Aggies' Steers Show Average 2-Pound Gain

50 Herefords Under Rations Experiment On Tech Farm

The 50 hereford steers that are being fed experimentally by the Tech department of animal husbandry have averaged a daily gain of 2.6 pounds during the 28-day feeding period ending January 29. These steers are being fed in five lots. Different rations are given each lot to determine the benefits of various feeding mixtures both in weight gained and in cost per hundredweight of the added beef.

Each lot has received equal amounts of milo head chop and alfalfa hay. Lots one and two have been given four pounds of cottonseed meal per head per day. The third and fourth groups were fed three pounds of cottonseed meal, while the steers in lot five ate two pounds of this feed. The first, second and third divisions were allowed all the sorghum silage that they would eat, and lots two and four were fed cottonseed hulls in the same proportion.

Average cost per hundredweight gained is $6.15 per steer. The data compiled in this experiment will be used by J. Russel Reed, graduate student of Tech, in writing his thesis. Reed holds the Texas Cottonseed Crushers fellowship.

At the end of the 140-day feeding period, April 25, complete information will be given at the annual feeders day program at which the steers will be exhibited. This is the second progress report given, marking the end of 56 days.

Co-eds Put Each Other To Sleep For A Pastime

What co-eds do in their spare time is their own business. That is, as long as they're not hurting anyone else. However, some of their efforts to pass the time away may result in harm to others. The practice of putting each other to sleep temporarily by pressing on the jugular veins seems to be the victim who is requested to take three deep breaths and then passes out.

The effect is different, depending on the individual. Some laugh hysterically, while others trangle and jerk as if having a convulsion. A complete loss of the senses usually occurs.

Medical explanation is as follows: pressure on either side of the larynx voice box will result in constriction of the internal jugular veins and increased cerebral pressure. Under normal conditions the change would not be great enough to produce any noticeable change in the processes of the brain.

Immediately adjacent to the internal jugular vein lie the common carotid arteries. It would be difficult to obtain enough pressure on the common carotid arteries to decrease the circulation of blood to any way.

Pressure on the carotid sinus, a pulsating area of the parasympathetic nervous system, the reflex which is to slow the heart rate.

This slowing of the heart in an occasional case may result in fainting. Even in an individual with a very stable nervous system, the heart rate can be slowed by pressure stimulation of the carotid sinus.

'Throw That Lady Away!' Not Literally, You Dope

By PHYLLIS HENRY TOREADOR STAFF WRITER The slight man standing on the bleachers in the gym yelled, "Throw her away. Throw that lady away!"

But Jimmie Clossin, director of country dances, doesn't mean to be taken literally. He goes on to explain that "Throw her away" is the caller's "patter" for a variation of a popular square dancing step he is teaching to the 402 members of Tech's second country dance school.

Most of the fun and variation of square dancing and other country dances is the different calls of the figures. For example several mental jittersbugs can learn plenty from:

"Now we'll swap and now we'll trade Your pretty girl for my old maid."

Or even boys who never liked to dance before, learn to step out on:

"Ladies bow and gents bow-bow If that ain't huggin' I'll show you how Ring up four as you come around"

Dr. S. S. McKay will be the instructor in history 437, American history of the early 19th century, at 7 o'clock on Tuesday nights in room 214 of the Administration building.

The fee per course will be $15, and Mr. McDonald added that checks may be postdated.

Singers from 15 states and two foreign countries made up the 118 voice chapel choir at Carlton college.

The fees for a course will be $30 for the two terms, or $15 for each term. A breakage deposit of $3 will also be charged, any unused part of which will be refunded. For further information or reservations may be made by communicating with Professor Murdough.

This Schiaparelli Doesn't Rate Very Well Here

By JANE CROSLY TOREADOR STAFF WRITER

Experts like Schiaparelli may set the styles, girls, but here's what the boys like and don't like.

After all, whom do you dress to please—Schiaparelli?

The men eagerly confess that big hats or dizzy-looking hats put them in a cold sweat. None is able to give any reason why a girl should not wear a cocky hat if she chooses, except that the masculine sex just doesn't particularly like any kind of hats.

Red fingernails no longer fill the male heart with terror, nor the desire to yell bloody murder, but several of the bachelors interviewed admitted they were allergic to certain shades of bright red. One confided, "I like polish just the shade of a pink check."

A mighty touchy subject was the merits and demerits of backless evening gowns. Ed doesn't mind if a Coed's back is exposed, so long as it isn't exposed too much.

Another admitted that he always has a "funny" feeling when his hand rested on perspiring feminine backs.

On the subject of evening dress, opinions of the bachelors, from all divisions and classes of the college varied. Most prefer flowing skirts in evening gowns rather than fitted ones because girls appear more graceful in full skirts. None knew much about gowns with trains, but one expressed the belief that they get in the way.

"I don't want to be worried about crushing a girl's corsage while piloting her across the dance floor so I prefer flowers worn in the hair or on the shoulders." This was an answer to the question

Good! But What Do They Wear At Recitals?

WINSTON SALEM, N. C.—(ACP)—Choir practice usually brings to mind the picture of a group sitting behind the altar of the church on Wednesday nights.

But that picture wouldn't fit in the case of the Brevard college choir, which last year won recognition throughout the south for its performances.

The co-eds of that organization, wearing light shoes, shorts, do their choir practicing on the cindertrack—running, sprinting and jumping.

John W. Hawkins, head of the department of music, says the physical exercise develops the physique to such a degree that bodily movements are performed with grace and precision by the subconscious mind.

"Then, the physical movement automatically associates with musical expression," he declares.

Men's Inter-Club Council Called To Meet Sunday

Modern Turkeys Go Streamline At Texas Tech

To modernize Thanksgiving a "streamlined" turkey has been developed by the United States national poultry experiment station at Beltsville, Maryland, from which Tech poultry department plans to get some eggs.

This white "streamliner" has been bred in answer to the demands of consumers who have been compelled to eat cold turkey for days after Thanksgiving. This latest in turkeys has a dressed weight of about seven pounds, with the same build and large proportion of white meat that characterize the broad breasted bronze.

When this little newcomer sees Tech from the half shell, he will, perhaps, be a bit embarrassed to find himself among the toms of Tech's present flock which weigh as much as 28 pounds dressed.

Morris Runs For Annual Editor

Five Candidates Have Petitioned To Date

Clifton Morris, junior student of Lubbock, officially announced his candidacy for editor of La Ventana in the annual political campaign for publication officers. Election of publication officers will be held Thursday, February 27, and the student council election will be held the last week in April.

Four previously announced candidates are George Musick, junior student of Lubbock, for re-election as business manager of The Toreador; A. J. Kemp, junior student from Clovis, for re-election as editor of La Ventana; Bill Wood, junior of Lubbock, as editor of The Toreador; and Art Weber, junior from Sherman, as business manager of La Ventana.

Petitions signed by 15 per cent of the qualified voters must be filed by candidates with the secretary of the student council association by Friday, February 14.

Candidates for the offices of secretary, business manager, student representatives to the Athletic Council, yell leaders, and publications must have at least 60 semester hours at the time of assuming office.

Unofficial announcements may have been made by other students who are getting their own petitions for these offices, according to James Snyder, president of student council.

A general convocation probably will be held to introduce candidates following the example set last year by the Pre-Law club in arranging the campaign. The student council made the ruling last year that no campaign literature that would clutter up the campus could be used by candidates.

Petition sheets are furnished by the student council and may be obtained in that office.

Aid For Cotton Farmer Seen In Lower Skirts

Do you feel you should aid humanity? Well, if you are a girl, you could help the farmer by letting those skirts down a wee bit.

The census bureau reveals it takes less cotton to make the average short skirt than it took to make just one of grandma's many petticoats.

Surplus of cotton goes up and and just as skirts do. Back in the gay nineties when grandma wore long dresses with hoops and ruffles galore, cotton surplus was non-existent. Farmers felt lucky and thought their occupation a good one.

But each year skirts got shorter. Each time an inch was taken off a dollar dropped from the farmers' pocket. Now that skirts barely cover the knees, and very often don't, the poor farmer sits wondering what is to become of him.

Aggie Student Elected Prexy

W. Howard Strawn, senior agriculture student from Clarendon, was elected president of the Tech dairy club in a meeting held February 6.

Other officers elected for this semester were: vice president, James W. Day Jr., junior from Plainview; secretary - treasurer, Virgil I. Woodfin, junior from Mexia; reporter, J. Augustus Cooper, senior from Roaring Springs. The dairy club will have change of the program of the February 11 meeting of the agriculture club.

Isolated Obstacle

FAR-REACHING influence of the tremendous National Defense program is making itself felt more and more throughout the country, even to the remotest corners, with the passing of each week. And each week marks with increasing prominence, not the part that labor is to play in this panoramic production step-up, but the attitude with which it will enact its admittedly all-important role.

So far that attitude has been one of cooperation. Labor unions have shown themselves willing to meet the industrialists halfway. And with one glaring exception, capitalists have demonstrated the desire to reciprocate.

Henry Ford refuses to abide by the dictates of federal and state labor statutes, conduct that is tantamount to placing a higher value on maintenance of the Ford "labor policy" than on the completion of National Defense program. Of all the great capitalists in the country, does Mr. Ford alone feel strong enough to defy the Federal government? And can he do it with impunity?

The fact that freedom to organize is denied labor by one great company will create friction between the CIO and the AF of L, between labor and capital, and up and down the long line of national defense preparation. All of which brings into the limelight the labor policy of the Ford organization.

Model homes, model communities, high standards of living—undoubtedly Ford has provided its employees with these and numerous other benefits which enable it to feel a certain righteousness in rebuffing all attempts of labor unions to organize Ford plants.

Benefits? Yes! Freedom? No! "So long as you're a good boy, George, and don't entertain any ideas that conflict with the company policies, you're o.k. here. But don't try to develop any individuality, don't have any thoughts 'outside of school.'" Such is suppression, of the coldest and most unrefined variety. It's razor sharp in its severance in twain of the philosophy of Americanism.

What should be the reaction of the college graduate just out of an atmosphere where the very fundamental concepts of knowledge are based (or should be) on the tenets of freedom—to think, to speak, and to disseminate opinion freely so long as it does not impose on the rights of others—to frank and notarized suppression?

In the first place, he must recognize the fact that labor is an element of production equally as vital as capital. As such it is entitled to equal voice in the formulation of policy. As such it is entitled to "think" and to translate such thought into concrete expression.

Secondly, repression of the right to opinion amounts to suspension of freedom of speech, a guarantee of the Bill of Rights.

Is this the breath of free air? Is this democracy? No. There can be no compromise between totalitarian measures as incorporated into industry and the philosophy of equality and social justice.

This issue is one that will become highly controversial as soon as the present emergency is past history, be it one or twenty years hence. And it is important enough to command long hours of serious and profound thought on the part of the college student, who will have an influential voice in selecting paths of the future.—Sam Johnson.

Quotable Quotes

BY (ACP)

"National defense and education are close kin, for both of them are plans to preserve the way of life to which we Americans have dedicated ourselves and our children. That way of life, which we call democracy, is held together with the idea that every man is to have a chance." Dr. John G. Bowman, chancellor of the University of Pittsburgh.

Brief Case Parable

IT WAS near midnight and a chill rain swept into the huddled figures of four hitch-hikers at Broadway and Avenue L. It was late, and it was cold. And the students wished they were in their respective dormitories and rooms.

At last an automobile wheeled to a stop beside them. They clambered into the seats and brushed the rain from their eyes and hair. A young man was driving. His brief case, containing government papers, lay beside him in the front seat, and he tossed it to the floor of the rear compartment to make room for one of the hitch-hikers.

The driver was in a conversational mood, and when the four explained they were students in Texas Tech, he related anecdotes of his own career in the spreading West Texas educational metropolis.

The four alighted at College Avenue and Broadway and went their respective ways. The motorist continued to his destination, but when he arrived, the brief case of government papers and drawings was missing from the automobile. That was at Texas Tech's campus.

ANOTHER incident occurred not long ago in the South. An observer stood by a small box posted in the halls of a college administration building. The box was filled with small change—dimes, quarters, and half-dollars. There were a few bills.

The witness watched as a young man, ostensibly a student, opened the box, carefully counted out an amount of currency, scribbled on a piece of paper with a pencil and left the note in the box.

The witness walked over and read the note. It said, simply: "John Doe, $3.40." Puzzled, he asked a passerby to explain the situation.

"Certainly," replied the man. "That must have been some student who needed the money for books or something. The student association keeps around $25 to $30 in that box for just such cases."

"But, don't they keep the box locked or watched or at least maintain a standing record in the business office of those transactions?"

The passerby obviously was insulted. He straightened his shoulders and looked the stranger squarely in the eye.

"Sir, I don't know where you're from, but might I remind you that is Washington and Lee University?"

There are two isolated examples of two schools. The difference is apparent. One was steeped in the traditional honor system. In the other, honor was a matter left to the individual's discretion.

The honor system cannot be imposed. It must be spontaneous. No student council can vote in the honor system. It is something which must grow from within both individual student and the body as a whole.

Someday, it will come to Texas Tech... along with a new gymnasium.

Around The Table

BY FANIBETH HARRIS

Recently published in the Gonzaga Bulletin, student publication of Gonzaga university was an editorial which questioned the steps taken by our "elders" in giving aid to Britain, and into what channels it would lead us. The editorial ran as follows:

WE WHO ARE ABOUT TO DIE have no desire to do so for England. As a matter of fact we are very particular for whom and for what cause we so nobly sacrifice one of our more priceless possessions.

Yet it seems that we are but a small portion of those who are to be considered upon the matter. Certainly the potential fighting forces of the land compose at the most a minority of the voting citizenry. A large group in this potential army is even considered too young to vote on the issues of the day, yet quite competent for the forces of Mars.

WE WHO ARE ABOUT TO DIE are accused of cowardice when we timidly question the wisdom of our elders, such as those greying servants of the public who promise to exhaust themselves in their effort to avert war and then, in the cause of high sounding phrases, "regretfully" drive up closer to catastrophe.

WE WHO ARE ABOUT TO DIE have our own ideas on nation's policies. Many of us believe that little harm can come to so powerful a nation as this that pursues a sensible policy of neutrality and non-intervention.

WE WHO ARE ABOUT TO DIE realize that we may be wrong, that we have not the wisdom attributed to the senile and decrepit; we realize that the problems facing our land are deep, vexing, that the solutions may not be simple or easy.

WE WHO ARE ABOUT TO DIE would like more assurance that aid to Britain will not end the war. We do not want to bother our elders when they are so busy, but we are a little worried. We have a right to be.

Are we those who are about to die? How are we to judge just what is the best policy for us to follow? How are we to know that the leaders of our government are wrong any more than we know how the struggle will finally turn out?

It would seem that to stay out of war we must send enough aid to Britain to enable her to keep fighting, and eventually to win the war. What is to come if she does not, we have no way of knowing.

The democracy in which we live is worth protecting.

PARE Lorentz, who so caustically reviews movies for a nationally known woman's magazine, seems to have started something with his documentary film called "The Birth of a Baby," for the motion picture industry has taken the subject to its bosom, given it a plot, and turned out more than one mellow drama about birth.

The latest addition, and perhaps the best, is "A Child Is Born," which was the Palace's mid-week feature. In spite of Jeffrey Lynn, "A Child Is Born" had a definite effect upon the audience, male and female.

Geraldine Fitzgerald, in the role of an expectant mother, seemed to have known that she had a part to play, and she played it.

Surprisingly, people were almost in tears, perhaps because in the picture there was something that stirred a chord of personal experience inside many men and women in the audience. There cannot be enough thanks given to the industry for motion pictures like "A Child Is Born."

ALTHOUGH no direct questioning has taken place, it's an even bet that managers of movie houses here would admit that radio is hurting their business.

During the last three weeks, in addition to regular sponsored programs starring personalities of stage and screen, at least three hours of after-dark radio time was occupied by shows which had casts of the most famous personages of the entertainment world.

On each successive night of the week, beginning with Sunday, there is at least one program which commands more attention from the entertainment-minded than any movie in town. On Sunday, it's Charlie McCarthy, Jack Benny, Walter Winchell, and the Screen Guild Show. There's the Lux Radio theater on Monday night, starring great people and presenting the best plays the American stage and screen can offer.

Bob Hope, who has become a top-flight comedian in a meteoric rise, keeps thousands of people at home on Tuesday evenings. And so on through the week.

Tonight, stay-at-homers can avail themselves of the great entertainment value in the benefit show to be broadcast by all networks, and presenting Benny, Hope, and hundreds of others in one full hour of fun. It begins at 11:15 p.m.

COLLECTORS of records, it seems, are now relying on the new recordings of the older tunes to add to their files. And recording artists are taking the hill-billy stiff and making something out of it. The latest to hit the local juke boxes is Bing Crosby's recording of "San Antonio Rose," which Bob Wills plattered and which was the early fall favorite in the suburb spots.

Around Thanksgiving Wayne King's "You Are My Sunshine" was released, and in spite of its former record as a corny classic,

Athletic Council Submits Its Final Recommendations

Secret Meeting Is Held; Rumors Are Plentiful

By DUTCHY SPRAGUE
Toreador Sports Writer

The Texas Tech Athletic council met Wednesday for the final selection of candidates for the vacancies in the coaching staff. The council, although actual names are withheld, selected six men whose names will be sent to the board of directors with the group's recommendations for the vacancies that occurred when Head Coach Pete Cawthon and staff resigned.

However, according to Joe Pierce, Avalanche sports writer, rumors are the new staff will most likely include Morley Jennings, head coach at Baylor since 1925, or J. W. "Dough" Rollins, present end coach at Texas A. and M., as athletic director. Dell Morgan, line coach at Rice Institute and former Texas Tech and Lubbock high coach, as head coach. Berl Huffman, who was coach of freshman football, varsity track and basketball until he resigned along with Cawthon, R. T. "Dutchy" Smith and Gwynn "Mule" Dowell, as assistant coach. Walker "Doc" Spears, trainer for numerous years and instructor in the physical education department, to be retained in that capacity.

Jennings Visits Tech

At the present time Jennings has told no one that he is a candidate for any vacancies. He has dropped hints that he would accept a job here if offered, however. The Baylor university athletic committee met Thursday to determine the situation at their school.

Jennings has made two trips to Lubbock one of which was to confer with the council. He was here last week-end, but the extent of his visit is not known. If Jennings is hired as athletic director it will mark the first time that this job has been severed from the head coaching position. Both of these have been handled by Cawthon since 1930.

Morgan, who has been mentioned more prominently for the top position, was employed as line coach at Tech in 1930 and then moved to freshman coach in 1931. Both of these have been handled by Cawthon since 1930.

Huffman, who resigned with the others, came to Tech in 1931. He coached freshman football, varsity track and basketball from Lubbock High school. He has produced better-than-average basketball teams and has had outstanding track men.

Dowell, generally thought to be one of Tech's greatest backfield stars played in 1932-33-34 and has had two years of professional experience with Chicago Cardinals. He became graduate manager during the summer of 1939 replacing Hugh "Bo" Williams.

Nichols played guard for Tech during 1933-34-35 and has been coaching at Lubbock High since his graduation. He was the Cowhand's mentor until the death of Weldon Chapman in November 1939 at which time he was elevated to line coach of the Westerners.

Spears was an end for Tech until a trick knee forced him to retire and since then he has been trainer for the Raiders and instructor in physical education.

Chairman W. L. Stangel said that the directors would meet sometime this month to consider the recommendation and make the final selections. After the board's action is completed the successors will be named.

Hardin-Simmons Five Closes Tech's Home Season Here

They Clown Here Tuesday

Game Scheduled With '66 Team

By L. D. WHITELEY
Toreador Sports Writer

Coach Berl Huffman's colorful Red Raiders close out their home season next Friday and Saturday nights, February 14 and 15, against the Hardin-Simmons Cowboys of Abilene.

Following the Hardin-Simmons series, the Raiders take to the road for five games to end the 1941 season. They meet the famous Phillips 66 Oilers, National AAU champions last year, in Amarillo Friday night, February 21, and then move to Borger the following night to end the series.

From Borger the club goes to Abilene to open a two-game series with the NMU Lobos February 24-25. They wind up the season March 1 with a single tilt against Hardin-Simmons in Abilene.

The Raiders swept a two-game series from an outclassed pack of Lobos from New Mexico univarsity by the top-heavy scores of 34 to 19 and 57 to 25.

In hanging up their nineteenth and twentieth consecutive home victories of the year, Coach Huffman's thin-clads gave their poorest exhibition of the year. Ill-effect of a three weeks lay-off showed up in both games, especially in Monday night's opener. In Tuesday night's finale three sophomores, Elvis Erwin, Bob Andis, and Byron Gilbreath scored 42 points between them to offset an otherwise poor showing.

Probably the most heartening aspect of the series was the defensive work of Gabe Gilley. Gabe, who lowers above 5 feet, 9 inches, held Ray Tanner, the Border conference's leading scorer, to a net total of three field goals.

Captain J. B. White and Jake Geron, leading point manufacturers of the season, were noticeably off form and played only a few minutes of the second game.

WAA Activities Are Scheduled

Schedule for WAA activities for the second semester will be:
Monday 5-6 Baseball
Tuesday 4-5 Rifery; 4-5 Golf; and 5-6 Archery and ping-pong
Wednesday 5-6 Rifery; 5-6 Skating; and 7-8 Ballroom dancing
Thursday 5-6 Fencing; 5-6 Bowling
Friday 10-11 Tumbling; and 3-4 Volleyball

"In order to become eligible for membership, report to one of these WAA activity groups and receive information about belonging. The requirements are accumulated by points. You start these by coming to the WAA activities," said Mrs. Johnnie Langford.

Today's Student More Cautious

HARTFORD, CONN. — (ACP) — College students today do not intend to be carried off their feet by emotional appeals, as they say the last generation was.

That is the conclusion of the Rev. Dr. Remsen B. Ogilby, president of Trinity college.

Dr. Ogilby observes that "mass thinking, unfortunately, is not characteristic of collegiate groups. Generally, undergraduates of today are seemingly somewhat tougher in their thinking and certainly less sentimental than their older brothers, uncles and fathers a quarter a century ago."

Dr. Ogilby believes today's college students are "loyal and patriotic, but in a quiet and unstrained manner which would seem to indicate they are trying to base their decisions upon reason rather than emotion. I find our young men definitely suspicious of propaganda," he said.

Double T Team Tangles With Bearded Five

If you see a group of whiskered men around Tech gym Tuesday night don't be alarmed. They are members of a professional basketball team that will play the Dr. Pepper quintet, local independent team composed of Tech students.

The hirsute squad known as the "Whiskered Wizards" are a barnstorming team that opposes all "comers". Their personnel consists of former college stars and professional basketball players. William "Curly" Risinger, star guard of Coach Berl Huffman's 1940 Red Raiders, is one of the outstanding members. Other members include All-American AAU selection, is another feature attraction.

The Dr. Pepper five is made up of Double T club members and varsity football players. Their roster includes: Coach Milton Hill, Raymond Fluche, Frank E. J. McKnight, Prince Scott, Eugene Carl and Clarence Tillery.

The professional organization furnishes amusing antics throughout the performance. Many of their plays start from football formations. Happy "The Clown" Holmes will perform juggling feats during the half-time intermission.

The game will be played Tuesday night in Tech gym beginning at 8:00 p. m. General admission will be 40 cents and students will be admitted for 20 cents if they have an activity book.

The affair is sponsored by the Double T club.

Miss Pirtle also announced that holders of student activity tickets will be permitted to see the plays which will be held in the Lubbock High school auditorium, free of charge. She emphasized that these activity books must be exchanged at the speech office for official tickets.

Committees to handle publicity, actual production and other phases of the meet will be announced later.

Schools which have accepted invitations are Southwestern university, Georgetown College of Mines, El Paso, Hardin-Simmons university, Abilene; Mary Hardin-Baylor, Belton; Texas university, Austin; Trinity, Waxahachie; and Texas Wesleyan college, Fort Worth.

World Affairs Hodgepodge Ups Knowledge Demands

BURLINGTON, VT. — (ACP) — Books on international relations and English literature have gone to the head of the list in popularity at the University of Vermont.

Increased student interest in foreign affairs is evidenced by changing reading habits resulting from changing world conditions, library officials believe. Not only are books of an international, political, social and economic nature more in demand, but newspapers are being more generally and thoroughly read.

Doesn't the sun have a marked influence on life in general? Two weeks ago Tech's tennis courts were as deserted as a New York law office after five o'clock. But the comfy rays of Sol have changed all that, and now the only way to reserve a court is by special legislation. Really though, tennis has been on the upswing during these last few sparkling afternoons. Chances for a successful year in tennis competition look extremely promising after observing the workouts of Jack Lovelace, Trevor Wolfe, David Story and Jack Hightower four promising Tech racketeers.

And the golf course... covered with people carrying little bags filled with various sorts of weapons to be used against the formidable white pellet... taking in mazuma at an untold rate. Somewhere among these divot swingers will come Coach Jackson's golf team... incidentally the golf prospects appear lower than the current cleaning prices.

It seems strange that golf has degenerated to such an extent that only four or five students are capable of shooting under 80. Coach Jackson would welcome some new material with just a little ability. Enthusiasm and competition makes a mediocre golfer a good one—let's have a few more Tech students with putters in their hands instead of coke bottles.

We noticed a bunch of gridsters keeping in shape until spring practice by prancing around the stadium in their shorts. We admire such tactics which appear to be voluntarily on their part.

A production — before the hard-wood season comes to an end Elvis Erwin will be at the top of the list in points scored. He has almost hit his stride.

Every day I hear more remarks about baseball. "Gosh I wish baseball season would hurry up and get here." "When are they going to start start batting 'em around?" "Are you going to pitch this year?"

All of these remarks came to my ears during a single afternoon. The latter question, I answered with a positive negative, for I well remember last year when I ascended upon the mound to hurl against a team called the Scots. I was in the midst of a temporary burst of glory after pitching a masterful two-hitter against the Penotha School for the Blind. But on this occasion I seemed to be a bit off form in the third inning after giving up 15 runs in the first two, I really blew up. I'll play again, but not against Scotchmen. That's the day I've got to study my English lesson.

Whether Tech gets a Temon or a plum, in regard to P. W. Cawthon's successor, as enough publicity has fallen in our direction to justify the change, I've had secrets too, but the Athletic council keeps theirs.

But We Can't!

Voted by the staff of the Harvard paper as one child star that they could do without, Jane Withers is triumphant in her latest picture. She is shown above cutting up with one of the youths in "Youth Will Be Served" which is showing for the last times today at the Broadway theatre. The latest issue of "March of Time" is also featured on the program.

Members of the Engineering society are giving a "date" party Monday night at 7:30 o'clock in the engineering auditorium and will put away slide rules in preference to etiquette rules to show their girl friends a good time.

Engineers Get Dates And Spring Setting Monday

To carry out the motif of spring dark brown will be featured in the furniture, and bright lights will accentuate spring hues in the decorations.

Taking advantage of the warm nights, most of the men will come dressed in light flannel slacks with plaid coats and jackets to match. Engineers in the ROTC will dress in the latest of army fashion, khaki coats and trousers with leather belts. Some of the suits have a touch of blue at the collar and all are trimmed with gold buttons featured in the latest issue of Vogue.

Borrowing an idea from a national radio program "Information Please," the engineers will attempt to entertain their girl friends with a program of questions and answers, the students asking questions and members of the faculty will make efforts to answer.

Faculty members to appear on the program are E. R. Heineman, associate professor of mathematics; J. Hollie Cross, instructor in physics; O. A. St. Clair, head professor of industrial engineering; and Dr. A. L. Strout, professor of English.

"We hope all engineers can arrange dates," stated Hugh Granberry, chairman of the program committee, and since our program is planned especially for the girls, we are anticipating a large attendance.

Sherwood Miller, master-mind in charge of the questionaires, is planning a surprise for the evening. He shall herald the coming of spring by modeling a new hair style created by "O-o-mph."

Executive Visits Tech Applicants

Mr. C. H. Reinecke, representative of Westinghouse Electrical company of Ann Arbor visited in the engineering department of this college Thursday between the hours of 9 a. m. and 5 p. m.

During his visit Mr. Reinecke interviewed approximately 20 engineering graduates for the purpose of selecting two students for positions with the Westinghouse branch at Pittsburg, Pa. Students interviewed were from the electrical, mechanical, and industrial divisions.

Students selected for these positions are to be sent to Pittsburg where they will attend a special school for employees. The school, which consists of training in laboratory, shop and test work and extends over a period of twelve student in special phases of the practical work and offers opportunities for selection of places for the new employees.

A report of the selection of the two students will be returned within two weeks.

Engineer Spoke To 40 Students

E. T. Anderson of Seagraves, acidizing engineer for the Dowell company, spoke on "The Acidization of an Oil Well" before 40 members of the Petroleum Engineering society Monday night, according to W. T. Lilly, president of the society.

"The acidization of a well is a relatively new process of increasing production," Mr. Anderson stated. "It has advantages over other forms used to increase the production because of its deeper penetration into the 'pay zone'."

"Hydrochloric acid is used almost exclusively because the relatively soluble precipitate formed in the chemical reaction will not clog the pores of the 'pay zone' as badly as sulfuric and nitric acids." A dinner honoring the guests was given at the Lubbock hotel by the Society before the meeting.

Doak Hall Like Tin Pan Alley As Show Nears

By Doris Peavy

"Varsity Show" is all the talk. From eight in the morning until after midnight discussions as to what it will be and how good it will be fill every room. Doak Hall is dance and song conscious with girls who can and those who can't carry tunes singing the latest composition up and down the halls. More interest in the PE courses has been shown with a steady beat of tap shoes in the laundry room.

Women's social clubs have agreed to contribute ten cents per member for the March of Dimes. Also they are planning to set aside a certain amount for the A.W.S. convention to be held here this spring.

Men's and women's social clubs have agreed to the suggestion that bids be checked at the door of all their dances. Too, the boys will be stamped on entering the dance floor so that there will be no confusion in their leaving and returning. An alphabetized list of invitations sent out by a club is required to be sent into the Dean's office before the dance.

Don't forget your bids or you might be embarrassed.

Double T dance should be more fun. Exes are coming back from miles around. One complaint we have for the Double T dances is that they are the best behaved socials given during the whole school year.
