Navy Recalls Fifteen Techsans

Twilight Music Hour Features Tech Graduate As Solo Vocalist

Charlene Jordan Davis, lyric soprano, will be the principal performer at the next session of the Museum Association's Twilight Music hour. The program will be presented in the air-conditioned auditorium of the museum at 4:00 p.m. Sunday, August 6.

Mrs. Davis graduated from Texas Tech in 1946 with a major in music. At present teaching music in the Slaton Public Schools, she is active in music programs throughout the south plains.

In 1947 the soprano won the cash prize in the student musician division of the State Federated Music club. Last year, she appeared in the production of The Mikado which was presented by the Lubbock Music club.

Pianist Joyce Carthel will provide accompaniment for Mrs. Davis and will perform solo numbers on the program.

Selections to be presented by the two include: Early One Morning (Old English); Villanelle (Dell 'Acqual); Chantons les amours de Jean (arr. by Weckerlin); The Lady and the Glove, Kentucky folk song (arr. by Brockway); Celle que le Prefere (Fourdrain); Selections from "Dichtertriebe" Cycle (Schumann); Laughing Song (Strauss); We'll to the Woods, and Gather May (Griffes); Wind in the Tree- tops (Bone); Moon - Marketing (Weaver); and Air de Lia from "L'Enfant Pridigue" (Debussy).

Numbers performed by Miss Carthel include: La Fille Aux Cheveux de Lin (Debussy); Diversions No. IV (Carpenter); Cradle Song (MacDowell); Moment Musicale (Schubert).

Three To Represent Tech At Houston Conference

Three women from the Tech home economics division will attend and assist with the state conference for homemaking teachers to be held in Houston, August 7-11. Attending will be Miss Martha Graves, instructor; and Miss Doris Nesbitt, assistant professor, both in the home economics education department, and Miss Sannie Callan, head of child development department.

Texas Tech will celebrate its 25th anniversary this fall with a special jubilee, two souvenir publications, and the Silver Anniversary Homecoming Nov. 11.

Gates Takes Dean's Post

Doctor W. B. Gates will add to his duties September 1, 1950. He will assume the duties of dean of graduate studies.

Doctor W. C. Holden is relinquishing his duties as head of the graduate students so that he may devote his full time to the Tech museum and carry on his duties as head of the department of history and anthropology.

Dr. Gates will also maintain his position as a professor of English.

Sailors Receive Individual Orders; Seek Deferments Until Semester Ends

The current world crisis has struck Tech with the recall to active duty of fifteen members of the Naval Reserve unit on the campus. Fifteen Tech students received their orders Tuesday, according to Lt. John Ruciz, USN, commanding officer of the reserve unit.

Faculty Additions Announced Today

Texas Tech will add two new instructors to the staff for the fall semester, Ed Smith, assistant to the president, stated today.

The two new instructors will be Fred W. Boren and John W. Bisbing. Boren, 29, will join the Tech faculty in September as an instructor in animal husbandry. He received his B.S. from Texas A&M in 1946. Boren worked for the Soil Conservation service for two years and spent a year as an instructor at the Howard County vocational school. He began work on his master's degree while a graduate assistant at Kansas State college last year.

John Bisbing, jr., will assume the duties of an associate professor of petroleum engineering. He received his bachelor's and master's degrees from Pennsylvania State college. Bisbing did full time research work for Penn State during the Spring semester of 1949-50.

The orders directed the Techsans to report to induction centers in Dallas and Albuquerque for further assignment. The orders were issued from the Eighth Naval district headquarters at New Orleans, individually and in selected rates of yeomen, pharmacists' mates, radiomen, and radionomen. The Eighth Naval district announced two weeks ago that it would begin calling selected rated men from the organized units in the district.

In order to give those students going to summer school time to complete the semester, Lt. Ruciz has requested deferment until Aug. 20 for all the men. Deferment until Sept. 15 has already been given to James E. Paden and Pat McCarty. The school requires that students complete work through the twelfth of August to receive credit for the semester.

Roy Grimes, editor of last year's "La Ventana" has been recalled with the selected rate of 2nd class yeoman. Others included in the orders were: Robert Merritt Wilkinson, 712 Hub Homes; W. B. Kitts, 211 Fifth; Bobbie Wayne Bain, 1918 Twentieth; Robert Virgil Dowell, Amarillo; Robert Eugene White, 809 Ave. K; Gene Keith Hamilton, Ft. Worth; William Albert Drachenburg, 2321 Colgate; Daryl Jackson Roberts, Morton; Pat McCarty, Men's Dorm 3; James E. Paden, Dallas; Guy Daniel Irvin, Ft. Worth; Theo Binford Goolsby, Stanton; Willie Lee Goodling, Seagraves; Johnnie James Morgan, Mineola.

Tech Foundation Forms Committees

Board of Directors of Texas Technological college Foundation met recently in Lubbock. It was decided at that time that the next meeting would be held in the Hilton hotel on September 22, the night before the Texas Tech-Texas university football game.

One new member was added to the Athletics committee, which was appointed at the June 3 meeting of the foundation. H. E. Chiles, jr., Midland, was named to serve on the committee with Obie Bristow, Big Spring; O. B. Ratliff, Lubbock; and Robert Bass, Kilgore.

Two new committees were appointed by the board at the meeting. A committee on public relations and one on agriculture were named.

No Artist Course Tonight; Final Program Next Week

The final artists course number of the 1950 summer session will be presented on Friday, August 11, on the recreation hall green. No artists course program is scheduled for tonight.

For the coming week, a dance and movie have been listed. Burl Hubbard's orchestra will furnish music for the dance which is to be held from 8:30 to 10:30 p.m. in the recreation hall. A movie, "China Girl," will be shown at 8:45 p.m. Thursday.

Joan Bolinger Leaves To Compete for "Miss Texas" Title

Joan Bolinger, Texas Tech freshman, will represent this area as "Miss Lubbock" for the Junior Chamber of Commerce. She left Thursday via the Pioneer airlines for New Braunfels, where she will compete for the title of "Miss Texas."

The girls who aspire for the title of "Miss Texas" will be featured in San Antonio on Friday and Saturday night. The choice of the winner will be made by the judges on Saturday night and the governor, Allan Shivers, will crown the successful contestant.

Miss Bolinger will offer as her talent number, a tap routine to the accompaniment of "Sweet Georgia Brown." This is the same routine with which she won the title of "Miss Lubbock."

"Miss Lubbock" will be accompanied on the trip to the South Texas city by her mother and a representative of the Lubbock Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Six Scholarships Awarded Students

Summer scholarships have been awarded to six students majoring in speech correction at Texas Tech by the Texas Society for Crippled Children, Dr. Ernest Wallace announced.

Dr. Wallace, chairman of the scholarship committee, said funds for the scholarships were received through the sale of 1950 Easter crippled children stamps. Winners are encouraged to work in the undermanned speech correction field.

The winners are Jeanne Battey, Floydada; Mrs. Evelyn Smith, Lubbock; Mrs. Mildred L. Fewell, Ropesville; Mrs. Jane Franks, Meadow; Mrs. Martha Hazelwood, Lubbock; and Mrs. Rhoda Roberts, Tahoka.

Colonel Graduate Officer At Reese

Lt. Col. Kenneth Gaskin, 34-year-old holder of the Distinguished Flying Cross and French Croix de Guerre for his air force exploits during World War II, will swap his uniform for a cap and gown at Texas Tech's summer commencement Aug. 23.

Colonel Gaskin is now assistant executive officer at Reese air force base near here. Since last February he has been enrolled at Tech as a senior major in physics, attending classes when school work would not interfere with his official duties. His earlier college work was done at the U.S. Coast Guard academy, New London, Conn. He resigned to enter the air force and had no opportunity to finish his work until he was transferred to Lubbock.

The French decoration reached Colonel Gaskin this month, although it was awarded over a year ago. "It had to go through channels," he explained.

The Gaskins and their three children make their home in Lubbock at 1905 21st St.

Help Uncle Joe...

We hope they choke. We hope they gag on their selfishly-gotten goods. We hope that in the nauseating idolism of the vainglorious ME they are taught the meaning of living in a unified group. We are speaking of hoarders.

Hoard those nylons. Hoard that Kleenex. And, heavens to Betsy, buy 100 pounds of sugar even though 10 will do you for the rest of the month. Snarl at those Reds. Shake your fist at the Commie. Then hurry down and buy an extra set of tires.

Scream and holler at Congress... elect your representative to fight ceiling prices and rationing. And then break your neck at the "battle of the store counter" to stock up on two dozen hot water bottles. "We're behind the boys in Korea. They'll stop them, yet. But first I've gotta get 50 pillow cases, 30 sheets, 25 pounds of coffee, another refrigerator, that club coupe (always did figure ours was a two-car family), and better get another deep freezer. Gotta stock up on food. (Ravenous appetite, you know.)"

Just as sure as we're hoarding we'll get rationing and we'll deserve every bit of government regulation that can be passed. Yeah, this is an all-out war. All out for ME. Our national motto is in for some revision. Not "E Pluribus Unum" but "Me Plus You Equals ME." Didn't you know? We're playing Korean tiddliewinks. Nothing to get worried over. But just in case, I'd better add 100 pounds of flour to the 50 pounds I now have. "Sure love home-made pies."

Dear hoarder, this is war. Seems obvious, doesn't it? You realize it or you wouldn't fall over yourselves fattening your larder. And in knowing this, your selfish actions are that more disgusting. Some business men are encouraging hoarding with their "scare advertisements." They offer "bulk bargains" under the disguise of business as usual: "Let's dump our slow moving stock on the poor saps." And the mad rush is on.

We'll wax chauvinistic for a moment. If the Korean war develops into the third world war, we'll be in for our very lives. Our economy will be strained to the breaking point. We are now enjoying the highest standard of living in the world. It might take a sharp nosedive in another major war. Sacrifice will be staring us in the face and the sacrifices of the last war will seem like luxuries. You hoarders become panicky over the Korean war; we can expect nothing less than hysteria if a global conflict bursts upon us. Continue this selfishness and you will be directly responsible for national bankruptcy.

War correspondents have been accused of writing stories that give aid and comfort to the enemy. Now, the Kremlin must be having a second laugh at the reports of American hoarding. A woman buys 15 girdles, another purchases two dozen pairs of hose, and still another staggers up to the grocery counter with 40 pounds of sugar. And then they have the gall to complain about increasing prices!—The Baylor Lariat.

Congratulations...

Vast improvement in the parking situation has been seen on the Tech streets since last Friday. The college thoroughfares are now practically clear of the autos that lined the streets on each side a week ago.

We are sure that everyone will find driving on the campus much more comfortable and safe than under the cramped conditions which confronted us until the police started to patrol the campus.

We hope that the officials of the college will not relax the pressure that was applied to straighten out the very dangerous parking situation that existed. The summer students at the college deserve compliments for their cooperation in this project also, but their continued assistance is needed to see that there is no recurrence of the old parking status.—A.H.

Out of The Hat

By H. A. TUCK

Our mail usually consists of the following: bills (for the business manager), checks (for the business manager), papers which other colleges did not know what to do with, and other stuff (mostly for people who have long since departed); but this week, we received a communication addressed to us and, surprisingly enough, it seems to be of general interest. It was a small poem with a note at the end: (Thoughts on seeing young men go to war). Here is the poem:

BLIGHTED BUDS

Must this bright bud be blighted, too, dear God,
And follow soon the wake of many more
Whose beauty now lies buried beneath the sod?
Must golden sun ne'er rise above
the trees
And find a full-blown rose in all its grace
With rainbow colors tinged in drops of dew?
Must this sweet unborn rose its perfume lose
The garden never send on gentle breeze
Nor bare its heart to true love's fond embrace?
Must twilight never find a bended stem
That proudly once held beauty,
pure and true,
Nor bow'd as breezes sing day's requiem?
Oh, God, must pain and toil and love and tears
Have such reward throughout the coming years?
—J. R. D.

There was no name signed to the poem, just the initials, and so we do not know whom we should thank for this contribution. But we would like to say to J.R.D. "Thanks and do it again!"

A columnist for the PRAIRIE at West Texas makes a note on progress:

"The old narrow trails where two cars could hardly pass without colliding are being replaced by splendid wide highways on which eight cars can collide at once."

Is it true that among the names engraved on the facade on the rear of the Ad building is one which is misspelled? It is said that Michaelangelo is carved Michael Angelo. Guess I'll have to wander around and find out if that is a fact.

Not much news on the campus this week and not much trivia for this column so here are some short jokes to fill up space. They have been stolen from the UNM Lobo.

As the warden said after the prison break, "Well, I guess my pen leaks."

Lady (holding cookie above dog): "Speak! Speak!"
Dog: "What shall I say?"

Co-ed greeting last night's date: "Hello there tall dark and hands."

So they aren't extra good; they were taken from the final summer issues and the staff was probably trying to use up all of the smelly, dry stuff which had been accumulating during the summer.

If you haven't already done so, we heartily recommend that you read the editorial on hoarding which appears next to this column. It is one of the best-written approaches to the subject that we have read since the end of the late world struggle.

Radio broadcasts of the United Nations' Security Council meeting Tuesday showed the U.S. that Russia has not noticeably changed its policy with its re-entrance to the council. None of the Stalinists stalked out, but maybe they were wearing their Sunday (pardon us, we forgot that they don't believe in the Sabbath), er, best manners for the microphones and TV cameras.

A pair of eds and a coed on the campus deserve congratulations for recent accomplishments. First, Joan Bollinger deserves a big cheer for winning the "Miss Lubbock of 1950" title last week. Good luck at the "Miss Texas" contest tomorrow, Joan, Joe Wheatley rates a bouquet for winning the Lubbock tennis singles crown this week and both Joe and his partner, Jimmy Burgess, should get orchids for annexing the doubles title.

Holleman Hollers

By JIM HOLLEMAN

It's no news to sports fans that Texas Tech's Red Raiders will face some of the toughest teams in the history of the school during the coming fall.

Not even the famed "aerial circus" of pre-war Southwest Conference seasons will compare favorably to this year's models from the cowboy circuit.

Texas University should have one of the best conference teams since the war. They have great backs in Townsend, Shands, Dillon and Raley. But their line is the awe inspiring part of the team.

Monstrous (240 lbs.) Lewis "Bud" McPaddin is being listed as a possible all-America candidate. With veterans Ken Jackson and Gene Vykutal and youngsters Don Manasco and Paul Williams, the Steers should have one of the strongest lines in the history of the school. Ben Proctor, the Longhorn's great offensive end, will be back to grab aerials from the arms of Ben Tompkins and Dan Page.

Before the season started it was figured that the only possible harm to the Texas U. chances would come from a possible activation of the draft. So, some of the towering intellects around Austin went to work and came up with the perfect solution. It was calculated to destroy the last road block on the Longhorn's path to glory. The results of this strategy: 90% of the Texas University football squad enlisted in the Marine reserves!

It's a good bet that Texas leaders won't sleep on this situation. They'll surely do something. But, whether they can prevent their gridiron greats from being called to duty is questionable. At any rate, it will be interesting to watch the Austin campus for further developments this summer. Some wisacre cracked that Texas U. might have the first co-educational football team in the history of the school this fall.

Just how other teams around the southwest will fare under the Korean situation we don't know. But one thing is certain: Tech will be among the least affected.

This year's Raiders will be a mixture of veterans and beardless youths. According to an article in last week's Toreador, about 14 ex-G.I.s will be on hand. About 41 of the players will be under the age of 21.

Again this year, national experts are predicting a Border Conference championship for the Red Raiders. They are getting no arguments, except perhaps from Hardin-Simmons.

There, say the Cowboys, exists an All-American candidate if there ever was one. John "Model" T. Ford, as he is called, amassed a great record last year. Mr. Ford flexed his substantial arm muscles and flung 29 touchdown passes, completing 98 tosses in 168 attempts, against such towers of strength as North Texas State, Tempe State and Trinity, Texas, college.

After our sad prediction on the major league all-star game, we have decided not to attempt forecasts of Tech football games for the coming season. But, at the risk of jinxing the Raiders, we'll say that other conference teams will worry about the Border States' championship. About mid-autumn the Raiders will tear themselves away from their Southwest Conference opponents and, heaving a sigh of relief, take-up right where they left off last year.

On any day of any season the Techs can offer their conference chums no cause for relaxation.

JOE WHEATLEY, Tech senior at left, and Jimmy Burgess, Tech sophomore, won the Lubbock Open tennis doubles crown this week. Joe Wheatley, varsity player this past season, also won the singles championship in the same tournament. Wheatley and Burgess have competed in other meets this summer throughout the state and are expected to be mainstays of the Tech net squad next spring.

Netmen Capture Tennis Honors

Tech tennis players failed in their attempt to make a clean sweep of the open division of the Lubbock city-wide tennis tournament when Joe Wheatley and Marjorie Cone were defeated by Mr. and Mrs. Houston Boyd in the finals of the mixed doubles division, this week.

Earlier, Wheatley had defeated Boyd for the men's singles championship. On Monday Wheatley teamed with Jimmy Burgess, arts and sciences sophomore from Lubbock, to take the men's doubles championship from David Hester and Dr. Glenn Gay, 7-5, 6-2.

It was Burgess' first finals win. He had been beaten by Boyd in the semi-finals of the men's singles and with Pat Bolinger had lost to Wheatley and Cone in the semi-finals of the mixed doubles division.

The wins marked the first singles championship for the Tech senior in the local tournament. During past years Jake Broyles, No. 1 man on the Tech tennis team, had made a habit of winning the local tourney, winning the title for the last three years in a row. Broyles was unable to compete this year due to a new tourney rule which limits participants to residents of Lubbock and students attending the current summer session at Tech.

Wheatley was forced to come from behind to beat Boyd in the men's finals. The older netter had taken a 2-0 lead when the Techs rallied to win six of the next seven games and take the championship.

Tech Workshop Completed Today

A workshop for school lunch-room in this area was held from July 31 until August 4 by the division of home economics, Dean Margaret Weeks announced. The workshop was one of several being sponsored throughout the state by the school lunch division of the Texas Education agency.

Approximately 100 school lunch-room workers attended and were registered at Women's Dorm III before the preliminary meeting. The general session was held in the aggie auditorium and featured a welcoming address by Edwin Smith, assistant to the president, and the introduction of Mr. M. F. Thurmond, chief of the school lunch program, Texas Education agency. A tour of Lubbock lunch-rooms is also scheduled.

Participating in the program were Dean Weeks, Miss Martye Poindexter, head of department of applied arts, Dr. Mina Lamb, associate professor of foods and nutrition, Girl's Dormitories III and IV, and Miss Martha Graves, instructor of home economics education.

Magazine Honors Tech's Birthdate

A 48-page souvenir magazine honoring Texas Tech on its 25th anniversary will be published by the Tech Ex-Students association as the September edition of the "Texas Techian."

D. M. McElroy, executive secretary, said the issue will feature articles and early photographs of the campus when Tech was opened in September, 1925. Other stories will tell the story of the legislative battle to create the college, review the contributions of the college to the region and state and trace the traditions which have become a part of the college in its short existence.

Other features of the issue will be a report on the 1938 Tech football team which went through the regular season undefeated and drew an invitation to the Cotton bowl, and photographs of other Red Raider squads. Houston Harte, noted San Angelo author and former Tech Board member, and Walter White, eastern industrialist who graduated in 1932, also have been invited to contribute to the edition.

Tech Talks

By EDITH WILLIAMS

Do you think all-out mobilization and price and wage freezes are necessary?

Betty Davis, Lubbock junior: "I think they probably are. All out mobilization appears to be necessary because partial mobilization hasn't helped any. We are still losing. Price and wage freezes are necessary because American people are greedy."

Betty Read, Floydada junior: "I think the government has tried to fool us long enough. This is not a police action but war. In any war things are going to get scarce and we should take steps now."

Pat Sullivan, Hereford graduate: "Yes. From all the information we have I am afraid that war with Russia is inevitable. It is later than we think. We must not arrive with too little too late."

Lamonic Tune, Lubbock senior: "I think we are going to have to do something to get out of this situation. We need some controls."

Garland Gordon, Carlsbad, N. M. freshman: "We need them, but we need mobilization more than price and wage freezes. President Truman has gone far enough in his program."

Sue King, Lubbock junior: "I think they are needed because we are going to be caught off guard like we were twice before. Let prices and wages go on right now. They will work themselves out later after world affairs are settled."

Francis A. Records, Perryton senior: "Yes. The action of the Soviet delegate in the Security Council proves history is repeating itself. Appears to me that Russia has the same attitude expressed by Japan in 1941."

Craig Wilkerson, Odessa freshman: "I don't think the situation is critical enough for that now. There should be some restraints. Stabilize prices and speculation and encourage people to use common sense."

Mrs. George Poteet, Littlefield graduate: "I believe we have a surplus of things and I don't think prices need to be frozen. If necessary everyone should be called in to service."

George Worrell, Lubbock senior: "Yes. I think we need some controls to prevent inflation. If our leaders think it is necessary, then we should have all out mobilization. They are qualified to judge the criticalness of the situation."

Midnight Flame Causes Evacuation And Gathering

By JOHN McALEER

Girl's Dorm III was the scene of unusual activities last Wednesday night as fire trucks answered a call. Pajama-clad students, forgetting the chilly weather and disregarding any possible infraction of collegiate behavior, fled into the comparative safety of the out-of-doors.

Inquisitive people from the immediate area flocked to the dorm to ascertain the cause of such violent shenanigans and the appearance of many attested to their being drawn from their beds. The firemen were sorely pressed as they tried to find the cause of the fire.

Careful investigation and astute reasoning has led the fire chief to believe the cause of the fire was an abundance of scraps of papers being stuffed into the incinerator. An experienced reporter on the Toreador staff, upon closer examination of the scraps, believes them to be what is termed "cheat notes" which some coed inadvertently threw into the incinerator.

Advisory bulletin is to be released urging that these notes be torn into small pieces before discarding—for more than one reason.

ROTC Free From Draft; Remain Till Graduation

Senior ROTC students will not be eligible to be drafted until they have graduated from college, according to the ROTC department on the campus.

The contracts which all ROTC advanced students signed commits them to serve for 21 months if they are called after graduation. They will go into the army as second lieutenants in a reserve status. Men who have completed ROTC training but have not as yet graduated will also be deferred until they finish.

Tech Cadets Get Army Commissions

Three students from Tech were among forty Signal Corps cadets to be awarded Army commissions at the final review of the ROTC encampment at Fort Monmouth, New Jersey, on Friday, July 28.

A release from the Army Signal Corps center stated that cadets Robert W. Bonham, Long Beach, Cal.; Eugene V. Boren, Corpus Christi and Franklin E. Godden, Dallas, received their commissions during closing ceremonies of the 1950 encampment.

The cadets were presented second lieutenant bars by Maj. Gen. Francis H. Lanahan, post commanding general and ROTC camp commander. Sixty-one colleges and universities throughout the country were represented by 550 cadets during the six-week encampment which featured a program in specialized communications.

eligible officers expedite processing of applications for active duty and follow application procedure indicated and to take no other action. Officers not now eligible under this program are advised to keep in contact with Unit Instructors for official information on any changes in requirements and refrain from submitting applications until there is a requirement for their services.

Business Course To Stress Poise

Business leaders are more critical today of the personal traits of the collegiate business school graduate than they are of his technical knowledge. Striving to prepare the student to meet the demands of the business world, the Division of Business Administration at Texas Tech will offer this fall to all students, a course in business compartment.

This new course is designed to substitute for theory a direct approach to the practical application of business etiquette, good grooming, correct speech and composure. Emphasis will be placed on gaining poise in meeting people and cooperating in group activities. Successful men and women from business and industry in West Texas will speak to the classes in supplement to regular lectures.
