Grads Signing Mass Petition For No Finals

Petitions requesting "no final examinations" are being circulated on the campus by a group of prospective January graduates.

A meeting for discussing the proposal has been called for 1 p. m. tomorrow in Ad219. Petitions will be available at the Saturday session for seniors who have not signed.

Petitions Posted

Petitions have been posted on bulletin boards in the Recreation hall, Administration building rotunda and first floor, east wing, of the Engineering building.

Initiated by a group of students in Women's Dorm III, the petitions will be presented to President D. M. Wiggins and the Council of Deans early next week.

To Be Removed

Petitions will be removed from the campus buildings at noon tomorrow.

All January graduates have been urged to sign petitions at any of the buildings listed, or at tomorrow's meeting, by the petitioning group.

Winners Of 'Beard' Contest To Get Kisses

Kisses from Tech beauties will be the prizes of men who hit the jackpot in the beard growing contest to be sponsored by Saddle Tramps, according to Charles Joplin, president.

Judging for the week-long contest will be at 12:30 p. m. Jan. 26 in the Recreation hall by La Ventana beauties. Winner will be named for blackest, reddest, longest, smoothest and most unique beards.

Scholarships Totaling Over $4,000 Are Announced By Awards Committee

More than $4,000 in scholarships has been given Texas Tech in the past few days, Ernest Wallace, head of the committee on Scholarships and Awards, said.

The Southwestern Public Service company has set up a scholarship fund of two $750 awards. One of these is designated for a mechanical engineering major, the other for an electrical engineering major. The scholarships are awarded on a basis of scholastic ability and financial need. Appli-

Active Duty Within Four Months Slated For All Commissioned ROTC Graduates

For the first time in Tech history army ROTC cadets who receive their commissions upon graduation this spring or summer will be called to active duty within four months after graduation, Col. Willard White, professor of military science and tactics, announced this week.

Cadets will be allowed to select a month between June and September, 1952 in which they wish to enter active service, provided a third of the class asks for this duty by July 31.

Early Warning

The army stated that the early warning was to give the cadets adequate time to make plans for entering the service.

Reserve officers will be ordered to their branch school for a three-month course and if the respective school is filled will be placed on active duty in the United States until a vacancy occurs, Col. White said.

Three cadets who graduate in January have volunteered for active duty. They include Clifton Dew of Ysleta, Bill Spinks of Kermit, Elbert O'Neal of Lubbock and Volney Hildreth of Aledo.

Cadets Listed

Other cadets who anticipate graduation in the spring or summer include Coffee Connor, Archer City; John Lockard, Fort Worth; Cameron McKinnon, Lubbock; Edward Cheadle, Amarillo; Daniel Flemming, Melvin, John G. Norcross, Lubbock; And Bill C. Powell, Lubbock; Bill Boser, Ennis; Joe B. Ashton, Lamesa; Donald C. Fish, Snyder; Elmer Lamb, Midland; William Leonard, Foran; Blanchard Fritchard, Clovis, N.M.; Roy Stine, Wheeler; Bill Cook, Odessa; Leonard Holland, Comyn; Charles Slaton, Quanah; Montie Wallace, Sanderson; Richard Boyd, Hereford.

And Archibald Broadwell, Colorado City; Charles Clarke, Midland; John J. Hauson, Jilton; Robert Leonard, Lubbock; Robin Saunders, Bradford, Pa.; George Young, Lubbock; and George Faulk, Fort Worth.

Cadets completing ROTC prior to this time who will graduate and be commissioned this year are Bobbie Covey, Loco; Bob Fleming, Lueders; Evan Jones, Oklahoma City, Okla.; Jeff Morris, San Antonio; Arthur Seybold, Lubbock; William Simpson, Levelland; Clayton Stallings, Lubbock; and Carl Rodolph, Hobbs, N.M. cations should be made to Dysart E. Holcomb, dean of the engineering division.

Two more $750 scholarships have been made available to engineering students for the year

Campus Reacts Mildly To Charge

Tech's student body on the whole reacted "apathetically" to charges hurled at The Toreador, Student council and administration by Stewart Phillips, senior engineering student—or so a random poll of Techsians would indicate.

Five Toreador reporters, stationed in main campus buildings at 3 p. m. yesterday, interviewed 62 persons, asking them "Did you read the lead article in Tuesday's Toreador about a student's comments on the paper, the Student council and the administration in the SC meeting last Monday? If so, what is your reaction to comments made?"

Non-Readers

Thirty-one students, half of those polled, had not read the article. Of the Techsians who indicated knowledge of the story, nine had no comment, 15 agreed with Phillips at least partially, four disagreed completely and three gave "middle-of-the-road" answers.

The four dissenters showed the strongest feeling of any of the 31 students. Commented Bill Lovelace, ★ ★ ★

Phillips Is Given Invitation To Council Luncheon Meet

Stewart Phillips, electrical engineering senior, has been invited by Dr. D. M. Wiggins to be his personal guest at a monthly student council luncheon with members of the administration Tuesday in Drane hall.

Bob Schmidt, student body president, said Phillips may ask any questions about any discrepancies in the administration or can get any other information he stated he wanted in his letter in Tuesday's Toreador.

Varsity Show Seeks Director

Tech's 1952 Varsity show, to be presented April 7-9, is still without a director or applications for one, according to Charlie Joplin, chairman of the varsity show committee.

Only qualification necessary for anyone to apply for the job is a 1-point grade average. Experience in directing will also be valuable, Joplin said.

Four Scripts Submitted

Four scripts have been submitted to the committee. These are "Playboy," by Gilbert Galloway, Paducah senior; "A Tropical Fantasy" and "A Techsian's View of Broadway," by Harry Parker, Tulla junior, who also wrote last year's show, and "I Want My Mummy," by Thomas W. Sanders, Lubbock senior.

Scripts will be read by committee members, sponsors and the director, all of whom will have a vote. After all scripts have been read, each playwright will appear before the group to read his script.

Committee Listed

Committee members are Rhea Myers McKee, arts and sciences representative; Mary B. Turner, engineering representative; Hardy Clemons, arts and sciences representative; Harold Brockett, business administration representative, and Joplin, business administration representative.

Sponsors are Dr. Doyle D. Jackson, honorary sponsor, professor of education; Bill Whittington, assistant professor of finance; Sabe Kennedy, assistant professor of government, and Horace Hartsell, assistant professor of education.

Applications for director should be turned in to the Student council office, Ad117

Applications To Sponsor Dance Are Due Monday

Clubs wishing to apply for the sponsorship of the Howdy dance must have their applications in the Student council office by 5 p. m. Monday.

Bob Schmidt, student body president, said the club will be chosen at the Student council luncheon Tuesday.

Kappa Kappa Psi, honorary band fraternity, is the only club that had applied so far.

'Stage Door' Rush Causes Holdover Through Saturday

The "Stage Door" leading into the studio theatre in the Speech building is crowded this week. The three-act comedy is playing to "standing room only" audiences.

"The enthusiastic response has resulted in a holdover performance," said Miss Cecilia Thompson, director of the play, "which pleases both the cast and director!"

Holdover Performance

The extra performance will be given Saturday night at 8 p. m. in the Speech auditorium. Reservations may be made by going to the Speech office or by calling extension 356. Miss Thompson pointed out, however, that only a few seats are still available.

"I'm sorry the play can't be held over until all of the student body who wished to could see it, but the restrictions of dead week make this impossible," she added.

The holdover performance follows a precedent set up last spring by the unparalleled favorite, "Taming of the Shrew." The Shakespearean comedy was repeated three times by popular demand, Miss Thompson said.

League Of Women Voters To Sponsor Poll Tax Drive On Campus January 25

Tech students and faculty members may pay their poll taxes or get exemption receipts in the foyer of the Administration building Jan. 25, according to the president's office.

Members of the League of Women Voters will be in charge of a booth there from 9:30 a. m. until 5:30 p. m. They have been authorized by local officials to make out poll tax and exemption receipts.

Students who are 21 this year do not have to pay poll tax in order to vote, but must get a receipt. They do not have to bring a birth certificate or any other proof of their age, but must fill out a form. Students who obtain their receipt in Lubbock must vote in Lubbock.

This is the first year a booth has been set up on the campus, Mrs. Mary Randall, secretary to the vice-president, said. She pointed out that this will enable students and faculty members to avoid the last minute downtown rush.

January 31 is the deadline for poll tax payments.

Registration Data Given By Harding

"Students who do not receive registration packets in the mail by Jan. 31 should call for them at the registrar's office," announced Warren G. Harding, assistant to the registrar.

Packets will not be mailed after that date, for fear of students not receiving them, he explained.

Meanwhile, no tabulations had been made on the number of students who had pre-registered for the spring semester. About 4,200 students are expected for the spring semester, however, Harding said. The expected number is based upon the usual percentage drop from the fall to spring semester.

Registration will be held for the spring semester Feb. 5 and 6.

Committee Seeks Ventana Sponsor

The Publications committee failed to name a sponsor for La Ventana at its called meeting Wednesday, according to Charles Joplin, committee member.

Alfred B. Strehli, assistant professor of foreign language, was appointed chairman of the sub-committee which is looking for a sponsor. J. Roy Wells, assistant to the president, was added to this sub-committee. Other members are Dr. R. Rushing, head of the accounting and finance department, and Brian Boyett, senior agriculture student from Breckenridge.

A business report from The Toreador was given by Mac Andrews, business manager, at the meeting.

Chemical Company Awards College $2,500 Grant For Basic Research

Tech has been awarded a $2,500 grant-in-aid to do basic industrial research with anhydrous ammonia, Dr. D. M. Wiggins, college president, said yesterday.

Phillips Chemical company, producers of the commercial fertilizer, presented the grant to the college. The company is located in Bartlesville, Okla.

Jack Bond, January graduate from Goodlett, will begin work on the project Feb. 1 as part of his graduate studies.

Dr. A. W. Young, head of the plant industry department, stated that the researcher will study effects of the fertilizer on yield of products, comparison of application methods, storage problems, chemical changes in the soil caused by the compound and influences of nitrogen in anhydrous form to the soil.

Bond will also try to work out a method of storing the fertilizer in the soil during non-growing seasons without having the fertilizer lose its effects. Young added that he expected the grant to be renewed, since the work cannot be completed within a year.

Listening Hour Scheduled For February 1 In Museum

The Museum Listening hour, conducted by Herbert Colvin, music instructor, will be presented at 8 p.m. Feb. 1 in the Members' room of the Museum.

Visitors will hear and discuss recordings of numbers to be played by the First Piano quartet, Feb. 4, and the Lubbock Symphony orchestra, Feb. 11 and 12.

Guest soloists for the concert will be music instructors Ira Schantz, Mary van Appledorn and Robert Dean.

These Listening Hour programs are designed to make concert music more enjoyable to the average listener, Colvin said.

Portrait Of Former Dean Is Placed In Tech Library

A portrait of Mrs. Mary Doak has recently been hung above the circulation desk in the library, R. C. Janeway, librarian, has announced.

The portrait of the former Tech dean of women and English professor had previously been in the Museum.

Mrs. Doak was a member of the original faculty and was the first dean of women. She retired from that post in 1946, but continued as a member of the English faculty until her retirement last year.

MUSICIANS HEAR HEMMLE

Dr. Gene Hemmle, head of the music department, will speak to the South Plains Music Teachers' association at 7:45 p.m., Feb. 1 at the Hilton hotel.

His subject will be "The Reciprocal Relationship between Primary School and College Music."

Foods, Nutrition Department Offers Two New Courses

The foods and nutrition department will offer two new courses the coming semester.

A course in food selection and service and one in history of food customs will be open to both men and women. The courses have been designated Foods 233 and Foods 311 respectively.

Junior standing is the only prerequisite required for Foods 311, which is planned to meet cultural and professional interest. Dr. Mina W. Lamb will teach the course.

The planning, preparation and serving of meals will be included in Foods 233. This three-hour course is taught by Miss Mayme Twyford.

ENGINEER INSPECTS ROTC

Col. Frank Milner of the office of the chief of engineers, Washington, D.C. visited the Tech campus last week to inspect ROTC facilities here.

Lottie Margaret Atkinson, class of 1948, is a teacher in the Levelland public schools, Levelland.

Poll Shows Campus Reaction To Charge—

student, stated, "There is a general over-all feeling of indifference among the students. I don't think the Student council is to blame, but I think the only way he could have presented his idea was by going before the council. This way he has gotten the attention of a few students."

"I think Phillips was right," said Glenn Crowder, Memphis senior, "but I don't think he went about it the right way. I think there is plenty of room for constructive criticism. For instance, I don't like administrative policies toward the supervision of dorms."

True About Toreador

"Very true about The Toreador. We aren't aware of what's going on in the Student council—like the TISA deal," commented Robert Miller, Fort Worth senior.

A junior agriculture student, Adrian Anderson, had this to say: Phillips didn't have much concrete evidence to base his criticisms on; but with a little research he could have dug up some pretty good arguments."

Georgana Skillin, who took an in-between point of view, said "I thought it was nice of them (The Toreador) to take so much interest and write it up."

Answers received in the poll are posted in The Toreador office, J105.

New Wheels Of Justice . . .

"The wheels of justice move slowly." Perhaps this is the reason a group of campus offenders held lightly the importance of Tech's newly-formed Traffic court when they were summoned to appear at its first session last week.

The court issued bids to nineteen traffic violators (students who had received three or more tickets on the campus). Ten of the honorees were conspicuous by their absence.

The announced plan of giving violators patient warnings and reprimands on two convictions by the court may have seemed toothless and stingless to the casual reader. Overlooked was the fact that a third verdict of guilty will refer the case to the potent Disciplinary committee.

That latter body has power to banish the sinner's chrome-heap from the campus, recommending in some instances that it be sent home.

"Improper use of the car on the campus" is the basis for decisions by the court. Covered by the phrase are violation of state and local traffic ordinances, irresponsible use of the car, transportation or storage of beer and/or liquor and improper parking on college territory.

The last term includes parking on paved drives, loading zones and the like; on Tech's cherished grass; in between rows in parking lots, and on sidewalks.

The Traffic court will be happy to interpret and explain any of those provisions to persons who are unsure of their meaning. Admission to the discussion periods, as pointed out earlier, will be three or more of the little slips of paper which are often found lurking under the windshield wipers.

Since authority is required to do the job that voluntary action failed to do, Tech needs a strong system for punishing offenders. The Traffic court is designed to fill the need.—Ralph Shelton.

Tar, Feathers Are Advocated For Unusual, Different Techsan

All of you can and do vote in campus elections—we're sure.

And all of you follow up your vote by attending Student council meetings and talking to the representatives in your division about your pet gripes—we're sure.

Rare, indeed, is the Techsan who hasn't enough interest in Tech to get his complaints before the student body by talking to the Student council or writing letters to The Foreador.

Fortunately, the rest of the student body is wildly, vitally interested in Tech.

What should be done about this exceptional, negative person who doesn't take his complaints to the proper authorities?

What should be done about this unusual, out-of-place person who merely sits in his dormitory room and airs his grievances?

Tarring and feathering has been advocated, but fortunately that's not necessary at Texas Technological college.

Fortunately, whether our wildly, vitally interested students are right or wrong, they always bring their complaints to the student government and the campus newspaper.

BACKTALK

Dear Editor:

I must give full credit to Mr. Stewart Phillips for his letter to the Editor in the last issue of the Foreador. I say this because there are very few students in the student body who would express their opinions and carry them that far (if they had such opinions). I also say this because the Foreador DOES seem to be a masterpiece of literature in "do's" and "don'ts" for the students. However, I must in turn congratulate you in your answer to Mr. Phillip's letter . . . especially the last sentence.

But, to expose more of the realities, let's face the facts:

1. An organization cannot be formed without an approval by the administration.
2. Social clubs are under the direct supervision of the administration and must comply with their orders.
3. A petition cannot be circulated without an approval by Student Council which is, again subject to the administration for their actions.
4. The Foreador editor is not elected, but is appointed.

These facts indicate that the "so-called" student government is merely a "voice of the administration."

As an example, in an editorial of the Dec. 11, 1951 issue of the Foreador, you wondered why the student body hesitated in voting (in student elections). Well, on the basis of the statements, the individual student has no relative control. Then, is it no wonder that only 10% of the students vote?

Sincerely,
Bob G. Crockett

Dear Editor:

I have well received the Foreador for the last two months and I should thank you.

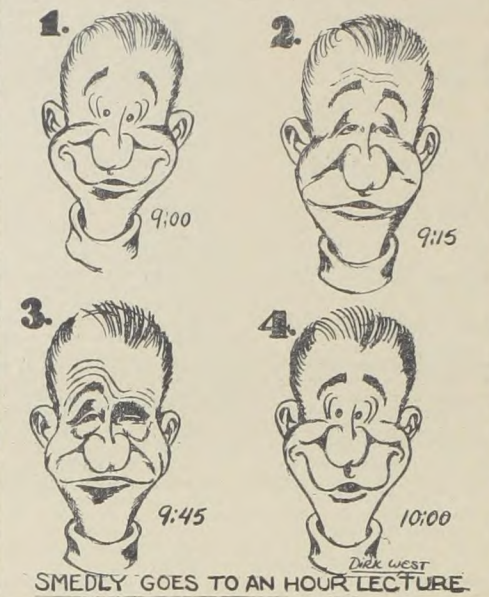

I have been busy learning how to fight. I hope I will never have to use it. I am in a sixteen weeks cycle and the training is hard. I hope to go in the language school in Monterey.

My new address is Pvt. Guy L. Fouasson, RA 25871952, Co. G 20th Inf. Regt., Sixth Inf. Div., Fort Ord, Calif.

Well, I thank you again for the paper. It was good to know that Tech won the Sun bowl.

Sincerely,
Guy L. Fouasson

Traffic Court Puts Teeth In Regulations

By JOHN NORCROSS
Foreador Editor

Tech's traffic situation has been growing worse by leaps and bounds during the last few semesters. At last something is being done to correct this problem. A student traffic count is now in operation.

Evidently, however, some regular offenders on the campus do not understand that the student court means business, since over half of the students summoned to the first meeting did not appear.

Purpose of the court, as has been previously pointed out, is not to assume police duties, but to encourage offenders through personal contact to be civic minded in their operation of automobiles on the campus.

The court was not set up to compel students to pay traffic fines, and it will not try to harass or embarrass anyone. All contact with students will be confidential. However, the group is empowered with the authority to see that chronic offenders are punished. If a student demonstrates that he does not want to cooperate in helping to improve the deplorable traffic situation refusing to follow traffic regulations, the court can refer him to the college Disciplinary committee. The Disciplinary committee can refuse him the right of driving a car on the campus. If he disobeys this ruling, the committee can, in turn, dismiss him from school.

It is the hope of the students serving on the court, however, that last actions mentioned above will never be necessary. Students on the college level should be mature enough to realize that they are protecting themselves by obeying traffic laws.

Second Lieut. Don P. Keith, '50 graduate, is stationed at Lowry air force base, Denver, Colo. attending air intelligence school after being recalled to active duty in November. He is from Lubbock.

R. R. Garren, '50 graduate, has just graduated from the navigator's school at Ellington air force base, Houston, and has been assigned to Langley air force base, Va.

Lt. Donny R. Jackson, 1951 graduate, has just completed a 12-week course in electronics at Keesler air force base, Biloxi, Miss. He will return to his permanent station at Sandia air force base, Albuquerque, N.M., where he will work with the research and development program.

He was a chemical engineering major at Tech.

Pfc. John R. Potts, former Tech student from Lubbock, visited here during the holidays. He has been assigned to the 74th fighter-interceptor squadron of the 23rd wing in Presque Isle, Me.

He received his basic training at Lackland air force base and studied radio mechanics at Scott air force base, Ill.

Otis W. English, jr., fireman apprentice in the navy, is stationed at Great Lakes, Ill. He finished recruit training there before returning home for a 10-day leave during the holidays.

About The Campuses

If you see Tech students looking wistfully toward Canyon, it might be that they are thinking of the new modern Gymnasium which was dedicated there recently. The Prairie of West Texas State announced that this $400,000 structure is the "long-awaited dream of the athletic department and all that sport fans anywhere could want."

Campuses all over the country are conducting drives to obtain blood for the armed forces. The Daily Texan recently expressed disappointment because only 1,374 pledges of a pint of blood had been turned in, whereas the goal was 5,000. Campus organizations were conducting a contest to elect "Bloody Mary." Details of the contest were not given but six coeds were contending for the honor.

The TCU Skiff recently published an editorial deploring the number of empty seats at the lecture and concert programs. An average of about 250 persons were attending programs in an auditorium which could seat 1,200 people. Said the Skiff, "And when are the campus and town students most likely to attend any University event? Answer, during the morning hours when the majority of classes meet." Maybe those TCU students aren't so dumb after all.

At the University of Detroit they have installed little boxes of pennies at each cigarette machine so that students can make proper change without having an expensive change-making machine installed. This system will be used as long as the change in the box and the coins in the machine add up to the proper total.

Colds are establishing quite a record at Arizona State at Tempe. The infirmary there reported that it treats 35 to 40 students a day for colds. Between eight and nine students a day are admitted as bed patients and stay on an average of two and a half days before they are released for classes. It seems that the temperature changes rapidly and frequently in the valley.

Editor: I am writing to you that is being impossible to get a job as the rule that all students are required to fill out Form as a prerequisite for the filling out of the Form has no whatsoever with our academic work at since it does not, out the Placement cannot prevent a student from attending.

Granted that the office is doing a wonderful job of helping students, however, a job and information required for the Form, is a person should remain in the office. Why must I be forced to submit the Form in order to attend any event, it certainly made optional with the student.

Dear Editor: Three cheers for the Foreador and Ted Harris for the job he is doing. The Foreador proved to be the best thing I have ever read. I hope you will continue to print all semester. Dear Editor: Enclosed find a money order for $1.05 to cover subscription for this school year. Sorry that this hasn't been done before. I really enjoy The Toreador, a very newsy newspaper, keep up the good work. I am a Centaur, CE '49 and am now with the 29th Engineer Topo Battalion in the Philippine Islands. Thanks again for the good paper, The Toreador. Sincerely yours, Pfc. Laurence L. Jester, Jr.

Editor: I am writing to criticize a rule that is being imposed upon seniors that should be abolished. That is the rule that all seniors are required to fill out a Placement Form as a prerequisite for graduation. The filling out of the Placement Form has no connection whatsoever with our scholastic or academic work at college, and since it does not, failure to fill out the Placement Form should not prevent a student from graduating. Granted that the Placement Office is doing a wonderful job placing students, however, the acceptance of a job and other personal information required on the Placement Form, is a personal matter and should remain a personal matter. Why must the seniors be forced to submit a Placement Form in order to graduate. In any event, it certainly should be made optional with each individual student. Name withheld by request

Dear Editor: Three cheers for Stewart Phillips and Ted Harrison! Their letters proved to be the first stimulating material the Toreador has printed all semester! Why has there been such an obvious lack of criticism of anything faintly connected with the administration in the Toreador? Frankly, I don't know, at least, I have no concrete facts. From all outward appearances, however, I have been forced to conclude that the administration simply will not tolerate criticism, and that this fact has been made quite clear to the Toreador staff. As for the Student council, I have no doubt that it is a splendid organization which is alert, efficient, and constantly performing colossal feats. They tell us this every week in their column, "The Student Council Speaks." We are told that we are mature, responsible college students. Still, we are not to criticize, but to follow in complete acquiescence. It seems to me that some criticism is necessary to advancement. Tech may be trying to raise its standards, but merely constructing buildings and planting grass will not produce higher standards. The students must be encouraged to cast off their indifference to discuss controversial issues, and to express their own opinions. Sincerely, Joyce Bellomy

Dear Editor: In the last two issues of the Toreador, several letters have appeared concerning the policies of the Student council, the college administration, and the student body. It has been the opinion of those submitting these letters that there should be more criticism of the policies of the administration and the Student council in our college newspaper. However, those advocating more criticism have in no way presented any factual or even logical reasons for such criticism.

I remember having read a publication called, "A Code of Ethics for College Students," and one paragraph in that code impressed me as being very thought-worthy, so I copied it down. This is how it goes, "The student should refrain from DESTRUCTIVE criticism, but he may make any necessary CONSTRUCTIVE criticism to the RESPONSIBLE parties. He should not criticize the school or its members in public unless real grievances continue which PRIVATE criticism and discussions have failed to remedy. He should keep the WELFARE of the school always in mind, and neither by word nor by act reflect upon the good character and high standings of the college." At the last Student council meeting, which I was attending as a visitor, Stewart Phillips displayed an interest in student affairs, BY VIRTUE OF HIS PRESENCE, that the Student council and the college administration have tried and tried to encourage among students on the Tech campus. However, I feel that Stewart also proved to be a perfect example of the type "Kiddo" he referred to in his open letter to the student body.

First, concerning the seating capacity of the room in which the council meeting was held, it seems Mr. Phillips is not capable of applying the simple laws of arithmetic as is shown by his statement "for the meeting room didn't contain enough chairs to seat all the council members, had they all been present, much less any outsiders." (There were four visitors, two council members absent, one chair not occupied and two persons standing. If all members had been present, there would still have been three extra seats—which has, in the past, proved to be more than enough).

Mr. Phillips also displayed his "apathetic" attitude toward student council actions by his remarks concerning TISA. At least three front page stories concerning TISA have appeared in the Toreador including ample information for anyone INTERESTED to find out the why, what, where, and how questions. (Incidentally, on February 22 there will be representatives from some 280 high schools from District one of TISA on the Tech campus. The purpose of this meeting will be to encourage high school graduates to continue their education by attending some university or college. They will be shown the numerous advantages connected with higher education. Won't this help Tech?) At the council meeting Mr. Phillips stated that the article, Student Council Speaks, "falls flat on its face" because it does not present concrete facts concerning the actions of the council. I would like to remind every student, if he feels that this article does not present what the council is doing in concrete enough form, that a copy of the minutes of every council meeting is tacked on the student council bulletin board in the main buildings on the campus. (It wouldn't take over five minutes to read the minutes).

At every convocation that we, as students, have had the privilege to hear Dr. D. M. Wiggins speak, he has, in the course of his address, told us that he and any other member of the administration would welcome a discussion with any student who is not satisfied with any policy of the college. The Student council has also expressed a desire to discuss with any student any policy that he might feel is unjust or any suggestion that he might have that would improve the council. Because of the fact that no group of people is infallible, there is always room for constructive criticism and concrete suggestions for improving the policies of the group.

It is the responsibility of every student to learn more about the policies and actions of the Student council and the college administration, to take an active part in the formulation and carrying out of these policies and activities, and to act and speak with an open mind and unselfish attitude on any policy in which he is not in agreement.

I feel that the present administration has done more to make

Texas Tech a better school both in securing more and better equipment necessary for educational development and in creating a closer relationship between the administration and students by encouraging students to come to them at any time they wish to discuss school policies, than any previous administration. If a few more students could grasp why they were given two ears and only one tongue and attend some of the council meetings, they, too, would realize that the Student council is neither a mouth piece of the administration nor a dead organization.

To those who are receiving the stinging barbs of this unjust criticism from the faultfinders of our campus, remember the old saying, "Those who can—DO. Those who can't—CRITICIZE." Respectfully, Emmett C. Adair

Dear Editor: I'll bet you are the only fellow that's glad finals are upon us. This extra time will give you a chance to run a little more backward to get out of the hot spot you're in.

I. Let's start at the last line on the front page of the S.C. story. "When asked to name a specific question, he was unable to do so." (He was well beaten down by this time, I'm sure). Since you are so blind, I'll lead you on a tour of the campus.

Library To Hold Student Meeting

A conference for teen-age librarians Feb. 2 is expected to attract about 300 student librarians to Texas Tech from the South Plains and Panhandle.

The conference, sponsored by District I of the Texas Library Association, Texas Tech, and the Lubbock school libraries, is to acquaint junior and senior high school students with the opportunities in the field of libraries.

The all-day program will include a tour of the Tech library and the libraries in the Lubbock school system. The program was arranged by Mrs. R. T. Groves of the senior high school, Miss Miriam Turner of J. T. Hutchison Junior High, Miss Pansy Harris of O. L. Junior High, and Miss Evelyn Thomas of Carroll Thompson School library.

Museum Shows History Color Film

"Eighteenth-Century Life in Williamsburg, Virginia," a documentary sound and color film, was shown in the Museum auditorium at 8 p.m. Tuesday, according to Mrs. Jane Moore, Museum publicity director.

The film was sponsored by the history department of Tech. It was under the chairmanship of Dr. Hunter Dupree. All members of the Museum and their guests were invited. American history classes were given a special invitation. No admission was charged.

Williamsburg is one of the most important historic centers of the United States. It was political headquarters for Washington, Jefferson and Patrick Henry.

The movie depicts a day in the home of Christopher Kendall, a cabinet maker in Williamsburg. Colonial architecture, furnishings and handicraft of eighteenth century life are main points of interest in the picture.

First Opportunity

This is the first time, however, that fencing classes have been opened to girls, according to Mrs. Richard Richards, assistant professor of physical education.

A newcomer has also been added to the list of courses. Body mechanics will be offered for girls who have been unable to take regular education courses because of doctor's orders. This course will be offered each semester beginning this spring.

Recommends Swimming

Mrs. Richards recommended the swimming course which will also be offered this spring. Classes will be held at the Boys' Club pool, which is tiled and heated and has a special shallow section for instruction.

Other girls' physical education courses which will be offered are tennis, badminton, advanced modern dance, volleyball, country dance and sports.

1. Did you ever wonder how much sorely needed equipment could be bought with the non-functional, imitation cut stone gingerbread on the front and false doorway? That's a beautiful building—from the rear.
2. Did you see the elevator that does not reach the top floor.
3. See that hand railing on the front steps—it's quite cutting, isn't it? Remember Life Magazine last winter? It had a vivid picture of that type railing and some ice to help a fella ruin his hand. We have ice here too, you know.
4. Don't you think these breeze-ways would have been more useful as class rooms or built into a research building?
- d. I've always wondered if the corks ever ran correctly?
- e. Chimes? Lots of the freshmen don't know we have them. I've installed and worked on chime systems and I can't seem to hold to the S.C. sob story about them.
- f. Did you know this school offers excellent training for California traffic conditions? Did you ever see a Jeep drive madly over the sidewalks (all) of Memorial Circle at night and no lights? Well, your answer is in the Toreador, for once. Ten out of nineteen fail to answer traffic court summons—good citizens!

II. It looks like some of these above items, and more too, should have appeared and been discussed in our paper. Yet the "Bldg." editorial was not from a staff member. The thing that showed me the color of this newspaper was the "Dorm Food Question" last spring semester. There seems to be no news coverage—at least properly, i.e. Let's return to the S.C. story down near the end, the part about the telephones—what telephones—what situation? Just wasted space and no information.

III. According to your answer to Ted Harrison you are not going to help one bit—then step aside. Everybody should have a voice. Humans have a mouth and associated parts: a student body its paper—so what's the trouble. The use of "you" in your column should be changed to we.

BALL-pointed penning . . .

By Iimmie Henley

With this edition we close our sports page for another semester, and we can remember no greater semester sportswriter for Texas Tech or for any team that we have followed closely.

This writer had, until this semester, considered himself what might be termed a hard-luck spectator. The teams that we had picked had always been losers.

In high school, in the university we attended our freshman year (although an Orange Bowl victory set some sportswriters to tracking) and in our previous two years at Tech, we though we must be some sort of jinxed spectator.

Either we were never jinxed, or have outlived it. We give special credit for breaking that jinx to Coaches DeWitt Weaver and Polk Robison.

Those two men are without doubt two of the best in the country. When Texas sportswriters voted Coach L. R. (Dutch) Meyer "coach of the year" in Texas it was an obvious mistake. That has he done that he didn't do any of his past years of coaching the Horned Frogs, we have not been able to figure out.

Yet it seems such an accomplishment that TCU should win the Southwest conference that the honor is given him. We expect, however, that in either 1952 or 1953, Tech's Coach Weaver will be given not only the Texas honor as "coach of the year" but will receive the same honor from writers across the nation.

Can Tech be that potent? Doubtless the squad that amazed everyone this year will improve as freshmen become sophomores, then juniors, etc. And on top of that is the fact that Coach Weaver has started action toward spreading the Tech schedule across the nation.

Since New Year's Day negotiations have been underway for a series with College of Pacific. A game in California may come off this year.

At the recent NCAA meeting in Cincinnati the Tech mentor evoted much time to seeking out possible future opponents for Tech. He met with representatives from schools in the strong southeastern conference and with representatives from other major conferences across the nation.

What these negotiations will net is yet to be seen. But, Tech's position after the 1951 season is one that makes bargaining easier than at any time in the past, and there seems no doubt that each now has employed a better trader than has been in the Tech athletic department in the past.

Obviously the slight improvement in the officiating basketball games this year has not been appreciated by the student body. Of course it is no wonder that students should be unhappy when for years the "rule" in the Border conference had been that the referees should favor the home team, a "rule" that benefitted all teams, and seemingly Arizona in particular.

But, now comes a more fair set of referees for each game, and every decision against Tech must be "hoed." It's been said that the trouble with being a good sport is that you have to lose to prove it.

The converse of the idea won't make as good an axiom, but we have little enough faith in the former theory to believe that Tech students could show good sportsmanship, even though we have a winning team.

But, since we don't expect poor sports to act like good sports, we expect to hear the "boos" throughout the remainder of the basketball season.

We wonder if it is any consolation to ex-coach Bob Winslow of Arizona to learn that Arizona State of Tempe had to use a pair of ineligible in marking up the one sided victory that finished him off with university alumni and as coach of Arizona's Wildcats.

How well the Sun Devils would have done without the two s beyond prediction, but the value of Joe (alais "Edward Andrew") Matesic, cannot be overlooked. The 1950 member of the University of Indiana team was worthy of selection to the All-Border conference team, overlooking his ineligibility for such election.

The two players could not have made so much difference as we have been the deciding factor in Tempe's success this season, but they map prove a crutch upon which Winslow's fall will be eased.

We can't vouch for any better enforcement of the rules, but the rules laid down by the NCAA Rules committee meeting this week in White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., should make for a cleaner game of football in the year ahead.

They found the obvious answer to the incident in which Drake's Johnny Bright was injured by the Oklahoma A&M tackler.

Their's is a better answer to such incidents than that of the de-emphasis mob that met recently in Washington.

Wildcats Finish Red Raider's Championship Hopes, 77-68

Arizona's Wildcats roared to a 77 to 68 victory over Texas Tech's Red Raiders in Tucson last night to knock almost all hope of a Border conference crown from the Techsians.

The victory put the Wildcats well on the road to their eighth straight conference championship as the Raiders were reduced to a mere .500 average in conference play.

Sophomore Jimmy Sexton led the scoring for the Raiders with 16 points. But, an Arizona freshman, Hadie Redd, a negro, sunk seven field goals and four charity tosses for 18 points. All of the six Arizona players scored as much as 13 points. Rogers Johnson, supposed ace of the team, scored 13 to trail his five teammates.

Tonight the Raiders go into Mesa where they meet the Sun Devils of Arizona State of Tempe. Tomorrow night they meet Flagstaff State at Flagstaff.

But, now all Tech has left seems to be the battle for second or third place. First place is virtually sewed up by the Arizonans, who stayed neck and neck with the Raiders through the second period, then took the lead eight seconds deep in the third period never to relinquish it.

STUDENTS OFFERED COURSE

Engineering students may attend a refresher course, which will be sponsored by the Chrysler Motor corporation for mechanics and maintenance men in the De Soto division, said Dean Dysart E. Holcomb.

The school will be held on the campus Jan. 23 to 25 and Jan. 30 to Feb. 1 for instruction on new equipment and developments in De Soto products.

NFL Champion Rams Draft Raiders Price, Phillips

In the annual professional football player draft in New York Thursday, Tech's captains Jerrell Price and Aubrey "Red" Phillips were drafted by the Los Angeles Rams.

The Rams, champions of the National League in 1951 had as their first choice Bill Wade of Vanderbilt, a T-quarterback.

Estes, Clipper, Davis Win Meet

James D. Estes, Herschel Clipper and Donald C. Davis walked off with honors in the intramural swimming meet held this week.
