Council Approves Tech Traffic Survey; Votes Funds to Campus Lighting Project

Students who discover a small white paper slip Wednesday under the windshield wipers of their cars need not be alarmed.

Instead of being a traffic ticket, it is only a blank to fill out for a traffic survey being taken by the Student council.

Blanks should be filled in and returned to the office of Lewis Jones, assistant dean of student life, on or before April 1, according to Bob Schmidt, student body president.

Project Approved

The project was approved by the Student council in a regular meeting at 7:15 p.m. Monday in Ad219.

Members also voted to appropriate money now in the SC lighting fund to purchasing lighting materials for new campus buildings. A committee of the Engineering show requested the money, and showed that the lighting fixtures would be used for all other necessary occasions, such as Homecoming.

The elections committee reported that polls would be open from 8 to 12 a.m. and 1 to 5 p.m. April 8 for student body elections. Voting booths will be set up in the Home Economics, Administration, West Engineering and Agriculture building.

Begin at 2 p.m.

Council members will begin counting votes at 2 p.m. April 8. Run-off, if necessary, will be April 16.

SC members were named to committees to replace students who graduated in January. Sammy Dunn, arts and sciences representative, replaced Rhea Myers McKee on the Artist Course committee. Elizabeth Schovajsa, student body secretary, replaced Harold Brockett on the same committee.

Richard Johnson, agriculture, was named to the student welfare committee; and Miss Dunn and Buddy Barron, business administration, were added to the Varsity show committee.

To See Dr. Wiggins

Melvin Brock, engineering, stated that he and Benny Bruckner, Amarillo senior, will see Dr. D. M. Wiggins, president, about a softball diamond.

Jim McGraw, arts and sciences, was named committee chairman to plan the SC banquet April 24.

Sue Mayfield, secretary of the SC office, is resigning her position. Any persons interested in the job should inquire at the SC office, Ad 161.

Aubrey "Red" Phillips, arts and sciences, was absent from meeting.

Sophomores Plan Joan College Hop

Slip your sweaters on gals! Grab your sport shirts, guys! The sophomores are having a big shindig Friday night.

A dance is to be held at 8 p.m. in the Green room of the Recreation hall. The girls are to wear sweaters and skirts and the boys are to wear slacks and shirts, according to Bill Burton, class president.

The girls will be judged and the winner will be crowned "Miss Joan College," sweater girl of 1952, Burton said.

Jack Hon and his Techsians will play for the dance which will cost $1.00 stag or drag. Other entertainment is planned for the intermission period.

LAST MINUTE PETITIONS—Signing a last minute petition before the 5 p.m. Tuesday deadline is Tom Cain, left, senior pre-med major from Plainview. At right is Elizabeth Schovajsa, Student council secretary who heads the elections committee. Seventy-two candidates had entered the campus political scramble late Monday. General election is set for April 8. See story below.

Bill Bales, publicity committee, reported that a truck would be used Saturday morning to carry Kappa Kappa Psi members over the campus to play music. This is to aid other publicity in attracting attention to the carnival.

Political Rally Is Set April 4

Political rally so the student body may meet the candidates for major offices will be held at 7 p.m. April 4 in the Rec hall, according to Elizabeth Schovajsa, chairman of the elections committee.

Candidates for president, vice-president, business manager and secretary, and their campaign managers will have six minutes to speak. These six minutes may be divided between candidate and manager any way the politician sees fit.

Aspiring head boy and girl cheerleaders will lead yells together, so students may judge the hopefuls' abilities.

Seniors Like Ike, Kefauver; One Asks, 'Who's Running?'

Well, what do you think? Whom do you believe may be the political savior of our country?

During the last ten days a Toreador-sponsored cross section poll has been taken of Seniors in an effort to determine how the highest strata of our upper-classes at Tech are thinking in regard to whom our next president should be and why.

Some Answers Thoughtful
In the final tally it was discovered that some of the answers were ridiculous, some comic, some thoughtful and serious; but all were consistent in regard to our present administration.

Three questions were asked of all persons interviewed:

1. Whom do you think the Republicans should nominate for president?

2. Whom should the Democrats nominate?

3. Whom do you think should be elected for the general welfare of the country?

Taft Second

Dwight D. Eisenhower nosed out all candidates as a first-place choice, with Robert A. Taft running second, and Estes Kefauver, Earl Warren, and Richard Russell running about neck and neck.

The majority of those interviewed were consistent in that they thought the time had come "to make a change."

Some of the typical answers were: "Wallace is the man." After being informed that Henry A. Wallace was not in the race, the senior said, "I thought that he ran every time."

Not Worried

"Not old enough to vote, not old enough to worry about it," was another answer.

According to one big fellow, the right man "just hasn't been found yet."

Typical of the more serious answers were: "Eisenhower is my choice for the job, if it would be wise to remove him from Europe just now."

"Eisenhower for the Republicans, Eisenhower for the country,"

Coffee is served each Sunday morning at 9:30 a.m. and Sunday school begins at 9:45.

The class meets in the basement of the church.

and anybody but Harry for the Demos."

"I'm a Taft man all the way." "It seems to me that Kefauver is the wisest choice; we need a good clean-up man."

From a sweet blonde thing, "Who's running?"

At any rate the time is near for a decision, so:

What do you think?

Tech was host to Southeast New Mexico's FFA clubs last Saturday. All high schools in that region gathered at Tech to be judged in their ability to recognize good livestock.

Koy L. Neeley, coach of the Tech dairy cattle judging team; Stan E. Anderson, livestock judging team coach; Kirk B. Turner, a student professor of animal husbandry, and Cecil Ayers, agronomy professor, each passed judgment over their respective livestock sections.

The competing teams were Arceia, Tatum, Capitan, Hobbs, Lovington, Cloudfcroft and Hagerman.

Rare Collection of Michoacan Indians Featured in Museum Exhibit from Mexico

A collection of rare objects from the great storehouse of archaeological treasures in the National Museum at Mexico City is being brought here to the Museum through a permanent exchange program.

Mrs. W. C. Holden, as representative of the Museum, arranged with Dr. E. Davalos, director of the National Museum, to bring items from all the pre-conquest cultures of Mexico, including the Maya, Zapotec and Toltec. This exchange required a presidential decree.

Modern arts and crafts made by the Tarascan Indians of Michoacan will supplement the collections from that state.

These items will be used as teaching examples and will be displayed in special exhibits through the year. A library will complement the collections so that scholars interested in the culture of Michoacan may come to Lubbock to do preliminary research instead of going to Mexico.

The collection of modern Tarascan will make available to the layman samples of all the best types of articles now made in Michoacan.

In exchange, the Museum was able to offer exhibits to Mexico. These include casts of weapon points made by early hunters. These points were found with the bones of extinct animals from sites in the Southwest. Casts of flint points and objects from the Ablene collection will be sent to Mexico. The National Museum is interested in articles made by early man which were found near Lubbock and Plainview.

The pre-conquest material from Michoacan was obtained through scientific excavations from the sites of Tzintzuntzan and Apatzingan. Items dating back to 1500 A. D. were found at Tzintzuntzan. The Apatzingan excavation revealed items dating back to 900 A. D. In the exchange there will be complete clay vessels, pipes, figurines, stone work and volcanic glass ear and lip plugs.

Hegyí To Conduct Music in the Round

The Tech Madrigal Singers and Gary Garner, flutist, will be guest performers at the Music in the Round program at 8 p.m. Thursday in the Museum auditorium. Julius Hegyí, violinist, will conduct the chamber music.

Members of the Madrigal Singers are Marjorie Hendricks and Dorothy Guinn, sopranos; Marjorie Scales and Rosemary Sprague, altos, Ira Schantz, director and Leroy Reynolds, tenors; Warren Forsythe, baritone, and Tim Magness, bass.

The group will sing "Welcome Sweet Pleasures", Thomas Weekes; "Phillis, Farewell", Thomas Bateson; "Weep You No More Sad Fountain" John Dowland, and "Sister Awake", Bateson.

The instrumental group composed of Hegyí, Robert Dean, violinist, and Miss Charlotte Barrier, pianist will give Bela Bartok's "Five Pieces of Violin and Viola."

Hegyí will present two Mozart sonatas with Miss Barrier as his accompanist.

The program will be concluded by two sonatas by Bach and Hindemith.

Tickets will be on sale at the auditorium for $1.

Carnival Time . . .

It's carnival time again. No, we're not referring to Ringling brothers. We're talking about the 1952 Senior Carnival to be staged Saturday in the Administration building.

A wide variety of entertainment is to be featured for the gala event, sponsored annually by the senior class. Chorus lines will be on hand to enchant the men. Booths will feature penny pitching and "games of chance".

This will be the first Senior Carnival to be held in the Administration building since completion of the new wings. (This fact is probably irrelevant, but at least this year's carnival will occupy more space.) More beautiful girls than ever before will be in the show, say carnival officials.

A large crowd of students, and even a few professors, are expected to attend the big one-night production. Profits from the Senior Carnival will go for buying the senior class gift for the college. Class gifts in the past have been markers for campus buildings, loudspeaker system, double-T bench, to name a few.

Warning - come to the carnival with plenty of cash and expect to spend most of it. Barkers will be posted in every nook of the building to grab your dough. But you won't have to give something for nothing. A night of gaiety will be available to everyone.

Deadline Nears . . .

As the deadline for returning petitions draws near, it appears that some candidates for Student association offices will run unopposed. No matter how well qualified the candidate is, this should never be the case.

By 5 p. m. Tuesday two or more candidates for every position should have filed petitions in the Student council office. When only one candidate announces for a post, the spring election ceases to accomplish a purpose and becomes a mere formality.

at Texas State College for Women. After arriving at the campus, one car, loaded with Tech delegates, sent one of the boys to stop a Tessie and ask directions to the journalism building.

He returned with this choice bit of information, "She says we can't get there from here."

One foursome went to Dallas Friday afternoon to go through the new Dallas Morning News building and see the sights of Big D. After a huge lunch of shrimp, they drove around town and decided to eat a hamburger before driving back to Denton for a banquet.

Arriving at TSCW with only 15 minutes before the dinner started, they rushed around (this hurry adding nothing to the comfort of the shrimp and hamburgers), and, feeling ill, dashed to the banquet hall. The first object set in front of them was a shrimp cocktail. Our friends were slightly green before the meal was over.

While in Dallas, they naturally toured Neiman-Marcus. (Naturally because two of them were girls.) One of the girls paused at the precious jewels counter and admired a lovely necklace. The salesman, with a bored look, sized up the finances of the quartet and decided on the quickest way to get rid of them. "Lovely, isn't it? Original design—only $48,000!"

The four left hastily. Denton water being very soft, all delegates had to dry soap off with towels, because they couldn't wash it off faces nor out of wash cloths.

And, of course, there is the delegate who complained of a headache all the way home. She discovered that she only had a case of measles.

So, we returned home.

Money from this year's Varsity show will go toward furnishing the new Student Union building, which is to be completed next fall.

You didn't know that? Neither did we until a coffee session the other night with a Student Council member. No member of the Varsity Show staff will receive pay for his work. All funds above expense of staging the production will go for the purpose mentioned above.

Though rehearsals for the show have already begun, men are still needed for taking parts. According to the director and members of the Varsity Show committee, the script for the 1952 show is excellent, but more men are needed to make the production a success.

Football season is long gone, but we noticed an interesting item on football yells in the Associated Collegiate Press feature service, which we'll reprint here. It seems a student at the University of Illinois feels college cheers are not in keeping with the dignity of the student. He proposes the following changes:

1. Instead of "Get the ball"--- Obtain the oblate spheroid.
2. Rather than "Hold the line"--- Impede the foe's forward thrust along the two dimensional entity.
3. For "Go team go"---Proceed, oh valiant, proceed, hey!
4. Instead of "We want a touchdown"---We demand a thrust forward, maintaining as our objective the passage of our adversary's goal.
5. And for "Hit 'em again harder"---Henceforth, smite them more fiercely than you smote them heretofore.

Campus elections this spring should be more spirited due to the formation of an Election Booster club at Tech. The objectives of the organization are to urge student participation in elections and to encourage qualified persons to become candidates for office.

Though we do not expect to see student participation in elections jump tremendously overnight, the formation of the booster club is at least a step in the right direction. The organization also seeks to encourage candidates to prepare good campaign platforms, another step in the right direction.

We congratulate the students on the campus who took enough interest in political affairs at Tech to form the booster group. Here's hoping your efforts will bring a larger percentage of the students to the polls this semester.

About The Campuses

Courses in driver education a being offered in the physical education department of South Dakota State college. The training instruction will be given for student who plan to teach driving courses upon graduation.

Proving that students will sit anything, the South Dakota Da. Collegian staff circulated a petition bearing the following statement: "We give the bearer of this petition permission, upon receipt of our signature, to hang us by the necks until dead." The sentence was purposely placed in the middle of the paragraph just to see how many students signed something without reading it. Out of 165 students, 81 willingly signed this so-called petition for freedom. Unfortunately part of it all is that only 37 of the 84 who would sign, noticed this deadly sentence.

Women are what men marry. They have two feet, two hands and sometimes two husbands, but seldom more than one dollar one idea at a time. Like Turkish cigarettes, they are all made from the same material, the only difference being that some are a little better disguised than others. Generally speaking, they may be divided into three varieties: prize surprises, and consolation prizes.

Making a wife out of a woman one of the highest plastic art known to civilization. It requires science, sculpture, and common sense, faith, hope and charity, especially charity. If you flatter a woman, it frightens her to death if you don't, it bores her to death if you make love to her, she gets tired of you in the end; if you don't, she gets tired of you in the beginning. If you're popular with other women, she's jealous; and you're not, she wonders what the heck is wrong with you. Obviously whoever wrote this opinion was prejudiced (we hope).

Marriage Interferes, So - - -

Architecture Doesn't Attract Many Women Students Here

By DOROTHY THOMPSON
Toreador Society Editor

Marriage and the prospect of five years of hard work are the main forces which keep the architecture department at Tech a comparatively small department. Enrolled in architecture this semester are 149 students, only three of whom are girls. According to A. Kleinschmidt, head of the department, few girls ever graduate from the department because marriage usually interferes.

Three degrees are offered by the department—the bachelor of architecture with emphasis on design, the same degree with emphases on construction, and the bachelor of advertising art and design. All three degrees are of professional status.

AIA Open to Majors

Two campus organizations are sponsored by the department. The Gargoyle society is open to all students, while the American Institute of Architecture, a national club, is open only to majors in the field.

This is the only department in Tech which requires five years of study. There are six professors and two instructors on the teaching staff.

Of main interest to students are the various contests which are sponsored annually by different companies and organizations. In the fall of each year a contest is conducted by the Featherlite corporation under the auspices of the Texas Society of Architects.

In this contest the top three students in each of the five Texas schools which have accredited departments of architecture are awarded prize money. Approximately $500 is given to each school to be divided among its three chosen students.

One Won Beaux Arts

A nation-wide contest entered by Tech contestants each year is one sponsored by Beaux Arts in New York. Tech has had one winner of the national contest in the history of the college.

Many courses offered in the department are of interest to students in other divisions. Most popular of these courses now being offered are the classes in freehand drawing and pottery.

Plans are now under way for a new course to be started next fall which will be called Introduction to the Arts. Professors R. I. Lockard and R. K. Tracy will teach the courses. It will be offered one time a week for one hour credit. It is designed to give information on exhibits which come to the campus and a general background for understanding all arts in addition to sculpture and painting.

The department is housed in an "X" building, the west engineering building and the new east engineering building.

Three Tech Grads Receive Naval School Commissions

Three Tech graduates are among 520 enlisted men with the commission of ensign at the Naval Training school for Officer Candidates at Newport, R. I.

Charles E. Clowe, jr., Ardmore, Okla., received his B.S. in 1949. Roland L. Van Norman, Lubbock, graduated in 1951 with a BBA degree. Charles M. Hollabaugh of Roby was a 1950 B.S. graduate.

The four-month officer training course is designed to produce graduates capable of filling positions in any of the departments aboard combat ships.

Home Economics Staff Members Will Attend Dedication at Denton

Three members of the Tech home economics staff will be in Denton Wednesday at Texas State College for Women to help in the dedication of the new Home Economics building there.

Margaret Weeks, dean of home economics at Tech, will appear on the program.

Those accompanying Dean Weeks on the trip are Miss Lola Marie Drew and Miss Martha Butill, associate professors of home economics.

Dr. Jones Will Speak Here

Dr. E. N. Jones, Tech vice-president, will speak to the brotherhood of the Westminster Presbyterian church Tuesday night at 7:30. His subject will be "The Swing of History's Pendulum."

Glenn L. Evans To Speak On Geology in Conservation

Glenn L. Evans, associate director of the Texas Memorial museum at Austin, will speak on the role of geology in conservation Thursday, at 7:30 p.m. in the Aggie auditorium.

Evans is recognized as a leading authority in the field of geology and in the inter-relationships of the natural sciences. He has just returned from New York where he attended a committee meeting of the Geological Society of America. The general public, faculty and students are invited to his talk here.

Evans is a native Texan, born and raised in north central Texas. He attended the University of Texas, and began work for the bureau of economics geology in 1936. From 1942 to 1946 he was active with field geology of strategic and industrial mineral deposits in West Texas, and has published several reports dealing with these investigations.

Students To Attend Speech Convention

Four Tech students will leave Thursday to attend the Southern Speech association convention in Jackson, Miss.

Students attending will be Thelma Jean Hutchins, Gail Littleton, Glen Rainer and E. J. Tarbox, Jr. They will be accompanied by Dr. P. M. Larson, head of the speech department.

Will Make Stop

On the way to Mississippi the group will stop in Natchitoches, La., to participate in a meet at Northwestern Louisiana State college. They will enter events in oratory, extemporaneous speaking, radio and after-dinner speaking.

At the Southern convention, March 31 through April 5, the students will enter events in oratory, after-dinner speaking, extemporaneous speaking and debate.

Introduce Bill

They will participate in the student legislative assembly where they will introduce a bill to make poll tax illegal, and a resolution proposing calling for the formation of a new liberal party to be constituted of membership of liberal Democrats and liberal Republicans.

On April 4 Dr. Larson will participate in a symposium, "Speech Teachers Look at Each Other," and will present the college teacher's view. On April 5 he will take part in a panel on "How Can We Improve Forensics in the South?"

Air Reserve Unit to Begin Course in Management

Forty air reservists of the 9172nd Volunteer Air Reserve Training unit, Lubbock, will begin a course in personnel management at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in Ad219.

Dr. F. L. Mize, head of the management department, will teach the course, which is designed to give specialized training since the men would probably work in personnel management if recalled.

Dr. D. M. Wiggins, Tech president, signed the contract with air force representatives S. D. Fonda and A. J. Clifford 3rd Air District, March 20.

Tech Plays Host To FFA Groups

Tech was host to Southeastern New Mexico's FFA clubs last Saturday. All high schools in that region gathered at Tech to be judged in their ability to recognize good livestock.

Koy L. Neeley, coach of the Tech dairy cattle judging team; Stanley E. Anderson, livestock judging team coach; Kirk B. Turner, assistant professor of animal husbandry; and Cecil Ayers, agronomy professor, each passed judgment over their respective livestock sections.

The competing teams were Artesia, Tatum, Capitan, Hobbs, Lovington, Clouderoft and Hagermann. Lovington took first place honors in the livestock judging team division, with Artesia winning first place in both dairy cattle and crop divisions. Tatum ranked first in the poultry department.

Textile Engineers to Build Fiberglass Loom for Show

Two textile engineering students have begun a seminar project of weaving fiberglass yarn, according to L. E. Parsons, head of textile engineering.

C. V. Lofton and Fred Eddins, senior textile students, have received yarn from the Owens-Corning Fiberglass corporation and will begin setting up a loom for the weaving of this special type of synthetic fiber. They hope to have the loom built in time for the Engineering show next month.

Parsons said that the glass fiber is becoming more important because of its fireproof qualities. It is also used as a reinforcing material in other fabrics.

"It will be used more widely as time goes on," Parsons said.

The Raiders will compete in a triangular meet here at 2:30 Thursday in the old football stadium against Hardin-Simmons university and the University of New Mexico.

The Raider's only first place Saturday came when freshman footballer James Orn hurled the javelin 152 feet 1/2 inch.

Ted Smith of North Texas barely edged Jim Farrell out in the 120-yard hurdles with a time of 15 flat.

Pete Rinaldi finished second in both the javelin and discus to be Tech's high point man with six points.

Sports Panorama

By Sports Staff

Tech spring sports on the whole are not faring too well this season.

Fencing and tennis teams are the only winning squads so far. The male fencers will swing into yankeeland this week-end for the NCAA tournament in New Haven, Conn. They have the lead on other spring teams having beaten down all competition.

The women fencing team has done well for itself by winning the North Texas division of the American Fencers League of America women's intercollegiate championship Saturday.

The Racqueteurs under Prof. Roy Male of the English department, have won three, lost three, and tied one.

Golf Team Flounders
Raider linksmen have not shown so well this far losing their first four dual matches and coming in seventh in the Fort Worth meet (which fielded 17 teams). They go again Friday against Arizona State College of Tempe there.

Tracksters Look Good
The cinder team has not won a meet yet but they have been up against some stiff competition. At that, they have made some excellent showings (such as the fifth place garnered in University division in the Fort Worth recreation meet). The tracksters will tangle in a three-way meet with Hardin-Simmons and University of New Mexico on the Raider oval Thursday. This could be Tech's chance to break into the win column. The Raiders will follow up this meet with a crack at the West Texas Relays at Odessa.

We wandered over to see the girls' fencing squad in action Saturday and were surprised to see them throw caution to the winds and fence in shorts. We saw some very interesting games—er—games.

We also noticed that one of the girls is a pre-med major. Seems like an inexpensive way to get in a little practice surgery.

Congratulations to Junior Arterburn on proving himself the brain of the year by taking the Standerfer-Canon trophy.

We've always believed it since he told us how he managed to rack up so much yardage during head-knocking season. It seems that a pass receiver's yardage is credited to the passer rather than the receiver.

Junior says why should he run himself to death when he can pass the ball to Cavazos and let Bobby do all his ground gaining for him. Some thinking.

ROTC Teachers Lead City League

Tech's ROTC instructors' volleyball team has gone through the season undefeated, winning all of eight matches played.

Lieut. Vernon Wade is team captain. Other members are Maj. Hayes Baumgardner, Lieut. Col. Clifton McClelland, Capt. Cecil Haddox, Capt. Robert Flournoy, Lieut. Harold Badley, Lieut. James Clem, M/Sgt. Lewis Jones, M/Sgt. William Huff, T/Sgt. Donald Wilsey, and S/Sgt. Harvey Doane.

Tech's women fencers fought their way to an intercollegiate championship in the Tech gym Saturday afternoon.
The Tech team, composed of Harriet Moltz, Beth Gregory and Ann Bryan, defeated a Texas State College for Women team made up of Anna Mae Buehrig, Pat Poduska and Terry Kantrowitz, for the title of the North Texas division of the Amateur Fencers League of America.
Tech's team, however, fell before Helen Gray and Terry La Presti, representing the Dallas YMCA who took the overall championship.

Commerce Official Plans Visit to Tech

Frank Neumann, chief of the seismology branch of the Department of Commerce, U. S. Coast and Geodetic Survey, will be in Lubbock April 8 to confer with Dr. E. F. George director of the Seismological Observatory at Texas Tech, and other college personnel.
They will discuss Tech's recording instruments, the adjustment of the instruments, and the interpretation of seismograms.

A letter from the Department of Commerce to Dr. George stated that reports of earthquakes sent to the department from Tech were helpful in locating many epicenters and were very satisfactory.
Dr. George was also told that directional control is provided by Lubbock for earthquakes in Mexico and Central America. It would frequently be impossible to locate earthquakes in this region without the data from Lubbock. Reports of the recordings made at Tech are sent to the Geodetic Survey daily.

Tech seismological observatory will take hourly measurements of microseismic movements from March 16 to April 5 for the Bureau Central International de Seismologie de Strasbourg. Microseismic movements are very small disturbances, and they make interpretation of earthquakes more difficult.
