

Deadline Nears For Tickets To Austin

THE RACE BEGINS — Barbara Vest, one of the many candidates running for office, starts her campaign by getting up on her soapbox and telling Charlie Crocker and George Matson to vote in the Oct. 4 election.

"The deadline for buying and redeeming receipts for the all-school trip to Austin is 7 p.m. Thursday in the Student Council office," Wayne Underwood, Student Assn. vice president, announced.

"I will be in the office from 1 - 5 p.m. Tuesday, and from 1 - 7 p.m. Wednesday and Thursday to sell and redeem receipts," Underwood said. He added that receipts may also be purchased today through Thursday at the Saddle Tramps' booth in the foyer of the Tech Union.

Buses will be in front of the Union Saturday at 6:30 a.m. "We have ten buses filled now and can add as many more as needed," he said.

Friday night the Red Raiders will work out in game uniforms at Jones Stadium. A pep rally is planned at the stadium at that time.

The caravan of chartered buses is scheduled to reach Austin about 4:30 p.m. Saturday. A downtown pep rally is planned in front of the Stephen F. Austin Hotel.

After the rally, the Austin and Houston chapters of Tech's Ex-Students Assn. will host a reception in the East room of the hotel. Students will have the remainder of the afternoon free with the buses at their disposal for travel within the city.

At 7:30 p.m. the buses will leave the hotel for the game.

A dance is planned after the game in the Texas University Student Union. Hosting the visiting Techsians will be the Texas University student body, Student Union and "The Daily Texan."

Tickets are $14 and include the bus fare and a game ticket. Meal tickets for the lunch stop in Brownwood will also be sold at the Council office.

Vice President Announces Cancellation of Convocation

The student convocation scheduled for 10 and 11 a.m. Wednesday has been cancelled, according to W. M. Pearce, academic vice president.

Classes will be conducted during this time.

President R. C. Goodwin's message to the student body, to have been delivered at this time, has been postponed due to the president's absence from the campus.

In U.N. Speech

Kennedy Presents Disarmament Plan

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United States gave the United Nations a broad new disarmament plan Monday with a new idea — that the atomic powers agree at the outset not to shift control of any atomic weapons to any other countries.

President Kennedy outlined the plan to the General Assembly in a wide-ranging 38-minute speech. The U.S. delegation handed the details to the U.N. secretariat to be passed around to the 99 countries in the assembly and to the Disarmament Commission.

In most of his speech Kennedy refrained from attacking the Communists directly, though there was no doubt what he was talking about when he referred, for example, to South Viet Nam's being under attack by guerrillas without saying specifically he meant Communist guerrillas.

But in talking about colonialism, always a popular issue with the new Asian and African nations, Kennedy spotlighted his target exactly as the "Communist empire." He said the Western powers have freed or are freeing their colonial territories and the United States as a former colony supports self-determination.

"... There is no ignoring the fact," he said, "the tide of self-determination has not yet reached the Communist empire where a population far larger than that officially termed 'dependent' lives under governments installed by foreign troops."

He drew applause when he added: "Let us debate colonialism in full and apply the principle of free choice and the practice of free plebiscites in every part of the globe."

Kennedy also pulled his punches less when he dealt with the issue of Russia's demand to replace Hammarskjold with a three-man board, on which each of the members, including the Soviet, would have a veto.

"However difficult it will be to fill Mr. Hammarskjold's place," Kennedy said, "it can better be filled by one man than by three."

When he came to discuss the subject of Berlin, Kennedy rejected sharply Soviet claims, sometimes voiced by Khrushchev as well as others, that the United States is threatening a war to stop Khrushchev from signing a peace treaty with Communist East Germany.

He said the Western Allies "are not concerned with any paper arrangement" and that no such arrangements can affect their rights or responsibilities in Berlin.

The dangerous crisis arises, Kennedy said, because of threats against the vital interests of the West and the freedom of the West Berliners. Furthermore, said Kennedy, the essential fact about the crisis is that it is unnecessary—it can be settled by negotiations if negotiations are "rooted in mutual respect and concern for the right of others."

LBJ Comes To Tech For '61 Homecoming

Lyndon B. Johnson, Vice President of the United States, will be the highlight of Tech's Homecoming activities Nov. 3 and 4.

Johnson is to crown the Homecoming Queen and will speak at the first annual Century Club dinner Nov. 3. He will also ride in the parade and escort the queen to the football game Saturday if his schedule will permit.

The Vice President will be on campus as a result of the efforts of the Ex-Students' Assn. According to Wayne James, executive secretary of the association, Johnson is making a "special trip" to Lubbock for this event.

Johnson will be available for an open news conference Friday if his travel plans allow time.

Dr. William M. Pearce, academic vice president of Texas Tech, said in behalf of college officials: "We feel extremely happy and fortunate to have the Vice President of the United States, a native of Texas, on our campus."

"We are grateful for the efforts of those persons responsible for bringing Vice President Johnson to us at this Homecoming occasion. Certainly a visit by such a person as Mr. Johnson does us honor."

This trip to Tech is the Vice President's first in several years since he left the state government and began work on the national level.

Coliseum Parking Draws Ruling

Bill Daniel, chief of the Tech security patrol, notified the Toreador Monday that parking would no longer be allowed on the Auditorium-Coliseum lot.

"This rule becomes effective immediately," Daniel said, "we are going to start giving tickets Thursday morning."

Daniel pointed out that the rule was part of the operating agreement between the City of Lubbock and the College. The rule states:

"The parking area shall not be used for off-street parking by either the College, the City or the general public at any time."

Library Distributes ID Cards; Student Must Have Fee Slip

ID cards may be picked up today and Wednesday from 8:30 a. m. until 7 p.m., on the main floor of the Library Bldg. After Tuesday cards may be picked up at Herald Photo, 1405 College Ave.

In order to receive their cards, students must have their fee slip. Cards will not be distributed unless the student has paid his fees or made other arrangements. Students must pick up their own ID cards.

Entrance to the various Tech athletic events depends on the possession of an ID card. The cards are non-transferrable and the use of another student's card is prohibited.

Chairman Calls Parade Meeting

All organizations participating in the homecoming parade will meet at 5 p.m. today in the Tech Union recreation hall, according to John Ward, parade chairman. Ward emphasized the importance of the meeting because "the new rules and regulations will be discussed along with the parade theme."

Poll Gives Students' Opinions On Use Of Nuclear Weapons

By BRONSON HAVARD
Toreador Staff Writer

Faced with the question, "Should the United States use nuclear weapons in case of war?", Techsians were sharply divided on what should be the answer, as evidenced by the results of a poll of student opinion.

The poll, taken in the wake of a report that the Kennedy Administration has reached a decision to use nuclear weapons should the United States be forced into a war, found most students seriously concerned over the nuclear weapons dilemma.

Appearing on the Sunday evening NBC television show, "Meet The Press", Robert Kennedy, attorney general and brother of the President, answered a definite "yes" when reporters asked if he thought the United States should use nuclear weapons in case of war.

In elaborating on his opinion,

Kennedy revealed that the administration has considered the question and reached general agreement that the U.S. would use such arms.

The poll, not taken as a reaction to the Kennedy statement, would seem to indicate basic opinions. The following are answers, pro and con, received from students around the campus:

"No, I don't think the United States should use nuclear weapons because of what we now know about the weather conditions. Total annihilation would result," Jerry Breed, a freshman from Van Horn commented.

C. D. Hunter, a senior from San Angelo, answered, "well, the United States has always been on the defense. If Russia uses nuclear weapons, we should follow up on the defensive and use them. If the U.S.S.R. ever does use nuclear weapons, we would have to out of necessity rather than choice."

"No, I don't think so because it would endanger the world — it would mean the end of the world, more or less," Sherry Burgamy, a freshman coed from Lubbock, responded.

Sally Tatum, sophomore from San Antonio, explained her "no" answer by saying, "I think it is just like it was in World War I. It's something that both have, but neither will use because of the disaster it will cause."

"Yeah, if there is going to be a war with Russia, they should use them," was the sharp comment of Bill Payne, a Carpenter Hall freshman from Wichita Falls.

A freshman coed from New Deal, Darline McDougal, said, "I don't think so unless there was a full scale war involving major powers."

"Yes, in case of war. We better use them before they hit us," Charles Burris, a freshman from Lake Jackson, answered after several minutes of deep thought.

Luncheon Features Panel Discussion

Town Girls Club will have its weekly luncheon at noon, Wednesday in the Tech Union.

Ruth Cowart, government instructor; Mrs. Freda McVay, president of Theta Sigma Phi, women's honorary journalism fraternity; and Peggy Maloy, Student Assn. secretary will present a panel discussion.

Girls who live off campus or at home are eligible for membership. Those planning to attend the meeting should sign the list in the Tech Union by 10 a.m. Wednesday.

For Austin Trip

Pack Plenty Of Aspirins, Bells, Spirit And Money

By SANDRA JORDAN
Toreador Staff Writer

When Tech students pack their bags to journey to Austin this weekend, there are a number of things that every student should include. Calling upon the experience of past school trips, the following list of essential articles has been suggested:

1. Pack one suitcase of cow bells, air horns, bass drums and anything that is capable of producing noise. This will also include one pair of strong lungs and some cough syrup for the severe case of laryngitis that is sure to follow.

2. Students who do not enjoy the harmonizing of their fellow students on the busses should include one pair of earmuffs. If you plan to sleep or study, suggestions are that you forget the whole idea.

3. Hiking shoes will come in very handy, for Texas, like Tech, has a parking problem. Come prepared to face at least a five-mile hike to the stadium.

4. And for the victims of the "morning after the night before," bring one large bottle of aspirins and an ice pack for the splitting head.

5. Since the weather is so unpredictable, include one parka, one umbrella, as well as a pair of shades and suntan lotion.

6. Leave behind all pessimists and their crying towels. Instead include one first aid kit, for Texas fans have been known to get violent when beaten.

7. For those who have nerves, bring tranquilizers.

8. However, the most important thing to be sure to pack is a big package of school spirit to boost the Red Raiders on to victory. You might include a rabbit's foot for luck, too.

If you find yourself over-loaded with all the above items, leave them behind at your own discretion. However, do not leave one thing behind—money.

THOUGHT FOR TODAY—It is better to be safe than sorry.
A.P.

Straight Matter

by Nolan Porterfield

Earl Wilson gets credit for this one. "Old deans never die; they just lose their faculties."

Predicted troubles in the U.N. as a result of Dag Hammarskjold's death are quickly materializing. The effectiveness of the "East River Debating Society" has been questionable for some time, and it now seems that free world diplomats are in for some fancy footwork if the world organization is to remain a bulwark of peace.

For the U.S., Hammarskjold's death could hardly come at a more inopportune time. Russia, already on the cold war offensive, wasted no time in renewing her demand for a "troika," a three-man secretariat to be composed of one Westerner, one Communist and one who, hopefully, would be neutral. With trouble brewing in so many places—Berlin, the Congo, Laos, South Viet Nam—the U.S. can hardly afford a prolonged squabble over U.N. leadership, if that organization is to be of any help in solving current problems.

Six months ago, with Hammarskjold in firm command and backed by the free world, the idea of a "troika" was unthinkable. That picture has changed considerably now. There is a distinct possibility that we may have to accept the three-man directorate, which Western statesmen have branded "completely unworkable." It will certainly extend to the secretariat a Russian veto power that has consistently caused trouble in the Security Council. An alternative would be to refuse any sort of compromise on the issue, demand and get a pro-Westerner elected as Secretary General and tell the Russians to like it or lump it. This may appeal to some, and it would certainly leave the U.S. in control. It might also destroy whatever effectiveness the U.N. now has in dealing with world tensions. Russia would certainly exercise her veto in the Security Council to block any progress, and more than likely she would pull out completely and leave the U.S. the master of an empty house.

The Union-hour Socrates reports this sign in an establishment on the Tahoka highway: "Do your drinking early . . . avoid the Christmas rush."

Americans worried over world tensions and plagued by the thought of instantaneous disintegration were no doubt further shaken last week by this bit of news from the sports field: Roger Maris, the New York Yankee slugger, failed to equal or better Babe Ruth's 34-year-old record of 60 home runs in one season. It's tough to come so close, only to fold in the finish. However, Maris' attitude gets him little sympathy for me.

Seems Maris (and apparently a number of others) feels that he should get credit against Ruth's record for the entire number of homers he belts in the new long season of 162 games. Commissioner Ford Frick ruled he had to do it in 154 games—that's the number Ruth had at his disposal in 1927. I can't see any logic at all in allowing Maris the longer season . . . there are probably several guys who could bang out 60 homers in a 200- or 300-game season. Maybe Maris would like for the Yankees to build him an indoor stadium so he could belt 'em into the bleachers all year. He could beat several records that way.

Those new marked-off parking lots have done wonders for my ulcer—I still can't find a parking place, but I don't spend so much time cursing those jet jockeys who could park sideways across six lots. (Note to the Traffic Control: some of 'em still do!)

No School Spirit

Are We Guilty?

Are we a "fair weather" student body?

It's always "rah rah" when the team scores a win. School spirit soars and everyone is quick to pat the team members on the back and say, "you're the best there is."

The shoe quickly moves to the other foot when they lose. It's hard to find anyone who even claims them—much less supports them.

This rather "fair weather attitude" can be expected among the good citizens of Lubbock. They've proved it time and time again throughout the years. But . . .

When an athletic team contributes as much to the social and extra-curricular life of an institution as do the Red Raiders to Tech, then it's hard to understand how students can be completely void of school spirit.

When the Red Raiders arrived at the airport Sunday after losing a hard-fought contest to Mississippi State eleven, they were greeted by a loud burst of silence.

Sure, they were some people on hand—mostly close friends and relatives. We're sure they were uplifted by this little expression of esteem from Techsians.

We've been griping for years about needing a new coach. Well, we've got one, backed up by a good staff. Most important, we have a team that fights.

When you're riding the crest of a winning streak, you don't need too much help. Help comes easily. It's when you're down that you need all the support you can muster.

The Mail Call . . .

Editor of the Toreador,

Being a transfer student, I have only been on the Tech campus for two weeks. During these two weeks I have come to know and love Tech as though it was my alma mater from the start of my college career.

I transferred from a small East Texas junior college as did nine of my friends. They all share with me the admiration and loyalty for Tech.

Tech has always had the reputation for being a friendly place in which everyone gets along pretty well with each other. I have discovered this to be true for the most part, however there is one phase of friendliness the majority of the student body has forgotten, or perhaps misplaced . . . the transfer student.

The upperclassmen have their groups of friends because they have gone to school with them for at least one year. The freshmen have met hard and fast friends through the wearing of the "slime caps" and related activities, but what happens to the transfers? It is not easy at all for them to meet and associate with people.

To many of you this is not a serious problem because it concerns only a small minority of students, but to that small minority, it means a great deal.

If you have reason to be associated with a transfer student, make an effort to be extra friendly. It will be appreciated in more ways than one.

Fire Startles Doak Coeds

Doak Hall coeds returning from their 8 o'clock classes Monday morning were startled to find a fire truck parked in the Doak Hall parking lot.

According to Mrs. Caroline Bosworth, counselor of the dorm, someone dropped a lighted cigarette into the trash chute, causing the stopped-up garbage to catch fire. Although a fire truck did come, the automatic water sprinklers in the dorm had the fire extinguished before the truck arrived.

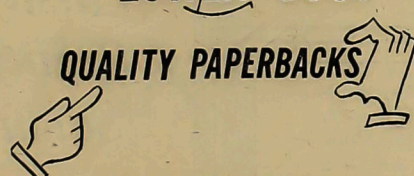

Mrs. Bosworth said that the coed dropping the cigarette evidently thought that Doak trash chutes were incinerators also, as they are in the other women's dorms. Garbage dropped into the chutes at Doak does not burn, but goes down the chute to a closet in the basement.

There were no damages reported.

Redlegs Seek Clincher

CINCINNATI (AP)—If the Cincinnati Reds win the National League championship on their own, they'll have to do it against the two clubs that have caused them the most trouble this season.

The Reds, who have the "magic number" of two-Cincinnati victories and-or Los Angeles defeats to clinch the pennant, will meet the Chicago Cubs at Chicago Tuesday and then will close out the season with three games at Pittsburgh Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Meanwhile the Dodgers have six games remaining with Pittsburgh Philadelphia and Chicago.

The Cubs, although buried deep in seventh place, hold a 12-9 margin over Cincinnati for the season.

The Reds finally squeezed ahead of Pittsburgh on the season series last week when they swept a pair of games with the dethroned champs, but the margin is only 10-9.

Resting Monday, Manager Fred Hutchinson said he will pitch Bob Purkey against the Cubs.

"I'll pitch Jim O'Toole, Joey Jay and Purkey in Pittsburgh," he added.

Local Ticket Purchases Urged

Students who wish to make the trip to Austin to see Texas Tech play Texas University should arrange to purchase their tickets before they leave, the athletic business office said Monday.

Student tickets will be available in the main foyer of the Stephen F. Austin Hotel in Austin from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday, but confusion will be avoided by buying them in Lubbock.

Student tickets are priced $1, but will not be available at Memorial Stadium, site of the game, Saturday. In order to get in on a student ticket, I.D. cards must be shown.

Tech Texas

SCARLET Scatterings...

By CHARLES RICHARDS
Toreador Sports Editor

Texas Tech's lack of weight and experience became evident at various times during the 6-0 loss to Mississippi State Saturday. The Bulldog edge in this department was narrowed by exceptional play on the part of the out-manned Raiders, but this advantage was definitely a factor in the game.

For over half the game, sophomore guard Bev Herndon, only 164 lbs, was playing opposite 232 lb. Bulldog tackle, Bobby Garvin, and junior end Larry Jones, at 165 lbs., was facing a 204 lb. opponent.

The Red Raiders had eight ends at the start of the season, but weaknesses in other key positions has resulted in "robbing" players from end to keep the overall team strength up.

Both David Parks and Larry Jones were injured in the Mississippi State game, and as a result several boys from the third string had to be sent in for action.

"If we can make normal improvement with this football team, the student body can expect Texas Tech to be among the top contenders for the Southwest Conference title within the next few years."

Those were the words of J T King Monday as he talked about his first football squad at Tech.

He pointed out the fact that Rice, Arkansas and Baylor all are senior ball clubs this year, with Texas Christian and Texas composed mostly of senior players.

"It's pretty evident that it's primarily a four-team affair this season," King said. "I think next year we'll all be in one big race together."

Deficiencies in the line will be removed considerably with next year's team. Tech grabbed more top linemen in the recruiting race this spring than any other conference team. The Red Raiders will lose only three backs through graduation this year, and several strong backs will move up from the freshman team.

Texas A&M's upset 7-7 tie with nationally-ranked Houston Saturday could likely inspire Jim Earle, A&M cartoonist, to greater heights.

Earle, a member of the A&M faculty, draws what is known as "Cadet Slouch" in The Battalion, Aggie student newspaper. Last season his best-known drawing came following the Aggies' 14-14 deadlocks with both Texas Tech and TCU.

"Tie the hell out of Baylor," read the cartoon.

The difficulty with which the Red Raiders face the remainder of their schedule is shown by last week's scores.

The Texas Longhorns, Tech's next opponent, swamped California 28-3; Texas A&M, the Raiders' first foe in Lubbock, Oct 7, managed to tie nationally-ranked Houston 7-7; Texas Christian stunned Kansas, also nationally-rated, 17-16; Baylor won handily over Wake Forest, 31-0; Rice walked over mighty LSU, 16-3; Boston College defeated Cincinnati 23-0; and West Texas State mauled Brigham Young, 55-8.

Only Arkansas and Southern Methodist failed to win. The Razorbacks were set back, 16-0, by Ole Miss, and SMU fell to Maryland, 14-6.

A video-tape telecast of the Texas Tech-Mississippi State game will be shown over a local television station tonight.

The telecast will start at 10:30 p.m. over KDUB-TV, channel 13, and will continue until its conclusion.

King Lauds Raiders' Play

By CHARLES RICHARDS
Toreador Sports Editor

Texas Tech Coach J T King may have had his debut spoiled in the 6-0 loss of the Red Raiders to Mississippi State University Saturday night, but his comments Monday indicated he was far from displeased with his team's first showing.

King was especially pleased with the hustle and desire shown by Texas Tech against the Bulldogs.

"We got more effort out of this team than any I've ever coached," the Tech coach said. "We didn't get 100%; we got 120% from them the whole game."

"When it's all boiled down, you'd have to say they were the better team," the Red Raider head coach said. "But the game was so viciously played that we could have won it."

The rugged play of Tech in the game led several sportscasters at the game to say that the Arkansas-Mississippi game earlier Saturday in Jackson might have ended differently had Arkansas played with the spirit of the Red Raiders.

"Personnel-wise, we had four boys that did terrific jobs for us," King continued. "Pat Holmes, Larry Mullins, Coolidge Hunt and George Fraser all did well—especially on defense."

The Red Raiders gained the respect of many of the fans at the game with two tremendous goal line stands.

The first came after a Bulldog pass put the ball on the Texas Tech 3-yard line and a first-and-goal situation. The outweighed Raiders batted down a pass and then held for three plunges at the line to take over on downs.

The second came late in the third quarter when Mississippi State once again penetrated Texas Tech territory for a first down inside the 10-yard line.

Three tries for the score failed before State's Charlie Furlow crossed the goal stripe on the final down.

Hunt met Furlow at the goal line and drove him back, and it was questionable for a while whether he scored or not.

The Raiders shifted their minds to Southwest Conference play Monday as they hit the field to prepare for the game with the Texas Longhorns Saturday in Austin.

"Our men were real disappointed that they didn't win in Mississippi, but they all felt they'd played a good game, and I feel sure we'll have the same kind of all-out effort against Texas," King said regarding the team's effects from the defeat.

"With the kind of play they did Saturday, I'd say we'd make a good showing against anyone we play," King emphasized.

Workouts were in sweat suits Monday, but the team will work out in pads again today, Wednesday and Thursday. Another light workout will be held Friday.

"Unless something happens in the next few days, we'll be in the best physical condition we've ever been in for the Texas game," King said.

King indicated that the Raiders would open the game up much more against Texas.

"We'll be trying to perfect an offense that best suits the Texas defense. I think passing probably will be our biggest weapon, because we're not big enough to run over anybody. We didn't have the field position to pass against Mississippi State."

King will rely on probably the same players for a starting lineup that started for the first game.

Larry Mullins and Charles Harrison, captains for the Red Raiders in the Mississippi State game, have been chosen to direct the team against Texas also.

Alternate captains for the Longhorn contest are George Fraser and Richard Stafford. Fraser was an alternate captain Saturday, but the honor is Stafford's first. Larry Jones was an alternate captain last week.
