Student Council Rules For Club Operation of Vending Machines

Individual Profit Barred By Move

Vending machines located on the Tech campus will be operated by clubs and organizations only, the Student Council voted Monday night.

Individuals probably will not be allowed to operate these machines with the exceptions of those in the dormitories. The Student Council has a letter from the College Administration stating that only machines operated by campus organizations should be allowed on the campus, Clint Formby, president, stated.

Individuals do and will continue to operate the dorm vending machines, unless the Dormitory association decides otherwise, stated Formby.

APPOINTS COMMITTEE

The Student Council appointed the Budget Committee, headed by Bill Reid, as the official supervisor of all vending machines on the campus. This committee will have a statement from each club stating the amount of money taken in and what this money is used for every month. A definite set of rules and regulations governing these machines will be made by this committee.

The council then voted to let the Press club operate and use the proceeds from the vending machines in the Journalism building. Theta Sigma Phi was allowed to operate the candy machine located in the same building.

In a report on the Homecoming committee, Chairman Ed C. McIlroy stated that plans for the Homecoming were now completed except for ironing out some minor details. The parade which starts at 10:30 a. m. will be headed by a car carrying the Student Association officers. It is expected that the parade will arrive at the campus at approximately 11:00 a. m.

Signs have been completed and will be placed at specified points on the campus and one will be hung across the Broadway entrance to the campus. Each dorm has been asked to display a sign of its own.

DANCE AFTER GAME

Following the afternoon football game a dance will be held in the gym. The gym will be decorated with goalposts on each end and a large double T in the center. On either side will be the graduating class years.

Phi Eta Sigma, Freshman Honor society, was given permission to sell a combination Desk calendar and appointment book to raise money for their club.

Deadline for filing petitions for campus beauties is Thursday, Oct. 28. To this date 77 petitions have been filed with the council, Margaret Clark, secretary, announced.

Classes will be dismissed Saturday at 10 a. m. to allow students to attend the parade and other Homecoming activities that day, council members stated. The Student Council approved the Toreador Budget, which had previously been approved by the publications committee.

Tech Victory Means A Lot To Fish; Slime Caps Disappear With Win

By DELANE ADAMS
Toreador Staff Writer

Slime caps should be clamped on firmly for the Freshmen events this weekend. Fish are definitely going to be in the swim. Of course, no one minds anchoring his cap tighter if it is for the last time, which it will be if the Raiders win. If Tech doesn't win, things are going to look pretty slim-green for freshmen 'til Thanksgiving holidays which will be the official end of the wearing 'o the green.

The whirl gets in motion Friday night at the bonfire when fish join hands and circle the fire emitting pep-yells. This 20-year-old tradition probably invokes the blessings of the football gods upon Tech. Freshmen get warmed-up and wound-up to do some long and loud cheering at the game. Saturday before the game begins, the fresh hold a shirt-tail parade down College avenue. Breaches legs are rolled up and shirt-tails flap in the breeze. The boys join hands and wind down the Avenue and around the dorms inviting everyone to come watch the Raiders fight. Eventually they end up at the stadium ready to yell the team to victory.

At the half of the game, fish hold a shoe race. Freshmen boys swarm from the freshman section down the field. They place their shoes, battered relics preferably, in a pile on the 50 yard line. Half the boys gather under one goal post, the rest beneath the other. At a signal all descend upon the shoes. Everyone comes up with two, it is hoped a size he can wear, phenomenon if they match and never-heard-of-before if they are the pair he tossed in.

No one seems to know the rhyme or reason for these rituals, but tradition is a sure sign of a college spirit.

Techsans Dash From Classroom To Plane

By RICKEY ARCHER
Toreador Staff Writer

It is now possible for Tech students to soar through the air and explore the "Wild Blue Yonder" while in class and receive perfectly good credit hours for it. Twenty-seven students enrolled in Economics 233 have quite a time rushing from the college and orthodox classes such as English and French to the West-tex airfield for flying instruction. An extra-curricula activity the class is participating in a spot landing contest Sunday, Nov. 7. Preliminary try-outs will be held Sunday morning and the boys will compete in finals in the afternoon for first, second and third prizes.

The course is designed to leave the students with 20 hours dual and 25 hours solo flight time. They will take tests for private licenses from a CAA inspector between their thirty-fifth and forty-fifth flying hours, says L. D. Anderson, head instructor. Harold Broughan, a Tech mechanical engineering major from New York, Floyd Smith, R. S. Keeton, C. C. Perkins, Jim Travis and Weldon George are also instructors. B. T. Smith, instructor in mathematics, gives 50 hours of ground course instruction during the course, including studies of meteorology, navigation, aircraft, engines, Civil Aeronautics regulations and theory of flight.

Freshman Loan Fund Marks 21st Year of Service

This year marks the Freshman loan fund's 21st year of operation on the Tech campus. James G. Allen, dean of men has announced. This fund, established and supervised by a local department store, is designed to provide money for students who need ready cash to meet an emergency, Allen explained.

The source of the fund is the proceeds on Freshman caps sold by Hemphill - Wells department store. The cost of the caps is not deducted from the amount donated by the company. From the total amount received from the purchase of "fish" caps, half goes to the Matador club and the rest into the loan fund.

The stipulations in the grant are that the money be loaned on a short time basis and the amount be limited to a rather small sum. "The fund is not used to help a student get a start," explained Dean Allen, "but for aid in emergencies."

Within the last 12 months, 42 students have benefited from this student aid service. The average loan is $29 representing about $1,203 that has been loaned through this donation in the last year. Loans much above the average amount must be transacted through other channels, verifies information in the dean's office.

Of the year's beneficiaries, 36 have repaid the amount in full. A five per cent interest is charged on all loans which must be accompanied by a note signed by the student desiring aid, Allen further stated.

Varsity Show Is Set For April 4-6

Tech's 1949 Varsity show will be held April 4, 5, 6, in the Lubbock Senior high school auditorium, Margaret Clark, Varsity show committee chairman, has announced.

A meeting of the committee will be held Nov. 8 at 4:00 p. m. at which time a main director of the show will be chosen, Miss Clark said. Any person desiring to be a director of the show may drop by the Student Council office, room 323 of the Administration building, and leave his name. If this cannot be done then attend the meeting of the show committee Nov. 8, stated Miss Clark.

Later the committee will pick the minor directors in the show, and decide other details, Miss Clark said.

"It is hoped that this 1949 Varsity show will be the biggest and best ever given at Tech, and the members of the committee along with its sponsors will strive to make it such," the chairman, Miss Clark, stated.

Beauty Petitions Due Tomorrow

Approximately 70 petitions for La Ventana beauties are circulating on the campus with more expected to go out before the deadline, Clint Formby, student body president, announced Monday.

The deadline for petitions this year has been set for tomorrow afternoon at 5 o'clock. All nominations must be in the Student Council office at that time, he said, to be considered for the first elimination which is to take place Nov. 7.

La Ventana Editor Bob Williams said the judges for this elimination will consist of one representative from each men's organization on the campus. Final selection is to be made by a nationally known personality whose identity will remain secret until next spring.

Twelve petitions had been completed and returned to the office Monday afternoon. The nominees are Kathryn Barryhill, Helen Beys, Velma Cummings, Alyce Howell, Ramona Keller, Martha La Roe, Virginia Leonard, Jo Ann Martin, Sara Davis McLarty, Pat Paige, Pat Peterson and Ida Walker.

About half the class has been flying to Spur and Lamesa and home again or to Sweetwater and Big Spring and back to meet their dual cross country flight requirement. Prior to this they completed eight hours in the air with an instructor and soloed. A solo cross country flight is next on the program, said Anderson.

All students are working toward a private license to be used in either business or pleasure. Ward Carol, freshman Aggie education major from Panhandle, is planning to be a flying county agent. Jim Davidson, senior from Carlsbad, New Mexico, wants to look after his ranch from a plane and John W. Drake, senior business major from Abilene, intends to be a salesman and fly from town to town. Bob Macina, senior geology major from Shamrock, needs flying for the quick moves from location to location in future geology lab work.

The traditional "shirt-tail club" decorates the office with a tail of airfield. On solving the student has part of his shirt tail cut off, printed with his name, the date, and the name of his instructor. The shirt tail is added to the collection and the soloist buys everybody a coke to celebrate.

6,000 Exes To Attend Annual Homecoming

By JAMES F. SMITH
Toreador Staff Writer

Texas Tech will welcome more than 6,000 former students returning to the campus for the nineteenth annual Homecoming Saturday.

Highlight of the day will be the Tech-Rice football game at 2:30 p. m. in Jones stadium, with attendance expected to exceed 20,000. All reserved tickets for the ex-student sections of the stadium have long been sold, and temporary grandstands seating about 2,200 are being erected in the end zones to accommodate the overflow.

The comprehensive program of Homecoming events includes a parade, a pep rally and bonfire, luncheons, dances, receptions, breakfasts and the game.

The Homecoming weekend will begin when exes start registration at 5 p. m. Friday at booths in the Administration, Aggie, Home Ec and Engineering buildings, Rec hall and the Hilton and Lubbock hotels. Former Techsians will be given small red cardboard double T's on which they may write their names, addresses and classes. At the booths, distribution will be made also of printed programs listing functions planned in honor of the ex-students.

At 4:45 p. m. Friday in the Aggie auditorium, the Alumni council, governing body of the Alumni and Ex-Students' association, will outline programs and policies for the coming year. The council will conclude business and elect officers at a breakfast at 8 a. m. Saturday in the Navajo room of the Hilton.

Students and exes will gather at the gym at 7:30 p. m. Friday for a pep rally, and at 8 p. m. the traditional bonfire will be lighted south of the gym. Activities Saturday include a meeting of the board of directors at 9:30 a. m. in the president's office, Ad-217. At 10 a. m., classes will be dismissed for the day in order that all students may witness the parade and the game.

The parade will form at 9:45 a. m. on Main between Avenues M and Q. Those blocks will be closed to traffic by police, and numbers placed on stakes along the parkway of Main will indicate the positions at which each of the numbered floats is to be parked.

The parade is to be headed by the cheer leaders, the Tech band, a color guard from the ROTC and a car in which the student officers will be riding.

Starting from the intersection of Main and Avenue M, the parade will proceed east on Main to Texas avenue, turn south on Texas to Broadway and then proceed west on Broadway to the Tech Library. The judges' stand is to be on the southeast corner of the Lubbock hotel.

Floats are being constructed to fit descriptive, humorous or beautiful themes. Bronze plaques are to be awarded by the Alumni Association on behalf of Thomas Jewell, 1301 College, to clubs presenting the winning floats in each of the three classes. These plaques are on display in the window of the jewelry store.

Pictures of the prize-winning floats are to be taken immediately after the parade reaches the campus, and names of winning organizations will be posted on the Student Council bulletin board in the Ad building rotunda.

Floats are to be in groups of three separated by automobiles, six of which will represent alumni chapters of Dallas, Sweetwater, Lamesa, San Angelo, Midland and San Antonio.

After the game, campus organizations will honor their alumni with coffee and open house. The Recreation hall, which is to be campus headquarters for the exes, will be open for visits until 9 p. m. At 12 noon, registration of exes at campus and downtown booths will be concluded.

The annual buffet luncheon sponsored by the Lubbock Bus company and Texas New Mexico & Oklahoma Coaches is to be held at 12 noon in the gym. At 12:30 p. m., officers of the Alumni council will be presented.

The campus will be lighted during Homecoming by the inside lights of all campus buildings and by floodlights, strung by the American Institute of Electrical Engineers, Bill Wright, chairman, Clyde Jones and Clyde Minshaw and members of AIEE's lighting committee.

Saddle Tramps Take Stand On Campus Painting

A decision to use their influence in curbing uncontrolled school spirit, such as the painting of campuses of opposing colleges, was reached by the Saddle Tramps in a regular meeting held Thursday afternoon, Curtis Sterling, club president said yesterday.

The action, taken because of a recent report that Texas Tech has agreed to pay for damages incurred on the West Texas State campus earlier in the season, arose from the necessity of a student stand on the situation, Sterling indicated.

The bill for sand blasting paint from various West Texas buildings was estimated to be somewhere in the vicinity of $1,500. Besides the financial loss from the painting spree, Sterling said, such instances of vandalism cause the school much loss of prestige. It is in the interest of preventing just such unfortunate occurrences in the future that the organization has taken this stand, stated Sterling.

"We hope the whole student body will join with us in helping to fight such instances of so called school spirit," Sterling said. Already, three of the persons involved in the painting of West Texas State campus have been brought before school officials and stand in danger of disciplinary action. It is to be hoped that no student will be faced with this possibility in the future, the club president said.

When asked about the school spirit of students as a whole, Sterling indicated that it has been excellent up to this point. "We only need more cooperation and effort in directing it into constructive channels," he added.

TECH DIRECTORS MEET
The Tech Board of Directors will discuss routine matters relating to the college when they meet in their regular monthly meeting in the president's office Saturday, Frank Junell, assistant to the president said today.

Following the Board meeting, the directors will attend the Tech-Rice football game, Junell said.

Campus Opinion Poll Shows Most Students Favor Dewey

By JULIA SHORT
Toreador Staff Writer

Campus opinion seems to measure up to that of national Gallup polls in so far as most students would vote for Dewey. Out of twenty students, nine who were asked replied that they were for Dewey. Eight would vote for Truman, and only three for Thurmond.

States represented were varied. There were students from California, Minnesota, Alabama, and a former resident of Louisiana, but naturally the majority were from Texas.

Out of this number, there were several who did not actually vote due to residence requirements, and unpaid poll taxes. The question included all of these since it was a supposition—if you were voting, for whom would you vote and why.

Sample answers are as follows: M. D. Padfield, jr., English major from Houston: "I would vote for Thurmond because I am a states' rights. I believe that the central government shouldn't have all the power. Each state should be a sovereign state."

Kenneth C. Durbin, accounting major from Truman: "I would vote for Truman not because I'm a democrat, but because I don't like Dewey. Dewey has too much of a political machine behind him."

Richard Stripling, a mechanical engineer, from California, said, "I've seen them both, and Truman impresses me as being the better man. Dewey speaks with too many glittering generalities."

The campus postman, Darrel Jones, is a Dewey man. A business administration major from Minnesota, Jones said that he didn't like Truman, and that Dewey is the lesser of the two evils.

Nina Starkey, a physical education major from Plainview, has an interesting slant: "I would vote for Dewey because I think there's going to be another depression and I want the Republicans to get the blame for it."

Jeff Lewis of Lubbock, another business administration major, said that he would vote for Truman because, "In the first place I'm not in favor of the Republican platform. Dewey is in favor of turning atomic energy over to big business, or private industry."

James Renau, Shamrock, a horticulture major, would vote for Dewey because if there is a Republican president, it'll break the deadlock between a Republican Congress and a Democratic president.

Another Trumanite is Duane Fincher, a Ft. Worth architectural engineering student. He said that people condemned Truman when he had a hard place to fill. Under the circumstances he did the best he could.

Tech Is Assisting Farmers By Providing Office Space

Tech is aiding cotton farmers in this section by giving space in the Textile building to the men who make certain that they receive fair prices for their product.

These men, authorities of the cotton classification branch of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, ran out of working room down town and brought their samples to a large second floor room of the Textile building.

This classification grades the cotton for staple and fiber quality, typing the bale from which it came until it is made into a finished article.

"The farmer is enabled to market the bale on this qualification without further checking at the gin," said Sam Martin, chief of the classifiers.

A Good Habit . . .

Sunday morning beds, softer than those of other days, cling with amazing tenacity to the college student of the present day. The strain of classes and elongated Saturday nights spread the student over long beds of rest and recuperation. Laid end to end, all these beds might well stretch completely across the city encircling all the churches which to the average person at college are so oblivious.

This, we think is not due to the college man's complete disregard to things spiritual, but to his lack of good habit forming as a freshman. The young college student, away from folks at home and church for the first time, decides in the early part of the year, simply to drift for a while and align himself with the church of his choice at a later date. He little realizes that in becoming a part of the circle outside the church he is drifting away from the possibility of receiving the many benefits of church life that are offered him as a college student.

Lubbock churches sponsor clubs, organizations and get-togethers that offer clean, friendly fun for Tech students. Every semester the churches welcome students for open house so that the freshmen and upperclassmen might get to know each other quicker and better. Yet of the 6,140 students at Tech, probably no more than 1000 attend church regularly. Only a small percentage of that 1000 participate in active religious clubs and church activities. Such a condition should not exist . . .

This is no appeal to the person who has never gone to church or to those who have drifted away from the satisfaction of their religion into the ever deepening rut of the outside world. It is simply an appeal to those freshmen who intend to find their places in one of the many Lubbock churches.

Now is the time to make the move, for things put off until tomorrow, or next week, or next month, have a strange habit of never taking place. And after all, going to church is nothing more than a very good habit.

In The Morning Mail . . .

Oct. 24, 1948

Dear Editor:
I would like to differ with G.R.A., who wrote the letter published in last week's issue of the Toreador. The fact that she probably has been caught breaking a rule accounts for her resentment. She will find that the girls occupying House Senate chairs are not such a bad lot and are not prejudiced against the offender. The facts were just a trifle blurred in her letter about the two freshmen who signed "out for the minstrel show, decided not to go, checked in and were in their rooms for the 8:30 check. For this they were sent to the House Senate . . ." That is nothing short of impossible.
Every institution (I know that joke too) must have certain rules and regulations to follow. If one student disobeys the rule, it will only be an example for the others to follow, and shows her disregard. Of course we want to be members of the AAUW. It is a feather in the cap of the school as well as in that of the individual. It adds prestige to any woman.

The statement that "new enforcement of old rules, plus far-fetched interpretation of them, and the addition of new rules has not made any noticeable change in the conduct of the Tech dorm girl" proves that she either has no gripe coming or that new, better, stricter rules need to be made.
Every parent understands that a large group of individuals are at Tech and that in such a large body, there are likely to be a few "unprincipled" ones. Those letters were an indication that we are separate personalities, and are looked after, as far as possible, as we would be at home.
As for kissing a boy goodnight. There are bright lights in the entrance of the dormitory. Would she kiss her date on her porchstep when the porchlight was on? I doubt it.
Sincerely,
M. G.

El Toro Grande

By ORLIN BREWER

One campus coed, quite caustic and indignant about Ray McNalley's broadcast of the Arizona-Tech game over KFYO, came by the Toreador office Sunday afternoon to make a protest.

What got me, she said, is that everytime Arizona got the ball, the announcer quit identifying the quarterback and started saying, "Ah, he hands off to Hall, or Ah, he tries a quarterback sneak, ah this and ah that."

The fact that Arizona university has a quarterback named Sol Ahee was all news to her. "Well, now isn't that the funniest thing you ever heard of," she said, by way of explanation.

Fried chicken for Sunday dinner is wonderful, but why oh why must one, by crunching down on an extremely crisp leg, be reminded of the days back on the farm when grandmother turned crisp, greasy, rinds of swine into soap for the family wash. Sure, we tasted the "cracklings" when grandmother was rendering the lard after the annual "hog killing". But grandmother, even in the darkest days of the depression would not have thought of putting any dish with the distinctive flavor of cracklings up for Sunday dinner.

Campus police at Michigan State college cracked down on student gambling on professionally operated football pools last week. Three students were detained by police on suspicion of being contact men for a syndicate and a number of parlay cards were seized.

Such a system, in operation here in Lubbock and getting considerable business from Tech students, is under the direct attack of the Lubbock Ministerial association. You may well expect fireworks of some sort in the near future, so think twice before putting your money on the line. After all, more than your money may be at stake.

Elmer Tarbox, immediate past president of the Tech Alumni and Ex-student's association and an active leader of exes of this area, will be guest columnist for the Saturday issue of the Toreador. Elmer "The Great" is still noted as one of the all-time outstanding backs in Red Raider grid history.

With the recent decision of the Court of Civil Appeals upholding the college building amendment, comes this question. Do we really want the amendment blocked by court action? Several Lubbock businessmen think we do. Others, very close to the question and well informed, take the opposite view.

There seems to be little doubt that Tech would profit at the outset of the program, receiving approximately $2,450,000 immediately, for building of a new gym and completion of other campus structures.

For those not acquainted with the issue or those who would like to refresh their memories, the provisions of the constitutional amendment, given approval by Texas voters in August, 1947, follow:

1. The 14 state-supported senior colleges, other than the University of Texas and Texas A&M, will share the revenue over a 30-year period from an ad valorem tax of five cents per $100 property valuation.

The revenue will be distributed proportionately on the basis of enrollment of the 14 schools with adjustments every ten years by the state comptroller.

The sum allotted to each college will be awarded in three 10-year installments, the first to be available immediately since the amendment is self-enacting.

2. The University of Texas will be permitted to issue $10,000,000 in bonds and A&M $5,000,000. These bonds will be paid for over a 20-year period out of the income from the invested portion of the university permanent fund, which the two schools share.

3. Governing boards of the 14 colleges sharing in the five cent tax levy will be authorized to secure bonds or notes issued for acquiring, constructing and initially equipping buildings.

4. These 14 schools would be prohibited from receiving appropriations for buildings from the legislature during the 30-year period.

The five-cent ad valorem levy will be drawn from the unused portion of the seven-cent tax now authorized for confederate pensions. The state has levied only two cents of the authorized seven since 1943.

Morganmen Stampede Wildcats For 31-0 Win

By JERRY HALL
Toreador Sports Writer

Texas Tech's Red Raiders maintained a perfect record in the Border conference Saturday when they downed the Wildcats of Arizona 31-0 before a Mom and Dad's Day crowd of 14,500 in Tucson.

The Wildcats boasted a win over Hardin-Simmons in loop lay while Tech has downed West Texas State. Tech was strong in every department but looked the best on the ground game that they displayed. The Red and Black team turned in 308 yards rushing and weny hard to head when they had the ball. Brilliant runs by Tech's Reynolds, Maloney, Thompson and Conley and Arizona's Hall and Peterson highlighted the evening.

As in other games Tech proved that it was a second half team by getting off to a slow start and grabbing a half time lead of only six points. In the first period the Raiders held onto the ball and the Raider forward wall managed to open gaping holes in the Arizona line. The rugged lads from Texas paraded up and down the field but were able to score only once that being on a line plunge from the Arizona two by Bud Conley. Tech fullback from Quannah, Reynolds failed to convert and the score stood 6-0. The score climaxed a 70-yard drive midway in the first stanza.

The Wildcats never could get a serious drive started in the first half. Just before the game reached the halfway mark Arizona punted to Walter Maloney on the Tech four yard line. The little scabback from Roscoe returned to the Arizona 25 with a hard slashing gallop that set the spectators on the edge of their seats. Tech failed to cash in on this opportunity and the half ended a few plays later.

After the rest the Raiders came roaring back, scoring on a pass play from Milton Rathbone to Bill Kelley after a 55-yard drive. Kelley, an end, took the ball on the three and went over standing up. Reynolds again failed to convert. Late in the third period Charles Hall big Wildcat fullback, started a drive that carried to the Raiders four yard line before it fizzled out. That was the last serious threat the Wildcats made. The Red and Black then took the ball and drove the length of the field on four passes and runs by Charley Reynolds and Cal Steveson. J. W. Thompson, Raider fullback, hit the line three times and went over the third time making the score 18-0. Reynolds missed his third point after touchdown.

After the kick off following the touchdown the Wildcats took to the air in a vain attempt to get back in the ball game. One of Arizona's attempted laterals went hay-due to penalties has hurt and hurt badly. For instance if it had not been for a penalty of some kind or other, several of the drives that the Raiders had on at the time might have gone for a TD. It's usually just a five yard setback but even that can put the damper on a good march easily. What's the difference you may say, we won the games anyway. So we did but there are a lot of fans and other schools that don't always know the nature of the penalty. However, not all of the fault can be laid on the team. In at least two of the games the officiating has left something to be desired. Its always easy to blame the referee for something that happened when your team doesn't win but in this case we have gone on and won the game. It was most certainly done without any help from the men in the striped shirts but then they are not supposed to show favorites. At Tucson the Raiders were penalized eleven times for a net loss of 115 yards. In the West Texas games it was five times for 65 yards. At Dallas the team lost 30 yards by penalties. It is getting to the point where the observer can expect to see red flags every time Tech takes the field. The coaches have done everything in their power to correct this but it's there just the same. Too many penalties mar a good game just as they did last

Well with a lot of luck and a few doubtfuls coming through, I ended up with 15 correct out of 15 tries, which gives me 100 per cent on my pre-game forecast. Most of the favorites came through as expected, but only after a scare by some of the underdogs. Nearly all the tight play was seen in the Southwest conference, where Baylor managed to have enough in reserve to outlast the Texas Aggies and win their one last quarter score. I picked the winner, but did not expect so close a game. Down at Houston I again hit the winner and the margin of victory, but things did not look so bright for me and the Texas Longhorns for a while. That Rice team is the same eleven that our own Raiders meet here Saturday and it appears pretty rugged. The Horned Frogs of TCU threw a scare into the Oklahoma Sooners before finally bowing out 21-18, and I chalked up another win but not by the 7 points I predicted. I came through against Santa Clara, but it wasn't rugged. Texas Mines defeated the New Mexico Lobos, and it appears to be the team to beat in the Border Conference. Michigan edged by Minnesota, North Carolina drubbed LSU, Tulane beat Auburn, Nevada slaughtered Tulsa, USC did take a close one from Stanford 7-6, California won easily over Washington, Army took Cornell, and Illinois came through with an upset win over Purdue. Closing out, the Red Raiders were even better than expected, and rolled over the Arizona Wildcats 31-0.

do not pretend to. Anyone that really follows a team is certain to see play, and also "armchair strategy" that he thinks will work in a certain spot. That is only natural. What is wrong, however, is thinking that you are always right, and the men, whose profession it is to know football strategy, are all "wet".

—Keith Anderson

The Red Raiders extended their wins for the year to four against two losses out in Tucson when they swamped the Wildcats. The game was a victory for Tech and so we should be happy. But one thing stood out in that game and in all the games that the Raiders have played this year that is a black eye for the team. Never before have we seen a team that has been so plagued by penalties. Checking back over the statistics we find that in only one game, Tulsa, has the opposition received more penalties than the Raiders. In the game Tulsa had 65 yards nullified by mistakes while Tech lost only 15. In some of the other games to date the loss of yards

Raider Of The Week

The sports staff picks as its selection for Raider of the week, Luke Thompson, end from Eldorado. Luke, though having played good ball all season in the Raider forward wall, was particularly adept against the Arizona Wildcats. He handled himself well on defense, and was one of the better offensive ends on the field.

Anyone that read the sports editor of the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal, column in Sunday's paper might have gotten the idea that the Toreador sports staff was anti-Morgan. He did not say that, but he did say that last year's paper was, and did not mention where this year's paper stood. The sports staff of the Toreador wishes to go on record now as definitely not being anti-Morgan. On the whole we think he is doing a good job, and we won't say with what he has either. We think he is doing a good job period. He may not have a team equal to that of SMU or Baylor, but its due to the lack of manpower and not inferiority of individuals. We think, and past performances have borne us out, that such boys as Cal Steveson, Charley Reynolds, Duck Thompson, Bud Conley, and Glenn Phillips will compare favorably with anything the Southwest conference has to offer with the possible exception of a Doak Walker or two. Our forward wall, though lighter than those of the Southwest conference teams, is studded with "good" boys. Look 'em over. John Andrews and Marshall Gettys at tackle, backed up by Don Williams who just needs a little more seasoning. Bill Kelley and Luke Thompson have shown up well this year, with able assistance from Frank Ottmers and J. L. Guley. At guard we seem able to take care of ourselves with such men as Dan Pursel and Primo McCurry. No team needs to worry as long as it has players at the pivot post such as Bobby Williams and J. B. Mahler.

We do not agree with everything that the coaching staff does, and

Hardin-Simmons Freshmen Ramble Over Picadors 35-6

A well-balanced Hardin-Simmons freshmen eleven cashed in on fumbles and long pass plays to blast its way to a 35-6 win over the Texas Tech "fish" Friday afternoon in Jones Stadium.

The Tech "fish" showed hustle and spirit all the way despite the fact that they were out-manned and out-played by the boys from Abilene. Several of Tech's first-year-men turned in stellar performances and show great promise of aiding the Texas Tech football teams in years to come. Jerrell Price, tackle from Brownfield, was the standout in the Tech offense while Jack Young, Andrews half-back, was the most consistent ground-gainer for the Picadors.

The opening kickoff was fumbled by Bobby Close on the Tech four-yard line and was recovered by Chick Tiger, Hardin-Simmons fullback. Three plays later Bobby Hart of Levelland crashed over on a quarterback sneak to send his team out in front 6-0. Kenneth Watson's try for the point was wide.

The Picadors bounced back to tie up the score a few plays later when Harold Haynes of Roscoe cranked through left tackle and scampered 65 yards for a score. Jack Davis of Littlefield tried for the extra point but the ball struck the cross bars of the goal post and the score remained 6-6.

The Cowboy "fish" took the lead once again which they never relinquished in the last minutes of the first quarter when Hart climaxed a sustained drive of 65 yards with an end sweep that netted another touchdown.

The Techsians threatened twice before the end of the first half but each time their attack bogged down in the shadow of the goal posts. Young, the flash of the Raider "fish" teamed with Dick Pirtle of Lubbock to carry to the 15 where an intercepted pass halted the drive. The second threat was stalemated when four pass plays on the 12-yard line failed to gain the necessary yardage.

The remainder of the show was all Hardin-Simmons. Charlie Williams connected with end Bill Cagle on two long passes in the third and fourth periods that resulted in scores. Watson booted the extra points. Tiger broke loose on a 65-yard sprint and a score midway in the third quarter to run the count up to 33-6. The Cowboys added another two points in the final period when Haynes' punt was blocked in the end zone.

Intramural touch football enters the fourth week of play Friday with all leagues having played at least two games.

Friday afternoon, the "Sand Eaters" met the "Tech Termites" and the "Rebels" clashed the "Eagles", all of the Dorm league. The "Sand Eaters" and the "Termites" played to a 12-12 tie. The "Sand Eaters" scored once on a right tackle run by Foy Cox and on a pass from Don Tracey to Frank Pugh. The "Termites" scored once on an end run by Charley Griffin and on a pass from Leroy Roberts to Bill Cody. Ed Hart refereed the game and M. D. Stevens was head linesman. In the second game the "Rebels" defeated the "Eagles" 19-0, scoring twice on Jack Adams' runs over right tackle, and once on a pass from Harold Pickens to Ben Willis. Dick Robinson refereed the game. Jerry Penlow was head linesman and Glenn Phillips, umpire.

Sunday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock the Social Club league got underway with Scott meeting Kemas and playing a 6-6 tie. The Social scored very early in the first quarter when Johnny Hill, center, intercepted a Kemas pass and went 35 yards for the tally. Kemas tied the count in the waning minutes of the game with Gene Thomas going over from the one foot line. Hill and B. A. Hanna played outstanding ball for the Social and Thomas, Thurman Reynolds, and Dwight Perkins were outstanding for Kemas. Bill Cody refereed the game and Kenneth Cox was head linesman.

In the second game Sunday afternoon Jim Reiger's Band team met Jim Rogers' Wesleyan Wildcats, both of the Independent league, and defeated them 6-0 in an overtime game. At the end of the game both teams were tied at 0-0, but were allowed four downs extra. The Band scored a touchdown in their four downs, then held the Wildcats for four downs, ending the game. Bill Cody refereed the game and Ed Hart was head linesman.

Kappa Kappa Psi Named Leader Of Band Frats

Tech's chapter of Kappa Kappa Psi, national honorary band fraternity, has been named the outstanding group from among college chapters in the nation. The selection, made on the basis of achievement and progress, was announced this week by A. Frank Martin, executive secretary of the organization. Mr. Martin will award the Tech chapter a recognition trophy at its annual Homecoming banquet Saturday.

This award is the first of a series to be made by the Grand Council of Kappa Kappa Psi, stated Wayne McDonald, president of the Tech chapter. In announcing the selection, McDonald added, the Alpha Omicron chapter was especially commended for their efforts in making available to Tech students records of school songs, promoting fellowship among bandmen and carrying out a program of physical improvements for the band building.

Special guests for the banquet will include Bob Makovsky, founder of Kappa Kappa Psi.

The Alpha Omicron chapter was organized on the Tech campus in 1938, and was instrumental in persuading Fred Waring to write the "Tech Fight Song" in 1942. The song was played on Mr. Waring's NBC show that year, and officially dedicated to the school.

During the war, the Tech chapter was one of five in the nation to remain active. It now has 45 active members, with 10 fall pledges.

Friday Pep Rally To Be Broadcast

"The biggest, the best and the hottest pep rally of the year is expected to come to a shimmering boil Friday night preceding the homecoming game," stated Roy Grimes, secretary of the Saddle Tramp club.

The rally, the first 30 minutes of which will be carried by a local broadcast, will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the gym. Andy Willingham, head boy cheer leader, will be in charge.

After the noise and enthusiasm is sufficient, the pep rally will move across the street to continue the proceedings around a tremendous bonfire rimes said. The freshmen boys will do a shirt-tail snake-dance around the fire, and the crowd will witness the burning of "The Owl", which will be mounted in the center of the fire.

The wood for the bonfire is being gathered by the Saddle Tramps, but they are asking all students to contribute to the pile located across from the gym. Bring anything but the "X-buildings", said Grimes.

Zafran Performs At Tech Fun Night

With a few twists of the wrists and words of magic, Lewis M. Zafran, performed the seemingly impossible at the Recreation hall's fun night program Friday.

Zafran, who began his hobby of magic as a youth, never lost his sense of humor during the show as he transferred a borrowed dollar bill from a compact to a banana, cut a student's tie into four pieces, and threaded a dozen needles in a student's mouth. Only after the dollar was returned to the owner, the tie put back together, and the needles removed from the person's mouth, did the participants regain their comfort and smiles.

After the show, the magician commented on his receptive audience and the attractiveness of the Recreation hall, Troy A. Ennis, Recreation hall director said.

When not presenting shows, Zafran is Pioneer Air Lines traffic and sales manager for West Texas and New Mexico. He is the first magician to present a show at the Recreation hall this semester.

week. Let's hope that in the future the officials can keep their hands away from those flags just a little more and the Raiders go ahead and play the kind of ball that we know they can.

—Jerry Hall

Next Saturday is Homecoming and everyone should be "teed up" for the big game. But if you happen to be one of those persons who have difficulty getting into the spirit of things, may I suggest a remedy? Go out Friday afternoon and watch the touch football games at the old stadium grounds. There are 700 boys participating in touch football and, believe me, the spirit to win can be found at any one of those games. And don't think that there is anything "sissy" about the game. After seeing a few of the blocks that are tossed around you'll be content to sit and enjoy the tussle as I was. I ventured out Sunday to see the boys play "that sissy game" and before the game was half over I found myself worrying about a particular individual who was wearing glasses. Fortunately though, the bespectacled player managed to evade all the sharp elbows and ramming shoulders that came his way. So if you want to be ready for the pep rally next Friday night, just stroll over to the old stadium that afternoon and get in the groove. You'll be ready!

H.E. CLUB TO HAVE COFFEE

Home economics alumni will be honored at the Home Economics club coffee from 9 to 10:30 a.m. Saturday in H-107.

Senior and Junior home economics students in charge of the coffee are Eka Faye Hooten, general chairman and publicity chairman; Sut Buckelew and Jean Poteet, foods committee; Doris Thurman, decoration committee; and Joy Williams, invitation committee.

The Home Economics club invites ex-students and their families to attend.

SOCI

New pledges of the Soci social club were honored at the Big Brother-Little Brother breakfast Sunday morning at the Hilton hotel. Afterwards the group attended the First Methodist church.

PRESS ELECTS OFFICERS

Jim Black, KCBQ radio announcer, spoke to members of the Press club in a meeting held Wednesday afternoon.

A float of the educational class was voted and dates for the journalism congress to be held at Tech this spring were approved.

Officers elected at the meeting are Jim Sanders, second vice president; Paula Sittel, treasurer and Keith Anderson, parliamentarian.

COLLEGE CLUB

Thirteen pledges were initiated as new members of College Club, men's social organization, Sunday afternoon at the Hilton hotel, Bob Williams, club reporter, has announced.

New members are Elwood Caruth, Bob Cunningham, Roland Drake, Edward A. Dunbar, Thomas Morris, James M. Nash, Robert H. Norris, Ernest Parrott, Robert Pfleger, Kenneth Probasco, George Rouse, Jack Wilborn, and Loy Wylie.

LAS CHAPARRITAS

Members of Las Chaparritas social club will honor alumnae and their escorts with a "Welcome Exes" sport dance from 9 to 12 p.m. Friday at the Lubbock hotel.

Loyd Jenkins and his orchestra will furnish dance music.

Chaperones will be Dr. and Mrs. D. D. Jackson, Dr. and Mrs. J. C. Cross and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Allen.

LOS CAMARADAS

Los Camaradas, men's social club, initiated 13 new pledges Wednesday night in A-121, Bill Stalls, club president, has announced.

Those initiated were Andy Behrends, George Griffin, Dale Thut, Charles Watson, Bill Clanton, Hiram Jordan, Earl Martin, Warren Neal Lacey, Joe Overton, Delbert Lewis, Glen R. Gamble, William Jordan and Edward Smith.

KEMAS

Kemas pledges were honored with the club's semi-annual Big Brother-Little Brother breakfast Sunday morning at the Hilton hotel. The group later attended the First Presbyterian church.

TECH 4-H CLUB TO MEET

Former members of 4-H clubs are urged to attend a meeting of the Texas Tech 4-H club at 7 p.m. Thursday in the Aggie auditorium, said Henry Schacht, president of the organization.

The club will promote social activities and support the 4-H program in Texas, he added.

MISS GRAVES TO SPEAK

"Toward New Horizons" will be the subject of a speech given by Miss Martha Graves, director of home and family life, when she speaks at a breakfast given by the Mary Emma chapter of the Future Homemakers of America Sunday morning in the Lubbock hotel.

Miss Graves was a member of the national council who made plans to organize FHA in 1944.

TVA MEETING ATTENDED

Miss Esther Sorenson, district supervisor of homemaking education, attended a meeting of the executive board of the TVA in Austin, Oct. 19.

Students who would consent to use their convertibles in the Homecoming parade are requested to leave their names in the Alumni office, Ad-108, said W. O. (Dub) Boswell, parade chairman.

He asked also that class presidents report to the Alumni office for parade assignments.

Holden, Wallace Elected Officers At Austin Meet

Dr. W. C. Holden, dean of the graduate division, and Dr. Ernest Wallace, academic dean of the division of arts and sciences, were elected to offices in the Texas Archeological and Paleontological society in annual meeting at Austin, Saturday.

Wallace was elected secretary-treasurer of the society, and Holden was elected to edit the society's official bulletin, published yearly.

The society's annual meeting and its official bulletin, are a "clearing house" for the new discoveries and findings in archeology and paleontology in Texas, Wallace said.

The bulletin will be published by Tech press this year, Wallace added.

"Fingerprint Cave," a paper edited by Jane Holden, a Tech student and daughter of Dr. Holden, was discussed in the morning session of the meeting. The paper was a report of the discovery of a prehistoric cave by a class of Tech students. The cave is located east of O'Donnell.

The society will meet next year in Alpine.
