

New Men's Dorms Receive Names

Switchboard operators in the four new men's dormitories at Texas Tech were answering their telephones with some new names Monday, the result of action by the Tech Board of Directors Friday.

The Board chose Thompson Hall, Gaston Hall, Wells Hall and Carpenter Hall as the new titles for the four dorms.

Men's 5 becomes Thompson Hall, named for Charles C. Thompson of Colorado City, a member of the Tech Board from 1937 to 1957 and chairman of the Board 17 years.

Men's 6 is named for W. T. Gaston, retired business manager of Tech who served from 1928 to 1953.

The new name for Men's 7 is for Spencer A. Wells, a director at Tech from 1936 to 1943 and part-owner of Hemphill-Wells Co. of Lubbock.

Men's 8 was named for John W. Carpenter of Dallas, a member of the college's original Board of Directors.

The names were chosen following the regular business in the Friday session of the Board. College officials pointed out that of the older dorms, two were named for former directors, one for a state senator, three for former deans and two for former presidents.

Board Okays New Addition For Science

A westward addition to Texas Tech's Science Bldg., to cost around one-half million dollars, moved into the final stage prior to construction Friday when the Tech Board of Directors authorized final plans and specifications for the structure.

Planned for completion around Oct., 1962, the Science addition ups the total amount of construction recently completed or now underway on campus to near the nine million dollar mark.

Extensive discussion in the session concerned use of West Hall as an athletic dormitory. A report from the college's Athletic Council was presented by Jim Lindsey, chairman of the Board's athletic committee, concerning the housing of athletes.

Lindsey recommended that the Board "not disturb the present operation for two years," such being "the answer at least for the present time." He stressed that "the housing of athletes should fit into overall plans" for campus housing of all students, as well as fitting into financial requirements of the stadium expansion program.

Questions concerning the use of West Hall for athletes concerned the need for more dormitory space for girls and payment by the athletic department for one half of West which the athletes are using, while the remainder of the dorm is vacant.

Several directors expressed opinions that the athletic department should pay for the "proportionate" space of the whole dormitory, according to student needs for housing. At present, the athletic department pays $12,000 into college residence hall funds for the portion now used.

The Directors also okayed $45,000 equipment for the Agricultural Plant Sciences Bldg., research projects totaling $37,505, and a study toward setting up a job classification system at Tech similar to those at Texas A&M and the University of Texas.

Student Groups Plan Presidential 'Election'

Texas Tech students will have an opportunity to cast ballots for their presidential preferences Wednesday, Nov. 2, when Alpha Phi Omega, men's service fraternity, and The Toreador co-sponsor a mock presidential election.

"Any Tech students, regardless of age, are eligible to vote," said Ralph W. Carpenter, Toreador editor.

"The Toreador will carry the results of the election and promote interest in it," Carpenter said. "We will try to announce all meetings for both the Young Democrats and Young Republican groups; however, The Toreador will not back any ticket in this election."

Election campaigning will be conducted by Tech organizations and will be free of any outside influence, according to Phil Howard, Alpha Phi Omega member and elections committee chairman.

The election will come just six days before the national presidential election. It should give some indication about the feelings of the majority of Tech students toward the election.

Plans for the election are being completed and will be announced in The Toreador as soon as final decisions are made.

Classes Dismiss For Convocation

Secretary of the Air Force Dudley C. Sharp arrives in Lubbock Wednesday morning to speak to Tech faculty and students at a special All-College Convocation.

The Air Force's civilian chief, a native Texan, will discuss air defense and foreign relations in his address at Lubbock Municipal Auditorium.

The convocation, sponsored by the Student Assn., is scheduled to start at 10:15 a.m. and classes will be dismissed from 10 until noon so all students may attend.

Sharp, a 55 year-old Navy veteran, will follow a hectic schedule while he is in Lubbock and on the campus. His airplane arrives at 8:41 a.m. and will be met by David Casey, mayor of Lubbock; Bill Dean, president of the Student Assn.; Dr. R. C. Goodwin, president of the college; and various representatives from the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce.

Secretary Sharp will be made a lifetime member of the Chamber of Commerce, an honorary citizen of Lubbock, and will, in general, be given a red carpet welcome.

An Air Force ROTC Honor Guard will meet him in front of the Ad Bldg. at 9:15 and from there he will go to a reception in Dr. Goodwin's office.

After his speech to students and faculty at 10:15, Sharp will be guest at a reception given for him by the Student Council and the press.

He will deliver another speech at noon in the Tech Union for the Lubbock Rotary Club. After this engagement, Sharp will go downtown to the Republican Party State Headquarters to meet with both city and campus party members. The distinguished visitor will leave the city about 2 p.m.

Sharp became Secretary of the Air Force in December, 1959, when James H. Douglas became Deputy Secretary of Defense. Houston-born, Sharp had served as Undersecretary of the Air Force since August, 1959.

Sharp graduated from Princeton University in 1928 with a Bachelor of Science degree. Prior to entering government service as Assistant Secretary of the Air Force for Material in October, 1955, he was President of Mission Manufacturing Company of Houston.

A Navy veteran of World War II, Sharp served from 1942 to 1945 as executive officer and commanding officer on various anti-submarine warfare vessels.

ALL-AMERICAN RATING

Toreador Wins Award

The Toreador has been given an All-American rating, the highest possible, in judging by the Associated Collegiate Press, for last spring semester.

Rating of All-American indicates "distinctly superior achievement." Minimum low number of points for the rating is 3,400. The Toreador received 3,645. Only seven papers in the same class as The Toreador were given the award.

"Collegiate papers from the entire United States send copies of their papers to be compared to a standard which has been set up," Phil Orman, director of student publications, said. "They are rated as equal to, above or below the standard."

Toreador treatment of copy brought the comment of "Bravo," from the judge, Gareth D. Hiebert, columnist and former assistant city editor of the St. Paul Dispatch. He described the style as having "action and description."

Complimenting the sports writing, Hiebert said, "It has personality and not just statistics and makes good use of pictures."

Hiebert praised pictures as having excellent quality and use of angles.

Areas with the highest scores were make-up, news coverage and treatment, sports and news. A high score was also received on photography.

"The Toreador is fortunate in having back several students who were on last spring's staff. We ought to get an equally good rating for publications this fall," Orman said.

Award winning papers will be on display at the national Associated Collegiate Press in Chicago in November.

The Toreador received an All-American rating for the spring of 1959, also, for the first time in a number of years.

Appointments were made by Bill Dean upon recommendations by the heads of departments, Dr. William Davis, head of the government department, and student council representatives.

The Chief Justice must be a pre-law student with one associate justice appointed from each of the schools. The Supreme Court advises the Student Council on the constitutionality of any proposed legislation and renders its opinion on interpretation of the constitution.

LUCKY STRIKE PRESENTS: DEAR DR. FROOD:

DR. FROOD'S THOUGHT FOR THE DAY: Early to bed and early to rise is an excellent way to avoid people.

Dear Dr. Frood: What should I look for first when I look for a wife?

Searching

DEAR SEARCHING: Her husband.

Dear Dr. Frood: Our son has been in college three months, and we haven't heard a word from him. Not even a post card. I don't want him to think I am too demanding or overprotective, but frankly I am worried. What should I do?

Worried Mother

DEAR WORRIED: Why worry after only three months in college? He's still learning how to write.

Dear Dr. Frood: I am six foot five, 225 pounds, handsome, tanned, muscled, a good athlete. But I can't get along with girls because I can never think of anything to say. What do you suggest?

Brawny

DEAR BRAUNY: "Me Tarzan, you Jane."

Dear Dr. Frood: Don't you agree that every college man has the right, in fact, the duty, to stand up and speak out for the things he believes in? Tomorrow I am going straight to the college president and tell him, politely but firmly, what is wrong here—the inferior teaching, the second rate accommodations, the bad food. My friends think I am wrong to do this. What do you think?

Determined

DEAR DETERMINED: I applaud your spirit, young man! Had I been able, I would have commended you in a more personal letter. However, you forgot to leave a forwarding address.

Dear Dr. Frood: I am puzzled by the Lucky Strike slogan: "Remember how great cigarettes used to taste? Luckies still do." I've been sitting here for hours, thinking, thinking, thinking, but for the life of me I can't remember. What should I do about this?

Forgetful

DEAR FORGETFUL: I suggest you lean back, relax, and light up a Lucky Strike. I'm sure it will all come back to you—who you are, what you were, where you lived, everything.

FROOD FAD SWEEPS COLLEGES! They laughed when Dr. Frood started the new college craze of enjoying a Lucky while hanging from a coat rack. But now everybody is doing it! Smoking Luckies, that is. Today college students smoke more Luckies than any other regular. Reason: With or without coat rack, Luckies deliver the greatest taste in smoking today.

CHANGE TO LUCKIES and get some taste for a change!

Fulbright Visits Tech In Campaign Stopover

Senator J. William Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, spoke Monday to Tech faculty and students during a visit to the campus sponsored by Sigma Chi fraternity.

Fulbright, Arkansas University graduate, was in Lubbock for Monday night's fund-raising dinner in the Fair Park Coliseum, where he delivered a speech.

Senator Fulbright's first speech was made to President Goodwin, various deans of the college, government instructors and officers of Sigma Chi. This was the first of three 15-minute talks by the Rhodes scholar in the Anniversary Room of the Student Union.

Sigma Chi members met at 10 a.m. to hear the Senator and the general public heard him speak at 10:15. Immediately after his last talk, there was a question and answer session. He presented views on the campaign and its controversial questions.

While entered in the Law School at Columbia University, Fulbright recorded the highest grades ever there. He was later offered the presidency of the college but declined in favor of his governmental duties.

Jr. Council Plans Party For Coeds

All women transfers will be honored with an informal dessert party given by the Junior Council from 6:30-8 p.m. Thursday in Room A of the Tech Union.

Dessert parties are given once each semester for women transfers to make them feel "they are really welcome at Tech," explained Ginny Johnson, Council vice president.

The guests will be entertained at the party with a short skit explaining the functions of Junior Council.

Junior Council is an honorary service organization for junior girls. Each spring the present Council selects 20 sophomore girls on the basis of scholarship, leadership, and character to become Council members.

Traditional uniforms—a white blouse, a black skirt and a red jacket—are worn by Council members on convocation, service projects and regular meeting days.

An annual service performed by the Junior Council is the care of ballot boxes in the girls' dorms at all elections. In addition, special service projects are chosen each year.

Mile Of Pennies Means Start Of Fund Raising Campaign

A mile of pennies in front of the Tech Union on Nov. 1 will signify the start of the World University Service fund raising campaign.

The five-day fund raising campaign at Tech will include an IFC shoeshine stand in the Tech Union from 8 a.m. to noon each day, and a girls' carwash Nov. 2-3 sponsored by Panhellenic.

The carwash will be located in the St. Johns Methodist Church parking lot, 15th and College. The Tech Stage Band will hold a concert in the Tech Union Nov. 3 from 11 a.m. to noon. Each dormitory will have a fund raising campaign within the dorm.

The WUS was organized at the end of World War II primarily to help rebuild European colleges and universities, but today it has members in every part of the free world, including the Far East.

ROTC Units Attend Frosh Grid Game

The Army and Air Force ROTC will turn out en masse for the freshman football game Saturday. The students will be in uniform and the bands from both units will provide music for the half-time activities.

The Army Drill team, the Tyrian Rifles, and the two Air Force teams, the Angel Flight and the Sabre Flight, will perform during the half.

Tourney In Play

Students interested in the Tech Union snooker tournament, which is now in play, are reminded to check the brackets posted in the Union lobby and in the Rec. Hall for the time of their matches and the names of their opponents.

They Sweat Too

Both Candidates Are Human

One thing certain has come out of the recent "Great Debates" on TV between the presidential candidates, Dick Nixon and Jack Kennedy. The American voter got to see them at their best, at their worst, and possibly all of the variations in between.

Great men, like the gods, seem to have always been held by most of us as having that quality which is closely akin to walking on water. This is, of course, an illusion we get of those people who by circumstances of wealth, talent, super-intelligence, social prestige or just plain craftiness have had their names, figures and doings shown prominently from the length to the breadth of the land.

By their fame these great people become to us what we all secretly or sub-consciously dream about and aspire to. It is the illusion created by the movie star, the sports hero, the scientific or literary great, the success story. They become quite unreal and beyond us — even though we would cut our arms off before admitting it.

But Nixon sweats and has wrinkles — Kennedy twitches and squirms, and rolls his eyes. We know now because we saw it. Both of them give evasive answers to questions that catch them completely unawares. They make excuses, denials, accusations and counter-accusations.

What then has been the real value of these "Great Debates" Well, you could say that the average voter had a once-in-a-lifetime chance to see the fine differences in Republican and Democratic party ideology — those ideologies which he has heard so much about but doesn't in the least care about because both of them mean taxes, taxes and more taxes.

You might also say that the TV viewer heard the great issues and policies of the day argued and discussed by two men who should be authorities on these subjects.

But the real value of these "Great Debates" has been to show the American public what Dick and Jack and their campaign managers have been trying to tell us all along, that they are human beings just like you and me.

When stripped naked of their publicity — which is only publicity, their ideologies — which are the use of different tactics to reach the same ends, and their authoritativeness — which comes up lacking at embarrassing moments, they both have the same hopes, the same fears and sweat the same sweat as we do.

Maybe this TV expose has shown to us what makes the United States the greatest, most advanced, most powerful, most nearly perfect nation yet known to man — her magnificent mediocrity.

The Toreador Mail Call...

Editor,

Today, Thursday morning October 20, 1960, I trudged along Boston Avenue through the wet grass on my way to classes as I do every morning. Of course it was a bit chilly, but it was one of my better days to get to school as there were no sprinklers to walk through or water in the street to drench me as the beautiful new cars speed down Boston.

I finally arrived at my destination and in the safety of a nice warm building I find the latest edition of the "Toreador", and once again there is another article on the parking situation. My heart is certainly touched that these poor people with these beautiful new cars and $10.00 for parking privileges can't find a place to park them.

In the "Toreador" editorial I find that the State cannot contribute funds to parking facilities for the college. This suddenly brought to mind the question of whether there were any funds to build sidewalks. If there are, how about building some for us unfortunate ones who are relieving the parking situation by necessity.

Editor,

We feel it is time someone spoke out against the way tickets are sold to our football games.

On this campus the boys greatly outnumber the girls and so theoretically there are not enough dates to go around. This means a boy will have to date a girl out in town or maybe he has a girl friend in his hometown who comes up for the games. He has to pay $4.00 to get her into the game while the boys who have dates with our feminine students get their dates in with only an I.D. card. The I.D. card cost $10.00 and saying that the total cost of the I.D. went for football games the cost per game is only $1.67 per game. Yet the boy who has an off-campus date must pay $2.33 more per game and most students aren't filthy rich as most of the people who make a living off of us seem to think!!!

If a special rate for the whole year is out of the question why not a special rate at homecoming, or better still allow each student to bring one outside date to one of the football games during the year free of charge.

Yours Truly,

Student Council Beat

Tomorrow's All-College Convocation featuring Secretary of the Air Force Dudley C. Sharp offers Tech students a rare, timely and unique opportunity.

It is rare in the sense that the Secretary of the Air Force, in the mass of his duties, has little time to make appearances of this type. His address will center around air defense and foreign policy and nothing could be more timely with the world situation what it is today. It is unique in that it is sponsored by the Student Council for Tech students and faculty members only.

There has been a good deal of time and effort spent in arranging for such an event. Leaders in both major parties on the local, state and national level have been contacted again and again in early summer in an effort to acquire a speaker that Tech students would want to hear. During a national election it is most difficult to obtain the quality of speaker that has something more than just a political message to deliver. We have never had and do not now have any intentions of sponsoring a political rally for either party. There would be political implications to any address by anyone at this time but we wanted to present to you a man whom you would want to see whether or not this is an election year.

Dudley C. Sharp is such a man. He has served as Secretary of the Air Force since Dec. 11, 1959, when he was Under Secretary. He was in the U. S. Navy from 1942 until 1945, serving as executive officer and commanding officer on anti-submarine warfare vessels and later served in the Office of Procurement and Material with the Navy Department in Washington.

There are many more qualifications I could list but it isn't hard to determine that he is well-qualified to be where he is and well-qualified to come here and speak on air defense and foreign policy. These are probably two of the most controversial subjects of our times. No one knows enough about them and everyone needs to learn more. This is an opportunity for you to learn. I think it is part of our educational process. Therefore, I certainly want to encourage all interested students and faculty members to make every effort to attend. This is really just the beginning for such programs. If you want them there will be more. But you must indicate this interest by attendance. This is not a plea for attendance on my part. You are the person who stands to benefit the most. In this case "you" means the student body.

I couldn't complete this column today without saying something about Homecoming. It was without a doubt, the biggest and best Homecoming Texas Tech has ever had. It had a touch of genius to it. And certainly the high point was the 28-7 victory over SMU. And combine all this with the beautiful weather and you just couldn't ask for much more. Congratulations to Wayne James of the Ex-Students Association and Tony Gustwick, the General Chairman, and to all the others who made things go so well. It was really great!

Pedestrians in Danger!

Can Lubbock citizens and Texas Tech students read?

Two or three crosswalks have been painted across College Ave. for students so they can cross with a reasonable amount of safety. Friends, this just "ain't" true. Lubbock drivers, who are noted for their ability to create havoc in our fair city, simply don't pay any attention to these little protectors of the walking man or woman.

The signs are plainly marked "Stop for pedestrians in crosswalk." Yet, some motorists seem to speed up when they approach these signs. The poor pedestrians risk their lives when they step out into this "battle ground." When they reach the other side — if they do — they are usually so scared it takes the rest of the day to regain their composure.

Let's give the "walkers" a chance. Read and heed those signs, it surely would give a lot of people a chance to reach the other side of College Ave.

HYPNOSIS: Student Tries Luck

From dancing with a moose to hunting wild elephants in Africa, 'victims' of Bill Riddle, hypnotist, experiences a myriad of diversities.

Riddle, a sophomore journalism major from Lubbock, has been active in hypnosis about four years. He was instructed by two Lubbock area men before entering the service in 1957.

WHILE IN the service, Riddle began his stage career under the name Dr. RyDel at Ft. Holabird, Baltimore, Md. He entertained in service clubs, officers' clubs and stage shows while serving with the 4th US Army Missile Command in Korea.

He had a monthly program on AFKN-TV in Seoul, the armed forces Korean network. Riddle was not paid for these performances, presenting them as a hobby and for the enjoyment of servicemen.

In developing his style, Riddle "... followed the pattern of the great stage hypnotists and worked up my own routine—which is strictly entertainment." He does not attempt to cure illnesses or neuroses.

RIDDLE EMPHASIZES good concentration ability, a high I.Q. and a will to be hypnotized as desirable qualities for potential hypnosis candidates. Persons with extremely suggestible minds are also desirable.

"The more suggestible the mind, the deeper the trance. The spell will last longer under a deeper trance," says Riddle.

The routine usually begins with a short talk to the audience concerning hypnosis. He then calls for 10-15 volunteers and runs a series of tests on a mass scale to pick out the more suggestible prospects.

BY THIS process of elimination, the three or four most desirable persons are selected, placed in trances and seated. From this point on, the subjects are "under Riddle's power" and respond only to his suggestions. The audience, stage and all other subjects are invisible to him.

By the mystifying power of suggestion, these persons go through the hilarious subconscious antics administered by Riddle—stalking wild game in the jungle, racing dangerously around a speedway, (with a pie tin for a steering wheel), driving an automobile in heavy traffic, becoming intoxicated, etc.

ONE SUBJECT, after 'shooting' his 'elephant,' walked over to the 'body' and beamingly placed his hand on the animal's 'tusk,' proud of his accomplishment.

Riddle uses post-hypnotic suggestion in some of his routines. Perhaps the most effective of these is his 'electrical shock sequence'. The hypnotist plants the suggestion in the subject's mind, removes him from the trance and sends him back to his seat.

AT REGULAR intervals Riddle places his hand to his tie—or whatever the designated spot—and as he does, the unaware subject receives a shock potent enough to catapult him from his seat.

What was his most humorous routine? Probably the time he instructed a hypnotized subject to eat an apple. The 'victim' relished the 'apple' with great enjoyment—describing it as the most delicious one he had ever eaten.

It was not an apple—rather, a big white onion.

Debaters Pit Skill In Forensic Meet

College students from four states and approximately 25 from Tech will be participating in Tech's annual Fall Forensic Festival slated for Oct. 28-29.

Two rounds in the individual events, extemporaneous speaking, poetry reading and after dinner speaking have been scheduled, with three rounds of discussion, preceded by a round table and six rounds of debate for all teams.

Certificates of Awards will be made to all participants receiving superior and excellent rating in each division. The top three after dinner speakers will speak at the Friday evening dinner.

The debate topic this year is: Resolved: "That the United States Should Adopt a Program of Compulsory Health Insurance for All Citizens." The topic for group discussion is "What Should Be the Role of the Federal Government in the Regulation of Mass Media of Communication?"

Schools may enter as many debate teams as desired. Teams must debate both sides of the question with constructive speeches allotted to eight minutes and rebuttal speeches, four minutes.

Each school may enter as many students in discussion as desired. Contestants will be assigned to a group and will retain membership in that group for all three rounds of discussion.

Leaders will be appointed for the first round and will be elected by the group for each subsequent round.

Round one will be concerned with an analysis of the problem; round two will deal with factors contributing to the problem and round three will be concerned with the suggesting of possible solutions, the testing and establishing of a preferred solution. Each round will be 45 minutes in length.

In the three individual events, each school may enter two persons in each event. In the poetry reading division, the student will make his own selection and will be given a time limit of four to seven minutes. Topics for extemporaneous speakers will be drawn from international and national affairs of current interest. Each contestant will draw three topics, choosing one, and be given a preparation time of 15 minutes. The after dinner speeches may not exceed six minutes.

Schools entered to date in the festival are Texas Western, Frank Phillips of Borger, St. Mary's of

BSU Takes Lead

BSU took over the lead in independent league, touch football Monday with a 12-0 win over Church of Christ Bible Chair.

It was the Bible Chair's first loss in three outings, and BSU's number two win without a defeat.

Elsewhere in the independent league, the Azures slipped by the Hornets 6-0.

Three dorm games and five fraternity contests highlighted Sunday's play in intramural football.

Sneed Hall maintained a perfect record to hold onto first place in the dorm league by blanking Wells Hall 6-0. In two overtime contests, Gaston Hall edged Thompson Hall and Carpenter downed Gordon, each by the 1-0 overtime margin.

Phi Delta Theta rolled to its fourth victory of the season in the fraternity league without a loss by downing a strong Kappa Sigma team, 12-6. It was Kappa Sigma's first loss, dropping them to a three-way second place tie.

In other fraternity play, Pi Kappa Alpha trounced Phi Kappa Psi 20-0, Sigma Alpha Epsilon rode a field goal to victory over Phi Gamma Delta, 3-0, Sigma Chi trimmed Alpha Tau Omega 13-2 and Sigma Nu beat Delta Tau Delta 6-0.

Hawkeyes Maintain Top Spot Ranking

The unbeaten Iowa Hawkeyes tightened their grip on the No. 1 position in college football ranks Monday in the weekly voting of a 48-man panel of sports writers and sportscasters in the Associated Press poll.

Iowa, which just nosed out Mississippi for first place a week ago, won decisively in the latest balloting with 34 first place votes to nine for second-place Mississippi and five for third-place Syracuse.

THE POINT TOTAL, figured on the basis of 10 for a first place vote, nine for second and so on, gave Iowa 458, Mississippi 395 and Syracuse 355.

There was no change in the rankings of the first seven teams.

Sneed Is Champ

The big boys from Sneed Hall captured the dormitory championship in Tech's intramural tug-o-war Monday by downing a rugged Wells Hall aggregation in two straight matches.

The campus fraternities meet in their matches against each other today and Thursday, with the winner to meet Sneed next Monday.

Navy was still fourth with 290 points, followed by Missouri 283, Minnesota 267 and Baylor 191. Ohio State moved up a peg to eighth with 172 points and Washington dropped one place to ninth with 76. The only new face in the top ten was Michigan State with 41 points in 10th place. The Spartans replaced Purdue, beaten by Iowa.

BECAUSE voters are asked to select only the top 10, the rankings have been confined to that many teams. However, the list of all teams and the number of votes they received is included.

Iowa rolled up a 21-0 lead on Purdue but had to dig in to hold off the Boiler-makers. The final score was 21-14. Iowa's 84-yard scoring march after recovering a fumble proved decisive in its fifth straight victory. Next in line for Iowa is Kansas.

MISSISSIPPI took its sixth of the season by the narrowest of margins, 10-7, winning on Allen Green's disputed 39-yard field goal on the last play of the game with Arkansas. Jake Gibbs threw a touchdown pass and led Ole Miss to within field goal distance to remain unbeaten. Mississippi's opponent Saturday is Louisiana State. The last team that beat them in 1959.

Pros Won't Alter Rule

NEW YORK (AP)—The National Football League will not change its draft rules despite an increased trend toward accelerated three-year college educations, commissioner Pete Rozelle said Monday.

Many colleges and universities now offer a program of four quarters per school year, enabling a student to complete a four-year education in three. Occasionally athletes enter these accelerated programs but they're more likely to spread out their education over four years or even five in order to get maximum mileage out of intercollegiate competition.

"This accelerated educational program will not affect our rules, as they are presently written," Rozelle said. "The book definitely states that a player is not eligible to play unless his class has graduated if he decides not to finish school, or unless he has a diploma."

'Stan The Man' Captures AP Comeback Applause

NEW YORK (AP)—Stan The Man Musial, whose brilliant playing career appeared to be coming to an end four months ago, Monday was named the National League comeback player-of-the-year for 1960 in the annual Associated Press poll.

votes from among the 183 baseball writers participating in the balloting. Southpaw pitcher Curt Simmons, Musial's St. Louis teammate, was second with 44 followed by pitcher Bob Friend of Pittsburgh, 30, and outfielder Richie Ashburn of Chicago, 11.

For regaining his position as one of the circuit's most respected batters, Musial received 55

Reached at his St. Louis home where he was working in the yard, Musial said he was "kinda surprised" he won the award.

A FRAT TO REMEMBER

Every year, as we all know, the Benevolent and Protective Order of Collegiate Fraternities awards a highly coveted prize to the fraternity house which, in its judgment, has done the most to promote and enhance the fraternity way of life. The prize this year—eight hundred pounds of white putty—goes to the Signa Phi Nothing chapter of the South Dakota College of Dentistry and Renaissance Art.

The award this year is exceptionally richly deserved, for the Signa Phi Nothing house is the very model of all a fraternity should be. It is, first of all, a most attractive house physically. The outside walls are tastefully covered with sequins. Running along the upper story is a widow's walk, with a widow stationed every three feet. Moored to the chimney pot is the Graf Zeppelin.

Indoors, the house gives an impression of simple, casual charm. The chapter room is furnished in hony maple and chintz, with a dash of verve provided by a carp pool three hundred feet in diameter. A waterspout rises from the center of the pool with the housemother bouncing on the top.

Members' rooms are gracious and airy and are provided with beds which disappear into the wall—permanently. Each room also has a desk, a comfortable chair, a good reading lamp, and a catapult for skeetshooting. Kidney-shaped desks are available for kidney-shaped members.

Perhaps the most fetching feature of the house are the packs of Marlboros stacked in heaps wherever one goes. If one wishes to settle back and enjoy a full-flavored smoke, one needs only to reach out one's hand in any direction and pick a pack of Marlboros—soft pack or flip-top box—and make one's self comfortable with a filtered cigarette with an unfiltered taste—that triumph of the tobaccoist's art, that paragon of smokes, that acme of cigarettes, that employer of mine—Marlboro!

The decor, the grace, the Marlboros, all combine to make Signa Phi Nothing a real gas of a fraternity. But a fraternity is more than things; it is also people. And it is in the people department that Signa Phi Nothing really shines.

Signa Phi Nothing has among its members the biggest BMOCs on the entire campus of the South Dakota College of Dentistry and Renaissance Art. There is, for instance, William Makepeace Sifogoo, charcoal and bun chairman of the annual Stamp Club outing. Then there is Dun Rovin, winner of last year's All-South Dakota State Monopoly Championship, 135 Pound Class. Then there is Rock Schwartz, who can sleep standing up. Then there is Tremblant Placebo, who can crack pecans in his armpits. Then there is Ralph Tungsten, who went bald at eight.

But why go on? You can see what a splendid bunch of chaps there is in Signa Phi Nothing, and when one sees them at the house in the cool of the evening, all busy with their tasks—some picking locks, some playing Jacks-or-Better, some clipping Playboy—one's heart fills up and one's eyes grow misty, and one cannot but give three cheers and a tiger for Signa Phi Nothing, fraternity of the year!

Raiders Celebrate First SWC Victory

by BILLY PATTON
Toreador Sports Editor

There was only one group happier than Tech alumni after Saturday's game with SMU, and that was the Red Raiders themselves. "I'm thrilled to death," said halfback Dickie Polson in a dressing room filled with smiling faces and happy handshakes.

Most of the Raiders were complimenting each other profusely as they moved about the lockers, and most of them had a good word about the SMU team, too.

"They've got a good hall club," said quarterback Glen Amerson, "but something is missing. They've got good material."

FRED WEAVER added to Amerson's comment and then elaborated.

"They're going to get together some weekend and beat somebody," said Weaver. "That Jerry Mays is about the finest tackle in the conference. If I were picking an all-conference team, I'd pick him and (Larry) Mullins."

COOLIDGE HUNT, sophomore fullback who rolled up yard after yard in blasts at the Mustang line in one of his finest games so far, drew applause from all his team mates.

"I really like to run that ball," Hunt was saying, when E. J. Holub threw an arm about his shoulder. "Isn't he the greatest?" grinned Holub.

"WITH SOMEBODY like that blocking for you," Hunt laughed, jerking a thumb at the big center, "how can you lose?"

Tech's coaches were happy with the victory, and seemed especially pleased with the Raiders' showing in the second half.

"They looked pretty good," said J. T. King, assistant coach, while he was being bombarded with congratulations. "They looked a lot better the second half."

COACH AUBREY PHILLIPS echoed King's observation.

"They looked pretty good the second half. They really came alive."

Co-captain Don Waygood accepted an invitation to comment on the game and summed up his feelings with one word: "Yaay!"

More than once shouts of "Let's get the Owls!" echoed through the dressing room as the players existed to mingle with the elated homecoming crowd.

And the players filed out to a beautiful anthem played on Victory Bells, which had been silent for four long weeks.

Hunt Holds Leadership In Rushing

Coolidge Hunt, Texas Tech's bulldozing sophomore fullback, increased his lead in Southwest Conference rushing as Tech downed SMU 28-7 last Saturday.

Hunt piled up 122 yards against the Mustangs, giving him a total of 359 yards on 81 carries. The big day against Southern Methodist put Hunt far ahead of the Texas Aggies' Sam Byer, another sophomore fullback, who last week was breathing down Hunt's neck. Byer now has 247 yards to his credit.

Tech's opponent this weekend, Rice, saw two of its players drop from the leadership in individual categories when Billy Cox relinquished the passing lead to Ronnie Stanley of Baylor and Roland Jackson to Babe Craig of Texas A&M in punting.

The Owls, however, still hold the team lead in total offense, having measured off an average of 305.6 yards per game.

Baylor moved all three of its fabulous Ronnies up into contention this weekend, Stanley into the passing lead and Bull and Goodwin running close third and fourth to Hunt and Byer in rushing with 242 and 220 yards respectively.

Hunt's yardage came mostly on jaunts into the middle of a big SMU line that was taking a jolting from smaller Tech middlemen. Along with the yardage, the tall sophomore racked up two of the Raiders' four touchdowns.

Tech coaches may be breathing a sigh of relief that Hunt is playing with the Raiders. For some time after Hunt's graduation from high school, it was a tossup whether he would go to Tech or to Oklahoma, but the powerful youngster decided to "stay here and play before the homefolks."
