

Chief Gives Warning

All students operating a car on campus must park in designated parking areas or receive a parking violation ticket, announces E. B. McKnight, Chief Security Officer.

The principal violation area is the service road in the greenhouse area directly south of the Speech Bldg. Off-campus students frequently park in the service drive when near-by off-campus parking space is filled.

Tickets have not been issued until now because campus parking lots west of the Journalism Bldg were tied up with construction work, but these lots are now completed and ready for use.

Warnings have been placed on the illegally parked cars and a previous announcement run in TOREADOR, but there are still some violators, explained McKnight, so tickets will have to be issued.

R. H. NORRIS, president of Dearborn Stove Co., Dallas, will conclude the management division of the Careers Conference with a speech.

Careers Conference Begins Second Day

Tech's third annual Careers Conference, sponsored by Delta Sigma Pi, swings into its second day of activities today with five speakers in the fields of marketing, advertising and finance.

All seminars are scheduled from 8 a.m. until noon in the Tech Union Ballroom.

MISS LILLIAN IRELAND, assistant personnel director of Folcys in Houston, will be the first speaker of the day as the marketing seminar gets underway from 8-9 a.m.

The advertising program, from 9-10 a.m., today will feature two speakers. They are Frank Junell, vice president of Citizens National Bank, Lubbock, and Dudley Repp, AVALANCHE-JOURNAL promotion manager, Lubbock.

SPEAKERS IN the finance division, Hollis L. Manly, Jr., director of training, Amicable Life Insurance Co., Waco, and Jim Ed Waller, president of Plains National Bank, Lubbock, who will complete today's slate of guests.

The final group of seminars will begin at 8 a.m. Friday with five speakers featured in the secretarial administration and business education division.

They are, Mrs. Pauline A. Coplin, medical secretary; Mrs. Dorothy Evans, administrative secretary, Lubbock National Bank, Lubbock; Mrs. Doris T. Pegues, secretary for Pan American Petroleum Co., Lubbock; Mrs. Betty Jane Bennett, assistant cashier and secretary to the president, American State Bank, Lubbock; and Mrs. Billy Reynolds, secretary for Crenshaw, Dupree, and Milam, Lubbock.

13 Bands Visit Tech Saturday

Thirteen visiting bands and the Texas Tech band will present a half-time show at the Tech Arizona game Saturday as a part of Tech's annual Band Day.

Presentation of the 1958 Band Sweetheart at half-time will climax the affair. Sweetheart finalists will be escorted by band members to the field where the winner will be crowned.

THREE FINALISTS selected are Jill Jost, Marlin; Charlotte Caskey, Crane and Deana Ward, Wilson.

PRESIDENT E. N. Jones and the Kappa Kappa Psi president will crown the sweetheart while the Tech Band forms a heart and arrow and other bands form the letters of Texas Tech.

APPROXIMATELY 730 high school students will participate in the show. High school bands from Lamesa, Tom S. Lubbock, Whiteface, New Deal, Childress, Sudan, Slaton, Hale Center, Wilson, Springlake, Ralls, Frenship and Kress will be here for the activities.

SEMINARS will conclude with the management division. R. H. Norris, president of Dearborn Stove Co., Dallas, will speak from 10-11 a.m.

R. J. Bromell, vice president in charge of drilling for Kindavus Industries at Fort Worth, will conclude the three-day Careers Conference with his "climax" speech at 11 a.m.

THE SUBJECT of Bromell's speech, "How to Get Ahead After Graduation", is slanted toward no particular field or major and is open to all students on campus.

FESTIVAL CONTINUES AS —

Greek Play Opens

by JOLENE CAFFEE

Drama will fill the bill tonight as the speech department brings the curtain up on the first performance of "Antigone" at 8:15.

Jean Anouilh's play will be presented in connection with the Fine Arts Festival which is now in progress on campus. This is the same play and cast that appeared at the State Fair earlier this year.

PERFORMANCES will be Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights at 8:15 in the Livestock Pavilion. Reservations may be made by notifying the speech department. Tech students will be admitted free upon presentation of their I.D. cards. All other seats are $1.00.

FRIDAY'S activities are also marked by drama. The film "Julius Caesar" adapted from Shakespeare's play will be shown in full length and sound at 4 p.m. in the Union Ballroom. "Subida al Cielo" (Mexican Bus Ride) will also be shown at 2 p.m., 4 p.m., 6:30 p.m., and 9 p.m. in room 11 of the Library.

'Y' Convention Slated Here for This Week-end

More than 750 high school delegates are expected to attend the 12th annual Hi-Y-Tri-Hi-Y Youth and Government Pre-legislative Conference at Texas Tech Saturday.

DELEGATES will converge on campus armed with bills they have prepared for presentation and discussion at the conference. Bills that are passed will be presented to the State Legislative Conference in Austin Dec. 14.

The organization will elect three permanent officers including sergeant-at-arms, calendar clerk of the house and clerk of the senate. Officers selected at the Tech conference will attend the state meeting for duties there.

DR. S. M. KENNEDY, assistant dean of Arts and Sciences, will welcome the conference delegates to Tech. Following the welcome, H. J. Blanchard, state representative from Lubbock, will address the meeting on legislative procedures at 10:30 a.m.

The conference begins at 8:30 a.m., and will feature county officials, Tech instructors and YMCA members who will address the group on the coordination of the state government.

THE OTHER event on tap Friday is a Fine Arts Potpourri by the Tech Opera Theater under the direction of Mrs. Charles Lawrie. This event will be in the Union Ballroom at 7:30 p.m.

Scenes from Mozart operas will be viewed as the modern dance group gives their final performance of the festival. These scenes will be narrated by Dr. D. A. Gillis of the English department.

Phi Mu's Registration Deadline Is Saturday

Phi Mu, social sorority, will begin colonization procedures on campus Sunday. Interested girls may sign up for interviews in the Dean of Women's office through Saturday noon.

SUNDAY, from 3 to 5 p.m., there will be a seated tea for an informational meeting and social hour in Tech Union, Room A and the Workroom.

Monday, 8 to 11:30 a.m. and 1:30 to 5 p.m., and Tuesday, 8 to 11:30 a.m. and 1:30 to 5 p.m., Phi Mu representatives and prospective members will have an opportunity to meet individually.

WEDNESDAY, 7 to 8:30 p.m., an invitational party is scheduled at Mrs. Rabb Harrison's home, 3401 37th.

Wednesday, 8:30 to 9 p.m., preference cards will be signed in Union Room B.

Next Thursday, 10 to 12 a.m., new pledges will pick up bids at the Dean of Women's Office. Then at 5 p.m. there will be a ribbon pledging in the Union Anniversary Room.

PHI MU, country's second oldest women's Greek-letter social organization, was founded as the Philamthean Society at Wesleyan Female College, Macon, Ga. March 4, 1852.

There are more than 32,000 members in 79 collegiate chapters, the last being installed at the Milwaukee branch of the University of Wisconsin.

DURING AND since World War II, fellowships from Phi Mu funds have been granted in the field of nursing, nutrition, occupational therapy, social service and medicine.

Since 1946, a $1,000 study grant is awarded annually to a woman student from a formerly occupied country for post-graduate training in an American university.

Tuberculosis clinics are operating in Georgia under the direction of the state health department through fraternity funds. Toy carts in hospitals, bearing Phi Mu's name, are sponsored by many collegiate and alumnae groups.

NEA PHOTOS TAKEN TONIGHT

Group pictures of the Student National Education Assn. will be made at a regular meeting tonight at 7 in the choir room of the Music Building. Dr. C. T. Southall, sponsor of the group, urges all members to attend.

Where's Your Spirit? Circle K Gives Awards

Plaques will be awarded to groups with the most spirit at the pep rally Friday night preceding the Tech-Arizona football game Saturday.

Two "spirit awards" will be given to the men and women's organization showing the most pep.

JOHN CONNALLY, secretary of the Circle K Club, will serve as master of ceremonies.

Lee Jackson Jr., president of the Red Raider Club is scheduled to speak at the rally which begins at 7:30 p.m. at the tramp circle, under the auspices of the Circle K Club. The Saddle Tramps will assist the sponsoring group.

GUESTS at the pep rally will include Raider coach DeWitt Weaver, E. J. Holub, Floyd Dellinger, and co-captains Jerry Bell and Mac Pague.

Young Rites Set Friday

Funeral services for Malcolm Young, 1958 Tech graduate, will be conducted at 4 p.m. Friday at the First Presbyterian Church in Lubbock.

SURVIVORS include his wife, the former Annette Bowden of Fort Worth, who also attended Tech; a 2-year-old daughter, Demetri; a brother, George A. Young an English instructor at Tech; and his parents, Dr. and Mrs. A. W. Young, 3305 45th Street. Dr. Young is head of the Tech Agronomy Department.

A memorial fund has been set up for Young, who was president of Alpha Tau Omega and a member of Alpha Pi Mu at Tech. Young's parents have asked that, instead of sending flowers, contributions to the memorial fund be sent to them at their address.

BSO Aids Tech Organizations As Link With Campus Activities

by GINGER MEYERS

Although Board of Student Organizations is unknown to many Tech students; it affects everyone who belongs to a campus organization," explained Dean James Allen, sponsor of BSO.

"BSO promotes a vast program on campus by coordinating campus activities, acting as a medium of communication among campus activities and expressing the views of its members concerning campus issues," continued Dean Allen.

THE BSO OFFICE is open from 9 a.m. to 12 a.m. and from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. Monday thru Friday except on Tuesday.

It is located in the Aggie barn. Secretarial staff under the direction of Cathie Conklin will type minutes, stencils and will do other secretarial work for any organizations in BSO.

"If any organization needs any work done, they can come by the BSO office and we'll do it," commented Cathie.

ANOTHER UNIQUE feature started by BSO this year is the campus post office located in the BSO office.

All campus mail addressed to an organization will be delivered to the BSO office where it should be picked up by each club's BSO delegate.

Seven committees compose the working facet of BSO.

Committees and chairmen are retreat, Jim Thompson; workshop, Joe Ben Hudgens; public relations, Glenn Cope; social calendar, Marilyn Gardner; library, Martha Kenley; constitution, Karen Smith and encyclopedia, Don Grimes.

Each committee handles a specific area.

"Retreat committee will make all preparations for the spring leadership retreat to which all organizations may send a delegate," explained Jim Thompson, chairman.

SPONSORING an annual workshop, collecting books on leadership for the library and gathering historical information on Tech are the tasks of the workshop, library and encyclopedia committees.

Promoting publicity on campus activities and acting as a public relations agent for BSO are the functions of the public relations committee.

"For example, this committee is handling all the publicity for the Fine Arts Festival," said Glenn Cope, chairman.

Correlating all the activities and events on campus so that they are evenly spread out during the year will be the job of the social calendar committee.

THESE committees are made up of BSO delegates chosen by each club on campus.

"If any organization has failed to elect a BSO representative, they should do so immediately," commented Gayland Pool, president.

"These delegates will attend a monthly BSO luncheon and report that meeting to their own individual clubs," continued Gayland.

DUES of $3 may be paid to Glenn Reynolds, treasurer, in order for a club to send a representative to BSO meetings and spring retreat.

Ex-Tech Wins Race

As the political races on the election dust settles names connected with Tech appear in the winners' column.

IN THE race for governor, New Mexico, John Burroughs, Tech graduate, defeated Edwin L. Mechem.

Burroughs, a member of the first freshman class at Tech, received his B.S. degree in husbandry in 1929. He was a member of 1928 judging which took first place in the Worth Livestock Judging and traveled to Chicago for the International Judging test.

THIS IS Burroughs' first venture into politics. He was avidly engaged in the peanut processing business.

Burroughs, his wife Jean, is also a former Tech student. Their four daughters live in Texas, N.M.

HAZEL CASEY, senior elementary education major recently in her first absentee ballot vote was for a winner, as he Robert R. (Bob) Casey, has named Congressman for the 22nd district.

CASEY HAS served as an District Attorney in state representative from County and most recently Judge of Harris County. He attended South Texas Law in Houston and is a member of the State Bar Assn.

Hazel, the oldest of nine, had only one comment as she came in — "I knew he would win!" she said confidently.

CASEY defeated Republican E. Kennerly.

Missionary From Japan Speaks at SUB Today

The Rev. James T. Magruder, missionary from Japan, will speak to the Presbyterian Student Association today at a noon luncheon in the Student Union Ballroom.

THE REV. MAGRUDER, who is visiting colleges and universities on behalf of the Student Volunteer Movement, is a graduate of Washington and Lee University at Lexington, Va., and of Union Theological Seminary of Richmond, Va. He served for four years during World War II in the 387th Regiment.

Kobe and Takamatsu, Japan, have been called home by Rev. Magruder and his wife for the last five years while they worked under the auspices of the Presbyterian Church of the U.S. Their work in Japan was closely related to the local Christian churches.

THE STUDENTS of Japan are of special interest to Rev. Magruder. He writes: "Restless in spirit and in search of a new authority, the new post-war generation of Japan presents an open frontier and calls for an urgent concern and response from the Christian church."

During the coming year Rev. Magruder will be on the staff of the Student Volunteer Movement of the National Council of Churches, serving as administrative secretary. Upon completion of this work he and his wife will return to Japan to work with college students in Kobe.

LUNCH reservations for the Thursday luncheon may be made by calling PO3-4392 before 10 a.m. Those who wish to come for the talk but not the luncheon are welcome to do so. Rev. Magruder will be available for private conversation in regard to missions, vocations, and the life of the church by appointment Thursday through the Presbyterian Student Center.

Conference Helps Round Out Tech

CAREERS CONFERENCE, an annual affair on the Tech Campus, brings to Business Administration students, and others interested, something they do not get in the classrooms—information directly from men working in various business fields.

It is obvious from the list of speakers and their positions that this year's conference cannot help but be a success.

These top-notch men from fields of accounting, economics, marketing, advertising, secretarial administration, business education and management are conducting daily sessions (Wednesday, Thursday, Friday) in the Tech Union Ballroom.

The school of Business Administration is also helping the Conference by encouraging instructors to excuse students who present attendance cards which are being given at the different sessions.

Careful planning by Delta Sigma Pi, national business fraternity, in cooperation with other organizations in the different fields, is what makes Careers Conference a success each year.

The result of such a conference isn't usually a tangible asset, immediately visible, but rather a better feeling toward one's line of work and more self-confidence in pursuing this work.

An affair of this type also provides a better name for Texas Tech among the professional people who are directly connected with a specific field, and this in turn helps the students who will one day be graduating and hunting a job.

Hats off to the Business People.

Techsans Talk Back

SOUNDS EASY

Editor,
Since coming to Tech I have been amazed at the lack of school spirit here. Now school spirit is something that is hard to define and some students may feel that Tech has a fine school spirit. But I do not believe this to be true.

At least I have not observed a spirit which compares to the spirit of schools such as Texas, Baylor, or A&M. Whenever someone is on one of these campuses he can feel the closeness of the students.

It seems that they are held together by some type of invisible bond. They seem to have a pride in belonging to their respective student bodies. Why does not Tech have such a spirit?

Without doubt there are many reasons. A few of the more apparent ones I have listed. First, there seems to be a feeling of hostility between many of the students and faculty.

This causes a feeling of ill will both in and out of classrooms. A probable reason for this is that a few of the faculty members seem to feel they need two or more years in order to instruct one class.

For this reason many students are required to repeat a course. This tends to cause students to feel the instructors should change their outlooks. But the instructors are not alone in the blame. Many students on the Tech campus seem to not apply themselves. Of course, this could disgust an interested instructor.

Second, there is a lack of cooperation between the administration and the student body. This is shown in many ways.

We have one recent example. I feel that a better atmosphere would exist if the administration would give the students more information about college operations which affect them.

Many students desire, and have a legitimate right, to know about such things as the food situation, the future use of revenue raised from the parking fee after the lots are paid for, the high cost of dorm room and board, etc.

Last, there seems to be a lack of interest shown in many of the school activities. This would not be if Tech had a good spirit. Students would support college activities if for no other reason than to back good old Tech.

Many may ask, "Why all the fuss about school spirit?" The answer is simple. Without it Tech will not develop properly, and there will always be exhibits of degrading character such as the "Suitcase Club," or food strikes.

A good school spirit will not eliminate all problems, but it will provide an atmosphere in which the existing problems may be solved in a satisfactory manner for the benefit of all concerned.

The student body, faculty, administration, and all who are connected with the college could work together instead of being divided into hostile camps.

Let's Win

Football again heads the list of weekend activities at Tech. Hopes are actually rising that we may win another ballgame.

Anyway, win or lose, the game should be quite colorful. Footballs should fill the air from the start, and who knows what will happen from there on out.

It figures that Tech will come up with something new to try and get back in the winning ways, and this new something coupled with Arizona's mixed-up formations should provide quite a show.

A short visit to the Tech Union Program Office earlier this week proved one thing—they are as busy as a bee hive.

Girls were running in and out getting posters fixed up, making phone calls and what not. There were two men students over in a corner busily solving a problem with papers and pencils while speaking in a low tone.

It was fun just to sit back and watch for a change.

Men in Dorms 7 and 8—better watch your parking in the new lot just east of the edifices. Although it may seem useless to drive around to the west side to park, it is the best idea since the new lot was made for off campus students.

The Security Patrol will have no alternative other than giving tickets. That's the way it goes.

A movie showing downtown the other day brought out very well what should happen to a gal who thinks she has everything, and thinks only of herself—"She lost her man!"

much noise as hard lead you know) to inform the campus of several rules of Weeks Hall.

First, "Girls in Weeks Hall will please refrain from walking through Doak Hall to classes."

We could understand this rule if Doak were still a boy's dorm, but—Doak girls walk through our halls and lounges to go the stores across the street and to take their washing to our basement to wash and dry their clothes in our washers and our dryers. (We admit having an abundance of six washers and four dryers for 375 girls.)

They also use our piano and our lounges. Rather than watch their T.V. in their lounge, they watch ours. We have no objection to Doak girls using our facilities "if" they will permit us to walk through their hall on the way to classes.

At the same time we are stomping through their halls in our ski boots on the way to nine o'clock, Doak girls are doing the same in their cleated shoes.

Secondly, "Noise must cease!" We were first told to go the basement to visit after ten o'clock, but this rule was quickly retracted because our voices carry up the stairs and through the vents and radiators. All of this over the unceasing roar of washers and dryers? Oh, come now!

Next they asked us to refrain from talking so loudly in our rooms because our voices carried from one floor to another through windows and buzzers.

Weeks Hall was so fortunate

"I'M SO GLAD YOU'RE THRILLED ABOUT FRATERNITY LIFE, SON—WHEN WILL YOUR 'PLEDGE TRAINING' END?"

"A Little Bit"

james hamm

One of Tech's more illustrious students recently said that Tech men students were trying to do away with the two basic necessities of life—food and "women."

HE BASED HIS reasoning on two recent events. One of them the anti-coed feeling about the "Tech Girl."

The other was recent food strikes in the men's dorms, during which the biggest portion of students in dorms affected refused to eat.

OUR ILLUSTRIOUS friend was wrong in thinking that there is an anti-female or anti-food feeling. Male techsans simply feel that a little better quality of both would help.

Since the first point is such a touchy question, we won't comment on it. As for the second point, the food situation, which to a large extent is brought about by misunderstanding and poor communication of opinion and fact, seems to be taking a turn for the good.

A DEFINITE and sincere effort is being made by both sides to provide for a smoother flow of information, complaints and suggestions between students and dormitory food service officials.

A plan now in formative stage would go a long way toward achieving the above objectives. This plan would set up closer communications between students and their dormitory food representatives, and between representatives and food service and administration officials.

THE PLAN built around regular conferences set aside by representatives for discussion with students who have complaints or suggestions, and regular meetings of representatives and dietitians. Meetings would also be held frequently with administration officials. A special mail box in each dormitory for representatives would provide a way for a student to register a written complaint or suggestion with his representative.

EVERY DISPUTE, including our food situation, has two sides. Persons affected should consider both sides, and work together to arrive at a solution. Extracurricular demonstrations often do more harm than good, and should not be used unless no other course of action is left open.

Antigone Theater in

by MARY HELEN FAIRLY
"Antigone" the drama depicts the first experiment with a new-type production (theater rounds) should produce a thrill experience to the audience. It will be seated approximately feet from the stage.

The modern performance with its one exception, given amateurs, promises to give sight to the Greek tragedy.

Ed Thompson, who has participated in professional performances over NBC Radio, commands the stage, as he plays Creon, the king of Thebes. Ed Thompson seems to command almost too much respect for part of the villain king.

'Antigone' Features Theater in The Round

by MARY HELEN FAIRLY
 "Antigone," the drama department's first experiment with an arena-type production (theater in the round) should produce a thrilling experience to the audience, who will be seated approximately two feet from the stage.

The modern performance which is, with one exception, given by amateurs, promises to give insight to the Greek tragedy.

Bud Thompson, who has participated in professional performances over NBC Radio, completely commands the stage, as he portrays Creon, the king of Thebes. But Thompson seems to command almost too much respect for the part of the villain king.

ANNE BARASCH in the title role of Antigone, gives an able performance, as the sister who defies Creon, her uncle, to bury the mutilated body of her brother, to grant his soul eternal rest.

Ismene, Antigone's younger sister, portrayed by Barbara Garnett, provides a wholesome interlude, for she is a completely normal young girl who does not want to die just to bury a body which is already rotting in the sun.

With the arguments of Ismene and Creon thus presented, this reviewer was wondering if there really was a need to bury the body of Polyneices.

AS THE STORY GOES, two brothers kill each other over the throne of their father. Upon their death, Creon, their uncle, becomes king, and orders one of them, Polyneices, left unburied as a traitor.

Creon asserts that he does not desire power, but that it was his duty to accept the crown. Polyneices' body is left unburied to set an example to citizens who might be contemplating a rebellion.

Bill Luck, as the first guard, offers a good performance to this supporting role. His portrayal, almost comical at times, serves to relieve some of the high tension of the play.

The nurse, played by Haleyon Hildreth, gives another touch of reality to the tragedy.

s gestions between students and dormitory food service officials. A plan now in formative stage would go a long way toward achieving the above objectives. This plan would set up closer communications between students and their dormitory food representatives, and between representatives and food service and administration officials.

THE PLAN built around regular conferences set aside by representatives for discussion with students who have complaints or suggestions, and regular meetings of representatives and dietitians.

Meetings would also be held frequently with administration officials. A special mail box in each dormitory for representatives would provide a way for a student to register a written complaint or suggestion with his representative.

EVERY DISPUTE, including our food situation, has two sides. Persons affected should consider both sides, and work together to arrive at a solution. Extracurricular demonstrations often do more harm than good, and should not be used unless no other course of action is left open.

Officials Plan Meet

Plans for the annual all-campus speech tournament will be formulated Thursday afternoon at an organizational meeting as Tech groups prepare to vie for the sweepstakes plaque and eight divisional trophies.

James E. Brennan, speech instructor, urges all organizations to elect a representative to appear at the meeting Thursday at 5 p.m. The council will make the rules, set the dates, and determine the events and fees for the tournament.

A series of contests is planned for the year, with nine winners to be announced in the spring. Brennan said that individuals may enter the all-campus event without a sponsoring organization.

Fish Cheerleaders Lead Rally Tonight

Starting off with a pre-game pep rally tonight at 7:15, newly-elected freshman cheerleaders will lead yells during the Picador's game against Hardin-Simmons at 8 p.m. at Jones Stadium. The rally is also at Jones Stadium.

Six cheerleaders recently elected are Beth O'Quinn, Ginger Gilbert, Sandra Allison, Ken Bailey, Jim Isham and John Appleby.

Beth, a liberal arts major from San Antonio, was cheerleader for two years at Northeast High School where she also served in the student council.

Since coming to Tech, she has been selected to march in the Angel Flight drill team and has been elected program chairman of Alpha Chi Omega pledge class. Recently she received best pledge award for October.

Ginger Gilbert, Amarillo liberal arts major, also was a cheerleader in high school. She is a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma pledge class and Tech Singers.

A Tech debater, Sandra Allison, Levelland, is a member of Zeta Tau Alpha pledge class.

Dallas boys fill two cheerleading positions — Ken Bailey from Hillcrest High and John Appleby, Highland Park.

Both Ken and John were in H-Y clubs during high school where John played for Highland Park's golf team.

Ken is a member of Tech Engineering Society and the Rodeo Assn, with John serving on the Tech Union Tuesday night dance committee.

Jim Isham, Lubbock, was choir president at Tom S. Lubbock and was elected senior day "Mr. Music." He is working with the Rodeo Association at Tech.

Oil Well Acidizing—STILL a challenging opportunity

In 1932 Dowell introduced the technique of stimulating production from oil wells with inhibited hydrochloric acid. Since that time the name Dowell has become synonymous with the chemical treatment of oil- and gas-bearing formations.

Acidizing has lost none of its importance to the oil industry over the past 26 years.

Today, the challenge of perfecting new acidizing techniques is greater than ever. Dowell engineers and scientists—in the field and in the laboratory—continue to discover new uses of acids, better means of application, more effective additive agents.

These continuing studies, however, are only as good as the men who initiate them, mold them, perfect them. Dowell's staff, from top to bottom, is made up of men who are not content with acid's remarkable record to date. They are men who seek and cross new frontiers in the field of oil well stimulation. If your interests lie in petroleum and industrial technology, you'll find an honest opportunity at Dowell to create your own limits, to grow with growth.

Dowell provides the oil industry with acidizing, fracturing and cementing services. Industrial plants are also served by Dowell with chemical cleaning of process equipment. This broad range of services means that whatever your career interests, you'll find variety and challenge at Dowell.

For full information on careers in engineering, sales, chemistry, physics, accounting, equipment design or management, write Personnel Department, Dowell, Box 536, Tulsa 1, Oklahoma. Or contact your Placement Officer for a Dowell campus interview.

RALPH'S RAMBLINGS

Received another letter this time to his work. Bill Dean, Toreador Sports Editor, in his column of Saturday, Nov. 1, "I can assure the readers of this column that I am not a member of the Kappa Kappa Gamma pledge class and Tech Singers."

Ralph: "We have a tough schedule for the Southwest Conference until 1959 that have been given on why they should. I have seen games with Tech, but their football team (maybe Tech just looks bad). To have a good football team (1) good school spirit, (2) a good or better coaching system has been up to par the first three of the last games. Of course, because when a team loses as spirit will fall off. The players and how they factor in winning a game. The win until the other team has a say, to heck with the game. I believe that a coaching only so much good, then he should believe."

The third and most important are the ones that really have to play. If a school has a coach who will play harder than if they are the same coach or coaches. Coaching staff, with the same thing to do with the change of boys have really gone down. I believe that a coaching only so much good, then he should believe."

Thanks for your comments on what you've said, but it's nice to hear from you.

RALPH'S RAMBLINGS

by
Ralph W. Carpenter

Received another letter this week. This time the writer signed his name to his work.

Bill Dean, Toreador Sports Editor made the letter situation clear in his column of Saturday, November 1, when he said:

"I can assure the readers of this paper that any letter, regardless of content, will be printed. However, any letter that is unsigned is useless."

I agree with Bill 100% on this policy. If a person has something to say — that's fine — but he should sign his name to what he thinks. If you can't do it, don't write.

Here is the letter:

Ralph,

"We have a tough schedule" or "we won't be ready for the Southwest Conference until 1960" are just some of the reasons that have been given on why the Raiders are not looking as they should. I have seen games where a team has been beaten worse than Tech, but their football team didn't give up as Tech has (maybe Tech just looks bad).

To have a good football team there are at least three factors: (1) Good school spirit, (2) Determined boys, (3) And foremost a good or better coaching system. School spirit this year, I think, has been up to par the first three games, but has fallen off during the last games. Of course, you can't blame the student-body because, when a team loses as much point-wise, the student-body spirit will fall off.

The players and how determined they are to win, is a great factor in winning a game. The Raiders have been determined to win until the other team has a two touchdown lead, then we just say, to heck with the game. This attitude may not be what the players feel, but I think it is what the players lead the fans to believe.

The third and most important factor is the coaches. They are the ones that really have control over how the boys want to play. If a school has a coach or coaches that the boys like, they will play harder than if they don't like the coaches or coach.

Some schools have lost games year in and year out under the same coach or coaches. Then the next year under a new coaching staff, with the same boys, will win most of their games. This means either two things. That the new coaching had something to do with the change or, the other schools, with the same boys, have really gone down.

I believe that a coaching staff or a coach can do a school only so much good, then he should move on to some place else."

W. B.

Thanks for your comments W. B. I can't agree with too much of what you've said, but it's nice to know you have the team's condition on your mind.

★—RWC—★

Looks like the effigy "hangers" are at it again. The latest victim of these fly-by-night operators, was Coach Woody Hayes of Ohio State. A stuffed dummy with a rope around its neck was found dangling from a campus tree.

Hayes consoled himself with an old motto of his — "when you're winning, you don't need friends. And when you're losing, you don't have any anyhow."

Personally, I feel that effigy hanging is about the most crude operation ever staged by college students.

Ever meet a Doubting Thomas?

A college senior once remarked to a Bell System interviewer: "A telephone career must be a mirage. I hear talk about fabulous training, fascinating work, grade-A job security, and rapid advancement in management. Sounds a bit too rosy. What's the real story?"

The interviewer knew mere talk wouldn't sell a skeptic. So he showed him some "profiles" of recent college graduates who had enjoyed that fabulous training, had worked at intriguing jobs, and had won early management promotions.

Our once-skeptical friend has been with the Bell System 3 years now—and is currently supervising the work of 55 people.

We've converted a host of Doubting Thomases. Whether doubtful or not, you'll learn a lot about rewarding telephone careers by talking with the Bell System interviewer when he visits your campus. ## Frosh Fall To Varsity In Saturday Swim Meet

The Freshman vs Varsity swimming meet held Nov. 1 was won by the Varsity 69 to 39. Coach James McNally reported that records were set in all events. "The next swim meet will be the Southwest Conference Relays, which are set for Dec. 20, but we're trying to get it changed to the 19th because of the nationally televised basketball game between Tech and Missouri on Dec. 20," Edsel Buchanan, director of men's intramurals, said Wednesday.

Raiders Polish Attack For Tricky Arizona

"The team has shown more spirit this week than any time this year, and I think that they're going to be ready to hit someone in Saturday's game."

THAT'S THE way that Joe Kerbel, Red Raider assistant coach summed up the week's workouts. The Tech squad went through long and intensive workouts the early part of the week, but according to Kerbel, the work will be eased somewhat today in order to sharpen up on the finer aspects of the Raider game.

Workouts this week have been marked by position changes, one of which moved Milton Vaughn into the number one left halfback position to replace Ronnie Rice. Dale Robinson has also been moved up, taking over at starting guard position.

HE SINGLED out Vaughn.

... Moved Up

Doug Duncan, and Floyd Dellinger as showing up particularly well this week in the backfield. Kerbel also said that Phil Williams and Roger Nesbitt have shown up well in the line and will probably see considerable action against Arizona. Mike Seay also was mentioned for his determined play this week.

In preparation for the contest with Arizona, the Raiders have spent much of the practice time this week preparing a defense for Arizona's "offense of the future", the slot-T. In describing this type of offense, Kerbel said that it tends to spread the defense more than the standard T formation, and a team can run more wide plays and pitchouts from it. He added that it is also an effective pass offense.

LEADING THE Arizona offense will be quarterback Ralph Hunsaker, the third best passer in the nation. The senior slot man for the Wildcats has completed 60 passes of 113 attempts for 722 yards. Favorite target for his aerial shots is end Dave Hibbert, who has caught 34 for 367 yards and has earned the second spot in the nation in the receiving department.

Kerbel compared Hunsaker's passing to that of Richie Petitbon of Tulane, whom the Raiders encountered last week. Kerbel added that although Hunsaker rates well as a passer, he does not have the running potential which Petitbon used to keep the Raiders off balance. However, the Tech assistant added that a team cannot afford to let down against anyone with Arizona's passing potential.

DESPITE THE fact that they own one of the nation's top passing combinations, the Wildcats have managed only two wins, topping Utah State and West Texas State. The victory over West Texas is common one between Tech and Arizona, since Tech defeated the Buffaloes in their second game of the season.

The Wildcats have lost to Arizona State, Iowa State, Tulsa, Colorado, New Mexico, and Idaho.

Leading rushers in the Wildcat backfield are Billy Overall with 134 yards and Warren Livingston with 143 yards. Livingston also rates second in the pass receiving department with 11 catches for 125 yards.

LAST SEASON the Red Raiders defeated the Wildcats by a score of 28-6 for their second win of the year. This affair was a wide open game, with Arizona attempting 40 passes and completing 27 of them, while Tech completed 9 in fifteen attempts.
