A New Purpose

For Lawn Coolers

ABOUT the only really cool places on campus during the past few weeks has been under the lawn sprinklers. So far as we know, only the grass, birds and two coeds have taken advantage of the refreshing areas. Frolicking about the wet, but pleasing spray, are "Cakey" Wright (L) and Carol Edmiston.

Spanish Class Faces Final In Mexico City

By Billy Patton

Toreador Special Correspondent

Texas Tech's ambassadors to Mexico are entering the final stages of their trip to Mexico and preparing for their examination in Spanish 4328 and 4329, offered in the Mexican capitol this summer.

The days of touring spots where history lives are almost over, and the frantic race is on, pouring through Mexican libraries, digging up information for research papers on the culture of Mexico. But the fun and excitement is not yet ended.

After taking the final examination, the students will have five days free from classes in which to make those last minute purchases and say goodbye to newly made friends south of the border. The return to Lubbock begins on August 17th, and ends with the arrival at Tech scheduled for the 20th.

And who is to say that none of the group is ready to return? Mexico is wonderful, and very enjoyable, but somehow it's just not home.

Incidentally, the students are having some small difficulty identifying each other, and not without reason. It seems there are two Mary's (Ragland and Ford); two Helen's (Hartzog and Early); two Nancy's (Glaspy and Baker); two Linda's (Owens and Walk); two Bobby's (Franco and Grant); and two Bill's (Patton and Burlington).

It doesn't help the problem any to have a Bobby Grant and a Grant Carruth, either.

Climatewise, the letters from the States make most of the students glad to be in Mexico. The general word from home is that Texas is hot at this time of year, but in Mexico the Americans are finding sweaters comfortable in the mornings, and raincoats a necessity in the afternoons. The highest temperature in Mexico City so far has been about 75 . . . and the lowest about 55.

As far as the language is concerned, if everyone isn't speaking perfectly he is at least accustomed to using Spanish. It has become commonplace to explain to a hairdresser exactly how a hairdo should be done, or to argue over the price of a piece of jewelry or an article of clothing.

To the uninitiated, it might seem that the Mexican people would resent the Americans' attempts to conquer the native tongue, but it's not so. The average Mexican delights in speaking with students of his language, and even in trying to help whenever he can. Many times a student has learned the meaning of a new word through a description given in Spanish.

But as all good things must come to a close, so must the Techsans' invasion of Mexico. In one more week, a tired but better educated group will wend its way back home, able to say "I know what it's like, because I've been there."

Broadway Stars Close Union Summer Docket

Summer special activities at the Tech Union will conclude with the presentation of the Porgy and Bess Singers Friday at 7:30 in the Union Ballroom.

The group is composed of Avon Long, Lucia Hawkins, Levern Hutcherson and Kelly Wyatt, conductor and pianist.

Featured in more than a dozen Broadway plays and musicals, Avon Long has received acclaim in such productions as "Very Warm for May," "Bloomer Girl," "Green Pastures," "Memphis-Bound" and others. His talent has been shown in films, such as "Romance on the High Seas," "Centennial Summer," and "Ziegfeld Follies."

Lucia Hawkins toured as soloist with the Leonard dePaul Chorus on coast to coast tours for five years and has been featured in the leading role of Cindy Lou in the touring production of Carmen Jones.

Miss Hawkins renders selections from her role of Cindy Lou in Carmen Jones as well as other numbers from such composers as George Gershwin and Jerome Kern, as well as operatic Arias from Madam Butterfly and Turandot by Puccini.

Levern Hutcherson received high critical acclaim for his work in the film "Carmen Jones" in which he sang for Harry Belafonte. He also played the part of Joe in the Broadway production of the show.

Hutcherson sang the role of Porgy in the New York production of George Gershwin's beloved opera and was one of its stars on the recent world tour.

Kelly Wyatt received his education in the public schools of Arkansas and continued his work for his masters degree at Columbia University.

Mr. Wyatt has a wide background in the field of music including 20 months as conductor of the N.Y. production of "The Three Penny Opera."

Tech Hosts High School Journalists

Enrollment in special workshops for high school journalists slated at Texas Tech Aug. 14-18 is up 30 per cent over previous years, Prof. W. E. Garets, Tech journalism department head, has announced.

Registration fees have been paid by 109 students and faculty sponsors while more than 80 others have sent in pre-registration forms, he said. Attendance at previous workshops here totaled 85 and 75 in 1958 and 1959.

Teenaged writers from Texas and New Mexico have signed up for one of three workshops being offered by Tech's journalism department during the four days. The short-course in high school newspapers is designed to help young writers produce better news copy and improve the editing of their publications.

The yearbook workshop will stress copy writing and layout techniques, editing, photo copying and advertising sales.

A special workshop in new photography will introduce the teenaged "shutterbug" to photo journalism. Basic and advanced phases of photo techniques and processing will be covered in the course, depending on the needs of the individual student.

Fee for any of the workshops is $15. Room and board in the Tech dorms will be $14.35 and is optional, Garets said.

Professional journalists from West Texas newspapers will speak at the newspaper workshop. They include Jerry Hall, regional editor of the Lubbock "Avalanche-Journal," Joe Pickle, managing editor of the Big Spring "Herald," and Miss Louise Evans, editorial page editor of the Amarillo "Globe News."

Miss Margaret Tunner, women's editor of the "Avalanche-Journal," and Joe Kelly, "Avalanche-Journal" sports editor will discuss news writing in their respective fields. Douglas Meador, Matador "Tribune" editor and columnist for several Texas papers, will speak on column writing.

Ralph Sellmeyer, assistant professor of journalism, will direct the photography workshop.

Specialists in school annual editing and publishing will speak at the yearbook workshop. Those scheduled to talk are H. H. Kesler and Bud Rasmussen of Inter Collegiate Press, Kansas City, Mo.; Bruce Henington of Henington Publishing Co., Wolfe City, Dr. Otha Spencer, journalism department head at East Texas State College; D-Eon Priest of Colorpress, Inc., Austin; and Charles Dolan of Taylor Publishing Co., Dallas.

Prof. Helps Create Skill

A Texas Tech faculty member is busy this summer at the University of Texas, helping forge an increasingly important national defense weapon—foreign language skill.

Theodor Alexander, Tech associate professor of German, is one of the language experts who are helping 59 teachers improve their instructional skills in the institute.

Free instruction in German or Spanish is a by-product of the study. Seventy-nine children, ranging in age from 12 to 18, form demonstration classes for the institute, financed through the National Defense Education Act.

Thirty-seven NDEA language institutes in the nation this summer testify that knowledge of the world's languages is vital to U.S. welfare. Congress voted huge sums in 1958 to strengthen language instruction from elementary school through graduate school.

Other members of the Tech foreign language faculty attending summer language institutes are: Dr. Elaine Boney, assistant professor of foreign language, who is studying Russian at the University of Michigan; Dr. Harley Oberhelman, assistant professor, who is teaching at the University of Kansas institute for elementary school foreign language teachers; and Dr. Faye Bumpass, Tech associate professor of English, who is teaching at the University of Denver's summer workshop for teaching French and Spanish in the elementary school.

Council Hears Annual Report

An annual report of their 1959-60 activities was presented to Directors of the West Texas School Study Council in a Wednesday meeting at Texas Tech.

Dr. Paul Petty, executive secretary of the New Mexico School Study Council, also addressed the meeting, which started at 10 a.m. in the Union building.

Dr. Berlie Fallon, executive secretary of the West Texas council, delivered the third annual report. Dr. Petty discussed operational patterns of the New Mexico council.

The West Texas council, which has headquarters at Tech, directs research studies aimed at improving public school instruction. The council also is an information center for reports of world-wide research on educational problems.

CONSTRUCTION ENTERS FINAL STAGE
Preparations for the pouring of the last section of seats (upper center) began this week.

Fall Completion Seen For Stadium Expansion

Preparations for the installation of the final section of seats in the South-East corner of Jones Stadium marked the beginning of the end of the stadium expansion this week.

Pouring of the concrete is expected to be completed within three weeks according to Superintendent of Construction Boorman.

Although the turf on the playing field may not be as well developed as previously anticipated, it should hold up fairly well under the 1960-61 games, Mark Gosdin, superintendent of grounds, reports. The turf should be in excellent shape for games in the future years.

SPECIAL opportunities for citizens of Brownfield, Littlefield and Levelland to purchase seat options will terminate today.

Polk Robinson, Tech's basketball coach and assistant athletic director has set up booths in those towns so option buyers could make their seat selections and payment arrangements conveniently.

Seat options in the newly expanded stadium will assure a good location in the stadium for all of Tech's home football games from this fall through the fall of 1974. By buying an option, a person will actually pay less for his seat than will a non-option holder in the same location.

Options may be purchased for $100, $200 or $300 in the open stands, depending on the location. An option in an especially enclosed section of the press box may be bought for $1,250.

Funds from option sales are being used to finance the expansion. Option purchasers may arrange time payments without interest or carrying charges. Option payments are tax deductible, Tech officials reminded.

ATTENTION

La Ventana's will be delivered in the Fall. If you will not be here — Come by Rm. 101 Journalism Bldg. and leave your address.

EDITOR Travis Harrell
 MANAGING EDITOR Judy Kinney
 ADVERTISING MANAGER Larry Bridges

The Toreador, official student newspaper of Texas Technological College, Lubbock, Texas, is regularly published each Thursday during the summer semester, excepting holidays, by students of the College as an expression of campus news and student opinion only.

The Toreador is financed by a student services fee, advertising and subscriptions. Letters to the editor and columns represent the views of their writers and not necessarily those of the Toreador. Letters must be signed, but may be published with initials in justifiable instances. The views of the Toreador are in no way to be construed as necessarily those of the administration. Entered as second class matter at the Post Office in Lubbock, Texas, under the act of March 3, 1879.

Professors Attend Vienna Conference

Dr. and Mrs. Russell Strandtmann, Texas Tech faculty members, will attend the 11th International Congress of Entomology in Vienna, Austria, Aug. 17-25. Strandtmann is professor of biology and his wife is assistant professor of math at Tech. An authority on spider mites, Dr. Strandtmann has been visiting with European biologists this week prior to going to Vienna.
