New Class Presidents Elected

By JACK SHELTON
Toreador Staff Writer

Harold Luke, Bob Schmidt, and Harold Brannon were elected presidents of the senior, sophomore and freshman classes respectively in the run-off election held Tuesday, announced Margaret Clark, elections chairman. Ralph Lacy, textile engineering major from Goldsmith, was elected junior class president last Wednesday by a majority vote.

Luke, Muenster of the senior class, defeated Arthur Busch, engineering student from New Mexico. Bob Schmidt of Lubbock won over Jim Choate, arts and science major from Lubbock, and Harold Brannon defeated Bo Kennedy.

Vice-president of the senior class goes to Hiram Jordan, business major from Monahans, after defeating John Klein of Denton. Frank Poyner defeated Marland Ribble for the vice-presidency of the freshman group. Elected by majority votes in Wednesday's elections were Alvin Davis, junior agriculture major from Post; and Earl Hutcherson, sophomore arts and sciences major from Lubbock, as vice-presidents of their respective classes. Miss Clark announced.

Janet Moore, arts and sciences student from Amarillo, defeated Mary Alice Christian, business administration student from West, for the position of secretary-treasurer of the senior class. For the same position of the junior class, Mary Ruth Norris, arts and sciences student from Waco, defeated Guida Miller, journalism major from Amarillo.

Claudine Young, of Lubbock, defeated Ann Tidball, of Lubbock, for secretary-treasurer of the sophomore class. Nancy Davis of Lubbock, defeating Jo Cole of Big Spring, will be freshman secretary-treasurer.

Miss Clark announced that Susie Hudson, senior from Earth and Jimmie Lee Cotten, junior from Lamesa, were elected AWS representatives from their respective classes. For sophomore representative, there will be a run-off between Jo Cobb and Betty Peavy, both of Lubbock. Freshman girls will also have a run-off election for their representative.

Elected at the freshman meeting as class sponsor was Fred Wilmoy, from the department of biology, Miss Clark said.

Run-offs will be held Monday at 5 p. m. For information concerning the place of the elections go by the Student Council office, Miss Clark requested.

Doctor Hutchins Said Improved

The condition of Dr. Lehman C. Hutchins, associate professor of the department of education and psychology, who is in West Texas hospital with virus pneumonia, was reported improved Wednesday, according to Prof. Doyle D. Jackson of the same department.

Doctor Hutchins' improved condition permitted his removal from an oxygen tent Monday.

All of Doctor Hutchins' classes will be met, including his extension course at Tahoka, as substitute instructors have been found, said Jackson.

Ad Building Construction Ends Dream Of 25 Years

By SUE HOLMES
Toreador Staff Writer

The raw, red brick walls on the south end of the Administration building should be covered up by the fall term of 1950. All this will be accomplished at a cost of $498,450.

Since the Board of Directors met in San Antonio a couple of Saturdays ago and approved the building of two wings on the Ad building, the contractor, W. G. McMillan of Lubbock has pitched a temporary hut to house construction tools and materials, and excavations have started.

Building Has History

When Tech opened back in September of 1925, most departments had offices and classes in the Ad building. Besides that building, the college was composed of a Home Economics building, Textile engineering building, and the Stock Judging pavilion.

Various science and engineering labs, which were later moved to the Chemistry and Engineering buildings, completed in 1928, were held under the red tile roof of the Ad building.

W. T. Gaston, college business manager since 1928, recalls that it was a fond dream of college officials back in the twenties to form a quadrangle of the Ad building. They planned to build the two wings under construction now, plus a two-storied south section.

Partially, that dream is coming

Speech Department Installs Equipment

By MAC STRONG
Toreador Staff Writer

Radio equipment of broadcast quality has been installed by the speech department in its studios in the Speech building. "This equipment will aid greatly in the teaching of radio courses in the speech department," Miss Annah Joe Pendleton, professor and head of the speech department, said.

"Shows, except those with orchestras or other musical groups, could be done from our studios through the local stations," Miss Pendleton said. "With the help of this equipment and courses now taught in the speech department, students should receive the knowledge and experience to qualify them to become announcers, newscasters and control room operators. In addition, they will gain knowledge and experience in radio acting and the direction of radio shows," she said. Courses offered are background to radio, and radio announcing, acting and directing.

Radio quarters in the speech building consist of a control room, production studio, and observation studio. The observation studio is also used for other speech classes. New equipment already installed includes an RCA console, two Gates transcription turntables with CE transcription tone arms and reluctance pickup. One of the turntables is equipped with a Rek-O-Kut recording mechanism with a Presto cutting head. Also included are four RCA speakers and two RCA microphones.

To be installed in the production studio are two Gates transcription turntables, a new four-channel RCA console including a filter channel, and a new desk type RCA microphone. In addition to other microphones to be installed, an RCA junior velocity microphone is in the studios.

true, but still the building will lack a south section before it is quadrangular.

Library Was Located There

Back in the days when Tech was brand new, the library was located in the west wing of the Ad building where offices for the registrar, veterans' coordinator, and ex-students headquarters are now. The registrar's office was where the purchasing office is now, and the purchasing office was somewhere behind the present cashiers' windows.

In those days Dr. Paul Horn, Tech's first president, would allow no smoking in the Ad building. But the registrar who was here then found it necessary to indulge in fags occasionally. Mr. Gaston remembers many times when the registrar would come into the business office to "discuss business matters," then promptly close the door behind him and smoke two or three cigarettes.

"He knew I was sympathetic," Mr. Gaston, who is a long-time pipe smoker, chuckled.

New Plans Given

New blueprints drawn up by Wyatt C. Hedrick, Tech's architect, call for the wings extending to the south each of which will be 60 feet wide and 130 feet long. They will be three-storied and have full basements, although college officials "yet are not sure what will be placed in all the basement room."

Thirty-one classrooms will serve to ease the crowded conditions which now exist. Thirty-six faculty members will be accommodated by 18 new offices.

At long last the Business Administration division, which has so long been divided among several buildings, will have central headquarters concentrated on the third floor of the new west wing. On the first floor of that wing will be a suite of student life offices, including rooms for the Dean of Men and Dean of Women and offices for the Student Council.

President's Office To Be Moved

President Wiggins and his staff will move to the first floor of the east wing when it is completed. Also, offices will be in this wing for the architect, business manager, comptroller and purchasing agent. The switchboard, presently located by the post office, will be moved to this wing.

Tech's post office station will be moved to the south end of the new west wing.

Exterior of the new additions will match the original structure, but

Foreign Students Of Fifteen Nations Enroll At Tech

Twenty-eight men and five women students have listed a foreign country as their home address, according to a check made by the office of the Dean of Men.

Mexico has the largest representation at Tech with five students. Three students are from Costa Rica, and two have come from both Hawaii and Lebanon. China is represented by four students and Burma by three. Venezuela is the home of two students, while three call Panama home.

Peru is represented by two students, as is Brazil. Iran, Greece, Honduras, India and Belgian Congo each have one of their citizens at Tech.

Meeting Is Called For Club Officers

All campus club presidents and sponsors, or other authorized representative, are asked to attend a meeting at 7 p. m. Thursday in the cafeteria unit of the Rec hall, said James G. Allen, dean of men.

Because of incomplete lists, it will be impossible to notify each club president personally, he said.

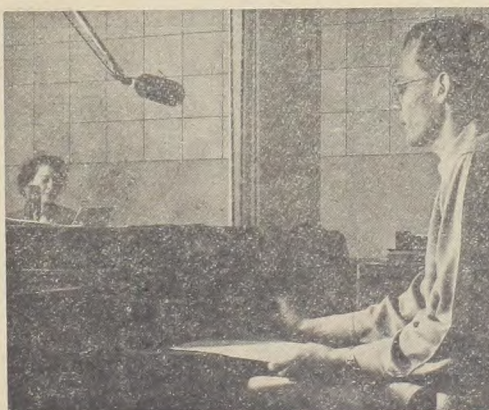

Plans are to be made for use of the new ballroom facilities in the Rec hall, Dean Allen announced. Meetings and dances may be held in the newly-opened section, and the meeting Thursday is to work out a plan to make the facilities equally available to all campus clubs, the dean concluded.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Lee Thibodeaux, Jr., both former Techians, are at home in Spearman after their recent marriage. He is employed with the Texas Highway department. Mrs. Thibodeaux, nee Margaret Ann Stone, was an English major at Tech last year.

Interiors will have something new. Glazed structural tile wall coating will be used in the corridors, so that students who lean against walls will not leave footprints.

Hedrick says the lighting in the new wings will be the best on the campus, with fluorescent lights used throughout. Another special feature will be recessed radiators.

Maybe in a few more years Tech's Board of Directors will decide to approve construction of the south section, thus making the Ad building a real "quad."

Funeral Services For Joan Lee Held Monday Afternoon

Funeral services were held at 3 p. m. Monday at Broadway Church of Christ for Miss Joan Lee, 20-year-old Tech junior, who was fatally injured in a two-car collision late Sunday afternoon.

Dr. M. Norvel Young officiated, assisted by Associate Minister Carl Spain. Horace Coffman was in charge of music. Burial was in Tech Memorial cemetery under the supervision of Sanders Funeral home.

Miss Lee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Lee of Lubbock, died at 7:15 p. m. Sunday in the Lubbock Memorial hospital. Hospital authorities stated that she died from a compound fracture of the skull and severe lacerations of the brain.

Pall bearers were Ben Willis, Ray Shook, Roy Miller, Pat O'Hara, V. O. Hildrith, and Jim Young. Honorary pall bearers were E. B. Green, Jr., Lawrence Green; J. C. Rigney; Paul Sherrod; B. Sherrod; Roy Grimes; Jack Hinchey; Joe Horn; James H. Darden; John Clark; George E. Thompson; Earl Lockhart; Earl Lockhart, Jr.; Bill Tatum; Dick Cosby; Walter Herring; W. H. Wharton and Joe Winegar.

Miss Lee moved to Lubbock with her parents from Aspermont, where she was born Sept. 4, 1929. She graduated from Lubbock Senior high in 1946, and was a member of the "Las Creas" girls social club which has since been disbanded. At Tech, she recently pledged DFD social club.

In the other car were Mrs. Ina J. Rhoten, 44, of Amherst, who was seriously injured and is receiving treatment at West Texas hospital; Miss Bobbie Rhoten, 17, who suffered bruises on the right arm; Randy Lee Pritchard, 23-month-old grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Rhoten, who was bruised on the forehead, and Mr. Rhoten, who was uninjured.

Surviving Miss Lee are her parents; the paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Lee of Aspermont; and maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Daugherty of Aspermont.

DEADLINE IS SATURDAY

Deadline for beauty nomination, Roy Grimes, editor, said yesterday.

Candidates' names may be entered in the Student Council office in the Administration building, he said. First elimination is to be Oct. 16 in the Journalism building.

Grimes warned that students should have their yearbook pictures made at Koen's studio as soon as possible in order to avoid any rush at the Oct. 21 deadline.

Phi Upsilon Omicron, home economics honorary society, has "hide away" clothes racks for sale in the dormitories. These racks can be obtained through any Phi U member or Charlotte Ritch, chairman, in room 346, Dorm III. The sale of these racks is one of the organization's money-making projects of the year.

College Avenue, Main Street Traffic Count Is Being Made

Since the first editorial concerning the traffic light at College avenue and Main street, there has been considerable activity on the campus in the direction of getting that much-needed light.

Richard M. Ehrlich of Men's Dorm III got some of the freshmen of that dorm out at the intersection and compiled a complete report of the amount of traffic, both automobiles and pedestrians, which crossed there. We wish to thank Dick for supplying these valuable statistics. Also a great deal of credit should go to the freshmen who participated in the cause.

Here is what they found: In 14 hours a total of 15,109 units of traffic went north and south on College avenue. One-way traffic for the students totaled 2,002; that would be approximately 3,300 students crossing College avenue both ways for the 14 hours.

During the counting process it was noticed that over 50 per cent of that dorm out at the intersection and compiled a complete report of the amount of traffic, both automobiles and pedestrians, which crossed there. We wish to thank Dick for supplying these valuable statistics. Also a great deal of credit should go to the freshmen who participated in the cause.

This survey took place last Wednesday from 8 o'clock in the morning until 10 o'clock in the evening. Another survey is underway this week, counting the traffic at two bad intersections, College avenue and Broadway and College avenue and Nineteenth street.

From the latest reports this is not the only action which has been taken. The administration has turned over to Elo Urbanovsky, Tech landscape architect, the responsibility to aid in getting a light at the intersection.

A student committee has been formed to talk with some city official concerning this measure. From present indications, there will be placed at this intersection a traffic signal which will help to guard the lives of the many students who use it . . . C.E.W.

"Armchair" Quarterbacks Menace To Raiders' Security

Since football season is in full swing again, it is time for all the "armchair" quarterbacks and coaches to shift their stogies to the weak side and begin their annual chant about the mistakes made by Tech's Raiders.

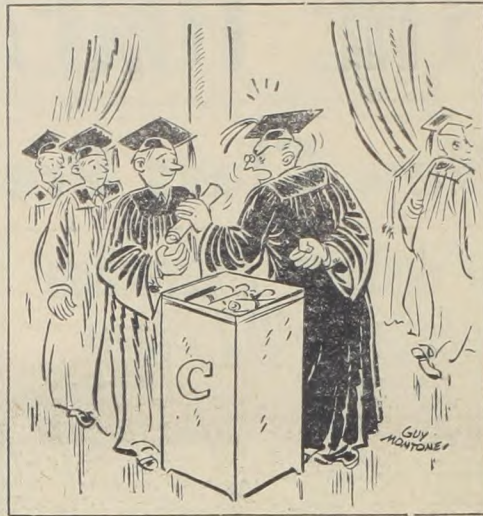

Strange as it may sound, we have some 2,000 grid generals milling around our newly sodded campus. Although you may never see them doing combat between the white lines, they are always ready to give out with the "razzberries" when the Matadors fail to chalk up a first down.

Last year, individual players were "boomed" and coaches were harshly rebuked by a few occupants of the students' section.

This year, we hope to have a better spirit. If you don't feel like joining the "rah-rah" section, keep quiet. But for the team's sake, don't "boo." After all, the Raiders are your team, so why not give them your moral support?

The coaching staff is perfectly capable of planning its own strategy, and the Raiders are capable of playing good ball. Let's leave it to these units to furnish our Saturday afternoon entertainment and let the "booming" stay in Brooklyn.

As a conscientious Brooklynite might say: "It's better yet to have stood in bed than to have come and boomed" . . . J.B.

Smithy's Forge

By JAMES F. SMITH

The football game with West Texas State Saturday night afforded a majority of Techsians their first opportunity to see this year's cheer leaders in action. Unfortunately, their debut—and it was that, partially—seems to us not to have been a complete success.

Not that the yell leaders themselves failed to provide a rousing show. Their performances were impressive. From the pre-game warm-ups through the victory parade and pep rally at Broadway and College, they kept up a fast, continual stream of cheers.

And yet the student section was fairly quiet. Not in a long while have we been present at a game in which the east stand of the stadium was so reserved. Only when the Red Raiders came onto the field, gained much yardage, or scored, did the students rally come to life. For the rest of the time, they watched the grid battle in comparative silence, letting the weight of vocal support fall upon the Saddle Tramps, the freshmen and a cluster of enthusiasts around the 40 and 50-yard lines.

This restraint on the part of most of the students is hard to explain, especially so when their cheering section boasts the addition of something which it has not seen for several seasons—acrobatics. On other campuses over the nation, the presence of gymnasts has lent dash and color to football. Whirling, flipping acrobats provide an unbeatable sideline attraction and inspiration.

Tech has that attraction. It has five cheer leaders, and a mascot whose demonstrated work is admirable. Shall it also be necessary to say that it has students who let the job of yelling be the problem of a few?

The publication of any paper brings assorted complaints. Missed quotations, names spelled incorrectly, dates wrong—these are errors which plague any editor.

But these are the result of inaccuracy. A different sort of gripe comes because of selectivity. For every edition, the editors must choose those stories which they think are the most timely or the most important for the general interests of the college. When there is a surplus of copy, then picking and omitting is doubly difficult. For each good story included, two must be thrown into the wastebasket because of lack of space.

What seems good judgment in selection may at base be faulty. The value of every story will not always be equal in every respect when it is considered by a number of individuals. The area for variation of opinion is extremely broad, and sometimes only trained minds and eyes can agree on the worth of

AROUND THE CAMPUSES

Editors note—The Toreador has an exchange agreement with many of the outstanding college newspapers in the nation and the editors have found a great deal of interesting and amusing reading in what is going on around other campuses. In the hope that you too are interested in what other students are doing, this column will be a regular feature of this paper.)

From the Colorado A&M "Oredigger" comes word that enrollment there has fallen off nearly 100 students. This year there were 1,115 male students who signed up for classes and, get this, only one lonely little coed. Looks as if she will have no trouble with dates for the coming year. Another feature which starts the year there is the annual freshman-sophomore tug of war which is held each fall. The participants are treated to a genuine old fashioned beer bust. "Nuff said!"

A Baylor coed, Carol McCall, took on a full size wasp to complete work on a Master's in biology this summer. After selecting the wasp as the topic of her thesis, Miss McCall allowed many of the 3,000 wasps which she collected to sting her and in several cases she extracted venom from the stingers and injected it into her own veins. She found that if a person is allergic to pollen, food proteins or other factors, they are also allergic to a wasp sting. Her findings have been termed as an aid to science and both Life and Newsweek magazines have asked for full information on the coed and her wasps.

Students at Texas Wesleyan in Fort Worth are boasting of the new Student Union building which was opened at that school this fall. The building was built at a cost of $51,500 and is being paid for in part by dues of $2.50 per semester which a student must pay for use of the facilities. The dues also include upkeep and pay the salaries of seven persons who are employed there.

A poll taken by The Skiff, TCU's weekly, shows 90 per cent of dormitory students, 75 per cent of the town students and 72 per cent of the faculty read all or part of that paper each week. It was announced by Prof. Paul O. Ridings, head of the journalism department at the Fort Worth school, that "Skiff" readers must be more serious minded than those of most college newspapers as editorials proved to be better read than eight of the other features of the paper."

The editorial staff of this paper recognizes the legitimacy of some complaints about "playing" stories in certain columns. It is also aware of ground for grievance when stories are left out. For each element, there can be only the reply that we must trust our selection of copy to be the most satisfactory to the most persons.

Engagement Of Tech Graduates Announced

The engagement of Miss Gretchen Clift of Waxahachie, 1949 graduate, to James Paul Sammons, jr., of Paris, 1949 graduate, was announced Saturday at a tea given for the bride-elect in Waxahachie.

Miss Clift is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Clift of Waxahachie, and the prospective bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Sammons, Paris. The wedding will take place Nov. 6 in the First Baptist church in Waxahachie.

Miss Clift was listed in Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities and was president of Ko Shari social club her senior year. Sammons was a member of Kemas social club.

Graduate Returns From Arabian Stay

Ray Eldridge, industrial engineering graduate of 1939, has recently returned from a three year stay in Saudi Arabia where he was assistant superintendent of the Arabian-American Oil company.

Enroute to the United States, the Eldridges made a tour of Europe, including Norway, Sweden, Germany, Switzerland and England.

While in Arabia, Eldridge had several personal interviews with King Al-Sa'ud, who presented him with a watch engraved with a portrait of the king's second son.

Due to the health of Mrs. Eldridge's father, the couple will remain in Fort Arthur, Texas, where he will be employed by the Texas Oil company.

DORM IV HAS DANCE

The first couple's club dance to be held this season was from 8:30 to 11:30 p.m. Friday in the lounge of Dorm IV, said H. E. Mizell, social director. This dance will be held every other Friday night, he stated.

PRE-MED ELECTS OFFICERS

Officers were elected and activities for the year were discussed at the first meeting of the Pre-Med club Tuesday night.

Roy Baker, former vice-president of the club, was elected president by acclamation. Clayton Ross is the new vice-president; Gloria Dunbar, secretary; Jack Glover, treasurer; and Richard Deats, reporter. Committee chairmen are: Glover, finance; Matt Garcia, social; Ross, program; and Robert Wilken, float. Mrs. J. C. Cross and R. W. Strandmann will be club sponsors.

Plans were discussed for a float in the Homecoming parade, picnics, parties, and pictures in La Ventana. Dues were set at $3.50 to cover the various social functions.

Thirty-four members were present.

Raiders Take 35-19 Win Over West Texas Buffaloes

By PUG DAVIDSON
Toreador Sports Writer

Texas Tech's Red Raiders rolled to a 35-19 win over the Buffaloes of West Texas State Saturday night, but not until they had turned back numerous scoring threats by the charges of coach Frank Kimbrough, did the Raiders emerge victorious in their first Border Conference game of 1949.

The Raiders drew first blood after seven minutes of the first quarter when Cal Steveson took a hand off from Bill Lyman and went through the middle for nineteen yards and a touchdown. Tim Hatch, Raider halfback, converted for the first of five successive extra points.

The Buffaloes received the kickoff following the score and failed to net a first down. Wise kicked to the Raider 37 yard line from which the Raiders drove to another touchdown in ten plays. Hatch again converted and the Raiders led 14-0 at the end of the first quarter.

In the second period Jackson went around his own left end for 51 yards and a third touchdown, again Hatch converted and the Raiders led 21-0. After an exchange of punts, Mayfield, the Buffaloes' quarterback opened up with a passing attack that went for 43 yards and a score on four consecutive first downs. The attempt at conversion by Melton was no good.

Again in the second period the Buffaloes displayed a determined offense and drove through the Raider forward wall for 58 yards and a second tally, with Melton's kick making the halftime score 21-13, Tech leading.

The Raiders opened the scoring in the third period with a drive from their own thirty-two yard line in thirteen plays. A pass from Milton Rathbone to Bobby Close was good for seven yards and the score. Hatch converted for the fourth time and the Raiders led 28-13. After another exchange of punts the Buffaloes drove from the Raider 25 in five plays with Wright doing the ball totting. The touchdown was set up by Wright's eleven yard pick up and the second attempt was wide, making the score 28-19. An unidentified Raider fumbled the following kickoff and the West Texans recovered on the Raider thirty and drove through the center of Texas Tech's forward wall down to the one yard line from where Wright went off tackle for the score. The Buffaloes were offside and were penalized five yards. On the next play the Bisons fumbled and the Raiders recovered on their own seven yard line. Tech then drew a five yard penalty and kicked out to the forty two yard line from where the Buffaloes opened another passing attack. The Raiders received the benefit of another miscue when a completed pass was fumbled and the Raiders recovered on their own 41 yard line. The red clad Techsans drove to another touchdown in ten plays with a pass Rathbone to Johnson good for twelve yards and the score. Hatch converted again and the Raiders led by a 35-19 score.

The Canyonites opened up a desperate passing game in the late minutes of the fourth quarter, but an alert Tech defense kept knocking them down and the Raiders had the ball in their possession on the Buffaloes' 12 yard line when the game ended.

The Buffaloes were sparked on offense by Mayfield, Cross and Wright in the backfield, and by Kitchens and Dunn in the line. Wright was a perpetual thorn in the side of the Raiders, breaking through the line numerous times for substantial gains, and Mayfield proved himself a capable passer and fine field general.

For the Raiders, Stuver and Jackson were the outstanding backs, each getting away with several long gains showing power and speed as it was needed. The Raider forward wall was sparked as usual by Bob Williams, Dan Pursel and Jerrell Price. Williams played brilliantly on defense in his linebackers position and pursel and Price broke through the Buffaloes' forward wall repeatedly to throw the passer for losses or to hasten his passing, making it ineffective.

Three officers have been elected by Drane Hall residents: Gene Schrank, secretary, said yesterday. Finance chairman is Frances Stewart. Senior representative is Myra Bounds, and sophomore representative is Nita Wise.

Sports Chatter

by KEITH ANDERSON

It's past us now. The game with West Texas we mean, and we are officially on the road to defending our Border Conference championship. It was a good game to watch. Hard on the blood pressure of some of us perhaps, but still a good old fashioned offensive battle. We tried to take a few pictures from the sideline, but about all we got was the ground in front of our feet. Kept hitting the darn button against our leg.

We exchanged a few words with John Andrews after the game. John is the big tackle with the number 72 on his back that moved in and out of the game quite a lot. His only comment on the game was, "Weren't too impressive, were we?" No John, the Raiders weren't what one could term "red hot," but they were good enough to win, and over a team that looked pretty good even in defeat. As a whole we don't find too much wrong with the Raiders, that a good shot of "highlife" in certain spots wouldn't cure.

While we are on the game, how about a few words on the quarterbacking of one Mr. Bill Lyman. Looks as if Bill has finally come into his own. Milton Rathbone did all right on his part too. His passes were very good. Milton seems to have an uncanny way of hitting a receiver if that receiver can work himself into the open.

We just committed a journalistic sin, and that is to read another reporter's work before it appears in print. It caught our eye, however, since it was entitled "armchair quarterbacks." We must confess to being one ourself, so naturally we wanted to see what was being said about us. We found that we were being called "boozers" and is was even suggested that we stay in Brooklyn. Now up to a certain place the writer had a point, but we believe that he used the term "armchair quarterbacks" too loosely.

We must admit that we like to second guess the coaches. To us, it is only a better way to enjoy the game. If we just want to sit and watch, the game would not hold nearly the fascination for us that it holds. We do not, however, go out and boo. We do not approve of such conduct, and have said so before, but just because we do not agree with every bit of strategy, is no reason why we should be quiet, as the writer advised us to do.

We seriously doubt that there is a real football enthusiast in the nation, who does not like to give his own pet theories upon the type play and the proper man to be used. This is no reflection upon the coaches, but merely a means by which to enjoy the game. So at the risk of being called "un-Techsan," we will continue to second-guess Coach Morgan, and bragging about how our little bit of "armchair quarterbacking" would have paid off.

Tech Frosts West Texas

By JIM SANDI
Toreador Sports Writer
Texas Tech's freshman football team led off the 1949 season Saturday night, winning the "fish" game, 35-19, over the West Texas State Buffaloes at the Jones stadium.

The classy Raiders, tallied every period, tallied the first, twice in the third, and twice in the fourth, and twice in the fifth. The Tech's offense was the result of versatility in scoring for the first time in the season.

Tech Frosh Trounce West Texas Freshmen 59-7

By JIM SANDERS

Toreador Sports Writer

Texas Tech's freshmen, living up to pre-season predictions, kicked the lid off the 1949 season by trouncing the "fish" from West Texas State 59-7, Friday night in Jones stadium.

The classy Picadors scoring in every period, tallied three times in the first, twice in the second, once in the third, and rounded out the night's work with three touchdowns in the last. The Tech "fish" showed versatility in scoring four times on pass plays with the remaining five coming on line plunges and long runs.

W. H. Barker from Colorado City was the class of the Tech backfield. He tore through the Buifs line for scoring jaunts of 60 and 87 yards and took a 15-yard pass from quarterback Don Seale for his third and final tally of the evening.

Waldo Young, all-stater from Monahans, came through for the young Raiders with a couple of TDs. In the final 15 seconds of play he took Marvin McNeil's punt on his own 30 and scampered 70 yards to pay dirt and his second touchdown. His first came on a 1-yard line buck in the third period.

Opponents of Tech in the next few years will have their hands full in attempting to throttle a pass combination seen in action Friday night: Carl Madison to James Thames. Madison is an all-state quarterback from Atmore, Alabama and Thames is an end from Alvarado. The pair clicked twice for Tech scores. Don Seale, Idalou, chimed in to do a creditable job of pass pitching also.

Not only did the backs shine for the Picadors but the line play was terrific. The huge forward wall opened gaping holes time and again to shake the speedy backs loose for needed yardage.

Before the game was five minutes old Madison tossed to Thames for the first Tech score and Ronnie Miller converted. Charles Goff, McAllen, recovered the kickoff and 10 plays later the junior Raiders led 7-0. The next score came on a pass from Madison to Thames good for 42 yards. Miller converted. Miller kicked his third extra point after Barker's 60-yard touchdown jaunt to send the little Raiders ahead 21-0.

The Tech "fish" climaxed a 67-yard drive with Madison sneaking over from the 1-yard line for the first score in the third period. Miller converted. A few minutes later Barker squirmed his way through the middle and raced down the west sideline for 87 yards and a touchdown. Miller again toed the ball through the uprights and the first half ended with the Picadors on the heavy end of a 35-0 score.

The first year men from West Texas State roared back early in the second half to make their only score of the game. After recovering a fumble on the Tech 46 they marched the distance to pay dirt with Lonnie Rice pitching to Bill Eudy in the end zone for the counter. R. C. Dalton converted. Late in the same period Young banged over from the one for Tech's only tally in the third quarter.

Other officers chosen are: Johnny Avila, vice president; Robert Staewen, secretary-treasurer; Bill Wright, reporter.

At a Monday night meeting, P. Eldon Dannis, lecturer in geology and co-sponsor of the club, spoke on "The Physical Scientist and Human Relations in the Atomic Age."

First regular meeting for the club will be the second Monday in October.

Board Member Has Unusual Interest In Tech

C. T. McLaughlin, recently appointed a member of the Texas Tech Board of Directors, may not have attended Tech, himself, but there can be no doubt of the fact that he has connections with the Double T school.

His first tie with Tech came when his daughter, Evelyn, attended the school in 1942-43. Evelyn left her studies to marry Gilbert W. Knox, who was graduated from Tech with an electrical engineering degree that spring.

McLaughlin's second daughter received a degree from Tech in foods and nutrition in 1944. After graduation she married John J. Hill, a 1942 graduate with a degree in geology, who has since legally changed his name to John Hill De Ford.

If the trend continues, Tech may expect two more students from the family sometime in the future. Information received by the Ex-Students' Association office at Tech reveals that the Knoxes have a 21-month-old son, Phillip McLaughlin Knox, and the DeFords have a two-month-old son, Ronald.

Evelyn is secretary of the Houston chapter of the Ex-Students' association.

Tech's First Iranian Student Explains Habits Of Homeland; Interests In Texas

By SUE HOLMES
Toreador Staff Writer

Jalil Parsa, Tech's first Iranian student, traveled all the way from the land below the Caspian sea to come to the school where he had heard "people were very nice." He left his home in Teheran, the capital of Iran, about seven weeks ago and visited in Cairo and Geneva before flying on to Lubbock.

The 19-year-old student laughed at some of the mistaken ideas Texans have about Iran, which was known as Persia until 1935. Patiently he explained that his countrymen dress just as Americans and drive automobiles instead of riding on donkeys. "We are very much like you except in our language and some habits," the dark-eyed youth said. He expressed a keen desire to learn American sports, since he was very interested in athletics in Teheran. A photograph of Jalil showed him in wrestler's uniform at the head of a parade. Track runners bearing flags stood on each side of him. He explained that they were marching before the king, who is called the "shahanshah" by his subjects. Jalil's amateur boxing career ended five years ago when he broke his nose, he said.

Pre-med is Jalil's major. He is taking a regular freshman load of English, French, physical education, and several math courses. Math, he admitted, was his easiest course, except for explaining problems in English. "Composing themes in Persian was hard for me, so you can imagine what writing themes for English class is like," he commented.

"I could have gone to schools in New York or California to take this work, but my friends at the American mission in Teheran told me about Tech and its friendly people," Jalil added. Later he expects to attend medical school on the west coast where he has relatives and friends.

Professing a dislike for American food as yet, the friendly Persian said he was accustomed to much the same food, but prepared very differently. Warm milk and hot tea are the popular beverages in Iran. Difference in food and the strain of the journey caused Jalil to lose 30 pounds in the last months.

Other photos showed Jalil with some of his five brothers and three sisters picnicking, swimming and hunting. A pose of his father in full dress uniform and plumed cap was made on New Year's Day when Mr. Parsa went to pay his respects to the king, his fourth son explained. Although Mohammedanism is his faith, Jalil attends First Methodist church here. "I like to worship God," he said simply.

Another misconception Americans have is concerning the Persian climate, Jalil said. He patiently sketched a map of Iran, locating Teheran in the northern sector at the foot of the Elburz mountains. "There it is often cold and wet just as in the northern states here, but the southern part of Iran is hot."

Just slightly over five months ago Jalil began his study of English at Teheran University. Besides having to learn to speak English, which he does surprisingly well, he has had to learn a new method of reading. His native language is read from left to right and is written in Gregg-like symbols instead of in the Phoenician alphabet.

When questioned about his swift-

Students Can Win Radio In Contest

Here is an easy and entertaining way for Techsians to win an Admiral phonograph. It's the Phillip Morris Score cast contest. Want to know how it's done?

Any recognized group on the campus is eligible to enter the contest. Every week in the The Toreador there will be three games score-cast, you pick the winner of each of the three games with the number of points you give them, write them on a Phillip Morris cigarette wrapper, sign your name and address and drop them in the ballot box in the Tech Bookstore. Also along with your name and address you must put your group affiliation.

The first and second prizes for the contest are Admiral radio phonograph consoles, and the third prize is a table-model Admiral radio phonograph. In addition, you will win 1,000 Phillip Morris cigarettes for three correct scores, 200 Phillip Morris cigarettes for two right scores and 100 Phillip Morris cigarettes for one score right.

Contestants with more than one winning ballot will be given only one prize. Only college students are eligible to enter the contest, and the group affiliation is not limited to just clubs and organizations but can be dorms, or any accredited on Tech campus.

TWINS TO REGISTER

Calling all girl twins. All sets of women twins are asked to report their names and addresses to the office of the dean of women, Dean Margarette Walker said. An entertainment is to be planned for them at which they may all meet, as soon as the list is compiled.

Any boy who desires part time employment should notify the employment service in the Recreation hall, said Troy Enis, director. Job applicants should have either evenings or mornings free, stated Enis.

Students Try Out For Judging Team

Four senior agriculture students are working out under the direction of H. R. Burkhart, assistant professor of agriculture, hoping to make the Tech wool judging team which will travel to Kansas City, for the American Royal Livestock Show, October 15.

The men are Ewing F. McEntire, Sterling City; W. C. Davis, Sterling City; Buddy H. Winter, Lamasa; and Jim Waddell, Sweetwater. Only three men will make the team that will enter the wool judging contest, Burkhart stated.

This will be the third year Tech has sent a competing team. The first year, the Tech team brought home first place honors. The second year the team captured the runner-up spot.

Father Of Students Killed In Accident

Charles Howard Parsley, 56, for whom funeral services were held yesterday at 3 p.m. at the Lubbock First Baptist church, was the father of Charles Howard Parsley, jr., Tech junior, and George B. Parsley, Tech sophomore.

Parsley was killed instantly when his car and a jeep collided head-on two miles east of the Lubbock Air Force base on the Levelland highway. He was field representative for Tidewater Petroleum company at Levelland, and had been a resident of Lubbock since moving from Sundown two years ago.

Dr. Elizabeth Skidmore Sasser returned from West Virginia with her husband on Monday night. Mr. Sasser has been in the hospital there recuperating from an automobile accident in which he received a broken leg.

Hell Week Stops; No More Bricks On Pledge Necks

Hell week activities for men's club pledges ended prematurely Saturday after James G. Allen, dean of men, asked that a halt be called. Dean Allen said he deemed it advisable to close the activities "because of the unusual amount of criticism this semester's antics have caused."

"Possibly the pledges' activities were no worse than they have been in previous years, but judging from the number of calls this office received I felt that the college might be hurt by such publicity," the dean declared.

Objections were raised by Lubbock business and professional men, as well as by parents and college officials, Dean Allen stated.

The boys, who carried bricks and cow bells, rode donkeys on the campus, serenaded women's dormitories and wore comic apparel on the circle, were going through their last week of pledgeship prior to their formal initiation as members.

Personnel Data Blanks Distributed To Seniors

Personnel information forms are being distributed to graduating seniors through the offices of the deans of the various divisions, according to Mrs. Jean Jenkins, secretary of the Tech Placement service.

Seniors graduating before August are being asked to fill out and turn in these forms as soon as possible, Mrs. Jenkins said.

The form may be handed in at the Placement service office, Ad-205.

Tickets For Lubbock Little Theatre Productions Go On Sale Today At Tech

By CHARLOTTE BLACKBURN
Toreador Staff Writer

Student tickets for the Lubbock Little Theatre performance of "Ah, Wilderness" will go on sale today at central campus locations. The three-act comedy is scheduled for Monday and Tuesday, Oct. 10 and 11 in O. L. Slaton junior high school auditorium, Leon Harris, chairman of Little Theatre ticket sales, stated.

"Ah, Wilderness," directed by Weldon George, is the first Lubbock Little Theatre performance of this, its second season. A number of Tech students and faculty members are in the cast. They are Mark Smith, Ann Eskin, Ruth Wilson, instructor in the English department; Wilson Ward, instructor in the Speech department; and Marcia Rogers.

Over one-half the total number of seats in the auditorium are being sold for student admission to the Tuesday night performance, Harris said. This plan will be extended to include the second night performance of all five three-act plays scheduled for this season, if it is generally accepted by students, he added.

The Lubbock Little Theatre is a community enterprise, incorporated and carried out on a non-profit basis. It is open to anyone desiring to work. Tech students interested in becoming members of this group should see Mrs. Charles Cobb, instructor in the English department in room L-1.

Other productions scheduled for the year are: "The Male Animal," Dec. 12, 13; "The Helress," Feb. 13, 14; "The Late George Apley," April 10, 11; and "Command Decision," June 5, 6.

Student tickets are 60 cents. A number of season reserved seats at $6.50 each, are still available at C. W. Aydelotte Agency, 1313 College, Harris said.

Dance Will Be Held After Pep Rally

The Tech Chamber of Commerce will sponsor a dance in both ballrooms of the Lubbock Hotel Friday night following the pep rally for the purpose of raising funds for aiding the construction of a lighted softball field on the campus.

Bill McCasland, president of the Chamber of Commerce, said Monday the dance would begin immediately after the conclusion of the pep rally and last until 11:30 p.m. Music will be furnished by Ted Crager and his orchestra.

No flat admission is to be charged McCasland announced but only Chamber of Commerce members and their dates may attend. For members, presentation at the door of a membership card will be sufficient for entrance of both the member and his or her date he said.

Students who wish to join the Chamber of Commerce may do so by paying a yearly fee of $1 either at a booth to be located in the lobby of the Administration building or at the ballroom door Friday night.
