

Dads, Raiders Plan Big 'Day'

'Displays' Kick Off Welcome

Saddle Tramps will fire a volley of fireworks including a sign saying "Welcome Dad" during pre-game activities of the Tech-SMU game.

The youngest dad, the oldest dad and the dad traveling the greatest distance will be presented awards to highlight Dad's Day activities. New members of the Hall of Honor will also be presented.

The Tech band will entertain during the halftime show.

Card Routines

During tonight's game spectators on the west side opposite section 120 will see five card routines. Flash cards will be provided for each person sitting in this section. The card section will be directed by Saddle Tramp members.

Mothers will not be left out of this weekend's activities. A tour of the campus will follow the Dad's Assn. business meeting with tours leaving the Tech Union every 15 minutes.

A family barbecue begins at 5:30 p.m. in the Lubbock Municipal Coliseum.

Dads' Day Speaker

Texas Tech Dad's Day Luncheon will be 11-11:30 today.

Dr. D. M. Wiggins, Tech President, 1948-52, will speak. He is now chairman of the Citizen's National Bank, and is on the Council on Higher Education for Governor Connally.

Paul Gustwick, association president 1961-62, will conduct Hall of Honor recognitions. O'Brien Thompson, 1958-59 association president, will recognize scholarship holders for 1964-65.

Howard Shipley, chairman of the committee on nominations, will recognize approximately 45 Dad's Assn. trustees.

Bill Collins, association president this year, will introduce the president for 1964-65. Dr. W. H. Gordon, will present Collins with a certificate of appreciation. Dr. Gordon was the group's first president in 1957-58.

Rigdon Edwards, president in 1962-63, will give the invocation. Benediction will be by Fred Hill, immediate past president.

Raiders Take On Mustangs

By CAROL LEE PAGE
Copy Editor

A bright harvest moon will be shining down on an estimated 36 to 38 thousand gridiron fans as the Red Raiders take on the SMU Ponies at 7:30 p.m. in Jones Stadium.

On his home field for the first time in three weeks, Red Raider Doug "Dink" Wilson and his black gelding Charcoal Cody, will lead the dauntless Red Raiders onto the field.

On hand to watch the home 11 take on the Ponies will be Tech Dads from all over the country, and 200-300 SMU boosters. SMU numbers are rather slim due to the cancellation of the Ponies' school trip to Raiderland.

Welcome Dads

Highlighting the pre-game activities will be a "Welcome Dads" display by the Saddle Tramps. Various awards will be presented to dads, and new Hall of Honor members will be introduced.

That "Goin' Band from Raiderland," under the direction of Dean Killion, will present a "Little Southern Songs" program including such songs as "Swanee," "Alabama Jubilee," and "Alabama Bound."

Other tunes included in the program will be "Dixie," "Deep in the Heart of Texas," and "Mississippi Mud."

Preceding the Raider band, the well-known SMU swing band will present their half-time show.

ROTC Howitzer

A booming blast from the Army ROTC howitzer, manned by members of the Tyrian Rifles Drill Team, will punctuate the beginning of the national anthem and "split ears" following each Tech score.

At their usual post of spirit-sparking will be Tech's own special six-member pep-squad, led by head cheerleader Cril Payne. Backing him up with rousing cheers will be the rest of the yell-leading group, Betty Newby, Camella Moore, Kathy Osthoff, Mike Bohn and Ronnie Siler.

Throwing their support behind the cheerleaders will be a body of red-shirted Saddle Tramps, the official spirit boosters of Raiderland.

Dads' Biggest Highlight

But perhaps the biggest highlight of all will be the presence of Tech Dads. James G. Allen, dean of student life, reported this was the biggest and best response to the annual activities ever.

An "After-the-Game-Dance" is set for 10 p.m. in the Coronado Room of Tech Union. "The Velvettes" will play for Tech students and dates. Admission is on ID per couple. SMU student ID cards will be accepted.

DAD'S DAY PAGES — Sondra Stergel, Cathy Murray and Suzy Ferrell escort Russell Bean around the campus as part of their duties as Dad's Day Pages. The coeds wearing red and black costumes will escort the award-winning Dads onto the field in pre-game activities tonight.

-Challenges Educators-

SMU President Addresses Tech Directors At Dinner

By CECIL GREEN
Managing Editor

Dr. Willis Tate, president of Southern Methodist University, addressed the Tech Board of Directors and more than 450 of their guests Friday night, challenging them to "... make the most of their opportunity to further education in Texas."

The occasion for Dr. Tate's address was the annual Board of Directors' Dinner in the Tech Union Ballroom. The dinner precedes one of the board's meetings each year.

Present at the dinner were Lt. Gov. Preston Smith; three past presidents of Texas Tech (Dr. C. B. Jones, Dr. E. N. Jones and Dr. D. M. Wiggins); past members of the board; five state representatives; Lubbock city and county officials; and members of the Tech faculty and administration.

First Meeting

The Tech board will have its first meeting of this school year at 9:30 a.m. today in the office of Dr. R. C. Goodwin, college president.

Action at the meet is expected to be routine, with only necessary business matters filling the agenda.

Members will consider a request from the Music Dept. concerning the changing of several degrees and the addition of a Master of Music degree.

Two Departments

Also, the board will hear a request for the separation of the Education and Philosophy Dept. into two separate departments, an Education Dept. and a Philosophy Dept.

The Biology Dept. will present requests for the addition of a major in microbiology to the master's degree and for the addition of a Ph.D degree in biology, botany, microbiology and zoology.

The board will also hear a report from the Campus and Building Committee on various projects concerning new classroom and office buildings.

Subcommittee Report

A report of the subcommittee preparing current board policies will be presented, as will a report from Dr. Goodwin on the Oct. 12 meeting of the Texas Commission on Higher Education.

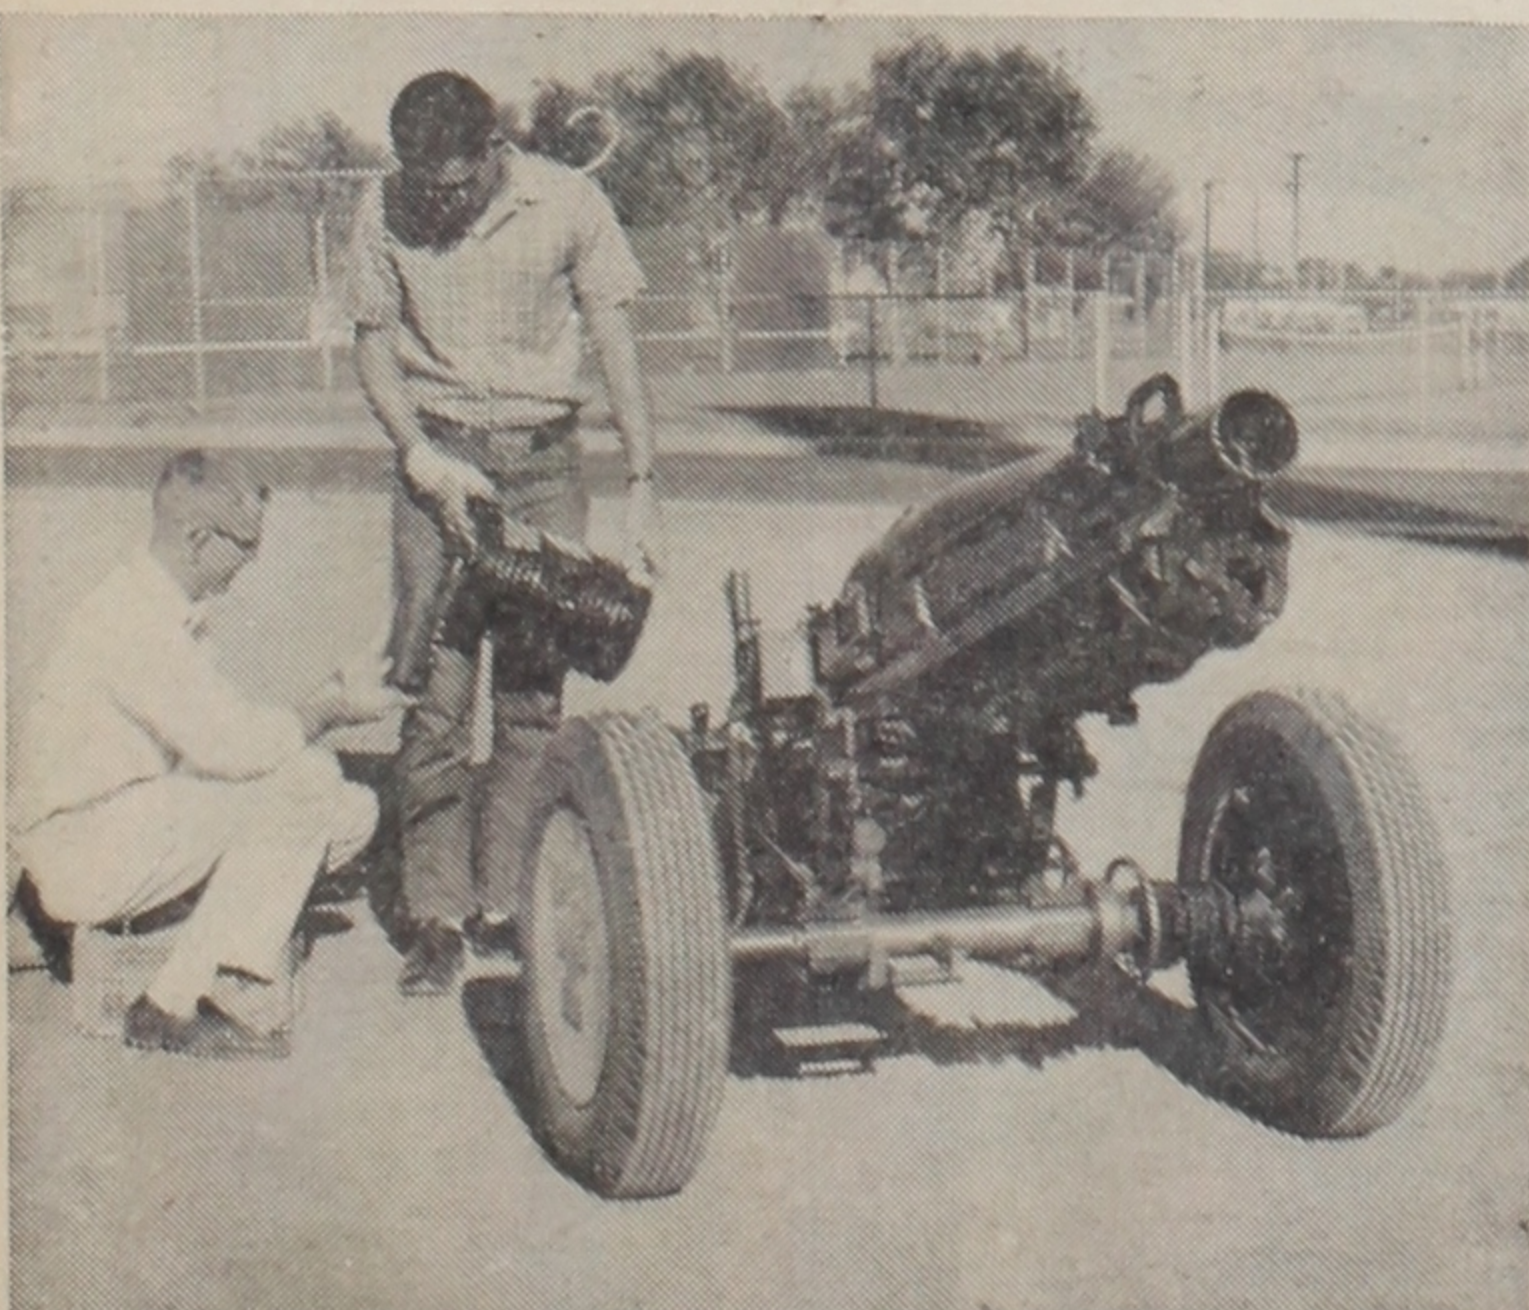

At Friday night's dinner, Dr. Tate reminded the administrators and instructors present that "today's cold war is being fought in the classrooms and laboratories of our colleges and universities."

Dr. Tate has also been on one of Gov. John Connally's special commissions to investigate the status of higher education beyond the high school level.

Explained Changes

In his speech, Dr. Tate explained the change that has taken place in higher education and the different ways it has been accepted.

"It used to be that students were not supposed to be bright and studious, just gay and fun-loving," he said, "but now, the student plays a big role in the future of our country."

DYNAMITE AND GUNPOWDER—That's the combination the Tyrian Rifles will use in the Army ROTC howitzer tonight to mark every Tech score against the SMU Ponies. Other noises at the game will be provided by thousands of fans, including Tech Dads. Members of the Tyrians loading shells for the big game are Jerry Bell, team squad leader, and Weldon Scarbrough, team commander.

Tramps Beautify Cars For Game

Saddle Tramps, Tech spirit organization, will decorate any and all cars in black and red crepe paper free for the Tech-SMU game. Students interested should bring their cars to Memorial Circle between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. today.

Vietnamese Rebels Freed By Tribunal

SAIGON (AP) — Twenty Vietnamese accused of treason as leaders of the abortive uprising Sept. 13 were freed by a military tribunal Friday in a verdict that could benefit Maj. Gen. Nguyen Khanh politically.

Spectators applauded and the defendants — 13 military officers and seven civilians — left the court smiling.

The chief judge, Maj. Gen. Nguyen Ngoc Le, announced the acquittal after a three-hour conference of attorneys and court officials in chambers. He said insufficient evidence to support the charges had been presented during the trial, which opened Oct. 15.

The decision seemed linked with Khanh's drive to line up wide support for his bid to keep control of the armed forces in the new civilian government supposed to take over from his caretaker regime next week.

The military is assured a continued strong voice through a new agency, the National Security Council.

The revolt collapsed for lack of support from the air force and other armed forces units.

Suddenly I Lost My Memory!

A noted publisher in Chicago reports there is a simple technique for acquiring a powerful memory which can pay you real dividends in both business and social advancement and works like magic to give you added poise, necessary self-confidence and greater popularity.

According to this publisher, many people do not realize how much they could influence others simply by remembering accurately everything they see, hear, or read. Whether in business, at social functions or even in casual conversations with new acquaintances, there are ways in which you can dominate each situation by your ability to remember.

To acquaint the readers of this paper with the easy-to-follow rules for developing skill in remembering anything you choose to remember, the publishers have printed full details of their self-training method in a new book, "Adventures in Memory," which will be mailed free to anyone who requests it. He graduated from college in four years. He earned a B+ average, an office on the student legislative body and belonged to a fraternity.

He finished graduate school in a year and a half — making almost all A's. He received several scholarships and fellowships while in school.

He went on to earn his Ph.D. in less time than it usually takes. Now he teaches sociology at Texas Tech.

But that is not the whole story. This man has been blind since he was a small child.

What is even more remarkable than his earning a doctor's degree without eyesight is Dr. Thomas E. Smith himself — his warmth, his humor, his outlook on life.

Although blinded by a childhood disease at 16 months of age, Dr. Smith has lived much the same way and done most of the things sighted people do.

"Some people think it impossible to live without being able to see," said Dr. Smith. "They don't realize the other senses fill in."

"Most of my knowledge of the world around me comes from hearing," he said. "And the sense of touch tells me where I am. I use my cane anywhere outside the house."

In his classes, Dr. Smith uses braille cards to call the roll. When giving quizzes he has an assistant present "so no one will be tempted." The assistant also does the grading.

Dr. Smith, a native of Mobile, Ala., attended the University of Alabama, Hunter College in New York and the University of Minnesota.

REIGNING QUEEN — Carole Brashear, Horticulture Club Queen, will reign over the annual Horticulture Club's festival today which caps the Lubbock Chrysanthemum Colorama. The exhibits will be on display in the Plant Building and will be open to the public.

'Green Thumbers' Sprout Here Today

Today is "green thumb" day on the Tech campus.

Area amateur gardeners will be submitting flower entries between 8 and 11 a.m. in the Tech Horticultural Club's annual festival.

Exhibits will be in the Plant Science Bldg. The festival caps the Lubbock Chrysanthemum Colorama.

Carole Brashear, Horticulture Club queen, will reign over the weekend activities and present awards to winners at the conclusion of judging today.

A panel of nine nationally accredited flower show judges from Lubbock will begin the judging at 12:30 p.m. During the judging period, the exhibit room in the Plant Science Bldg. will be closed to all persons except judges, assistants, chairmen and press personnel.

First, second, third place and honorable mention winners will receive ribbons. Trophies will be presented for the best of class, best of three chrysanthemums, best arrangement, best vegetable, best rose, best dahlia and court of honor arrangement.

The exhibit room will be open to the public from 3:30 to 10 p.m. today and 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Sunday.

Music Dept. Urges Top Artist Program

By JUDY FOWLER
Copy Editor

It's been a long hard pull, but it seems that soon, approximately 40 years after its establishment, Texas Tech will start taking its place among the best schools of the South and Southwest.

JUDY FOWLER

Our facilities are constantly being enlarged. More than $8-million was spent on buildings in the last year alone. Enrollment came barely short of 14,000, and forecasts for next year call for an even larger increase. Our sprinkler-filled campus is quite green, and the chrysanthemums are blooming. Our Southwest Conference standing improves every year.

A university is a place where all forms of higher learning are equated and encompassed. It is an assemblage of colleges incorporated to instruct in all facets of arts, sciences and technology—not only in one or two fields, but liberally in all.

Fulfill Interests

It is a place where an agriculture student can go to a concert and not feel conspicuous as a dog at a flea circus. It is a place where an English major can fulfill an interest in science or music without feeling "out of his field."

But for a college in all probability not more than two years away from university status, it is appalling that there is no program of high cultural merit offered without excess cost to the student, according to the Music Dept.

Once Present

Tech did have what could be called a university-level program of cultural instruction once. Until 1957, the Tech Artists Course—originally founded in 1925—fulfilled this need.

During the 32 years of its existence, an almost endless list of big name artists—the best in their fields—were brought to Lubbock expressly for Tech students.

Under this course, four to six outstanding concert events were scheduled annually until its dissolution in the spring of 1957.

Famous Artists

Such artists as the Robert Shaw Corale, the Stratford Players; such Metropolitan Opera stars as James Melton, Jan Pierce, Robert Peters, Lucia Albanese, Helen Trabuel, Rise Stephens, Nadine Conner; and other performers such as Arthur Rubbenstien, Isaac Stern, Fred Warring, the Vienna Chorus, the Columbia Piano Quartet, and the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo were all part of this program.

Between its establishment in 1925 and 1936, the Tech Artists Course had achieved such artistic and educational importance that the college president allocated $1 per student from each student activity fee to pay for the course, and students were no longer charged admission to these cultural events.

Ended In 1957

The Artists Course was dispensed with in 1957 when the newly established Civic Lubbock Inc. and the members of the Tech Artists Course committee agreed that the City of Lubbock could not support two such organizations presenting concerts in addition to the Lubbock Symphony Orchestra.

To make up for the loss of the course, Civic Lubbock offered to provide a concert series comparable to that of the course program, charging only $1 for student admission. Since 1957 however, Civic Lubbock has upped student prices to $2 and begun booking touring Broadway shows and popular music attractions hoping to appeal to a larger audience.

There is a movement now, backed by the Music Dept., to re-establish the Tech Artists Course. A plan drawn up by the Dept. of Music Committee on the Re-establishment of the Tech Artist Course has already been introduced to the Dean of Student Life and to the Student Services Allocations Committee.

The members of this movement believe that—in the words of the committee's report—"to fulfill our role as a multi-purpose university of the first class this institution should provide a distinguished series of important concert events to elevate the cultural climate for both the students and faculty."

Universities throughout America have realized the importance of such a concert series. In this area the universities of Texas, New Mexico, Kansas, Colorado, Oklahoma and North Texas State, all have programs of this type.

According to the plan for a new Tech Artists Course, financing would be done in the same manner as the original course—by allocating $1 per student from the student activity fee.

This fee is broken down into these segments—41 per cent goes to athletes, 35 per cent for student health, 6 per cent for intramurals and 18 per cent for student organizations such as The Daily Toreador, the Tech Symphony, the Band and Student Council.

Open To Students

All concerts included in the proposed course would be open to all students who have paid activity fees. These concerts would be in the Municipal Auditorium.

Because of large enrollment at Tech and the limited seating, Tech students would receive tickets by presenting their ID's two weeks prior to the event. Faculty and staff members and their families may buy tickets for 75 cents. Any seats not taken by students one week prior to the event would be offered to the general public for $2.50.

Welcome To Tech, Dads

WE WOULD LIKE TO welcome to the campus today hundreds of dads who are here to participate in the Dad's Day program.

We hope they will have the opportunity to tour the campus and get some idea of the tremendous changes that have taken place as Texas Tech grows into a big university.

But one thing they will discover that has not changed, and that is our school spirit.

Tonight they will see thousands of Techsians at Jones Stadium giving the Raiders full backing with a fired-up school spirit.

Why No Mock Election?

WHY NO CAMPUS MOCK election?

During the last presidential campaign a mock election was sponsored on campus to allow students to express their preference on the candidates.

This year—at least so far—no organization has come forward with plans to sponsor a mock election.

We think that one is needed because it would increase the interest in the national campaign.

Besides that, we think it would be interesting to see how the student body would vote.

How about it? Is anyone in favor of a mock presidential election? If so, say so, time is running out.

Killdeers, Sandhill Cranes Aid In Study Of Organisms

By JOHN ARMISTEAD
Staff Writer

The study of small aquatic organisms which pass through a bird's intestines may not interest many a passerby, but to Dr. Vernon Proctor, professor of biology, and his student assistants this is serious business.

For approximately three years, Dr. Proctor and his assistants, Vic de Valaming and Charles Malong, have been attempting to prove that minute aquatic organisms (plankton) are transferred from one isolated body of water to another by birds.

Dr. Proctor says that identical species of plankton are found in bodies of water separated by great distances, and since these organisms clearly cannot walk across land, they must be transported.

He has conducted experiments to show that killdeers and other common shore birds, while eating and drinking around one isolated body of water, will consume large amounts of plankton and will transport many species of organisms to some other body of water.

After the digestive cycle has been completed, the eggs of certain species of plankton will be deposited at the new location.

Dr. Proctor says he has been able to determine what organisms will pass through the bird's intestines and what aquatic organisms will not survive the digestive process and be transferred live to a new location.

In the pens adjacent to the biology department greenhouse, Dr. Proctor has killdeers, sandhill cranes (which he says have proven of no experimental value), and one duck, which is a pet.

From the experiments conducted in three years of research work, Dr. Proctor says he can safely assert that minute forms of life are carried from one body of water to another by birds.

He explained that often the body of the minute organism is destroyed in digestion processes, but the eggs survive and pass on out the intestines.

Dr. Proctor added that scientists in Texas have a monopoly on such experiments with the methods of dispersal of plankton. He plans to enlarge and intensify the project.

Therefore the research in this subject by Dr. Proctor and his assistants has not gone unnoticed.

Proctor said that several articles on the research have appeared in the "Journal of Ecology" and "Science."

At a meeting of the American Assn. for Advancement of Science in Montreal, Canada, Dec. 26-31, Proctor and de Valaming will present a paper on their research work with the killdeers.

Texas Tests Owls In Houston Battle

HOUSTON (AP) — The Texas Longhorns attempt to get back on the victory trail tonight against Rice in a Southwest Conference game that may attract the largest crowd ever to see a football game in Houston.

The game has been a sellout for weeks and a few standing room only tickets are expected to be sold just before game time which would push the attendance above the record of 73,000.

Texas was toppled from the nation's No. 1 ranking last week when it fell to Arkansas, 13-14.

The Longhorns, with their 4-1 season mark, are strong favorites over the Owls 2-2, despite a Houston jinx which has kept Texas from defeating Rice in Houston since 1952.

In Texas' last five trips to Houston, the Owls have managed four victories and a tie, the 14-14 tie coming two years ago when Texas was rated No. 1.

Rice will be virtually at full strength. Linebacker Malcolm Walker spent some time in the hospital during the week with a light virus but is expected to play.

Texas also has linebacker problems with Timmy Doer, who injured a knee in the Arkansas game, and is not expected to see action.

Rice has defeated SMU and West Virginia and lost to Louisiana State and Stanford. Texas' victories are over Tulane, Texas Tech, Army and Oklahoma.

Yank Sale OK?

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department said Friday it has reached no conclusions in its investigation of the proposed sale of the New York Yankees to the Columbia Broadcasting System.

A spokesman denied published reports that the department has advised Commissioner Ford Frick to attempt to block the proposed $11.5-million transaction.

TOKYO (AP) — The stage is set for the Olympic flame to be extinguished at the Tokyo Games today after the U.S. basketball team crushed Russia 73-59 and a slaughterhouse skinner from Philadelphia capped America's best showing in four Olympics against the Soviet Union by winning the heavyweight boxing championship.

One equestrian event, some traditional pomp and the snuffing out of the flame that has burned for 15 days remained before the accounting in the gigantic sports extravaganza that attracted more than 7,000 athletes from 94 nations.

But for the United States and Russia the battle ended Friday when America held onto its lead in gold medals, despite a steady tide of skilled gymnasts and strong boxers who carried the Soviet Union past the United States in total medals for the third straight Olympics.

Cagers Win

The United States, which built its medal lead in the prestige track and swimming events, added to its laurels as Lucious Jackson of Pan American College led the basketball team past the Russians and Joe Frazier annexed the heavyweight boxing crown by out-punching Germany's Hans Huber.

Those were America's only two medals for the day and lifted the U.S. total to 90—36 gold, 26 silver and 28 bronze. The Russians grabbed 19 medals, many in sports considered minor in the United States, and wound up with 96, including 30 gold, 31 silver and 35 bronze.

It was the best showing for the United States since the 1952 Games at Helsinki when the Russians first entered a team in the Olympics and lost the medal battle.

The American medal total was the highest achieved in the four Olympic struggles against the Soviets and the 36-30 superiority in gold medals represented the first time since 1952 that the United States has edged the Russians in that department.

Sets Superiority

On the basketball court, the United States once again established its superiority over Russia while keeping intact America's unblemished Olympic record in the sport. The victory was the ninth straight in these games for the United States and the 47th overall since basketball was placed on the Olympic program in 1936.

This fourth straight battle with the Russians in the final was supposed to be the toughest. Both teams had built 8-0 records. The Russians were said to have their strongest aggregation while there had been some uncomplimentary comparisons between the U.S. team and previous American squads.

For a couple of minutes, it seemed the critics were right. But Jackson began to dominate the boards, pushed in some points and by half time the United States had bolted to a comfortable 39-31 lead. It got even more comfortable in the second half.

Jackson, with 17 points, and Joe Caldwell of Arizona State, with 14, led the scorers while Larry Brown of Akron, Ohio, Walt Hazzard of UCLA, Jerry Shipp of Bartlesville, Okla., and Bill Bradley of Princeton contributed their efforts against the veteran Russian team.

Iba Speaks

"They got a good club, a strong club," said a jubilant U.S. coach, Hank Iba, after the game.

"But we got a great team, and they played a great game."

Frazier, employing a good left hook to advantage against his taller German opponent, was tagged with several sharp rights but stung Huber continually with lefts to the face and took the decision on the scorecards' of three of the five judges.

"This is the big one," Frazier shouted in his dressing room as he displayed his gold medal. "This was the baby I was going for."

Frazier's gold medal was the only one for a U.S. boxing team that did not do as well as expected. Russia, meanwhile, wound up her medal harvest for the day with seven boxing medals, three gold and four silver.

Featherweight Stanislav Stepashkin, middleweight Valery Popenchenko and light middleweight Boris Lagutin won their three-round bouts, but an Italian and three Poles upset the favored Soviets in the other fights.

Italy's Cosimo Pinto took the light heavyweight title by whipping Alexy Kiseliyov after the Poles had won three straight. Jozef Grudzien defeated Russia's Vellikton Barannikov in the lightweight division, light welterweight Jerzy Kulez won over Eugeny Frolov and Marian Kasprzyk took the welterweight title from the Soviets' Richardas Tamulis.

Russian Medals

The Russians, however, had been guaranteed those medals when the boxers reached the finals and earlier in the day they had received medals from assorted places — a gold in team sabre, a gold in men's volleyball, a silver in women's volleyball and a bronze by Sergey Filatov in the individual equestrian dressage.

Now it was up to the gymnasts to finish off Operation Overhaul in the medal struggle with the United States. And they did.

Try For Third SWC Win

Raiders Host SMU Tonight

By JOE SNEED
Sports Editor

Southern Methodist, minus the break-away speed and clutch passing attack it had last year, but sporting a sophomore-studded defense that gets tougher each time out, is in town looking for its first conference win of the season.

The opposition is furnished by Texas Tech, and the two meet at Jones Stadium today at 7:30 p.m.

Mustang coach Hayden Fry has had his share of troubles this fall, but in the process of trying to make due, has put together a defensive corps that must rank with the best around.

Some Missing

John Roderick, the little half-back the Methodists were counting on so heavily, was announced as an academic casualty last spring. Then quarterback Mac White was lost for the season due to a back injury.

But still around is a rookie line-backer named John LaGrone, and he leads a stubborn bunch of defenders.

LaGrone and his cohorts were never better last week as SMU failed on a conversion attempt and narrowly lost to Rice, 7-6.

Fry is suffering through a 1-3 year so far, the Ponies losing to Florida State, 24-8, and to top-ranked Ohio State, 27-8. Their only win was 14-0 over Arlington State.

Tech, meanwhile, has put together a 3-2 record with wins over Mississippi State, 21-7, Texas A&M, 16-12 and TCU, 25-10. The losses came at the hands of Texas, 23-0 and Baylor, 28-10.

Anderson's Day

Last season the Red Raiders downed the Mustangs 13-7 in Dallas on the day that Donny Anderson really came into his own.

The Tech halfback rushed for 109 yards, caught passes for 40 more and contributed a touchdown. He went on to all-conference honors.

Anderson returns, along with a host of teammates who played a big part in the win.

Anderson is leading the SWC with 476 yards rushing, a 4.6 average.

Other Backs

Joining Anderson in the Raider backfield will be John Agan, who had a fine night in defeat last week at Waco, fullback Jim Zanios and quarterback Tom Wilson.

The Pony backfield will feature Danny Thomas, who tossed a TD pass against Tech last season, at quarterback, Floyd Burke at tailback, Pat Gibson at wing and sophomore Roger Reinowski, a pleasant surprise to Fry in the Rice loss, at fullback.

Tech is a slight favorite to take its third Southwest Conference victory.

Other league action finds Texas at Rice, A&M at Baylor and a couple of non-conference contests with Clemson at TCU and Wichita State at Arkansas.

RELIEF OFFERED

DAR ES SALAAM, Tanganyika (P) — The American Catholic Relief Services have offered about 32 tons of dried milk to aid refugees from Portuguese Mozambique. About 7,000 of them are camped inside the Tanganyika borders.

DANGEROUS PAIR — John Porter, left, and John Agan, Red Raider offensive starters, will set their sights on the SMU Mustangs tonight in Jones Stadium.

Pics Are Idle

Berl Huffman's freshmen have no game this week, although the Picadors did scrimmage the varsity reserves under game conditions Thursday.

The Pics have their only home contest next Friday night, meeting the Rice Owlets.

The Frosh are 0-1 on the year, after losing to Arkansas 18-14 last week.

HUNGARIANS DEFECT

ANCHORAGE, ALASKA (P) — A Hungarian Olympics games canoeist and two countrymen who defected in Tokyo landed here Friday on the first leg of their bid for asylum in the United States.

MEDALS MISLEADING

TOKYO (P) — Avery Brundage, President of the International Olympic Committee, called the Olympic medal tables "completely misleading" Friday and said they "cannot be used to measure different social or political systems."
