A Professional Angle . . .

Selection of the La Ventana beauties, this year, as in most other years, has caused its bit of dissention. Every one can't be satisfied, of course, for beauty is a relative thing, and each person has his own tastes. Realizing this, we would like to commend the La Ventana editor for taking cognizance of the facts in the case. We know that no one could have been fairer than he has tried to be in the matter. His efforts to get a broad representation of the student body in the first elimination and his calling of an additional elimination, with judges from downtown, is indicative of his attitude. We'd like to recommend even a further step for next year's elimination, however. It stands to reason since the beauties are to be presented pictorially, that being photogenic is of primary importance in the selection. Rather than have students as judges, where personalities often enter in, why not bring in people who should be able to judge beauty both from an impersonal and photographic viewpoint? A group of five or six of the town's leading photographers would be the most likely persons for such a task. A view of beauties from a professional angle is something all La Ventanas in the future could well use.

Willing And Eager . . .

Indications are available on every hand that the Texas Tech Ex-Students association is willing and eager to get into the harness for the school. Its most recent action is allotment to the Student Council of the proceeds of the homecoming dance. The money, estimated at approximately six hundred dollars, will not go into the general fund of the council, but awaits specific designation of the association as to how it will be applied. Regardless of the use to which the money is put, the gift shows a commendable spirit on the part of the association. As a matter of fact, its new year's goal: establishment of 50 local Ex-students chapters throughout the state also shows the spirit that has made the organization become of age. By its constant backing, the group is sure to make Tech a bigger and better school.

IN THE MOURNING MAIL

Dear Editor: Although this letter is addressed to you, it is directed to those Tech instructors and professors who make students late to their next classes by keeping them five and ten minutes after the hour. These instructors appear completely unconcerned as to whether their students meet their remaining classes or not. They are usually the ones, however, who do not tolerate late arrivals to their own lectures. When the bell rings, this type instructor suddenly realizes that he has not covered all the necessary material, has not made assignments or has not handed back papers. It is my understanding that students are to be dismissed from the class five minutes before the hour, but I can find no definite information concerning this. Is there such a regulation? If there isn't one, why not? Believe me, it is no pleasant experience to run from the Ad building to the gym and still be late. I imagine other teachers are also irritated when they cannot begin work due to the last minute confusion caused in the rooms by late arriving student. Sincerely, M.B. The University of Washington has the longest period of years without defeat on record. For nine straight years (1908-1916) the Huskies went undefeated in 63 games.

Dear Pot,

A bad girl always "yesses",
A smart girl makes them sound alike
And holds them all to guesses.

Dear Pot,
Before I heard the doctor tell
The danger of a kiss,
I had considered kissing you . . .
The nearest thing to bliss.
But now I know Biology,
And sit and sigh and moan;
Six million mad bacteria . . .
And I thought we were alone.

The modern Tech girl is a vision at night . . . and a sight in the mornings . . . so they say.

Dear Pot,
The moon was shining on the plain
While two Techs were parked in a country lane
The couple was cuddled in heavenly bliss;
The young man quickly stole a kiss.
The girl uncoupled with a snap
And delivered a hard resounding slap
The boy wilted under the strain
And the girl broke loose from her college swain
The girl said it wasn't far,
She believed she'd just get out of the car;
She just couldn't stand his mushy talk,
She believed that she would rather walk.
The girl hopped out and walked back to the school
And the boy called himself a simpering fool.
He swore he'd be heartless and show no more pity
And henceforth he would park 15 miles from the city.

Dear Pot,
The black-haired sob
And the blue-eyed bat
Side by side

Jabbering of dates
And pick-ups down town,
Classes they'd cut
And wind-blown gowns;

Things inconsequential . . .

Would be providential.)

One of the Toreador's better news sources, refusing to come up with a dry run this week, reports that the whiskey in Hobbs is still good . . . Noisest thing on the campus, with the possible exception of Joe Meador, is the flag pole. With the slightest breeze, it starts a continuous clanging. Even lack of wind doesn't affect Joe . . . Steaks were served in Men's Dorm III Sunday noon. Not with as there enough to go around, but almost everyone who wanted seconds got them . . . good steaks too . . . Wonder when certain people will learn that Tech has some streets that are just like a number of its teachers . . . one way.

One Tech coed, just out from a three-day stay in the infirmary, dropped by the office this week to tell us how pleased she was with her treatment while ill. The nurses and doctors, she said, have managed to achieve just the right amount of concern for the patients. . . We spent two days there last spring. Must agree that things couldn't be nicer. Miss Mary Alma Wells, English instructor here at Tech, who probably is more responsible for the editor being a journalism major than any other person (she taught him in high school), is not taking her responsibility lightly. He dropped by to see her the other day, left her office with an English text under his arm. She recommended another that might be helpful also.

With the advent of mid-semester exams, we have begun thinking how nice it would be to go to school under a system such as that used at the University of Chicago or various European schools . . . No exams until time for graduation; no cuts for class absences. Adoption of such a plan here would probably revolutionize the life of the Tech student. To say the least, it would certainly separate the men from the boys, or perhaps we should say, the students from the playboys. The serious student might apply himself to his studies, graduate as early as he is capable. Others, lacking in self determination, might well piddle for forty years without getting the coveted degree. We believe the effect would be totally good, however, taking the emphasis from class attendance and grades and placing it where it belongs, on learning and knowledge.

Regardless of the system used at a college, we think there comes a

CIGARS FOR THE LUSTY TYPE

Cloth-Of-Gold, Polka Dots Keynote College Men Fashions

The college man should now have in his wardrobe at least one each of the following: cloth-of-gold sport shirts with three-quarter length sleeves; broadcated silk pajamas; Picasso pink sweaters with plunging necklines, and polka-dotted suspenders. So say fashion designers in New York, who decided this fall it was time for a change in men's bib 'n tuckery. Hand-in-hand with the revolutionary change, the first in fifteen years for the male sex, is predicted a new trend in college smoking habits—the switch to the cigar. The sudden turn to color, oddly enough, tends to bring out the "best" and the "best" in man simultaneously . . . by accepting what fashion authorities call his "lustiness". A rugged tan glows threateningly under the challenge of pink. Muscles look twice as powerful set off by a masculine polka dot, king size. The new popularity of cigars is a style not that cropped up less suddenly. It was an outgrowth of the war, when men grew more robust, needed a more robust smoke. Dr. Eugen Kahn, professor of psychiatry at Yale university, analyzed it this way: "The lusty are the people with strong appetites, who genuinely and thoroughly enjoy all the good things of the earth, and with them smoking. Lusty men enjoy quantitatively and qualitatively a choice meal, a fine play or time when the student should decide for himself whether he wants to learn. Too much driving on the part of the teacher can take self reliance, so much needed in later life, away from the student. One step that might well be taken here at Tech is the abolishment of compulsory class attendance. This one move, we believe would make a great change in the attitude of the young college man toward his studies and in all probability would not appreciably affect the number of students in class each day. . . And from where we sit, it looks like a change in attitude would solve a lot of problems. Next on the list of guest columnists is TOM ALLEN, senior journalism student, who before coming to Tech, was with the Wichita Falls Daily Times.

SPORTS GRAPEVINE

All in all it wasn't such a bad weekend for us. There were a few close calls but in the end when the smoke cleared away we had 16 wins and 7 losers. That adds up to 69.5 per cent. To start with, our major upset of the week didn't pan out because Texas edged by TCU by a 13-7 score. It was close and we would hate to have to pick if they played again. Army scored in the final minutes to beat Penn and give us our first win. That was also a thriller. Score was 26-20. North Carolina won easily from Maryland 49-20 and we were right again. Oklahoma took Nebraska by 41-14 and we had the Sooners. Here is one we missed, Ohio St. 34 and Illinois 7. In a hair raiser down south we dropped a game when Old Miss beat Tennessee 16-13. California and Jackie Jensen rolled on over Washington State by a 44-14 margin. Michigan powered over Indiana 54-0 and we had both of these right. Tulane took Baylor 35-13 and we were wrong. The Navy wasn't right and neither were we. We had W&M over Boston College and they tied 14 all. In the Southwest Rice rolled over the Aggies from College Station 28-6 and the Aggies are still winless for the last 13 starts. That was how we saw it. Notre Dame really had a hard time but she came through and beat Northwestern 12-7 and we won again. Down south again Alabama beat Georgia Tech 14-12 and we lost. If Saturday was a day for thrillers and hard fast finishes the game at Fayetteville will surely go down as one of the spine tinglers of them all. SMU scored on the final play to beat the Razorbacks 14-12. We won but there were times when it looked pretty bad. Penn State downed Temple 47-0, a win. South Carolina kept Tulsa out of the win column by 27-7. Minnesota took Iowa into camp 28-13. Michigan State swamped Iowa State 48-7 and Rutgers beat NYU 40-0. In the Border conference Texas Mines beat Arizona 26-14. That put the Wildcats out of the flag race. Georgia took Auburn by a 42-14 tally and to round things out Missouri came from behind to beat Colorado 27-13. Well that about winds things up. Be seeing you.

—Kenneth White.

Many fans expected the clash between Arkansas and SMU to be all the show of Arkansas' Scott and SMU's Walker and here's what happened. Early in the second quarter Scott, in carrying the ball for the Razorbacks on an end sweep, ran head-on into Walker. Both boys hit the turf with a bang. The trainer for each team ran out on the field with all their paraphernalia as if their prize roster had lost a spur. Both boys were taken from the field. Scott never returned to the game whereas Walker, although he returned to the tussle, only carried the ball seven times for a net yardage of minus ten.

In speaking of Arkansas and SMU, the finish of Saturday's game should give an indication of how a great team plays when the chips are down and only minutes left to play.

Late in the final quarter SMU held Arkansas and forced them to kick, which they did, sending the ball out on the SMU 16 yard line. There were 4 minutes to play. SMU was 84 yards from paydirt and trailing by 5 points. Rote picked up 2; a double reserve from Walker to Page to Rote placed the ball down on the Arkansas 47 yard line. There were now 2 minutes and 55 seconds to play. Johnson passed to Walker, setting the ball up on the Arkansas 28. Trying desperately Johnson missed his next two pass attempts. There was 1 minute and 25 seconds to go! McKissack picked up two yards that were needed for a first down; and with only a minute to go, the Mustangs had a new lease on life. Johnson passed to Burdette on the 21 yard line. On the next pass attempt Alvin Duke intercepted the ball for Arkansas, returning to the 32 yard line. If Arkansas had been allowed to retain possession of the ball, SMU's chances would have been nil, but an off-side penalty against Arkansas placed the ball down on the Arkansas 16 yard line in SMU's possession. There were 20 seconds left in the ball game. It was 3rd down with 1 yard needed for a first down, 16 yards for a touch-down. Johnson passed to Milam in the end zone; a juggling catch was made, and everyone thought SMU had scored. But the officials ruled that Milam was over the end zone stripe when he caught the ball; so the ball was returned to the 16 yard line and the play ruled an incomplete forward pass. Now 10 seconds to go! Once again Johnson faded to throw a pass. Page broke into the clear, caught the ball and, as he hit the ground, the gun sounded signifying the end of the game. SMU led 13 to 12 with the extra point yet to come! A record crowd of homecoming fans had really been stunned as Moaning Matty's boys pulled one out of the fire that kept them in the lead in the Southwest Conference race. Is it any wonder that many a gambling man shakes as if he had the St. Vitus dance?

—Willard Ogle.

To have what you want is riches; but to be able to do without is power.

In the history of Tech only six double Ts have been awarded to women.

Two former Red Raider coaches, Berl Huffman, left, and Walker Nichols, right, will bring their New Mexico Lobo squad to Lubbock Saturday to play a favored Tech team.

Former Tech Coaches Return; Seeking Win Over Red Raiders

By JERRY HALL
Toreador Sports Writer

Tech-New Mexico grid rivalry spurred up phenomenally when two Raider coaches left Tech to take over the reins of the Lobo squad two years ago. Saturday, these coaches, Burl Huffman and Walker Nichols, make their first return to Tech soil with a team they hope will eke out a win over the charges of their former head coach, Dell Morgan.

Meanwhile, fans are wondering if their squad will reach the same high key it did last year when the Lobos threw a terrific scare into the Raiders. No doubt, Huffman had his boys supercharged that day, for they came from behind a 26-0 halftime score, by means of a crushing onslaught, to end the game at 26-20.

Techans will remember the former Tech backfield and head basketball coach as a likeable man with a fine record. During World War II Huffman rose to the rank of captain and was head coach of Kessler Field athletics in 1944. He was also first assistant coach of the Fort Worth Skymasters for a time. Coach Huffman is a graduate of Trinity college and he coached at White Deer and Lubbock high before joining the Tech staff in 1935 under Pete Cawthon. He rapidly rose to popularity here and when Coach Dell Morgan took over he made Huffman his first assistant and backfield coach. Coach Huffman was nationally known and in the spring of 1947 just before he left here it was rumored that he was being sought for a coaching job under the famous Lou Little at Columbia University. Little praised him highly and stated that he would like to work with him but the New Mexico job came along and Huffman went there.

Coach Huffman had barely settled in Albuquerque when he sent back for Tech's line coach and head track coach to come and join him as his line and basketball coach. So Walker Nichols departed and went with his friend, Nick, as he was known, was a former Red Raider letterman and was captain of the Matadors in 1936. He was also a veteran of the last war, serving in a recreational officer in the Navy. He joined the Tech staff in 1941 after coaching for five years at Lubbock High. He helped to develop the 1939 Western state championship team. Before Nichols left for the service he was head freshman coach at Tech. He helped to develop many Tech track stars among whom was Charley Reynolds, the 100-yard dash champ in the Border conference.

Since the two men have gone to New Mexico they have had their troubles and are still trying to find a winning combination there. This season has really been rugged for them nonetheless, you can expect them to field a fighting team Saturday.

Prof. G. L. Tuve, Tech's first department of mechanical engineering head, was in Lubbock this weekend. He is travelling in Texas on official business as president of the Society of Heat and Ventilation Engineers.

Green Wave, Bobcats, APO, Kemas, Centaurs, Wranglers Are Winners

The "Green Wave" touch football team defeated the "Rebels", Dormitory league leader, Friday afternoon by a 13-6 score to go into a tie for first place standings. The first "Green Wave" score came on a 25 yard run over the right side of the line by Jack Walker. The second TD was made by Jack Givens on a 20 yard gallop. George Waters banged the center of the line for the extra point. The "Rebels" only score came on a pass from Jack Adams to Harold Pickens that traveled 20 yards.

In one other game played Friday the Sneed "Bobcats" downed the "Tech Termites" 6-0 when Bill Cooper took a 20 yard pass from Clarence Darter for the only tally. Bill Cody, Wade Hardesty, and Tito Troost were the officials for the first game, and Dick Robinson, Merle Stevens, and M. D. Stevens officiated in the second game.

The Band team retained its lead in the Independent League by downing the Wesleyan Wildcats Sunday afternoon by a 14-6 score.

A 25 yard pass from Bob Lee to Jerry Thrush tallied the first score for the Band. Jim Jo Reiger made the extra point on a right end run. The second TD came on a 35 yard dash by Reiger, who once again made the extra point on an end run. The lone score for the Wildcats was made on a pass from Calvin Carpenter to Norman McNeil from the Band 25 yard line. Merle Stevens, M. D. Stevens and James Rider officiated in the game.

One other game was played Sunday in the Independent league with APO defeating the Pelicans by a 2-0 score.

Five Girls Attend WRA Convention

Five Tech girls have been chosen to attend the state Women's Recreational Association convention, Nov. 18-20, at North Texas State Teacher's College, Denton, Carla von Roeder, Tech WRA president, has announced.

alive in the second half. Silver Key scored first in the first quarter on a pass from Jack Noyes, who played with a broken hand, to Pete Cook. The extra point was made by Robert Coffee. In the second quarter Kemas managed to score on a pass from Charlie Lucas to Gene Thomas. At the half Silver Key led 7-6. Coming back in the third quarter Lucas began to hit his targets. In this period he tossed a 35 yard pass to David Leaverton for a TD, and Jim Sammons converted. In the fourth quarter Lucas passed for two additional touchdowns, one 20 yard leave to Sammons and a 30 yard toss to Thomas. Silver Key was never able to push over for another score, but threatened several times, only to fall short near the Kemas goal line. Henry DeFord, E. Brown and Jimmy Martin were the officials.

Two games were unreeled Sunday afternoon at Chapman field with Centaurs downing SoCl 14-0, and the Wranglers defeating Los Cams to hold their lead in the Social Club league. The Centaurs gathered in 14 points on a pass from Dick Wolfe to John Huckabee that was good for 30 yards and on Lee Ray Swim's interception and runback of a Soci pass. Edgar Self converted for the extra points. The Wranglers defeated Los Cams on a pass from Gene Greathouse to Fred Shultz.

Frosh Outclass NMMI 20-0; Play Cameron Aggies Friday

By JIM SANDELS
Toreador Sports Writer

The Texas Tech "fish" sacked up their second victory of the season by topping the NMMI Broncos 20-0 in an Armistice Day tussle at Roswell.

The Tech frosh took the situation in hand the first time they gained possession of the ball and launched a long drive that paid off when Harold Haynes, Roscoe speed-merchant, cracked through for the score from the four-yard line. Jack Davis' kick from placement was good and the Picadors stepped out in front 7-0.

The Raider understudies scored again in the waning minutes of the first half on a 11-yard pass from J. O. McClelland of Phillips to Charles Allen, end from Pleasanton. The try for an extra point was good and the first half ended with Tech on the heavy end of a 14-0 score.

The final Tech tally came in the third period with McClelland connecting on an aerial to Davis, who scooted the remainder of the needed 27 yards to paydirt.

The Bronco eleven never got an offensive underway. The Tech forward wall led by Jerrell "Twice" Price from Brownfield and Dick Andrews of McLean stymied every goalward thrust made by NMMI.

The Tech frosh will journey to Oklahoma to battle with the Cameron Aggies Friday. The Aggies are one of the strongest junior colleges in this part of the country. Last season the Oklahoma aggression pasted the Picadors 35-0 in a muddy battle at Tech stadium.

If the Picadors can win in Cameron they will boost their season to three wins and two losses. They dropped the opener to the West Texas fish but managed to even the ledger when they took the first victory of the season from that same eleven in Canyon two weeks ago. The second game on the first year men's schedule was with a strong Hardin-Simmons freshman team and the Picadors lost.

The team hasn't won at home yet, but has a perfect record on the road. The Cameron Aggies are tough and the Techsians will probably go into that game as the underdog. As yet it is not known if the injuries of Judson Brawner and Ralph Mays will permit them to play in Oklahoma. Up until the time these two backs received leg injuries just before the NMMI game they had been consistently good players for the Picadors.

Vivi Exes To Award Band Fraternity Scholarship Plaque To Honor NM Band

The announcement that a plaque will be awarded to the member or pledge of Las Vivarachas making the highest scholastic average for the semester, came as a surprise feature at an informal Mexican buffet supper last night by the alumnae of the club.

The affair at which the announcement was made was in the home of Mrs. Max Tidmore of 2113 Twenty-second street. Entertainment rooms were decorated with fall floral arrangements. Approximately 20 alumnae and 40 members and pledges were present.

Cigars---

concert, a good cigar". The tense type he adds, turn to cigarettes.

The combination of huskier clothes and cigar-smoking are coupled under a general trend toward making college men "the lusty type".

The "bold look" is scheduled to continue. Dozens of new gimmicks have been added—including two much-promoted colors for suits, hats and shoes. They are walnut brown and navy, which is a combination of navy and aviation blue.

Suits for winter have lapels that spread an inch wider on either side of the manly chest, each lapel sporting a one-inch welt seam at the edge. Suits are cut easier, with more fullness through the chest. Not only suspenders, but ties and garters have taken on polka-dots. Not the feminine type dots. Fashion authorities call them "duboon dots", because they're a full inch in diameter, and they're patterned against bold, solid color backgrounds.

Sport shirts are not only colorful (flamingo, jelly green, topaz, eggshell), but they have the added personality of wide-spread collars with stitching one-half inch from the edge.

New shoes are heftier, with black soles and uppers in a new shade called midnight murec (that's a deep reddish-brown). With the black and murec duo, the young man can wear black, brown or grey.

Socks to go with these shoes are extremely wide-ribbed, with large flashy diamonds, or checks "as bold as a gambler's vest." Hats pick up the color of the general ensemble by matching the band around the brim, to the color of the suit. The hats, incidentally, are designed to look like hombergs—except that the brim snaps down neatly in front.

The final note in the college fashion picture—that cigar—has changed too. Not to be outdone by clothing makers, the cigar manufacturers have put into their lines a special collegiate style: a new, smaller edition of the popular pan-stella designed especially for casual campus smoking!
