"Thermostat control won't have much impact on your utility bills unless you also clean or replace the air conditioner filter regularly," Owens said.

"A clogged air filter causing a 10 percent reduction in air flow will increase your operating costs by 11 percent," she said. "The air conditioner has to work harder to reach the thermostat setting, so you're paying for energy that doesn't make the house feel any cooler."

"Also check the ductwork in the attic for air leaks," said the specialist. "Use duct tape to seal any leaking joints so you aren't paying to cool the attic."

Owens said a fireplace can pull cool air out of the house and increase cooling costs by up to 20 percent. A tight-fitting damper will reduce any cool air loss.

Guest Harpist From Tech Entertains El Progreso Club

A spring luncheon, installation of officers and a program by a young musician from China were features of the closing season's year for GFWC El Progreso Club, held May 26 in the First Methodist church.

Highlight of the program was harpist Hong Liang from Beijing, China, a student at Texas Tech University, and protege of Miss Billie Wolfe, Professor Emeritus and a longtime faculty member in the College of Home Economics at Tech, who accompanied her here.

Club members and guests assembled in the church sanctuary, where a welcome was extended by Mrs. Douglas (Lila) Meador, president. Luncheon was served in the Fellowship Hall, and afterwards the group reassembled in the sanctuary for the program.

Mrs. Furman (Beverly) Vinson used birds as her theme in installing new officers who will serve the next two years, and presented each officer with a plaque with a painting of her "bird". For the president, Mrs. Joe (Loys) Campbell, she designated the Eagle; for president-elect, Mrs. Harold (Grace) Campbell, the emblem was a Robin; for the secretary, Mrs. Dale (JoElla) Bumgardner, the Hummingbird, and for treasurer, Mrs. W.N. (Opal) Pipkin, the Chickadee.

It was through the influence of Miss Wolfe that the study of harp was brought to the Texas Tech music department. She is a photographer of note, with windmills as her favorite subject, and several years ago brought a number of her works and presented a program for El Progreso Club. She also has set a record in scholarship and fund raising drives for other people, and in February was surprised when former students and colleagues established the Billie Wolfe Endowed Scholarship in her honor. The scholarship has reached $17,250.00, she has learned.

Miss Wolfe also has sponsored students in attending Tech, and in introducing Miss Liang, she outlined an impressive musical background which the young lady enjoys. She started piano at age 5, and harp at age 13. Her mother teaches piano in the Central Conservatory Secondary School in Beijing, her father is composer for Government TV and radio orchestra, and her grandfather was a vocalist in Shanghai orchestra.

Miss Liang read about Gail Barber, Professor of Harp at Texas Tech and wrote her about coming there to study.

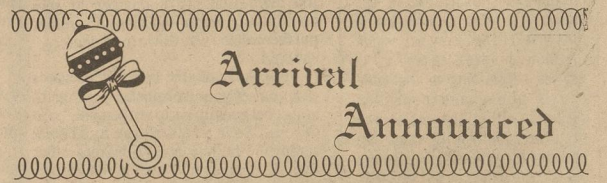

Arrangements were made with Miss Wolfe to sponsor her, and she came to Lubbock on July 9, 1986. She won second, of 27 competitors in International Young Artists competition at Corpus Christi in February of this year and was invited to go to New York to compete in 1989.

She played for the program here, selections from Gail Barber's "Windmill Sketches," inspired by Miss Wolfe's photography. These included Harp of the West Wind, Spanish Mission, Tag Around the Windmill, Morning Splendor, Indian Rain Dance, and Crossing the Prairie, and for an encore, Impromptu Caprice.

Also a protege of Miss Wolfe is another young musician, Xin-Yang Zhou, a classmate of Miss Liang in Beijing, but from Sen Yang. He came to Lubbock in October of 1986 to study clarinet, and also has a musical family background. His mother is a pianist and his father teaches clarinet in Sen Yang Conservatory. Both young people live with Miss Wolfe, who says, "These young people are a delight to have around, with their sense of humor and cooperation in all phases of my life."

The guests were accompanied here by Mrs. Georgia Mae Ericson of Crosbyton and other guests and club members included Mesdames Opal Pipkin, Una Simpson, Lucretia (R.E.) Campbell, Opal Craven, Josephine Hamilton, Judine McCaghen, Theda Jenkins, Joan Patton, Mary Louder, Nell Clem, JoElla Bumgardner, Winifred Darsey, Irene Welling, Vee Moore, Marguerite Edwards, Hazel Donovan, Vena Lipscomb, Lucille Pritchett, Loys Campbell, Dorothy Day, June Keltz, Faye Slover, Beverly Vinson, Lucretia (Bundy) Campbell, and Grace Campbell; and Rachel Patton.

A poem on Butterflies by Jo Ann Dickson was read by Mrs. Meador from the yearbook, as her introduction to the program.

Katie Lee Cross

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Cross were in Dillon, Montana for the birth of their granddaughter, Katie Lee Cross. Katie weighed 7 pounds, 1 ounce and arrived at four seconds to midnight on May 16. Proud parents are Audie and Darla Cross. Katie joins Seth, Sarah, and Zackery.

On his way out the doctor stopped, gave Karlene a hug, and commented, "Now, this is what I call real family planning." As all the while Daddy was helping and the two grandmothers and two aunts stood near. While just outside waited the two granddads and three children for 6 hours.

He that hath ears to hear, let him hear.

NOTICE

The United States Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) has adopted requirements that all public water systems notify their customers about lead exposure. This notification is intended to educate and inform consumers on this issue in light of the fact that your drinking water may be a potential source of lead exposure. This is being done even though your water system is not in violation of the current standard. There are also other potential sources of lead contamination in the environment.

The following specific language is required by EPA in this notice:

The United States Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) sets drinking water standards and has determined that lead is a health concern at certain levels of exposure. There is currently a standard of 0.050 parts per million (ppm). Based on new health information, EPA is likely to lower this standard significantly.

Part of the purpose of this notice is to inform you of the potential adverse health effects of lead. This is being done even though your water may not be in violation of the current standard.

EPA and others are concerned about lead in drinking water. Too much lead in the human body can cause serious damage to the brain, kidneys, nervous system, and red blood cells. The greatest risk, even with short-term exposure, is to young children and pregnant women.

Lead levels in your drinking water are likely to be highest:

1. if your home or water system has lead pipes, or
2. if your home has copper pipes with lead solder, and
 - if the home is less than five years old, or
 - if you have soft or acidic water, or
 - if water sits in the pipes for several hours.

Ways to avoid potential lead exposure are to "flush" faucets before use and to use cold water for drinking and cooking. You may wish to have your home tap water tested for lead content by a competent laboratory. You may also wish to check to see if lead pipes, solder, or flux were used in your home plumbing.

Envy grows in our hearts like weeds in a flower garden. And it doesn't help, it hinders.

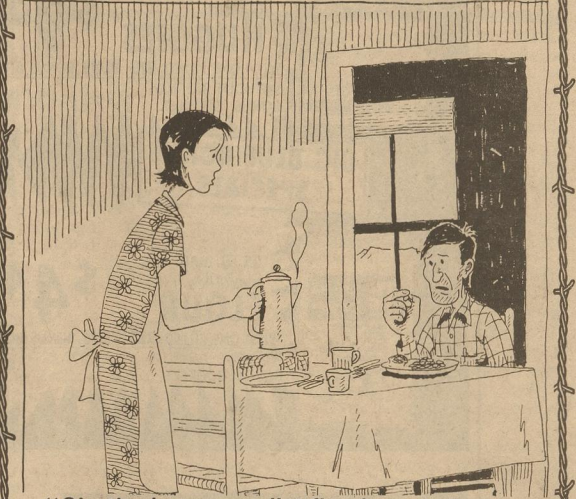

If you're exalted and I'm not, does it lift me to be envious of you? Oh, no. It lowers me.

If you're endowed with money and I'm not, does it enrich me to be envious of you? No, it empties me.

Every time you're green with envy you're ripe for trouble. So let the God of love reign in your heart and the love of God will rule in your life.
