

Vietnam key issue

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. — Victors in a congressional primary test which sank the political hopes of Shirley Temple Black agreed Wednesday that Vietnam will continue the No. 1 issue in next month's runoff.

Republican Paul N. McClosky, 40, a veteran of the Korean War, attributed his one-sided triumph over the former actress to a broad appeal to the moderates in both parties.

"THERE CANNOT be a simple answer to the complex question of the Vietnam war," said McClosky. He favors gradual U.S. disengagement from Southeast Asia.

"I feel that the voters of San Mateo County did not want extremism on either side," he added.

Democrat Roy Archibald, 47, former mayor of San Mateo, warned against both unilateral withdrawal and escalation that might precipitate a third world war.

"I favor a negotiated peace based on our strength there now," Archibald said.

The winners said the depth of their differences on Vietnam policies would be clarified in the month's campaign before the Dec. 12 final.

Husband's wrath

KALAMAZOO, Mich. — A disgruntled husband, angry at his wife, took out his wrath Tuesday on a grocery store.

He went on a shopping spree. For more than four hours, the man loaded 30 grocery carts and ran them past a checkout counter.

WORKERS at the Kalamazoo store waited 45 minutes after the regular closing hour while the man, promising to pay when finished, kept shopping.

The bill added up to $618.67. The man, from nearby Portage, confessed he had only $10. He told police he was angry at his wife.

The husband was allowed to leave the store empty-handed and without any minor court charges. And the workers had to return the groceries, meat, produce, beer, wine, records and toys to the shelves.

UT protest continues

AUSTIN — Anti-Vietnam war demonstrators returned to the University of Texas union building Wednesday where Marines are recruiting potential officers.

Only half a dozen stood outside the building during the noon hour, shouldering placards reading: "Join hands—not the Marines."

ONE DEMONSTRATOR took his placard inside and walked up and down in front of the Marines' booth. He identified himself as John Gibson, 21, senior English and philosophy major from Waco.

Gibson said he attended Baylor two years, where his father teaches music, but he was fired from his campus job of security guard dispatcher after he tried to organize a chapter of the Students for a Democratic Society (SDS).

Tuesday, about 30 demonstrators staged a sitdown demonstration in front of the Marines' Booth.

Postal raises okayed

WASHINGTON — A bill to raise postal rates by $917 million a year and salaries of federal employees by $2.6 billion a year, when fully effective in 1969, received final approval Wednesday from the Senate Post Office and Civil Service Committee.

While differing in some respects with a House-passed version, the Senate bill agrees on a one-cent increase, to 6 cents an ounce, for first-class letters and a two-cent boost, to 10 cents, for airmail letters.

IT THUS appears probable those boosts will become effective early next year.

The pay raises would go to 2 million civilian employees of the federal government.

Postal workers would receive an immediate 6 per cent boost, retroactive to last Oct. 1 and another 5 per cent next July 1.

The 1.3 million other civilian workers would receive 4.5 per cent raises immediately and at least 3 per cent next July.

A third-stage increase would be given in 1969.

The raises average 1 1/2 per cent for the full, three-stage increase.

Nazi suspect arrested

BERLIN — A man suspected of being Nazi Gestapo chief Heinrich Mueller has been arrested in Panama at West German request, the West Berlin press office said today.

Mueller vanished after World War II and many Germans thought him dead. The Gestapo was Adolf Hitler's secret police.

THE BERLIN announcement said the request has been made after an informer had told the prosecutor of the Berlin district court that a man, who was at present in Panama, was identical to Mueller.

The announcement was preceded by an announcement last week of the West German Central Office for Nazi Crimes at Ludwigsburg that it had informed the Berlin prosecutor of a new "hot trail" to Mueller.

Desegregation plan

NEW YORK — The district lines that keep poor children from going to wealthy well-equipped city and suburban public schools are the targets of a new school desegregation campaign announced Wednesday.

The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People began the first of what it said would be a series of cases primarily in the North aimed at making states responsible for equal educational opportunities for all children.

ROBERT L. CARTER, NAACP general counsel made it clear he is looking at the amount of money a district can afford to spend on each pupil, as well as the degree of integration.

A poor district, he said, cannot make education "a viable tool for Negro kids."

In its first case, the civil rights group simply asked the 80 per cent Negro Wyandanch school district in eastern Long Island's Suffolk County to disband, and distribute its pupils among five neighboring, wealthier districts.

Name-change survey planned next month

By KATIE O'NEILL
News Editor

An independent committee working for the Tech name-change will conduct a survey of ex-students, students, and faculty during December.

A public drawing to select approximately 500 persons from each of the three groups will be made at 3 p.m. Dec. 12 at the Ecumenical Campus Ministries building. Persons selected in the drawing will be sent a questionnaire and informational literature.

THE COMMITTEE is composed of "most of the members of the Faculty Advisory Committee-Student Government name survey committee plus additional students and ex-students," said Tom Burtis, member of the committee.

He said Russell Bean is temporary chairman of the group, but added the total membership "had not been checked out yet."

The drawing will be conducted completely at random from lists of the student body and faculty and from a list of ex-students being compiled from the Joint Name-Change Committee files, mailing lists for Ex-Students Association publications such as The Texas Techian, the ESA magazine, past-graduation rosters and old telephone directories. Fifty volunteers from all three groups have assembled the list.

THE COMMITTEE will allow a month for the questionnaires to be returned, and on Jan. 9 a public opening and tabulation of the results are scheduled. The results of the survey will be turned over to the Tech Board of Directors.

The survey will be financed through private contributions. Burtis estimated the entire cost of printing and mailing at less than $500.

The questionnaire includes six names: Texas Tech University, Texas Technological University, Texas State University, Texas State University and Technological College, Texas State University of Arts, Sciences and Technology, and University of the Southwest.

THE POLL will not be conducted on a yes or no basis, but rather will have a five-point rating scale, enabling a rating from great advantage to great disadvantage.

Results will be compiled separately for each of the three groups in three categories: advantage, disadvantage and neutral or no opinion.

The statistical summary should show the relationship, if any, between attitude toward a name change in general and attitudes toward specific names, according to the survey proposal of the FAC and the Student Association.

A MORE detailed statistical breakdown should show the relationship, if any, between these attitudes and the decade of graduation for exes, the academic rank for faculty, and the classification for students, it said.

The idea of surveying the opinions of parties involved in the name change has twice been rejected by the Ex-Students Association.

Early in the fall Max Blakney, Student Association president, proposed a survey, but the Ex-Students Association executive board took the proposal "under advisement," killing the measure.

The Faculty Advisory Council and the Students Association resubmitted the proposal at a Homecoming meeting, but it was rejected by the Ex-Student Association executive board and council.

Meat inspection not Texas requirement

AUSTIN (AP) — In Texas, it's possible for a housewife to buy meat packed at a plant that is never examined for disease or unsanitary conditions by a state, federal or city inspector.

Texas is one of the 22 states without mandatory meat inspection laws that witnesses referred to in testimony this week before the U.S. Senate Agriculture Committee.

CONGRESS IS considering several bills to tighten meat inspection laws, including one that would extend federal inspection to all plants except those covered by state regulations satisfactory to the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Since 1945, the state has had a voluntary meat inspection law. Owners of packing plants and slaughter houses pay the costs.

About 60 cities — including Dallas,

Fort Worth, Houston and San Antonio — have their own inspectors, operating under general supervision from the State Health Department. Forty-six state inspectors and seven veterinarians maintain constant, day-to-day surveillance over the 42 plants that requested inspection.

But there's a void, and according to a spot check by federal inspectors the conditions in the unregulated plants are bad.

DR. GEORGE F. KUTCH, Texas A&M-educated veterinarian who heads the Health Department's meat inspection division, says these are "small places, by and large, selling only locally. How many there are, we have no way of knowing."

Kutch said a few uninspected plants sell their products in more than one town.

Campus transit system heads Senate agenda

By RITA WILLIAMS
Campus Editor

The Student Senate will consider a bill today which would set up an experimental campus bus system for the spring semester.

The original bill, written by Sen. Robert Mansker, has been amended by the Campus Facilities committee and will be introduced in today's special meeting.

SENATE PRESIDENT Jay Carter said final vote on the bill will probably be taken in Tuesday's regular Senate meeting.

Carter said the proposed system of 6-8 buses will require an increase of $1 to $2 in each student's activity fee during spring registration.

Lubbock Transit Corp., managed by C. E. Prenevost, will provide the buses for a trial run in the spring. The Senate bill would call for a campus referendum to be conducted sometime next semester to determine student opinion on the effectiveness of the trial system.

STUDENTS WOULD also be able to vote whether they would be willing to pay the student service fee increase each semester so they would not have to pay for individual rides.

Prenevost said details of the system cannot be worked out until the amount students are willing to pay is determined.

He said that although he doesn't know what his budget will be, his recommendation is for six buses running on campus plus the number needed to accommodate students having classes in Municipal Coliseum.

Prenevost, who will give details of the system at tonight's meeting, said his proposal would provide buses every 10 minutes and five minutes at some points on campus. He said some buses would run as frequently as every three minutes through the center of the campus.

CARTER SAID the details of the system cannot be worked out until the Senate takes action on the bill.

Prenevost said the trial run must be on a full-scale basis as close to the permanent system as possible. He said the experiment last year proves what will happen if adequate facilities are not provided.

The system conducted last spring failed for lack of students willing to ride the buses and pay the fare each time. At the outset of the trial, a fare of 10 cents was charged but it was later lowered to 5 cents per ride.

Tonight's Senate meeting will be at 8 p.m. in room 260 of the Ad Building.

Friday will be the last day for sophomores to have their pictures made for the 1968 La Ventana.

Students may go to Koen's Studio from 8 a.m. to noon and 1:10-5 p.m. No appointments are necessary.

Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday will be the last make up dates for everyone in order to have their picture in the La Ventana.

General claims 'progress'

Viet Cong push war initiative

SAIGON (AP) — Flames and explosions set off by three heavy mortar attacks on American military holdings at Dak To over a period of 13 hours Wednesday pointed out the Communists' struggle to win the initiative in the Vietnam war.

Massive fires lighted the night sky and shellbursts from a burning, 500-ton ammunition dump jolted the central highlands around Dak To, 270 miles north of Saigon, the bloodiest front in the traditionally bloody month of November.

U.S. gunners responded with counter-fire.

JET PLANES hurled bombs and flaming napalm at suspected emplacements of North Vietnamese mortar crews in the jungles around Dak To. The first four or five Communist shells destroyed two U.S. C130 transport planes, each valued at $2.5 million at a forward base camp of the U.S. 4th Infantry Division.

A third transport was damaged, its fuel tank ruptured, but was taxied out of danger by its pilot, Capt. J. K. Glenn.

American and South Vietnamese troops stood to arms against the possibility the North Vietnamese would follow up with a human wave assault.

Communist troops also struck in other areas. Red gunners shot down a U.S. helicopter in the coastal lowlands northeast of Dak To, killing eight Americans. That was their third such helicopter downed there this week. Shelling of a base camp of the U.S. 9th Infantry Division's 3rd Brigade in the Mekong Delta wounded 15 GIs.

DESPITE the tactical setback at Dak To, Gen. William C. Westmoreland declared the Vietnam situation is more encouraging than he has seen in four years in the combat zone.

Arriving in Washington for conferences with President Johnson, the commander of U.S. forces in Vietnam portrayed the war effort in a talk with newsmen as "very, very encouraging."

U.S. military officials expressed belief here last Saturday that aggressiveness demonstrated by the Viet Cong and their Northern allies in recent weeks could not be maintained.

They said the outlook was that American forces would "accentuate the progressive pressure" they have been capable of exerting on the enemy for more than a year.

THE COMMUNISTS still profess to believe that, by making inroads against the allied war machine in South Vietnam, they can win political capitulation by the United States, just as they did in forcing France out of Indochina in the 1950s.

Morgenthau says U.S. losing Vietnam war

By BETSY CERULLO
Staff Writer

Dr. Hans J. Morgenthau said Wednesday night the United States is losing the war in Vietnam and blamed an antiquated foreign policy for the situation.

Fifth in the University Speaker's Series, the University of Chicago political science professor said the U.S. is also losing its face in Europe. "An obsolete foreign policy is the primary reason the United States is losing both the war in Vietnam and face in Europe."

He earlier had taken verbal slaps at President Johnson.

Dr. Morgenthau assured his audience that the re-establishment of NATO as an important alliance must be forgotten. "NATO is in serious dishonor," stated Morgenthau. He said we should not waste our time trying to regain lost faith in the alliance, but rather correct our present policy overseas.

HE SAID COMMUNISM is another change to which we must adjust. "In this day there is no longer one type of communism; there are several." In regard to both our allies and the Communists, the United States must consider the uncommitted one-third of the world. These countries consisting chiefly of Africa, Latin America, and part of Asia, could decide to ally themselves with either the allies or the Communists.

Nuclear power is now a cause for revolution he added. "For the first time in history," Morgenthau said, "there is a bipolar nuclear force."

WESTMORELAND said Monday the North Vietnamese were "taking a terrific beating" around Dak To.

The North Vietnamese Communist party newspaper Nhan Dan implicitly challenged that assessment Tuesday.

Christmas consumer mark eyed

NEW YORK (AP) — Retailers expect higher price tags and fattened consumer income to boost Christmas sales to a record high and carry figures for the year to new heights.

"The spendable income is here," says an executive of Gimbel's, one of New York City's largest department stores. "Very definitely money is not tight for home furnishings and fashion needs."

"MORE PEOPLE are buying. They feel more affluent today, their taste is better, they're better educated, they want better merchandise."

The National Retail Merchants Association estimates that 1967 Christmas buying will exceed 1966 by 6 per cent to reach a new peak. The association declines to make a dollar estimate buy says 25 per cent of the year's retail business is done in the last 2 1/2 months. It placed 1966 business at $26 billion—a record.

Government economists foresee heavy Christmas buying and a drop in the consumer savings rate which was a comparatively high 6.9 per cent of income after taxes during the third quarter indicating a discernible loosening of buyer purse strings.

An Associated Press sampling of merchants across the country produced these estimates:

RETAILERS in the Washington, D.C. area are optimistic and expect a Christmas shopping record. The Washington Board of Trade says retail sales should be up 4 to 5 per cent.

In Atlanta, Ga., Richard H. Rich, chairman of Rich's Inc., the city's largest department store, reports the present trend indicates a 1967 increase about double what had been expected. William Schwartz, Southeast regional manager of Zayre's, a discount chain, says "1967 will be a banner year. Christmas business will be excellent."

WALTER L. BERQUIST, president of Bullocks Division of Federated Department Stores in Los Angeles, says: "Christmas sales are expected to be moderately higher."

He said nuclear weapons cannot be rationally used for a means of warfare.

Morgenthau believes further nuclear testing is absurd. "Russia can already destroy the U.S. two or three times over, why worry about whether the U.S. can destroy Russia three or four times over?" said Dr. Morgenthau.

THE FIFTH and most important phase of the U.S. policy to be corrected is our attitude toward ourselves, the professor said. "What do we want to achieve? What are our vital interests? Is Vietnam of primary concern to the United States?" questioned Morgenthau.

In an interview prior to his speech, Morgenthau was asked to state his opinion of the U.S. stand in Vietnam. "The United States is definitely taking an unpopular stand in matters of foreign policy. Nobody in Europe defends our position and there is only criticism."

Dr. Morgenthau predicted President Johnson will run for a second term, even though the polls point to his present unpopularity. "Dogmatically, Johnson will run again. This man cannot live without power," stated Morgenthau.

Unlike many critics of the U.S. policy overseas, Morgenthau offers a definite solution.

"The establishment of a civilian government supported by allied military force will bring the Communists to the negotiation table. Of course, the inevitable outcome of these negotiations is that the Communists will rule Viet Nam."

More specific guidelines needed

The perennial subject of women's rules will again be brought to light at tonight's Student Senate meeting and, at the risk of being overly optimistic, something finally may be accomplished.

The Senate will approach the issue through the Association of Women Students and Women's Residence Council, the organizations which set women's policy with the approval of the Dean of Women. The Senate has never before asked for the cooperation of AWS and WRC, and this most certainly is needed for any change in women's rules.

The re-evaluation of rules will involve three often-criticized practices: call downs, room checks and ODAs (Obvious Displays of Affection). The Senate will point out that none of these rules are specific as to what guidelines should be followed in enforcing them, and as a result legislators and student employees differ greatly in handing out "punishment." Interpretation is left to them, hardly an equitable method of enforcement.

But what's even more important than equality of enforcement is the basis for even having the latter two rules. The primary reason for having them is given as "the girls want it that way." We doubt that most of them really want it that way.

The possibility of WRC's conducting a referendum in women's dorms has been mentioned by Student Association President Max Blakney, and the suggestion is a good one. If coeds really want semi-weekly or weekly room checks and ODAs then they should be continued. If not, they should be discontinued.

Tech cave club works and grows

By LANE ARTHUR
Staff Writer

A last look at the sun and sky and then a sudden plunge into darkness mark the beginning of Tech caver Bob Dunn's descent into the underworld.

With his carbide lamp on, Dunn faces a labyrinth of passages. Already his first important decision must be made. Should he go left, right or straight ahead? Dunn chooses the left passage, marks it with an arrow pointing out, gets on his stomach and wriggles through.

By following a few simple rules Dunn, an experienced caver, will have no trouble finding his way back to the surface. Dunn is secretary of the Texas Tech Speleological Society which was organized in 1964 by Joe Compton and Suzanne Fowler. Dr. David Howe is the sponsor.

each year to caves in New Mexico and Texas for the sheer joy of caving. The caver is beset with the same urge of all explorers—to go where others have not gone, to see what others have not seen.

EVERY LABOR DAY members of the Tech club participate in a regional project where cavers from all over the state converge in one county to search for and map new caves. Members also attend a Board of Governors meeting held quarterly in San Saba and a convention held yearly in South-Central Texas to discuss new ideas and techniques of caving.

"The main objectives of the Tech club are to promote safety, cave conservation and good landowner relations," Dunn said.

Club dues will be used to buy equipment to train its members in vertical caving.

Tech 'Red Day' set

Tech 'Red Day' committee appealed Monday to Tech students and Lubbock area football fans to wear red Saturday for the Tech-Baylor football game. Jerry Spencer, dairy industry senior from Sulphur Springs and a member of the committee, said signs on the campus would call for special dress to show student support of Tech's Red Raider football team.

"We want everyone to wear red," Spencer said, "and we intend to show the Raiders a stadium full of red shirts, red ties, red coats, red flowers, or whatever a person can think of in wearing apparel that is red and can be seen."

Red Day, sponsored annually by the Saddle Tramps, has received support from the University Daily, which will print its Saturday paper with red ink.

TODAY THE CLUB boasts 24 members with Miss Fowler serving as vice-president and Jon Vinson as president. The club is a member of the Texas Speleological Association.

Persons often ask what one gets out of caving. The answer is a lot of hard work and satisfaction.

The club makes several trips

Bradley, Hailey pass Hargett in conference offensive statistics

DALLAS — Idleness by Texas A&M's Edd Hargett Saturday proved to be a workshop for Bill Bradley of Texas and Robert Hailey of Rice last week. Bradley, the do-everything-quarterback for the Longhorns, moved ahead of Hargett in total yardage production, while the Rice quarterback took over the forward pass leadership in the Southwest Conference. Bradley's total offense of 242 yards against Baylor gives him 1,418 for the season, 161 more than that accumulated by Hargett. Hailey completed 17 of 31 passes against Arkansas to run his completion total to 87, seven more than the idle Hargett. SMU's Mike Livingston still has the best per-game completion average, however, with 24.0 to 12.4 for Hailey and 10.0 for the Aggie star.

been responsible for one more touchdown, 13 to 12, but the Longhorn has directed his charges to an edge in victories, 6 to 4. All other leaders in individual statistics maintained their leadership through the eighth week of the campaign, although A&M's Bill Hobbs and Ross Brubacher of the Aggies are now sharing the pass interception category with Tommy Trantham of Arkansas and Jacky Allen of Baylor, with five each. Arkansas' David Dickey increased his scoring lead by adding two more touchdowns for a season total of 11. Soph Larry Alford of Tech stretched his punt return leadership despite a surge by Gary Adams of Arkansas into second place on the strength of four run-backs against Rice for 100 yards, one of them for 52.

mean on 22 kicks in the last three games. That gives him 39.4 for the season and lifts him to fourth place. TCU's continuing comeback enabled the Horned Frogs to pull their total offense to 2,079 yards, even Steven with that of the opposition. Meantime, Texas went ahead of its opposition in total yardage for the first time this season. A 403 yards spurge against Baylor while yielding only 188 enabled the Longhorns to outdistance its eight opponents by 200 yards.

Donnie Gibbs of TCU, the 1966 SWC punting champion, continued with impressive comeback efforts. Averaging only 36.0 through his first four games, Gibbs has had a 44.3

Pics, Owlets clash

The Texas Tech Picadors journey to Houston Thursday night to battle the Rice freshmen in a Southwest Conference game. The Picadors, who got their first taste of victory last week in a 21-20 squeaker over the Texas A&M fish, are currently sporting a 1-2 record.

Quarterback Jerry Watson will direct the Pic offense. Watson, in the A&M game, was Tech's leading rusher with 138 yards on 22 carries. He also scored three touchdowns and completed three of six passes for 39 yards.

Hallowed tradition of "pinning" a girl is up-dated by Sprite bottle caps.

According to an independent survey (we took it ourselves), a startling new practice is becoming widespread on some college campuses.

Suddenly, fraternity men are no longer "pinning" the lovely young things that catch their eye.

Instead, they reach for a bottle of tart, tingling Sprite—and proceed to "cap" the object of their affections.

Why has this come about? Perhaps because of what happens when you go through the ceremony of opening a bottle of Sprite.

It fizzes! Roars! Buzzes! Tingles! Bubbles!

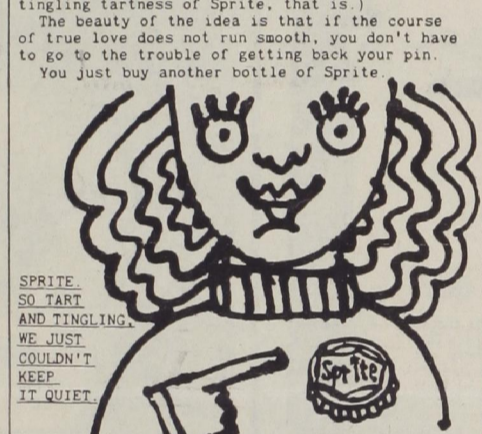

All of which makes for a much more moving moment than to simply "pin" a girl.

Then, too, the intimacy of two people engaged in the act of opening a bottle of Sprite in itself leads to strong emotional involvement.

Capped off, of course, by the sharing of a few moments of delicious abandon. (Tasting the tingling tartness of Sprite, that is.)

The beauty of the idea is that if the course of true love does not run smooth, you don't have to go to the trouble of getting back your pin.

You just buy another bottle of Sprite.

SPRITE SO TART AND TINGLING. WE JUST COULDN'T KEEP IT QUIET.
